Before the battle of Waterloo, no one was probably more uneasy than Lord Uxbridge, who, if Wellington should be killed, would be called upon to succeed him in command, and who knew nothing whatever about the duke's plans.

"I am in a very difficult position," he said to a friend. "If any accident happens to the duke, I shall find myself commander-in-chief. I would give anything in the world to know the duke's projects, and yet I dare not ask him what I ought to do."

After some consultation on the subject, they went together to Wellington and frankly told him the difficulty in hand.

The duke listened without impatience, and at the end of Lord Uxbridge's speech he said, calmly: "Who will attack the first to-morrow, I or Bonaparte?"

"Bonaparte," replied Lord Uxbridge.

Well," continued the duke, "Bonaparte has not given me any idea of his projects, and as my plans will depend upon his, how can you expect me to tell you what mine are?"

Lord Uxbridge bowed, and made no reply. The duke rose, and continued, touching him in a friendly way on the shoulder:

"There is one thing certain, Uxbridge; that is, that whatever happens, you and I will do our duty."

He then shook his hand warmly, and they separated, Lord Uxbridge no wiser than before, yet feeling that Wellington had trusted him exactly as far as his reticent nature would allow.

Yet the great duke did depend in a great measure upon the application of common-sense to the needs of the moment. When he was once asked how he succeeded in conquering Napoleon's marshals, one after another, he replied:

"They planned their campaigns just as you might make a splendid set of harness. It looks very well, and answers very well, until it gets broken, and then you are done for. Now, I made my campaign of ropes. If anything went wrong, I tied a knot and went on."

On another occasion he confessed that his success in life was to be attributed to "the application of good sense to the circumstances of the moment."

Thus, although a reticent man by nature, it is possible that he did not remain silent from choice alone, but because his designs were so subject to change.

THERE are 1,400,000,000 people on earth, and all these, as some one computed, could be gathered in a field ten miles square or in one hundred square miles of territory, and every last man of them reached from one telephone. Who says the world is overpopulated when one book agent may address such an audience?

WISE AND UNWISE.

HALF fare—a mulatto.

WHO kills all the dead letters? Miss Direction.

EVER and anon turning over a new leaf—the cigarmaker.

IF the world is a stage we suppose it is the sea that takes the heavy roles.

LUSHER—My dear, I think I will go out and get an opera glass. Mrs. L.—Better get a pair and not go out after the next act.

HE—They say it takes three generations to make a gentleman. She—Indeed! What a pleasant prospect for your grandson.

GUILTY conscience: Waiter (at the club)—There is a lady outside who says that her husband promised to be home early to-night. All (rising)—Excuse me a moment.

SMARTY—I wonder how the moon manages to sustain her social status among the heavenly bodies when she gets full so often. Tarty—Oh, the stars wink at her delinquencies.

TEACHER—Johnny, what do you think you would like to be when a man? Pupil—A school teacher. Teacher—And why? Pupil—'Cos dad says folks don't need to know much for that.

"NOW, PATRICK, in regard to wages, I'll give you $30 a month with board, or $50 without board." "I don't understand, sor; but I'll take $50 a month and ate meself, or I'll take $30 and lave me ate you."

UNDERTAKER (to new assistant)—Go down town and get a bier. Tell them to charge it to me. New assistant (to himself)—Gewhillikens! That's the kind of a man I like to work for. I'll make it two for luck.

JONES—Why, Phoebus, you surely cannot have whitewashed that back room in so short a time. You were to put on two coats of whitewash, you remember. Phoebus—Yes, sah. I done put on bofe togedder.

A DISTINGUISHED guest: Hostess—Wall, eldah, dinnah's all ready. I guess ef yo' jes hitch yo' chah up to de table, now—Host—Neb' min' 'bout movin'. Ike, jes' tek hol' dat en' de table, an' slide it up to de eldah.

DOCTOR—Well, my fine little fellow, you have got quite well again. I was quite sure that the pills I left for you would cure you. How did you take them, in water or in cake? "Oh, I used them in my blow-gun!"

PAPA's credit was bad: Stranger—little man, do you know where I can purchase some bed tick? Little man—They ain't no place in town, sir. "O, there must be." "Well, anyway, I heard pa tell ma that he couldn't get none."

SELF-ARRESTED prisoner—For heaven's sake, your Honor, send me somewhere where I can do some work. I'm dying from inactivity. The Judge—Who are you? Prisoner—I'm Chauncey Depew's cook, sir. He hasn't been home to dinner for four years.

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED.

I pushed the wavy golden locks
From off her forehead fair,
And where a frown had lately been
A kiss I printed there.
I hold the tresses shining fair
As yellow buttercup,
"Was that a good kiss, love?" said I,
And she replied, "Bang up."

—Brunonian.

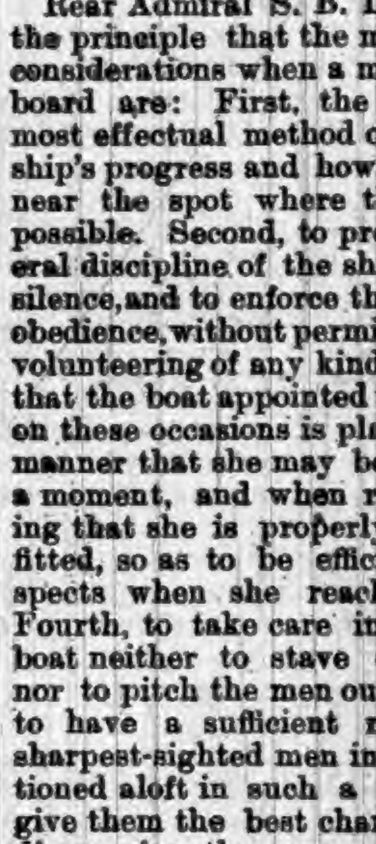
WHEN ONE FALLS OVERBOARD.

It Strikes Terror to the Hearts of the Bravest of Men.



THERE is no sound aboard ship so demoralizing as that of "Man overboard!" It strikes terror to the heart of the bravest of men, and only the best disciplined crews can withstand the panic it usually produces. Almost every ship has a particular rule of action for such occurrences. The best preconcerted arrangements, however, are often inapplicable, and success depends mainly on the presence of mind of the watch, the man at the life buoy, and the normal condition of the boats.

A cool hand will drop the life buoy sometimes within reach of a man; a "bothered" one will either not let go at all or do so before the man has got near the stern. Of all persons aboard ship, the officer of the deck should be cool and collected.

Rear Admiral S. B. Luce lays down the principle that the most important considerations when a man falls overboard are: First, the quickest and most effectual method of arresting the ship's progress and how to keep her as near the spot where the man fell as possible. Second, to preserve the general discipline of the ship, to maintain silence, and to enforce the most prompt obedience, without permitting foolhardy volunteering of any kind. Third, to see that the boat appointed to be employed on these occasions is placed in such a manner that she may be cast loose in a moment, and when ready for lowering that she is properly manned and fitted, so as to be efficient in all respects when she reaches the water. Fourth, to take care in lowering the boat neither to stave or swamp her nor to pitch the men out. And, lastly, to have a sufficient number of the sharpest-sighted men in the ship stationed aloft in such a manner as to give them the best chance not only of discovering the person overboard, but of pointing him out to the men in the boat, who may not otherwise know in what direction to pull.

With steamers the difficulties to overcome in rescuing a man overboard are comparatively few, inasmuch as a steam-vessel is always under control so long as her machinery is in good order. The rule is to stop as quickly as possible, lower the life-boat, and pick the man up. The really fine points of seamanship come into play when sailing ships are being handled. The ordeal is a trying one for the best of officers, and the young seamen who can properly place a large sailing ship and rescue a man that has fallen overboard deserve the highest credit for seamanship qualities.

Nothing Foreign Wanted.

Dealer—You say you want to buy a lamp for your son?

Customer—Yes.

Dealer—Is he a student?

Customer—Yes, he burns a good deal of midnight oil.

Dealer—Then why not get him a German student lamp? Just the thing.

Customer (with decision)—No, sir. I don't want any of your foreign contrivances. Give me an article of home manufacture.—Yankee Blade.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

TANK HEATER. A GREAT SAVING TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.

Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price. Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.

COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES.
SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES.
O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO.;
LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR— CRAYON PORTRAIT NICELY FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT.

Plush Border. Size, 24x28 inches.

For $3.00

As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00.
(ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.)

BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF PROVOST'S Cream Washing Powder.

ONLY COSTS 5c. PER PACKAGE.

One Coupon in Every Package.
Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity.

Ask Your GROCER For It.

If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it.

WARREN PROVOST & CO.,
26-30 Humboldt St., - Brooklyn, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *8 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling........	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 05	pm 12 15
Zanesville.......	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark..........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 06
Columbus.....ar	1 30	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 06
Columbus.....lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	11 55
Mansfield	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 08
Deshler..........	3 30	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance.........	4 22	5 43	10 15	8 30	1 52
Auburn jc........	......	8 40	11 34	10 22	2 55
Avilla............	......	......	pm 12 00	10 47	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	1 16	am 12 05	4 16
Wellsboro.......	......	9 00	2 18	2 00	5 46
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago. lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 08
Milford jc........	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 28
Avilla.............	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc.........	......	7 05	12 30	3 22	9 46
Defiance	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 48
Mansfield	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 50	12 44
Columbus.........	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	6 00
Zanesville.........	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 30	6 20
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh.....ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore......ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia...ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York......ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne ......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era............	12 22 pm	5 16	7 20
Auburn Junc........	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn..............	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo............	12 50	5 42	9 25
Summit..............	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake.......	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola..............	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont.............	1 35	6 34	1 25 pm
Reading.............	2 04	7 04	2 10
Bankers.............	2 15	7 15	2 30
Hillsdale...........	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc...	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville..........	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson.............	3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson...............	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 20 am
Jonesville...........	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc...	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale............	....	12 30	7 45
Bankers.............	9 40	12 56	8 01
Reading.............	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont.............	11 30	1 35	8 40
Angola..............	12 01	1 55	8 53
Pleasant Lake.......	12 45 pm	2 07	9 03
Summit..............	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo............	2 35	2 35	9 23
Auburn..............	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc........	4 00	2 54	9 35
New Era.............	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne.........	6 30	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

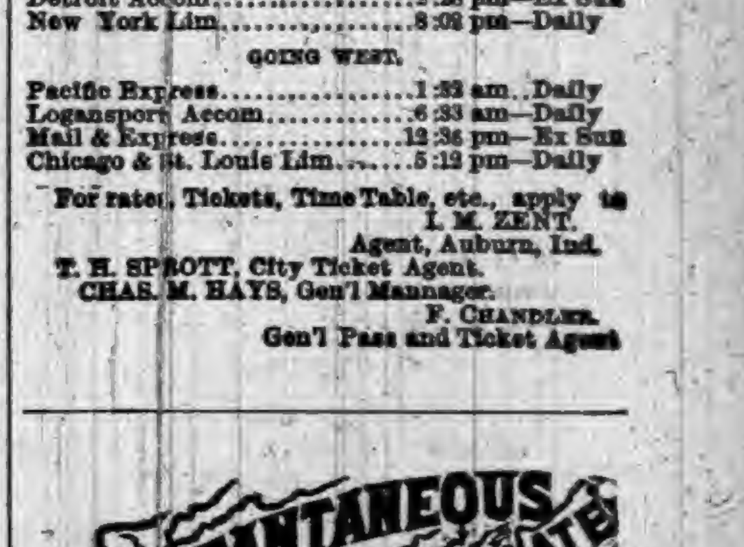
Atlantic Express.................2:28 am—Daily
Boston Express...................5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom....................2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim.....................8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express..................1:32 am..Daily
Logansport Accom.................6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express...................12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim..........5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT. Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER. Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent



INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT
NO TROUBLE NO BOILING
POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

DR. ELLIOTT'S MEDICATED FOOD, A Sure Cure for all Diseases in HORSES, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY

G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..........APRIL 15, 1890.

Meeting of County Committee.

The newly elected democratic committeemen of the several townships and precincts, are requested to meet at Ensley's Hall in Auburn, on Saturday April 12, 1890, at 1 p. m. for the purpose of effecting an organization. Let every man attend.

W. B. BROWN
Chairman

FT. WAYNE expects to have big races in June.

IOWA is already preparing to erect a state building at the coming exposition at Chicago.

TOWNSHIP elections in this state show great democratic gains, Indianapolis gave us nearly 3,000 majority.

TOWNSHIP elections in this state show great democratic gains. Indianapolis gave us nearly 3,000 majority.

GEO. W. PECK, the funny man who wrote "Peck's Bad Boy," was last week elected Mayor of Milwaukee by the democrats.

A PARIS photographer has succeeded in photographing all the colors but two, and believes he will yet succeed with those. It is a wonderful invention.

FLACK late sheriff of the city and county of New York, was sentenced to two months in jail and fined $500. The others who helped him conspire to get the false divorce got similar punishments.

REPUBLICANS in congress don't seem to agree on the McKinley tariff bill. What they appear to desire is a tariff that shall protect all who want protection and give them all free material at the same time.

PROF. RICHARD DALE OWEN, the well known Indiana educator and scientist died last week by taking enbalming fluid thinking it was mineral water. He was fourth son of the famous Robert Dale Owen, the founder of the commune at New Harmony, and both were born in Scotland. He had occupied high positions in our university at Bloomington, and in Purdue, and had been State geologist.

WYOMING, at its last election cast 8,000 votes. It bids fair to be republican and republicans want it admitted as a state so they can have the help of two senators and a member of the House. Utah casts 30,000 votes, but as it is likely to be democratic, they don't want it admitted. Here is a lesson for those republican papers that have found fault, with democrats for not wanting to admit certain would be states.

APRIL ELECTIONS.

The vote of 1890, For the Townships in DeKalb County.

Name.	No.	So.	Maj.
UNION—TRUSTEE.
R. S. S. Reed, d.	189	209	138
I. M. Zent, r.	123	137
ASSESSOR.
O. P. Myers, d.	123	152
H. H. Weaver, r.	189	182	96
JUSTICES.
S. W. Ralston, d.	155	187	46
G. A. Porter, r.	144	152
John Harris, d.	177	212	121
H. C. Shull, r.	134	134
JACKSON—TRUSTEE.
J. J. Walter, d.	171		50
L. Lockwood, r.	121
ASSESSOR.
S. H. Nugen, d.	178		61
Hollopeter, r.	117
JUSTICES.
John Cool, d.	178		63
Alex. Provines, r.	115
S. J. Tarney d.	178		63
Jas. Furnish, r.	115
CONSTABLES.
James Friend, d.	188		70
J. G. Lawhead, r.	113
James Reed, d.	180		68
Jas. Boots r.	112
NEWVILLE—TRUSTEE.
W. N. Miller, d.	82
Leslie Strong r.	90		8
ASSESSOR.
Wm. Nelson, d.	78
A. H. Mason, r.	94		16
JUSTICES.
S. Teetison, d.	68
J. T. Hendricks, r.	99		31
John W. Tarney, d.	78
John Nelson, r.	90		12
CONSTABLES.
George Ham, d.	71
Orlin Hatch, r.	94		23
Henry Ozenrider, d.	74
E. Baird, r.	97		23

GRANT—TRUSTEE.	E.	W.	Maj.
M. S. Kutzner, d.	135	93
G. O. Denison, r.	201	57	30
ASSESSOR.
L. F. Stamets, d.	116	42
H. H. Knott, r.	209	102	153
JUSTICES.
O. P. Smith, d.	175	76	59
B. B. Long, r.	131	61
G. W. Morell, d.	159	74
R. G. Daniels, r.	175	74	16
CONSTABLES.
John Koons, d.	154	71
E. Montavon, r.	160	73	8
Jas. Duncan, d.	150	73
W. H. H. Beard, r.	170	73	20

SMITHFIELD—TRUSTEE.
James O. Blake, d.	185	96
John W. Doty, r.	89
ASSESSOR.
Wm. F. Till, d.	132
Daniel Hamman, r.	141	9
JUSTICES.
A. M. Barnes, d.	163	48
I. N. Cox, r.	115
Eli. Walker, d.	162	50
J. W. Zimmerman, r.	112
CONSTABLES.
Alvin Forney, d.	162	45
John Betz, r.	117
Sol. Link, d.	162	49
U. S. Zimmerman, r.	113
FAIRFIELD—TRUSTEE.
R. H. Sherlock, d.	202	103
Israel Ringer, r.	99
ASSESSOR.
Isaac Helwig, d.	210	125
J. W. Bateman, r.	85
JUSTICES.
J. A. Gushwa, d.	204	109
J. B. Bower, r.	95
N. Crossley, d.	207	112
E. D. Case, r.	95
CONSTABLES.
David Zonker, d.	201	104
P. D. Childs, r.	97
E. Kimmell, d.	210	118
Geo. Lipsett, r.	92
WILMINGTON—TRUSTEE.
John W. Boyle, d.	226
H. J. Crooks, r.	556	330
ASSESSOR
Wm. Chambers, d.	362
J. Fredenberger, r.	425	63
JUSTICES.
W. H. Madden, d.	341
Henry Aldrich, r.	399	58
M. Brunstetter, d.	395
J. O. McNabb, r.	410	15
B. Hornberger, d.	361
D. W. Stewart, r.	435	74
Andrew Boyd, d.	328
Joseph Lanning, r.	415	87
CONSTABLES.
Jerry North, d	372
Geo. McNabb, r.	413	41
John Britzius, d.	329
Joseph Oberlin, r.	422	93
John Cook, d.	323
Henry Smurr, r.	454	131
John Bunge, d.	335
Geo. W. Burns, r.	448	113

CONCORD—TRUSTEE.	No.	So.
B. A. Woodcox, d.	130	128	15
A Filley, r.	138	105
ASSESSOR.
Moses Perry, d.	153	138	61
F. Able, r & pro	130	100
JUSTICES.
L. Beery, d.	137	128	37
R. Chaney, r.	126	102
J. F. Walker, d.	140	126	36
D. J. Baker, r.	129	101
CONSTABLES.
John Springer, d.	139	120	37
John Allen, r & p.	130	107
John Scott, d.	141	126	42
Ed. Spitler, r.	122	103

The prohibitionists got 20 votes.

Notes on Election.

In Union, H. C. Shull, as was well known, did not want the office of justice, and he paid no attention to it. We don't know whether he even voted.

There were various causes that went to defeat Mr. Myers. The country residents objected to having a man in town to assess their lands. Weaver had a farm in the country, but lived in town. This made him popular with both. Myers was a soldier, and republicans never go out of their way to help a soldier, if someone else wants a good thing. Many unfair things were done against Myers. A story was circulated, that he had been friendly to the old played-out drive well patent, and even, some were cruel enough to lug in the trouble his son has caused him, and blaming him for that, as if it were not already bad enough for him. Others failed to come to the caucus, and then objected to the man the caucus selected. Myers has been a consistent and faithful democrat, and deserved better treatment.

In Jackson, J. G. Lawhead, for constable, received the exact republican vote 113; on the democratic side, Friend gained one vote and lost none, showing the democratic vote to be 182. We are pleased to note that the democrats of Jackson, are such on election day.

Newville democrats fought well, and several republicans voted a straight democratic ticket. They are tired of ring rule. Harrison had 34 majority in 1888. Now they elect a trustee by only eight. Chiesman is not starting out well as a county chairman.

The prohibition vote in Union was about 40, but they did not report from other townships.

Fairfield stands up on her hills a thing of beauty, for democrats to admire. Like Jackson, her democrats vote the democrat ticket.

Wilmington went wild. We had ex-sheriff Boyle for trustee, and this frightened the republicans. They worked every card against him to save their usual big majority. They swapped and did everything, and having themselves a popular man, they increased their majority. Then there were many democrats, who thought Mr. Boyle, having been sheriff should not run for trustee.

Franklin and Concord now join hands in the democratic column. There was good work done in both. They are with us to stay. Too much cannot be said in their favor.

Stafford lost a good trustee in the defeat of Joseph Wilson. One vote did it. The blocks-of-five business was too dishonest for a man like Wilson. It is claimed that money and other valuable considerations were used against him.

Little Troy did well. With an excellent candidate the democrats ran the republican majority of 41 in 1888 to 27 now, and elected both supervisors, one by 5 and the other, 30 majority.

Richland did as Smithfield had done two years earlier. She came out a tie on trustee. They drew cuts and the republicans got it, assessor J. L. Smith got one majority. We regret the defeat of L. W. Treesh, who is an extra good man for the place.

Keyser gave her usual majority though there was some dissatisfaction.

Butler township has not succeeded in healing her troubles, and they broke out afresh on election day, causing the slaughter of Alex. Baltz. The kicking democrats over there now have the satisfaction of seeing the school board of the county a tie.

The trustee in Smithfield got a big vote but they defeated the trustee, as good a man as they had. This was all wrong, and unnecessary.

In Grant township, the democrats made a good fight, but were not situated so as to make success possible. There was a republican majority of about 40 or 50 to begin with. Both candidates for trustee were excellent men. Each lived in an extreme end of the township. Republicans at the west end, preferred Kutzner, and democrats at the east end preferred to have a man near them, and no doubt supported Mr. Dennison. The strange part of the election of 'Squire Smith, democrat, by a large majority over B. B. Long who also had been a good justice.

The warning we gave last week as to what the school book rings would do to help the republicans proved true. Friday last three foreign book agents were caught leaving town shyly. They had not called on Mr. Merica. They could not use him. They had not made a public call on anybody.

Seven townships now have democratic trustees and seven have republicans. Several townships did not send in their vote, as will be seen. Please send it in, so we can give full next week. Many people want to keep a full copy of the vote. We want Franklin, Richland, Keyser, Butler and Stafford.

HAVING SOLD OUT,

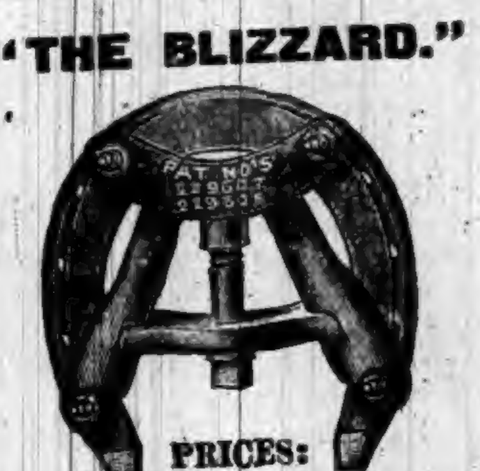
—AND—

Must Reduce Stock.

I will sell half my Dry Goods at Cost, for next 60 days, as I give possession first of June, and will offer great inducements to buyers. Call early and get first choice.

FRANK HOLMAN,
Cedar Creek, Ind.

"THE BLIZZARD."



PRICES:

No. 0 for Nos. 0 and 1 shoes	$2.50	per set of 4.
No. 1 for Nos. 2, 3 and 4 shoes	2.50	" "
No. 2 for Nos. 5 and 6 shoes	3.00	" "

The wear is all on the points which can be renewed for 25 cents per set of 16 by mail or 15 cents per set by express.

Can be fastened to any shoe. Easily and quickly put on or removed.

Will enable the driver to drive his horses in safety on icy roads while those without are waiting their turn at the Blacksmith's to have theirs shod.

Sent by express on receipt of price.

The BEECHER MFG. CO. Meriden, Conn.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Dr. Yeagy went to Fremont last Friday.

H. Bartholomew is underdraining his property.

W. H. Leas is attending court at Auburn this week.

Frank Rigby was married within a few days to Miss Harris.

R. Wes. McBride and wife are attending court at Auburn.

Last week a car load of potatoes was shipped from this point.

Last Friday William Beidler, who is a conductor on the Lake Shore was in town.

Blind Tom, so well known for his singing, passed through our town last Tuesday.

Tuesday George Braun, E Montavan and E. Latson went to Cedar Lake to hunt ducks.

J. Robertson the livery man is having a number of buggies painted by an Auburn painter.

George Rhinehart went to Quincy, Mich., on Monday, where he expects to work in a buggy factory.

Mas. Morell went to Ft. Wayne last Wednesday to remain a week or so, visiting friends and relatives.

We are informed that Earl Abbey was married Sunday evening to a Miss Drake. No particulars were stated.

There are several who want dwelling houses. Those having houses to rent should let the fact be known.

Last Saturday Mrs. E. Braun went to Ft. Wayne to be there over Easter, and to visit relatives for a few days.

Simon P. Strow has moved into his property in the east part of town. His property on Wayne street is for rent.

George J. Duncan has gone on the road as a traveling salesman. Another of our steady young men has a good position.

The Easter supper last Friday evening was a success in every way. Several of the young people were over from Auburn.

J. D. Beard will occupy the Danks residence on Union street soon after the spring election. We welcome him to our town.

It is reported that another of the teachers in our public schools at this place contemplates taking a life position as instructor.

Monday the republican ticket was elected with but one exception, Oliver Smith democrat, was re-elected for justice of the peace.

Some of the Waterloo ladies were over to Auburn during the missionary convention, and more would have gone from here, but for the unpleasant weather.

The contest of the will of Solomon Brandeberry has been decided by the circuit court of Noble county, in favor of sustaining the legacies made in the will.

Mrs. Winslow has been having the tin roof on her brick block put into excellent condition with hydraulic cement, and painted with the celebrated rubber and asbestos paint.

The dry goods store and millinery shops are filling up with new goods. They present a very attractive appearance. Flowers are worn more than ever and were never more beautiful.

Mrs. Ella Richards, of Churubusco, will be here and take part in the entertainment in the U. B. church next Sunday night. They have a good program, and all are invited to attend.

Mrs. Milo Zerkle, of Bourbon, Ind., is visiting with friends in this place. She informs us that her father, W. E. Minard a former business man of this place died in Dakota, a little over one year ago.

Report of the receiver in the case of Henderson vs Henderson et al., shows a loss of $177.50 from the appraised value of the stock of goods and fixtures. That is a good showing in a forced sale of such goods.

The citizens are notified by the marshal to have their alleys cleaned by April 20. This is correct so far, but it would be still better if compelled to keep them clean throughout the year, and far more healthy. This stirring up rubbish, refuse and filth as warm weather approaches has an objectionable side.

The election in the U. B. Sabbath school last Sunday resulted as follows: William Dye, supt.; J. W. Bachtel, assistant; Aggie Maxon, secretary; W. H Bachtel, chorister; Flora A. Speer, asst. chorister; Mattie Maxson, organist; Lulu Rempis, asst. organist and treasurer; Wilson Dennison and Blanche Fisher, librarians.

John Peppercorn, a German living near the county line, south of Pleasant Lake was quite seriously injured in this place last Monday by his team running away. They got scared near the tannery and dragged him quite a distance, bruising him quite badly. The team then got loose and ran up near H. H. Knott, where they were caught without much damage to the rig.

LATER: Mr. Peppercorn went to tie his team to a lamp post and the shaking of the lamp scared them, and they broke the lamp post and smashed the lamp, also broke the wagon considerable.

NEWVILLE.

Milo Stafford and wife were the guests of Mrs. G. N. Rex last Sunday to a famous Easter dinner.

It seems almost impossible to keep Rost in till she is well. She had to drive out with old dolly last Sabbath.

Hugh is improving slowly from the shock received by his better-half losing her sandals in the beeswax in Butler.

Oh! say, why is Warren Miller's face so wreathed in smiles and what makes him step so lightly as if treading on ether. Have'nt you heard the news, he has just acquired a new boarder that came to stay, in the shape of a fine daughter. Warren's happiness is complete. It requires but a small thing sometimes to make a person happy.

When Dick gets his next arrearage of pension he will locate in Elkhart in partnership with his old teacher of music, to finish his course of lessons at one dollar a lesson sometime ago. Ta ta, Dick, how is your ducks?

Plunket has got a much larger offer in a Bryan hardware for his business brain, by twenty-five than the Defiance parties were to pay him. The hardware in Bryan that takes the cake is whisky, wiener-wurst and limburger cheese, and 25 cents worth of cigars he owes Boney.

W. B. Chiesman is a great swab, he wants the power to clean the republican party out of existence by his underhand way of doin business, his party is smart enough, that is those of them that are inteligent enough to catch on that he is killing the party and himself every day. Keep on Walter, you will hear a full explanation in the future enough to satisfy you that your cake dough.

Uncle Sam is improving so he will be able to cast his last vote or stay at home. That's right Elmore, take your old father to the polls! Kill him as quick as you can!

Lima raised two plank in the barn while hunting eggs for easter, and the calf fell through where one plank was left up. She could not get it out, so she called on John Tarney for assistance and he worked for a long time, finally they both took hold and brought it out.

The prosecutor at Butler, his name is Pinchin.
Came to Newville to do some Lynchin'
Failing in the case, made him sour
But I'll try again for I am out of flour.

The second case I'll win I think,
The boys' attorney was Frank Brink,
He argued and squabbled for over an hour,
I swear to this court, I'm out of flour.

He stated to the court, don't you think,
That Tobe is a liar, so is Frank Brink.
He made the court angry by his power,
And it appoved of him going home without flour.

Brother Pinchin is all to blame.
Had no good word, or good name,
For anyone but Lima, she's his bower.
May be the Old Tar will get the flour.

Poor Jane Catlett, he left in the cold,
He was satisfied when her story was told.
I'll never try a case in Newville a minute,
Nor anywhere else that there's no flour in it.

BUTLER.

Miller McClellen has a new dwelling well under way on East Oak street.

Henry Fraudenberger has his new dwelling nearly done at the west end.

Henry Krontz has a new dwelling nearly completed in Sawyers addition to the south side.

We believe the protracted meetings have all closed. Much good has been accomplished, and we hope to see the fruit continue to ripen.

Mrs. Sarah Wilson received a telegram from Van Wert, last Sunday announcing the death of her brother-in-law, Joseph Thomas, of lung fever. Herself and husband have gone to that place to attend the funeral.

Mr. Bradt, the revivalist, having closed his meeting at Waterloo, stopped a day at Butler on his way home, and enjoyed a reunion with his acquaintances. He leaves many warm friends here as well as at Waterloo.

Tom Fralich has returned from his employment on the C. & A. and has entered the employ of the B. & O. as an engineer. He is confined to his home at present with a broken tooth and a mal-dentistry operation.

Rev. Moot administered the ordinance of baptism by immersion upon three or four persons at big run east of town last Sabbath. A large number of lookers-on were present. They are the first immersions that have taken place during the long and successful revivals of the past winter.

DEKALB.

Rain and mud without end.

Repairing short line telegraph.

Second car load of potatoes is being loaded at New Era.

D. N. Terry and wife were at Fort Wayne last Thursday.

Five loads of wood was shipped to Ft. Wayne this and last week.

Prof. Graves contemplates working for the Singer Sewing Machine Company.

Farmers are throwing their clover seed over the fields. Fine growing weather.

Advertised letters at DeKalb post-office: Mrs. Hannah Dilgard, Mr. Wm. Deto.

SPENCERVILLE.

J. C. Smith, of Garrett, visited his parents last Tuesday.

Mr. S. J. Zimmerman and wife, of Auburn, were at P. Bishop's Tuesday.

Rudolph Bair has moved into the Hull property at the south end of Main street.

It is expected that the new minister will occupy the pulpit in the M. E. church Sunday.

J. A. Provines returned Friday from Albion, where he had been attending the reunion of his old regiment.

The Sunday school of the Lutheran church gave a very fine Easter service in the church, Sunday evening.

Scott & Silberg will use the room now occupied by Hursh's meat market, in the near future with their restaurant.

Dr. Hull has moved into the Johnson property on Mill street, where he can be found when not professionally engaged.

Mrs. D. M. Allen and Miss Blanche Nichols have gone to Berrien Springs, Michigan, to attend the marriage of Miss Rena Fryburger.

I. N. Hursh has moved the building purchased of Chaney Bros. on to the corner of Main and Pearl streets. And will occupy it as a meat market.

The young men of Hicksville, seem to find considerable attraction on the Indiana side of the state line. Perhaps some of our young ladies could satisfactorily explain.

The Methodists re-organized their Sabbath school Sunday, electing Professor Koeppe, superintendent; Frank Wise, assistant; H. N. Rummel and Frank Rhoads, secretaries; John Henderson, treasurer; J. Keys, chorister; Will Summer, librarian; Mabel Murray, organist.

There were four young tramps in town Saturday night. They had taken too much beer, and become engaged in a quarrel among themselves. One of the party was armed with a pistol, and was determined to use it, but some of the citizens interfered and quieted them, and persuaded them to leave town.

SEDAN.

Mrs. G. Nye is on the sick list.

N. McIntyre went to Auburn last Saturday.

Henry Steckley and family are visiting relatives in town.

Fred Scattergood took a trip to Waterloo last Saturday,

Hamilton Brothers, of Kendallville, were in town last week.

Clarence Reynolds shipped a car load of brick to Kendallville last week.

A Fairfield man was in town last Friday electioneering for a Richland candidate.

Sherman Guthrie is wearing the laurels of a poet since our last issue, quite a Sherm.

Miss Frances Bair, of Fairfield, was the guest of Mrs. Reynolds last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Annie Schroder came up from Waterloo Saturday evening to spend Easter at home.

When one of the candidates for constable came home from the caucus he was heard to exclaim, "well boys do I understand it right, am I really elected constable?" We presume he knows by this time.

Mrs. McGinty

Says that since her "Mac" went up by going down, she's had hard times. Her pig had "numony" and the goat had the grip; though he's hardy again and so strong that he's perceptible to the naked nose at fifty yards distance.

"POOR MAC,"

Says his wife, "I cant bear to think of the fishes gettin' in the pockets of that elegant suit of chothes that he had bought at

THE :-: FAMOUS.

What a bargain they were, too." McGinty said the cheapest place he ever traded at was

THE FAMOUS,

Nsrth side courthouse, 3 doors west P. O.

AUBURN, IND.

Close Cash Buyers,

Come and see if I cannot

Save You Money,

THESE HARD TIMES.

LOOK!

Wood Seat Chairs	$ 2 00
Cane Chairs	$ 3 00
Bedsteads $1 00 and up.
Marble Tables	$ 4 50
Chamber Suit	$16 00
Marble Chamber Suit	$30 00
Center Table	$ 1 50

Mortuary Goods

For one-half what you have been paying. Come and see. First door east of Bank, Butler, Ind.

S. L. HAMLIN.

Well Driving.

Purdy & Son, the well known well drivers of Auburn, will devote their time to this business and give all their patrons good work. They have an abundant experience, and can show certificates from the leading property owners in the county, to show the satisfaction their work has given. Call on them at Auburn, or write where you want them to come. Address PURDY & SON, Auburn, Ind.

SALESMEN WANTED.

LOCAL OR TRAVELING.

To sell our Nursery Stock. Salary, Expenses and Steady Employment guaranteed.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY,
Rochester, N. Y.

A Riverside Cal., man sent a piece of manzanita wood to a friend in New York recently. He has now received an order from a maker of musical instruments to forward a whole carload.

Two Doses.

J. W. Spellman, a prominent merchant of Elkhart, Ind., says: Two doses of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup completely cured my child of a severe attack of croup. I have used a great many different croup medicines but have never found any so efficient as Dr. Marshall's, which makes it a very neccessary article for the family. Yours,

G. W. Spellman.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

MUNCIE ROUTE.

FORT WAYNE, CINCINNATI AND LOUISVILLE RAILROAD.

The Direct, Most Popular and only line with Solid Trains to Cincinnati.

22 Miles the shortest line between Fort Wayne, Louisville and the SOUTHWEST.

The only line with through cars to Indianapolis. Direct connections are made at Union Depots at Indianapolis, Cincinnati, and Louisville, for all points in the East, South and West. Rates lower than other lines and service unexcelled. For Rates and other information, call on nearest agent or address

W. H. Fisher, G. P. A., Fort Wayne.
Geo. W. Saul, Gen'l Manager

TIME CARD.—SOUTH.

Dec. 1, 1889. Standard Time.

Fort Wayne	Lv	* 6 00 am	+10 25 am	* 6 05 pm
Bluffton	ar	6 58 "	11 21 "	7 07 "
Montpelier	"	7 30 "	11 52 "	7 40 "
Hartford	"	7 48 "	12 10 pm	7 58 "
Muncie	"	8 30 "	12 50 "	8 40 "
Indianapolis	"	10 30 "	3 50 "	10 50 "
Cincinnati	"	......	5 20 "	......
Louisville	"	......	7 00 "	......

* Daily. NORTH. + Ex. Sunday.

Louisville	Lv	......	+ 7 30 am	......
Cincinnati	"	......	7 59 "	......
Indianapolis	"	+ 7 00 am	11 10 "	* 3 05 pm
Muncie	"	* 9 05 "	1 15 pm	5 10 "
Hartford	ar	9 45 "	1 57 "	5 50 "
Montpelier	"	10 05 "	2 15 "	6 08 "
Bluffton	"	10 36 "	2 48 "	6 38 "
Fort Wayne	"	11 35 "	3 45 "	7 40 "

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales, SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

CHAMPION BINDERS MOWERS

ARE THE BEST AND SO WARRANTED.

SAMPLES AT ONE OR MORE AGENCIES IN EVERY COUNTY. FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ADDRESS.

THE WARDER, BUSHNELL & GLESSNER COMPANY,

CHICAGO, ILL.——SOLE MANUFACTURERS.——SPRINGFIELD, O.

By All Means

See Our

SPRING STOCK OF

BOOTS AND SHOES,

For Ladies' Gents' and Children's Wear.

WE WILL SAVE YOU MONEY ON EVERY PURCHASE.

Our Large Assortment Meets all Demands and Satisfies all Wants.

STYLE AND FIT that gives Comfort and Satisfaction.

QUALITY AND WEAR that means Pleasant Economy.

PRICE AND VALUE that make a Genuine bargain.

FOR A FAIR DEAL AND A SQUARE DEAL CALL ON

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

Special Drive

39 ct.

Unlaundried Shirts.

25 DOZEN,

Sizes 14 to 17.

This is decidedly the best value ever offered by us. Each shirt is double back and front, continuous facing in back and sleeves, perfect in fit and finish. Do not miss getting at least a few shirts of this special offering.

Carpets! Carpets!

We show large stock of pretty new patterns and our prices way down. Before buying see our selection.

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

We Have

THE PLEASURE

OF ANNOUNCING TO THE

TRADE,

That, while in Cleveland recently, we had the good fortune to secure, as trimmer, the services of

MISS GAUFF,

Who has been in the employ of one of the largest millinery houses in the city. She comes to us highly recommended, and we feel fully competent to preside over this department of our business. We earnestly solicit a call from our lady customers whether intending to purchase or not. Very respectfully,

COWAN SISTERS,

Auburn, Ind.

AUBURN

SANITARY

Baths.

HOT, COLD AND MEDICATED

WATERS.

STEAM, TURKISH, CABINET AND ELECTRIC BATHS.

The MASSAGE Treatment given when desired.

PEOPLE are realizing the true value derived at the Sanitarium at Auburn, and many are availing themselves of this opportunity, and are coming here for treatment, where they enjoy the best of attention from skillful and practical attendants. Good board and furnished rooms near by can be had at reasonable rates.

Drs. D. J. & Vesta M. Swarts

PROPRIETORS.

AUBURN DELUGED

TUESDAY, APRIL 8, 1890, BY A

TERRIFIC RAIN AND HAIL STORM.

Hundreds of dollars' worth of glass broken, bridges washed away and other damage done, and hundreds of people are visiting our city daily and purchasing their

Clothing, Hats, and Gents' Furnishing Goods,

Where they can get good value for money invested and that is at

SCHAAB & MURPHY'S, - - - Auburn, Indiana.

LOCAL NEWS.

Junior Ex. April 18.

Hand turned shoes for $2.75 at Wilson's. 14 16

Nick McIntyre, of Sedan, was in town Saturday.

Ladies see Wilson's fine shoes in Dongola and Kangaroo. 14 16

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Protracted meetings at the Lutheran church began last evening, and will continue for a season.

Last week, in spite of the bad weather, work began on several of the buildings that are to be erected this season.

J. T. Langle, the accommodating agent of D. H. Baldwin & Co., piano dealers was in town Monday. His house carries a fine line of instruments.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protrupiles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

We were shown a copy of the Rantoul, Ill., News by our friend Frank Lane, a paper published at his old home, and by a former schoolmate, Frank P. Ross. It is evidently a live newspaper, and proves that Illinois county papers are well up to a level with ours in Indiana.

The Young Men's Alliance composed of the christian young men of Auburn, will give a concert in the near future. A fine program will be presented, with many new and entertaining features. Date, place and prices will be published later. This entertainment will be given for the benefit of the proposed reading rooms.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

A. J. Ralston saw a fine specimen of Indian stone hammer, among the cobble stones in the court square gutter at the time the workmen were digging them up to make way for the new one. It was a rough one, but the crease for a handle was very plainly cut. He saved it, and it is now in the COURIER collection. This will be a counter piece to the finely finished one we have, which G. C. Ralston brought from the Rocky Mountains.

Buy fruit trees and plants of C. P' Houser.

New line of gents neck wear at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

New line of brilliantcen dress goods at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

Davenport has the finest stock of wall paper ever in Auburn. 14 16

Call at Miss Gulick's for cheap bargains in millinery line. 15 17

Currant, Gooseberry and Grape plants best varieties at Houser's. tf

New laces, ribbons, handkercheifs and hosiery at Mrs. Jones & Son's 15 17

Attend the Junior Ex. April 14. The class should be encouraged.

Everything in the fruit tree line at C. P. Houser's. Prices reasonable.

Newport and cloth surface peasant gossamers at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

M. Kline spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. A. M. A. Miller, at Hicksville.

All leading varieties of raspberry and strawberry plants for sale at C. P. Houser's. tf

Mrs. Fuller, of Albion was here over Sunday, visiting with the family of Rev. D. F. Kain.

Isaac Jones and wife of North Manchester, were here over Sunday visiting their relatives.

The new Lutheran bell has a loud, clear tone and is easily distinguished from the other church bells.

The different church bells were all rung at the same time Easter Sunday, filling the air with their melodious chimes. Auburn now has eight good bells.

GRAFTING: Either fruit or ornamental trees. All work warranted. Also apple trees for sale at 7 cents apiece. Call on Christ. Ashelman, opposite Auburn House. 13-15

George Swander has a good house to rent to the right party. It is his former residence in the southeast part of town and will make some family a comfortable home.

For full information about HARVEST EXCURSIONS April 22, May 20, September 9 and 23, and October 14, 1890, call on or address, Rickel & Sprott, Immigration Agents, Auburn' Ind. tf

Rev. D. F. Kain and family arrived here last week. Their goods were somewhat delayed, but they will be ready to go to housekeeping this week. Our people will welcome them, with the cordiality for which our citizens are noted.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

The largest and heaviest locomotive ever constructed was made by the Baldwin Locomotive Works for the Northern Pacific Railroad Company last year. It weighed, with its tender, 225,000 pounds. The ordinary weight is from 47,000 to 165,000 pounds.

Do you have "Logomachy," with every-one who calls at your office or in your homes, "don't you know why?" its your stomach, you need a Spring medicine and tonic, and Loose's Extract of Red Clover is just what you want, try it and be convinced. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Mrs. M. H. Hoisington, formerly Miss Belle Lanning, came back last week for a visit with her people here. Their present home is at Kearney, Nebraska, where Mr. Hoisington and his brother, W. H. Hoisington are in the real estate business. We understand they are doing well, and are glad to hear it.

The new bell for the St. Mark's Lutheran church was placed in position Saturday, and its sweet, clear tones soon rang out on the balmy air of that pleasant day. The bell is a fine one, with an excellent tone and adds an agreeable change to the well known sounds of our "church going bells." Long may it swing.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's. tf

Miss Dyke Beals, a young lady artist of Ft. Wayne, will be in Auburn next Saturday, to organize a class in painting. She desires to meet all who wish to take lessons. They can call at McKay's drug store and see a few specimens of her work, and she will bring others with her. She will leave word on Saturday morning as to where the class can meet her. Miss Beals is a young lady of ability, having been for some years a leading instructor in the popular commercial college of McDermut & Whiteleather, at Ft. Wayne. We hope our young people will take advantage of this very favorable opportunity.

John Lahnum was at home over Sunday, having made a trip up here to celebrate his birthday once more at the old home. He has spent the winter traveling over the southern states for the Papillon Medicine Company, of Chicago. John keeps his eyes open wherever he goes, and his experience in the south is very interesting. There were so many things there, that were altogether different from the things at the north, the customs of business men, the habits of the people, the people themselves and the climate, everything was new and interesting, and one can while away an hour very profitably while he relates his experiences, and the new ideas he has acquired. As we have often said, give a DeKalb boy half a chance, and he forges right to the front. There must be something in the air of this part of the Union, that tends to promote that sort of energy that leads to success. Mr. Lahnum started off early Monday to renew his travels.

The Noss Family, April 26.

Wall paper was never so cheap as now at Davenport's.

Miss Samme Ralston visited friends in Waterloo over Sunday.

Window shades on spring rollers at 40 cents each, at Davenport's

Plaids and stripe silks, new and elegant at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

Fine gilt shades on good spring rollers only fifty cents at Davenport's

Handsome patterns in sateen dress goods at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

Tickets for the Junior Ex. will be on sale at Robbins & McCord's, as usual

H. R. Culbertson has begun the foundation of his new residence on North Main.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Yesbera have been over at West Unity a few days, visiting the relatives there.

Much space is necessarily given to election returns to-day, but we presume this will be acceptable to all.

Mike Hebel has moved his old frame residence off his lot, and work has commenced on the new brick one.

Josiah and Anna Teeters were home last week from Oberlin, to attend the wedding of their brother, Frank.

J. P. Widney, now a resident of Lakeside, Ohio, arrived here last week and remains with the relatives about a month.

The wife of A. C. Shortridge, the well known Indian educator died last week. She was noted for her missionary work.

Some of the trees that put forth buds in the winter, are now taking a second start. Many of the winter buds are dropping off, however.

Miss Eula Beans has been here a few days, a guest of her cousin, Hortie Culbertson. She returned Monday to her home in Lagrange.

G. F. Whitmer has two good houses and lots to sell in this town and will give a good bargain. For particulars, call on him, or write.

The Junior Exhibition was postponed last week on account of the extremely bad weather, and will now be held on Friday evening, April 18.

Young grass is starting up in fine shape. We saw a cow hitched out on one of the back streets Sunday grazing on the tender grass with evident relish.

Miss Libbie Bevier, a former Waterloo young lady was here last week. She is now teaching at Fayette, Ohio, where her sister Mary also resides. Both are doing well.

Dr. Ford received a nice mess of green peas from Ontario, Cal., this week. They were in the pod and were sent by Dave Cochran and Lottie, who picked them in their garden.

Graham Earle's troubles with his former wife have been hushed up, and will not get into the court. They have agreed to let the matter drop. But we presume he lives with his second wife.

S. U. Tarney's Positive Painless Pile Cure is in great demand in the west. From Waunetta, Neb., Tacoma, Wash. Cedar Bluff, Kansas, and scores of other towns. Orders by mail come almost daily. 15

Fleming, at the green house has plenty of nice lettuce, and is getting ready a big stock of celery and cabbage plants for early planting. He has a good supply of everything in that line, beside fine flowers.

The musical novelties, the famous Noss family, will be at the Opera House, Saturday evening, April 26. Our people will remember the fine musical entertainment they gave when they appeared here before and will give them a good house.

We fear our good democratic friends over at Butler, were a little excited when their caucus appointed delegates to the senatorial and judicial conventions. A state senator will be elected in November 1892, and a judge in 1894. But we hope the gentlemen selected will all be alive then.

The COURIER folks were greatly pleased to have for a guest last week during the missionary meeting, Mrs. F. V. B. Minnich of Goshen, they being old-time friends. It was also our pleasure to meet in the same way, Mrs. Walker of the same place and Miss Ida Blair of Waterloo. They will always be welcome.

Angola had another big fire last week. The large boarding house on the college grounds burned. It was not occupied, and the loss therefore falls on the insurance companies and on the owner, Mr. Hendry. The college corporation did not have any interest in it. Supposed to be the work of fire bugs.

"Haste makes waste." Now is the time to carefully examine the merits of the different harvesting machines and decide which is most durable, best suited to your wants and best worth the money asked for it. Do not put off the decision until you must have a machine. You may not then be able to get the machine you want. The manufacturers of the Champion Binders and Mowers invite the fullest and most critical examination of their machines in comparison with others.

St. Joe News: Fifty years ago last Wednesday not many rods distant from where they now live, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lawhead were united in marriage and started out upon the journey of life together, and began housekeeping in a log cabin, situated in what was then a dense forest. Wednesday being the fiftieth anniversary of the occasion, about sixty of their friends gathered at their home to celebrate their golden wedding. A fine dinner was served, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawhead were the recipients of several substantial presents, including a purse of money. Seven persons were present who attended the wedding fifty years ago.

Subscribe for the COURIER.

Lots of moving now since election.

Coming, Lester Opera Co., 30 artists.

H. B. McCord was at Ft. Wayne this week.

Wall paper cheaper than whitewash at Davenport's. 14 16

All are invited to call and see the new goods at Miss Gulick's. 15 17

You can save money by getting wall paper now at Davenport's 14 16

J. C. Day has his new house in the McIntyre addition all encolsed now.

Lester Opera Co., April 16 and 17. Reserved seats 50 cents, no higher.

Everybody was on the streets Sunday enjoying a walk in the fine weather.

J. Beuret has an "ad" this week that will interest housekeepers. Read it.

Large assortment of silk umbrellas received this week at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

Let our patriotic leaders whistle up a roaring program for the glorious Fourth.

Miss Gulick has received a nice assortment of new hats and flowers the latest style. 15 17

A barn was struck by lightning and burned, near Concord, Tuesday about midnight.

Miss Gulick has moved her milliner store on Main street in the Eldridge building, up stairs. 15 17

Hank Little, editor of the Garrett Clipper, was drunk on our streets again last Saturday. No arrests.

The largest opera company ever in Auburn will be seen in Bohemian Girl and Pinafore April 16 and 17.

Bruce Miller, of Montpelier, Ohio, was here Saturday, in the interest of the Smith & Madden Marble Works.

Now is the time to subscribe for the COURIER. The campaign is opening up and everybody should read the news.

The nickel social of the M. E. church will be entertained by Mrs. W. Wallace Friday afternoon. All are cordially invited.

Large congregations attended Rev. D. F. Kane's sermons at the new Lutheran church last Sunday. He is an able speaker.

Louis Laemle, the clothier, went to Chicago Tuesday to lay in a stock of children's clothing for the spring and summer trade.

Mrs. L. D. Britton and granddaughter, Miss Rose Wildred Kline, of Corunna, were visiting with the family of M. B. Willis this week.

The Church of God friends will dedicate their church April 26 and 27. Elder Woods from Zanesville, Indiana will be present and officiate.

WANTED. A respectable lady or gentleman to act as our agent in this city. For particulars, address, W. H. Klepper, 212, Dorman street, Indianapolis.

Don't fail to see the Lester Opera Co., at the Opera House on Wednesday and Thursday nights April 16 and 17. Reserved seats on sale at usual place.

The St. Joe News says that Frank Sechler sowed six acres of oats the week before. This is the first sign of farming we have heard of as early as that.

Hall's Hair Renewer is free from alcohol and dyes that injure the skin. It is scientifically prepared, and will restore gray hair to its original color and vigor.

Don't miss seeing the Lester Opera Co., at the Opera House next Wednesday and Thursday night, in two grand comic operas numbering 30 artists on the stage.

Mr. Lamport comes back to this place for another year, making this his fifth year. We are glad for this, for we believe he has done very satisfactory work.

The D. F. Kain road cart will start up next week. The cart is evidently a great improvement over all others. A sample is kept on exhibition on the north side of Davis' hardware store.

Appealing to Diana, the Goddess of the Ephesians, for help, is as useless as trying to cure cholera without Gauter's chicken cholera cure. "No cure, no pay." Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Frank Hogue has moved into No. 24½ North Main street; the house recently vacated by Eddy Boigegrain, and Billy Little moved into the rooms vacated by Hogue, thus making it pleasant and convenient for both families.

Rev. H. M. Lamport came back from conference Tuesday noon, accompanied by his brother, Rev. A. L. Lamport and wife, who reside at Bristol. Both have been retained for another year, in their respective charges.

In purchasing medicines, don't try experiments; the first and only consideration should be genuineness. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has stood the test forty years, and to day it is in greater demand than ever—a triumphant proof of popular approval.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is a sure cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor Enquirer, McArthur, Ohio.

The ladies' social of the M. E. church met in the lecture room April 7, 1890, and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Dr. Casebeer; vice-president, Mrs. Frank Zimmerman; secretary, Mrs. Willis Brown; treasurer, Mrs. Kate Rowland.

The Lester Opera Company gave Fra Diavolo at the opera house last evening to a large house and gave the utmost satisfaction. Everybody was delighted with the performance. The company numbers about 35 people and is very strong. The costumes are elegant. They have made arrangements for a return date in February and will be sure of a full house. Winona, Minn. Press

A fire in Hicksville last Thursday night destroyed five frame store buildings.

Miss Lucy Otto visited last week, with her sister, Frances, who is a teacher at Wabash.

Mrs. Isaac Johnson and Mrs. Simp. Johnson are visiting relatives in Kendallville this week.

New poles are being put up for the incandescent electric lights, and the plant will soon be running.

Egbert Hodge has gone to Chicago, where he will spend some months attending business college.

It is said that the storm of Tuesday blew down the big windmill of the Lake Shore road just south of the Junction.

Since yesterday morning, W. H. McIntyre and wife have been rejoicing over the arrival of a little son. We congratulate them.

John Treesh is now working in the Baker meat market, McMillan's old stand. Mr Treesh is getting to be a skillful butcher, and is a reliable man wherever you put him.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. E. Zimmerman. Subject, Rome as an Empire, Mrs. Ralston, leader; paper, Facilities for the promulgation of a New Religion, A. D. 28," by Mrs. Davenport: The Mormons, by Mrs. Zimmerman.

The Y. L. M. C. of the M. E. church will give an "observation party" at Mrs. Willis Brown's residence next Friday evening. Refreshments to consist of cake, bananas and oranges. Every body is invited to attend. This party is as yet something new and will be very interesting. Mite 10 cents.

The L. L. C. Annual.

In spite of the terrible storm the members and their guests were nearly all in attendance at the residence of John Leasure Tuesday evening, to celebrate the eighth anniversary of the society. The bad weather prevented six members from coming: Mrs. Ensley and daughter, Eva, Mrs. Zent, Miss Mollie Murphy, Mrs. Davenport and Mrs. Hodge. The last named, however, sent her annual donation of wild flowers, a fraternal act she never forgets, and which her sister members fully appreciate. The number of guests is always limited, as no dwelling in Auburn would accommodate a half of those who would feel proud to be invited. The address of welcome was by the president, Mrs. Lewis, and was a very appropriate one for the occasion. M. B. Willis on the behalf of the guests, delivered the response, in which he acquitted himself most creditably. Mrs. Houser gave a very able and polished address on "Human nature as we find it," and Mrs. Emanuel recited a very sweet poem "Auf Wieder Sehen." Then followed the novel exercises—the repeating of original spring poetry, to which all members of the club responded. The most of them were very seasonable and witty, and several showed a high degree of poetical talent. Very few were complimentary of the season referred to, however. Then came lunch, during which the "Little German Band" discoursed sweet music, continuing this more or less to the close. Mrs. Schaab gave one of her characteristic addresses in the form of a toast. It was entitled "Ragout" and was to have followed Mr. Hartman's toast "The Law" but he could not be present, being detained at the court room. Of course it was witty. But the masterpiece of drollery and wit combined was the host's response to "The L. L. C. anniversaries." It should be heard to be fully appreciated. He was "called back." Then followed impromptu talks by several gentlemen as they were called on. We have often called attention to the impossibility of describing adequately these enjoyable annual meetings of this justly popular club. A newspaper article can't do them justice. Any one who has attended them can readily see this. The literary work done by the members is of the highest order. We do not believe they have their superiors in the state. Their lunches are the topnotch, so to speak, of the culinary art, models of refined taste and good judgment. This feature we think each year, cannot be improved, yet the succeeding "annual" always shows some new and pleasing addition. And the polish and grace with which they entertain leave a pleasant impression on the minds of those so fortunate as to be their guests. We should not fail to express our gratitude to Mrs. Hodge, by whose thoughtful kindness the editors were enabled to enjoy this festal occasion.

The Missionary Meeting.

This gathering of missionary workers, was a great success. The societies of this, the Fort Wayne presbytery, met here, as announced, last Wednesday. They were cared for by our citizens, as they arrived, and made welcome everywhere. The first session was in the evening and was called to order by the president of the association, Mrs. H. B. Walker, of Goshen, who proved to be an admirable presiding officer. The secretary, Mrs. Anna S. Keller, of Ft. Wayne, filled her place no less acceptably. The welcome address, a very fine one, was made by Mrs. T. P. Scott, of this place The reply was to have been made by Miss Deighton of Huntington, but as she was not able to attend, she sent it here, and it was read by Miss Ida Blair of Waterloo, who was chosen for this by the meeting. There was a very able address by the president and then came "the young ladies' hour." Miss Lila Baker recited and Mrs. Yesbera assisted her, with the musical part, a very fine production, both doing excellently well, and receiving high praise from all. The concluding exercise was a paper by Miss Wilden, of Goshen, which was a fine production. On Thursday, Mrs. Ehlers, gave "Greetings from Sister Churches," in her usual eloquent way. There should have been several of these, but she alone responded. Mrs. L. D. Keil, of Ft. Wayne, made an address, Fellowship of Services; Home Missions, by Mrs. Goodman, of Kendalville: What can I do? by Mrs. F. W. Willis, of Waterloo, were all able and interesting, and Miss Bowles, of Texas, spoke of Work among the Freedmen. In the evening, Miss Percy, of Utah, spoke on "Polygamy" and Miss Taylor spoke of Home and Foreign Missions. All the addresses were able and excellent, and the singing was good. The meeting has been a very pleasant one for our people, who have greatly profited by these visitors from our sister churches and cities. And our visitors expressed themselves charmed by the hospitality for which our people are so well known.

The Great Storm.

Tuesday evening, after a bright, warm day, a storm gradually gathered in the western horizon, and as the dark and murky clouds came rolling and tumbling onward toward our little city, our people were vividly reminded of the late and terrible cyclone that swept over that ill-fated city of Louisville, Ky. All kinds of conjectures and surmises were passed as to what the nature of the storm would be. But on came the storm, the smoky clouds interspersed with lurid and zig-zag flashes of lightning, followed by long and deafening peals of thunder. The great rain chariot was doing battle with the electric element in earnest, and the clouds of inky hue cast a dark and solemn shadow over our town. Stout hearts seem to sink within the bosom and men and women quivered with fear and tried to find a safe retreat. At last, about 5 o'clock, the storm dashed onus in all its fury. The rain fell in torrents for about five minutes without the least wind, and then for about 15 seconds all was calm and serene. Then all of an instant it became dark and the rain came down with redoubled might and fury; a cloudburst of water and hail, flooding the streets till they looked like a mighty river. Hail lay three and four inches deep, and did hundreds of dollars of damage. The windows and skylights suffered the most from the hail. Hollister's hotel, Davenport's store, Rice's gallery, Flemming's greenhouse and plants, Abel Brothers' greenhouse, all of which had skylights demolished. Hundreds of window glass were broken in the south end of town where the storm king trod the heaviest. The Monitor Wind Mill Co. had 130 glass broken, Wm. Ensley, 25, Mrs. Weaver, 8, Mr. J. W. Shaffer, 8, and so on all over the south portion of the city. Lightning struck several places and the Wabash railroad bridge at the foot of Jackson street was washed out. The low ground in the north end was badly flooded. The storm was fierce in other places also. C. P. Houser reports much damage to his young fruit trees. All in all, it was the greatest rain and hail storm that ever visited Auburn, and it will live long in the memory of our citizens.

Court.

A great deal of work has been done on cases, and especially on estate matters. We give such as we think of interest. Henderson vs Hood was dismissed. Nettie vs John H. Shaver, divorce granted to her. Love vs Love for partition. Fred Bunge, John Boyd and T. W. Harwood were made commissioners who within a day completed the work, made report, and it was accepted. In the Ensley partition case, Orin Clark, John Yard and John Grube were appointed. In Row vs Martin the plaintiff got judgment $112. Jane vs W. H. Lopshire, divorce for her and custody of child. In the case of Henry Lochner vs Geo. Baltz the defendant won. Nancy Wyatt vs B. & O. road, damage, court gave her $70. The case of Judge McBride vs Charles Kelley for defamation of character is now going on, and may last some time.

Barn Burned.

A barn was struck by lightning and burned, near Concord, Tuesday about midnight.

REFORMED CHURCH.

Sunday, April 13, English and German service, at 10:30, a. m.

SUBJECT OF SERMON

"THE GREAT VAIL."

Matthew XXVII. 15. "The vail of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom. The vails of our days between God and men. They must be rent from the top to the bottom.

B. RUF.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

"STANLEY has a name for his book, and it is a dandy: "The Darkest Africa: The Quest, Rescue and Retreat of Emin."

A MAN searched four hours in London one night recently for a doctor who would consent to attend his dying wife, but found none.

IOWA is the banner State for women educators. Fourteen of the State Superintendents are women, and four-fifths of the teachers are women.

MADAME TACON, the nurse of the infant King of Spain, has been made a Countess. She is over 70 years of age, and for half a century has been in the service of the royal family.

ONE citizen of Augusta, Me., called another a "jackass" about two years ago. The matter has been in court ever since, and the other day, when finally settled, it had cost each litigant over $1,300.

AN alleged English countess advertises that she is willing to present Americans at court and society generally during the coming London season, in consideration of the sum of $5,000 paid in advance.

KOSSUTH, the Hungarian patriot, predicts that there are men now living who will see Ireland a State of the American Union. Kossuth's dream is a wild one, perhaps, but come to think of it, Ireland is no further away from Washington than Oregon is.

IN Iowa, Nebraska, and Missouri you can bore a hole in a stick of firewood, plug it up after filling with powder, and leave it where a thief may get it and blow his house up. These are the only three States, however. All the others have laws making such a thing a misdemeanor.

SAMUEL J. TILDEN'S estate has proved to be much larger than was at first supposed, and the aggregate is nearer $15,000,000 than $5,000,000. It is likely now that the contest of his will will be compromised and New York will probably get her $4,000,000 for a public library after all.

A CANTON (China) paper estimates that 750,000 people die every year in China by fire and flood, but it is not satisfied. "The fact is," it remarks, with cold-blooded cynicism, "the great need of China is the sudden removal of 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 inhabitants to make elbow-room for those who are left."

LACK of work is so keenly and generally felt in the towns and provinces of Italy that the Prefects and royal Governors are issuing vigorous proclamations calling upon owners of property to scrape up some kind of employment for the unoccupied, who are literally penniless and at the door of starvation.

THE humble cottage where Mary Washington, the mother of George, lived and died is still standing at Fredericksburg, Va. It is suggested that this home of our first President's mother be bought and preserved, so that future generations may know from what small beginnings great results may spring.

BEN BUTLER has got so old that he has to be helped about by a servant, and his sight is so poor that he cannot see print three inches away; but when some one declares that he doesn't look a day over 50 and that he may yet be President of the United States, the old man looks as pleased as a girl with her first beau.

FROM the wallet of a murderer, robber and burglar recently captured in New York was taken a slip of paper on which was written: "Keep good company or none;" "Honesty is the best policy;" "Drink leads to ruin;" "Honor thy father and thy mother;" "Civility costs nothing;" "Do not mock at sacred things."

IT is related by a Washington, Pa., paper that Mrs. M. V. Taylor, the only woman engaged in the oil-well supply business in the country, sprained her ankle the other day, and was suddenly overwhelmed with business, oil men having a superstition that good luck will follow them if they buy material from a crippled person.

MEMBERS of the Astor family of the male persuasion are said to wear beetling brows and care-worn faces, as though oppressed by the responsibilities attaching to the care of their great estate. All this suffering is unnecessary. Whenever they want to lighten their terrible burden almost everybody stands ready to lend a helping hand.

LUMINOUS paint absorbs light during the day and gives it forth at night. The ceiling of an English car painted with the composition lights the vehicle at night. England had the only factory and charged $8 a pound for the paint, but a new factory in Triesch, Austria, is selling it for 50 cents per pound. It is made of roasted oyster shells and sulphur.

THE German War Office has issued a general order that in future no officer is to be served before dinner at a military club with more than one small glass of spirit or liquor, and absinthe is absolutely prohibited. It has hitherto been the practice of officers to stimulate their appetites for the heavy early dinner by libations of kummel or kirsch, cognac or gin.

THE more nervous the temperament the more sleep is required. Sleep is better than any stimulant. If all those who work mentally would take time in the middle of the day, say for half an hour, and would accustom themselves to go to sleep, they would find that they would wear better, last longer and do their work much better. Sleep is a remedial agent. Brain workers require more sleep than physical workers. They should go to sleep at ten o'clock at night and should have their breakfast at eight.

REPRESENTATIVE ALLEN, of Mississippi, was recently requested by one of his colored constituents to give him a recommendation in writing so that he could secure a position as watchman in one of the departments in Washington. As Mr. Allen knew that the man was worthy he at once complied with the request. The certificate of character was so warmly complimentary that Sambo was astonished when he read it. "Look heah, Marse Allen," he said, "can't you gib me somethin' to do yo'self on dat recommendation?"

IN an Omaha church recently, Sam Jones shouted: "Is there a man present who never spoke a cross word to his wife?" The silence was becoming oppressive. People looked here and there. Every husband present wanted to get up but did not dare to. But the sadness that had possession of Jones' face vanished a moment later when a round-faced, good-natured man rose from his seat. "Thank God!" exclaimed Sam, "there is one man who never spoke a cross word to his wife!" The good-natured man smiled a bland smile and said: "No, sir, I never did. I'm a bachelor." Then he put on his hat and calmly walked out the door.

DURING the season of 1889 a most remarkable crop was raised by David Drew, at Plymouth, N. H. In 1888 Mr. Drew came into possession of some corn grains found wrapped with a mummy in Egypt, supposed to be 4,000 years old. These were planted and grew. It had many of the characteristics of real corn; the leaves were alternate; it grew to be over six feet high; the mid-ribs were white; but the product of the stock, there is where the curious part comes in. Instead of growing in an ear like modern maize, it hung in heavy clusters at the top, on spikelets; there was no tassel, no silk, each sprig was thickly studded with grains, each provided with a separate husk, like wheat grains.

A CASE where Greek met Greek is recorded by the Camden (Me.) Herald. In the early days of that town a doctor had occasion to go to law, and employed a neighbor, a lawyer, to take charge of his case. Somehow the case never got ahead any. At the close of each term of court the doctor would ask the lawyer how it was progressing, only to receive the answer: "It is continued; the other side got it continued." As the costs also continued—to increase—the doctor got uneasy, but bided his time. In the course of years the lawyer called in the doctor to cure a sore finger, which failed to heal and remained a source of annoyance. At last the lawyer, while away from home, called in another doctor, who happened to hit the case just right, and when he returned home the finger was well. As soon as he saw his old client, the doctor, he told him what the other doctor had done for him, winding up with the question: "Doctor, why didn't you cure my finger as quick as this other doctor?" The old physician, with a merry twinkle in his eye, stuttered a prompt reply: "G-G-Gad, squire, I was j-just c-c-continuing it."

Laid Over One Train.

"Put down room No. 52 to be called in time for the 4:30 train in the morning," he said, as he leaned gracefully over toward the night clerk of a Mississippi hotel.

"Case of life and death?" queried the clerk.

"Why, no; but I want to get to Jackson before noon."

"Hadn't you better wait for the 9:30 train?"

"What is it to you?"

"Nothing but the excitement and muss, and I shall probably have to testify at the Coroner's inquest."

"I—I don't exactly catch on."

"Come up stairs, please."

When they had ascended to the first sleeping floor the clerk continued:

"This is room No. 28, as you see. There are five bullet holes in the door. Man in here last week wanted to be called for that early train. Room No. 30 has seven bullet holes, but those stand for two men. This new piece in the carpet here is where a man fell and bled to death. Down here——"

"But who kills off these guests?" asked the traveler.

"Oh, the other guests. As soon as the nigger comes up and knocks and bawls out, Col. Shaw, who has No. 32, reaches for his shotgun. Over in No. 29 Judge Havens slips out with his revolver. Major Brooks, who is in No. 33, always comes in a good third with a Derringer, and the rest of the fellows along the hall are always more or less well heeled. We don't care so much about the nigger, as niggers are mighty cheap around here, but there must be an inquest on the body of the white man, and——"

"Did I say call me for the 4:30 train?" queried the traveler.

"I believe so."

"Then it was a mistake. I'm in no hurry. In fact, I like Mississippi in general and this town in particular; and even if I get away at 9:30 I shall be sorry to go. Just rub out the memoranda, and if I don't get up in time for breakfast you needn't mind sending a nigger up to pound on the door."—New York Sun.

ROUGH ON LITTLE BEN.

A CAUSTIC LETTER FROM GENERAL LONGSTREET.

He Exposes the Administration's Secret Policy in the South—Carpet-Baggers Get the Offices in Return for Promises of Harrison Delegates in 1892—How the People's Interest and the Party Are Sold Out for One Man—Plain Talk from a Republican.

[Washington special.]

General Longstreet, of Georgia, the most prominent of Republican ex-Confederates, has written to a friend in this city a letter upon the Harrison administration that is full of dynamite. It gives also an inside view of the means whereby the Republican organization in the South is used simply to maintain a hold upon the spoils without regard to the public good or even to party interests. In replying to an inquiry as to whether he had not voted for Mr. Harrison he said:

"It is true that I did not exercise the privilege of voting for President at the election in 1888, for the simple reason that in this State the majority of the other party is so great that it availed but little to throw a drop against a current that was overwhelming, and there were many more Republicans who declined to vote for the same reason, and many colored men not only failed to vote for the Republican candidate, but voted for the other side. Now, this indifference is due to a great extent to the management of the so-called Republican organization controlled by Colonel Buck and his associates. They have driven all the leading men of the party in the State from active co-operation in politics—such as ex-Senator Joshua Hill and Jonathan Norcross, who was the last Republican candidate to run for Governor. To the list may be added all prominent men of the State; for they can not become reconciled to be led or managed by the agent of the Washington government, with his contingent of carpet-baggers and negroes. By his management the party in Georgia has about dwindled down to those who hold the United States offices under Republican administrations, and they control these places by sending themselves as delegates to the nominating conventions."

The general, reviewing his relations with the President, said he had written several letters to Mr. Harrison after the election and had received cordial responses. He visited the President-elect at Indianapolis and explained his views "in regard to the carpet-bagger and negro combination." These views, he says, were fully approved in quite a lengthy interview with the President-elect, and he went so far as to announce that he would not give support to that element. General Longstreet recites the circumstances of the very cool treatment given him by Mr. Harrison afterward, and ascribes it to the misrepresentation of Colonel Buck and his friends. He then says:

"In announcing my ideas in 1867, as just stated, my purpose was to save the South from the ruin that must surely follow the putting of our States under the rule of adventurers and negroes. I emphasize this in order to say that my opposition to that direful supremacy is now that which actuated me in my first political adventure. This Colonel Buck well knows, and he also probably knows that by the recognition of the Republican administration we could have brought several States of the South into indorsement of the party nominees in 1892, and in that way he and his and their little coterie would have been lost sight of in all further conventions."

The General concludes his letter thus:

"I should not fail to mention that the aforesaid Republican managers sell the party to the Democrats either by failing to put out candidates or by making nominations who will sell out to the opposing nominee, thus making of their places sources of revenue. Of this we took conclusive evidence to Washington at the inauguration in the shape of one of the books kept by Democrats giving the names of leaders who received the benefit of Democratic election contributions and amounts paid them. If that book were carefully examined I make no doubt we would find the names of some of the preachers and leaders who have been in the conventions passing resolutions of complaint that negroes are unjustly dealt with South, and that the Republican vote is suppressed by the Democrats. I have no doubt that the vote is suppressed, but its blotting-out influence comes from the Republican management in support of the Democratic party and for the purpose of holding the Republican party here in limited hands. If a reputable Republican should stand for election to any office here upon his own responsibility and his own claims he must stand against Democrats and Republicans—the latter more bitter than the former—one with fire in front, the other with knives in the rear. All points weighed seem to warrant the conclusion that it was not the failure to cast a useless ballot at the polls in 1888 so much as the promised vote of the delegates to the nominating convention in 1892 that threw the federal offices of Georgia into the hands and under the supremacy of the carpet-bag-negro alliance. Some Southern men have been appointed, but none can pretend that their influence at home is greater than their leaders'. On the contrary, it must necessarily be less."

TARIFF AND TINWARE.

Every Housekeeper Is Interested in the Figures Printed Here.

The New York Times has compiled a table showing how the tariff affects household utensils made of tin. Here are the figures:

Articles.	Retail price.	Amount of increase owing to tariff.	Retail price if no duty were imposed.	Retail price if proposed bill be passed.	Present tariff raises prices. Per cent.
4-qt coffee pot...	$ .20	$ .02	$ .18	$ .23	11
4-qt sauce pan..	.16	.02	.14	.20	11
4-qt oil can......	.20	.02	.18	.23	9
Pt drinking cup	.05	.01	.04	.07	11
12-qt dish pan...	.20	.02	.18	.23	12
12-qt dish kettle	.20	.02	.18	.23	13
6-qt milk kettle	.30	.02	.28	.34	6
11½-in colander.	.15	.01	.14	.17	10
4-qt teakettle....	.25	.01	.24	.28	5
8-in wash boiler	.80	.06	.74	.90	8
Bread pan.......	.10	.01	.09	.12	14
5-lb lard can.....	.10	.01	.09	.12	12
4-qt dairy pan...	.08	.02	.06	.11	23
10-qt dairy pan..	.15	.03	.12	.20	23
4-qt dairy pail...	.08	.02	.06	.11	25
Wash basin......	.06	.01	.05	.08	23
4-inch pie plate.	.05	.01	.04	.07	25
9-in milk strain'r	.20	.03	.17	.25	15
1-qt dinner kettle	.25	.03	.22	.30	12
Totals...........	$ 3.58	$ .18	$ 3.20	$ 3.96	......

Consolation for Farmers.

The McKinley tariff bill has at last been reported to the full Committee on Ways and Means, and authentic copies of it have been given out for publication. A Republican member of the committee, commenting on the bill, says: "The Ways and Means Committee was organized not to do the things which the people of the West wanted done," and he told the truth. The bill is a studied insult to the Western farmer.

Among the articles that interested the farmer were sugar, wool, cotton, lumber, twine and metals. But while there has been a considerable cut on sugar, and a slight reduction on lumber, there has been no reduction on twine, and a heavy increase on wool, cotton and the metals. The tariff on several other articles was increased with a view of making sport of the Western farmer. As we export 46,000,000 bushels of wheat, and import only 1,946 bushels, the tariff on wheat was increased 25 per cent. As we export 69,000,000 bushels of corn, and import only 2,338 bushels, the tariff on corn was increased 50 per cent. As we export 624,000 bushels of oats, and import only 22,324 bushels, the tariff on oats was increased 50 per cent. As we import only 396 bushels of cornmeal, the tariff on cornmeal was doubled. As we export 400,000,000 pounds of bacon and hams, and import only 272,000 pounds, the tariff on bacon and hams was increased from 2 to 5 cents per pound. As we export 85,000,000 pounds of cheese, and import only 8,000,000 pounds, the tariff on cheese was increased 60 per cent. If these changes do not delight the Western farmer what would delight him?

This bill can never pass Congress. Although not yet reported to the House, it has become a firebrand in the Republican party. It will cause a long and acrimonious debate, and then be dropped, leaving the Republican party in a divided and dismembered condition and the country ready for the return of the triumphant Democracy.—Chicago Herald.

Trusts and the Tariff.

In the Senate debate on trusts Senator Vest gave an interesting list of trusts, and showed the dependence of these monopolies in each case he named upon tariff duties excluding competition from abroad.

1. The steel rail trust, buttressed by a tariff tax of $17 per ton.
2. The nail trust, by a tariff tax of $1.25 per 100 pounds.
3. The iron nut and washer trust, by a tax of $2 per 100 pounds.
4. The barbed fence wire trust, by a tax of 60 cents per 100 pounds.
5. The copper trust, by a tax of $2.50 per 100 pounds.
6. The lead trust, by a tax of $1.50 per 100 pounds.
7. The slate pencil trust, by a tax of 30 per cent.
8. The nickel trust, by a tax of $15 per 100 pounds.
9. The zinc trust, by a tax of $2.50 per 100 pounds.
10. The sugar trust, by a tax of $2 per 100 pounds.
11. The oil cloth trust, by a tax of 40 per cent.
12. The jute bag trust, by a tax of 40 per cent.
13. The cordage trust, by a tax of 30 per cent.
14. The paper envelope trust, by a tax of 25 per cent.
15. The gutta percha trust, by a tax of 35 per cent.
16. The castor oil trust, by a tax of 80 cents per gallon.
17. The linseed oil trust, by a tax of 25 cents per gallon.
18. The cottonseed oil trust, by a tax of 25 cents per gallon.
19. The borax trust, by a tax of $5 per 100 pounds.
20. The ultramarine trust, by a tax of $5 per 100 pounds.

Senator Sherman added to this list the match trust, at the head of which is Gen. Alger, of Michigan, the Standard Oil trust, and various grain trusts. In the case of Gen. Alger's match trust, matches being nowadays as much a necessary of life as bread, Senator Sherman quoted from the decision of a Michigan court:

"It appears from the testimony that the Diamond Match Company was organized for the purpose of controlling the manufacture and trade in matches in the United States and Canada. The object was to get all the manufacturers of matches in the United States to enter into a combination and agreement by which the manufacture and output of all match factories should be controlled by the Diamond Match Company. Those manufacturers who would not enter into the scheme were to be bought out, those who proposed to engage in the business were to be bought off, and a strict watch was to be exercised to discover any person who proposed to engage in such business and he was to be prevented if possible.

"All who entered into the combination and all who were bought off were required to enter into bonds to the Diamond Match Company that they would not directly or indirectly engage in the manufacture or sale of friction matches, nor aid nor assist nor encourage any one else in said business where by doing so it might conflict with the business interest or diminish the sales or lessen the profits of the Diamond Match Company. These restrictions varied in individual cases as to the time it was to continue, from ten to twenty years. Thirty-one manufacturers, being substantially all the factories where matches were made in the United States, either went into the combination or were purchased by the Diamond Match Company, and out of this number all were closed except about thirteen.

"Gen. Alger was a witness in the case and was asked by his counsel the following question: 'It appears that during the years 1881 and 1882 large sums of money were expended to keep men out of the match business, remove competition, buy machinery and patents, and in some instances purchase other match factories. I will ask you to state the reasons, if any there are, why those sums should not be treated as an expense of the business and charged off from this account.'

"To which he replied: 'Because the price of matches was kept up to correspond so as to pay these expenses and make large dividends above what could have been made had those factories been in the market to compete with the business.'

"It also appears from the testimony of Gen. Alger that the organization of the Diamond Match Company was in a measure due to his exertions."

Monopolies and trusts strike always at the necessaries of life, and the articles required and used by the mass of the people. Thus in the Republican tariff, common, coarse blankets and woolen goods always bear a much higher duty than the fine goods used by the rich, and this discrimination runs through the whole of the Allison bill and its successor, the McKinley bill. Both these bills tax the poor much more heavily than the rich.—New York Herald.

High-Tariff Arguments.

The advocates of a high tariff on wool may be challenged to justify that tax on the same grounds by which they attempt to justify the tax on foreign iron. Do they dare to say to the farmers "our object in putting a duty upon foreign wool in 1867 was to reduce the price of the domestic wool of the United States; our purpose was to exclude the wool of South America and Australia from this country, to throw it all on the markets of Europe, and to put down the price of wool in Europe as well as in this country?"

The moment they present such an argument as this to the wool-growers of the United States, they know that the wool-growers would instantly turn on them and scout their policy with contempt; and yet that is exactly what they did. That has been the exact effect of the duties on wool. And this malignant influence of the duty on wool has now gone so far, and has reduced the price of South American wool to so low a point, that the great plains of the Argentine Republic, which had been devoted to pasturage and to the product of wool, are now plowed up and planted in wheat. Hence the malignant effect depressing the price of wool in Europe by excluding South American wool from this great market will presently be to establish a competition in the production of wheat which, in a very few years, will grow to great proportions, and will be more dangerous to the wheat-growers of the United States than an East India competition ever has been or ever can be.

Let the advocates of duties on these crude materials tell the farmers, if they dare, that the object of their policy is, and has been, to depress or put down the price of wool in this country and in Europe; yet that is their only justification of the duty on pig-iron.—New York Evening Post.

"YES," said one traveling man to another, "Jones is a nice fellow, but he has a fast-train credit."

"What kind of credit is that?"

"Limited."—American Commercial Traveller.

THE NATIONAL SOLONS.

WORK OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Law-Makers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed and Acted On.

IN the Senate, on the 1st inst., the House bill authorizing the Mississippi River Commission to purchase or hire such boats as may be immediately necessary to rescue inhabitants of the overflowed districts and to use the boats for that purpose was laid before the Senate and was passed immediately. Among the bills reported from the committees and placed on the calendar was the House bill to amend the census law in relation to Chinese residents. Then at 12:30, on motion of Mr. Edmunds, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. When the doors were reopened the Senate adjourned. In the House Mr. Oates, of Alabama, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported a resolution reciting that it is alleged by the Attorney General that in many United States District Courts the practice of suspending sentence after conviction in criminal cases prevails without warrant of law, and that in some parts of the country United States District Attorneys, Marshals and deputies, and United States Commissioners have been guilty of maladministration and corruption in office and directing the Committee on Judiciary to inquire into the extent, cause, and effect of such illegal practice. Adopted. The following bills were passed: Providing that depositions of witnesses before United States Courts may be taken in the mode prescribed by the laws of the States in which such courts may be held. Limiting to six years the time within which suits may be brought against accounting officers and their bondsmen. To continue the publication of the Revised Statues. Exempting from the provisions of the law requiring steamers to carry life lines boats plying on inland waters. Authorizing the construction of bridges across the Iowa River at or near Wapello, Iowa. Transferring from Galena, Ill., to Dubuque, Iowa, the offices of Inspectors of Hulls and Boilers. Senate bill creating the offices of Surveyors General in North and South Dakota. Admitting free of duty articles from Mexico to the St. Louis Exposition of 1890. The fortifications appropriation bill, with an amendment providing that the board which inquires into facilities for producing steel forgings shall extend its inquiries to the Indianapolis arsenal. The bill appropriates $4,521,678. Appropriating $92,000 for improving the Zoological Park in the District of Columbia, the District to bear half the expense. The naval appropriation bill was reported by Mr. Boutelle and placed upon the calendar. The death of Representative Wilber, of New York, was announced, and as a mark of respect to his memory the House adjourned.

IN the Senate on the 2d inst. the Judiciary Committee reported favorably the bill declaring trusts unlawful. The bill declares every contract or combination in the form of a trust or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce among the several States or with foreign nations to be illegal. Every person who shall make any such contract or engage in any such combination or conspiracy shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by both. Circuit courts are invested with jurisdiction over cases arising under the act. The Senate spent the afternoon in the discussion of the Montana election case. Senator Gray, of Delaware, occupied most of the time with his argument in favor of McGinnis and Clark, the Democratic contestants. Senator Evarts introduced a resolution expressing the Senate's deep regret at the death of Congressman David Wilber, of New York. The Vice President appointed a joint committee to act with the House committee with reference to the funeral arrangements, after which, on motion of Mr. Evarts, as a further mark of respect the Senate adjourned. In the House a bill was passed continuing in force the act authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at Forest River, S. Dak. The Senate bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Brazos River near its mouth was also passed. The following bridge bills were also passed: Across the Missouri River between Iowa and Nebraska; across the Arkansas River at Pendleton, Ark.; across the White River by the Mississippi and Little Rock Railroad Company. Authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Hudson River from Jersey City to New York. The House then proceeded to the consideration of the Idaho admission bill and the debate had not closed when the House adjourned.

THE Senate spent most of the session in debating the Chinese enumeration bill, which finally went over. The Montana Senatorial contest was also discussed and laid over without action. Senate bills were passed appropriating $75,000 for a public building at Aurora, Ill.; appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Leadville, Col.; to reorganize and establish the customs district of Puget Sound. In the House the Senate concurrent resolution was agreed to requesting the President to invite from time to time, as fit occasion may arise, negotiations with any Government with which the United States may have diplomatic relations, to the end that any differences or disputes arising between the Governments which can not be adjusted by diplomatic agency may be referred to arbitration. A bill was passed authorizing the Secretary of War to deliver to the State of Colorado flags carried by Colorado regiments. Mr. Lawler, of Illinois, introduced a bill to test the science of short spelling and to establish 100 schools for that purpose. Referred. The House then resumed the consideration of the Idaho admission bill. On the final vote for the passage of the bill the Democrats refused to vote, as no quorum of Representatives was present. The Speaker counted a sufficient number of Democrats to form a quorum and the bill was declared passed. The bill as passed declares Idaho to be a State of the Union and on an equal footing with the original States, and that the Constitution which the people of Idaho have framed for themselves is accepted, ratified, and confirmed. The special feature of the constitution adopted by the people of Idaho, which had attracted attention during the debate, is that which disfranchises all persons who are bigamists or polygamists, or living in what is known as patriarchal, plural or celestial marriage, or who in any manner teach polygamy, or are members or contributors to any organization which teaches, advises, counsels or encourages polygamy. The House, after the passage of the bill, adjourned.

THE Senate was not in session on the 4th inst. In the House, after the reading of the journal the House proceeded to the consideration of various private pension bills. In speaking on one of these bills Mr. Stone, of Missouri, declared that no people had been so despoiled and burdened under the name of patriotism and under the guise of pension laws as had the people of the United States. He denounced the demands of the Grand Army of the Republic and asserted that the Presidency was put up and sold to the highest bidder. He believed that the Government had been generous enough to the soldiers. He favored a liberal system of pension laws, but he entered his earnest protest against indefensible extravagance in public expenditure. He favored the granting of liberal pensions to true and brave soldiers, but he was opposed to granting pensions to undeserving soldiers or to bounty-jumpers. Mr. Lane, of Illinois, in favoring the bills, said the Democrats of Illinois did not indorse the words of the gentleman from Missouri, but believed as he (Lane) did, that the Government had not done justice to the men who had defended it in its hour of peril. Mr. Chipman, of Michigan, criticised and denounced the speech made by the gentleman from Missouri. It was not the time to talk of the cost of pensions. He well remembered the day when cost was not counted; when the government was prodigal of money and lavish of blood; when the motives which brought men under the flag were not scanned and analyzed; when the man who enlisted was the hero of the hour. Then no man was mean enough to suggest that men went out to risk their lives for the paltry pay of $16 a month. The gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Stone) cried a halt, but the time for a halt had not come and would not come until reasonable provision was made for the needs of every soldier of the country. The country needed a service pension; it needed an increased pension for the deaf and dumb; it needed a pension for widows, and it needed a law establishing a rule of testimony in pension cases, whereby the oath of a private soldier would receive as much credence as that of an officer. The pension system must continue until the last soldier who served the country in the war was dead and gathered to his fathers. The House proceeded to consider in committee of the whole the omnibus bill for the payment of Southern war claims, but so much time was taken up in the discussion of various points of order that little progress was made, and at 5 o'clock the committee rose and the House adjourned.

Ages of Rulers.

Queen Victoria, 70¾ years old, with 52 years of reign.

Carlo I., of Portugal, 26 years old, 2 months of reign.

Alexander I., of Servia, 13½ years old, 9 months of reign.

Leo XIII., who is 79¾ years old has reigned nearly 12 years.

Alfonso XIII. of Spain, 3½ years old, with 3½ years of reign.

Louis, Grand Duke of Russia, 52 years old with 12 years of reign.

Abdul Hamid, the Sultan, 47 years old, with 13 years of reign.

Oscar II., King of Sweden, 60¾ years old, with 17 years of reign.

Karl I. of Wurtemburg, 66¾ years old, with 25 years of reign.

Albert, King of Saxony, 61½ years old, with 1[illegible] years of reign.

George, King of Greece, 44 years old, with a reign of 26½ years.

Francis Joseph of Austria, 59 years old, has reigned 41 years.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887.
CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MIEE.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887.
CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

AFTER THE BALL.

BY EMILIE CLARK.

Fling back the curtain and let in the light,
Strains of sweet music are floating to-night
On the breath of balm-breathing air;
The light-hearted dancers in circles go by,
With a blush on the cheek and a smile in the eye.
For bravery and beauty are there

Fling back the curtain, and once again gaze
On all the old scenes—the wearisome days—
The sunshine, the shadow and rain.
Are there apples of Sodom whose ashes still cling,
Crushed roses whose thorns still festering sting,
That gossip and sport with the brain?

Fling back the curtain—re-enact the old play,
The hopes and the fears; have you nothing to say?
No sentence or act to recall?—
Nothing that brings you a pang of regret—
Nothing you would not be glad to forget,
And never know after the ball?

The haunts we so loved, are they murmuring still
In their dark robes of green—the clear singing rill
At the foot of the spicy birch tree?
Do the choir in the wildwood sing gayly as when
We wandered together in that love-haunted glen
And praised their rare minstrelsy?

Could my steps but keep pace with the wings of my mind,
I would leave this fair land and its treasures behind
And roam over meadow and wold;
The hill-side and valley again I'd retrace,
Your true hand to lead, I would visit each place
We loved once so fondly of old.

Fling back the curtain and let in the light,
This is a scene that is sacred to-night,
And yearly its bliss I recall;
And while youth is treading its light mazes through
I'll linger a moment, beloved, with you,
In memory of "After the Ball."

And now when life's giddy waltzes are done,
When the lights are all out and the dancers are gone,
With the pleasures that come at our call,
Will you sit in your cozy arm chair and repeat
The low whispered words so wonderous sweet,
The parting just after the ball?

AKITA, IOWA.

A CHEROKEE POET.

Tempestuous Life of a Civilized and Educated Red Man.

THE subject of this sketch was born in the Cherokee country, on the Oos-te-nah-ly River, at what is now the flourishing city of Rome, Ga., on March 19, 1827. His father, Gen. John Ridge, a full-blood Indian, was the popular chief of the powerful Cherokee tribe. His mother, a highly educated lady, was the daughter of Judge Northrup, of Connecticut. The family moved with the tribe to the present Cherokee reservation in the Indian Territory in 1837. Dissension soon arose among the tribe, because of their enforced removal from the home of their fathers, which were cunningly fomented by John Ross, a rival chieftain, who was jealous of the popularity and power of Chief Ridge, which finally culminated on June 30, 1839, in the cold-blooded murder of General Ridge and his aged father, in the presence of the family, by the adherents of Ross, who seized the supreme power, and remained chief until about the close of the late civil war between the States, when he died.

"Yellow-Bird," then a boy of 12 years of age, an eyewitness to this atrocious murder, in a letter thus describes the incident:

"The removal of the Indians West had fomented discontents of the darkest and deadliest nature. The ignorant Indians, unable to vent their age upon the whites, turned their wrath towards their own chiefs, and chose to hold them responsible for what had happened. John Ross made use of these prejudices to establish his own power. He held a secret counsel and plotted the death of my father and grandfather, Ka-nun-ta-kla-ge and Boudinot and others who were friendly to those men. These bloody deeds were perpetrated under circumstances of peculiar aggravation.

"On the morning of June 22, 1839, about daybreak, our family was aroused from sleep by a violent noise; the doors were broken down and the house was filled with armed men. I saw my father in the hands of assassins. He endeavored to speak to them, but they shouted and drowned his voice, for they were ordered not to listen to him for a moment, for fear they might be persuaded not to kill him. They dragged him into the yard and prepared to murder him. Two strong men held him by the arms, while others stabbed him deliberately with long dirk knives twenty-nine times. My mother rushed to the door, but they pushed her back into the house with their guns, and prevented her egress until the act was finished. My father fell to the earth, but did not expire for a few minutes. My mother ran out to him. He raised himself on his elbow and tried to speak, but the blood flowed into his mouth and prevented him. In a few brief moments he died, without speaking the last word which he wished to say. Then succeeded a scene of agony, the sight of which makes one regret that the human race had ever been created. It has darkened my life with an eternal shadow. In a room prepared for the purpose lay pale in death the man whose voice had been listened to with awe and admiration in the councils of his nation, and whose fame as an orator, a statesman and a soldier had passed to the remotest of the United States, the blood oozing through his winding-sheet and falling, drop by drop, to the floor. By his side sat my stricken mother, with her hands clasped, and in speechless agony—she who had given him her heart in her youth and beauty, and, leaving her parents, had followed the husband of her choice from her home of wealth and culture to a wild and distant land; and bending over him was his own afflicted mother, with her long white hair flowing loose over her shoulders and bosom, crying to the Great Spirit to sustain her in that dreadful hour; and in addition to all these—the wife, the mother, and the little children, who scarcely knew their loss—were the dark faces of those who had been privy to the assassination, who had come to smile over the terrible scene."

John Rollin Ridge, or Chees-quat-alaw-ne, his Indian name (signifying "Yellow Bird"), was educated at Fayetteville, Ark., and graduated with distinguished honors at Great Barrington, Mass. He was first cousin to the gallant Colonel E. C. Boudinot, so well known to the people of Texas as the leader of a regiment of Indians in the Confederate army, and who has been for years the representative of his people at the national capital.

At the breaking out of the California gold fever, in 1849, Yellow Bird emigrated to that country, and engaged in placer mining in Shasta County, where this writer, then a small boy, learned to love and honor him for his manly virtues, his kindly sympathy, and brilliant intellect. His idle moments were devoted to the muses, and his numerous poems (I now have them in book form), published in the provincial papers of that day, were extensively reproduced in the literary journals of the country, and met with distinguished popular favor. Gifted with a commanding physique, irresistible personal magnetism, and a classical education, combined with an exceptional wealth of imagery and fluency of language, he became one of the most popular writers of the day. He was a vigorous and incisive political writer, and edited with marked ability one of the leading daily journals of the State; but his devotion to the arts and sciences and the higher branches of literature disinclined him to engage permanently in the partisan warfare which prevailed in California in the early years following its admission into the Federal Union. Some of his fugitive pieces possessed such remarkable literary merit as to attract the attention of the profoundest thinkers and ablest writers of the age.

A few years since, while our poet was visiting the national capital, where his genius was recognized and greatly admired, Miss Vinnie Ream (now Mrs. Hoxie), a lady known to fame for her genius as a sculptress, and whose cunning hand created from cold marble some of the most beautiful statuary which now adorns the most stately capitol of the world, requested Yellow Bird to write her a little Indian love song. Without preparation or thought, on the impulse of the moment, he wrote this little gem, which has been set to music, and become one of the most popular melodies at the capital:

I LOVE THEE.

I love thee as the soaring bird
The bright, blue morning
When he sings;
In circling, circling melodies,
With heaven's sweet sunlight
On his wings.
I love thee as the billows love
In tropic lands the Pearly shore;
They come and go, they come and go,
With answering kisses
Evermore.
I love thee as the mariner,
Far driven o'er the Stormy sea,
The bright and silver rising-star,
Which tells him where his Home may be.
I love thee, ever, ever shall,
Thine eyes, their bright and
Glorious light
Dwell in my soul forevermore,
Illumining its
Deeps of night.

GEORGE F. ALFORD.

Shipped for One Trip.

One day in early spring of the year 1888, the revenue cutter Andrew Johnson steamed into the harbor of Frankfort, a little town in the northern part of Michigan, and made fast to the dock. The vessel was to be painted, and for several days "all hands" were busily employed. After supper, on the second day, the quartermaster at the gangway espied a small red squirrel playing on the wharf.

His curiosity being aroused he watched the little fellow and noticed that he was gradually nearing the gang-plank. Soon he stopped at the other end, and sitting on his haunches, looked inquiringly at the big sailor, who laughingly accosted him with:

"Would you like to come on board?

As if he had understood the polite invitation, the would-be traveler almost immediately scampered up the plank, jumped over the bulwarks and ran down the gangway, to the great amusement of the quartermaster, as well as of one or two others who witnessed the incident.

A search was made for the young stowaway, but he had effectually hidden himself, and was not seen again until the vessel was far out on the lake, on the second day following. Then he was observed apparently searching for food.

Bread and corn-meal were scattered about for him, and quickly disappeared in a way to indicate a very good appetite. Fnding that he was not molested, he became quite tame, and was a great pet with all on board.

When we made the first port after leaving Frankfort, it was supposed that he would leave us, and necessarily be logged as a "deserter," but such was not the case. He evidently had no intention of leaving, for although we stopped at many places during the next three weeks and he went on shore regularly, he never failed to return on time, and was with us when the vessel again ran into Frankfort harbor.

Much interest was now manifested, both by officers and men, to see what the little passenger would do. He did not keep us waiting long. When the ship was made fast to the dock and the boatswain had "piped down," our young friend came up, took a look at the wharf to assure himself that it was indeed his old home, and quickly, without saying good-by, ran down the gang-plank, and was soon out of sight.

We never saw him again, but could he have been followed, no doubt an interesting scene would have been witnessed when he rejoined his family. What a wonderful story he had to tell! and what a hero he must be hereafter in the eyes of squirrels who never took a free ride on a Government ship!—Youth's Companion.

The Small Boy's Scheme.

"Gimme a nickel's worth of buckshot," said a St. Paul gamin wearing somewhat disordered raiment. His head just topped the counter in a bazar devoted to sporting goods.

"I suppose he will load them into a rusty pistol and accidentally shoot some one of his intimate friends," suggested a bystander.

"Oh, no," replied the proprietor of the gun store; "he has no firearms. He is going in to beat the nickel-in-the-slot scheme, and I suppose I am particeps criminis."

"How?"

"Why, he will put them on the street-car track; the car will convert them into the exact size of nickles and pennies, and, of course, you can anticipate the financial panic liable to ensue in St. Paul shortly, with a gum machine at almost every corner."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Outgrown His Father.

Mr. Hawbeck—You ain't seen my son afore, have yer?

City Visitor—Why, no. Very likely boy, isn't he? Takes after his father.

Mr. Hawbeck—You bet he does, when he gets riled. Took after me four times 'round th' barn this mornin' 'cause I spoke kind 'r irritated to him.—Judge.

An edge-tool trust is the latest addition to that class of combinations. The projectors should remember that some tools cut both ways.

THIS is an age when everything goes, except the bore and the Sunday-night caller.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

MANY CURIOUS, INTERESTING, AND USEFUL FACTS.

Origin and History of April Fool's Day—The Startling Immensity of Space—To Avoid the Lightning's Stroke—A Budget of Notes of Popular Interest.

BY PROF. J. F. ELSOM.

April Fool.

"April first stands marked by custom's rules,
A day of being and of making fools."

The origin of this day of practical jokes seem a trifle obscure. By some the custom has been traced to the scene in the life of Jesus when he was sent from Pilate to Herod, then back from Herod to Pilate, which occurred at this time. Away back nearly a hundred years in the Clavis Calendaria mention is made of the first of April as "All Fools' Day," and Scotland's poetry and song is replete with anecdotes and jokes perpetrated on this day, and among the Hindoos a day of fooleries, the Ifuli Fest, is also observed. Among the Hindoos all kinds of jokes and like silly species of witticisms are saved for this day.

By many it is believed that the term "all" is a corruption of "auld" or "old," thus making it "Old Fools' Day," in support of which a very ancient Roman calendar speaks respecting the first of April, "the feast of old fools is remained to this day." but the oldest almanacs extant all have it "All Fools' Day." Again, with the Roman Saturnalia and the Druidical rites, superstitions which the early Christians found in existence when they began their labors in England, was the Festum Fatuorum, or Fool's Holiday, which was our first of April. In a few of the German classics frequent mention is made of the Aprilon narr, so that even the Germans of the olden time knew how to practice their cunning April arts upon their neighbors quite as well as we of the present day.

Enough is known to prove the custom of very ancient origin, but perhaps the precise origin is unknown, all positive statements made regarding the custom being based mostly on conjecture. Suffice to say it is very, very old, and outside of the slight tinge of superstition and mustiness surrounding it, all of this day and age feel free to confess their dislike and declare it a nuisance. In short, the custom itself, however originating, is "more honored in the breach than in the observance."

The Immensity of Space.

Few people have the faintest conception of the immensity of space. We stand and look around, but how far the eye can penetrate no tongue can tell. We look at a distant star, we see it night after night, and would continue to do so if it should be destroyed; it takes so long for its light to reach the earth that a person looking a hundred years would fail to miss it. If the sun were a ball of fire, as the ancients supposed it to be, and a person had an arm sufficiently long to reach it, he might hold it there and burn it on the sun for centuries and would never feel it, it would take so long for the sensitive nerves to convey the pain to the brain that distance, nearly a hundred million of miles. Think of it! The diameter of the sun, small as it appears to us, is seven hundred and seventy thousand geographical miles, the earth but eight thousand, or one hundred and twelve times smaller than the sun. The volume of the sun is one million four hundred and seven thousand one hundred and twenty-four times greater than the earth, and six hundred times greater than that of all the planets known to astronomers taken together; its aggregate mass is three hundred and fifty-nine thousand five hundred and fifty-one times greater than the earth, and seven hundred and thirty-eight times greater than all the rest of the planets put together. A single spot seen upon its surface has been estimated by astronomers and the leading mathematicians to extend over an area of seventy-seven thousand miles in diameter, and a cluster of spots have been estimated by the same authorities to include an area of three million seven hundred and eighty thousand miles. When we bring ordinary mathematics to bear in measuring these spaces, weighing these weights, it is almost equivalent to an attempt to measure the water of a lake with a chemist's graduate, or the depths and weight of an ocean with a draughtsman's compass and protractor.

Comets.

The ocean, as well as the land, has its different botanical regions; and changes of vegetation are observable with the depth analogous to the variations of terrestrial planets with the height. Marine vegetation seems to have its vertical extent determined by the range of light in the water, which varies with the power of the sun and the transparency of the water.

This marvelous age, this century of gigantic intellectual achievement, has been especially rich in brilliant comets visible to the naked eye. The large comet of 1811 was exceedingly fine; the head measured one hundred and twelve millions of miles in diameter, and the tail was no less than one hundred and twelve millions of miles in length. The comet of 1843 was visible in full day, and of all comets known it approached nearest to the sun. Donati's comet, in 1858, is the most famous of modern times.

Notes of Daily Interest.

VOLCANOES rarely, if ever, are more than five miles deep.

THE eye of the beetle has upward of twenty-five thousand facets.

SPRINGS of fresh water rise in most all the seas known.

THERE are rivers in the ocean as well as on the land.

RANCID oils convert vegetable blues into red—a delicate test.

WATER-SPOUTS seldom last longer than thirty or forty minutes.

How to Raise Boys.

Mrs. Hobbs (parent of an infant terror and several half-grown terrors)—Well, Mr. Hobbs, since you are so dissatisfied with the way I am raising our darling Willie, maybe you will condescend to inform me how you would raise boys.

Hobbs—Certainly; every boy ought to be kept in a hogshead and fed through the bunghole until he is 12 years of age.

"And when he reaches the age of 12?"

"Stop up the bunghole."

MEN are like drums—the one with the big head makes the most noise.

The Mexican Lover.

A Mexican lover must woo in patience, as his intentions are, from the start, treated as a family matter by the parents of the beloved of his soul. He is bound by custom to make known to his lady love his desire to pay his addresses. If the communication is pleasant, he is referred to the mother, and the siege of the maiden's heart may be said to be begun. Custom compels the youth to execute a movement called "Playing the bear," which consists of a daily afternoon promenade before the shaded jalousie, behind which sits the maiden, flanked by her mother, sisters, female cousins, and aunts.

Before such a battery of black eyes the suitor must pace back and forth at least twenty minutes a day. He may toss a note up into the jalousie, if so he has sufficient courage to face the party, but his missives are read by the mother before they are delivered to his lady love. His love may answer the notes, but her replies must be read and edited by her mother before they are given to the stately senior pacing up and down in the blazing tropical sun. If the suitor is approved by the family he is soon permitted to talk to the senorita, still in the presence of her family.

Ere long he is allowed to call, and thenceforth the wooing progresses more in accordance with American views.—New York Ledger.

A Very Faint Resemblance.

A female, who is always fishing for compliments, asked Col. Yerger if he heard Patti sing when she was in this country.

"Yes, I am personally acquainted with her."

"Now, tell me candidly, don't you think me and Patti resemble each other just a little?"

There was an awkward pause, and finally Col. Yerger replied:

"Yes, I think I do perceive som little resemblance."

"You mean her voice was a little like mine?"

"O, no, not in the least, but you resemble each other very much about the ears."

"You mean we both have fine ears for music?"

"I don't mean that. I mean Patti wears ear-rings and so do you."—Texas Siftings.

The Blessing of Strong Nerves

Is recoverable, not by the use of mineral sedatives, but by a recourse to effectual tonic treatment. Opiates and the like should only be used as auxiliaries, and then as sparingly as possible. Vigorous nerves are quiet ones, and the most direct way to render them so is to reenforce the vital energies. That sterling invigorant, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will be found all-sufficient for this purpose, since it entirely removes impediments to thorough digestion and assimilation of the food, so that the body is insured its due amount of nourishment, and consequently of stamina. Rheumatic tendencies and affections of the kidneys and bladder are also counteracted by the Bitters, which is besides a pleasant medicinal stimulant, infinitely purer than the raw excitants of commerce, which react injuriously upon the nervous system.

Holding Out Hopes.

Police Justice (to prisoner)—Where were you last June?

Prisoner (impudently)—I can't remember to save my life. I had a different name last June from the one I have now, so I can't remember whether I was in New York or Chicago. This having so many different names, and being in so many different places, is apt to confuse the best of us.

Police Justice—I hold you over for trial, and I think I can hold out hopes that before you get through with the law, you will learn to stay in one place, and instead of having three or four names you will not have any name at all. You will go by a number, after this.—Texas Siftings.

To-Night and To-Morrow Night,

And each day and night during this week you can get at all druggists' Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, acknowledged to be the most successful remedy ever sold for the cure of Coughs, Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Asthma and Consumption. Get a bottle to-day and keep it always in the house, so you can check your cold at once. Price 50c and $1.00. Sample bottle free.

A Scriptural Tramp.

Tramp (to the conductor, about to put him off for non-payment of fare)—Are you a Christian?

Conductor—I hope I am.

"And do you follow the precepts of the New Testament?"

"I try to but what has that got to do with my putting you off?"

"It has a great deal to do with it. The Bible says, 'Put not off until to-morrow.'"

"That's all right so far as it goes, but I reach a little farther and do 'that which should be done to-day.'"

And he bounced him out.—Texas Siftings.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

Too High a Valuation.

Customer (to bird fancier)—My wife wants a parrot. What's the lowest you will take for that bird?

Bird Fancier—Fifty dollars, sir, is rock bottom.

Parrot—Come off, you've tried to sell me for twenty!—Life.

A MAN who has practiced medicine for forty years ought to know salt from sugar. Read what he says:

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most forty years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful; and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions.

Yours truly, L. L. GORSUCH, M. D.
Office, 215 Summit street.

We will give $100 for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

☞ Sold by druggists, 75c.

Female Mendacity.

"How old are you, Fanny?" asked Tommy Peterby, of the little daughter of a neighbor.

"I'm 5 years old," replied Fanny.

"She is telling a lie," said Fanny's brother, who was present. "She was 7 on her last birthday."

"Ah," said Johnny, "thats the way it is with these women; they are always making themselves out younger than they really are."—Texas Siftings.

"Fair Play"

is all that is asked for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, when taken for catarrh in the head, or for bronchial or throat affections, or lung scrofula (commonly known as consumption of the lungs), and if taken in time, and given a fair trial, it will cure or the money paid for it will be refunded. It is the only guaranteed cure.

CLEANSE the liver, stomach, bowels, and whole system by using Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

A Financial Move.

Mr. Isaacstein—Repecca, go over dot neighbor to and get changed a five-dollar bill.

Mrs. Isaacstein—Vat for, Jacob? Ve have blenty small changes dot house in.

Mr. Isaacstein—Do vat I told you. He vash a leetle rattled from drinking and maybe he give you a nickle too much in dot change.—Texas Siftings.

What Everybody Says

must be true, and the universal verdict of those who have used Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and Strengthening Plasters is that there is no doubt of their curative qualities. E. Larzelere, agent M. C. R. R., Albion, Mich., says "he was cured of Bright's disease" by the use of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup.

Mrs. M. E. Jones, Prairie City, Iowa, says: "For three years I have been afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism and kidney and liver troubles. I have taken Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and applied their Plasters over my stomach and am entirely cured. It is the greatest remedy that I have ever used."

First ask your druggist; should he not keep it, we will send on receipt of price, $1 per bottle or six for $5.

RHEUMATIC SYRUP CO.,
Jackson, Mich.

THE creosote in toothache drops administered to a New York boy cured the pain but killed the boy.

The Finest on Earth.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad is the only line running Through Reclining Chair Cars between Cincinnati, Keokuk and Springfield, Ill., and the only direct line between Cincinnati, Dayton, Lima, Toledo, Detroit, the Lake Regions and Canada.

The road is one of the oldest in the State of Ohio, and the only line entering Cincinnati over twenty-five miles of double track, and from its past record can more than assure its patrons speed, comfort and safety.

Tickets on sale everywhere, and see that they read C. H. & D., either in or out of Cincinnati, Indianapolis or Toledo.

E. O. McCORMICK,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.

A COLD climate is hard to bear, but it makes men robust and active. People in very warm countries lead a rather shiftless life.—Texas Siftings.

Home Seekers' Excursions.

The Chicago and North-Western Railway Company has arranged for a series of excursions from Chicago to points in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Idaho and Montana, for which tickets will be sold at half rates. For full information apply to ticket agents, or address E. P. Wilson, General Passenger Agent Chicago & North-Western Railway, Chicago, Ill.

A LITTLE BOY came to his mother recently and said, "Mamma, I should think that if I was made of dust, I would get muddy inside when I drink."

Says the Southern Medical World:

"Mother's Friend" is growing in favor throughout the South and is highly recommended by physicians. We consider it indispensable to those who know they must pass through the ordeal of childbirth. Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by all druggists.

"WHAT have you to remark about my singing?" asked an irate vocalist. "Nothing," replied a spectator; "it is not remarkable."

Six Novels Free, will be sent by Cragin & Co., Philada., Pa., to any one in the U. S. or Canada, postage paid, upon receipt of 25 Dobbins' Electric Soap wrappers. See list of novels on circulars around each bar. Soap for sale by all grocers.

THE young ladies' best friend—their looking-glass. Because it always gives them "aids to reflection."

TESTED BY TIME. For bronchial affections, Coughs, etc., BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES have proved their efficacy by a test of many years. Price 25 cts.

MRS. McCURRY, of Buzzard Roost, Whitfield county, Ga., held out as long as she dared, and then at 108 was baptized.

BEST, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

THE front steps are deserted now. The season has passed when she stoops to conquer.—Boston Budget.

Beware of imitations—"Tansill's Punch."

A NEW YORK woman has been sentenced to one month's imprisonment for attempting to commit suicide.

You Need It Now

To impart strength and give a feeling of health and vigor throughout the system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems peculiarly adapted to overcome that tired feeling caused by change of season, climate or life, and while it tones and sustains the system it purifies and renovates the blood. We earnestly urge the large army of clerks, book-keepers, teachers, housewives, operatives and others who have been closely confined during the winter, and who need a good spring medicine, to take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I suffered a great while with dyspepsia. A friend urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and two bottles have entirely cured me of dyspepsia and a scrofulous affection. I can hardly find words to express my high appreciation of it." ALLEN H. MELHOM, City Hotel, Lancaster, Pa.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me of blood poison, gave me a noble appetite, overcame headache and dizziness, so that now I am able to work again." LUTHER NASON, 53 Church St., Lowell, Mass.

At no other season does the human system so much need the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla as now. The impoverished condition of the blood, the weakening effects of the long, cold winter, the lost appetite, and that tired feeling, all make a good spring medicine absolutely necessary. Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiarly adapted for this purpose, and increases in popularity every year. Give it a trial.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla is the cheapest medicine I can buy." F. R. RIEDEL, Belleville, Ill.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"Every spring for years I have made it a practice to take from three to five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, because I know it purifies the blood and thoroughly cleanses the system of all impurities. That languid feeling, sometimes called 'spring fever,' will never visit the system that has been properly cared for by this never-failing remedy." W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor Agricultural Epitomist, Indianapolis, Ind.

N. B. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PENSIONS If you want your pension without delay, put your claim in the hands of JOSEPH H. HUNTER, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

PENSION Send stamp for NEW laws, and copy of the DEPENDENT and PER-DIEM service pension bills before Congress. BELLUM MILLER, Att'y, Washington, D.C.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

FAT FOLKS using "Anti-Corpulene Pills" lose 15 lbs. a month. They cause no sickness, contain no poison and never fail. Sold by Druggists everywhere or sent by mail. Particulars (sealed) 4c. Dr. Wilcox's Specific Co., Phila., Pa.

Society Jealousies.

"You needn't put on no airs, you yaller-faced piece. We keeps a cow, and has got a pew in de Blue Light Tabernacle, besides," were the words of Miss Matilda Snowball, who is as black as night, to a saddle-colored friend.

"I don't keer of we habn't got no cow. We keeps a goat, and my mudder is gwine to hab a carbuncle on de back ob her neck," was the crushing reply.—Texas Siftings.

A Rare Probability.

Dumley (to whom Brown has just related a somewhat incredible story)—I don't believe, Brown, that such a thing could happen!

Brown—Happen? Why, my wife saw it happen only this morning!

Dumley (apologetically)—Oh, I beg pardon; if Mrs. Brown saw it happen, and told you the story herself, why, of course there is a possibility of its being true.—Life.

March, April, May are the Months
when the Blood should be renovated with Ayer's Sarsaparilla
and the System fortified
for the change of Seasons.
Prepared by
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

COPYRIGHT 1889

"Her grace of motion, and of look, the smooth
And swimming majesty of step and tread,
The symmetry of form and feature, set
The soul afloat, even like delicious airs
Of flute and harp."

For her matchless look of grace and motion, this regal beauty was indebted to perfect health, restored by the use of that unequaled, invigorating tonic and nervine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which set in healthy action every function and gave purity and richness to the blood. For delicate, feeble, nervous women, it is an inestimable boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It is invaluable in subduing nervous excitability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. See guarantee printed on every bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years. Manufactured by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. One a dose. Sold by druggists.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

25 CTS Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists. 25 CTS

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF

MONT.
DAKOTA
NEBRASKA
WISCONSIN
ILLINOIS
MISSOURI
GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PENSIONS PATENTS, CLAIMS. Send for Circulars. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Att'y at Law, Washington, D.C.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

N. U. F. W........................No. 15—90

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

NEW DRESS FABRICS,
SPECIAL SPRING ATTRACTIONS.

DRESS GOODS. Lovely imported novelty dress goods, Fringed, Braded, Panels, open work effects, etc. French Henriettas, 4 inch wide, two grades at unusually low prices, 50 and 75 cents.

MOHAIRS. Colored and Black, Plains, Plaids, Stripes, all the new spring shades, at 25 cents and up to 75 cents.

CHALLIES. 45 different styles, all wool, 30 inches wide, in dark, light and medium colors, very fine and choice styles,

CARPETS. Wiltons,
Axminsters,
Moquetts,
Brussels,
Ingrains,
Confined patterns not to be seen elsewhere.

40-inch All-Wool Cloths,
Handsome Stripes, at 45 and 50 cts a yd.

Beautiful new wash fabrics, Ginghams, Sateens, Battistes, etc.

We invite you to send for samples.

ROOT & COMPANY.

Many men of many minds,
Many Soaps of many kinds,
Many persons ought to know,
Many Soaps are made for show.
But none are there, that stand the test
Like SANTA CLAUS,
it is THE BEST.
If you want your WASHING, SCRUBBING,
SCOURING and CLEANING
made easy, use SANTA CLAUS SOAP,
AND DONT YOU FORGET IT!!!
MADE ONLY BY
N.K.FAIRBANK & Co. ÷ CHICAGO.
THE SWALLOW AND THE RAVEN.
The Swallow and the Raven contended which was the finer bird. The Raven ended by saying: "Your beauty is but for the summer, but mine will stand many winters." Durability is better than show.

ECKHART CARRIAGE COMPANY,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

MOUNTED WITH THE HERBRAND GEAR IRONS.

BETTER STYLES, BETTER FACILITIES, BETTER WORK, Better Accommodations.

FOR the past sixteen years we have made and sold to the people of DeKalb County, Buggies and Carriages of all kinds, and have always justified our claim that we POSITIVELY make the BEST in the COUNTRY for the money, until now it has become a common saying that if you want a GOOD BUGGY, one that will stand the knocks,

BUY THE ECKHART BUGGY.

WE have handsomer and more thoroughly made work this year than ever before and expect to be able to furnish our customers, this year, without delay. For the accommodation of our customers we have established the following repositories:

At St. Joe, Ind., under the management of J. K. Stafford.
At Butler, Ind., " " " " Maxwell & Shoub.
At Corunna, Ind., " " " " P. N. Calkin.
At LaOtto, Ind., " " " " E. A. Ditmars.

WHERE we will at all times keep a full line. We will also keep our Repository at our Factory well filled with the styles most in demand.

Patrons of Industry of Indiana.

In reply to the many inquiries as to the objects and aims of the Patrons of Industry as organized in the State of Indiana, we give the following answer: The object of the organization is first to form the nucleus of a grand fraternity of all who live by their own industry, excluding therefrom only those who are engaged in the retail sale of goods, wares and merchandise, and in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors and their sale, to be used as a beverage; to aid in binding together all such persons in fraternal bonds, and in all ways to promote their intellectual, moral, social and material welfare; and to secure, if possible, concerted action upon the part of all such persons in all matters wherein they have common interest, thereby giving to each individual member the benefit of co-operation, and united and concerted action by all. With this object in view, our aim is to organize clubs in every township in this State. These township organizations to form parts of a county organization, and the county organizations to form one grand State organization. Ten or more persons to constitute a township club, to whom charters will be issued empowering them with the right under the laws of Indiana, to enter into contracts for the purchase of goods, wares and merchandise on any terms that may be mutually agreed as to the per cent. of profit the seller is to have on his or her goods. But it is understood and agreed on by the buyer that in all cases, he or she is to pay cash or its equivalent to entitle them to the reduction that is made to them by the seller. One of the great aims of the organization is to do away with the credit system. All meetings of this organization are to be open to the public, as there is nothing about our work that needs to be kept secret. The Patrons of Industry as organized in the State of Michigan, is a secret organization. They are seeking to get a foothold in this State. In the first place they have no legal organization in Indiana. Their articles of association are not on file in the Secretary of State's office, and being a foreign corporation, they can not file any papers with the Secretary that will legalize their acts in this State. Secondly, one of the objects of this organization in Indiana is to have it conducted on the most economical plan possible. School houses are being used for the purpose of holding the meetings. The township trustees readily consent to their use. But it should be borne in mind that no trustee has a right, under the laws of Indiana to allow its school houses to be used as hall for the holding of secret meetings. They are the property of the public, and no citizen should be locked out, or in any way deprived of his right as a citizen and tax payer. Should any person enter or attend any meeting with the intent to interfere with the work of the association, there is ample provision made under our State laws for punishment for such interference, and the right guaranteed for ejectment from the room of all such intruders. At all meetings held by the patrons of industry, it is intended that subjects should be discussed that will have a tendency to elevate all those who take a part in these organizations. One important thing that we wish to impress on the minds of the people, is that this organization was not founded for the purpose of breaking down the men who are established in business in the different villages, towns and cities of this State. It is not the intention to raise funds for the purpose of building houses or mills, or to start stores or work shops. We are willing to allow all persons that desire to put their money into that line of business, to do so without any interference on our part. But we claim it as a right that we shall be permitted to buy any and all goods, wares and merchandise of those that are so engaged in business, at a reasonable profit to the seller. We fail to find a merchant anywhere who will not admit that he can afford to sell his goods for much less for cash, or its equivalent, than to sell on time with the uncertainty of making collections. No dead beat need apply for membership in this organization; it would do him no good. Each member receives a certificate, showing him or her to be a member of a certain council, and entitled to the reduction that has been agreed on for cash payment. The purchase of goods at a reduced price, is one of the minor objects we have in view. The organization is non-partisan, and will embrace men of all political parties. No farmer or laborer in any of the trades or professions that have given the matter a thought, but will admit that many of the existing laws of our State are unjust and oppressive to those that labor with their hands and brains to make their living. We hope to be able to make our organization so strong that we may be able to go before our next legislature and demand changes in existing laws that will be a saving of many thousand dollars to the tax-payers of Indiana. There is another feature in our organization that we think will commend it to the intelligent. We particularly urge it as a duty of every farmer and laborer that he should take one or more farm journals. For this State we urge the importance of taking the Indiana Farmer. We are glad to know that they are in full accord with us in the work of organizing the farmers and working men of our own State. Through its columns the Patrons will learn of the progress the order is making in Indiana, and each and every copy if carefully read and the advice given is followed out, will more than pay for a year's subscription. Believing that the foregoing will give all who desire to know what are the aims and objects of the organization, we will only add that the expense is small for membership, and the dues collected quarterly are all retained by the subordinate councils. For copies of charter or further information write Emory G. Melendy, Secretary, Fremont, Ind.

Respectfully,
R. M. LOCKHART, President
Waterloo, Ind.

What Druggists Say About it.

Hutchinson Bros., Druggists, Atlanta, Ga., voice the opinion of all the Atlanta Druggists by saying: "We have sold large quantities of your Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure, and have never known any other preparation to give such universal satisfaction as a remedy for rheumatism. We consider it the most reliable rheumatic cure on the market." All druggists sell it at $1 per bottle. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga., Proprietors; also, manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure for coughs, colds, asthma and consumption.

The production of gold in California began in 1848, the year being $9,000,000; in the year following, $40,000,000, and $50,000,000 in 1850, Total gold product of that state to date is estimated at $1,125,000,000.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Mystic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action on the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 c. We sell and warrant it. Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

See Holman's notice of selling goods at cost at Cedar Creek. Big bargains

That McClellan Article.

Early last week a few of the faithful of the grand old party of morality (?) of this and other towns of the district received from some mysterious source packages of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, containing a very lurid letter purporting to have been written from Auburn, and reflecting severely on the personal and business character of Judge McClellan. It was signed "W. H. S.," these being the initials of W. H. Smith, the well-known, and infamous correspondent of that paper. His effusions have for some years, been a standing disgrace to the state, and a menace to the good name of all newspaperdom. He is too well known to be credited by men of ordinary information for his lying screeds have defamed every part of the state, which has been cursed by his notice. He is the same man who has been fighting for the old school book rings, and who is still doing their outside lying. It is not known that he has ever been in Auburn. And if he has, those he met will no doubt be ashamed to own they saw him. They ought to be at least. We had heard of the precious document, before going to press last week, but could not procure a copy till later. We have read the article carefully, and cannot repress an expression of astonishment, that God, in His infinite mercy, should let such a liar live on the earth. The article is simply infamous in its falsehoods, at least in so far as we have any knowledge of the points it makes. It begins by saying that Congressman McClellan "never earned a dollar honestly," then goes on to call up many things that have really happened in this county, and attaches the Judge's name to each, when as a matter of fact, the Judge had nothing whatever to do, even as a lawyer, with most of them. A sample lie, is that in which he is accused of making $50,000 out of our gas company. The writer says he managed to run the company into debt, and then bought up the shares for a song, clearing in this way the $50,000. The editor of this paper is a stockholder in the company, and without consulting any of the officers, our recollection is that only $14,000 was ever paid in on the stock. And if this were to be considerably depreciated, and the Judge should then buy it up, it would take all the brilliant imagination of this iridescent liar, to swell it to the proportions named. But the Judge has not, to our knowledge, ever bought up a share of the stock, and we believe the original owners still hold their shares. We can only notice this one point, as giving a sample of the whole article. A liar is generally a coward, and this case offers no exceptions to the rule. W. H. S., after exhausting his venom on the Judge, makes an assault on Mrs. McClellan herself. We had thought while reading the other lies, that infamy could descend to no lower depths. But to assail a woman requires even a lower instinct, and to this point W. H. S. has reached. He can now blazon on his shield "I have lied about a woman," and carry that proudly to the camp of those who are evidently able to appreciate such a glorious performance We assure him, his achievements in this line are not appreciated in Auburn, the home of Mr. and Mrs. McClellan, in quite the way he had evidently hoped. If any Auburn citizen gave him the items of his article, he does not represent the decent or the honorable portion of our people, on either side of politics. Our people of all shades of opinion unite in denouncing the infamous screed that has attempted to defame a well known and honored citizen and his no less honored wife. The writer and his informant, should they ever make themselves public in Auburn, would probably meet with a reception that would make them famous, though not, perhaps, happy. The attempt to bring the "cashier" into the article is no less infamous than the rest. We suppose the cowardly scoundrel who is responsible for the letter meant, W. H. McIntyre, who is the cashier of the First National Bank. The attempt to defame him will prove just as abortive as the other. The silliness of the whole article is relieved only by its brilliant lying. In our youth we read "Baron Munchausen," and till now, his memory, has been that of the boss liar of all climes and ages. But this last effort of "W. H. S." has made the world-famous liar's efforts seem feeble and childish.

Wood vs Powell.

The newspaper libel case of Dr. F. B. Wood, of Garrett, against O. J. Powell, editor of the Garrett Herald, came to trial last Thursday. As had been predicted, it proved a ridiculous fiasco. We will give its leading features in brief, believing that the case will be of interest. In July of last year, there appeared in the Garrett Herald, an article reflecting on Dr. Wood, including a letter from his former home, in Big Rapids, Mich. As this article was the result of an old difficulty between Dr. Wood and Mr. Powell, the doctor felt aggrieved, and brought suit against Powell for criminal libel. The case was delayed for one reason or another till last week. In fact it was not believed that the case would ever be pressed to trial. In the meantime Powell had moved to Lexington, Mo., and started the Saturday Herald. This term of court he was notified to appear. From here he went to Big Rapids, where he procured a copy of the court docket to the trial of Wood on a criminal charge, this being the part of the Herald article to which Wood had objected. Powell also got the affidavits of the sheriff and his deputy. Armed with these as a defense he waited for the trial, which was set for Thursday at 10 a. m. Powell and his attorneys, Penfield and Blattner, were ready. Wood had for his attorney, it being a state case, Prosecutor Bratton, and had also engaged Hon. D. D. Moody to assist. It was between two and three o'clock in the afternoon, when the doctor was got into court. The prosecutor addressed the jury, showed them the complaint with a clipping from the Herald, attached, and read the article to them. Wood was put on the stand. He stated he had no copy of the paper in which the libel had appeared. He had two copies. From one, he had cut the clipping attached to the affidavit and had given this and the whole copy to Mr. Moody. Now, the whole copy could not be found. The prosecution wanted to go on and prove by outside evidence that the article had appeared in the Herald. Judge Powers decided that this could not be done, that a paper with the article actually in it, must be shown. Counsel said they could not get a copy, though it was evident they did not care much about it, for copies of county papers can always be procurred by those who want them. It was evidently a plan to let their case drop out easily. The prosecutor admitted they could go no further, as they had given Wood a month or two to get his proofs ready. So Penfield got the case submitted to the jury. They were in their room less than two minutes when they brought in a verdict of not guilty. No one who knows Mr. Powell, will believe he would slander any one. As a moral man, a conscientious, law-abiding citizen he has always stood high here. Mr. Powell is a republican editor. The writer of this is a democratic editor of the fighting kind. But a difference in political faith shall not deter us from expressing our faith in his good character and honesty, and our belief that he had a good defense and that the case against him was uncalled for. The point on which the case was decided will be of interest to newspaper men, at least.

CREAMERY GOODS.

We are prepared to furnish at wholesale prices anything in the line of creamery goods. We call special attention to Wilson's Cabinet Creamery, the latest and best. We give you a five days test and ask no pay till satisfied. Wilson's Barrel Churn, Self-locking Cans for tanks, Butter Workers, etc. Send for circulars and prices, or call at Wilson's shoe store, Auburn and Waterloo. J. N. Wilson & Son general agents for Flint Cabinet Creamery Co. 13-15

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Ann Murray deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WILLIAM SEELY, administrator.

March 29th, 1890. 3t

For All Kinds Of

Finest Millinery, Notions, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Furnishing Goods,

And Articles for Fancy Work, it will pay you to call on

J. C. JOHNSTON, Waterloo, Ind.

000 000 000

WE keep the largest assortment, very latest styles, lowest prices. The best facilities for doing business and the largest force of experienced help of any establishment of the kind in this part of the country.

000 000 000

IN addition to our Millinery Department, we pay close attention to other lines above mentioned, which means a great variety of articles too numerous to mention.

000 000 000

WE shall continue as in the past to add to our stock, novelties, both in millinery and our stock generally, as fast as they appear in the eastern markets, and will be at all times ready to furnish our customers with just what they want, as we keep a large assortment of each article in our stock varying in prices and qualities, in proof of which, do as others are doing, call and be convinced. Thanking you for past favors,

I am yours truly,

J. G. JOHNSTON,
WATERLOO, IND.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

LOW PRICES

—CONTINUE AT—

WILSON'S SHOE STORE.

We still sell Boston and Candee Rubber Boots at $2.30.
The best $2.00 Calf Boot in Northern Indiana.
A solid leather shoe, Cong. or Bales, with tap sole, $1.25.

FINE SHOES in LATEST STYLES,

For Ladies', Gents', Misses and Children.

Our Prices the Lowest. Our Terms CASH.

Call an see us and learn our prices.

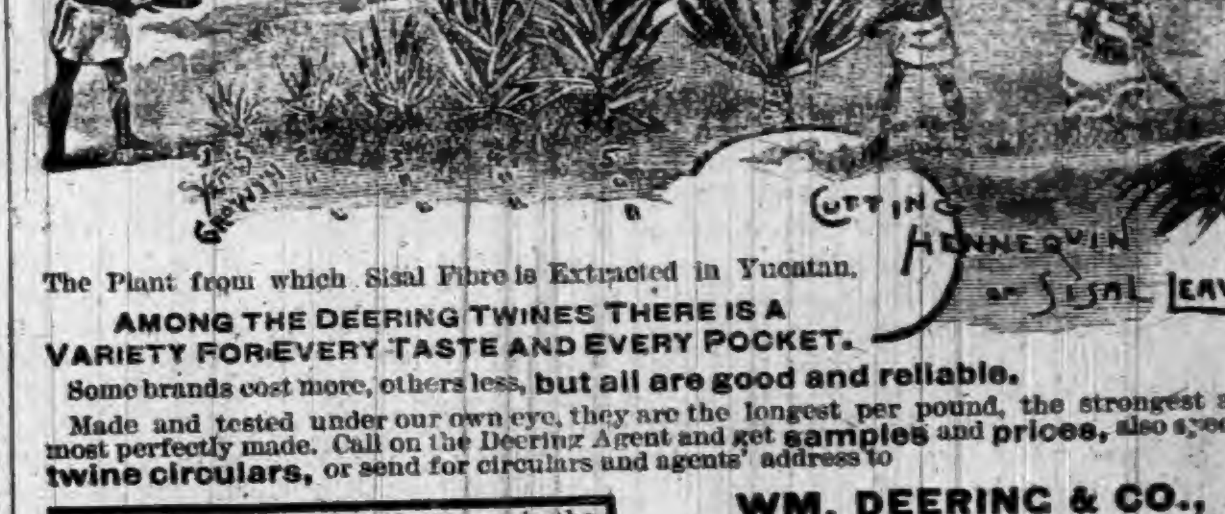
J. N. WILSON & SON,
South of Square,..........AUBURN.
West side Main Street,..........WATERLOO.

DEERING BINDER TWINE.

THE "FLOWER" BRANDS.

"GOLDEN ROD," "LILY," "DAISY," "BUTTERCUP," Etc.

Made from the Best Manilla and Sisal Fibres. Also Patent Composite SILVER Binder Twine.



Sisal Growing
Cutting Hennequin or Sisal Leaves.

The Plant from which Sisal Fibre is Extracted in Yucatan.

AMONG THE DEERING TWINES THERE IS A VARIETY FOR EVERY TASTE AND EVERY POCKET.

Some brands cost more, others less, but all are good and reliable.

Made and tested under our own eye, they are the longest per pound, the strongest and most perfectly made. Call on the Deering Agent and get samples and prices, also special twine circulars, or send for circulars and agents' address to

The only Binder Manufacturers in the world who make their own twine.

WM. DEERING & CO.,
Chicago, Ill.

JEWEL GRAND STEP.

THE GRANDEST OF ALL GRANDS!

MORE-FOR-NO-MORE-MONEY.

JEWEL
GEO. M. CLARK & CO.
CHICAGO

GREATEST PERFECTION & ECONOMY GUARANTEED.

Positively No Odor or Smell.

FOUR BURNERS ON TOP, OF WHICH YOU CAN USE ONE OR ALL.

One set between the Oven and Roasting Chamber for Baking and Roasting, Toasting or Broiling at the same time with the same flame.

This is the best stove in America, and you cannot be pleased with any other after seeing this, therefore don't fail to see it.

J. BEURET, Dealer in Hardware and Tinware.
Tinshop at. 15, North Main St., Auburn, Ind.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1890. NUMBER 16.

Eupepsy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you Good Digestion and oust the demon Dyspepsia, and install Eupepsy. We recomend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle by Robbins and McCord, Druggists.

It is reported that petroleum has been discovered at Middlesboro, England, and experimental borings are being made to the depth of 2,000 feet.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

Near Tucson, Arizona, is a very extensive cave which is as yet unexplored, and from which neighboring ranchmen have obtained beautiful specimens of lime carbonates. Soldiers from Fort Lowell have penetrated the cave more than a mile without reaching the end.

CATARRH—CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—Hay Fever—A New Home Treatment

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is, that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above. ly

Crawfordsville has a class of girl whistlers, with a young man tutor who has about gone insane because he can't kiss away the puckers.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicans that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King,s New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery Free at Robbins & McCord's, Druggists.

Brazil's constitution is about ready for adoption or rejection by the people. Took the great U. S. instrument as a model.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence. GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

The latest addition to the British navy the Victoria, is said to be the largest war vessel at present ready for active service. She cost over $4,000,000, and carries a crew of 589 officers and men.

Rheumatism.

Is a blood poison and must be cured by altering the condition of the blood. Purify this and rheumatism cannot exist. Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure is a sovereign remedy for all blood, kidney and skin diseases. It is a fine tonic and cures diseases by purifying and enriching the blood—thus removing the cause. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga proprietors. Try it and be convinced. 13 16

Plowing by steam has been introduced in Walla Walla Valley, Washington, and is pronounced a success. Heretofore it has cost $2 per acre to plow, while under the new system it can be done for 40 cents.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

A California judge is the possessor of a night blooming cereus that is the largest of its kind in the United States. It is thirty feet high, with branches that cover his house and porch nearly two hundred and fifty square feet.

The World's Fair.

The excitement caused by this great event is scarcely equaled by that produced by the great discovery of Dr. Miles the Restorative Nervine. It speedily cures nervous prostration, change of life, pain, dullness and confusion in head, fits, sleeplessness, the blues, neuralgia, palpitation, monthly pains, etc. C. W. Snow & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y.; Talbot and Moss, of Greensburg, Ind., and A. W. Blackburn, Wooster, O., say that "The Nervine sells better than anything we ever sold, and gives universal satisfaction." Dr. Miles' new illustrated treatise on the nerves and heart and trial bottle free at F. E. Davenport's drug store.

Obituaries.

It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our congregation and midst, two dear members and sisters:

ANNA ELIZABETH (LUDWIG) PIPES.

Born September 7, 1867, was united in holy matrimony March 7, 1889, with Mr. Oliver Pipes. She departed April 10, 1890, at the age of 22 yrs., 7 mos., and 3 days, and left her husband, her mother, three brothers and three sisters. The funeral took place Sunday, April 13. Services in both languages were held in the German Reformed church, conducted by the undersigned.

LAURA MARGARETHA (THOMAS) M'DOWELL.

Born October 8, 1866, departed April 12, 1890, at the age of 23 yrs., 6 mos., and 4 days. At the age of 20, she was united in holy matrimony with Mr. W. McDowell. She left her husband, one daughter (three years old), the parents, two brothers and two sisters. The funeral took place Monday, April 14. Services in both languages were held in the English M. E. church, conducted by Rev. Lamport and the undersigned.

Both departed sisters died with consumption and left great evidences of the presence of the Lord to the very last moment. The large attendance at both funerals gave an evidence of the many friends which they left to mourn their loss. They will especially be missed in our congregation and Sabbath school. We, as a congregation, mourn deeply for them and, humbly bowing to the will of the Maker, express our deepest regret and extreme sorrow in the loss of our dear members. And herewith we extend our warmest sympathy to the bereft families in these, their sad afflictions. Conscious of the extreme grief which they endure over the loss, we can speak no greater words of condolence than that He, who doeth all things for the best, will guide and comfort them. B. RUP.

Abraham Buss.

The subject of this sketch was born March 4, 1816, at Mountfield Parish, Sussex, England. He died at his home in Fairfield township, DeKalb county, Indiana, April 9, 1890, his age being 74 years, 1 month and 5 days. He was baptized in childhood according to the rites of the Church of England. At the age of 14, he went to live with a gentleman named Benjamin Smith, a member of parliament. In company with Mr. Smith, he embarked for America on the ship Columbia at Portsmouth, April 1, 1830, and landed in New York the 5th of May. His father, his brother William and sister came with them. They traveled over New York, seeing places of interest and went to Montreal, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, returning to New York, whence they went back to England, reaching there May 10, 1831. In August, 1841, he left London in company with John Butt and Mrs. Delia Butt, the latter being Mr. Buss' sister They reached this country in September. In New York they staid with Mr. Butt's brother Richard till October, when they came to Indiana to look up a home. Then he went back to England, and the next year (1842) left that country for the last time. He had traveled over the greater part of Europe. In 1849 he went to California and afterwards South America. July 9, 1852, he was married to Miss Lucy Woodbury, and settled in Fairfield Center. He next moved to Iowa, but returned and about twenty years ago settled on the farm that was his home when he died. His wife had died in 1880. He leaves a family of five children to mourn his departure, as well as one brother and two sisters. The interment was at Waterloo cemetery, Rev J. H. Elson officiating. Mr. Buss was a man well known and respected. He was for some time a resident of Auburn in early days, and helped clear the land that is now Main street. Many of the older people here will remember him.

Obituary.

Elizabeth Ann Height was born in DeKalb county December 22, 1852, and was married to Isaiah Shellenberger, January 24, 1874. Was admitted into the Reformed church at Hudson April 24, 1884, Rev. Christine, pastor, and died at South Milford, Lagrange county, March 18, 1890, aged 37 years, 2 months and 17 days. To them were born five children—two daughters and three sons, the youngest 3 months old. She was a loving wife and mother and a faithful christian until death. She leaves a large number of friends to mourn her loss. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. Miller, from Hudson. She was laid to rest in the Fairfield cemetery to wait the resurrection morn.

For many days we watched beside
The bed where mother lay,
Hoping, watching, praying on,
Until she was called away.

No more we hear her gentle voice,
In vain her footsteps wait.
For she now lives with angels bright,
Beyond the golden gate.

Old Settlers.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the DeKalb County Pioneer Association will be held at the Secretary's office, in Auburn, on

Friday, May 2, 1890,

at 1 o'clock, p. m., to select the place and make the necessary arrangements for holding the next annual meeting to be held June 19, 1890. With the President and Secretary, the following persons compose such committee, viz:

Phillip Noel,	R. N. Crooks,
Wm. Carr,	N. Griffith,
R Culbertson,	O. C. Clark,
S. H. Bartlett,	J. Buchanan,
S. P. Wattenbe,	E. R. Shoemaker,
J. D. Wood,	F. D. Oberlin,
A. F. Pinchin,	Wm. R. Emerson.
M. B. Willis,

All persons feeling interested in the objects of the Association are invited to be present.

J. D. LEIGHTY, President,
W. H. DILLS, Secretary.

Minorca Chickens.

I have eggs for sale sale for hatching. This is a new, and popular breed of chickens having been in the United States, but a few years. I have Black and White Minorcas. All wanting eggs, call on JAMES STONEBRAKER, Corunna.

Commissioner's Sale.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned Commissioner appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court, in the case of Samuel Davis et al. vs Matilda Radormer et al. in said court by order of said court will sell at public auction on the premises on

Saturday, May 17, 1890.

The following premises in DeKalb county, Indiana, to wit: Sixty-two and one-half (62½) acres off of the north end of the east half of the northeast quarter of section nineteen (19) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east, excepting the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago railroad, passing through said land. And also the south half of the southeast quarter of section seven (7), all in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east. Sale to commence at ten o'clock a. m. of said day.

Terms: One-third cash, one-third in one year and one third in two years. The deferred payments to be secured by notes, at interest, waiving relief, and secured by a mortgage on the premises.

JOHN NELSON,
Commissioner.

April 14, 1890.
James E. Rose Atty. 4

HERE WE ARE AGAIN!

BUT this time we come with a list comprising a choice lot of new properties at exceedingly low prices, in fact any one of them is a bargain, when the location, improvements and general surroundings are taken into

CONSIDERATION.

While heretofore we have offered many bargains, all of which have been gobbled up with the great rapacity of

A HUNGRY MAN.

We believe this to be the choicest lot of all, and the only one we will be able to offer on such favorable terms and prices, but these pieces are for sale at prices that

WILL SELL THEM,

and if you think of buying for a residence or as an investment, call at our office and we will convince you our statements are true as to

PROPERTY AND PRICES.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. The soil is a most splendid one for producing large yields of all kinds of grain. There are 30 acres of good timber on this farm. This farm is cheap at $60 per acre, but we will sell it for less money.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn, and would make someone a fortune if they would buy and plat it in acre lots.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling barn, orchard and good fences. This would be a bonanza for anyone at $2,800, but it goes for less. "First come first served" in this trade.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings, 2 good wells sugar camp fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared. This is a great bargain for someone with small capital, to secure a house, and is cheap at $2,500, but it can be be bought for less money.

No. 230. One hundred and ninety-two acres in Newville township, within short distance of Newville and Hicksville 130 acres, under cultivation, balance timber land. Elegant brick dwelling, frame barn, wind pump, two good orchards. School and church near. Here is an opportunity which is seldom found in a lifetime, to secure a farm which is ready to make money for the purchaser from the time of purchase. This farm is well worth $65 per acre, but less will buy it, if taken at once.

No. 304. Sixty acres fine land in Wilmington township. Good frame building with all modern improvements, good orchard. This can be bought for less than $2,500.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O This will be sold at any reasonable price as it must go.

No. 305. One hundred and forty acres of as good land as there is in this county and with improvements on it that are equalled by but few farms in this county, lies within two and one-half miles of good market. We wish to call your especial attention to this tract as one of our best bargains and is cheap at $10,500, but less will buy it if taken soon. The owner is sick, and has not the necessary help and cannot farm it to any advantage, is the reason a sacrifice will be made. Long time and easy terms

No. 309. Seventy-eight acres in Concord township. Fine large brick dwelling, large frame barn, splendid orchard of over 100 trees, all bearing. Small fruits in abundance, and soil unsurpassed for producing all kinds of crops. This farm can be bought cheap and will be like finding money at $7,500.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana Trade well established. Here is a chance for someone to make money with but little capital to invest, as the property can be bought cheap, and will give immediate possession.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street You know that property in the south end of town is not for sale, generally speaking, and when offered is not long in the market. So it will be with this one. Do not delay, but come at once as it must go.

Vacant lots in the South End of town, at prices to suit customers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we are still loaning money on farms in sums of $1,000 and over at 6 per cent. interest on five years' time.

Also, that we offer to the public

THE MOST LIBERAL

Fire, Life and Accident Policy of any Agency in Northern Indiana. Come in and get our terms.

Also, that we can sell you a Railroad or Steamship Ticket at rates that will astonish you. Our rates are the lowest and our routes the best. Come and see us and we will convince you that these are facts.

We have omitted many bargains (our space being limited,) especially in town properties, a list of which may be seen at our office. Call and see us.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

WE are now prepared to show you a complete and elegant line of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
CARPETS,
HATS,
CAPS,
Etc.

WE have taken special pride in selecting goods for each department, and can safely promise to please you in style, quality and price, in anything which you may want in our line.

The Spring Goods are prettier than ever before. It would take columns to enumerate the many choice bargains we will be pleased to show you whether you are ready to buy or not. We very cordially invite an inspection by one and all. It will pay you to trade with

Yours, most respectfully.

SCHAAB & BRO.

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city. leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory. H. J. Trentman.

SALESMEN WANTED To sell our 600 hardy varieties of Choice Nursery Stock. Best Specialties. No Experience necessary. Special advantages to beginners. Extra inducements. Pay weekly. Situation permanent. Best terms Best outfit free. We guarantee what we advertise. Address, at once, GLEN BROS., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y. (This house is reliable.) 9 16

AUBURN FLOURING MILLS,

—Now in full running order with—

FULL ROLLER PROCESS.

All kinds of Custom Work done on short notice. Will buy all kinds of grain. Farmers, call on us, and get your work done or sell us your grain. We mean business. All work done by us will be first-class. Remember the place. The Auburn Flouring Mills. Near Wabash depot.

KICHLER & CO., Prop's.,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well known Nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. A steady position with a Nursery of over thirty years' standing, and a known responsibility. We want good, lively workers, and will pay well. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.

CHASE BROTHERS CO., Chicago, Ill.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of David H. Murray deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WILLIAM SEELY, administrator.
March 29th, 1890. 3t

WORTH CONSIDERING!

DR. J. S. PEMBERTON, OF ATLANTA, GA.

Is a celebrated dealer in Proprietary medicines of his own manufacture. He said: "I had a most severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which brought me down upon my bed and entirely incapacitated me for business. The disease appeared to have a lien on my system, and all I could do did not dislodge it. Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure was recommended to me, and I took it. In a day after beginning its use I began to improve, and in five or six days I was entirely free from pain and able to resume my business. I told Mr. Hunnicutt at that time, that his cure is the best medicine the world has ever offered for rheumatism." The Doctor refused $2500 to say as much for another remedy. This he said free and voluntary.

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE

is a superb Female Tonic and blood purifier, rendering the skin soft and beautiful, removing blotches, pimples, etc., increasing the appetite and invigorating the system. Send for book of particulars, FREE. Address.

HUNNICUTT MEDICINE CO., Atlanta, Ga.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of John K. Wood deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

IRENE WOOD, administrator. 3t
March 31, 1890.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BUTLER.

Election over and nearly everybody satisfied, but the defeated candidates.

Rev. F. M. Stone, the new M. E. pastor filled his pulpit very acceptably last Sunday, and we think will give general satisfaction.

The new organ at the M. E. church is a beauty, both in sound and appearance. We have not learned whether it will be purchased or not. The cost is about $800.

There were two fires north of Butler this week, both dwellings, one owned by M. Robinson, was insured in the Royal, we think, the other owned by Asa Chapel and insured in one of J. A. Campbell's companies.

Two accidents by lighting in this vicinity are reported from last Tuesday storm. Mr. Swapes dwelling on West Oak street, and Jesse Lower's barn five miles west of Butler. The former was adjusted at $18.86 and the latter at 30.16. They were each adjusted and paid by J. A Campbell last Saturday.

NEWVILLE.

Aunt Jullia Rex is yet not convalescent but is improving slowly.

Aunt Tirzah has a new boarder, a worthy gentleman from Hicksville, Mr. Hugh Nelson.

Wm. Seely bought the old house for $70. Rumor has it that he will start an exchange mill.

The fashion now in our town is to chew gum and talk at the same time. Do you catch on George.

A. C. Donelson from Edgerton has taken the contract for the new school building, he is to build it for $2,295.

Yank would vote all right if he had a mind of his own, but he has to vote the way Walter says and instructs him and of course that is republican.

The attorney in the abuse of Pinchin is a red-headed school man, he is too fly for D. Brunson, he made him vote the republican tickets. Ta, ta scotchey.

We learn that Sam Lengthy, of Orangeville, on last Friday whipped his wife and two children. It must be their birthdays all came at the same time. Look out Sammy.

The Newville and Hicksville ball nines played a match game at Hicksville, the score stood 17 to 29 in favor of Newville. The Hicksville boys are a very quiet and refined set of boys, in your mind.

There is plenty of fun in Chiesman, you may think.
He laughs to himself, the tool he made of Brink;
We will make a fool of him this fall.
They'll get snowed under, if we do anything at all.

W. A. Moody from Kendallville came,
Unlawfully to vote, and he is to blame.
We will make him use all his chink,
For the violation he made in signing for Brink.

The law says one must be a freeholder one year.
And a householder previous to election. He lied, I fear.
And they both are liable. This, we think,
Will send Moody up, also Frank Brink.

Chiesman put the job up, it is no doubt
Nothing happens but he sticks in his snout.
Dan says it was a h-ll of a note.
For every time he came to Stafford he made many a vote.

DEKALB.

Farmers wishing for dry weather.

Mrs. E. Hall continues about the same.

Election over and no one dangerously hurt.

Chas. Rugman is moving west of Auburn.

Shipping a car of potatoes from Cedar Creek this week.

Section foreman, E. L. Lane on the sick list for a few days.

Keep the dogs hid, for the assessor may call any day.

Geo. Weygandt is moving to DeKalb and will haul wood this summer.

J. F. Groves came into town with a load of sewing machines Saturday evening. May success go with him.

Those wishing cheap groceries, call at DeKalb and be convinced. Proprietors always ready to show goods and give prices.

SUMMIT.

Mrs. Garmes, of Turkey Creek, was in our town last Saturday.

Mrs. Hemstreet from south of Hudson made our town a short call last week.

A. Sweigart and family visited the family of Fred Snelleoberger last Sunday.

H. D. Snowberger and wife visited Mrs. Teeters north of Hudson on Sunday last.

Miss Clemma Duncan and Miss Libbie and Jennie Rohm visited Miss Etta Voghtman last Sunday.

Sabbath school will reorganize at Barker's church next Sunday at half past nine. All cordially invited.

LEO.

The farmers have began their spring seeding.

J. D. Myers will move to Auburn in the near future.

Mrs. Florence Murphy is visiting friends at Kendallville.

John Dever, one of the oldest settlers of this place was burried Sunday.

Geo. Snyder will move to Garrett this week, he is an employe in the car shops of that place.

Rev. H. C. Ashcrofft will take charge of the M. E. circuit of this place. Rev. Currie will go to Maysville.

Well Driving.

Purdy & Son, the well known well drivers of Auburn, will devote their time to this business and give all their patrons good work. They have an abundant experience, and can show certificates from the leading property owners in the county, to show the satisfaction their work has given. Call on them at Auburn, or write where you want them to come. Address PURDY & SON,
Auburn, Ind.

IF YOU WANT TO
BUY CHEAP,
—Go to the—
Bargain Store
On Eighth St., West of Court House.

HAVING SOLD OUT,
—AND—
Must Reduce Stock.

I will sell half my Dry Goods at Cost, for next 60 days, as I give possession first of June, and will offer great inducements to buyers. Call early and get first choice.

FRANK HOLMAN,
Cedar Creek, Ind.

PERU had her presidential election last Sunday, April 13. Mexico has her elections on Sunday also, as do several of the other Spanish-American States. If the nation sets such an example, what shall we expect of the people?

IN A mining town in Pennsylvania, they had a big time at Easter. The Hungarians there, believe they must throw water on every one they meet, in order to have good luck through the year. After several years experience, the American miners got tired of this, and swore vengeance if it should occur again. When they came from the mines Easter morning, some Hungarian women threw water over them. The miners then caught every woman of that nationality they could find and threw them into the creek. Some were thrown in a number of times. Their husbands came to help them but they were too few in number and the strange contest went on. It is likely there will be no Easter duckings next year.

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

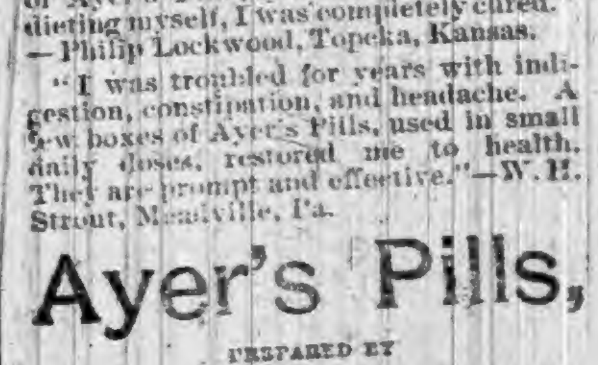
"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.



F. J. YESBERA, Agent,
Auburn, Ind.

SALESMEN WANTED.

LOCAL OR TRAVELING.

To sell our Nursery Stock. Salary, Expenses and Steady Employment guaranteed.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY,
Rochester, N. Y.

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

A SHAKY THRONE.

That of Spain Undoubtedly in a Tottering Condition.

London special: There is little doubt that the present Spanish Cabinet will be overthrown shortly, and possibly before the July recess. There is a strong opinion, too, that before its reassembling the monarchy will be overthrown for a second time in this generation and republicanism given another trial. The coolness and deliberation with which the leaders of the Republican party are acting, and the subordination of the rank and file, give hope of a revolution as complete and bloodless as that in which the Brazilian monarch was deposed. There are no signs of general rioting by preconcert, nor is there any promise of threatening pronunciamentos, but there is a calm consciousness of strength underlying all the Republican movements that shows a profound belief that the people are with them en masse. Singularly enough, in some parts of Spain it is still firmly believed that the royal infant died of his attack of influenza and that a pretender is being foisted upon the Spanish people.

SPRING STRIKES.

The Carpenters of Indianapolis Go Out—Tailors Ordered Out at Columbus.

The Chicago striking carpenters have so far shown very slight disposition to treat with the new organization of boss carpenters. One of the officers of the union said that none of its men would be allowed to go to work for these bosses before receiving the assurance that at least half of the carpenters in the city would be employed by them.

The threatened strike of Union Carpenters at Indianapolis for eight hours a day and 35 cents an hour has begun. There are fully 100 houses in the city in the several stages of erection and all these will stand as left until some settlement of the matter is reached.

The Tailors' Union of Columbus, O., has ordered a strike. About 200 people will be affected. The Merchant Tailors' Exchange refused to accede to an advance in the scale. The strike is supported by the national organization. The advance asked is about 50 cents on either pantaloons or vests.

Indians for the Army.

Secretary Proctor has submitted to the Interior Department officials a proposition to enlist 1,000 Indians into the regular army. It is proposed to officer the regiment with graduates from West Point, the subordinate grades to be filled by pupils who have been educated at Eastern military schools. The details of the plan have not as yet been fully matured, but it is the opinion of Secretary Proctor that the Indians can be received in the regular army in a separate regiment both to their own advantage and that of the Government.

White Caps in Indiana.

David Hosea, an old and respected farmer, living near Washington, Ind., was taken from his house by a masked mob, and whipped into insensibility, over one hundred blows being administered. Hosea caused the arrest of a local politician at Connelburg on the charge of attempting to buy votes and it is believed that the White Cap outrage is the outgrowth of this trouble. The old man is seriously injured and may not recover. Several arrests will be made.

Struck It Rich.

Toronto (Ontario) special: Alexander Cameron, a wealthy Toronto lawyer, who married a rich widow named Ward, has returned from Europe, but Mrs. Cameron and his step-daughter, Miss Ward, are still in Paris, and it is announced to friends of the young heiress that she will in June be wedded to Prince de Benyon Caraman, of France. Miss Ward is but 17 years old. With his bride, the Prince will receive an income of nearly $150,000 a year.

Schaefer and Slosson.

Schaefer and Slosson have signed an agreement to play 800 points at fourteen inch balk line game of billiards in New York during next June for a stake of $500 per side. A wager of $1,000 and an emblem of the championship of America to be presented by the Brunswick, Blake Collender Company.

Gift to the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. David Sinton, who, in 1874 gave $33,000 to the Young Men's Christian Association of Cincinnati, has made another gift of $25,000 conditional upon the association raising $75,000 for the new building about to be erected. The association has about $70,000 of the sum already subscribed.

Dropped Dead.

William M. Robertson, one of the best known citizens of Wabash, Ind., and father of James I. Robertson, cashier of the Wabash National bank, dropped dead while calling at the home of a neighbor. Death was caused by heart failure. Deceased was 72 years old.

Teabau and Carpenter Released.

George Teabau and W. W. Carpenter have been released by the Cincinnati Base-ball Club. It is not yet determined where they will go, but Carpenter is expected to go to Pittsburgh.

Schaefer the Winner.

Schaefer won the billiard championship of the world, by winning five games and loosing none in the recent tournament at Chicago.

DESTRUCTIVE CYCLONE.

It Sweeps Over Ohio and Cuts a Swath Twenty Rods Wide, Leaving Death and Waste Behind It.

A special from Akron, Ohio, dated the 10th inst., says: The worst cyclone in the history of this section struck Sharon Township last night and mowed a swath twenty rods wide and six miles long directly toward Akron, but arose above the surface far enough to pass harmlessly over this city. Six miles east of Akron it again struck the earth, and thence continued its course southeast for several miles with unabated fury. In Sharon Township the farm buildings, crops, and stock of Uriah Woerstler, Richard Brow, Isaac Brown, Frank Lacroix, George W. Crane, Abraham Lyttle, Henry Chandler, Christ F. Wall Rease Wall, Matthew Bramley, Frank Bramley, Hughes Frank, and Henry Wall were destroyed in ten minutes. Immediately after the cyclone passed searching parties were organized. The body of Hughes Franks was found forty rods from the site where his house had stood. Mrs. Franks was found 120 rods further on, so badly injured that she cannot live. Matthew Bramley was caught by falling timbers and fatally hurt. Frank Bramley's house was blown from its foundation and he was buried in the wreck, which took fire from the cookstove. A hired man rescued Bramley. The wreck was entirely consumed. Richard Brown was blown a quarter of a mile and left against a stump, where he was found unconscious and badly hurt. After passing over Akron the cyclone struck the farms of Messrs. Swertz, Robinson, Herwick, Brown, Wise, Humbough, Myers, and Callahan, Springfield Township, destroying buildings, stock, crops, forests and fences.

WILD ENGINE

Running Through the Heart of a City, Madly Tearing Along the Track With No Guiding Hand.

A Terre Haute (Ind) special says: A runaway engine, fresh from a wreck within the city, without either engineer or fireman to guide it, and going at full speed, dashed into the Union depot where hundreds of passengers were standing on the platforms, and demolished another engine and part of the depot. Outside of the damage to the depot and the injury to engine and cars, there was only one man hurt. He was the engineer of one of the trains. Vandalia train No. 26 was entering the city from the west. The orders were to get in ahead of the departure of the Terre Haute and Peoria passenger train at 8:15. Engineer Crosby, of the freight, had just three minutes to make the yards in, and he came across the river at good speed. Evansville and Terre Haute switch engine No. 56 was switching in the First street yards near the river. Engineer Walker heard the whistle of the freight, and made a quick run for the Third street switch where he could take the side track.

He misjudged the speed of the incoming freight, and the two locomotives collided at the Fourth street crossing with a terrific crash. Engineer Walker and Fireman Pritchard, of the E. & T. H. switch engine, saw the danger and jumped for their lives as did also Fireman Murtagh, of the Vandalia freight, but Engineer Crosby stayed on his engine, and was caught between the timbers. Neither locomotive left the track, although both are badly damaged, and the engineers and firemen were astonished when the two engines moved away, slowly at first, and then faster and faster, until they were going at the rate of forty miles an hour, without a soul in either cab. The terrible truth dawned upon the men, and everybody was horror-stricken when they saw that one of the engines (No. 175) was wild. The shock had thrown open the throttle, and the Vandalia engine was carrying the switch engine and two cars along at full speed. On went the runaway train in its mad flight in the heart of the city. At Eighth street the switch had been set for the Terre Haute and Peoria train, just about to leave, and into the curve that takes trains into the Union Station the runaway train sped. The Terre Haute and Peoria train was in position on the first track ready to leave. The people in the depot were startled by a long and piercing signal of warning from an engine in the C. & E. I. yards that had comprehended the situation. This undoubtedly saved many lives. Not knowing which way to look for danger the passengers deserted the train and the officials scampered from the station. Fireman Houran was the only man who stayed on the T. H. & P. engine, and seeing the danger he reversed his engine and tried to escape, but he was too late. The runaway locomotive thundered into a box-car in front of the two locomotives. The box car struck the T. H. and P. engine within the depot and demolished its entire front, and then left the track, traversed the depot twenty feet and crashed into the corner of the depot, knocking in the wall, tearing up the flooring and snapping a large telegraph pole in two like a reed. The box-car was thrown up against the ticket office at the very window where the tickets are sold to passengers. A loaded coal-car was drawn around, thrown crosswise on the track and badly wrecked. Pandemonium reigned in the depot. There was a cloud of smoke and the hissing of steam. Neither of the three engines left the track, but all were badly wrecked. It could hardly be believed that there were no fatalities. The depot looked as if a cyclone had struck it, and it required a large force of police to keep back the crowd.

A PRISON FIGHT.

Desperate Struggle with a Convict.

A Sing Sing (N. Y.) special, dated the 12th inst., says: At 3 o'clock this afternoon Deputy Warden Connaughton, of the State Prison, saw Leander See, one of the guards, crawling down the stairs into the prison covered with blood, his clothing torn, and his hand tightly bound with a rope. He had been assaulted by some of the convicts, and an escape made from the prison. Keeper See had taken James Kelly and Michael Feeney, two convicts, to clean the old female prison prior to locking the prisoners up for the night. As they entered the building Kelly saw August Clint, the only convict in the building, cleaning lamps. Kelly grabbed Clint and threw him into a cell and locked the door. Feeney grappled with the guard and a desperate struggle ensued. Before See could draw his revolver or make any outcry, he was knocked down by a blow on the head with a hammer, given by Kelly. His keys and revolver were taken from him and he was beaten into insensibility and bound hand and foot. Kelly and Feeney then went to Keeper Pier's room and donned two suits of Pier's clothing, and going down stairs unlocked a side door and made for the woods toward New York City. On recovering consciousness, Keeper See managed to loosen the rope and crawl down stairs. Warden Brush called out the reserve guard, and armed with carbines they began to search for the escaped men. About dusk they came up with them several miles from the prison in the woods. They were ordered to throw up their hands, which they did, and were quickly handcuffed and taken back to the prison. The guard will receive the standing reward offered by the State of $50 for the recapture of each escaped prisoner. Keeper See, although badly injured, will recover. Feeney is serving a ten-year sentence. Kelly served twenty years in Clinton prison, and while there attempted to kill Keeper Gray. He is about 48 years old, and has served more than half his life in prison.

TALKING ANNEXATION.

Cubans Looking Longingly to the United States for Relief from Spanish Misrule.

A correspondent of the New York Herald writing from Havana under date of April 10, says: The question of the annexation of Cuba to the United States is daily growing more serious, and the Government commences to be alarmed at the propagation that more or less openly is being carried on with results that will soon be known. The campaign that has been opened by several leading papers is courageously sustained in remarkable editorials that generally attract attention, one having gone so far as to assert, some weeks ago, that the Spanish Government, through their disgraceful and ruinous administration, is doing more than anybody else to throw Cuba into the arms of the United States. The new budgets, just voted by the Cortes have come to fill the measure, as they clearly tell the people here that they have nothing to expect in their favor from Spain, whose political leaders seem to compete as to who is to increase the most of the heavy burden of charges and all classes of taxes which the Cuban merchant, manufacturer, planter and land tenant is to pay. The Government has not as yet adopted a system of rigor and prosecution to put down the annexationist movement, as advised to do by some of the most rabid conservative papers, being well aware, by what happened in other American countries that once belonged to Spain, that were they to enforce such measures it would be the death sentence of the Spanish domination in America. A fact beyond all doubt is that there are a large number of annexationists in Cuba and some in the United States. The question now is to know whether any of the members of the Government at Washington would be willing to favor the movement just initiated in Cuba?

A STATESMAN GONE.

Samuel J. Randall Succumbs to His Long and Painful Illness.

Washington special: It was a sad and touching scene at the Randall residence, on Capital Hill, when Congressman Samuel J. Randall expired Sunday morning, just as the bells of a neighboring church were tolling 5 o'clock. Around the bedside were gathered the family, the physician, and Postmaster General Wanamaker, who had all kept a constant watch over the dying man during the night. A few moments before his death he had opened his eyes, and, looking tenderly at his wife, said, in a low tone: "Mother," a word instinct with all the fond recollections of their long and happy married life, and by which he always called his wife when none but the family were near. He looked into her eyes as if he were about to say something more, but he seemed to have no strength left, and in a few moments he had passed away. Death had come with the coming of the dawn. The watchers saw that all was over, and the brave wife and daughter, who had nursed and cared for him during his long illness, could restrain their feelings no longer, but gave way to their grief, while the physicians and Mr. Wanamaker endeavored to console them as best they might, though their own grief hardly permitted them to speak.

WINGED THE BURGLAR.

A House Breaker Receives Fatal Injuries While in His Unlawful Act.

Des Moines (Ia.) special: An attempt to rob the residence of George B. Grimes, a prominent East Side grocer, resulted in the mortal wounding of the burglar, the loss of an eye by Mr. Grimes, and injuries which may cost him his life. Entrance to the house was made by cutting glass in the front window and turning the catch. Going up to the servant's room he asked the girl if she was awake. Receiving a reply he warned her to remain quiet under penalty of death. He made so much noise searching bureau drawers and trunks that Mr. Grimes, who was sleeping on the floor below, awoke and started up stairs, revolver in hand. He soon discovered the burglar and six shots were exchanged at short range in the dark. Two hit the burglar. Grimes was shot at four times and one of the bullets struck him in the right side of the face, tearing out his eye and lodging in the brain. The burglar escaped but was found in a cellar-way of a house near the shooting, with a bullet in his breast and very weak from loss of blood. He gave his name as James Quinn and his home at Minneapolis, but it is known that a few weeks ago he was released from the Fort Madison Penitentiary, where he had been sent for a similar offense.

A PATHETIC STORY.

An Interesting Sequel of the Lake Shore Wreck, Near Buffalo, N. Y.

Van Wert (O.) special: Mr. Frank Conger, Vice President of the Gordon Bridge and Manufacturing Company, of Groton, N. Y., arrived here the other day to perfect the adoption of little Oressa Stewart, whose parents were killed in the late Lake Shore disaster near Buffalo. Her name will hereafter be Oressa Stewart Conger. Mr. Conger says on the fatal day he was sitting in the hotel at Cleveland, when suddenly he was impressed with a strange feeling that he must go east on the train, and seizing his overcoat he rushed to the depot, not having time to get his baggage checked, but left orders for it to follow by express. Nearly every one knows that Mr. Conger was permitted to take little Oressa from her dead mother's arms and now she is the idol of his heart and will no doubt be well cared for, having received from the insurance on her father's life and the Lake Shore Company about $20,000, which Conger says shall be carefully guarded until she becomes of age, and as Conger has no children, she will inherit his wealth, which can safely be put down anywhere between $100,000 to $150,000.

FERDINAND WARD'S LOSS.

The Convict Will Not Be Allowed to Attend His Wife's Funeral.

Sing Sing (N. Y.) special: Convict Ferdinand Ward, who is deeply affected over the death of his wife, was not granted permission to attend his wife's funeral. He hinted to the warden that he would like to take a last look at his dead wife, but the warden assured him that the prison rules would not permit him to grant Ward's request to attend the funeral. Ward's sister called at the prison and he requested her to take a rose and place it in the hands of his dead wife. The flower was taken from the conservatory in the prison grounds. Mrs Ward was to have visited her husband the day she died, that being the regular visiting day. The friends of the prisoners are allowed to visit the prison once every two months. Ward last saw his wife two months ago. She was apparently very devoted to him and made regular visits to the prison every two months during his imprisonment.

A Fierce Mob.

Madrid special: The arrival of the Carlist leader, Marquis Cesalbo, at Valencia, was made the occasion of an anti-Carlist demonstration. Thousands of anti-Carlists met at the station and followed the Marquis to his hotel. They smashed many windows of the hotel and tried to set fire to the building when a detachment of troops charged and dispersed the mob. Many persons were wounded. The excitement continues. A mob of 2,000 persons invaded the Carlist Club and set fire to the furniture. When the firemen came, the mob tried to obstruct them. The mob then smashed and burned a carriage in the court yard. Another mob tried to burn the church, but was prevented by a detachment of troops. The troops have failed, however, to disperse the constantly gathering crowds. The latter have built two barricades in the streets. The militia on the other side have taken possession of the city and the whole garrison is under arms.

Six People Poisoned by Eating Pork and Beans.

Cambridge City special: A serious case of poisoning, causing loss of life occurred at Pennville, Ind. Francis Oldecker and family of six after eating pork and beans for supper were taken violently ill, and serious doubts of their recovery were entertained. Mr. Oldecker died after two hours of suffering, but the others were somewhat relieved by vomiting, and were in a hopeful condition. As to where the poison came from, and its true character, nothing is definitely known, but is supposed to have been the pork.

Mad Frolic of Horses.

Fire consumed two training-stables on the Kentucky Association's premises at Lexington, Ky., and created the wildest excitement. The wind was blowing at a high rate, and the entire destruction of the Association's property seemed imminent. Attention was quickly directed to saving the fine racers. The horses of the Chicago stable, under Eugene Leigh, were in danger, but they were all safely released and the stable was not burned. When the high-spirited animals were turned loose they had a wild frolic, snorting and running through the streets, jumping fences and tearing about like wild horses. It will be some time before they can all be collected and examined to ascertain whether they have injured themselves. The association is fortunate to escape as it did. One of the burned stables was unoccupied.

Haunted by Detectives.

Denver special: Oscar M. Roberts, one of the three young men who were arrested four weeks ago for conspiring to kidnap Ex-Governor Tabor and hold him for a ransom of $50,000, committed suicide by taking an ounce of laudanum, from the effects of which he died in a few moments. The conspiracy case was one of the most sensational ever brought to light in Denver, and the sequel was a letter which Roberts left telling the cause of his act. The case was developed originally by Chief Detective Loar, and in his letter Roberts maintains that that individual drove him to suicide by his persistent persecutions; that the detective haunted him day and night and kept men constantly on his track, preventing him from getting work and ruining him morally.

The Chicago Carpenter's Strike.

There is no change in the situatoin in the carpenter's strike at Chicago. The strikers have pickets at all of the depots and at most of the suburban towns, Whenever they find men of their trade coming to the city to work, they labor with them and almost invariably succeed in inducing them not to work. The strike is costing the men between $35,000 and $40,000 per week, but they say they are prepared for an all summer's seige. They have large accumulations in their treasury, and they say when this money is exhausted they can fall back upon the National Council. Back of the National Council is the Federation of Labor, comprising nearly a million men.

Indiana Election Law.

In the Circuit Court at New Castle, Ind., Judge Bundy virtually held section 13, of the new Australian law to be unconstitutional. Simon T. Powell entered suit some time ago to enjoin the payment by the County auditor of a bill for books and blanks required under this section of the law, which was allowed by the Board of County Commissioners. The complaint was held good on demurer, which practically settles the case in the lower court. The case will be appealed as soon as finally settled there, it having been brought to test the law. This is the first action on the law by any court in Indiana.

A Plague of Field Mice.

According to a cable dispatch received in New York, a terrible plague has swept over a large section of southern Russia. Millions of field mice, in such numbers as to be irresistible, have overrun those provinces and passing northward, have ruined the cultivated fields, completely gutted the granaries and wheat stacks and killed and eaten several hundred dogs. They swim rivers, climb mountains, and there seems to be no way of either exterminating them or of arresting their progress.

The Texas Wheat Crop Destroyed.

Advices from Northern Texas say that 75 per cent. of the wheat crop in the counties of Cook, Grayson, Collins, Denton, Wise, and Montague has been destroyed by insects. One of these creatures is very similar to the Northern chinch-bug, and the other is the common lady-bug. The latter is the most destructive, and is not only destroying wheat, but is ravaging oats and corn and even attacking cotton.

Thirty-Six Horses Burned.

The livery stable of Crilly & Cranston at Leavenworth, Kan., was destroyed by fire. William Gilman, Philip Fischer, and James Flynn, hostlers were taken out in an unconscious condition. Thirty-six horses and all the contents of the stable were destroyed. The loss is $20,000.

A Bad Collision.

A disastrous collision occurred on the Chicago and Northwestern road in Racine, Wis. A freight train had side-tracked at Fourteenth street for the fast express and was run into by the latter through an open switch. The passengers were shaken up and bruised, but none of them hurt.

Butler University Given $37,000.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Armstrong, of Kokomo, Ind., with some other parties, have endowed Butler University with $37,000. It belongs to the Christian or Disciples denomination, which is especially numerous throughout Indiana.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$4.75	@ 5.50
Good	3.50	@ 4.75
Common	2.50	@ 3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.75	@ 4.50
SHEEP	4.00	@ 6.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.80	@ .80½
CORN—No. 2	.30	@ .31
OATS—No. 2	.22	@ .23
RYE—No. 2	.43	@ .44
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.19	@ .21
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.10	@ .11
EGGS—Fresh	.10½	@ .11½
POTATOES, Choice new, per bu	.48	@ .57
PORK—Mess	10.50	@10.75
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.73	@ .74
CORN—No. 3	.32½	@ .33½
OATS—No. 2 White	.25	@ .25½
RYE—No. 1	.44½	@ .45
BARLEY—No. 2	.47	@ .47½
PORK—Mess	10.50	@11.00
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 4.25
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.25
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.81¼	@ .82½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.32	@ .32½
OATS—No. 2 White	.27	@ .28
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.81	@ .81½
CORN—Cash	.30½	@ .31½
OATS—No. 2 White	.23	@ .23½
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.00
HOGS	4.25	@ 4.75
SHEEP	5.25	@ 6.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.90	@ .91
CORN—No. 2	.38	@ .39
OATS—Mixed Western	.28	@ .32
PORK—New Mess	11.75	@12.25
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.25	@ 5.00
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.81½	@ .82½
CORN—No. 2	.27½	@ .28
OATS—No. 2	.22½	@ .23
RYE—No. 2	.41½	@ .42½
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.00	@ 4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.79	@ .80
CORN—No. 2 White	.30½	@ .31½
OATS—No. 2 White	.24½	@ .25½
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.75	@ 4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.80½	@ .81½
CORN—No. 2	.32½	@ .33½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.25	@ .26
RYE—No. 2	.47	@ .47½
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.25	@ 4.75
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.92	@ .93
CORN—No. 2	.34½	@ .35½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Was Calkins' Death Accidental?

The Coroner's investigation into the drowning of Henry Calkins, at Elkhart, has led to the suspicion that it was not entirely accidental. It will be remembered that at the time Calkins was fishing in a boat with his wife and Frank E. Hendrix, an insurance agent in whose employ he was. Calkins was an old man and but recently married. It was stated that one of the conditions of his marriage was that he should take out a policy on his life. Testimony was also brought to show that his wife had no love for him, and that Hendrix was a frequent visitor at the house. The Coroner's verdict was as follows:

I, W. W. Johnson, Coroner, having examined the body of Edmund Calkins, and heard the testimony of the witness, which said testimony is hereby attached, do hereby find that the said deceased came to his death by accidental drowning in the St. Joseph River. I would recommend further investigation.

W. W. JOHNSON,
Coroner of Elkhart County.

A slight abrasion was noticeable on Calkin's forehead, as though made by an oar of the boat.

Minor State News.

—Mrs. Mary Helkenrich dropped dead at Vincennes.

—Joseph Lupton, a Pennsylvania employe, dropped dead at Fort Wayne.

—Charles Drake was crushed to death at Argos, by a tree he felled.

—Oaklandon has a second gas well, with an output of 2,000,000 feet a day.

—Dr. Samuel A. Troy, of Milner Corner, eight miles east of Fortville, lost a fine stallion, valued at $1,000, by poison.

—Lightning struck John Eberly, of Pine Village, Warren County, tearing out both eyes from their sockets. He will die.

—One of the "dinkey" trains was fired pon at New Albany, and J. N. Reek, a passenger, suffered a scalp wound from the bullet.

—William Strawn was dangerously injured at Boyleston, by James Merritt, who used an ax as an argument in a quarrel over a foot-path.

—Near Spottsville, Miss Lena Frank, aged 17, cut her throat because her parents objected to her marriage. She may recover, as no vital points were cut.

—In a collision between freight trains at Glenmore, east of Huntington, William Cox, engineer, was fatally injured. The loss on rolling stock is $5,000.

—The wife of Philip Knecht, at Rippus, Huntington County, set a bucket of hot water on the floor. Her little child fell into it and was scalded to death.

—George Williams was arrested at Evansville for burglary in the morning, tried in the afternoon, and sentenced to four years in prison before sunset.

—Thomas Duckworth, residing five miles west of Martinsville, was kicked in the side by one of his young horse. A rib was broken and he was bady injured internally.

—The large farm residence of Jesse R. Newsom, just north of Columbus, was consumed by fire. It was occupied by Vincent Browing, a tenant, who lost all of his household goods, on which there was no insurance. The residence was insured with the Ohio Farmers' for $1,000.

—A jail delivery was effected at Lebanon by prying the jail door off its hinges, and five prisoners out of the six confined therein made their escape. Charles Miller, who is in jail awaiting trial for murder, is the only prisoner who remains.

—A 2-year-old child of James C. Whittaker, of Monroe County, was drowned in an old cellar containing about three feet of water. The child had fallen in while at play and was not discovered for half an hour or more. Mrs. Whittaker is almost distracted with grief.

—The farmers of Montgomery County have formed a Swine-Breeders' Association. The following are the officers: Tillman Easley, New Market, President; H. W. Smith, Crawfordsville, Vice President; J. F. Caplinger, North Union, Secretary; W. H. McMullen, New Market, Treasurer.

—James Phillips, an old negro of Port Fulton met with a serious accident which cost him his right hand. He was endeavoring to clean out the muzzle of a double-barreled shotgun, and was unaware that one of the barrels was loaded. It was discharged while his hand was over the muzzle.

—The large barn belonging to Bud Seals, a prominent farmer of Barr Township, Daviess County, was set fire and completely destroyed. Six head of valuable horses, thirteen head of cattle and $500 worth of farming implements and feed were burned. The total loss is about $4,000.

—Miss Ida Miller, aged 20 years, daughter of Isaac Miller, who keeps a gocery at Fort Wayne, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. She was on her way to church and standing with her mother in the doorway when she was struck. She fell over against her mother, knocking that lady down, but the latter was uninjured. Several houses were struck by lightning and set on fire, but little damage was done.

—Five workmen were thrown to the ground by the breaking of a beam in the new building of the Artificial Ice Company, at Shelbyville. David McCabe and Eastham Daniels were seriously injured.

—David Cottrell, a young section hand on the Big Four, a resident of Fortville, while alighting from a moving train near Pendleton was thrown violently against the corner of a cross-tie and his face crushed into a shapeless mass though which the brain could be seen. His injuries will prove fatal.

—Money has been secured, and as soon as specifications can be agreed upon the contract will be let for building a public-school building for Union City, costing, independent of grounds, $32,000.

—James H. Brown, the successful Republican candidate for Trustee at the election at Mitchell, dropped dead from apoplexy while walking from his home to his place of business. Mr. Brown was a prominent grocer. He was a deacon in the Baptist church, and a man of wide influence. He was about 38 years of age. He leaves a widow.

—Jacob Unison, keeper of a restaurant at Greencastle Junction, has brought suit against the Vandalia railroad for damages in the sum of $10,000. He undertook to board a freight train in motion, and fell beneath the wheels, crushing his foot.

—Thomas Hutsel was killed in the old McCoy grist mill near Warren recently. In putting the belt on the wheel which turns the bolter his coat was caught by the shaft and wound up until he was choked to death. He was dead when found a few minutes afterward. He formerly lived at Rochester, and was an old miller by trade. A wife and eight children are left.

—Mrs. James Hazzard, a well-known lady residing at Scottsburg, was perhaps fatally injured at her home in that city. In passing an open fire-place, her dress became ignited, and in attempting to quench the flames she ran into the open air. In an instant all her clothing was ablaze, and before assistance could reach her, her body and hands were frightfully burned. Her condition is serious.

—Upon one of the forest trees that was removed to make room for the new library building at Wabash College, Crawfordsville, were the words "Freshmen, 1840." It is probable that a section of the tree will be placed in the museum. The freshman class graduated in 1843, and consisted of eight members, six of whom are dead. Those living are Rev. A. F. White, L. L. D., of Santa Rosa, Cal., and Jos. Wilson, of Neoga, Ill.

—A bloody battle of vicious stock took place in the western part of Bartholomew County recently. A heifer with a young calf was set upon by hogs and both devoured. A drove of fat cattle in an inclosure near by became infuriated at the odor from the slain cow and calf, broke through the inclosure, charged on the hogs in their bloody work and gored them so viciously that ten were killed and many others badly hurt.

—A wild man was discovered in the woods near Pendleton recently. He was captured after a hard chase, but could give no rational account of himself. His identity is a complete mystery, From his talk, it was supposed that he had lost his mind through religious excitement, as he answered all interrogations by quotations from the Scriptures. He was taken to Anderson and placed in jail, but fought desperately for his freedom.

—A serious case of poisoning, causing loss of life, occurred at Pennville, three miles east of Cambridge City. Francis Oldecker and family of six after eating pork and beans for supper were taken violently ill, and serious doubts as to their recovery were entertained. Mr. Oldecker died after two hours of suffering, but the others were somewhat relieved by vomiting. As to where the poison came from, and the true character, nothing is definitely known, but is supposed to have been in the pork.

—A horrible accident occurred near Macy, a few days ago, in which Mrs. Martin Weaver, a most estimable lady, lost her life. Her clothing caught fire in the sugar camp, and notwithstanding the most desperate efforts every shred was consumed and her entire body was terribly burned. In her agony she lay there two hours before relief came. A dinner-horn was close by, but so exhausted had she become that she was unable to make a sound to attract the attention of her husband a short distance away.

—Mrs. Ranze Sylvester and two children, Emma and Luther, living one mile south of Newberry, were badly burned while rendering grease on a stove. The grease caught fire, and while the mother was trying to extinguish it her clothing caught fire and was burned off her, and she was terribly burned about the body and face. The children, in trying to rescue the mother, were also badly burned about the hands and arms. Although they are in a very critical condition, it is hoped that their injuries will not prove fatal.

—At Wabash Marshal Ellis arrested George Brown, a well-known colored resident, and janitor of the Presbyterian Church, on a charge of administering medicine to Annie Huddleson, of Rich Valley, Wabash County, that caused her death. The warrant was sworn out by Will Huddleson, brother of the girl, who asserts that Brown was a regular visitor at the house, that he conveyed the drug from Brown to her, and that she informed him she had swallowed the medicine. When discovered the girl was lying unconscious, and died twenty-four hours afterwards. Brown, though much distressed by his arrest, vehemently asserts his innocence.

—James Devine, a laborer working on some improvements on the residence of County Clerk Fisk, at Logansport, fell from the roof and struck on his head. He died almost instantly from his injuries. Devine had been unusually happy during the morning, singing and whistling to such an extent as to attract the attention of his companions, one of whom said to him just before the accident, "Jim, you are too happy this morning; you'll die before night." To which Devine replied: "As well now as any time." A few moments later he went down after some material, and, in ascending the ladder, slipped as he attempted to turn the cornice. He succeeded in catching hold of the cornice, but it came loose and fell with him to the pavement below.

—A movement is on foot to have the suburb of Longview added to Crawfordsville.

—At Pike's saw mill, five miles south of Marion, a horrible accident occurred in which Enoch Jenkins lost his life. Jenkins was caught in the large fly wheel while attempting to fix the belt. His body made two revolutions around with the wheel before the engine could be stopped. He was mangled almost beyond recognition. Deceased was fifty-seven years old and leaves a wife and three children in easy circumstances.

—Capt. J. Hoddon, of Carlisle, has lost two imported Percheron stallions and two mares by fire. They were worth $5,000.

—A fine large barn on the farm of Aaron Blunk, in Clay Township, Morgan County, burned with its contents, consisting of a new clover-huller, farming implements, hay, corn, and oats. Mr. Blunk was seriously burned about the face and neck while saving his horses from the flames, being almost overcome with the heat before getting the last horse out. His loss will reach $2,000, with no insurance.

Cyarre Dat 'Possum.

There is one happy family in Washington. It doesn't take as much to make some families happy as it does others. One family may be unhappy on $1,000,000, another supremely comfortable on $6 a week.

Last Monday a gentleman on N street discovered a strange animal in his back yard. It was all curled up in a little heap, and only a pointed nose and a pair of beady, black, twinkling eyes could be plainly discerned. He approached, and the little beast switched under the sill of his coal shed. A brief but active siege resulted in the capture of the creature, which turned out to be a 'possum, plump, fat and fit. Not being particularly fond of that kind of game he corraled Col. George Washington and put him through a catechism.

"George," said he, "which would you prefer, a good fat turkey or a 'possum?"

"Well," said George, his eyes glistening, "turkey good eat'n, 'n so's 'possum. Turkey cert'n'y goes good. But I'd rather have 'possum, anyhow. Some folks say 'possum lak young pig, but, bress yer, you get 'possum berry fat, an' cook 'em right, an' yo' kin eat, 'n' eat' 'n' de fat never sour on yer stummick."

So George got the 'possum. He hadn't carried it but a block before he had to have a bag to put it in. It isn't safe to carry a live 'possum through South Washington any way but in a bag. Finally he got it home. His grandmother was in the middle of a big day's wash, with the tub out on the floor and a big fire in the stove. His brother Tom was lugging home some dirty clothes, and his sister, Dropsy Ann, was ironing, but the whole family knocked off work and sat around the barrel and watched the 'possum until dark. The 'possum is prime now, but George will wait until New Year's and then the sacrifice will be made and one family will have had a week of eager, joyous anticipation and a dinner of blissful realization.

The colored messenger at the office where the original discoverer of the 'possum is employed, tried to tell how a 'possum ought to be cooked.

"Yo' teks de possum and dresses it. Den you gits a big pan and puts de 'possum in it——"

He got no further. His mouth was so full of water he couldn't talk.—Washington Post.

A SHAKER community—where the ague prevails.—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

"Oh, So Tired!"
is the cry of thousands
every Spring.
For that Tired Feeling
take
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
and recover
Health and Vigor.
It Makes
the Weak Strong.
Prepared by
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED ANCIENT EDITION.

A so-called "Webster's Unabridged Dictionary" is being offered to the public at a very low price. The body of the book, from A to Z, is a cheap reprint, page for page, of the edition of 1847, which was in its day, a valuable book, but in the progress of language for over FORTY YEARS, has been completely superseded. It is now reproduced, broken type, errors and all, by photo-lithograph process, is printed on cheap paper and flimsily bound. A brief comparison, page by page, between the reprint and the latest and enlarged edition, will show the great superiority of the latter. These reprints are as out of date as a last year's almanac. No honorable dealer will allow the buyer of such to suppose that he is getting the Webster which to-day is accepted as the Standard and THE BEST,—every copy of which bears our imprint as given below.

☞ If persons who have been induced to purchase the "Ancient Edition" by any misrepresentations will advise us of the facts, we will undertake to see that the seller is punished as he deserves.

G. & C. MERRIAM & CO.
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

7 NEW MUSIC BOOKS. 7

CLASSIC FOUR-HAND COLLECTION ($1.) Nineteen superior Duets for Piano, by Godard, Bohm, Hoffman, Brahms, and other first class composers.

YOUNG PLAYERS' POPULAR COLLECTION ($1.00.) 51 of the very best, and very easiest pieces for beginners, filling 143 pages. Heartily commended to Piano Teachers as the first book of pieces (or recreations) to use.

WHITNEY'S ORGAN ALBUM ($2.) 33 good pieces for Manual and Pedal, by 20 good composers.

OPERATIC PIANO COLLECTION ($1.) 19 of the best operas are represented, and their melodies form the themes for as many pieces, by the best modern composers, furnishing the very best entertainment for the lovers of favorite operatic airs.

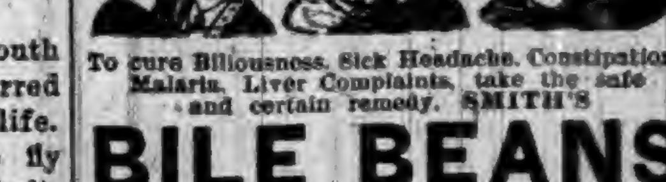
CHOICE SACRED SOLOS For Soprano, Mezzo Soprano or Tenor. ($1.) 35 of the most lovely sacred songs, suitable for solos in church or for enjoyment at home.

PIANO CLASSICS Vol. 2. ($1.) Contains 31 pieces of medium difficulty, and of the best quality.

POPULAR DANCE MUSIC COLLECTION ($1.) Is as bright and merry as a book can be, and is quite full of the best new Dance Music.

Any book mailed promptly for retail price.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago.
OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.



To cure Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, Malaria, Liver Complaints, take the safe and certain remedy, SMITH'S
BILE BEANS
Use the SMALL SIZE (40 little beans to the bottle). They are the most convenient: suit all ages. Price of either size, 25 cents per bottle.
KISSING at 7, 17, 70: Photo-gravure, panel size of this picture for 4 cents (coppers or stamps).
J. F. SMITH & CO.
Makers of "Bile Beans," St. Louis, Mo.

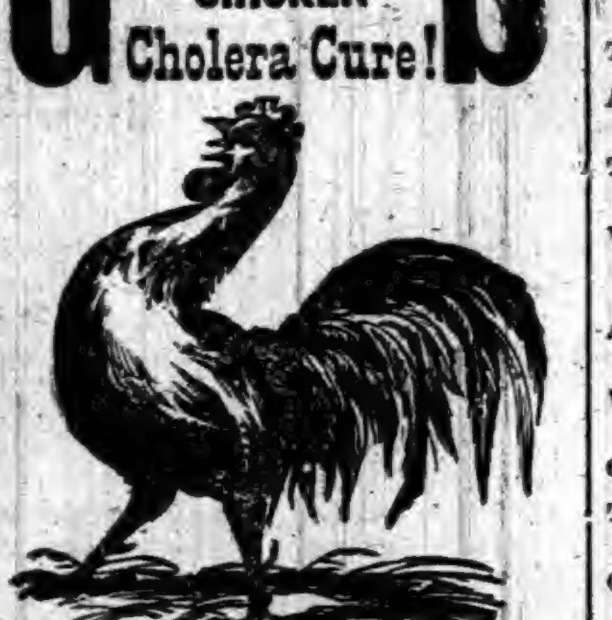
YOU WILL SAVE MONEY, Time, Pain, Trouble, and will CURE CATARRH BY USING ELY'S CREAM BALM.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE CURE FOR
CATARRH
COLD IN HEAD
HAY FEVER
ELY'S CREAM BALM
50c

WILCOX'S COMPOUND TANSY PILLS!
Safe, Certain and Effectual. At Druggists or by mail. Send 4c. for "Woman's Safe Guard." Dr. Wilcox's Specific Co., Phila., Pa.

YOUNG MEN wanted to learn telegraphy. Situations furnished on railroads. Andr's Valentines' School, Janesville, Wis.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!



Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

ABSOLUTELY NON-COMBUSTIBLE EBONY STOVE-ENAMEL ONLY PERFECTLY SAFE LIQUID STOVE POLISH MADE ·ALSO· EBONY PASTE POLISH· ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT· BUY IT· TRY IT· THE BUFFALO POLISH CO·LTD·BUFFALO NY

USE ONLY THE BEST. UNDERWOOD'S ·CELEBRATED· WRITING AND COPYING INKS, MUCILAGE, ETC. SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES. TYPEWRITER RIBBONS, CARBON PAPERS, LINEN PAPERS, RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES. 163 LaSalle St. Chicago. | 30 Vesey St. New York. | 10 Johnston St. Toronto.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES. PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE. Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write WM. T. LINDLEY & CO., 614-624 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1, '88. Brightine cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. Mrs. A. A. Gilliam, Treas. Woman's Exchange.

Chicago, Dec. 1. '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, Brightine entirely cured me. A. C. Smith, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. Brightine cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.

St. Louis, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. Stand'd Drug Co. 900 Franklin Av.

St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. Mastbrook, D'gs 109 S. B'way.

Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. Rev. John Hawkes.

Chicago Times, March 28, '88—Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88,—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88, PRAISE BRIGHTINE. Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros, J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

One package of Steketee's Dry Bitters will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packets for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address, GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

FOR MEN ONLY! VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

O, CALM, SWEET FACE!

BY CHARLES CURTZ HAHN.

The power of thy calm face hath changed my life;
Hath weaned my heart from every low desire.
So through it, need I not the purge of death
Nor cleansing of the purgatorial fire.

Thy sweet, calm face hath made me what I am.
If any praise is due me for my strife
Against the sins which tempt the human soul,
I owe it all to thee and thy true life.

The power of thy calm face is greater far
Than words of priests or prayer of holy saints.
With it before me, strong am I and great;
Without thy face, my spirit droops and faints.

And can God frown, if thou lead on to Him
The soul that sought for peace, and through thy face
Was lifted to a higher aim in life,
And by thee slowly walked from sin to grace?

Can He condemn, if, loving thee, I seek
To reach the pureness of the saints above,
Though I not travel in the way He taught
But live pure life because I thee doth love?

O! calm, sweet face, thou art the power that moves
My soul to emulate the saints above;
I shun the evil, choose the good, because
Thy face is good and thy pure face I love.

So strong a power it hath upon me still,
In all the trials of this life below,
It cannot fail to lead me onward till
In it I see the light of heaven glow.

HUTCHINSON, Kas.

The Piccadilly Puzzle.

THE STORY OF A TERRIBLE EPISODE IN THE LIFE OF AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN.

By F. W. HUME

CHAPTER X—Continued.

"First," asked Dowker, "do you remember the night when Lady Balscombe eloped?"

"Not being a born fool, I do," retorted Miss Lifford sharply. "Such goings on I never saw."

"Can you tell me all that took place on that night?"

Miss Lifford sniffed thoughtfully.

"There was a ball they was going to."

"Who were going to?"

"Lady Balscombe and Miss Penfold. They did go, and left shortly before ten, but before I had time to turn round they were back again, as Lady Balscombe said she had a headache."

"Oh, so I suppose she went to bed?"

"Then you suppose wrong," retorted Annie triumphantly, "for there was a pusson waiting to see her."

"A lady?" asked Dowker eagerly.

"I don't know," retorted Miss Lifford sharply. "She had a veil on."

"Can you describe her dress?"

Miss Lifford thought a moment, while Lydia bent forward anxiously to hear her answer.

"A hat trimmed with blue and brown velvet, and a sealskin jacket."

Lydia Fenny sank back in her seat with a groan.

"Oh, my poor mistress!"

"Your mistress!" echoed Miss Lifford, turning sharply. "It could not have been Miss Sarschine who called on that night."

"But I'm certain it was," said Dowker.

"What impertinence!" muttered the virtuous Annie.

"Never mind," said Dowker, sharply. "Go on with your story."

Miss Lifford sniffed indignantly and resumed:

"Lady Balscombe returned at half-past ten and went up to her dressing-room, where this—this lady was waiting for her. Miss Penfold went to bed. I don't know how long the lady was with my mistress, as I was told that my mistress would not require me again that night; but I waited about in case I should be wanted, and saw the lady leave the house shortly after eleven."

"Miss Sarschine?"

"Yes—at least the lady in the sealskin jacket, and you say it was Miss Sarschine, so I suppose it was. I then went to Lady Balscombe's room, but found the door locked; so, as I thought she had gone to bed, I went down-stairs to get my supper. When I came up-stairs again, about twelve, the door was still locked, so I went to bed."

"Lady Balscombe could not have gone out in the meantime?"

"No; because I asked the footman if anyone had gone out or come in, and he said no one."

"She could not have gone out without attracting the notice of the servants, I suppose?"

"No, they would have recognized her at once. I think she waited till everyone was in bed and then went off to meet Lord Calliston."

"But you are sure she did not leave till after twelve?"

"I'd swear it anywhere," returned Miss Lifford, impatiently.

"In that case," muttered Dowker, "it could not have been Lady Balscombe who saw Mr. Desmond at Lord Calliston's chambers, so it must have been Lena Sarschine."

"Do you want to know more?" asked Miss Lifford, icily.

"Yes. Tell me, what was Lady Balscombe like?"

Miss Lifford laughed contemptuously.

"Why, don't you know?" she replied. "You ought to, as she was one of the beauties of the season. Her portrait was all over the place. Why," catching sight of the photograph on the study table, "you have one."

Dowker handed her the photograph.

"Do you say that is Lady Balscombe?"

"Yes, certainly."

"What nonsense!" said Lydia. "Why, that is Miss Sarschine."

"I never saw Miss Sarschine," retorted Miss Lifford, "but I know that's Lady Balscombe."

"I never saw Lady Balscombe," replied Lydia, angrily, "but I know that's Miss Sarschine."

Dowker looked from one to the other and then slipped the photograph into his pocket along with the letters and the other photograph.

"There's only one way of settling this," he said, quietly. "I'll call on the photographer and ask him who it is."

He gave Annie Lifford some money, and then left the house wrapped in thought.

"This is a new complication," he said to himself, "this resemblance—they must be very like one another if their maids mix them up like this—and then Lena Sarschine calling on Lady Balscombe; I wonder if there can be any relationship between them—not likely—a lady of title and a woman of light character—well," finished up Dowker, philosophically, "I think the best thing for me to do is to discover as much about Lena Sarschine's previous life as possible, and to do this I'll run down to Folkestone and look up Captain Michael Dicksfall."

CHAPTER XI.

A FAMILY HISTORY.

Mr. Dowker was not a man to let grass grow under his feet, so he went straight to the photographer whose name was on the back of the portrait found in Lena Sarschine's possession and ascertained without much difficulty that it was that of Lady Balscombe.

"Now, what the deuce was that portrait doing in her desk?" he muttered, as he left the gallery, "and why should Lydia Fenny mistake it for her mistress? I wish I could get a picture of Miss Sarschine."

But he could not manage this. For, according to Lydia Fenny, Miss Sarschine would never consent to have her portrait taken; so that he had no means of learning if there was such a wonderful resemblance between the two women except by personal description, which was not by any means satisfactory.

Under these circumstances there was only one thing to be done—see Captain Dicksfall, the father of Lena—so, putting a few things together, Dowker caught the afternoon train to Folkestone form Charing Cross.

Dowker duly arrived at Folkestone and took up his abode in a hotel in the Sandigate Road, where he ordered himself a pleasant little dinner and made the acquaintance of a fatherly old waiter who knew everyone and everything.

This waiter at the Prince's Hotel rejoiced in the name of Martin, and, hovering about Dowker, armed with a napkin and a pint bottle of Heidsick, managed to satisfy that gentleman's curiosity concerning the existence of Captain Michael Dicksfall.

"Yes, sir—know him well, sir—by sight, sir," he said, brimming the empty glass with champagne. "H'old gentleman, sir—bin in the army—'ad two daughters."

"Two daughters?" repeated Dowker, eagerly.

"Yes, sir—Miss Amelia and Miss Helena, sir—twins—as fine-looking gals as you ever saw, sir—tall, 'andsome, and golden 'air."

"Oh, indeed!" replied Dowker indifferently. "And are they living with Captain Dicksfall?"

"No, sir," said Martin gravely. "You see, sir, Miss Helena fell in love with a gent who was stopping at the Pavilion, sir, and went off with him."

"What was his name?"

"Don't know, sir. He called himself Carrill, but they do say it was not his right name."

"Humph!"

Dowker pondered a little over this. It was as he had thought after reading the letters. Lord Calliston had masqueraded at Folkestone under the name of Carrill, and had inveigled Helena Dikesfall away from home and kept her in St. John's Wood as "Lena Sarschine."

"And the other young lady," he asked, "Miss Amelia?"

"Oh, she made a good match, sir," replied Martin. "Married Sir Rupert Balscombe, sir, about a year ago. But I did 'ear, sir, as 'ow she 'ad bolted last week, sir, with Lord Calliston—same blood, sir; it will come out." And Martin departed to attend upon an important customer.

"Same blood," repeated Dowker musingly. "I wonder if he knows it's the same man? Calliston evidently had a penchant for the family, for there seems to be no doubt that Miss Sarschine and Lady Balscombe were sisters. So he kept one and made love to the other! Queer—deuced queer! Well, I think I had better look up Captain Dicksfall."

He finished his wine, and, putting on his hat, went out into the cool evening and strolled leisurely along the Leas, first having taken the precaution of putting Dicksfall's address in his pocket.

He had no difficulty in finding Captain Dicksfall's cottage, which was a comfortable-looking place with a small garden in front. A neat maid servant admitted him into a dusky passage, and from thence showed him into a small drawing-room, at the end of which, near the window, Captain Dicksfall lay on a sofa, looking out on to a quiet street. A haggard, pale face, worn by suffering, but which had once been handsome. He lay supinely on the sofa in an attitude of utter lassitude, covered by a heavy rug, and his slender white hands were toying with a book which was lying on his lap.

He turned fretfully when Dowker entered, and spoke in the querulous voice of an invalid.

"What is it, my good man?" he said peevishly. "Why do you come and disturb me at this hour? My doctor has ordered complete rest, and how can I get it if you trouble me?"

"Selfish old chap," thought Dowker, but without saying a word he took his seat near the invalid and commenced to talk.

"I am sorry to trouble you, sir," he said, respectfully, "but I wanted to see you about your daughters."

"My daughters!" echoed Captain Dicksfall angrily. "You are making a mistake. I have only one—Lady Balscombe!"

Dowker felt disappointed.

"I understood you had two daughters, sir—Lady Balscombe and Miss Helena Dicksfall?"

The invalid turned sharply on him.

"Who the devil are you to intrude yourself into my private affairs?"

Dowker came at once promptly to the point.

"My name is Dowker. I am a detective."

Captain Dicksfall struck his hand angrily down on the pillow.

"Sent by Sir Rupert, I presume?" he said with a sneer. "He wants to get a divorce, and you have come to me for evidence. I know nothing. My daughter was always a good daughter to me, and if Sir Rupert had treated her well this elopement with Lord Calliston would never have taken place. He is to blame, not she."

"I do not come from Sir Rupert," said Dowker coldly, "but from Scotland Yard."

"About what?"

"The death of your other daughter."

Captain Dicksfall started up with a groan, and stared wildly at Dowker.

"Good God! Is Helena dead?"

"Who is Helena?" asked Dowker stolidly.

"My daughter—my daughter."

"I thought you said you'd only one, sir."

The sick man turned away his face.

"I had two," he said in a low tone, "but one, the eldest, ran away with some scamp called Carrill. Since then I have heard nothing of her, so I always say I have only one."

Dowker thought for a few moments. It was a very delicate position to occupy, and, feeling it to be so, for a moment he was doubtful as to how to proceed.

"Captain Dicksfall," he said at length, "I know I am only a common man and you are a gentleman. It is not for such as me to speak to you about your private affairs, but this is a matter of life or death to a human being; and if you hear my story I am sure you will not refuse to help me by telling me what I want to know."

Dicksfall was looking at the detective with a somber fire burning in his usually bright eyes, then with a sigh he lay down and prepared to listen.

"Tell me what you wish," he said languidly, "and if possible I will do what you require."

Whereupon Dowker told him the story of the Jermyn street murder, the elopement of Lady Balscombe, and the reasons he had for believing that the two incidents were connected in some mysterious way. He also informed him of the arrest of Myles Desmond, and of the doubts he entertained concerning his criminality.

At the conclusion Dicksfall was silent for a minute, then turned toward the detective and clasped his thin fingers nervously together.

"I am a proud man," he said, with a touch of pathos, "and do not care about telling the world my private affairs; but in a case like this it is only right I should put myself aside for the sake of clearing the character of an innocent man. What do you wish to know?"

"Was Lena Sarschine your daughter?"

For answer Dicksfall pointed to a small table near at hand upon which was a morocco frame containing two portraits. Dowker took them to the window and looked at them.

"Both of the same lady?" he asked.

Dicksfall smiled faintly.

"You are not the first who has been deceived," he said with a sigh. "No. One is my daughter Helena, who, from your story, I believe to be Lena Sarschine, and the other is Amelia, Lady Balscombe—twins."

Dowker examined the photographs closely, and was astonished at the likeness, which was further aided by both of them being dressed exactly alike.

"It is wonderful," he said, and no longer wondered at the way in which Lydia Fenny and Annie Lifford had confused the identity of the portrait found in Lena Sarschine's desk.

"I have been living here for many years," said Dicksfall, in a low voice, "and my two daughters lived with me. Their mother has been dead a long time. About three years ago a young man who called himself Carrill came here and stopped at the Pavilion Hotel. He obtained an introduction to me by some means, and appeared to be struck with the beauty of Helena. I thought he was going to marry her, when I heard rumors as to the fastness of his life and also that he was not what he represented himself to be. I taxed him with it, but he denied the accusation, yet so transparent was his denial that I forbade him the house. The result was that Helena ran away with him, and, until the time you spoke to me of her and told me his real name, I did not know it, and never entertained any suspicion of his real rank in life. I was so angry that I forbade Helena's name to be mentioned in my hearing, and always said, as I did to-night, that I had only one daughter—my daugther Amelia; married to Sir Rupert Balscombe last year—and I thought she would, at least, not follow the example of her sister. Now, however, I know all; but, to tell you the truth, I blame Sir Rupert for her elopement, as I know she was a kind daughter and I am sure she'd have made a good wife. He was very jealous of her and had a fearful temper, so I dare say he drove her to it. From what you say, I suppose my poor Helena went to see her sister on the night of the elopement to dissuade her from going with Lord Calliston, and surely she had the best right to speak of one who had ruined her own life, but evidently her arguments were of no avail, and she called at Calliston's chambers to remonstrate with him. He was not there and she went out to her death, and then Amelia eloped with him, as you have told me. I was a fast man in my youth and the sins of the father are being visited on the children."

"But this does not clear up the mystery of Lena Sarschine's death."

"Don't call her by that name," said Dicksfall, angrily. "It is the name that shames her. No, you are right; it does not explain her death. But I do not know, from what you say, what motive Myles Desmond could have had in murdering her."

"Do you know the name of anyone who admired her?"

"No."

"Not one?"

"Not one."

There was clearly nothing more to be gained from Dicksfall, so Dowker respectfully said good-by and took his leave.

"At all events," he said to himself, as he wended his way back to his hotel, "I've found out one thing—Lena Sarschine and Lady Balscombe were sisters, and both loved the same man. What I'd like to know is, whether Lady Balscombe killed her sister out of jealousy. I'm getting more perplexed than ever. This visit, instead of clearing up the mystery, deepens it. I think I'll see Sir Rupert Balscombe and ask him about things; as his wife is mixed up in it I've a right, and I'd give anything to save that young fellow's life, because I'm sure he's innocent."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

What Tickled a Hoosier.

One day I was riding along a highway in Indiana when I came upon a pile of bedding and articles of crockery and hardware in front of a farm house, and seated on the horse block was a corpulent old man with a very red face. Naturally enough I asked him what had happened, and he went off into laughter which lasted a full minute before he could reply.

"Them duds belong to Ben and Mary."

"But who are Ben and Mary?"

"Ben's my—my—ha! ha! ha! I've laffed till I'm almost dead. Ben's my son, and Mary is his—ha! ha! ha!—wife."

"But who tumbled those things out of there?"

"I did."

"And where are Ben and Mary?"

"She's gone home and he's broke for the woods. Stranger, excuse me, but I'd have to laff if there was a corpse in the house. It's too durned funny for anything—ha! ha! ha!"

And he yelled and whooped until he could have been heard half a mile. When he sobered up a little I asked:

"Is there a joke in this somewhere?"

"Is there? Whoop! I should say there was! Go into the house and you'll find the old woman nigh dead with laffing."

"Well, what is it?"

"You see, Ben got married about three months ago. Purty good boy, but inclined to be tricky. He married a purty fair girl, but she's dreffully ambitious. They cum home to live, and about a month ago wanted me'n the ole woman to deed over the farm to them and be taken care of the rest of our lives. We didn't like the idea, but they hung to it, and so last week I made out a deed and handed it over. It wasn't a deed describin' this farm, but some other farm, though it all looked reg'lar nuff."

"You doubted their faith, eh?"

"I kinder did, and so—ha! ha! ha! Say, stranger, don't think hard of me, but I've got to laff or bust. Just tickles me way back to my shoulder blades!"

He went off into another fit, and when he got his breath again he continued:

"This morning was the sixth day since they got the deed. As soon as breakfast was over Ben said they'd concluded to git along without our valued company, and suggested that as it was nine miles to the poorhouse we make an early start. He intended to turn us smack outdoors without a dollar, but he got left. I told him he'd better look into the deed a bit, and he went to town and diskivered the trick I had played. You orter seen them two when they come back! Why, why——"

And he laughed again until I had to pat him on the back to prevent a catastrophe.

"They were the humblest, downtroddenest, used-upest, gone-to-pieces pair you ever sot eyes on. Ben got a plug of terbacker and a hoss pistil and left for the woods, and Mary tied a wet towel around her head and hoofed it for her father's house. I've brought out their duds and piled 'em up here, and if they don't send fur 'em before noon they kin go to the dogs."

"Well, they deserve it."

"Yes, they do, but it was a narrer escape for me. If that deed had been all right me'n the old woman would be paupers to-day. But it wasn't all right, and—and——"

And I had driven at least half a mile before I lost the sounds of his laughter.—New York Sun.

THERE is nothing new under the sun. Adam had the grip. At least Milton says so—"Paradise Lost," Book XI.:

"—for Adam at the news
Heartstruck with chilling gripe."

PITH AND POINT.

BLACK art—charcoal sketch.

THE love-sick maiden is almost always too small for her sighs.

CHICAGO'S big feat—outwitting New York in the world's fair contest.

THE cat's purr is the sign of peace. The rooster's spur is an emblem of war.

NATURE has wisely arranged matters so that a man can neither pat his own back nor kick himself

TO KNOW how to wait is the secret of hope—to have time to wait long enough, is the hope of success.

A RECENT novel in flexible covers is creating a great sensation. A Burlington woman uses it to spank her children with.

TEACHER—Now, my children, we will parse the sentence. "John refused the pie." Tommy Jones, what is John? Tommy—A darned fool.

A GOOD instance of absence of mind was an editor quoting from a rival paper one of his own articles, and heading it, "Wretched Attempt at Wit!"

CHOLLY—I am practicing on the type-writer every day now. Mollie—I thought there was a remarkable improvement in your courting here lately.

YEAST—What's Smithers playing in now? Crimsonbeak—Hamlet. "Does he enter into the spirit of the piece?" "Oh, yes; he is taking the part of the Ghost."

"OF what nationality is your husband, Mrs. Flaherty?" "Faith, and I don't just know. He was born in England but he has lived all his life in this country."

ANGRY subscriber—I am mad all the way through, and I want my paper stopped. Editor—Yes, sir; do you want to pay what you owe? Angry subscriber—No; I ain't mad enough for that.

TRAMP—Can you give me a bite to eat, madam? Minister's wife—We haven't a bite in the house. A donation party swooped down on us last night and cleaned us out of everything but the furniture.

EDITH—I don't like electric light in a house. Jack—Why? Edith—because it can be turned on so unexpectedly by—pa, for instance. Jack—Well, let us go out on the piazza. The moon won't play us any trick.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL teacher—Willie, how would you feel if you should ask somebody for bread and be given a stone? Willie (a jeweler's son)—If it was no better than the one on your shirt front I'd feel awful.

DURING a wifely call: Mrs. Wiggers—What is that thing, William? Mr. Wiggers—Why, mother, that's a—ahem—well, you know; why, that's my new dictating machine. Mrs. Wiggers—Oh! I was afraid for a minute it was one of those type-writers.

DE SNOOKS—Is your pretty little friend much of an artiste? Rival Belle—Nothing original about her, she copies everything she does. De Snooks—Is that so? Rival Belle (bitterly)—Yes, I don't believe she can draw her own breath without using tracing paper.

MRS. DUSKY—Am dem de black stockings' you told me "about buyin?" Miss Saffron—Yes, dem is de ones, Cicely; an' dey only cos' "seventy-five cents." "Am dey silk?" "Not 'zactly, but dey're jes' as good." "An' will dey wash." "Dat I don' know; I'se only had 'em fo' weeks."

Great editor—I think it would be a good idea to print our circulation at the head of our editorial page. What's the population of this country? Business manager—About 70,000,000. Great editor—Well, we'll not claim a circulation of over 60,000,000. No use in being hoggish.

A DREADFUL POSSIBILITY.

The lands of the Sioux
Are open, 'tis trioux,
To the hardy white settler who likes all things nioux;
But what will he dioux
When the frolicsome Sioux
Swoops down on him, scalps him, and chops him in tioux?
—Chicago Mail.

Shakspeare's Deer.

The story that Shakspeare went to London to avoid imprisonment for stealing a deer has no reliable fact to support it. In the first place, stealing deer was not at that time a punishable offense; then the story was not told during his lifetime, and we may well suppose his jealous contemporaries would not have neglected to use it against him had the incident really occurred. Nor did he seek London simply to provide for his increasing family. The parents of both were in good circumstances, for the attempts to prove that his father became poor at this time are not entitled to respect, while his wife's father is described as a substantial yeoman and property-holder. And were it otherwise, were he really in reduced circumstances, he would scarcely have gone to London to better his fortune as writer or actor—resources equally precarious at that time. His course was simply the natural consequences of his nature, the necessary result of the unerring promptings of his genius, and the spurring of the ambition which always accompanies its possession. Genius cannot be circumscribed—it will liberate and vindicate itself. We have no patience with the sickly sentimentality of the idea of genius being hidden and lost for lack of opportunities. It creates opportunities; or rather, it discovers them everywhere, and turns them to its advantage. In Shakspeare's case, genius was allied to business sagacity and shrewdness, and to the latter qualities he owed much of his prosperity.

Candid Hospitality.

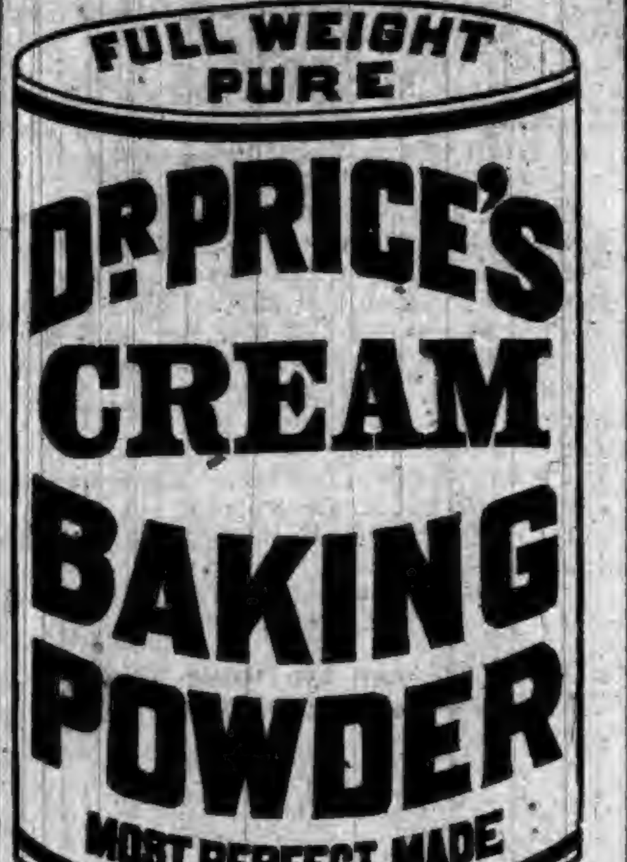
"It ain't ev'rybody I'd put to sleep in this room," said old Mrs. Jinks to the fastidious and extremely nervous young minister who was spending a night in B——, at her house.

"This here room is full of sacred associations to me," she went on; "my first husband died in that bed with his head on these very pillars, and poor Mr. Jinks died sitting right in that corner. Sometimes when I come into the room in the dark I think I see him settin' there still.

"My own father died layin' right on that lounge under the winder. Poor pa! He was a Speeritualist, and he allus said he'd appear in this room after he died, and sometimes I'm foolish enough to look for him. If you should see anything of him to-night you'd better not tell me; for it'd be a sign to me that there was something in Speeritualism, and I'd hate to think that.

"My son by my first man fell dead of heart disease right where you stand. He was a doctor, and there's two whole skeletons in that closet that belonged to him, and half a dozen skulls in that lower drawer.

"Well, good-night, and pleasant dreams."



FULL WEIGHT PURE DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

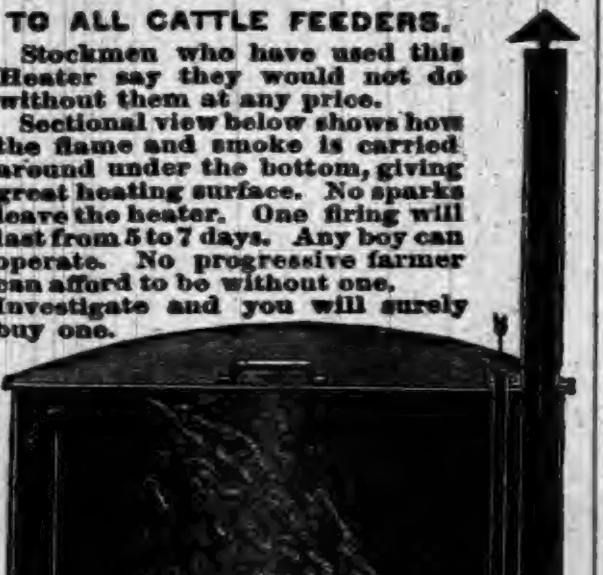
Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills makes a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York. SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

★ TANK HEATER. A GREAT SAVING TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.

Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price. Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.



COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES. SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES. O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO., LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR— CRAYON PORTRAIT NICELY FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT. Plush Border. Size, 24 x 28 inches. For $3.00 As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00. (ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.) BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF PROVOST'S Cream Washing Powder. ONLY COSTS 5c PER PACKAGE. One Coupon in Every Package. Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity. Ask Your GROCER For It. If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it. WARREN PROVOST & CO., 26-30 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *5 30	pm *6 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling.........	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 05	pm ‡3 15
Zanesville.......	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark...........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus.....ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus.....lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	‡6 50
Mansfield........	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 23
Deshler..........	3 39	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance.........	4 22	5 43	10 15	8 30	1 50
Auburn jc........	......	6 40	11 34	10 22	2 58
Avilla...........	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	1 16	am 12 06	4 16
Wellsboro........	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 25
Wellsboro........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 08
Milford jc.......	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 28
Avilla...........	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc........	......	7 05	12 38	3 22	9 40
Defiance.........	pm 3 05	7 53	2 10	4 37	10 45
Mansfield........	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	‡2 44
Columbus.........	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark...........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	6 00
Zanesville.......	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 23	6 20
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York.....ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

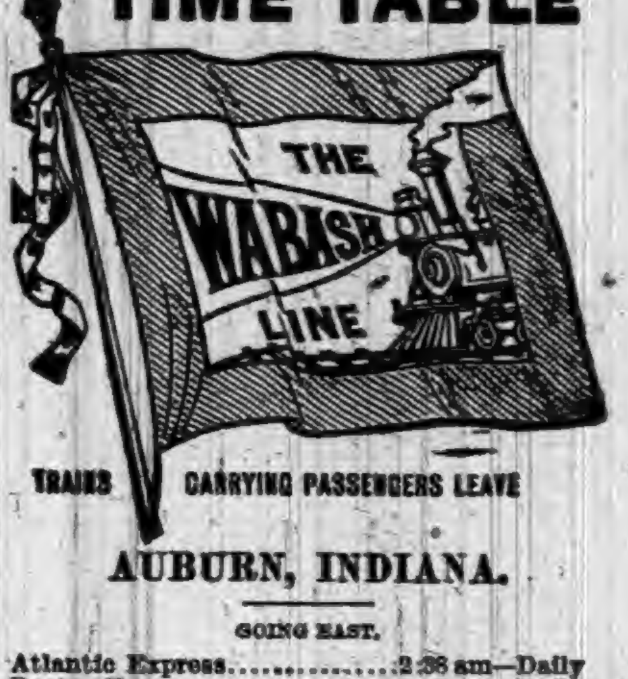
Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era..............	12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn June.........	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn................	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo..............	12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit................	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake........	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola................	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont...............	1 35	6 34	1 25 pm
Reading...............	2 04	7 04	2 10
Bankers...............	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale.............	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc....	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville............	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson...............	3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson...............	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville............	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc....	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale.............	....	12 30	7 45
Bankers...............	9 40	12 56	8 01
Reading...............	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont...............	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola................	12 01	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake........	12 45 pm	2 07	9 03
Summit................	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo..............	2 35	2 35	9 23
Auburn................	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc..........	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era..............	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne...........	5 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

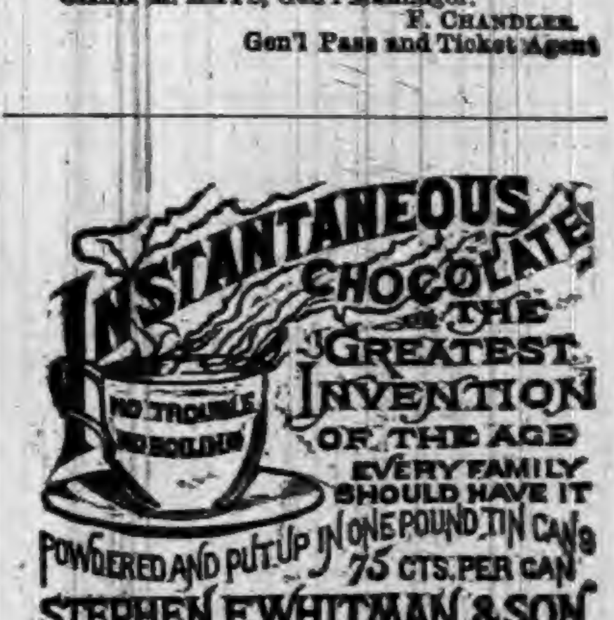
GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..........2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express..........5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom..........2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim..........8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express..........1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom..........6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express..........12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim..........5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent



INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT NO TROUBLE NO BOILING POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'R'S PHILADELPHIA, PA.

DR. ELLIOTT'S MEDICATED-FOOD, A Sure Cure for all Diseases in HORSES, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements. A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
B. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..........APRIL 17, 1890.

APRIL ELECTIONS.

County Convention.

By order of the Democratic Central Committee of DeKalb County Indiana, notice is hereby given that the County Convention of the Democratic party of such County, will be held at Auburn on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

At 10 o'clock a. m. to place in nomination, the candidates to be voted for at the general election to be held on November 4, 1890. The officers to be elected at such election, are:

A Representative.
A Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court.
A County Auditor.
A Sheriff.
A Treasurer.
A Recorder.
A Surveyor.
A Coroner.
A Commissioner for the Southwest district.
A Commissioner for the Southeast district.

The basis of representation to such convention is one delegate for every ten (10) votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State in 1888, in each precinct, and one delegate for a fraction of five (5) or more votes given such Secretary of State, therein. The votes given for such Secretary of State in 1888 and delegates to the County Convention from each election precinct in DeKalb County, are as follows:

ELECTION PRECINCTS.	SEC'Y OF STATE VOTE.	NO. OF DELE'S
Butler	113	11
Jackson	214	21
Concord South	120	12
Concord North	130	13
Newville	75	8
Stafford	73	7
Wilmington South	173	17
Wilmington North	216	22
Auburn South	246	25
Auburn North	196	20
Waterloo East	164	16
Waterloo West	81	8
Richland	202	20
Fairfield	238	24
Smithfield	170	17
Franklin	144	14
Troy	56	6
Keyser East	271	27
Keyser West	263	26
Total		314
Necessary to a choice		158

It was also ordered that caucuses for the purpose of selecting such delegates, will be held in each election precinct in the county (except the precincts in Union, Grant Wilmington and Keyser townships) at the usual place of holding elections, on Saturday May 24, 1890, at one (1) o'clock in the afternoon, and in the precincts in the townships of Union, Grant, Wilmington and Keyser on the same day at 7½ o'clock in the evening. Provided that a different hour of such day may be named by the Central committee man of any precinct of which due notice shall be given, by such committeeman.

At the same time and place of holding such caucuses, there will also be selected one delegate from each precinct for each of the following conventions, viz. The State Convention, the Congressional Convention, the Judicial Convention and the Joint Representative Convention. But the voting power of such delegate to such last named conventions is to be determined by such conventions respectively.

ALFRED KELLEY, Chairman,
Dem. Co. Cent. Com.

County Candidates.

The COURIER has carefully refrained from entering on a discussion of county politics till after the township elections were over. We believe that one thing at a time is the proper way. We also believe that no good can come of a long discussion of probable candidates. When the time comes, we always have an abundance of good material from which to select. The present campaign abundantly proves the last assertion. We have an abundance of excellent names from which to choose. We will briefly name those who are seeking a nomination for the various offices, as far as they have been brought to our notice, and if we overlook any one, it will be because we have not heard of them, or that it escaped our memory.

For Representative, we have Hon. Freeman Kelley, Hon. W. H. Dills and John F. Shuman.

For Clerk, there are, W. B. Brown and Hon. D. D. Moody, of Auburn, Solomon Barney, of St. Joe, W. H. Leas, of Waterloo, and James W. Clark, of Smithfield.

For Auditor there have been mentioned, W. L. Blair, of Butler, Frank Seiler, of Fairfield, H. N. Coffinberry, of Garrett, and I. N. Cool and Frank Borst of Auburn.

For Sheriff, Phil Plum will be re-nominated, as it has always been the custom to give sheriff, treasurer and surveyor a second term.

For treasurer, we have Reuben Sawvel of Franklin, B. L. Duncan of Waterloo, and we hear it said that Perry Fitch of Butler township will also be in the race.

For recorder, we have Samuel Williams of Fairfield, W. S. Getts of Waterloo and George L. Lanning and S. R Heberling of Auburn.

For surveyor, J. M. Hook, our present efficient surveyor will of course be re nominated. That has always been the custom and he has done his work well.

As to coroner and commissioners we have heard no names mentioned.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements in a formal way, will be made next week, and as this takes up space from now until convention, and as papers are now crowded for space, we are obliged in order to save ourselves from loss, to make a charge. It will be $2 payable in advance. We have consulted with Bro. Higgins, of the Review, and he fully agrees in this. A paper must devote much space to campaign matter for which no pay can be had, and a vast amount of free time is also given. If a fee is not collected in advance, the most of it will never be collected. No paper can afford to bear all these burdens. So in this one matter we feel that candidates will agree that we should be made whole. Our experience is that a campaign is a great burden to a newspaper and not as some think, a sort of harvest No respectable publisher will take "blood money" from candidates, but candidates should take a business view of the matter and pay for what work they actually have done. And to show the honesty of the bill, the publisher should make out an itemized account just as he does in other business matters. We have many of these little accounts that have never been settled. We don't want any more of them. A man who seeks an office, that will in one term make him comfortable, should pay all his campaign obligations. If he won't do this, he don't deserve an office. We have a friendly feeling for every man named and earnestly hope they are all friendly to us. And while we cannot help any of them to get a nomination, they all have our good wishes. The man who is nominated shall have our hearty support. This we have always given to the successful candidate. The COURIER has never failed to give its best efforts for the election of every nominee

A word more to candidates: Unsought advice is not often agreeable. We will not therefore, call this advice, for we wish to retain your good will, and at the same time do you a kindness. We can look at these things more coolly than you can. We are not so deeply interested. But we are interested enough to desire success. Let us do nothing that will injure our prospects for success. We have a clear majority of the voters of this county. Let us so manage this canvass for nominations as to retain these voters, everyone of them, for the benefit of the ticket after nominations are made In going over the country to urge our cause among the people, let us be careful what we say about others. Talk for ourselves, but against no one. Don't say a word that will take away a single vote from the man who succeeds in getting the nomination. Bind this maxim on your heart. The COURIER is for party success believing from experience, that the people of the county will be benefited by having a full set of democratic officers. Show those you meet, that you are worthy of the position you seek, and not that some one else is unworthy. Don't make a fight on locality, for there is not much in this, nor on the credit of a big majority, for these majorities are liable to slip away now and then. In brief, make the canvass for the nomination in a manly way, that people may respect you whether you succeed or not. Then there will be no sores to be healed and no breaches to be repaired. Then those who get the nominations can move on with a full vote to a glorious victory

The vote of 1890. For the Townships in DeKalb County.

We have received the following additional townships:

RICHLAND—TRUSTEE.
L W. Treesh, d	179
M. E Reynolds, r	179
Cast lots and Reynolds got it.
ASSESSOR.
J. L. Smith, d	181	1
Chas. H. Bangs, r	180
JUSTICES.
Geo. W. Maxwell, d	196	35
Wm Thomas, r	161
James W. Johnson, d	190	23
W. H. Crane, r	167
CONSTABLES.
V. Steffe, d	190	19
Henry Shade, r	171
John Amstutz, d	176	3
Daniel Steckley, r	179	3
BUTLER—TRUSTEE.
Alex. Baltz, d	96
W. H. Fair, r	110	14
ASSESSOR
David Heitz, d	126	47
H. P. Housel, r	79
JUSTICES.
M L Hoffman, d	125	46
W H H. Cornell, r	79
David Gump, d	109	20
Suas Simon, r	89
CONSTABLES.
Daniel N Terry, d	120	38
A. B. Haynes, r	82
W. W. Jackson, d	113	22
Winfield Garrett, r	91
FRANKLIN—TRUSTEE.
Wm. Whetsel, d	163	23
E. C Potter, r	140
ASSESSOR.
C P. Hammond, d	138
M. C. Jones, r	169	31
JUSTICES.
John Gnagy, d	146
G. B. Sonle, r	160	14
George Pierson, d	148
R. R. Dirrim, r	158	10
CONSTABLES.
F. Wagoner, d	137
Hiram Wolf, r	158	21
George Beard, d	149
Frank Ebel, r	167	18

ELECTION NOTES

W. B. Chiesman, of Newville, is the new chairman of the republican central committee, and we are told that when he was elected to that dignified office, he felt so good, that he promised to "give a good account of Newville and Concord." As the election approached, he got a lively hustle on him, and went over that part of the county like a Kansas cyclone. He carried things with a high hand and became a small edition of Dudley, Huston and Michener bound in one. But the people there didn't take kindly to a "little boss," and sat down on him pressing him out rather flat. His township should have about 45 republican majority. But it went down to 8, with a "dull, sickening thud." The democratic candidate was not able to come out that day on account of sickness in his family. There was no one to work in his place, and the other democrats simply did what they could do without him. Beside this, near twenty democrats did not come to the polls. But for these adverse circumstances, that little majority of 8 would have been wiped out. Concord went 15 democratic, and Mr. Cheisman came within one of being left to "hold the sack." All this accounts for his blueness when in Auburn the next day.

We have it from the best source, that republicans are not as good temperance people as they would like to have people believe. Note this disgraceful incident. One of the democratic candidates in Concord, was at one time in the habit of indulging too much in strong drink. Republicans had taken advantage of this weakness to defeat him once. But since then he had reformed. His reformation was real, for he had clinched his good resolutions by joining the church. Men with souls in their bodies would have respected this state of things, and not only tried to keep temptation away from him, but would have rejoiced that he was man enough to save himself. Not so, two republicans fine workers of Spencerville. They laid a plan as mean as it was Satanic. They loaded up some bottles of whisky and hastened off the evening before election to "interview" the democrat, and actually went to him and tried to get him to drink, knowing that with one drink he would be likely to fall, and be an easy prey next day. Not only could they defeat him, but by getting him defeated would be able to carry down the entire democratic ticket. But they had struck the wrong man. He had stopped drinking, and had the manliness to stick to his pledges. The two members of the grand old party of moral ideas and corrupt practices sneaked home in the small hours of the night, arriving in Spencerville, in a condition so unsteady, that it was difficult to get along at all. All honor to the man who stood by his good resolutions. His name should be written high up, in letters of gold. But for those that tempted him, what shall we say? Perhaps it is best to let the "veil of silence" fall over them.

Democratic Committee Meeting.

The newly elected committeemen met in Ensley's Hall last Saturday at 1 p. m. and elected a new chairman. Only two candidates were offered. Ab. Kelley of Waterloo, and Dr. Nusbaum of this place. At the first vote several mistakes were made, owing to the half votes some precincts had. So a second was taken and Kelly had 10½ votes and Nusbaum 6½. It was decided that when the new precincts are formed this summer, that the chairman may fill vacancies in the board. The ratio of representation was settled as given in the call this week. The date of convention, and of caucus, will also be found in the call. The choice of chairman seems quite satisfactory. Arrangements were made to have the chairman appoint committees of five on organization, and the members of the executive committee.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Last Friday Prof. Keep visited Butler.

Dr. Mathews, from Fremont, was in town.

The DeKalb bank is handsomely decorated and painted.

Last Thursday Eugene Trout, of Auburn, was in town.

Mrs. J. A. Dennison has a friend visiting her from Ohio.

The widow Shaffer had friends visiting her and her daughters.

Mrs. Fred Waterman is repairing her property on Union Street.

Mrs Lœwenstein and daughter Julia, spent last Friday in Butler.

Last week Rev. A. L. Lamport and wife, of Bristol, were in town.

Last Friday evening the Cedar Lake school gave an entertainment.

The broom factory was not working last week for want of material.

Emma Fisher is spending the week with Mrs. Hodge north of Auburn.

Julia Lœwenstein was home from her school in Chicago for a few days vacation.

Dell Locke and wife are the happy possessors of a baby girl. Born Friday

Walter Hartman and Frank Davenport, of Auburn, were in Waterloo Saturday.

Mr. Blanchard and wife went to housekeeping in property in the west end of town.

Las Sunday Homer Henning spent at home. He is traveling for a firm at Ft Wayne.

Mrs. W. B. Hall, of Elkhart, and baby are visiting her father's family, C. M. Phillip.

Miss Lucetta Cox, of Smithfield, spent Monday with her uncle and aunt, Lee Stamets.

Will Miller was called away by the death of his mother at Romeo, Michigan, last week.

Mrs. G Chapman, of Auburn, was the guest of Dr. Carpenter's family two days of last week.

Mr. Frœlich, of Toledo, is here setting up some nice monuments in our beautiful cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Richards, of Auburn, were here on last Friday to inspect the Butt monument.

Will Dickinson came last Saturday to accompany his wife to their home in Tecumseh, Michigan.

W. H. Leas and wife entertained his father's family, also his brothers' families for dinner on Sunday.

Mrs. Bachelor, of Nevada Mills, Steuben county, was here visiting her daughter, Mrs. James Campbell.

R. G. Daniels has bought of the heirs of John Sinclair, the property owned by them on South Wayne street.

Mrs. J. Lœwenstein and daughter Tessie went to Defiance, Ohio, and spent part of last week with friends.

Mrs. W. L. Blair, of Butler, and Miss Belle Blair, of Newville, were visiting the family of Gen. Blairs last week.

Frank Blattner and wife, of Auburn, also Dr Coats were in attendance at the Presbyterian church last Sunday.

The meetings held by Rev. H. A. Sawyers at the Presbyterian church last week resulted in several accessions to the church.

A gentleman who has been in the hotel business in Elkhart was in Waterloo the latter part of last week, looking up a new location.

Miss Lottie Zwilling accompanied by her mother and Dr. Broughton went to Ft. Wayne to have her eyes treated for strabismus

Chas. Bassett Jr. who went to Hicksville and met with the accident of a broken leg was brought home Tuesday of this week.

Rev. H. C. Smith was appointed pastor of the M. E church at Pierceton, Ind., Many were disappointed, that he was not returned here.

Miss Nannie Leas, of Ann Arbor, and her uncle Mr. Fay, of Bryan, were in town Tuesday and went to Auburn for a short visit with friends.

Rev L. A. Retts, the new pastor of the M. E church with his family arrived in town Thursday where they were warmly welcomed by his people.

Last Thursday at Mrs. Craig Day's a rag bee was gathered, that is a number of ladies were invited to sew carpet rags, visit and partake of an excellent supper.

Forrest Dickinson started Monday night for Akron, Colorado, where he will locate in the jewelry business. He is a steady young man and will no doubt succeed.

It is about time for the prophecy to be fulfilled "that Oakland, San Francisco and vicinity would be submerged by the sea and destroyed, in three months," Time is about up.

H. E. Braun and his granddaughter Grace, went to Ft. Wayne Monday and returned in the evening accompanied by Mrs. Braun, who had been there visiting some days.

William Crane has sold his property up the railroad, where he has resided for so many years, to Rev. Geist, who will move here from Kendallville in a few days. Rev. Geist is presiding elder of the Evangelical church.

The W. R. C. campfire social last Friday evening at the G. A. R. hall was well attended. The exhibition of fine views by Mr. Kimsey with stereoptican, music, recitations and a fine lunch filled the house, and only 10 cents to pay for all.

Quite a number of our people went to Angola on Monday evening to attend Joseph Cook's lecture. Among them we noticed F. W. Willis and wife, J. M. Waterman and wife, J. Jackman and wife, Mrs. Keep and John Shuman. They feel repaid for their going.

Waterloo seems to be a little out of line of cyclones and big storms. Last Tuesday the storm that did so much damage in many places, and some even to our neighbor, Auburn, was with us only a heavy rain, much thunder and lightning, and some hail but quite small.

Last week Friday John Davis, county treasurer, was kept busy during his stay here. From the way in which people rushed in, it would seem to be a pleasure to pay taxes. One gentleman stated he had gone twice, but seeing no prospect of the number present decreasing, came away and gave it up.

Miss Flora Speer's U. B. missionary gleaners band gave a concert in the U. B church last Sunday night. The house was crowded and the exercises were good. This was the first of their concerts yet given by this band. Mrs. Ella Richards, of Churubusco, gave a very interesting address on Africa and explained its country, people and customs. Miss Mettie Maxson presided at the organ. The children all did well for their first effort.

CONCORD.

Mrs. Barbara Baker is very sick.

Grandma Scott is quite sick at present.

George Howey is jubilant over his little girl baby.

Rev. S. S. Stanton is giving instructions in music.

Mrs. Sade Woodcox returned from visiting her sister.

Jim May is happy since the election, although no office seeker.

Clyde Woodcox was at Garrett last Monday on a business trip.

Belle Milton is visiting her sister, Jennie Andrews, in Coburntown.

Mr. Vanyzle and daughter Ida of Leo, visited in the family of I. N. Wyatt.

C. Keller and wife attended the funeral of Mrs. Henry Keller last Tuesday near Butler.

Monday the men commenced hauling the stone for the foundation of the new church.

Letha Jenkins, May Shearer and Nora Harris, of St. Joe, attended church here last Sabbath.

Ollie Morr is finishing the term of school for C. H. Brown, other business transact ons more important.

The spring is late and the farmer will be in a rush shortly. No office seekers' calls solicited for they prove quite a hindrance to the farmer.

The barn that was burned by lighting a few nights ago was owned by Mr J. Bovle is insured, the contents owned by P. A. Shurts, no insurance. Mr. B is in West Virginia at the present time

GOLDEN EGGS!

STOP! Were you going to pass over this ad. without reading it? I want to ask you one question, and that is, what are you going to do with your eggs this summer? If you will send me your name on a postal card, I will mail you one of our new circulars for 1890, which will show you how to get 24 cents a dozen the year round for them. The Golden Egg formula is warranted to keep eggs fresh two years, and is the only perfect egg preserver now in use. There are no "shakers" among them: that is, the yolks do not become addled, or settle to the shell, but retain their natural condition in center of the eggs—the whites thick and ropy, the same as fresh eggs There are several other methods of preserving eggs, but the one particular objection above named is present in all of them. Cost of packing and getting ready for market will not exceed ½ cent per dozen. Price of individual right to use is $2.00, two for $3.00 Send for circular to

P. P. LOCHNER, Auburn, Ind.,
Proprietor of Golden Egg Formula for DeKalb County.

HAMBLETONIAN.

COLONEL STERLING.

—PEDIGREE.—

Colonel Sterling was sired by Sterling 1447, he by Volunteer, 55, and he by Hambletonian, 10. Colonel Sterling's dam was sired by Robert Fillingham, Jr., he by George Wilks, 519, and he by Hambletonian, 10.

Look at the Royal blood combination, that of Hambletonian, 10, George Wilks, 519, and Volunteer, 55, all for $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

Write for extended pedigree.

F. J. YESBERA,
AUBURN, IND.

Teeters—Ober.

At the residence of the bride's parents Cedar Creek, Ind., March 27, 1890, Mr. Franklin M. Teeters of Keyser township, and Miss Amanda Ober of Butler township, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, by Rev. Henry Steckly. May joy, peace and happiness ever be theirs to enjoy. And perchance a little Teeters should fall across their pathway now and then, may it have the effect of making brighter and happier the golden days of old age.

Election Notice.

I, J. F. Aber, clerk of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Ind., do hereby certify that at a corporation election to be held on

Monday, May 5, 1890,

the following officers are to be elected:

One Marshal.
One Clerk.
One Treasurer,
Each for the term of one year.
One Trustee for the First (1) Ward.
One Trustee for the Third (3) Ward.
One Trustee for the Fourth (4) Ward.

In testimony of which I have set my hand and affixed the Seal of said town this 16 day of April, 1890, J. F. Aber Town Clerk.

Notice of Sale of Personal Property.

Notice is hereby given, that I, William Seeley administrator of the estate of Ann Murray deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder at her late residence ½ mile west of Newville, Indiana, on

Saturday, May 10, 1890,

at 10 a. m. the following described personal property, belonging to the estate of said decedent to wit:

Two brood mares, one yearling colt One cow and calf, One yearling heifer, Two brood sows, Eleven shoats, chickens and turkeys, all her household goods, wagons, harness and many other things.

TERMS OF SALE: For all amounts not exceeding five dollars, cash in hand. For amounts of five dollars and upwards, a credit of nine months will be given.

Note, bearing six per cent interest after maturity, with approved security, and waiving valuation and appraisement laws, will be required.

WILLIAM SEELEY,
Administrator.

16-18

The costliest horse barn in the world belongs to D E Crouse and is located at Syracuse, N. Y. It has now cost the owner, a millionaire horseman, something like $700,000. Incidental expenses will make the stable cost little short of a round million.

—THE BEST—
FERTILIZER ON EARTH.

200 LBS.
TRADE
LAKE ERIE
FISH GUANO.
MARK.

ANALYSIS:
Available Phos. Acid, 10-11 per cent.
Insoluble Phos. Acid, 2-3 "
Total Bone Phosphate, 28-33 "
Ammonia, 2½-3¼ "
Potash (actual) 2-3 "

MANUFACTURED BY
Jarecki Chemical Works,
Erie, Pa. & Sandusky, O.

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales. SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

Mrs. McGinty

Says that since her "Mac" went up by going down, she's had hard times. Her pig had "numony" and the goat had the grip; though he's hardy again and so strong that he's perceptible to the naked nose at fifty yards distance.

"POOR MAC,"

Says his wife, "I cant bear to think of the fishes gettin' in the pockets of that elegant suit of chothes that he had bought at

THE :-: FAMOUS.

What a bargain they were, to." McGinty said the cheapest place he ever traded at was

THE FAMOUS,

North side courthouse, 2 doors west P. O.

AUBURN, IND.

Close Cash Buyers,

Come and see if I cannot

Save You Money,

THESE HARD TIMES.

LOOK!

Wood Seat Chairs	$ 2 00
Cane Chairs	$ 3 00
Bedsteads $1 00 and up.
Marble Tables	$ 4 50
Chamber Suit	$16 00
Marble Chamber Suit	$30 00
Center Table	$ 1 50

Mortuary Goods

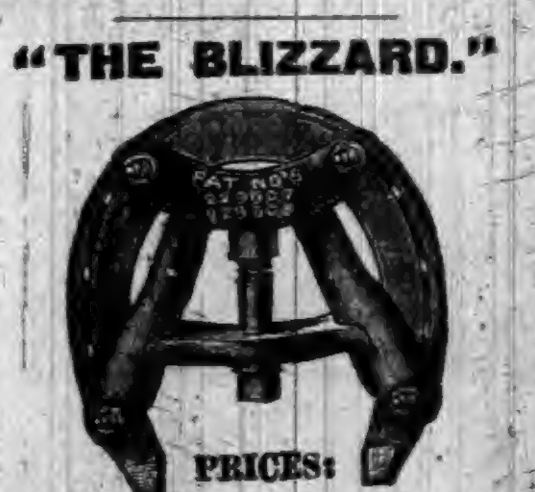
For one-half what you have been paying. Come and see. First door east of Bank, Butler, Ind.

S. L. HAMLIN.

SAMUEL J. RANDALL is dead. He died in Washington Sunday morning after a long illness from internal cancer. He had been speaker of the House and a leading democrat. Though not at times agreeing with his party on tariff and similar questions, he was always influential, and was universally respected as an honest man.

AMERICANS must be a weak set of infants indeed, if they can't start up and maintain any industry unless it is "protected." Those who teach such doctrines should be ashamed. They are doing the nation and its industries a great deal of injury. With protection or without, Americans are the equals of any people on earth, and can compete against the world in any industry that protection is now claiming it must bolster up.

"THE BLIZZARD."



PRICES:

No. 0 for Nos. 0 and 1 shoes	$2.50	per set of 4.
No. 1 for Nos. 2, 3 and 4 shoes	2.50	" "
No. 2 for Nos. 5 and 6 shoes	3.00	" "

The wear is all on the points which can be renewed for 25 cents per set of 16 by mail or 15 cents per set by express.

Can be fastened to any shoe. Easily and quickly put on or removed.

Will enable the driver to drive his horses in safety on icy roads while those without are waiting their turn at the Blacksmith's to have theirs shod.

Sent by express on receipt of price.

The BEECHER MFG. CO. Meriden, Conn.

MUNCIE ROUTE.

FORT WAYNE, CINCINNATI AND LOUISVILLE RAILROAD.

—o—

The Direct, Most Popular and only line with Solid Trains to Cincinnati.

22 Miles the shortest line between Fort Wayne, Louisville and the

→SOUTHWEST.←

The only line with through cars to Indianapolis. Direct connections are made at Union Depots at Indianapolis, Cincinnati, and Louisville, for all points in the East, South and West. Rates lower than other lines and service unexcelled. For Rates and other information, call on nearest agent or address

W. H. Fisher, G. P. A., Fort Wayne,
Geo. W. Saul, Gen'l Manager

TIME CARD.—SOUTH.

Dec. 1, 1889. Standard Time.

Fort Wayne	Lv	* 6 00 am	†10 25 am	* 6 05 pm
Bluffton	ar	6 58 "	11 21 "	7 07 "
Montpelier	"	7 30 "	11 52 "	7 40 "
Hartford	"	7 48 "	12 10 pm	7 58 "
Muncie	"	8 30 "	12 50 "	8 40 "
Indianapolis	"	10 30 "	3 50 "	10 50 "
Cincinnati	"	....	5 30 "	....
Louisville	"	....	7 00 "	....

* Daily. NORTH. † Ex. Sunday.

Louisville	Lv	....	† 7 30 am	....
Cincinnati	"	....	7 59 "	....
Indianapolis	"	† 7 00 am	10 10 "	* 3 05 pm
Muncie	"	* 9 05 "	1 15 pm	5 10 "
Hartford	ar	9 45 "	1 57 "	5 50 "
Montpelier	"	10 05 "	2 15 "	6 05 "
Bluffton	"	10 36 "	2 48 "	6 28 "
Fort Wayne	"	11 35 "	3 45 "	7 40 "

CHAMPION BINDERS MOWERS

ARE THE BEST AND SO WARRANTED.

SAMPLES AT ONE OR MORE AGENCIES IN EVERY COUNTY. FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ADDRESS

THE WARDER, BUSHNELL & GLESSNER COMPANY,
CHICAGO, ILL.——SOLE MANUFACTURERS.——SPRINGFIELD, O.

The Seal of Popularity

AND

ATTRACTIVENESS

Has been placed upon our

Spring and Summer Stock of Great in Assortment

AND

UNAPPROACHABLE

In price and quality.

Everything you want in the line of Boots and Shoes, Waiting For You At

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

DO YOU NEED A
New Carpet?
If so, now is the time to buy as Carpets never were cheaper.

ALL-WOOL INGRAINS,
Very best quality.
Lowell's 60 cts. All other makes 55 cts.

COTTON and WOOL INGRAINS.
22c, 25c, 35c, and 40c.

TAPESTRY BRUSSELS,
45c, 65c, 75c.

Body Brussels, Velvets, Three-Plys, Hemp, Rag and Stair Carpets, Straw Mattings, at very close prices.

LACE CURTAINS....In Pairs,
$1.00, 1.25, 1.35, 1.50, 2.00, 2,50, and $3.00.

CHENILLE PORTIERES....All New,
$5.50, $7.50 and $10.00.

CURTAIN POLES,.....Blacks and Cherry,
All complete with brass trimmings, at 19 cents.

W. P. Harter & Co.
East of Court House,
AUBURN, - - - IND.

NEW GOODS! NEW SUITS!
FOR EVERYTHING NEW, NOBBY, NEAT AND NICE IN
Clothing, Hats, and Gents' Furnishing Goods,
AT THE LOWEST PRICES, GO TO SCHAAB & MURPHY'S, - - - Auburn, Indiana.

We Have
THE PLEASURE OF ANNOUNCING TO THE
TRADE,

That, while in Cleveland recently, we had the good fortune to secure, as trimmer, the services of

MISS GAUFF,

Who has been in the employ of one of the largest millinery houses in the city. She comes to us highly recommended, and we feel, fully competent to preside over this department of our business. We earnestly solicit a call from our lady customers whether intending to purchase or not. Very respectfully,

COWAN
SISTERS,
Auburn, Ind.

AUBURN
SANITARY
Baths.

HOT, COLD AND MEDICATED
WATERS.
STEAM, TURKISH, CABINET AND ELECTRIC BATHS.
The MASSAGE Treatment given when desired.

PEOPLE are realizing the true value derived at the Sanitarium at Auburn, and many are availing themselves of this opportunity, and are coming here for treatment, where they enjoy the best of attention from skillfull and practical attendants. Good board and furnished rooms near by can be had at reasonable rates.

Drs. D. J. & Vesta M. Swarts
PROPRIETORS.

LOCAL NEWS.

Junior Ex. April 18.

The Noss Family, April 26.

See J. N. Wilson's new "ad."

Hand turned shoes for $2.75 at Wilson's. 14 16

Buy fruit trees and plants of C. P. Houser.

New line of gents neck wear at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

Ladies see Wilson's fine shoes in Dongola and Kangaroo. 14 16

New line of brillianteen dress goods at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Sim Tarney has refitted the refrigerator at Clifton's meat market.

Levi Brown, of Corunna, called on us Monday and and renewed his subscription.

William Schoup of Richland, called in this week and will read the COURIER for another year.

There are still left for sale a few reserved seats for the Junior Ex. Call at Robbins & McCord's. Price 15 cents, general admission 10 cents.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protrupiles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

It is a fact conceded by all threshermen who have used Roberts, Throop & Co's. (of Three Rivers, Michigan,) improved method of separating grain through their hollow bar concave, that it is the best extant.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord tf

The United Brethren, will hold their quarterly meeting in the German M. E church, south Auburn Saturday and Sunday, April 19 and 20. Brother Lilley, our Presiding Elder is expected to be with us, and preach Saturday, at 1.30 also, in the evening, and on Sunday at 10.30, and in the evening. A cordial and general invitation is extended to all, to attend.

By order of the committee.

Plenty of fisherman along the creek banks.

Let us all clean up the yards, alleys and streets.

Davenport has the finest stock of wall paper ever in Auburn. 14 16

Currant, Gooseberry and Grape plants best varieties at Houser's. tf

Tickets for the Junior Ex., at Robbins & McCord's, 10 and 15 cents.

New laces, ribbons, handkercheifs and hosiery at Mrs Jones & Son's 15 17

Everything in the fruit tree line at C. P. Houser's. Prices reasonable.

Newport and cloth surface peasant gossamers at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

Uneasy is the head that is not crowned with one of our hats. Famous.

W. J. Bowman has something new to say to our people in his ad. this week.

All leading varieties of raspberry and strawberry plants for sale at C. P. Houser's. tf

Mrs. T. C. Elson, of Buchanan, Mich., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Simp. Johnson.

Criticised by all, we are excelled by none. Listen to the evidence of the facts. Famous.

D. D. Snyder, was in town last week a day or so. His family are expected here this week on a visit.

We had pretty good visits with many old Waterloo neighbors last week, they being down here to attend the trial between McBride and Kelley.

Co. Supt. Merica was elected one of the vice-presidents of the Northern Indiana Teachers' Association that met at Columbia City a week ago.

Mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, aunts and uncles come and see the nicest little suits for those cunning little fellows ever brought here. Famous.

H. E. Brann, the popular Waterloo butcher, was down here last week, and made us a call. We like to meet our old neighbors and talk over the days of long ago.

George Swander has a good house to rent to the right party. It is his former residence in the southeast part of town and will make some family a comfortable home.

For full information about HARVEST EXCURSIONS April 22, May 20, September 9 and 23, and October 14, 1890, call on or address, Rickel & Sprott, Immigration Agents, Auburn' Ind. tf

Abram Buss an old and respected citizen of Fairfield township, died at his home near Hudson last week, Wednesday, and was buried Saturday. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. H. Elson.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

A. M. Brumbeck, a brother to J M. Brumbeck, was here Friday. He was one of the earlier residents of the county, though he afterwards returned to Ohio, and resided there many years. For the past two years, he has been back here, and now resides near Corunna.

John Swinehart reports that one of the Franklin township road districts is minus a supervisor. Will Houlton ran on an independent ticket and was elected. But it was found that several more votes had been cast than there were voters in the district. So all candidates were thrown out.

Phillip F. Ryan, book-keeper at the band sawmill, came in second best in the race for the nomination for auditor in the Whitley county convention last Saturday. There were four or five against him. If he had gone down there and spent some time canvassing he might have made it.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's. tf

Near Rockford, Ill., is a preacher named Schweinfurth, who claims he is Jesus Christ, who has come a second time. He is a man of remarkable powers of eloquence, fine appearance, and he has about 1,000 followers. He was born in Marion, Ohio, but has been recently at Jackson, Mich., and attended school two years in 73 and 74 at Albion, in that state, and later at Evanston, Ill. He was a minister of the M. E. church til he took the idea that he was Christ.

Dr. John Whiteman, of Great Falls, Montana, was here last week to pay a visit to his uncle J. C. Henry. He was accompanied by his sister, who went back to Montana with him. He is surgeon for the Great Northern railway and had been spending the winter at the great medical schools of New York and Philadelphia to further perfect himself in his profession. Like all men who have prospered in the great far west, the Doctor has unbounded faith in the great future that awaits them.

Cleveland, Ohio.
J. M. Loose Red Clover Co., Detroit.

I was recommended, by one who had been cured by it, to use your Red Clover Extract. I did so and have been a happy woman ever since. The first application gave me more relief than all the medicine I had ever taken. After using less than one third of the solid extract sent me, I walked from my home down town, a distance of one mile, for the first time in 34 years. I can be on my feet all day, without any suffering, my work is a pleasure to me and I no more look forward with dread to days of pain and suffering. Your Red Clover has given me new life and am positive of a speedy cure. Yours gratefully

MRS. M. G. KEITH.

Noss Family April 26.

Junior Ex to-morrow evening.

Wall paper was never so cheap as now at Davenport's.

Will Potter is now carving meat at Clifton's meat market.

Window shades on spring rollers at 40 cents each, at Davenport's

Plaids and stripe silks, new and elegant at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

Fine gilt shades on good spring rollers only fifty cents at Davenport's

Handsome patterns in sateen dress goods at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

Tickets for the Junior Ex. will be on sale at Robbins & McCord's, as usual

Follow the crowd and you'll come to us, for the crowd is with us. Famous.

The candidates are now in the field. Let us get the best men in every case.

Frank VanAuken and daughter, of Pleasant Lake, were down here last week.

The Waterloo S. of V. will be instituted May 1. The work will be done by the Auburn Camp.

Wm. Ludwig, of Plattsmouth, Nebraska, came here Friday to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Anna Pipes.

Quite a number of people were out buggy riding Sunday. First time anyone took a ride since last December.

Miss Phœbe Dirrim, of Butler, was here over Sunday, visiting her cousins, Mrs. Florence Long and Rebecca Edge

See P. P. Lochner's article about preserving eggs. There is big money in keeping eggs fresh till you can get a high price.

See our notice of the new breed of chickens, the Minorcas. It is bound to become popular. They are good layers, and very beautiful.

Sunday the roads were almost dusty, and the day was quite hot. A thunder shower at night seemed a very fitting end to such a summer day.

J. J. VanAuken has moved his family to the Junction in order to be nearer his work at the foundry and stove works, of which he is now part owner.

One of the things which agitate the minds of persons coming to Auburn is, that rentable houses are so scarce. Won't some of our enterprising citizens build a few houses to rent?

The musical novelties, the famous Noss family, will be at the Opera House, Saturday evening, April 26. Our people will remember the fine musical entertainment they gave when they appeared here before and will give them a good house.

C. H. Brown is now on the road traveling for the Auburn Foundry and Machine Works, selling their popular road scraper. Those who are familiar with such things say this is the most complete machine ever used on roads. It ought to sell well.

The Press rejoices that farmers can have their produce eaten up right here at home "don't have to pay transportation to England on it." Big idea! And how produce does go up in price under this kind of doctrine! Home market is a boss thing for Indiana farmers, who have to send out of the state more than half they produce.

The Press is indiscreet enough to hint that the "old soldiers will remember that democratic love for them is only vote deep," and hints that no soldier should vote for a democrat. This is carrying things a little too far, and will some day be apt to recoil. No pension law has been passed without the support of democrats, and yet when a campaign come on, every old soldier is asked to vote only for republicans. Look at the case of Voorhees, who is always doing something for the soldier, yet there is no member of either House, who is cursed so loudly by republican papers as Voorhees. How long will he stand this unjust abuse and still work for the soldiers? Human nature will give way eventually, and this disposition on the part of super-loyal politicians to use the old soldier as a partisan will not result in any good. Let the old soldiers alone, Let them vote as they please. They have earned that right without asking the bosses

The Press shows its ignorance, or its purpose to deceive, when in speaking of a great glass factory to be established near Pittsburg. It says: "This factory has been made possible by protection to American industry, besides plate glass is 50 per cent cheaper, than it was before protection made it possible to be manufactured in this country." There you have it, a regular back action. Protection, he says protects by making the article cheaper. Once more we trespass on his patience by asking how a tariff protects if it makes the thing cheaper? The very essence of protection is to make a thing dearer. Levy a tariff on imported articles compels the importer to add the duty to the original price. That makes a thing dearer, and enables our people at home to raise the price, and so get bigger profits. The republicans used to claim it enabled our folks to put on a higher price, so they could pay their men better wages. But now they say it don't enable them to get higher prices, but that it makes prices lower. And while they say it makes prices lower, they say it "protects the manufacturer and enables him to pay higher wages." Queer state of things; especially queer must be the condition of a man's great brain who will argue in such a way. But leaving all of his wild assertion out of the question, the fact still remains, that "protection has" not "made it possible" to establish glass works, etc. We can make glass as good and as cheap in this country, as anywhere in the world, and in fact cheaper We don't need protection. The employers don't give their men any better wages, they put the extra prices into their own pockets, and the business would be established and would flourish if a tariff had never been invented.

Subscribe for the COURIER.

Coming, Lester Opera Co., 30 artists.

Wall paper cheaper than whitewash at Davenport's. 14 16

Send to P. P. Lochner, Auburn, for one of the golden egg circulars.

You can save money by getting wall paper now at Davenport's 14 16

Large assortment of silk umbrellas received this week at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

Now is the best time in the year to pack your eggs they are sure to all be fresh.

J. B Steeves moved last week to his new home which he recently purchased, on Ensley Avenue.

The largest opera company ever in Auburn will be seen in Bohemian Girl and Pinafore April 16 and 17.

A farmer near Muncie has found a quantity of gold on his land. A company has been formed to see what the prospects may be.

Bald heads are too many when they may be covered with a luxuriant growth of hair by using the best of all restorers, Hall's Hair Renewer.

WANTED: 1000 bushels of potatoes for which the highest market prices will be paid. V. Stoneroad, or Col. Watson at Watson House, Auburn.

The Noss family was greeted by a big house last night. This is one of the best musical, comedy and novelty companies on the road.—Joliet (Ill.) Press.

Everyone remembers the Noss Family and the excellent entertainment they gave when they were here before. They are at the Opera House April 26.

Don't fail to see the Lester Opera Co., at the Opera House on Wednesday and Thursday nights April 16 and 17. Reserved seats on sale at usual place.

Miss Gulick's trimmer has arrived, and she is now receiving new goods. She asks all to call and see what fine goods she has, and at reasonable prices.

"After a varied experience with many so-called cathartic remedies, I am convinced that Ayer's Pills give the most satisfactory results. I rely exclusively on these Pills for the cure of liver and stomach complaints."—John B. Bell, Sr., Abilene, Texas.

Beware of experimental binders and mowers. Let the manufacturer do the experimenting at his own expense. Performance beats promise, and it is best for a farmer to buy a machine that has an established reputation in his vicinity. The manufacturers of the Champion keep their machines abreast of the times at their own expense. This is the third harvest for their Chain Drive, Raise and Lower Binder. Each harvest has brought many improvements. Other manufacturers are imitating. The imitation is never as good as the original.

St. Joe News: During the heavy storm that prevailed last Tuesday night, the lightning struck the large barn on Jonathan Boyle's farm just west of this place, and in a few minutes it was a mass of blazing embers. The report awakened P. A. Shurts and family, who lived on the farm, and on looking out of the window they saw that the barn was on fire. Mr. Shurts hurried out as soon as possible and succeeded in getting out all the live stock but 42 head of sheep which were on the barn floor, and were surrounded with fire when he got there. Had it not been for the timely assistance of the neighbors, and the heavy rain that was falling, the house and adjoining buildings would have been destroyed. Mr. Shurts loses about two hundred dollars on sheep, hay grain and other articles on which there is no insurance. The barn was a very good one and was insured for three hundred dollars.

The tendency of modern business is to concentrate in the hands of a few merchants. Men with large capital, great energy, and special fitness for mercantile pursuits, each year, more and more, monopolize trade. This tendency is in the interests of the masses of the people, for it results in selling goods at a much smaller profit than formerly. No better illustration of this can be found, than in the case of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., of Ft. Wayne, Indiana. They have made it "pretty hard sledding" for other merchants in their line of business, in this part of the country. That is true enough; but where the low prices at which they sell fine goods, may have injured one, they have benefited thousands. In addition to the great reduction in prices, which they have brought about, they have given the people of this part of the state, a mammoth stock to select from, of the most stylish and best made goods, an assortment fully equal to the best stores in the largest cities.

Lagrange Standard: It cost Steuben county $137 to sell $112 worth of the new school books during the first quarter of the law's operation, to say nothing of $112 paid for books in which the trustee and superintendent must keep a record of sales for the benefit of Indiana school book company.

On which the Kendallville News makes these sensible comments: This is a sample of the items we see going the rounds of republican exchanges, inspired doubtless by the book monopolies which have been growing rich by supplying the schools of Indiana with books at much higher rates than prices fixed under the new law—and in some instances dividing their enormous profits with school teachers and township and county officials for their valuable influence—and calculated to prejudice the popular mind against the new books. The county referred to above has incurred the necessary expense of getting ready to adopt the new books, then dropped the matter without introducing the books to any great extent. Lagrange county did the same thing, and facts appear to be developing there to show what disreputable influences have been employed to prevent the people from availing themselves of the economy of the change contemplated under the law.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Miss Lilly McTighe.

Enumeration of school children is in order. Get ready for the enumeration.

The concert of the Young Men's Alliance will be given about the first of May. Look out for a good treat.

L. J. Gengler, of Garrett, is now a full fledged lawyer having passed examination and admitted to the bar last week.

D. D. Moody and wife, A. J. Weyer and wife, and Editor Campbell attended the Joseph Cook lecture in Angola, Monday evening.

Court at work on the McBride and Kelley case. McBride got $500 damages in his case against Kelley, at nine o'clock last evening.

A. D. Northam, of the Eckhart Carriage Co, who has been absent attending the funeral of his mother at Kalkaska, Mich., returned this week.

W. D. Rickel has a fine two year old stallion that he bought in Kentucky. It is of trotting stock and said by judges to be about the finest animal in this section.

Clean up the alleys. Don't forget it, or Dr. Swartz will send you a reminder. Remember we have had a sloppy winter and all sorts of filth will accumulate during such a season.

In East India they use microbes, the insects which cause chicken cholera, to destroy English rabbits. In America they use Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure to destroy microbes.

S. R. Rickel, of Waterloo, sent his old neighbors of the COURIER, a package of the finest dried pumpkin ever seen. He is in the fruit drying business, but will find it a big contract to supply "ye editor" with pumpkin pies.

Junior Ex to morrow, Friday evening. Don't forget that this is for the benfit of the public school library. No one can afford to stay at home when such a cause is at stake. And besides, the entertainment will be excellent.

Scrofula is transmitted from parent to child, and thus becomes a family inheritance for generations. It is therefore, the duty of every scrofulous person to cleanse his blood by a thorough and persistent course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The ladies of the M. E. church are preparing to give the Trade Carnival and they would be glad to have all of the business men furnish material from their stock to dress an agent to advertise their business. A committee of ladies will call soon on the different firms.

A. F. Flemming, of the greenhouse, wishes us to express his thanks to the liberal hearted citizens of Auburn, who helped him to replace the loss on his greenhouse caused by the hailstorm. It enables him to get the building in shape and save what can be saved of the plants. Less than half are saved.

There will be a reunion of Co. A. of the old Twenty-first Indiana at Goshen about July 24. The call is signed by J. L. Ferguson, the well known marble man, who was a member. We believe Frank Culbertson, now in Tennesee, was in that regiment. Circulars will be sent to the members soon.

Miss Dyke Beals, of Ft. Wayne, the artist, will give lessons in painting on Saturday of this week at her rooms in W. H. McIntosh's residence on South Main street, from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. All who wish to improve in this desirable accomplishment, are requested to meet her there at the time above stated.

The meeting last Friday, in the interest of a reading room, developed the fact that $600 had been raised, and one prominent business man promised $1,000 towards a building, if the plan succeeds. We believe that with proper efforts we shall succeed, and have a reading room that will be both a credit and a benefit.

St. Joe News: A gust of wind blew over Mell Bishop's wagon the other day which was loaded with lumber and on which he and his little son Charlie were riding. Charlie fell under the wagon, and the wheel passed over his leg just above the ankle, bruising it very severely. It was thought at first that it was broken, but luckily it was not and he is now all right.

Talk about a big house and a good performance. The second appearance of the finest and largest audiences that ever saw the curtain rise in Morris. The musical comedy, "A Quick Match," contained plenty of fun. It is not a company with one star and a lot of wooden men and women for support, but every member is an artist. Daily News, Morris, Ills.

The Press is probably mistaken in stating that Congressman McClellan voted against suspending the rules, when the big pension bill came up. We find his name among those who voted to suspend. But suppose he had voted as the Press states, there were republicans as well, who thought the bill should not yet be put on its passage. The Press will stop at nothing, if it can manage to misrepresent Judge McClellan.

The Lagrange Democrat is still keeping up its fire on the school superintendent of that county, who acted as book agent. Machan came out under oath and stated he never got a cent for any sale of books, and never acted as agent. But the Democrat the next week, gives a fac-simile of a receipt which gives Machan credit commissions on dictionaries and other books bought for various persons, including trustees.

We publish the chief points of the killing of the late Charles Cool. It is a terrible affair and should be a warning to a number of reckless men who indulge in similar excesses about every Saturday night. It will be noticed, too, that he was run over about the same place on the track where only a month or two ago, Hank Little, editor of the Garrett Clipper, was found lying asleep and drunk right on the track, and a train a little ways down the road coming right on. He was pulled off and saved, but has been drunk since, Warnings are not heeded.

Get ready for the city election. All come to the caucus. Notice next week.

Joe Pfefferl and Marshal Picker have been scraping the streets. That's what we like.

The Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Lizzie Kelley on next Monday evening, A full attendance is desired.

Geo. Newcomer, of Franklin, reports a field of oats sowed three weeks ago on land that is underdrained. It is now up and as green as the wheat fields.

Mrs. J. R. Lamson of Washington, D. C. reached here yesterday noon, and will remain here some time visiting her friends and the relatives. Of course she was warmly welcomed.

J. N. Wilson, of the boot and shoe store of this place, will preach at the Church of God next Sunday evening. Though a business man, he is also a minister of considerable experience.

The Cadets at Waterloo will give a grand entertainment, next Tuesday and Wednesday, April 22 and 23, for the benefit of the corps. They will produce "Confederate Spy" a thrilling drama, with good talent.

Mrs. G. H. Yesbera and Mrs. Barns visited the family of C. H. Jackson and other friends in Angola from Friday to Tuesday, and also heard the lecture by Rev. Joseph Cook. They passed the time pleasantly, of course.

David Maxwell and wife, have returned from New Richmond, Ohio, where they have been for a year, and will again become citizens of Auburn, occupying their pleasant home on North Jackson street. Glad to have them back.

Robbins & McCord have a new soda fountain, one of the latest improved, and will start it to work the latter part of this week. They will have all the best flavors and will dish up these cooling drinks to the "queen's taste." Try them.

The Arion Quartet went down to Churubusco April 4, to furnish music for the Demorest Medal Contest. They are I. N Fisher, Geo Quince, D. W. Warrick and Morris Widney. The people there cheered them roundly. Miss Ella Cottersly won the medal.

Will Hull, a young man who has for some time been in the employ of the Church Furniture Co., started for Chicago Tuesday evening, where he expects to occupy a position as clerk in some business establishment. He is an industrious young man, and we trust success will crown his efforts.

Rev. H. M. Lamport not only comes back for the fifth year, but his people are so well pleased, that they have raised his salary. We are glad to see his service appreciated, "The laborer is worthy of his hire." Both he and his worthy wife have labored faithfully for the good of the church, and have earned this recognition.

E. W. Heiss of Lima, Ind., is here at present making a canvass of the county for Johnson's Universal Cyclopedia. He will remain here about two weeks, and in the county about two months. The work is by various authors of high authority in their several lines, and will prove of great value to all who seek to be well informed on all subjects.

Having succeeded Mr. J. W. Swaysgood of Butler, in the agency of the Ohio Farmers Insurance Co., I would most respectfully announce to the Company's many friends and all others desiring first class insurance on town dwellings or farm property, that I am now permanently located in Auburn, in the office of Messrs Moody & Mathews over the Farmers Bank. Having made fire insurance a speciality I am able to guarantee satisfaction to all who entrust me with their risks. Call on or address me if needing either fire, lightning, windstorm, cyclone or tornado insurance.

Respectfully,
B. M. Hastings.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to return earnest thanks to all the friends and neighbors who were so kind and sympathetic during our late sad bereavement, the sickness and death of a loved daughter and cherished wife. These acts will always be remembered gratefully.

MRS ANNA LUDWIG
OLIVER PIPES

Card of Thanks.

Wm. McDowell, and the family of I. M. Thomas, wish to return earnest thanks to kind friends and neighbors for sympathy during the last sickness and death of Mrs. McDowell. Their kindness will never be forgotten.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to extend my earnest and heartfelt thanks to all my friends and neighbors who kindly assisted me in the sad hours of bereavement, and in the burial of my husband.

MRS. CHARLES COOL.

Notice of Delivery.

As my fruit tree delivery this season extends so far in all directions, I want to ask my patrons and others interested in the purchase of trees or plants to assist me in a speedy delivery by calling at my farm one mile southeast of Auburn, from the 19 to the 22, at which time all will be ready for delivery. Those who do not call may expect their stock delivered at their residences as soon thereafter as possible for me to do so.

C. P. HOUSER.

REFORMED CHURCH.

German service, Sunday, April 20, at 10:30, a. m.

SUBJECT OF SERMON.
"THE GOD OF THE LIVING."

TEXT—"For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living; for all live unto Him." Luke XX, 38.

B. RUF

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

A STORM tower is to be erected at the top of Mount Penn, overlooking Reading, Pa. It will be 1,200 feet above the sea level.

THERE is a bronze monument of Christopher Columbus in the City of Mexico. It was erected twenty years ago by Mr. Escandon, a private citizen at a personal outlay of $60,000.

THE wide territory between the Yu Kan and the Copper rivers in Alaska, a tract yet entirely unknown to the civilized world, is to be thoroughly explored by an expedition of artists and writers.

A GEORGIA editor has this notice pasted in his sanctum: "Strangers calling on the editor during his absence from the office will please leave their cards. Candidates for the Legislature must leave their cash."

SAM BAILEY, of Nashville, Tenn., came across three rats in the road some time ago and all of them had hold of a straw traveling along. On closer investigation he found that the two outside rats were leading the center one which was blind.

THIS extraordinary liberty is said to be the custom at Utica, N. Y., once the home of Governor Seymour and Senator Conkling: Tradesmen of all sorts not only sell their delinquent accounts at a public sale, but advertise them at full length in the papers.

A SINGULAR case of "mind blindness" recently occurred, the subject being a man of eighty, who had complained for a month of inability to find his way about, to tell his own position in a room, and to recognize objects, although his perception of light was scarcely impaired.

FOR a long time the stealings by the operatives in the diamond mines of South Africa were, it is estimated, one-half of the production. Very stringent regulations have of late been put in force, and, although the loss from this source has been greatly reduced, it is still believed to amount to $750,000 a year.

EVAN ADAMS, of Pleasantville, N. J., who has had 126 housekeepers since the death of his wife, about seven years ago, was driven the other day to the roof of his house by his housekeeper, who, armed with an ax, had demanded her wages and a letter which she claimed he had intercepted. She recovered her letter, but was compelled to leave without her wages.

A CURIOUS phenomenon is reported from Batoum, on the shores of the Black Sea. During a complete calm the sea is said to have suddenly receded from the shore, leaving it bare to a depth of ten fathoms. The water of the port rushed out to sea, tearing many of the ships from anchorage, and causing a great amount of damage. After a short time the sea resumed its usual level.

M. HERIOT, the owner of the big store called the Louvre, in Paris, was sent to the insane asylum by his relations because he insisted upon giving $1,000,000, which he could readily afford to lose, to founding an orphanage for soldier's children. The local authorities finally ordered that he should be removed from a private asylum and placed in a public one, and it was quickly found that he was not insane at all. For thirteen months' treatment the private asylum doctors demand $22,500, the local doctors want $20,000, three medical students who helped to find him crazy $13,5000 and the keepers $5,000. It is no wonder that they wanted to keep him insane at that rate.

THERE is a terrible story from North Queensland about a man who was lost in the bush. He used up all of his water, but fortunately, he came to a water-hole, where he slaked his thirst, and found the road again. He had still some thirty miles to go, however, and had nothing whatever to carry water in. Of course it would have been madness to attempt to travel thirty miles on foot under a North Queensland sun without water, so his ready invention came to his aid. He had been horrified a short distance back by the skeleton of a man, who had evidently been dead several years. He went back and got the skull, plugged up the eyeholes with clay, and filled it with water. He then tramped the thirty miles on the water contained in the skull.

WILL CARLETON is declared by Richard Henry Stoddard to be no poet. But Richard Henry Stoddard, though he makes criticism a profession, is no critic. If the ability to move man, to awaken the feelings and rouse the heart is poetry, then Will Carleton is a poet. He influences and moves men, and this is more than the elaborate insipidities of many of our modern verse writers can do. Will Carleton is not a Shakespeare; but he has had the courage to be simply Will Carleton. The critics fight shy of him, but the common people receive him gladly. He gets his own prices for his poems, and cannot furnish them as fast as the publishers want them. He is a tall, lank man, though of late he is said to be growing fat. He lives in Brooklyn, is very domestic in his tastes, is forty-five years old, and is beginning to grow gray. His poems are the favorites of elocutionists, and he reads them himself with good effect. He makes more money than some poets who think they are greater than he.

SWITZERLAND appears to be the only country in the world where the authorities accord consideration to the tramps. One of the latter happened to be bitten in the hand some time ago by the watch-dog of a house which he had incautiously entered for the purpose of exercising his profession. Although the bite was not of a severe nature, yet the tramp, whose dilapitiated and repulsive appearance was sufficient to excite the wrath of even the mildest-mannered dog, had the nerve to bring suit against the owner of the inhospitable quadruped, and to claim damages on the ground that the bite had "incapacitated him for work." The Swiss courts at Zurich at once recognized the justice of his demands and have given a decision which should be treasured by the tramps in every part of the world. For it declares explicity that the owner of a house is responsible for the safety of all persons who come to see him, even when the visit is for the purpose of making an appeal to his benevolence."

"A MAN born and bred in the United States fails to appreciate how much slang he daily uses in conversation," said an intelligent American who had just returned from a continental tour. "He fully appreciates these blemishes, however, when he returns to America after having had daily intercourse with some of the well-bred persons in Europe. He picks up these blots on perfect speech so gradually and they multiply so rapidly that before he is aware of the extent of these acquisitions at least one-tenth part of his vocabulary consists of slang expressions. This fact is so true of America that even the ignorant peasants of Ireland recognize it when their countrymen return to their native land. As heard in America slang seems to add force and expression to conversation, but this is only seeming, for when contrasted with really simple and consequently elegant diction the difference in strength can be seen. There are some slang words, however, in the American vocabulary which, if used at the right time and place, find their bull's-eye like a minnie ball. But as a rule the use of slang words is only a blemish on conversation, and its use cannot be too heartily candemned."

STRANGE to say, comparatively few people are intimately acquainted with the composition of our national flag. In engravings and pictures one daily sees misrepresentations of it, and even upon poles or in processions on holidays. They are made with more than the required number of stripes, more or less stars in the union than there should be, or the arrangement of the stripes as regards colors is not right. Then again the flags are not made of proper dimensions. The official flag is made as follows: There should be thirteen stripes, representing the thirteen original States of the Union, the border stripes of red; the union, of blue, should be seven stripes square, resting on white, with four red and white stripes on the sides; the entire flag should be twenty-one stripes long and thirteen stripes wide. Very often flags are seen with from fifteen to twenty stripes and over fifty stars in the union. Aside from these irregularities, it is quite common on holidays to see flags with the union down. By the union down is meant having stripes where the union should be. It should always be uppermost. If it is down, it signifies distress. All good Americans ought to know these things, but hardly one in fifty understands the composition of our emblem or how to display it.

That Blessed Jury System.

The Americans seem to have inherited from their English ancestors an absurd admiration for time-honored and fossilized institutions, which have in a great measure outlived their usefulness, and which require immediate repair or modification if they are still to be used in the day of modern improvement and progress.

One of these antiquated institutions is the petty jury, to alter or modify which, would, in the opinion of many otherwise sane persons, cause the national fabric to totter to its very foundation. To merely suggest a modification is to shock the general public, and yet, if there is any institution in this world that needs repairs its the jury system.

The verdict in the Cronin case is an illustration of the danger and absurdity of putting it in the power of one mule-headed crank, or worse, to block the wheels of justice. Why should a jury be unanimous? Unanimity is not required in any other tribunal. No wonder the popular impression is that justice in this country is meted out in strawberry boxes.

The truth is that the trial by jury has become a subject for scoffing and merriment. Under the best of circumstances, the jury system is crude and unreliable, but what makes things worse is the material of which juries are composed. Mr. Nye, who was made to serve on a jury, gives a very good description of the make-up of the average jury. He says:

"We had a Polander, who couldn't speak a word of English; a deaf man from Oskosh, and a half-witted cuss from Blue Island. There was a one-eyed man from the rhubarbs of the town, who had to be waked up with a chair for meals. There was also a Norwegian on the jury who hadn't been in this country very long, and who didn't know a verdict from a porous plaster."

It often happens that the juryman who sleeps through the trial and awakes and listens to the charge of the judge is the only safe man of the twelve; he knows something. The other eleven are only fuddled with the evidence, and are liable to bring in almost any kind of a verdict.—Texas Siftings.

The Influence of a Woman's Club.

Yellowly—What! Are you going home already?

Brownly—Yes; I must go. Wife is waiting up for me.

Y.—My wife belongs to a woman's club, and when she goes out in the afternoon I never say a word if she stays away six hours, so she never says anything to me if I am out a little later than usual. Doesn't your wife belong to a club?

"B.—No; but there's a club that belongs to her, and it is the knowledge of that fact that is hurrying me home.

WHAT is a farm but a mute gospel? The chaff and the wheat, weeds and plants, blight, rain, insects, sun—it is a sacred emblem from the first furrow of spring to the last stack which the snow of winter overtakes in the field.

THE FLAG AT HALF-MAST

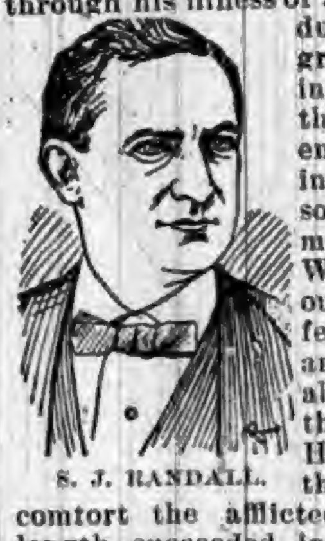
SAMUEL J. RANDALL'S LONG STRUGGLE WITH DISEASE ENDED.

His Career Briefly Sketched—From Boyhood to the Leadership of the House of Representatives—The Expression of Regret at Mr. Randall's Death Universal and Sincere.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—It was a sad and touching scene at the Randall residence on Capitol hill when Congressman Samuel J. Randall expired yesterday morning just as the bells of a neighboring church were tolling 5 o'clock. Around the bedside were gathered the family, the physician, and Postmaster-General Wanamaker, who had all kept a constant watch over the dying man during the night.

A few moments before his death he had opened his eyes, and looking tenderly at his wife, who knelt over him, said in a low tone, "Mother," a word instinct with all the fondest recollections of their long and happy married life, and by which he always called his wife when none but the family were near. He looked into her eyes as if he were about to say something more, but he seemed to have no strength left, and in a few moments he had passed away. Death had come with the coming of the dawn.

The watchers saw that all was over and the brave wife and daughter, who had nursed and cared for him during his long illness, could restrain their feelings no longer but gave way to their grief, while the physician and Mr. Wanamaker endeavored to console them as best they might, though their own grief hardly permitted them to speak.



S. J. RANDALL.

The shock was especially severe to Mrs. Randall and her daughter Susan, who, rejecting all offers of assistance, have nursed the husband and father through his illness of almost two years' duration. Their grief was touching in the extreme and the gentlemen present allowed them to indulge it alone for some minutes. Postmaster-General Wanamaker came out of the room a few minutes after 5 and announced in an almost choking voice that all was over. He and the others then endeavored to comfort the afflicted family, and at length succeeded in inducing them to retire and try to refresh themselves with sleep.

The news of Mr. Randall's death became quite generally known during the day. It was expected and therefore was not so much of a shock as it otherwise would have been. A large number of persons called at the residence during the day to express their condolence. They were received by Mr. Lancaster, the son-in-law. The President and Mrs. Harrison sent a basket of flowers, with a note expressing their deep sympathy with the family. Speaker Reed called during the afternoon to express his regrets and to learn the wishes of Mr. Lancaster that he could carry out the wishes of the family in all things.

Among the other callers were Secretary Blaine, ex-Senator Ferry of Michigan, who stood next to Mr. Randall during the electoral count proceedings, ex-Speaker Carlisle, Representatives Breckinridge of Kentucky, Springer of Illinois, and many others. Sergeant-at-arms Holmes called and took charge of the remains for the house of representatives. They were embalmed and placed in a casket in the room in which Mr. Randall died. It is said that the dead man presents a life like appearance except he is emaciated and wasted to a remarkable degree.

The house in which Mr. Randall died is a plain three-story pressed-brick house, with marble trimmings and marble steps. It is not far from the capitol and is in a quiet, home-like neighborhood away from the more fashionable part of Capitol Hill. His late home is one of a row, all precisely alike, which are typical Philadelphia houses and look as if they might have been removed from the Quaker City and laid down in Washington.

The expression of regret at Mr. Randall's death was universal and sincere. None paid him higher tribute and respect than his Democratic colleagues in the House who differed with him vitally upon one of the most important measures in Congress. Representative Roger Q. Mills had not heard of Mr. Randall's death when a reporter called and asked his opinion of Mr. Randall. Mr. Mills spoke feelingly and earnestly. "He was a very great man," said he, "a man of unimpeachable integrity and a natural born leader of men. He had more of the elements of leadership than any man with whom I have come in contact since I have been in public life."

Speaker Reed said: "It would be useless to try to express in a few words the sense of great loss which we all feel in Mr. Randall's death. My esteem for him was very great and I have always had and expressed the highest admiration for his steadfastness and courage. He was a good friend, a brave man, and a statesman beyond reproach."

Mr. Carlisle, who was just returning from a visit to the Randall residence, said: "My personal acquaintance with Mr. Randall began when I entered the Forty-fifth Congress in October, 1877. Ever since then our relations have been not only friendly, but quite intimate. Although we differed widely upon some very important subjects, we never allowed these differences to interfere with our friendship. I think his death is a great loss to his party and to the country, and that he deserves to be remembered for a great many important public services."

Samuel J. Randall was born in Philadelphia Oct. 10, 1828. His father was Josiah Randall, a lawyer of high standing in that city, and his mother was Ann Worrall, a daughter of Gen. Joseph Worrall, a Democratic leader in the time of Jefferson. After receiving an academic education young Randall entered into mercantile life, but he showed an early taste for politics, and when quite young was elected a member of the city council at Philadelphia. He served four years in that capacity and was afterward elected to a term in the State Senate.

From this time forward the history of Samuel J. Randall is a part of the history of his State and of the Nation.

The funeral will take place Thursday.

Negro Maxims.

Some right smart folks can' keep out'er jail.

It strains de truth ter talk much 'bout ole times.

De only sartin thing 'bout dis worl' is gittin' out uv it.

Death an' de sheriff gin'ally gits w'ut dey goes arter.

Pine table jes' ez good ez merhorgany ter hongry man.

Lam' don' bother his head 'bout de price uv horg brissles.

It's er mighty po' lawyer dat can' git his cliunt in jail.

Some folks gwine to be mighty s'prised on jedgmint day.

Rich an' po' got ter cross de valley uv death in de same kyar.

DEMOCRATS WIN AGAIN.

RESULT OF THE ELECTIONS IN OHIO, MICHIGAN, AND INDIANA.

Democratic Gains in Every Direction Indicative of the Esteem in Which the Administration Is Now Held—Republican Villainy Rebuked in Montana.

The local elections in Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan last week resulted in large, and in many instances surprising, Democratic gains, as the appended summary of the balloting will show:

OHIO.

Democrats Make Big Gains in Columbus, Cincinnati and Other Cities.

In Cincinnati the vote for Judge of the Superior Court, Clerk of the Police Court, Director of the City Infirmary, Magistrate and members of the boards of councilmen and education was very light. The Republicans secured a majority of one in the Board of Education and of two in the Board of Councilmen, both of which were heretofore overwhelmingly Republican. The Democrats elected all other officers by about two thousand majority, except Clerk of the Police Court, whom the Republicans elected by 2,000 majority.

The Democrats carried Cleveland by majorities ranging from 350 to 1,100, no important office being voted for. The vote was the smallest in years.

The Democrats carried Columbus by majorities ranging from 1,200 to 1,500. The Democrats also make gains in the Council, and that body will stand fourteen Democrats to sixteen Republicans, more nearly equally divided than for years.

Findlay elects a Democratic Mayor for the first time in years, and gains four Councilmen and four members of the Board of Education.

Dayton elects a Democratic Mayor and eleven Democratic Councilmen to four Republicans. The Democratic tickets were also chosen in Toledo, Zanesville, Mansfield and Newark. Reports from Lima, Tiffin, Defiance, Upper Sandusky, Fremont, Marion, Bucyrus, Napoleon, Ottawa, and a number of smaller cities and towns all show Democratic victories and large gains over last fall. In no locality so far heard from have the Republicans realized their expectations.

INDIANA.

Democrats Sweep the State and Carry Little Ben's Home City by 2,000.

In Indianapolis, city and township, the Republicans sustained a most crushing defeat. They lost in every precinct in the township; and the result was not due, either, to the stay-at-home vote, for a much larger vote was cast than candidates for the same office received two years ago. The total vote at that time was 15,612, while at this election it aggregated 18,377. Out of this vote the Democratic candidate for trustee received a majority of 2,970, and the assessor, justices and constables were all elected by majorities ranging from 1,000 to 2,000. The Democratic victory in the other townships of the county was equally pronounced, and carrying seven out of the nine townships and insuring the election of a Democrat as County Superintendent. The State at large appears to have done equally well for the Democrats, and large gains are reported from all sections. Out of a total of 191 townships fully reported at this writing, the Democrats have carried 153 and the Republicans but thirty-nine. In the townships carried by Republicans their vote was cut down considerably, and in no instance, even in the party strongholds, were their tickets elected by old-time majorities.

MICHIGAN.

The Local Elections a Surprise.—Large Democratic Gains.

The municipal elections in Lansing, Grand Rapids and other Michigan cities show surprising gains for the Democracy. At Lansing the Democrats elect the entire city ticket by pluralities ranging from 29 to 400, and also all but one of the Aldermen.

At Grand Rapids the Democrats made a clean sweep, electing their seven candidates by majorities ranging from 194 to over two thousand, and capturing nine of the twelve City Councilmen.

At Ann Arbor the Democrats gained a sweeping victory, electing their entire ticket by majorities ranging from 130 to 400.

Returns from Bay City, Battle Creek, Muskegon, Decatur, and other cities and towns in Michigan show large Democratic gains.

MONTANA HEARD FROM.

Republican Villainy Rebuked at the Polls—Helena Carried by the Democrats.

A dispatch from Helena, Montana, says: "The first important election in Montana since the State election last October took place in this city Tuesday. It was for Mayor, City Treasurer and Alderman. The Republicans made the tunnel precinct and the legislative deadlock the issue; the Democrats accepted this challenge, and the result was an overwhelming defeat of the Republican ticket. Helena has always had a large Republican majority. Donald Age, formerly of St. Louis and a native of Springfield, Ill., defeated a pioneer of the city, Judge Joseph Davis, and six out of eight Alderman were elected by the Democrats."

[Washington telegram to Chicago Herald.]

During the discussion of the Montana contested election cases in the Senate, a telegram was received from Helena that furnished rather unpleasant reading for the Republican Senators who have been endeavoring to show that the people had declared against the Democratic party. The dispatch quoted from an editorial in Russell Harrison's Republican paper yesterday:

"This is the first election held since the late legislative dead-lock. This is the first opportunity given the people to express at the ballot box their opinion of Democratic methods and of Precinct 34."

Then followed the statement that the Republicans made Precinct 34 the issue in the city election, at which the Democrats elected their Mayor by over three hundred majority and six of the eight Aldermen. The Republicans carried but one ward, and that by a majority of one. The usual Republican majority in the city is from four to six hundred. This dispatch was freely circulated among the Democratic Senators, and one or two of the Republicans were allowed to look at it, just to see how the people had expressed their opinion after being appealed to by the Republican organ. Senator Voorhees had the dispatch ordered printed in the Record, and it is said that, after reading it, Mr. Hoar changed his mind as to the wisdom of remanding the contested Senatorial cases to the people for decision.

An Economical Girl.

Jennie—George, I think you will have to turn that gas down a little lower.

George—Certainly, darling. The request is an evidence of your affection for your father. You do not wish his gas bill to be large.

Jennie—Exactly so.

Father (who has overheard the foregoing conversation)—Never mind, George; burn her high or burn her low, the meter works all the same.

Jennie—That's so, papa, and the best thing you can do is to turn it off altogether.

George—Amen!

Father—Yes. So I had the electric light company place one of their lights in front of this parlor, and they are about to turn on—ha, see, there it is; floods with light this apartment.

Jennie—George, let us go into the kitchen.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

IMPORTANT MEASURES CONSIDERED AND ACTED UPON.

At the Nation's Capitol—What Is Being Done by the Senate and House—Old Matters Disposed Of and New Ones Considered.

IN the Senate, on the 8th inst., Mr. Spooner concluded his argument in the Montana election case, and was followed by Mr. Pugh, who, owing to indisposition, yielded the floor after speaking a short time. The Senate then took up and passed the anti-trust bill as reported from the Judiciary Committee with amendments by a vote of 50 to 1, Mr. Blodgett being the only Senator who voted against it. In the House bills were passed: Providing that persons settling on the second indemnity plat of the Northern Pacific grant between August, 1867, and January, 1889, may transfer their entries from that tract to other Government land subject to entry; to cause certain land at the head waters of the Mississippi, St. Croix, Chippewa, and Wisconsin Rivers, set apart for reservoir purposes, to be restored to the public domain; for the disposal of abandoned military reservations in Wyoming Territory; authorizing the city of Buffalo, Wyoming, to purchase under the town site law a strip of the McKinney military reservation; authorizing the entry of public lands by incorporated cities and towns for cemetery and park purposes; granting right of way through various Indian reservations in Wisconsin to the Duluth and Winnipeg Railroad Company; granting right of way through the Colville Indian reservation to the Spokane Falls and Northern Railroad Company; to prevent the enlistment of aliens in the naval service of the United States. Mr. Adams, of Illinois, called up the motion to reconsider the vote by which the House defeated the bill making an appropriation to supply the deficiency caused by the Silcott defalcation. The motion was then reconsidered and the bill was passed. The House then went into committee of the whole (Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, in the chair) on the naval appropriation bill. The bill was taken up by sections; but without completing its detailed consideration the committee rose and the House adjourned.

IN the Senate, on the 9th inst., Mr. Pugh finished his speech on the Montana election case in favor of Clark and Maginnis, the Democratic contestants, and was followed by Mr. Turpie, who spoke on the same side. At the conclusion of Mr. Turpie's remarks an effort was made to secure a vote upon the case by the Republicans. This, however, they were unable to do as the Democrats stated that several other Senators on their side of the chamber desired to be heard upon the case, but that no one was ready to take the floor just then. The Senate then, on motion of Mr. Hale, took up the Chinese census enumeration bill and discussed it as amended by sections until 6 o'clock, when an adjournment was taken without action. In the House on motion of Mr. Wade, of Missouri, the Senate amendment was concurred in to the House bill to admit free of duty articles intended for the St. Louis Exposition in 1890, which may be imported from the republic of Mexico and other American republics and the Dominion of Canada. Among the bills reported from the committees and placed on the calendar were the following: House bill for a public building at Galesburg, Ill.; Senate bill to amend the third section of the interstate commerce act. The House, after arguing on the Senate amendments to the Rock Creek Park bill, which provides that the Government shall pay the entire cost of the park, took up the naval appropriation bill and spent the remainder of the afternoon upon its consideration. A bill was reported from the War Claims Committee appropriating $3,500,000 for the payment of the claims of citizens of Pennsylvania for damages to property by Union troops during the war.

IN the Senate, on the 10th inst., among the bills reported from committees and placed on the calendar were the following: Senate bill appropriating $2,438,000 for the improvement of Columbia River, Oregon, expenditures not to exceed $700,000 in one year; House bill to aid vessels disabled in the waters co-terminous to the United States and Canada; Senate bill to revive the grade of Lieutenant General of the army. The Montana election case was again taken up. After debate and without action the Senate adjourned. The House went into committee of the whole, Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, in the chair, on the naval appropriation bill. After debate Mr. Holman, of Indiana, moved to strike out the paragraph providing for the battle-ships, but leaving in the provision for an armed cruiser. Agreed to—98 to 70. Mr. Mr. Adams, of Illinois, offered an amendment providing for three free-board coast and harbor defense vessels of the monitor type, of eighteen feet draft, with twin screws, and a sea speed of not less than seventeen knots, at a cost not to exceed $2,500,000 each. Lost. The bill was then favorably reported to the House, but no final action was taken and the House adjourned.

IN the Senate, on the 11th inst., a number of bills were reported from committees, after which consideration of the Montana election case was resumed. After a debate in which Senators Evarts, Morgan, Sherman and Gray participated Mr. Hoar gave notice that on Monday he should ask the Senate to remain in session until the Montana case was disposed of. Mr. Hawley, from the select committee on the quadri-centennial celebration, reported back with amendments the House bill for the World's Fair at Chicago, and said that if anything were to be done in the matter it should be done at once. After an executive session, the Senate adjourned. In the House, Mr. Lacey (Iowa) called up the contested-election case of Waddill vs. Wise, from the Third District of Virginia. Mr. Enloe (Tenn.) raised the question of consideration. The House decided—yeas, 124; nays, 113—to consider the election case, and Mr. Lacy took the floor with an argument in favor of the claims of the contestant. After considerable debate, and without disposing of the matter, the House took a recess, the evening session to be for the consideration of private pension bills.

Spice of Life.

It is so much easier to forgive a big man than a little one.

Bath-tubs are now made of paper—that is, stationary tubs.

The man who takes things as they come never has any "go" to him.

On his return home the immature club-man lets himself in with a minor key.

We should think constant friction would produce corns on a current's undertow.

Prince Albert Victor recently killed his first tiger in India. The usual three cheers went with it.

Extravagant: He—"We swells carry watches in our canes." The Girls—"That's nothing; we girls have clocks in our stockings."

Rapid: In the restaurant—"My dear young lady, I love you. Do you love me a little, perhaps?" "Yes." "Waiter! A minister at once."

A boy in Athens, Ga., who had been kicked by a mule, tied the animal within five feet of a bee-hive, and then backed him around to it and let him kick again.

Science Notes.

There are thirty-two compositions on the market to prevent submarine growths on iron ships, and none of them do the work.

Wood pulp is now being used as the basis of a plastic compound to serve as a substitute for mortar in covering and finishing walls.

The Dahl process of sterilizing milk has recently been introduced into London. Fresh milk is placed in cans which are hermetically sealed, then heated and cooled alternately until the germs are destroyed. The milk can then be kept for years without losing its freshness, or failing to yield cream and butter.

An Italian journal describes a new pharo-light, which is said to be as powerful as the electric light, and the efficiency of which is not impaired by fog, as is the case with the latter. A clock work arrangement pours every thirty seconds ten centograms of powdered magnesium into the flame of a round wick-lamp, producing an extremely brilliant flash of light.

Carl Pretzel's Philosophy.

Der feller dot shtood beer saloons around looking for someting to did vas pooty sure to have sore eyes.

Der fery existence of der ooniferse vas a shtandin memorial of der gootness of its Creator.

Angels vas a goot much habbier as men on ackound dhey vas enchoy more enlarged knowledges, and dond vas afflicted mit vash ladies' bills.—Sunday National.

Wanted Pardon.

A convict nearly upset the Governor of the State by accidentally running against him during a visit of the latter to the penitentiary.

"What have you to say for your rudeness?" demanded the Warden.

"I beg the Governor's pardon, sir!"

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

CHILDHOOD'S DAYS.

BY EMMET F. HART, AGED THIRTEEN.

Ah! sweet were the days of my youth
And the innocent hours of play,
With a stick for a horse, and a willow switch,
Whiling the time away.

When winter spread her snowy veil
Over the meadow and field,
Then came the time, to childish glee,
To make the enemy yield.

With balls of snow as hard as stone
We charged the enemy's flank,
Advanced, forced back, 'mid loud hurrahs,
As the victors charged in rank.

But spring, with her rain and thunder showers,
And fleecy lambs at play,
Brought lighter hearts to children folk
Than ever the winter gray.

Dear children, let us prepare for the time
When we shall grow aged and poor,
When the angel Death, in his robes of black,
Shall come and knock at the door.
GENTRYVILLE, Mo.

THROUGH IMPULSE.

BY L. B. W.

Dr. Mills sat in his office casting up his yearly accounts.

"Yes," he said, after careful consideration, "I think next year I can get a carpet and some new chairs here. I want one new chair, anyway," moving uneasily. "I ought to paper and paint, too. I wonder if I could afford to do both! If I made my old harness last, I could; perhaps I can find a second-hand one."

Like many other country physicians, Dr. Mills was, though well educated and possessed of more than ordinary ability, very poor.

He was interrupted by a summons to a lady visitor at the rectory. In a moment he had stepped from the dingy office to a room filled with bits of the tropics, in the shape of rich, bright shawls and jewels, and on a sofa a woman pressing her hand to her brow.

Dr. Mills sat down by her, laid his finger on her pulse, and gazed down on her face.

Dr. Mills was a plain country doctor, thirty years old, just from calculations about second-hand harness; but, as he sat with his hand on that hot brow, I am afraid his reflections were not exactly of nerve disturbance and his infallible remedy.

"Have you been subject to these attacks?" he asked, at length.

"Yes," answered Miss Lyle, "for the last few weeks. This is the worst, though."

"There is serious derangement of the nervous system," said he. "It will take time to cure it."

"But you can give me something to relieve this pain, can't you, Doctor?" and the large, melting eyes looked up at him with infinite entreaty.

"Certainly," he replied; "but something temporary for to-night. I must see you again if I am to do you much good."

"If you will only give me relief now," said Miss Lyle, "I shall be so grateful that I shall be glad to see you again as often as you will come."

At home once more in his shabby office, there came another knock, and his landlady appeared at the door.

"It's Mrs. Black's child again, sir."

"And what's the matter with Mrs. Black's child?" asked he, impatiently.

"His mother thinks he's eaten something that isn't good for him, and it's got tangled round his heart," replied Mrs. Podgkins.

"Tangled round his granny!" exclaimed Dr. Mills. "Is the woman outside?"

"Yes, she's here."

"Tell her to come in. Well, Mrs. Black, what has your boy been gorging himself with now?"

"I can't tell, sir," said Mrs. Black. "I've given him every remedy I know of."

"No wonder he doesn't get better, then," muttered the doctor, and sat without speaking for some minutes.

"I'd been taking home some fine things," pursued Mrs. Black, "that I'd been getting up for the lady at the rectory, and I see the light in here, so I thought I'd stop."

Dr. Mills faced round and stared fixedly at the woman. She had the handling, then, of the lace and frills that clung to that soft, warm neck.

"She's quite poorly to-night," continued Mrs. Black. "Maybe you've been there."

"Yes, I've been there," answered Dr. Mills, shortly. "I'll come round and see your boy, Mrs. Black."

Two hours later saw him again seated by Miss Lyle's couch. His drops had failed to quiet that surging brain. He tried magnetizing her. While the hours of night throbbed away he sat with hands pressed on the knotted temples. Every now and then the snowy eyelids would tremble and half rise, and through his whole frame would run a thrill. When morning began to steal through the windows, he withdrew his stiffened fingers, and bent low over the sleeper. Did his lips touch her brow? Mrs. Everett, who sat in a chair by the fire, thought so, but the next moment he was tip-toeing his way out of the room.

"Can I know the outward cause of all this?" he asked, the next morning.

"I do not think the knowledge would guide you at all; but the shock—for it was a shock—was not peculiar."

"I beg your pardon! Everything that happens to you must be peculiar."

"You are mistaken. I am not an uncommon woman," said Miss Lyle.

Immersed in his profession, Dr. Mills had heretofore had no time for love; in fact, he had regarded it only as a schoolgirl pastime. But now, after weeks which might have been a hasheesh dream, he woke suddenly to realize his folly.

One morning, Miss Lyle announced to him her departure the next day, and was startled by an abrupt, hoarse avowal of devotion. She turned around, looked at him steadily with parted lips and wondering eyes. Then she raised her hand and lifted away the dark-brown masses of hair from his brow, and let the warm, thrilling weight rest there, while she continued to gaze wistfully and intently.

"Do not try me too long," he said, with quivering lips.

"I might not," she said, "but——" And then her face clouded. Dr. Mills understood it and took up his hat.

"Give me something of yours to keep?" he said, hesitatingly.

She took from her arm a little fancy bracelet tied with a knot of amber ribbon. He placed it next his heart.

The next morning, while sitting in his office, he heard the rumbling of a carriage, and stepping out upon the porch, saw the enchantress pass. She waved her hand to him. He turned into his den again and drew the bolt. How dark and dreary everything looked.

Five years rolled round. At a high window of the Grand Dome, in New York, stood Miss Lyle, in a sad and weary attitude. She had just returned from Europe. Suddenly she turned to her companion and said:

"Zaidie, you know I believe in impulses. I have one to go and see Mrs. Everett, the minister's wife, in Hazleton, for a few days. You will not be afraid to stay here alone without me?"

"No, dear, if you will not remain there too long."

Nina Lyle turned and went into her bed-room, and next morning was on her way. Dr. Mills was sitting down to supper one night, after a long, cold ride among his patients, when suddenly the bell rang.

"Well," he said, wearily, as the servant entered. The girl put a small parcel into his hand, saying: "A messenger brought it over from Mrs. Everett's." There was something in the dainty way in which the little parcel was tied up—a delicate fragrance that reminded him of his one dream of happiness.

"What a fool I am," he said, as he untied the parcel. And upon opening the box he found a bracelet tied with amber ribbon.

The color rushed to his very forehead; his heart beat fast; his fingers trembled as he lifted the bracelet. It was the exact counterpart of the one laid away in his desk.

The Doctor put on his hat and strode rapidly down the street. He seemed ten years younger than an hour ago. Very soon he found himself in the presence of Miss Lyle. She received him warmly, and after a moment he said, "I have kept the bracelet, see! And you have come to reward me."

"Yes, I have come." That was all.

A few days later Miss Lyle went back to New York.

"I am going to be married," she said to her friend.

"And that heart-break which happened just before you went to Hazleton, five years ago?"

"There is the secret. I found one soon after who spoke as if his love was real, but the wound was not healed, so, after five years, I returned and found him waiting for me, and think I shall be happy."

Two lives, through impulse, have certainly been made happy.

Startling Disclosure Made by a Rent in a Boy's Breeches.

The following story is told about the editor of one of Maine's most prominent dailies:

When a small boy his father, now one of the most prominent men in the State, was running a printing office and publishing a weekly paper in one of the largest towns in Kennebec County.

One day the advance agent of a show came along and ordered some posters printed upon cotton cloth. His order was filled, but for some reason he neglected to call for them and they were thus left on the printer's hands. The printer's wife ran across them and as cloth was then high she took the cloth home and used it to line a pair of pants she was then making for the editor above mentioned, then a boy 10 years of age.

As the months rolled by the pantaloons grew threadbare and at school one day he accidentally tore the seat out, leaving about one foot of the lining exposed to view. This in itself would have made the boys smile but they laughed till the tears came when they observed the following words standing out boldly upon the lining in large type:

"Doors open at 7:30. Performance begins at 8."

It is needless to state that the boy was sent home to his mother in tears.

A Gallant Young Chinaman.

A Secretary of the Chinese Embassy in Washington was introduced to a lady, who among other questions asked him: "What virtue do you most highly prize in your women?"

"The virtue of domesticity," was the reply.

"Then you do not like your women to move in society much?" she questioned.

"Not at all. Our law even recognizes cause for divorce when a woman—pardon me, madame—is inquisitive and talkative."

"Then I would be in danger of being divorced if I lived in China?" smilingly asked the lady.

"The very day that my country would have the luck to possess a womanly being like you," replied the gallant son of the heavenly realm, "every cause for divorce would be removed from the world."—Washington Post.

Introduction of Envelopes.

Before Sir Rowland Hill introduced the penny post, envelopes were little used, as a double charge was made for a paper inclosed in another, however thin each might be; even the smallest clipping from a newspaper necessitated an extra fee. The use of envelopes became common after May 6, 1840, when stamped and adhesive envelopes were introduced. The first envelope-making machine was invented by Edwin Hill, brother of Roland Hill, and De La Rue's machine for folding envelopes was patented March 17, 1845. The invention of envelopes has been attributed to S. K. Brewer, a bookseller and stationer of Brighton, England, about 1830. He had some small sheets of paper on which it was difficult to write the address; he invented for these a small envelope, and had metal plates made for cutting them to the required shape and size.

Explosion in a Vest Pocket.

An explosion in his vest pocket was what Mr. Fowler of Agawam experienced the other day. He had bought some chlorate of potash tablets, and had put them in the vest receptacle with some sulphur matches. The mixture always causes commotion. But unmindful of this fact, Mr. Fowler sat down in his home to have a quiet smoke. Pretty soon he felt something warm in his pocket; he stuck in his fingers to see what was up; the matches ignited, the potash exploded, blowing open the front of his vest and burning his hands severely. Mr. Fowler jumped high in the air, and the work of stripping off his vest took but a moment. Now he carries his hand in a sling.—Springfield Union.

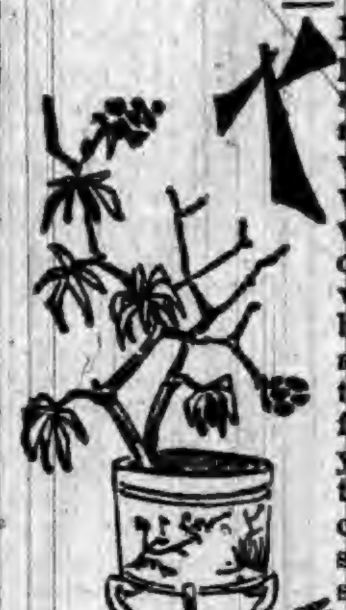
THE international display of scientific progress to be made this year include the Electrical and Industrial Exhibition at Edinburgh and the Exhibition of Botany and Microscopy at Antwerp. At the latter will be celebrated the tercentenary of the compound microscope.

TO GROW WATER LILIES

SOME USEFUL HINTS REGARDING THEIR CULTIVATION.

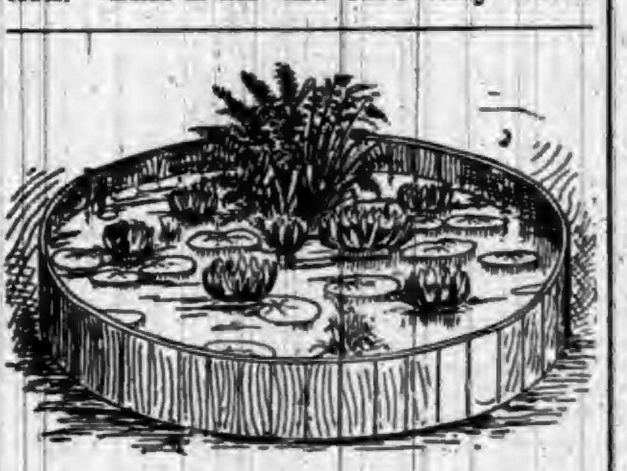
But Little Labor and Expense Involved—How to Construct a Cheap but Beautiful Aquarium—The Pontederia Cordata and How to Raise It.

BY PROF. J. F. ELSOM.



THERE are many persons far removed from ponds and inland lakes where the sweet waterlilies grow, who are not aware of the ease with which they can be made to grow, and bloom in all their beauty and fragrance in the yard, with the trifling cost of constructing a small pond, or sinking in the ground an old tub or barrel sawn in half and kept filled with water during the summer, covering up with straw and boards in the winter to keep from freezing.

For ponds, they should be made about two feet deep, for lilies bloom better in shallow than in deep water; get some healthy knotty roots, cover but slightly with rich mud, fill with water, and the job is ended. For tubs, take one strong barrel, free from tar, oil, or salt; old molasses or whisky barrels are about the best, for the nature of their contents presupposes them strong and well hooped; if an old wagon-tire be driven snugly on the bottom and the tub well painted they will last a dozen years or more. Now saw the barrel in two at the bung, fill each half full of fine loam, or if the barrel be a large one only fill about a third full, lay in the roots, straighten out the small fibers, and cover to the depth of about two inches, and if it is intended to put fish in, overlay with coarse gravel to prevent the fish from burrowing down and exposing the fibrous roots until all are well set. Now sink the tub on a level with the ground, and fill very gently with rain or river water. Well water is not natural to aquatic plants, and it is poor policy to attempt to start them with it, though we have a fine lot now in bloom in an old wash-tub which has always been filled from the well, except what has rained in, but the well is fed from a spring. But I venture that ninety per cent. of the failures to grow plants in this way is the result of using well water. Replenish the tubs with water from time to time, to supply evaporation. This is all the care they need.



A CHEAP AQUARIUM.

A very elaborate and beautiful affair, which is really a joy forever, if one cares to stand the expense, can be made by a cooper. This should be constructed of heavy ash or oak staves, with a false bottom, the upper one, not too heavy, well perforated with two-inch holes, and should be about six inches from the true bottom, leaving about eighteen inches clear space at the top. Plant the roots in the bottom space, fill with dirt as in the other instances, mount on large, strong casters, and you have a very cheap and large aquarium, in which many beautiful fish and water animals may be kept, which could not be made to thrive in an ordinary aquarium, even with a fountain and constant supply of fresh water. In ours we have many kinds, such as spoon-bill cats, gars, shovel-noses, and the like.

The roots of the water lily grow in continuous lengths, hence will crowd and limit the tub if not taken up and cut back; remove the forward or crown end in trimming to about six inches in length, and replant in new loam as before. This plant can be set with equal success in fall or spring. If, when the roots are secured, the tub is not in readiness, place in a pail of water, and they will keep fresh and hearty several days or a week, and will take root as readily as if first placed in the soil. The better plan, however, when practicable, is to have all things in readiness before the roots are secured, then dig up, carry home in a pail of water, or pack in wet moss or damp cloths, being careful not to wrap too deep, and plant as soon as the tub can be reached; in which event, failure to grow will not result one time in a hundred, if all the conditions are carefully observed.

Another beautiful aquatic plant is the Pontederia cordata (arrow-head). It can be grown together with the lily if desired, but unless the pond is large it is better to use separate to avoid crowding. It grows about eighteen inches in height, has long-stalked leaves of the form of an arrow-head, with a one-leaved stem terminating in a spike of purplish-blue flowers. It is admired more, however, for its dark-green foliage than for its bloom, though, small as it is, it is fragrant. This plant grows in shallow water, and its root increases in size by throwing out new crowns from year to year until it becomes a large bushy plant. It can be grown in tubs or urns in the yard or flower pots in the house as desired. Any vessel that will hold water, fill two-thirds of fine loam, put in the root and cover in the center lightly, fill the vessel with water and keep moist; they will grow every time without fail. If for the aquarium, plant the same as water lilies. If it is desired to grow both together, it is better to leave a place in the center of the tub, large enough for the Pontederia root, and cover same as lilies. No particular directions are needed. The tub, however large, will soon be full. Besides, there are many other aquatic plants that will grow equally in tubs.

IN a report on the Kolar gold field of southern India, Mr. B. Smith mentions the finding of interesting remains of ancient mining, such as old timbering, fragments of bones, an oil lamp, and pieces of earthenware. The fact that the old miners, with their simple appliances, reached depths of 200 or 300 feet, through hard rock, astonishes him.

A Necessity of Health.

It is a prime necessity of health that the action of the bowels should be kept regular. But the way to overcome a temporary fit of constipation, or to remedy chronic costiveness, is not to deluge the stomach and drench the bowels with purgatives of violent and painful action. The happy medium between an inoperative and violent cathartic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which acts just sufficiently upon the bowels to relax them, without pain, and which being a wholesome tonic, as well as aperient, has the effect of strengthening both them and the stomach, and promoting the well being of the whole internal economy. The removal of bile from the blood, increased activity of the liver, usually dormant in cases of costiveness, and sound digestion follow the use of this beneficent medicine, as thorough and genial in its effects as it is safe and pure in composition. Rheumatism, fever and ague, kidney troubles and debility are also remedied by it.

Romance and Reality.

Romantic Miss—Do you love me well enough to do battle for me?

Ardent Suitor—Ay, against a thousand.

"Well, Mr. Bigfish is paying me a good deal of attention. Would you fight him for me?"

"Yes, I would."

"Could you defeat him?"

"N-o, he'd probably thrash the life out of me."

"Mercy! Well, never mind. I'll take you without any fighting; and, oh, do please remember, my darling, promise me on your honor, that if you ever see Mr. Bigfish coming, you'll run."—New York Weekly.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO,
LUCAS COUNTY—ss.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

{SEAL.} A. W. GLEASON,
Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by druggists, 75 cents.

Matrimonial Item.

A.—Smith seems to me to be a fool. Everybody swindles him.

B.—Do you know Mrs. Smith?

A.—No.

B.—Well, If you did, you would say Smith so far from being a fool is one of the shrewdest fellows of the town.—Texas Siftings.

"THE world grows weary praising men,
And wearied grows of being praised—"
But never wearied grows the pen

Which writes the truths that have amazed the thousands who have been given up by their physicians and who have been restored to complete health by using that safest of all remedies for functional irregularities and weaknesses, which are the bane of womankind. We refer, of course, to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the only guaranteed cure for all those chronic ailments peculiar to women. Read the guarantee on the bottle-wrapper.

TO REGULATE the stomach, liver and bowels, Dr. Pierce's Pellets excel. One a dose.

They Met by Chance.

Col. Yerger—What's the matter with you? Your clothes are all torn and your face is all scarred up.

Sam Johnsing—Nuffin', boss, nuffin' wuff speakin' of. I jus' had a little chat wid my fust and only lub, what I met for de fust time since I married Swayback Lucy.—Texas Siftings.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

MOTTO for the cremationists—Death is real, death is urnest.—Boston Budget.

ODE to bald-headed men—There'll be no parting there.—The Judge.

To Dispel Colds,

Headaches and Fevers, to cleanse the system effectually, yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, use Syrup of Figs.

The Fresh Air Fiend.

Stranger (at newspaper office)—Here is a health article on fresh air, telling the people about the dangers of impure air and the necessity of keeping windows open at night, besides opening the doors and ventilating the rooms several times during the day. I hope you will print it.

Editor—Certainly, sir; I'm always glad to be of service to humanity. Much obliged. It will be in to-morrow.

Same Stranger (in drug store)—I am agent for Dr. Cureall's cough, cold and catarrh eradicator, and I advise you to lay in a big stock.—New York Weekly.

Only One Bottle.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., August 23, 1889.

Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich.:

GENTLEMEN: Having suffered severely for some time with rheumatism, so that I was unable to work, Messrs. Dreier & Bro. recommended Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup. After taking one bottle I was entirely cured. I have recommended your remedies frequently to my friends with like results.

L. C. ZOLLINGER.

Ask your druggist for it.

We have personal knowledge that the above statement is correct.

DREIER & BRO., Druggists.

Not for Publication.

Rev. Charles Poundtext (who has been writing his sermon, looking up suddenly)—Maria, will you take the children out of the room for a few minutes?

Mrs. Poundtext (in surprise)—Certainly, my dear. But—are they annoying you?"

Rev Poundtext—Not at all; but I have just dipped the mucilage brush in the ink-well, and I would like to be at liberty to make a few remarks.—Life.

Home Seekers' Excursions.

The Chicago and North-Western Railway Company has arranged for a series of excursions from Chicago to points in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Idaho and Montana, for which tickets will be sold at half rates. For full information apply to ticket agents, or address E. P. Wilson, General Passenger Agent Chicago & North-Western Railway, Chicago, Ill.

HOW TO deaden the sound of a piano in the next house—explode dynamite under the player.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. At all Druggists'.

MEMBERS of Congress have a frank way about them.—Texas Siftings.

COUGHS, HOARSENESS, SORE THROAT, etc., quickly relieved by BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. A simple and effectual remedy, superior to all other articles for the same purpose. Sold only in boxes.

STRAIGHT whiskies make crooked roads.—Fall River Advance.

Six Novels Free, will be sent by Cragin & Co., Philada., Pa., to any one in the U. S. or Canada, postage paid, upon receipt of 25 Dobbins' Electric Soap wrappers. See list of novels on circulars around each bar. Soap for sale by all grocers.

A REAL case of bray-in and muscle is seen in the mule.—Boston Star.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

THE spirit of the press—cider.—Boston Globe.

A box wind matches free to smokers of "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigar.

STRAWS show which way the mint-julep goes.

Now is the Time

To purify your blood and fortify your system against the debilitating effects of spring weather. At no other season is the bitter taste in the mouth more prominent, the breath so offensive, the drowsy dizziness so frequent, or that extreme tired feeling so prevalent. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine to build up the system, purify the blood, cure biliousness and headache, overcome that tired feeling, and create a good appetite. The peculiar medicinal merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is shown by the many remarkable cures it accomplishes where others fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier before the public. It eradicates scrofula and all humors, cures salt rheum, boils, pimples, etc. The severest cases of blood poisoning have yielded to its superior curative power.

"This is to certify that I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla in my family for some time past and have found it to be a good blood purifier. It has been of great benefit as recommended, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who are in want of any medicine of the kind." ROBERT A. SMITH, Justice of the Peace, Honesdale, Pa.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For a first-class spring medicine my wife and I think very highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla. We both took it last spring. It did us a great deal of good and we felt better through the hot weather than ever before. It cured my wife of sick headache, from which she has suffered a great deal, and relieved me of a dizzy, tired feeling. I think every one ought to take something to purify the blood before the hot weather comes on, and we shall take Hood's Sarsaparilla this spring." J. H. PEARCE, Supt. Granite Ry. Co., Concord, N. H.

The Spring Medicine

"I wish to enroll my name as one of those who have derived health from the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For many years I have taken it, especially in the early spring, when I am troubled with dizziness, dullness, unpleasant taste in my mouth in the morning. It removes this bad taste, relieves my headache, and makes me feel greatly refreshed. The two bottles I have used this spring have been worth a dollar a dose. I advise all my friends to take it." JOHN BINNS, 663 43d Street, Town of Lake, Chicago, Ill.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Children always Enjoy It.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

of pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is almost as palatable as milk. Children enjoy it rather than otherwise. A MARVELLOUS FLESH PRODUCER it is indeed, and the little lads and lassies who take cold easily, may be fortified against a cough that might prove serious, by taking Scott's Emulsion after their meals during the winter season.

Beware of substitutions and imitations.

SALESMEN WANTED!

Every State in the Union, to represent us to the trade. We are the largest dealers in SPECIALTIES in the country, and offer SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS on the Reprint of the

ORIGINAL WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY

And our PATENT BOOK REST are the best sellers ever handled by salesmen.

THE REGULAR BONANZA!

Complete samples Dictionary and Rest $4.00.

Address,
MERCHANTS' SUPPLY COMPANY,
LOUISVILLE, KY

TELEGRAPHY. We guarantee a good paying position to every graduate. American School of Telegraphy, Madison, Wis.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.

SMITH & WESSON,
Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

ROAD CARTS ONLY $10

The Best and Lowest Price of any Carts Made. $15, $18, $20 and $25. Top Buggies, only $55.00. Harness $7.50 and $10.00. Forges, Anvils, Vises, Safes, Sewing Machines, Scales of all varieties. Save money and send for Price List.

CHICAGO SCALE CO., Chicago, Illinois, U. S. A.

Burlington Route

HALF RATES —TO THE— FARMING REGIONS —OF THE— WEST, SOUTHWEST, NORTHWEST.

For particulars call on your Ticket Agent or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LOW PRICE RAILROAD LANDS & FREE Government LANDS.

MILLIONS of Acres in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. SEND FOR Publications with maps describing THE BEST Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to Settlers. SENT FREE. Address CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Commissioner, ST. PAUL, MINN.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

PENSIONS PATENTS, CLAIMS. Send for Circulars. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Att'y at Law, Washington, D.C.

An Ordinary Mortal, After All.

Referring to the New York aristocracy, two old New Yorkers exchanged reminiscences.

First New Yorker—What airs Snobson puts on.

Second New Yorker—Yes; you would think he was made of China and the rest of mankind of common clay.

First New Yorker—He may be made of China, but I remember his grandfather, and there was common clay about him. He couldn't afford to buy cigars, and had to smoke a little old clay pipe.—Texas Siftings.

A FATHER who has put his boy into a law office, speaks of him as his son-in-law.—Boston Star.

ST. JACOBS OIL TRADE MARK

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAIN

CURES PROMPTLY AND PERMANENTLY

LUMBAGO, Rheumatism, Headache, Toothache, SPRAINS, Neuralgia, Swellings, Frost-bites, BRUISES.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

COPYRIGHT 1889

THE TRUANTS.

Harry—"That's ma calling me; she's going to lick me, 'cause I didn't hurry from the druggist's with this medicine. Jimmy, you can take my gum till I get back; I've got to squall like I was being half-killed, or pa'll lick me; ma can't hurt any, 'cause she's sick most of the time."

Jimmy—"Let's see that medicine. That's the same Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription that cured my mom. Why, she couldn't spank the baby, and now—the other day she shook pop so he doesn't drink any more. In about two weeks you'll get belted so you'll wish you'd been born good."

Please remember, that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only positive cure for the numerous diseases that destroy a woman's influence in her family. It's guaranteed to give satisfaction, in every case, or money paid for it promptly refunded.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb.

A Book of 160 pages, treating of Woman and her peculiar diseases, and their Self-cure, illustrated with wood-cuts and colored plates, mailed in plain, sealed envelope, on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS.

Purely Vegetable and Perfectly Harmless.

As a LIVER PILL, Unequaled!

ONE PELLET A DOSE! SMALLEST, CHEAPEST, EASIEST TO TAKE.

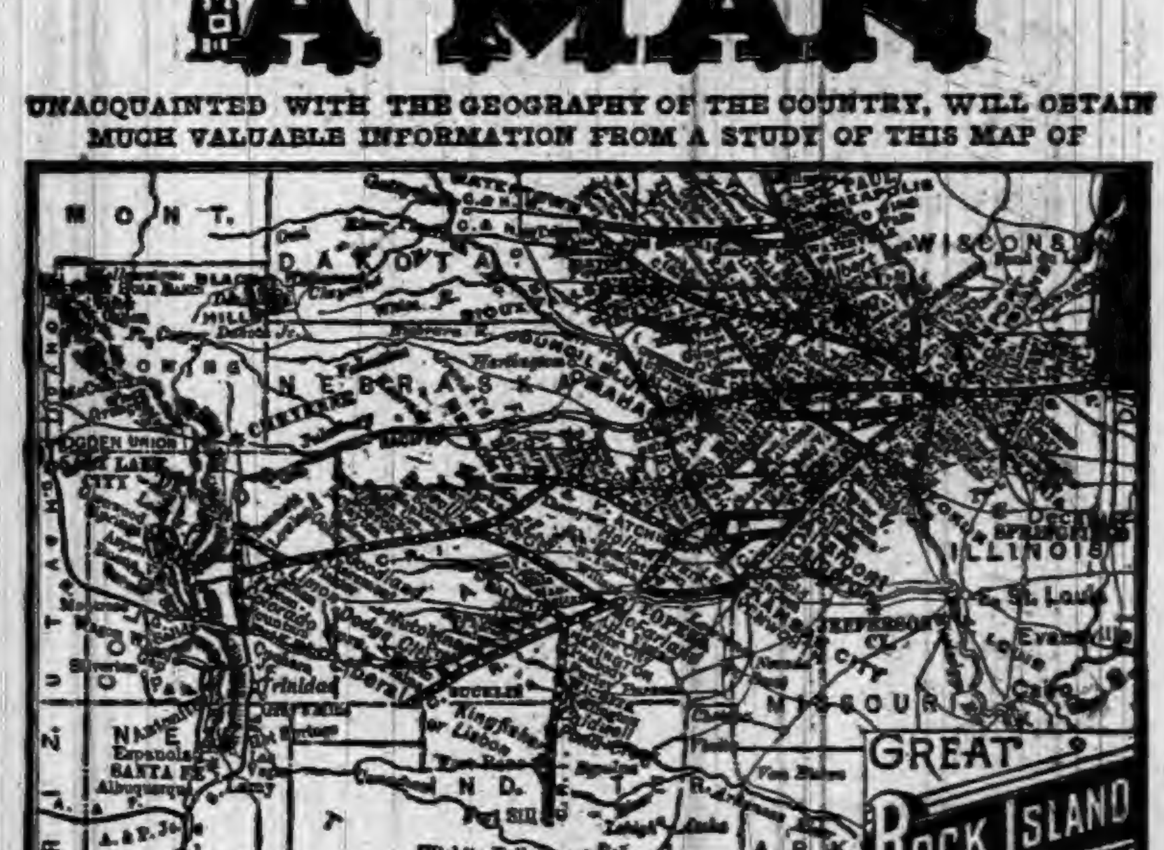
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS. Red Cross Diamond Brand.

The only reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. Ladies, ask Druggist for the Diamond Brand, in red metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Philada., Pa.

PENSIONS! 25 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

Apply to MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Att'ys, 1419 F St., Washington, D.C. Branch offices, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

DROPSY TREATED FREE.

Positively Cured with Vegetable Remedies

Have cured many thousand cases. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best physicians. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. Send for free book of testimonials of miraculous cures. Ten days treatment furnished free by mail. If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

SILK DEPARTMENT.

We have received from the manufacturers 22-inch

PRINTED CHINA SILKS,

Double faced, heavy, fine, and come in a great variety patterns and colorings. We place them on sale at

50 Cents a Yard.

COLORED SURAH SILKS,

45 to 75 cents a yard.

These can be had in colors and blacks

SPRING WRAPS.

Ladies wanting a garment not being able to visit the department can have them sent by express, on memorandum, stating size and colors wanted. Jackets, Newmarkets, Visites, Shoulder Capes, Fichus, etc.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

Filled with the choicest patterns. Ingrain Carpet, 25 cents up to 75 cents. Brussels Carpets, 50 cents up to $1.00. Several hundred peices each pattern. Moquets, Velvets, Axminsters, Curtains and Draperies.

WASH DRESS FABRICS.

Handsome Dress Ginghams, Lovely Novelties from 12½ cents up to 75 cents per yard. The great width of the finer goods make them desirable.

We invite you to send for samples. Any goods sent not satisfactory can be returned—in this way we protect our customers.

ROOT & COMPANY.

Santa Claus Soap,

For the cleanest and whitest of shirts we may hope,
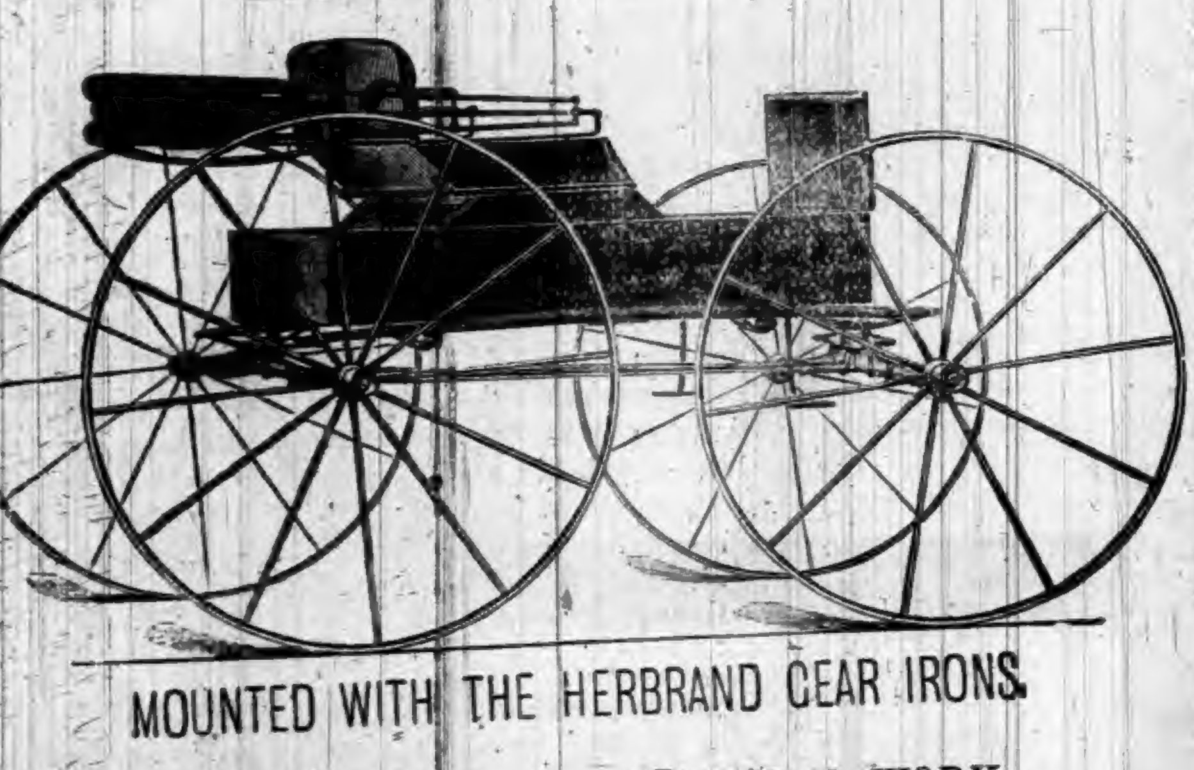
Provided they're washed with the
SANTA CLAUS SOAP.

MADE ONLY BY

N. K. FAIRBANK & CO. ÷ CHICAGO.

ECKHART CARRIAGE COMPANY,

AUBURN, INDIANA.



MOUNTED WITH THE HERBRAND GEAR IRONS.

BETTER STYLES BETTER FACILITIES, BETTER WORK, Better Accommodations.

FOR the past sixteen years we have made and sold to the people of DeKalb County, Buggies and Carriages of all kinds, and have always justified our claim that we POSITIVELY make the BEST in the COUNTRY for the money, until now it has become a common saying that if you want a GOOD BUGGY, one that will stand the knocks,

BUY THE ECKHART BUGGY.

WE have handsomer and more thoroughly made work this year than ever before and expect to be able to furnish our customers, this year, without delay. For the accommodation of our customers we have established the following repositories:

At St. Joe, Ind.,	under the management of		J. K. Stafford.
At Butler, Ind.,	"	" "	" Maxwell & Shoub.
At Corunna, Ind.,	"	" "	" P. N. Calkin.
At LaOtto, Ind.,	"	" "	" E. A. Ditmars.

WHERE we will at all times keep a full line. We will also keep our Repository at our Factory well filled with the styles most in demand.

Killed by the Train.

We have to chronicle another terrible death under the cars. This time it is Charles Cool, a well known resident of this place. He has been at times a hard drinker. Saturday, he was about town all day, and appeared little or none the worse for drink, but some report that along in the evening he was getting under the influence. About three o'clock Sunday morning, Bert Hull, a young man of about twenty, son of Henry Hull, of St. Joe, was going down the Wabash track toward the Junction where he could take the 3:20 train home. About half way down, he met the east bound passenger on the Wabash, and after that, after passing the switch of the side track which reaches from there to the Junction, he was startled to see what he thought the body of a man lying between the rails of the side track. It was lying face downward while gazing at it, Mr. Hull nearly stumbled onto a dark mass lying on the main track. In spite of the darkness he could see it was the remains of a person, and hurried to the station and got night agent Harry Stafford to come back with his lantern. On reaching the spot they found that the supposed dead man, who had been lying on the side track, and a little east of the other body had now got up, and had passed the spot where the other lay, and was staggering along toward the Junction. After looking at the remains on the track, they went back to the Junction and soon after this, the man who had been found on the side track came in. He proved to be Orrin Meese. The west bound passenger train, also came along, and ran over the body. Then came a freight train, and after passing a car or two, over the body they saw what they were doing, and backed up. But as the body was now mutilated, and lay flat between the rails and would not be touched they ran the train on over it. Two other freights came on later, but were run onto the sidetrack and so avoided mangling it further. It was taken up and brought to the Wabash coal shed at the Junction, where after some difficulty it was identified as that of Mr. Cool. He was so crushed, especially about the head, that identification was difficult. But his hat was recognized, as well as a small book of items or accounts. He was brought up town later, and prepared for burial at Shaffer's undertaking establishment. Coroner Wood was summoned from Garrett, and a partial inquest was held that day, and continued Monday. Various persons testified, bringing out the substance of what we have given here in brief. It also appeared that Mr. Mason, who resides on the Lockwood place beyond the Junction, had gone down the track about five or ten minutes before young Hull went. He testified that he found two men, one lying on the track and the other sitting by him. His first thought was to pull them off, but it then occurred to him they might be tramps who were taking this way to get hold of him. So he stepped around them and went on. At the Junction the east bound train passed on east, and as usual, did not stop. Mason went on home under the impression that the men he supposed to be tramps had got out of the way of the train. Meese testified that he and Cool and others had been drinking some through the evening. He said that about nine o'clock he got a bottle of whisky at Stutz', and Cool and others helped to drink it. He and Cool, he says, went down VanBuren street about one o'clock going to the Junction, but he claims he cannot remember anything that happened after reaching the railroad track. And yet he swore he was not drunk, and that Cool was not drunk. His story is a strange one, if true. But, though foul play, was at first charged to him, it does not appear there is any ground for this. The body was fully identified by Frank Dills and Elmer Miller. The engineer and fireman, who first ran over him said they only saw an indistinct object lying on the track, but did not know it was a man. At Butler they found no stains on the engine. The second, or west bound train passed over him after young Hull had first found him, and before he got to the Junction with the news. The two trains had met at the depot in Auburn and there was but a few minutes between the times when they ran over him. The remains were prepared for burial as well as was possible and interred here Monday.

Every Lady in Auburn.

Is requested to call on F. E. Davenport and try a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the great guaranteed remedy for coughs, colds and all lung and throat troubles. It is as sweet and pleasant as as gum or candy, and the price is only 25 cents. It is selling entirely upon its own merits and is guaranteed to cure or money refunded by F. E. Davenport.

The Shade of Columbus.

Rebuffed by every potentate before whom he laid his plans, and jeered at by the populace before setting sail the New World, Columbus upon his return was listened to with open mouthed astonishment by the king, queen and people. Think of the utter unbelief with which even Columbus would have listened to some inspired prophet who could have told him of the wonders of the New World to-day. His thought is the idea in a very handsome picture published by Wm. Deering & Co., Chicago. The shade of Columbus is shown gazing in surprise at the mammouth Deering Works, and the Deering Binders and Mowers cutting grain and grass. What would he say if he could express his thoughts?

WANTED! Salesmen to sell our Choice Nursery Stock. All goods guaranteed first-class. Good salaries and expenses, or liberal commission paid. No experience necessary. Write for terms, giving age and secure your choice of Territory. G. L. KNIGHT & CO., 100 Park Avenue, Rochester, N. Y. 17

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Ann Murray deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WILLIAM SEELY, administrator.

March 29th, 1890. 3t

Election Returns.

Democrats gained 3 trustees in Lagrange, 3 in Whitley, 2 in Laporte, 4 in Marshall, 3 in Elkhart, 3 in Noble, 5 in Fulton, 4 in Porter, 2 in Kosciusko, 2 in Starke, and seem to have gained in about the same way all over the state. The entire gain will be about 118. Chairman Jewett, in a circular says: "Complete returns from last Monday's election disclose most gratifying results. Out of the 1,012 townships, into which the state is divided, you have carried 608, gaining 118 township trustees, and have a majority on the total vote over 17 000. You have carried 64 of the 92 counties, and been successful at Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Evansville, Terre Haute, New Albany, Lafayette, and almost every other important city and town in the state."

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough, remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

A Boom in the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia.

No section of the United States is attracting more attention than the famous Shenandoah Valley, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland. The marvelous natural resources which have been so long neglected are now being rapidly developed. Capitalists, business men, manufacturers and others from all sections of the north and west are seeking locations in these states. No field offers greater inducements for investments. Industrial towns are being established, farms subdivided and sold in small tracts, thus affording all classes an opportunity to secure desirable locations. Maps and pamphlets describing the country are sent free of charge upon application to M. V. Richards, Land and Immigration Agent, B. & O. R. R., Baltimore, Md. 16 18

Help to Mothers Nursing.

Mothers who have the care and draught of nursing infants need the aid of strengthening tonic to make up the nourishment required for the growth of the child. Ale, porter and lager beer have often been recommended. Of late, since physicians have become aware that the Port Wine produced by Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J., is strictly pure, they have prescribed it instead of ale or porter as being more blood making. This wine is principally sought for by mothers who have nursing infants at the breast, as the best supplying medium to be found. The wine is rich in body and not intoxicant but gently stimulating and makes good blood. Druggists generally keep it, and sell it for a dollar a bottle.—Enquirer.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed bids will be received for the building of the Fairview church up to Saturday April 26, 1890. Plans and specifications can be seen at the residence of Joseph Koch, in Concord township. The committee reserve the right to reject any and all bids. Bids will be opened at St. Joe on Saturday April 26, at two o'clock.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

BURLINGTON ROUTE.

Home Seekers' Excursions.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R, will sell on Tuesdays, April 22d and May 20th, Home Seekers' Excursion tickets at Half Rates to points in the farming regions of the west, nortwest and southwest. Limit thirty days. For folder giving details concerning tickets, rates and time of trains, and for descriptive land folder, call on your ticket agent, or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

13-15-16-19-20.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

WANTED.—Gentlemen and Lady Agents to handle our celebrated Polish for polishing Gold, Silver, Nickel and Brass. Best article of the kind ever produced. We have agents making as high as $200 a month. Article sells at sight. Sample 25 cents Salary to good agents. For particulars address manufacturers,

EDELL & ELLIOTT,
16-18 530 N. Michigan St., South Bend, Indiana.

The Five Great Battles.

Last week we gave Champion's Hill, as the first named in the Indianapolis News list, with a promise to give others as we had space, showing the reasons for selecting them as leading battles. The next they give is

GETTYSBURG.

The battle of Gettysburg is so universally regarded, both popularly and professionally, as one of the greatest engagements of the War of Secession, that it would seem unnecessary to give reasons, carefully, for selecting it as one of this group.

Without reference to the many grave and spirited controversies and criticisms relating to both the combatants, there were enough of the elements of a great battle to signalize it as one of the most important in history.

The immense size of both armies and the large number of casualties would of themselves place it among the most notable engagements of our war.

Considered aside from the merits of the civil struggle of which it formed a part, the splendid courage of the troops on both sides must forever command the admiration of mankind. But when the great stake involved in the hazard of battle is considered, the importance of the engagement is immeasurably enhanced. If all the possible benefits of the victory were not realized, the results of the defeat were most manifestly realized.

Whatever the Rebellion was before Vicksburg, Gettysburg and Chattanooga, it was thereafter, upon the part of its political leaders, a wanton crime.

CHATTANOOGA.

From the first advance, Chattanooga was the objective point of strategy. After the siege of Corinth, while the Army of the Tennessee, commanded by General Grant, commenced the movement which terminated in the capture of Vicksburg, the Army of the Ohio marched eastward with the object of capturing Chattanooga. Chattanooga was the gateway to the interior of the Confederacy, and its importance was fully recognized by both armies. The great battles of Perryville and Stone River were only steps on the route to Chattanooga. The bloody battle of Chickamauga was fought for its possession. The final battle of Chattanooga, November 23-24 25. 1863, which embraces the actions around the town and upon Lookout Mountain, and the storming of Missionary Ridge, the most brilliant and successful feat of arms of the war, secured the place to the Union Army. It opened the road to Atlanta, and finally culminated in the March to the Sea and the capture of Savannah.

NASHVILLE

The battle of Nashville resulted in the almost total annihilation of the great central army of the rebels, which fought the battles of Donelson, Shiloh, Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, the Atlanta campaign, Franklin and Nashville. It was the only instance of the war in which an army was destroyed in the open field.

M. E. Ministers.

We give below the list of appointments for the coming year, in which our people are most interested.

FORT WAYNE DISTRICT. A. E. MAHIN, P. E.

Angola, J. A. Beatty; Auburn, H. M. Lamport; Avilla, J. H. Walters; Bluffton, J. H. Jackson; Churubusco, T. H. C. Beall; Coesse, C. M. Hollopeter; Decatur, G. B. Work; Fort Wayne, Berry street, W. M. Van Slyke; Simpson, J. M Driver; St. Paul, M. C. Cooper; Trinity, N. D. Shackelford; Wayne street, R. M. Barns; Fremont, L. Reeves; Garrett, W. R. Wones; Geneva, A. L. Forkner; Harlan, A. H. Currie; Huntertown, T. F. Frech; Huntington, G. H. Hill; Leo, H. C. Ashcraft; Markle, supplied by E. B. Westhaver; Monroe, supplied by S. L Foster; Monroeville, B. S. Hollopeter; New Haven, J. C. Dorwin; Ossian, H. Bridge; Poneto, J. M. Haines; Roanoke, J. B. Alleman; Sheldon, J. C. White, jr.; Spencerville, J. J. Fred.

GOSHEN DISTRICT. F. T. SIMPSON, P. E.

Albion, O. S. Harrison; Bristol; A. M. Lamport; Butler, F. M. Stone; Corunna, M. R. Pierce; Elkhart, W. D. Parr, Elkhart Circuit, W. M. Stranahan; Goshen, First church, C. C. Albertson; Goshen, North church, F. D. Newhouse; Hamilton, supplied by A. V. Kuepper; Kendallville, L. A. Beeks; Lagrange, L. J. Naftzger; Leesburg, A. Cone; Lima, J. I. Mc Coy; Ligonier, T. M. Guild; Middlebury, E. F. Albertson; Milford, J. M. DeWeese; Mishawaka, F. G. Brown; Nappanee, J. S. Cain; New Paris, C. H. Murray; Osceola, M. H. Murray; Orland, S. Powell; Valentine, O. V. L. Harbour; Waterloo, L. A. Retts; Wawaka, W. Parfit; Wolcottville, A. S. Preston.

May Thank Her Stars.

The narrow escape of Mrs. B. M. Searles, of Elkhart, Ind., from a premature death is wonderful. She states that "for twenty years my heart troubled me greatly. I became worse. Had smothering spells, short breath, fluttering; could not sleep on my left side, had much pain in breast, shoulder and stomach. Ankles swelled. Had much headache and dizziness. Treatment did me no good, until I tried Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and restorative Nervine. The first bottle helped me, and I was soon virtually cured. For sale at F. E. Davenport's drug store. A fine book on heart and nerves free. 4

For All Kinds Of

Finest Millinery, Notions, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Furnishing Goods,

And Articles for Fancy Work, it will pay you to call on

J. C. JOHNSTON, Waterloo, Ind.

000 000 000

WE keep the largest assortment, very latest styles, lowest prices. The best facilities for doing business and the largest force of experienced help of any establishment of the kind in this part of the country.

000 000 000

IN addition to our Millinery Department, we pay close attention to other lines above mentioned, which means a great variety of articles too numerous to mention.

000 000 000

WE shall continue as in the past to add to our stock, novelties, both in millinery and our stock generally, as fast as they appear in the eastern markets, and will be at all times ready to furnish our customers with just what they want, as we keep a large assortment of each article in our stock varying in prices and qualities, in proof of which, do as others are doing, call and be convinced. Thanking you for past favors,

I am yours truly,

J. C. JOHNSTON,
WATERLOO, IND.

Great Bargain Sale.

In order to make room for our spring and summer goods we shall for

ONE DAY ONLY,

SATURDAY, APRIL 19, 1890,

Make great reductions on all lines of goods. Note some of our prices FOR THAT DAY.

Our $2.00 Calf Boot for $1.75.
Our $4.25 Calf Boot for $3,50.
Our $4.50 Kangaroo Shoes for $3.75.
All our Ladies' $2.50 Shoes go for $2.00.
A fine line of $3.00 shoes for $2.50.
A $4.00 Shoe for $3.25.
Our $1.50 Shoes at $1.25.
Ladies' Rubbers at 29 cents.
Misses' and Children's, 23 & 27 cts.

Low prices on everything. Nothing reserved. We want you to try our goods, and know we can please you as to price, style and quality. We guarantee every pair as represented. Come early and avoid the crowd. Doors open at 7 o'clock, a. m.

TERMS CASH.

THE PLACE, Wilson's Shoe Store, AUBURN.

THE TIME, SATURDAY, APRIL 19, '90.

ALL ARE INVITED.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

South of Square,——AUBURN.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.

Do you need a CARPET This Spring?

IF you do, come and see us, so we can show you how much better you can do with us than elsewhere. We can sell you a handsomer and better carpet in all respects, and for less money than you can get them for at any other place.

We are showing a large and exquisite line of Moquettes, Velvets, Body Brussels, Tapestries and Ingrains.

REMEMBER WE ARE AGENTS FOR

LOWELL :-: INGRAINS.

This carpet is wound on a hollow stick. Buy a carpet with a hollow stick in the center, and you will get one that will not fade or spot. We sell these for the same price that other dealers ask for an inferior quality.

Rugs, Lace Curtains, Mats, Draperies and Window Shades.

Do not get so interested in our Carpets that you will forget all about our DRESS GOODS. The different styles and colors we are showing this spring are handsomer than ever. Henriettas and Brilliantines. An elegant assortment of novelty suit patterns. A 36-inch all-wool plaid for 45 and 49 cents a yard.

Louis Wolf & Co.,
54 CALHOUN ST., FT. WAYNE, IND.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

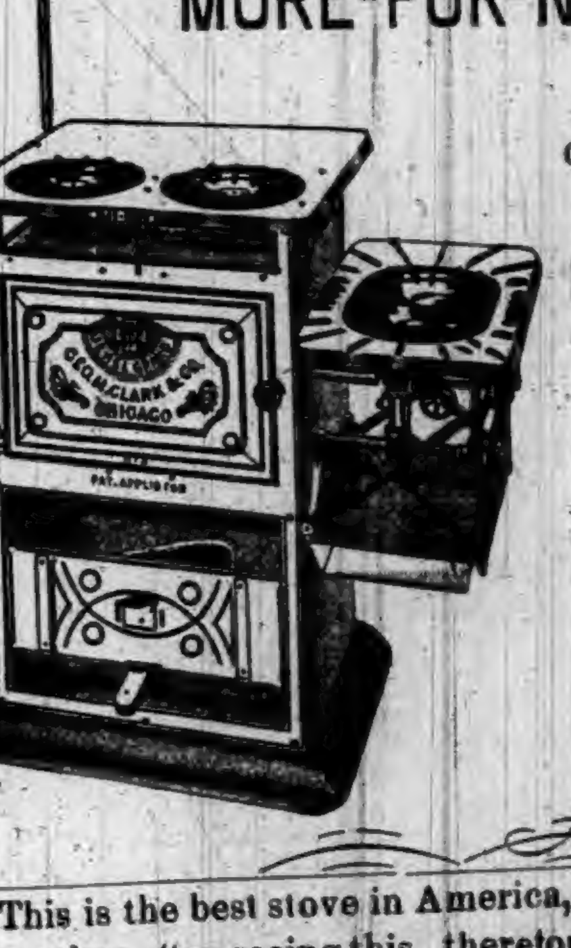
NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

JEWEL GRAND STEP.

THE GRANDEST OF ALL GRANDS!



MORE-FOR-NO-MORE-MONEY.

GREATEST PERFECTION & ECONOMY GUARANTEED.

Positively No Odor or Smell

FOUR BURNERS ON TOP, OF WHICH YOU CAN USE ONE OR ALL.

One set between the Oven and Roasting Chamber for Baking and Roasting, Toasting or Broiling at the same time with the same flame.

This is the best stove in America, and you cannot be pleased with any other after seeing this, therefore don't fail to see it.

J. BEURET, Dealer in Hardware and Tinware.

Tinshop at. 15, North Main St., Auburn, Ind.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1890. NUMBER 17.

The Wonderful Tower.

The highest structure in the world is Eiffel Tower, at Paris, 1,000 feet high. But the great discovery of Dr. Franklin Miles is certain to tower far above it in promoting human happiness and health. This wonderful nerve medicine builds up wornout systems, cures fits, spasms, headache, nervous prostration, dizziness, sleeplessness, monthly pains, sexual troubles, etc. Mrs. John R. Miller, of Valparaiso, Ind., and J. D. Taylor, of Logansport, Ind., gained 20 pounds a month while taking it. Finely illustrated treatise on "Nervous Diseases" and sample bottle of the Restorative Nervine, free at F. E. Davenport's who guarantees it. 5

The forty-fifth anniversary of the admission of California to the union will be celebrated at San Francisco in September, and a great demonstration is expected.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

According to the Providence Journal, a district for every 600 voters would obviate every difficulty and inconvenience under the new ballot reform law in Rhode Island.

CATARRH—CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—Hay Fever—A New Home Treatment

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is, that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above. ly

On exhibition at the Third National Bank in Scranton is a check bearing the signature of George Washington. It was drawn just three months and one day before his death.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcohol ic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

In Buenos Ayres an opera box for sixty nights cost $7,000. Coal for range or fireplace is from $38 to $40 per ton. You may go to the circus for $5.50. Shoes are worth from $10 to $12.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: M. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at Robbins & McCord's, Drugstore. 5

U. S. express company will reduce wages all along the line 10 per cent., commencing at the president's office.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

Ohio and Pennsylvania miners will ask for a basing scale of 60 cents for the former and 69 for those in the Pittsburg district.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise.—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, will remove Pimples, Boils, Salt Rheum and other affections caused by impure blood.—Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers.—For cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try Electric Bitters—Entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.—Price 50cts. and $1.00 per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 5

The olive tree lives to a great age. One lately destroyed at Beaulieu had a record of five centuries and was thirty-six feet in circumference.

Thousands Poisoned.

In a recent work on heart disease, Dr. Franklin Miles the noted specialist gives many new and startling facts. Thousands of people are slowly poisoning themselves, weakening their hearts by the use of tea, coffee, tobacco and alcohol. These are heart whips, causing it to beat rapidly, thus gradually wearing it out, producing shortness of breath when exercising, pains in side and shoulder, hungry and faint spells. Finally heart failure and sudden death. For weakened and irritated hearts the press everywhere highly recommend the New Heart Cure discovered by Dr. Franklin Miles, which is for sale at F. E. Davenport's. 5

Our City Government.

We publish, as will be seen, a call for a nominating caucus, and urge all to attend. We also publish the statement of the treasurer for last year, as well as a complete statement by the clerk, of all orders issued during the year just ending. These two statements are due to the people, whose expenses are in the hands of these officers. The town board rightly believe the people should know where every dollar has gone. They want the people to look it over and see that all is satisfactory. The statement will be read with interest and we are pleased to note the good showing it makes. It shows large sums of money paid out, and what is of as much consequence, that we have a good amount of property to show for it. The several items of expense for feed for team, it should be observed, are for the feed of both teams, the town team and Joe Pfefferl's team. But only half is for the town team. Mr. Pfefferl pays for his own half, this half of each bill for feed being charged up to his own account and he pays for it, thus reducing the feed items as seen in the report, just one half. The list of resources could have been made much larger, for we have in addition to the items named, a great many, twenty at least, of expensive fire wells or cisterns, and great numbers of cement crossings that have cost much money, but will last many years. It should also be mentioned that the board has secured for us, the best electric lights in the country. We have never found in any of the neighboring towns, lights so strong and clear, or that were valuable to so great a distance. This expense is one of the most worthy the board has made. Our people should see to it that no backward steps are taken in this matter. Nine-tenths of the principal taxpayers petitioned for the lights and their wishes should be respected. In brief, we say, the board has done well We don't know whether they want to be re-elected or not, but if they do, we feel, that the town cannot do better. If any of them decline, we say, then select men to take their place, who will vigorously carry out their policy. We are as well suited with the other officers. The treasurer, Mr. Jones, has been a model officer, though his duties are lighter than some others. The clerk, Mr. Aber, has proved an officer of more than average ability. He has been faithful at every point and has been thorough in his work, making no mistakes anywhere. The Marshal, Mr. Picker, met with some opposition at the beginning, but has, we believe, lived it all down. He has proved faithful and efficient. His year, has been a hard one as far as street work goes, especially through the winter, when it took muscle, courage, patience and long suffering to keep the crossings even passable. But he stood over them, shovel in hand, and fought the mud from daylight till dark, without a word of complaint, or a moment of relaxation. We are told he will be a candidate for renomination, and we do not hear of anyone against him. He should have it by acclamation. If not then, as we said of the others, let us have a man who will do as well. We cannot close this without saying to our people, that whoever we select for officers, should be men whose interests are Auburn's interests. The only criticisms we have heard, have come from the Garrett Clipper, whose connecting link lives in Auburn and who has attempted to dictate to Auburn taxpayers. Our people do not have to go to Garrett for advice as to how to manage our business. It should be our pride, as it is our duty to kick out all such impertinent inter meddlers, and conduct our own affairs to suit ourselves.

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough, remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Minorca Chickens.

I have eggs for sale sale for hatching. This is a new, and popular breed of chickens having been in the United States, but a few years. I have Black and White Minorcas. All wanting eggs, call on JAMES STONEBRAKER, Corunna.

BURLINGTON ROUTE.

Home Seekers' Excursions.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., will sell on Tuesdays, April 22d and May 20th, Home Seekers' Excursion tickets at Half Rates to points in the farming regions of the west, nortwest and southwest. Limit thirty days. For folder giving details concerning tickets, rates and time of trains, and for descriptive land folder, call on your ticket agent, or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

13-15-16-19-20.

Commissioner's Sale.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned Commissioner appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court, in the case of Samuel Davis et al. vs Matilda Radormer et al. in said court by order of said court will sell at public auction on the premises on

Saturday, May 17, 1890.

The following premises in DeKalb county, Indiana, to wit: Sixty-two and one-half (62½) acres off of the north end of the east half of the northeast quarter of section nineteen (19) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east, excepting the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago railroad, passing through said land. And also the south half of the southeast quarter of section seven (7), all in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east. Sale to commence at ten o'clock a. m. of said day.

Terms: One-third cash, one-third in one year and one third in two years. The deferred payments to be secured by notes, at interest, waiving relief, and secured by a mortgage on the premises.

JOHN NELSON,
Commissioner.

April 14, 1890.
James E. Rose Atty.

HERE WE ARE AGAIN!

BUT this time we come with a list comprising a choice lot of new properties at exceedingly low prices, in fact any one of them is a bargain, when the location, improvements and general surroundings are taken into

CONSIDERATION.

While heretofore we have offered many bargains, all of which have been gobbled up with the great rapacity of

A HUNGRY MAN.

We believe this to be the choicest lot of all, and the only one we will be able to offer on such favorable terms and prices, but these pieces are for sale at prices that

WILL SELL THEM,

and if you think of buying for a residence or as an investment, call at our office and we will convince you our statements are true as to

PROPERTY AND PRICES.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. The soil is a most splendid one for producing large yields of all kinds of grain. There are 30 acres of good timber on this farm. This farm is cheap at $60 per acre, but we will sell it for less money.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn, and would make someone a fortune if they would buy and plat it in acre lots.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling barn, orchard and good fences. This would be a bonanza for anyone at $2,800, but it goes for less. "First come first served" in this trade.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings, 2 good wells sugar camp, fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared. This is a great bargain for someone with small capital, to secure a house, and is cheap at $2,500, but it can be bought for less money.

No. 230. One hundred and ninety-two acres in Newville township, within short distance of Newville and Hicksville. 130 acres under cultivation, balance timber land. Elegant brick dwelling, frame barn, wind pump, two good orchards. School and church near. Here is an opportunity which is seldom found in a lifetime, to secure a farm which is ready to make money for the purchaser from the time of purchase. This farm is well worth $65 per acre, but less will buy it, if taken at once.

No. 304. Sixty acres fine land in Wilmington township. Good frame building with all modern improvements, good orchard. This can be bought for less than $2,500.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O. This will be sold at any reasonable price as it must go.

No. 305. One hundred and forty acres of as good land as there is in this county and with improvements on it that are equalled by but few farms in this county, lies within two and one-half miles of good market. We wish to call your especial attention to this tract as one of our best bargains and is cheap at $10,500, but less will buy it if taken soon. The owner is sick, and has not the necessary help and cannot farm it to any advantage, is the reason a sacrifice will be made. Long time and easy terms

No. 309. Seventy-eight acres in Concord township. Fine large brick dwelling, large frame barn, splendid orchard of over 100 trees, all bearing. Small fruits in abundance, and soil unsurpassed for producing all kinds of crops. This farm can be bought cheap and will be like finding money at $7,500.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana. Trade well established. Here is a chance for someone to make money with but little capital to invest, as the property can be bought cheap, and will give immediate possession.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street. You know that property in the south end of town is not for sale, generally speaking, and when offered is not long in the market. So it will be with this one. Do not delay, but come at once as it must go.

Vacant lots in the South End of town, at prices to suit customers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we are still loaning money on farms in sums of $1,000 and over at 6 per cent. interest on five years' time.

Also, that we offer to the public

THE MOST LIBERAL

Fire, Life and Accident Policy of any Agency in Northern Indiana. Come in and get our terms.

Also, that we can sell you a Railroad or Steamship Ticket at rates that will astonish you. Our rates are the lowest and our routes the best. Come and see us and we will convince you that these are facts.

We have omitted many bargains (our space being limited,) especially in town properties, a list of which may be seen at our office. Call and see us.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

WE are now prepared to show you a complete and elegant line of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
CARPETS,
HATS,
CAPS,
Etc.

WE have taken special pride in selecting goods for each department, and can safely promise to please you in style, quality and price, in anything which you may want in our line.

The Spring Goods are prettier than ever before. It would take columns to enumerate the many choice bargains we will be pleased to show you whether you are ready to buy or not. We very cordially invite an inspection by one and all. It will pay you to trade with

Yours, most respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

MR. W. P. JOHNSON, ATLANTA, GA.

Whose picture adorns the head of this column, is an extensive coal and wood dealer.

He said lately: "My business necessitates a good deal of exposure upon me, and last winter, owing to this fact, I was attacked with a very severe case of inflammatory rheumatism.

"What I suffered from this dread disease can better be imagined than described.

"I did everything I could to cure myself. I tried every means in my power and every remedy left me as bad or worse than I was before. I could not raise my hand to my head, and it looked as if, even if I were rid of the disease, its effects would CRIPPLE ME FOR LIFE.

"About four weeks ago I was persuaded to try Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure, and my relief was almost instantaneous. I am now on my fourth bottle, and I am as sound a man as there is in Georgia.

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE.

Is a superb tonic and blood purifier, quickly curing all diseases of the blood, skin and kidneys. $1 per bottle. Book of testimonials FREE. Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. Manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure, for bronchitis, coughs, asthma and colds.

WANTED.—Gentlemen and Lady Agents to handle our celebrated Polish for polishing Gold, Silver, Nickel and Brass. Best article of the kind ever produced. We have agents making as high as $200 a month. Article sells at sight. Sample 25 cents. Salary to good agents. For particulars address manufacturers,

16-18
EDELL & ELLIOTT,
530 N. Michigan St., South Bend, Indiana.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed bids will be received for the building of the Fairview church up to Saturday April 26, 1890. Plans and specifications can be seen at the residence of Joseph Koch, in Concord township. The committee reserve the right to reject any and all bids. Bids will be opened at St. Joe on Saturday April 26, at two o'clock.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well known Nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. A steady position with a Nursery of over thirty years' standing, and a known responsibility. We want good, lively workers, and will pay well. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.

CHASE BROTHERS CO., Chicago, Ill.

Election Contest.

Soon after the April election word came up that there had been suspicious work in Stafford township. It had been rumored that Mr. Chiesman, the new county committeeman of the republicans, was making great efforts to win a name as a fine worker. He already had quite an unenviable reputation in that line, and democrats had their eyes on him. As noted last week, he had not been able to keep up the vote of his own township, but it seems he had been looking up matters in Stafford. Last week these rumors came to a head, when A. J. Baxter, of Butler, brought in a notice of contest on the part of Joseph Willson, late democratic candidate for trustee in Stafford. The contest was based on the averment that the trustee-elect, Charles Arford, had paid two voters, Frank Cook, and Allen Cook, two dollars each to vote for him. Also, that he had secured the vote of a teacher, named Ed. Fisher, by promising him a school for next year. This, it proved, will give the office to Willson, as under such circumstances, the new election law would make Arford ineligible, by reason of bribery. The contest will be before the board of county commissioners and is set for trial a week from next Monday, or May 5. If the case against Arford is proved, he cannot hold the office, and Mr. Willson will get it. There is also a case to come up at the next term. The two men who claim they were paid two dollars each, have a claim under the new law, of $300 and attorney's fees, as against any man who corruptly influences their vote. A. J. Baxter, of Butler, and Hon. W. H. Dills, of this place, have brought suit for the men, to recover this sum, and will press the case with their well-known energy and ability. Arford was here Monday, and gave bond for his appearance and engaged Mr. Penfield to defend him. Both cases are looked forward to with a great deal of interest, for they will test the strength of the new law to prevent corruption.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

Well Driving.

Purdy & Son, the well known well drivers of Auburn, will devote their time to this business and give all their patrons good work. They have an abundant experience, and can show certificates from the leading property owners in the county, to show the satisfaction their work has given. Call on them at Auburn, or write where you want them to come. Address PURDY & SON, Auburn, Ind.

OLD SETTLERS.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the DeKalb County Pioneer Association will be held at the Secretary's office, in Auburn, on

Friday, May 2, 1890,

at 1 o'clock, p. m., to select the place and make the necessary arrangements for holding the next annual meeting to be held June 19, 1890. With the President and Secretary, the following persons compose such committee, viz:

Phillip Noel,
Wm. Carr,
R. Culbertson,
S. H. Bartlett,
S. P. Waltenbe,
J. D. Wood,
A. F. Pinchin,
M. B. Willis,
R. N. Crooks,
N. Griffiith,
O. C. Clark,
J. Buchanan,
E. R. Shoemaker,
F. D. Oberlin,
Wm. R. Emerson.

All persons feeling interested in the objects of the Association are invited to be present.

J. D. LEIGHTY, President,
W. H. DILLS, Secretary.

SALESMEN WANTED.

LOCAL OR TRAVELING.

To sell our Nursery Stock. Salary, Expenses and Steady Employment guaranteed.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY,
Rochester, N. Y.

IF YOU WANT TO

BUY CHEAP,

—Go to the—

Bargain Store

On Eighth St., West of Court House.

HAVING SOLD OUT,

—AND—

Must Reduce Stock.

I will sell half my Dry Goods at Cost, for next 60 days, as I give possession first of June, and will offer great inducements to buyers. Call early and get first choice.

FRANK HOLMAN,
Cedar Creek, Ind.

CORRESPONDENCE.

NEWVILLE.

We hope we can have a good state physician here soon, for fear we cannot get Uncle Sam out this fall to vote. Reps, see to this.

Dave was captured on the street the other day by a lady of our village and received a good cussing. Look out! Dave, with your U. S. belt.

Lawrence fell down and busted the knees out of his Jeans pants. Stretch the rope tighter, Scotchy, so you can hang the clothes on to keep them off of the ground.

Wm. M Rex sold Daisy B. Friday, the 18th, for $20,000. He says he will not deal in running horses any more. But she was the swiftest horse on record, was she not, Boney?

Frank Bulldoze has located permanently in Butler since his school is out in Newville, for the purpose of doing all the dirt he can for that influencial and smart Ohio republican cheese maker. Do what you do legally.

W. B. has concluded he will not run for Auditor—he is figuring for something smaller, like our supervisor, got something, or nothing. We think W. B. will be the small end of nothing. He had better move back to Ohio.

Walter you must try this and get Elmore to come back from Warsaw to vote in Stafford, also Moody, of Kendallville, to vote in Newville. Walter don't neglect your duty, but import all the votes you can, to vote for a mushroom, that has been in the state 20 minutes.

It is something mysterious when you see an old man with one foot almost in the grave try to whip Old Peculiar with a fence board when it is all he could do to lift the harness after Old Peculiar went through them. Keep your temper down; it will save you time and money.

The other evening while Hugh was out calling, Lon G. walked in on him and after a short talk Hugh started home. When he got out of the door he was captured by some one who took Hugh to be Scotchy. G. being somewhat frightened by the racket outside, fled immediately for parts unknown with his Jeans pants flying in the air, for fear they were after him, which they were. Be careful, honey, where you stop when the man of the house is not at home.

The democrats have found the combination to the republican party long ago and if you want anything substantial come to the old time-lock democrat that don't strike only once in twenty-four hours. But it is business when they do strike. The county officer with one hip knocked down was calling on W. B. and old Peculiar Saturday. But we don't think from his actions that he knew whether he was here or some place else. Too many bootjacks flying in the air. It put us in mind of the jasack story, "When will we three meet again." Walter, Hipshot and Peculiar.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned have been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the last will of Abraham Buss deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANK D. BUSS,
LAFAYETTE B. BUSS.
April 21, 1890. Executors.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Wine is now transported in Europe in tank cars, like petroleum in the United States. One recently carried 11,000 liters from Italy to Berlin, and such transport is looked upon as successful.

THE LADIES FAVORITE
THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
THE FINEST WOODWORK
THE BEST ATTACHMENTS
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE Co. ORANGE MASS.
CHICAGO, ILL.
28 UNION SQUARE, N.Y.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
ATLANTA, GA.
ST. LOUIS, MO.
FOR SALE BY DALLAS, TEX.

F. J. YESBERA, Agent,
Auburn, Ind.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

A BIG SYNDICATE.

Formation of the Grace-Peruvian Company with a Capital of $52,500,000—Its First Issue of Bonds Easily Floated.

The New York World says: Tangible steps have been at last taken in that gigantic South American scheme known as the Grace-Peruvian contract. The company has been projected for a long time and is to assume the national debt of Peru amounting to $250,000,000, in return for valuable concessions and grants from that Government. It has been organized in London. The first issue of $7,500,000 debentures of the company has all been taken up, thus assuring the entire success of the scheme financially. The capital of the corporation is £10,000,000, or double the amount of Peru's original national debt.

A Boston Herald special from the City of Mexico says that an European syndicate has offered to assume the entire obligations of the Mexican Government on its railway guarantees, and also of its national debt and the various State debts. The entire amount is something like $1,000,000,000. In return the syndicate will take the Government lands. The scheme is similar to that recently adopted in Peru.

Striking Carpenters.

Chicago special: The striking carpenters created disturbances in several portions of the city Tuesday by using force where argument was of no avail in inducing the few men at work to quit. Many arrests were made. The problem of settling the strike is as perplexing now as when it was first ordered, it being plainly apparent that the strikers care only to treat with the members of the old Carpenters and Builders Association. The latter still claim that they never will recognize the journeymen's union. The employes of the United States Express Company have done nothing yet in the way of arbitrating their differences with the officials. Six or seven of them have so far resigned and taken other positions.

Should Not Have Flirted.

John H. Griffen, a tailor, 25 years of age, who lives on the top floor of the tenement at 105 Bayard street, New York, was sitting on the roof when he began a flirtation with some young women on the roof of 63 Mott street. They beckoned him over and he went up the stairs of 61 Mott street, but finding that the women were on the adjoining roof, he tried to climb across a picket fence which runs along the top of the shaft between the houses. Some one warned him to be careful, but he answered that he was all right. Suddenly the railing broke when he was half way across and he fell into the shaft, a distance of six stories. He was instantly killed.

Levee Breaks.

Bayou Sara (La.) special: The levee broke, and the town is in ruins. Not a house has escaped damaged or destruction by the deluge. Many of the people have had nearly all their household effects ruined. Boats and rafts are the only means of communication. The people were exhausted by their efforts to save the levee and are now in despair. Heavy rain all day has added to the gloom. Most of Pointe Cupe is also flooded from a break in the Taylor levee. The Fanny Per Crevassa will probably be a serious one. The large levees still hold, but the outlook is bad.

Town Sites in Alaska.

The Public Land Committee of the House devoted its regular session Tuesday to hearing arguments in favor of a Senate bill, introduced by Mr. Platt, providing for the acquisition of land for town sites and commercial purposes in Alaska, and for the survey, by United States surveyors, of lands purchased by private parties under the act. The bill, with a number of amendments was reported favorably to the full committee.

A Borgia in Short Dresses.

Mary Stewart, aged 16, of McKeesport, Pa., is under arrest charged with poisoning her mother and four children. One of the children is dead and another is in a critical condition. Mary made soup for dinner, of which all ate except herself, and were immediately seized with symptoms of poisoning. The girl denies the charge.

Three Desperadoes Killed.

In West Virginia, near Pigeon Creek, Sam Raisden, John Raisden and William Raisden, three brothers, noted desperadoes, were killed. James Brewer, deputy sheriff, and posse, attempted to arrest them and were fired upon, when a battle ensued and the desperadoes were killed or mortally wounded and captured.

Great Floods in Australia.

A dispatch from Australia says that the Darling River is several miles wide around Bourke, and that the only building not flooded is a church. Rescue boats are kept busy removing people and property to places of safety.

Big Fire in Kentucky.

The little town of Harrodsburg, Ky., was almost completely wiped out by fire. The damage is estimated at $150,000. The origin of the fire was in the Opera House, and the supposition is that it was started by some small boys.

Preferred Death to Prison.

Henry Boyle, alias John Cox, a life convict, committed, in the Joliet penitentiary, suicide by hanging himself with a towel in his cell while the convicts were at chapel service.

The Fair Bill.

The bill for a World's Fair at Chicago has passed the Senate. It is substantially the same as when it came from the House.

TORNADO POISONING.

Germs of Disease Spread by the Late Louisville Cyclone.

A dispatch from Louisville, Ky., says: Two weeks ago the family of Lewis Prewitt, living near Lagrange, forty miles from Louisville, was attacked by a virulent disease, the nature of which the local doctors were unable to determine. Its symptoms were similar to those of spotted fever, but no cause of such a disease could be found in the surrounding neighborhood. Dr. D. N. Porter, a physician of eminence, was called in, and at length decided that it was "Tornado poisoning." The germs, he said, were borne on the late tornado from some infected district, probably hundreds of miles, and lodged in the vicinity of the Prewitt homestead. He claims that small-pox and other violent diseases have thus been communicated to patients in many instances of medical history. The community is much alarmed, as it is impossible to tell what fire disease may be lurking in its midst. One of Prewitt's daughters has died, and two others and a son are at the point of death.

AT REST.

The Remains of the Hon. Samuel J. Randall Consigned to the Tomb at Laurel Hill.

Philadelphia special: The funeral of Hon. Samuel Jackson Randall took place Thursday afternoon. For the funeral train were awaiting delegations from the municipal council of the Irish National League, Meade post No. 1, G. A. R., the Samuel J. Randall Association, the James Page Library Association, the Continental Democratic Association, the Young Men's Democratic Batallion and many friends of the deceased. Heading the line which alighted from the train were Congressmen O'Neil, Carlisle, Buckalew, and Harmer, ex-Governor Curtin, Postmaster General Wanamaker, George W. Childs, Anthony J. Drexel, William V. McKean, Alexander K. McClure, and others of the honorary pall bearers. Then came the Congressional delegations, consisting on the part of the House in addition to those above, of Messrs. Holman, Cannon, McKinley, Springer, Forney, and Reilly. The Senate was represented by Messrs. Quay, Allison, Dawes, Voorhees, and Eustis. Besides these there were almost the entire Congressional delegation from Pennsylvania, Senator Edmunds, of Vermont; ex-Governor Wallace, of Pennsylvania, and Sergeant-at arms Kavanaugh. The cortege moved at once toward West Laurel Hill cemetery, headed by the hearse. When all had taken their positions around the open grave, the Rev. Dr. Chester, of Washington, recited the burial service and the casket was opened so that those present might be permitted to take a look at the departed statesman. A quartette from Meade post No. 1, G. A. R., sang the hymn "Remember now thy Creator," which was followed with a prayer by the Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook. Chaplain Bender, of Meade post No. 1, pronounced the benediction and the quartette, by special request, sang "Nearer my God to Thee." As the last strains died away, Trumpeter Kern, of Meade post, No. 1, stepped up to the head of the grave and amid almost absolute silence sounded "taps" which pronounced the military "Good-night to our comrade" and the floral laden casket was tenderly lowered in the grave. The immense gathering of people of all walks of life mark Mr. Randall's funeral as one notable in Philadelphia's history. The flags on all public and private buildings were placed at half mast, but this was the only outward sign of sorrow.

CONFESSED TO MURDER.

Terrible Death-Bed Story of James Dennis in an Indiana Town.

James Dennis, who died at Waynetown, Ind., recently, made a death-bed confession to the effect that he was the chief actor in the murder of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. McMullin, for which act John F. Coffee was hanged in 1885. On the night of the murder Dennis, according to his confession, went into McMullin's house for the purpose of stealing $200 which McMullin was known to have. Coffee remained on guard outside. McMullin awoke and showed fight, when Dennis struck him on the head with a club, killing him instantly. Mrs. McMullen ran out of the house and was caught by Coffee, who struck her on the head intending to stun her, but instead killed her. The two men then placed the bodies in the house and set fire to it. Both were arrested and Coffee was convicted of murder while Dennis was acquitted.

Pauper Labor.

Among the witnesses heard by the congressional sub-committee on immigration at its session in the office of the immigration commissioners at Castle Garden, New York, was Master Workman Powderly. Mr. Powderly said he was of the opinion that foreign labor is on the increase in this country. He had noticed at the railroad station in Scranton, Pa., forty citizens of the United States, who were going back to their native country, Scotland, because they could not work for wages paid to laborers who had been imported in large droves. These foreigners work in mines and on railroads, at starvation wages and live like animals, in wooden sheds. The general tendency of such immigration was to degrade labor and morals. Scarcely any of them speak English and unsuccessful attempts have been made to organize them. "How about the morals of those immigrants?" the witness was asked. "Weak," he replied. "It is a frequent occurrence for one woman to live with forty men. We are sending missionaries to Africa, yet import heathen by the thousand. These people work for from 50 cents to $1 per day, while the men whose places they have taken received from $1.50 to $2.10 per day." The witness thought there should be a test decided upon for admission to citizenship and that education should be compulsory.

A Convict's Tale.

Columbus special: An evening paper elaborates several charges made against W. B. Cherrington, late Deputy Warden of the Ohio Penitentiary, which are supported almost, is not solidly, by affidavits of convict Charles M. Lockard, who escaped from prison in November and was recaptured at Elmore, O., a few weeks since. The story told in the affidavits of Lockard, is of great length and alleges that Cherrington murdered convict Clark in 1888, by inhuman treatment, that he entered into conspiracy with Lockard to ruin the prison physician, Clemmer, by placing counterfeit money in his clothes and about his premises; and finally, that Cherrington planned the escape of Lockard from prison in order to protect himself. Among the people here who know all the parties and the influences which suggested the publication, it is accepted with great allowance and especially so on account of the unreliability of the convict's testimony.

A Redskinned Erickson.

Denver (Col.) special: "Meat Axe," the big Shoshone medicine man, has predicted a flood, to occur in July, and wash out the heartless pale-faces. He says the visitation is retribution for the unjust conduct of the whites in confining 2,000 Indians on a little reservation of 2,000,000 acres, circumscribing them so they don't get a shot at game more than once a year. Runners have been sent all over the reservation, and to the Crows, Cheyennes, and Sioux, to herald the calamity, and a rush of Indians to the Wind River Mountains, the scheduled haven, is anticipated. Meat Axe exhibited considerable ingenuity in arranging for the general sousing. He has it that all the whites and half-breeds will be drowned, and that the game will apparently die to make the play strong, but as the waters recede the beasts will revive, to become the prey of the braves.

Ravenous Rats.

Mrs. E. L. Carter, of St. Louis, was awakened the other night by the crying of her baby. She found the little one's head had been unaccountably hurt, blood flowing from a wound on the scalp. She applied salve and bandages and returned to bed. Later she was awakened by an older child crying. The little one complained of a pain in one hand, and a wound was found from which blood was flowing. This wound was bandaged and the lady again went to sleep. She was a third time awakened by a pain in one of the fingers of her right hand. A large rat was nibbling at the finger. The wounds received by the children had been inflicted by the same rodent. A physician was hastily summoned and the wounds cauterized.

Kills His Father-in-Law.

W. Ball was killed by his son-in-law, B. T. Barnum, in the road, near Ball's home, at Slaterville, Va. Ball was alone and Barnum was accompanied by his brother. Ball opened fire on Barnum at sight with a pistol. He fired five shots, four of which took effect, not so as to disable Barnum, who fired only two shots, both through Ball's head, killing him instantly. Last September Barnum was forced at the pistol's point to marry Ball's daughter. The father accompanied the parties to Washington City, where the ceremony took place. Barnum refused to live with his wife, after marriage, and went south. He returned a few days ago and the fatal meeting was the first with the father-in-law since his return. Ball was Commissioner of Revenue of this County, while the father of Barnum is Commissioner in Chancery.

Italian Fiends.

New York special: Mary Sullivan, a young woman who lives in West Thirty-sixth street, was returning from a visit to friends in Guttenberg, when she was seized by a gang of Italian laborers at Weehawken and dragged into a shanty. Her screams brought some deck laborers to the spot who burst into the shanty, but could not find the girl. The Italians said she had left, but after a search she was found bound and gagged lying in a trough. The Italians then attacked the rescuers with knives and a hand fight ensued. Two policemen were attracted by the noise and joined in the attack upon the Italians. They were obliged to fire several shots before the Italians, who greatly outnumbered the rescuing party, were driven away. One Italian was wounded, but was carried off by his comrades. No arrests were made.

Murder in His Heart.

Elizabeth (N. J.) special: A man with murder in his heart attempted to assassinate Lottie, daughter of Rev. Dr. T. R. Dunn, of the Fulton Street Methodist Episcopal Church. The young lady, who was about to retire, stepped to a front window to pull down a shade, when a bullet went crashing through the glass, lodging in the ceiling. The fellow who fired the shot stood on the opposite side of the street. He fled after the shooting. Half an hour afterward he made an attempt to kill Maud and Irene Weber in Franklin street. He fired two shots in succession and ran off. The bullets grazed the heads of the young ladies, and they are suffering from the shock.

Three Men Killed at Jeffersonville.

A premature blast at Speed's cement mill, near Shellersburg, Ind., eight miles north of Jeffersonville, killed three men, R. C. Livingston, Samuel T. Chappel, and Thomas James were hurled into the air with great force and when they alighted, fully 100 feet from the scene of the explosion, their bodies were an unrecognizable mass of flesh and bones. James was foreman of the gang and was superintending the blasting. They were married and leave large families in straitened circumstances. It appears the blast had been prepared, but for some reason failed to go off. After waiting what was thought to be sufficient time the men returned to the scene, when the blast exploded.

Poison on Bread.

At Yellow Spring, O., Miss Cora Loe, aged about fifteen years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Loe, went to the School Hall to attend an entertainment given by the Sons of Veterans, and on returning home complained of being hungry, and going to the kitchen got a piece of bread, spread it over with strychnia, ate it and retired. In a short time she was seized with convulsions, which aroused the family, and despite all efforts to save her life she died in great agony in about two hours after she took the dose. It is said that her parents had objected to her entertaining company. Miss Loe was an estimable young girl, and her tragic death seems to have shocked the whole community.

Wrecked Amid Millions.

Application has been made in the County Court of Chicago for the appointment of a conservator for the estate of E. J. Lehman on the allegation that he is a distracted person. The application is made by his wife, Henrietta. Mr. Lehman is proprietor of "The Fair," an immense department store, and has other interests. He is reputed to be worth $2,500,000. All of this fortune has been accumulated since the great fire of 1871, and it is supposed that the mental and nervous strain consequent upon his business ventures have unsettled his brain. Mr. Lehman is now in Bloomingdale Asylum, New York, whither he was taken a few days ago.

A Chance for Litigation.

A dispatch from Delphi, Ind., says: Six weeks ago Abner H. Bowen, a wealthy banker, whose estate was valued at $3,000,000, died and his heirs failed to appoint an administrator within the date prescribed by law. Last week certain attorneys went into court and had William R. Stewart, County Treasurer, named as administrator. The heirs opposed this, and engaged legal talent from a distance. The case came up before Judge Reynolds at this place and he has held the appointment good and instructed the administrator to go ahead and settle up the estate. The case promises no end of bitter litigation.

Congressmen Get Their Salary.

Members of the House have been made happy by receiving their salary for November. This is the second time Uncle Sam has paid this bill. On the first payment the pressing necessities of C. E. Silcott, Cashier in the Sergeant-at-Arm's office, who had projected a trip to other climes, prevented the money from falling into the hands of the men to whom it was due. The system under which the Silcott defalcation was possible, still prevails. The members of the House do not seem to know how to draw their pay in a business-like way.

Jealousy Causes Murder.

Asa R. Waterman, the manager of Jacobs' Lyceum Theater, at Montrose Avenue and Leonard Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., shot and instantly killed Peter Doran, 29 years old, of No. 555 Wythe Avenue, the same city, in front of the play house. Waterman's wife who is a very pretty woman, is an actress, and Doran was in the act of escorting her home when the husband fired the fatal shot. Waterman was arrested, but refused to make a statement. It is supposed that jealously prompted the murder.

Captain Couch Likely to Die.

A dispatch from Guthrie, I. T., says: "Capt. W. L. Couch, who was shot by J. C. Adams about ten days ago, is not expected to live, as he is low now and indications are that blood poisoning has set in. When Couch was shot he was putting up a fence on his claim just west of Oklahoma City, and Adams, the contestant, fired at him with a Winchester rifle at a distance, until a ball took effect by passing through Couch's left leg." Capt. Couch will be remembered as the leader and organizer of the Oklahoma movement. His loss will be deeply felt by all of his fellow-citizens.

Decrepit Age and Youth.

Henry Washburn, aged 70, and Ellen Jones, aged 14, were united in marriage at Madison, Ind., one day recently by 'Squire Cravens. The old man was decidedly decrepit. The next morning Washburn made application through Attorney Wells to have the marriage nullified, giving as a reason that neither the girl nor himself knew what they were about. It is reported, however, that White-Caps visited his home, at Milton, Ky., the night before, and left imperative orders to undo his work.

Farmers in Need.

Lincoln (Neb.) special: Governor Thayer and President Greer of the State Board of Agriculture has issued an appeal for aid to be sent to the destitute farmers of Scotts, Bluffs, Banner, Kimball and Cheyenne counties, where a severe wind-storm April 7 carried away the soil and all the seed that had been planted. Corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, potatoes and garden seeds are wanted, as well as flour, corn-meal and clothing. Supplies should be shipped to Potter or Kimball on the Union Pacific, and money should be sent to R. R. Greer, Kearney, Neb.

The Michigan Ship Canal.

Acting Secretary of War Grant, in response to a resolution, transmitted to the Senate the report of a board of engineers on the survey of the Grand River, Mich., between Grand Rapids and Grand Haven, and the estimate cost of a channel of sufficient depth to accommodate the commerce of the lakes. The board states that an eight foot navigable channel may be obtained at a cost of $500,000, and suggests that it may be desirable to improve the river by a lock and dam rather than by dredging.

Another Kentucky Outbreak.

Frankfort (Ky.) special. Adjutant General Hill, has received a telegram from W. G. Thompson, at Harlan, confirming the report of a fight on April 16, in the Black Mountains, fifteen miles from Harlan. In the fight, five soldiers were wounded. It is not known whether the fight was between authorities and the notorious Howard gang or whether friends of Will Jennings (who is in prison at Harlan) attempted his rescue.

Pope in Custody.

Louisville special: A telegram has been received by the police force here stating that Will H. Pope, the young bond defaulter, had been captured in Lamry, N. M. It will be remembered how Pope stuffed $62,000, belonging to the Louisville City National Bank, in his pockets last March and quietly slipped away. Not a word has been heard of the thief until the dispatch came.

Human Brutes.

A dispatch from Silver Creek, Nebraska, says: Three young men named Carleton, sons of an old farmer living across the river from here, beat their father and sister so badly that the girl has since died and the old man is in a precarious condition. The old man who was found by neighbors, said the crime was committed by his sons. The boys have disappeared.

Burned to Death.

The log-house of Farmer Andrew Young, of Pennville, near Bethlehem, Pa., was burned to the ground. Two little children of Mr. Young were burned to death, and Mrs. Sielifis, the housekeeper, was horribly burned while rescuing the other children. The fire was caused by the explosion of a coal-oil lamp in the room where the children slept.

A Newspaper Sued for Libel.

The grand jury of Lucas County, O., has returned indictments for libel against P. C. Boyle and N. D. Cochran, respectively proprietor and manager of the Toledo Commercial, brought at the instance of the board of natural gas trustees, whom the Commercial charged with alleged crookedness in the expenditure of public funds.

A Family Threatened by Death.

A family named Millie, living a few miles west of Lagrange, Ind., is in danger of total extermination from the effects of eating bread made from arsenic. It was used in place of baking powder. The stuff was bought at a sale, given by a neighbor, with a mass of odds and ends of unknown character.

Indicted for Manslaughter.

Buffalo special: Ex-Conductor John Houghtaling, who had charge of the train that was wrecked last month at Bay View, has been indicted by the Oyer and Terminer grand jury for manslaughter in the second degree. Bail was fixed at $5,000.

Dastards at Work.

Another attempt was made the other night to wreck a Lake Shore train at Andover, O., by placing steel bars on the track. The engine jumped the track but got back. This is the third attempt made near the same point in a few weeks.

Third-Term Lifer Pardoned.

Gov. Campbell, of Ohio, granted a pardon to Jerry Lawson, of Toledo, serving a life sentence under the Habitual Criminal act. He was serving his third term.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$4.75	@ 5.50
Fair to Good	3.50	@ 4.75
Common	2.50	@ 3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.75	@ 4.50
SHEEP	4.00	@ 6.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.88	@ .88½
CORN—No. 2	.31½	@ .32½
OATS—No. 2	.23½	@ .24½
RYE—No. 2	.48	@ .49
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.16	@ .17
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.10½	@ .11
EGGS—Fresh	.10½	@ .11½
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu.	.45	@ .52
PORK—Mess	13.00	@13.50
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.81	@ .83
CORN—No. 3	.33½	@ .34½
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@ .26½
RYE—No. 1	.49	@ .50
BARLEY—No. 2	.48	@ .48½
PORK—Mess	13.00	@13.50
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 4.25
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.25
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.88	@ .89
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.35½	@ .36½
OATS—No. 2 White	.28½	@ .29½
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.87½	@ .88½
CORN—Cash	.34	@ .35
OATS—No. 2 White	.25	@ .25½
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.00
HOGS	4.25	@ 5.00
SHEEP	5.50	@ 7.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.95	@ .97
CORN—No. 2	.42	@ .44
OATS—Mixed Western	.30	@ .33
PORK—New Mess	13.75	@14.25
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.25	@ 5.00
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.86	@ .87
CORN—No. 2	.29	@ .30
OATS—No. 2	.24½	@ .25½
RYE—No. 2	.43½	@ .44½
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.00	@ 4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.85½	@ .86½
CORN—No. 1 White	.34	@ .34½
OATS—No. 2 White	.26½	@ .27
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.75	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.85	@ .87
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .37½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.28	@ .29
RYE—No. 2	.50	@ .51
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.50	@ 5.00
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.98	@ .99
CORN—No. 2	.36½	@ .37½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Queer Sort of an Impostor.

The Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad officials are looking for a man giving his name as C. H. Watts, who has been traveling on the engines of the company on the Fort Wayne division for several weeks, representing himself as the new traveling inspector of engines. He was thoroughly posted on the machinery of an engine, and would have them cut loose from the trains and run down the track and watch them closely. He would then test the valves and other parts of the machinery, and did it so well that he was not suspected of being a fraud. The other day he sent a message to Crestline ordering Engineer Horning laid off for not taking proper care of his engine, although Horning is one of the best engineers on the road. The order was, strange to say, carried out, and it was not until Mr. Horning telegraphed to the superintendent at Fort Wayne, asking the reason, that the fraud was discovered. The fellow borrowed money from different railroad men. He evidently learned that he was discovered, and he has not been seen since. A reward will be offered for his apprehension.

Knights Templar.

Before adjournment at Indianapolis, the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar elected the following officers: Henry H. Lancaster, of Lafayette, Grand Commander; Irvin B. Webber, of Wersaw, Deputy Grand Commander; Joseph A. Manning, of Michigan City, Grand Generalissimo; James B. Safford, of Columbus, Grand Captain General; James D. Stanley, Terre Haute, Grand Prelate; Simeon S. Johnson, Jeffersonville, Grand Senior Warden; Charles W. Slick, of Mishawaka, Grand Junior Warden; Joseph W. Smith, of Indianapolis, Grand Treasurer; William H. Smythe, of Indianapolis, Grand Reporter; "Lon" E. Smedley, of Greencastle, Grand Standard Bearer; W. T. Durbin, of Anderson, Grand Warden; Roger Parry, of Indianapolis, Grand Captain of the Guards.

Minor State News.

—Josiah Wade was run over and killed by a train, near Jeffersonville. He had just been granted a pension, with $1,000 back pay.

—Farmers in Warrick County are indulging in a competition rat hunt, and have in two weeks accumulated 9,967 tails.

—William Woods, of Raysville, an employe at the paper-mill in Knightstown, fell into a boiling lye vat while at work and was horribly scalded.

—Robbers broke into the Park House, at Muncie, and went to the room of the proprietor's son, Harry Steele, and stole all the young man's clothing, nearly $100 worth, and escaped.

—Eighty quarts of nitro-glycerine exploded prematurely in a gas well near Brookville, tearing out the casing and wrecking the derrick. The bystanders had barely time to get out of the way.

—The Vandalia depot at Darlington, Montgomery County, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, together with all its contents. The main loss will be on the telegraph instruments and books.

—A bullet from an unknown source crashed through a window in E. J. Langdon's residence at Muncie, and buried itself in the wall where Mrs. Langdon had been sitting just a moment before.

—Thomas Hutsel was killed in the old McCoy grist mill near Warren recently. In putting the belt on the wheel which turns the bolter his coat was caught by the shaft and wound up until he was choked to death. He was dead when found a few minutes afterward. He formerly lived at Rochester, and was an old miller by trade. A wife and eight children are left.

—It is still feared by the friends of Isaac White, residing five miles from Paoli, in Orange County, that the White Caps will make another assault on the old man, and a guard of Grand Army men, of which he is a member, keeps watch over his premises. In the latter part of February he was brutally treated by masked men, and is still suffering from the wounds inflicted.

—The Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association now claims a membership of 1,050 in Clay County. Ex-Representative F. J. S. Robinson is President. A secret session of the eight lodges in Harmony Township was held at Clay City recently. Officers were elected and committees appointed, and it is rumored that steps were taken to establish a trading station. The order seems to be growing throughout the country.

—David Hosea, an old and respected farmer of Barr Township, Daviess County, was taken from his house by a masked mob the other night and whipped to insensibility, over 100 blows being administered. Hosea caused the arrest of a local politician at Connelburg on a charge of attempting to buy votes, and it is believed that the White-cap outrage is the outgrowth of this trouble. The man is seriously injured and may not recover. Several arrests will be made.

—Schweinfurth has a rival claimant in Clyde Lang, a young man of Harrison Township, Cass County, who says he is Christ and wants to be crucified. This is a request that Mr. Schweinfurth has not yet made.

—A beautiful yearling filly owned by Dr. W. A Pugh ran against a barbed-wire fence at Rushville, severing its jugular vein and causing death in a few minutes. She was standard and registered, sired by Russia, a son of Nutwood, dam by Blue Bull 75, and valued at $500.

— Charles W. Huber, living about nine miles west of Connersville, had his barn, containing all his farming implements and seven head of valuable horses and two mules, burned to the ground. His loss is about $4,000, with $1,500 insurance.

—Twelve of the leading citizens of Wayne County have filed a complaint in the Wayne Circuit Court against the Board of County Commissioners to enjoin them from building a new court-house, which according to the plans of Architect McLaughlin, of Cincinnati, will cost when finished, $300,000.

—Alpha Tomy, the 3-year-old child of James Tomy, of Richmond, pulled a tub of hot water over on itself, scalding it from its chin to its toes. It lingered in great agony until next morning, when it died.

—John Dillman, a young man aged 17, residing in Mitchelltree Township, Martin County, accidentally shot himself with a rifle, the ball striking the muscles of the side and lodging in the shoulder. The wound is very severe and probably fatal.

—The suit of Joel Brown, for $10,000, against the T., St. L. & K. C. Railway, was decided in favor of the railroad in the Montgomery County court. This is the second trial. Brown claimed that he was riding in a freight car, and that the brakeman reached over the top of the car and shot through the side of the car, hitting him in the eyes, thus destroying the sight. The portion of the car was in court, and showed that the range of the bullet was upwards, and not downwards.

—Henry Herns, living two miles west of Dana, accidentally shot himself, inflicting probably fatal injuries. He was out hunting with some companions, and had loaded his gun and rested it on the ground, leaning it against his body. It is supposed that in lifting the gun up again it caught in his boot-strap and discharged the gun, the charge cutting his ribs apart and exposing his left lung, then tearing off the left side of his face and skull, through which his brain protruded. He cannot recover.

—A murderous "tough," named Grant Cress, called at the office of county physician Stunkard, at Terre Haute, demanding the release of his father from the hospital. When the doctor refused to issue the order, the man attacked the physician with a knife. He made several deadly rushes at him, in one of them cutting the doctor's hand. The doctor had nothing with which to defend himself, and was alone, but he fought the man as best he could till a policeman arrived and arrested him. Cress was crazy from liquor.

—Patents have been granted to Indianians as follows: Ezra Bowman, Remington, car-pusher or pinch-bar; William G Frost, Lebanon, fence; Frederick Graff, jr., Fort Wayne, compound for cleaning jewelry; John Jones, Elkhart, railway crossing; Frank and J. Hein, Joseph Jasper, flexible cover for cylinder or roll-top desk; George W. Marble, assignor of one-fourth to W. W. Simons, Plymouth, metal roller forging machine; George W. Shyman, Terre Haute, muffler; William Teamer, Evansville, key-bolt and washer for railway joints.

—A slow fuse caused an explosion and the death of one man, and the serious injury of two others at the stone quarry at Gheen's cement-mill, seven miles from Jeffersonville. Thomas James, foreman, and Samuel T. Chappel and R. C. Livingston, workmen, had prepared a blast, and after igniting the fuse, retired at a safe distance to await the explosion, which did not occur as soon as they expected. They returned to examine the fuse, and the explosion occurred while the men were making the examination, instantly killing James, and wounding the other two.

—Mrs. John G. King died at Sweetzer the other night from injuries suffered in a collision between a Panhandle freight-car and a street-car in which the deceased was riding. Mrs. King was thrown violently against the side of the car and rendered unconscious. The accident occurred two months ago, but the injured woman never afterward left her bed. Soon after the accident Mrs. King entered suit for $5,000 against the street-car and railroad companies. These will be dismissed and other suits for larger amounts will be entered by her administrator.

—The L., N. A. & C. had a disastrous freight wreck at the iron bridge, across Sugar Creek, two miles north of Crawfordsville. As the south-bound freight was crossing the creek it was discovered that a car was off the track. It was ascertained that the second trucks of the eighth car had broken down a quarter of a mile before the bridge was reached. This car was loaded with hides. This let the trucks down upon the rails, and this and the speed of the train carried the car across the bridge, the derailed car pushing all the ties on the bridge to the south end, making a solid floor of them. After this derailed car followed ten other cars, which piled upon each other until the wreckage stopped the balance of the train. These cars were thrown upon the iron work of the bridge and greatly damaged.

—A bold attempt at jail delivery was discovered at Fort Wayne by Sheriff Vieberg. The principals in the scheme were Elmer W. Mitchell, the swindler who was recently arrested at Indianapolis for defrauding Labor Unions, and Charles McCarty, his pal, who claims Lima, O., as his home. Mitchell was placed in jail to await trial on numerous charges of swindling. Last week McCarty called at the jail and asked permission to see Mitchell, representing himself as a lawyer from Lima. His request was graned, but after his departure it was found that he had passed into Mitchell's cell a bottle containing nitric acid and some steel tools. The other day McCarty called again, this time leaving a steel knife. He was placed under arrest, and is now in jail in default of bail. He is undoubtedly an accomplice of Mitchell in his swindling operations.

—The barn on the farm of John Baggs, two miles west of Union City, occupied by John Stacks as tenant, was burned. With the barn were burned three horses, thirteen head of cattle, wagons, farming utensils, grain and feed. Loss, about $3,000 without insurance.

— William Bryan, 10 years old, son of M. L. Bryan, a grocer of Portland, while attempting to jump on a moving train on the G. R. & I. Railroad, lost his balance and was thrown under the cars. One of his legs was horribly mashed and his life is despaired of.

— One of the teams belonging to the omnibus line at Greencastle took fright at the north depot, and, running north on the Monon track, knocked down the section boss, John Sharkley, killing him instantly. He leaves a wife and seven children.

—A Farmers' Alliance was formed in Bartholomew County, and the first object accomplished was to purchase, at a reduced rate, a sufficient amount of twine to carry them through the coming harvest. Their first order of three tons was placed with a Cleveland firm through the Ohio State Grange, at Columbus, O.

Something He Hadn't Got.

One of Dan Doherty's stories is of a certain rich man possessed of great wealth and proud of his possessions, who was wont to refer to them often, but withal he was rather deficient in intellect. One day he had an old man working for him, an Irishman possessing a full share of the wit of his race. The rich man went out to oversee the job. He looked at Pat a minute, hard at work, and said:

"Well, Pat, it's good to be rich, isn't it?"

"Yis, sur," said Pat, meekly enough.

"I am rich, Pat, very rich."

"So I'm tould," said Pat, shoveling away.

"I own lands, and houses, and bonds, and stocks, and—and—and——"

"Yis, sur."

"And what is it, Pat, that I haven't got?"

"Divil a bit of since, sur," said Pat, as he picked up his wheelbarrow and trundled it off, and the rich man went into the house and sat behind the door.—Texas Siftings.

Too Late.

There is a time for everything, and the secret of success in life lies in doing things at just the right minute.

A veterinary surgeon had occasion to instruct a colored stableman how to administer medicine to an ailing horse. He was to get a common tin tube,—a bean-blower,—put a dose of medicine into it, insert one end of the tube into the horse's mouth, and blow vigorously into the other end, and so force the medicine down the horse's throat.

Half an hour afterward the colored man appeared at the surgeon's office, looking very much out of sorts.

"What is the matter?" inquired the doctor, with some concern.

"Why, boss, dat hoss, he—he blew fust!"

Every Meal Is a Trial

To the dyspeptic. Flatulence, heartburn, oppressive fullness of the stomach are the inevitable sequences of his use of the knife and fork. To say of him that he gratifies the cravings of appetite would be genuine satire. He only appeases them. Is relief attainable? Certainly, and by the use of a pleasant as well as thorough remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Will it cure immediately? Certainly not—it does not effect miracles. But it does give prompt and unspeakable relief, and will, if persisted in, produce an ultimate cure. Not only does it impart relish to the food but promotes its conversion by the stomach into rich, health and strength sustaining blood. Supersensitiveness of the nerves, mental depression, and unquiet slumber, produced by interruption of the digestive functions, are also remedied by it. It is the finest preventive and curative of malarial disorders, and relieves constipation, rheumatism, kidney and bladder ailments, and liver complaint.

The Mother-in-Law's Strategy.

A mother-in-law died, and her daughter wept very profusely, while the son-in-law endeavored to comfort her, telling her that her mother was quite aged, etc.

"Yes, I know that," sobbed the daughter, "but she always said that she expected to live to be a hundred years old."

"I know she talked that way," replied the bereaved son-in-law, "but she never expected anything of the sort. She was always talking about living so long just to worry me and make me feel bad.—Texas Siftings.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

Some of His Kind.

Little Boy—Mother, I don't want to go to Sunday school; I want to go fishin'.

Mother—But the fish won't bite on Sunday, my son. They're good and go to their Sunday school.

Well, I'll risk it, anyway; maybe there's some 'at's like me.—Texas Siftings.

THE fact that parents are wooed may account for there being so many block-heads among the children.

ARTISTIC ability may not be hereditary, but oftentimes drawing is sketching.—Texas Siftings.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAIN
For Stablemen and Stockmen.
CURES
Cuts, Swellings, Bruises, Sprains, Galls, Strains, Lameness, Stiffness, Cracked Heels, Scratches, Contractions, Flesh Wounds, Stringhalt, Sore Throat, Distemper, Colic, Whitlow, Poll Evil, Fistula, Tumors, Splints, Ringbones and Spavin in their early Stages. Directions with each bottle.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

For Fifty Years
the Standard
Blood-purifier
and
Tonic,
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
has no equal
as a
Spring
Medicine.
Prepared by
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR CHILDREN SUFFERING FROM COLD in HEAD, SNUFFLES OR CATARRH
CATARRH
THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAY FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE
ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c
HAY-FEVER
A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

LADIES Who Value a Refined Complexion Must Use
POZZONI'S
MEDICATED
COMPLEXION
POWDER.
For Sale by Druggists & Fancy Goods Dealers Everywhere.

PENSIONS If you want your pension without delay, put your claim in the hands of JOSEPH H. HUNTER, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

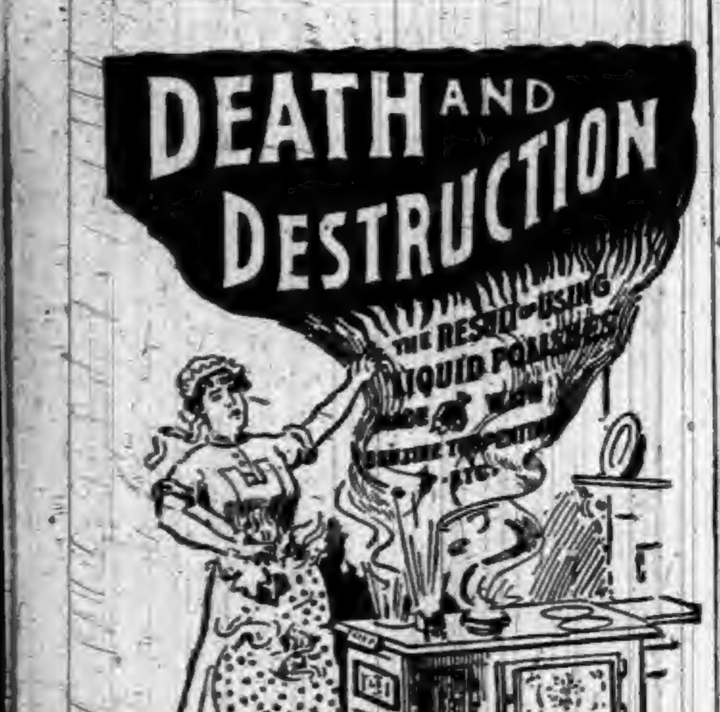
KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

PENSIONS PATENTS, CLAIMS. Send for Circulars. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Atty. at Law, Washington, D.C.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.



DEATH AND DESTRUCTION
THE RESULT OF USING LIQUID POLISHES MADE WITH BENZINE TURPENTINE ETC.

ABSOLUTELY NON COMBUSTIBLE EBONY STOVE ENAMEL

ONLY PERFECTLY SAFE LIQUID STOVE POLISH MADE

ALSO EBONY PASTE POLISH

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT BUY IT TRY IT

THE BUFFALO POLISH CO. LTD. BUFFALO N.Y.

USE ONLY THE BEST.

UNDERWOOD'S CELEBRATED WRITING AND COPYING INKS, MUCILAGE, ETC.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS, CARBON PAPERS, LINEN PAPERS, RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.

103 LaSalle St. Chicago. | 30 Vesey St. New York. | 10 Johnston St. Toronto.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE

DIABETES LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES. Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write WM. T. LINDLEY & CO., 214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. MRS. A. A. GILLIAM, Treas. Woman's Exchange.

Chicago, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. BRIGHTINE cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.

St. Louis, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. Stand'd Drug Co. 900 Franklin Av.

St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. Masterbrook, D'gs 109 S. B'way.

Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. Rev. John Hawkes.

Chicago Times, March 26, '88—Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88,—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88, PRAISE BRIGHTINE.

Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros, J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packets for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address,

GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

AT THE PLAY.

BY WM. W. LONG.

The music from the cornet,
  Across the grand hall swept,
And silence fell upon the throng
  As each sweet note its measure kept.

Across the room from where you sat,
  I caught a look from your grand eyes
That made my blood run swift and hot,
  And all my soul to rapture rise.

The mimic play upon the stage,
  The beauties in their silks and lace
Unheeded passed before my sight—
  I only saw your perfect face.

The curtain fell, the play was done,
  Of merriment and glee,
But my life's play has just begun,
  To end, perchance, in tragedy.

FRONT ROYAL, Va.

The Piccadilly Puzzle.

THE STORY OF A TERRIBLE EPISODE IN THE LIFE OF AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN.

By F. W. HUME.

CHAPTER XII.

MYLES DESMOND FINDS FRIENDS.

MYLES DESMOND was not a particularly good young man, but good enough as young men of the present generation go. He was a healthy, cheery, enough-for-the-day-is-the-evil-thereof sort of a fellow, and considered himself decidedly hardly treated at being arrested on such a serious charge as that of the murder of Lena Sarschine.

According to the cynical creed prevailing now-a-days, all his friends should have turned their backs on him now he was in trouble, but there is a wonderful lot of undiscovered good even in friends, and none of them did.

And he sadly needed help, poor fellow, for his position was a very critical one, the evidence against him being as follows:

1. He had last seen Lena Sarschine alive on the night of the murder.

2. He had been met in St. James street by Ellersby not far from the scene of the crime.

2. He had in his possession the dagger with which the crime was, to all appearances, committed.

Myles answered these accusation as follows:

1. He had not seen Lena Sarschine on that night, but another lady whose name he refused to divulge.

2. His presence in St. James street on the night in question was purely accidental.

3. And the dagger he had found in the vase was one he had taken from Lena Sarschine on the afternoon of the day she had called to see Calliston about the elopement.

"I'll tell you about that dagger," explained Myles to Norwood, his solicitor. "I was at Calliston's rooms on the Monday afternoon looking over his papers, when Lena Sarschine came in like a madwoman to see Calliston. I tried to quiet her, but she refused to be pacified, and pulling out the dagger said she would kill Calliston first and Lady Balscombe afterward. I tried to take it from her and she flung it away—neither of us knew it was poisoned, or I don't think we would have been so reckless over it. In falling the dagger rested slantwise from the floor to the fender, and in springing to get it I put my foot on it and broke the handle off. In case she should get it again, I put the pieces in my pocket and took them home—I left them on a side table, so if they were found in the ornaments some one must have placed them there—and Lena Sarschine went away on that day, and since then I have seen nothing of her."

"Then who was the lady you saw on that night?" asked his solicitor.

"I cannot tell you," replied the young man, doggedly. "I gave my word to the lady I would not say she had been there till I had permission, and till I get it I cannot."

"When will you get it?"

"When Calliston returns in his yacht."

"Why, in that case," said Norwood, "you must mean Lady Balscombe?"

"I have not said so."

"No," replied Norwood, quickly, "but you say your permission to speak must come from a lady, and the only lady on board the yacht is Lady Balscombe, as she ran away with Lord Calliston. Come, tell me, was it Lady Balscombe you saw that night?"

"I won't answer you."

All that Norwood could do could not get any other answer from the obstinate young man, so in despair the lawyer left him.

"It's impossible to perform miracles," he muttered to himself, as he went back to his office, "and if this young fool won't tell me the whole truth I cannot see what I can do."

On arriving at his office he found a lady waiting to see him, and on glancing carelessly at the card handed to him by his clerk, started violently.

"Miss Penfold," he said. "By Jove! she was engaged to Lord Calliston. Now, I wonder what she wants?"

The young lady made her appearance, and, the door being closed, soon enlightened him on that point.

"You are Mr. Desmond's lawyer?" she asked.

"Yes, I have that honor," replied Norwood, rather puzzled to know what she had come about.

"I—I take a great interest in Mr. Desmond," said the girl, hesitating, "in fact, I'm engaged to him."

"But I thought Lord Calliston——"

"Lord Calliston is nothing to me," she broke in, impatiently. "I never did like him, though my guardian wished me to marry him, and I love Myles Desmond. If I did not I would not be here."

"Well, of course I feel sure he is innocent."

"Innocent! I never had any doubt on the subject, but I want to know what chances there are of proving his innocence."

"It will be a difficult matter," said Norwood, thoughtfully, "as I can get him to tell me nothing."

"What is it he refuses to tell you?" asked Miss Penfold.

"The name of the lady whom he saw at Lord Calliston's chambers on the night of the murder. I believe myself it was Lady Balscombe."

"Lady Balscombe!" cried May, in astonishment, "why what would take her there?"

"Perhaps she went to meet Lord Calliston. The reason why I think it's she is that Mr. Desmond says he promised the lady he saw that he would not speak without her permission, and then he tells me he cannot speak till Lord Calliston's yacht comes back, and as Lady Balscombe is the only lady on board it must be her."

"But why should he refuse to tell you it was her?"

Norwood shrugged his shoulders.

"Well, it's hardly the thing for a lady to visit chambers at that hour of the night—her reputation——"

"Her reputation!" repeated May Penfold, contemptuously; "he need not try to save it now, considering she's thrown it away by eloping with Lord Calliston; but what else is there in his favor?"

"The principal thing is the dagger," said Norwood; "he told me he took it from Lena Sarschine and brought it home—so if his landlady or any one else put it away, they must have seen it—and so it will show the truth of his story."

"Then in order to find out it will be best to see his landlady."

"Certainly—but I don't know where she lives."

"I do—Primrose Crescent, Bloomsbury. You go there and find out what you can."

"I may as well try," said Norwood, thoughtfully, "but I'm afraid it's a forlorn hope."

"Forlorn hopes generally succeed," replied May, with a confident smile. "So you go to his lodgings, and then let me known the result of your inquiries."

Norwood agreed to this, and after Miss Penfold had departed, called a cab and drove to the address of Myles Desmond. Rondalina, more wan and ghost-like than ever, opened the door and informed the lawyer that Mrs. Mulgy had gone out.

"That's a pity," said Norwood, in a disappointed tone. "Are you the servant?"

"Yes, sir," replied Rondalina, dropping a courtesy.

"And you attend to all the lodgers?"

"Yes, sir."

"Oh! then perhaps you can tell me what I want to know," said Norwood, cheerfully. "Take me up to Mr. Desmond's room."

Rondalina, being a London girl, was very sharp, and looked keenly at Mr. Norwood to see if he had any design of burglary. The scrutiny proving satisfactory, she led him upstairs, and showed him Desmond's sitting-room.

"Now, then," said Norwood, taking a seat, "I want you to answer me a few questions."

Rondalina looked frightened, and said, "Yes, sir," in a mechanical manner.

"First," asked Norwood, "do you dust this room and put things straight?"

"I do, sir."

"Do you remember seeing a broken dagger about the place—a blade and a handle?"

Rondalina twisted her apron up into a knot and thought hard, and then intimated she had seen it.

"Oh!—and when did you see it?

"About a week or so ago, sir," replied Rondalina. "Mr. Desmond, sir, he comes in at 5 o'clock when I was a-layin' of the cloth for dinner, and ses he, 'I ain't agoin' to stay in for dinner, 'cause I'm agoin' hout,' then he takes the knife from his pocket, being broken in two, and throws the bits on the table and goes out to put his clothes on. I takes the dinner things downstairs, and when I comes up he were gone, so I sets to work an' tidies up the room."

"Was the dagger still on the table?"

"The knife, sir," corrected Rondalina. "Yes, sir, it were, and I puts the bits in the h'ornaments so as to keep 'em out of the way of the children, an' I 'ope it weren't wrong, sir."

"No, not at all," replied Norwood, "but tell me, did Mr. Desmond come back on that night?"

"Yes, sir—but not till late, sir—3 o'clock in the morning. He 'adn't his latch-key, so I 'ad to git h'up and let him in."

"Was he sober?"

"Quite, sir, only he seemed upset like, and goes up to his room without saying a word."

This was all the information obtainable from Rondalina, so Norwood departed from the house very much satisfied with what he had discovered. He drove straight to Park lane and told May Penfold all Rondalina had said.

"You see," he said, in conclusion, "this evidence will prove one thing, that Desmond could not have committed the crime with that dagger."

"Then I suppose they'll say he did it with another," said May, bitterly.

"If they do so they will damage their own case," replied Norwood, coolly, "for Dowker swears the crime was committed by this special dagger, and if Desmond did not use it—as can be proved by the evidence of the servant—no one else could have done so; by the way, you say Sir Rupert was down at Berkshire on that night."

"He was," replied May, "but he came up by a late train and then went to his club shortly before twelve."

"Is he in?" asked the lawyer.

"No; but you will be able to see him about 5 o'clock," said Miss Penfold. "He has been shut up in his library since the elopment of his wife, but had to go out to-day on business."

"I'll call then."

"What do you want to see him about?"

"I am anxious to ascertain if he knew of his wife's movements on that night, and whether she left the house."

"I don't think he can tell you that, as his wife and he were on bad terms, and occupied different rooms. Besides, even if you find out that Lady Balscombe visited Lord Calliston's chambers on that night, it won't save Myles."

"I don't know so much about that," replied Norwood, cheerfully. "It will help to unravel this mystery, and when everything is made plain I'm certain Myles Desmond won't be the man to suffer for this crime."

CHAPTER XIII.

MY LADY'S HUSBAND.

Many people thought Calliston's visits were to his ward, but in reality she was merely used as a stalking-horse to conceal the designs of the young man on Lady Balscombe. When the blow came and the lady eloped, no one was surprised except the unsuspecting husband, who, having raised his wife from an obscure position to a brilliant one, and given her all she could wish for, never dreamt for a moment she would reward him in so base a manner.

Sir Rupert, however, had no idea of playing the complacent husband in this case, and at once proceeded to take steps for a divorce. The difficulty was to serve the guilty pair with citations, for as the yacht had gone to the Azores there was no chance of doing so until she returned to England, or until she touched at some civilized port easy to be reached by the long arm of the law.

The baronet sat in his library reading a letter from his lawyers, which informed him that Calliston's yacht, the Seamew, had put into port for repairs, as she had been disabled in a storm, and that they had sent over a clerk to serve the citation at once.

Just then Miss Penfold entered, followed by Norwood, at the sight of whom Sir Rupert seemed surprised, but said nothing.

"This gentleman wishes to speak with you, Sir Rupurt," said May, advancing toward the baronet. "He is——"

"A lawyer, I know," replied Sir Rupert, coldly pushing a chair toward his ward, "I've seen him in court—and what is the object of your visit, sir?" he said, turning to Norwood.

"I've called to see you about this arrest of Myles Desmond for the murder of Lena Sarschine," says Norwood, placing his hat on the table.

"I know nothing about him," replied the baronet, looking angrily at May. "Why do you come to me for information?"

"Because we want to save Mr. Desmond's life," said May, boldly.

"His life—a murderer?"

"He is no murderer," said the young girl, quickly. "Appearances are against him, but he is innocent."

"I believe you love this fellow still," said Balscombe, contemptuously.

"So much that I'm going to marry him," she replied.

"And what's all this got to do with me," asked Balscombe, haughtily.

"Simply this, that I have reason to believe Lady Balscombe had something to do with the case."

"Lady Balscombe!" echoed Sir Rupert, turning pale with fury. "Take care, sir, take care. My affairs have nothing to do with you, and Lady Balscombe's folly is quite apart from this—this murder."

"I think not," answered Norwood, quietly, "for in my opinion Lady Balscombe left this house and went to Lord Calliston's chambers on the night of the murder and saw Mr. Desmond."

"Did Mr. Desmond tell you this?" said Balscombe, in a nervous voice.

"No; Mr. Desmond refuses to tell anything," rejoined Norwood, "but I am certain it was Lady Balscombe, and as you came up from Berkshire on that night I thought you might tell me at what hour Lady Balscombe went out."

"I am no spy on my wife's movements," retorted the baronet, haughtily. "I came up from Berkshire, it is true, and understood from my servants that my wife was in her room. As we were not on good terms I did not see her, but went straight to my club. From there I did not return till about 3 in the morning. I then went to bed and did not know of Lady Balscombe's flight till next morning, when it was too late to stop her. So, you see, I can tell you nothing."

Norwood was about to reply when a knock came to the door and the servant, entering, gave a card to Sir Rupert, which he glanced at and then handed to Norwood.

"Here is the detective who has the case in hand," he said, quietly. "Perhaps, if you question him, you may find out what you want to know. Show the gentleman in."

"Dowker's a clever man," said Norwood, when the servant had retired; "he arrested Desmond, so I presume he has come here to get evidence against him. Now, Miss Penfold, we must put our wits against his."

"Yes, and between the two stools poor Desmond will fall to the ground," replied the baronet, with a cold smile. "Here is your detective."

Mr. Dowker, being announced by the servant, entered the room quietly, and bowed first to Miss Penfold and then to Sir Rupert.

"How do you do, Mr. Norwood?" he said, calmly. "I did not think to meet you here, but I suppose we're on the same errand."

"Not quite," replied Norwood. "You want to destroy Myles Desmond. I wish to save him."

"There you are wrong," said Dowker, placing his hat beside a chair and taking his seat. "I want to save him also."

"Save him?" cried May, starting up.

"Yes, because I believe him to be innocent."

"Then why arrest him?" asked Norwood.

Dowker shrugged his shoulders.

"The evidence against him was too strong to permit him being at large, but from what I have learned lately I have reason to believe he is not the guilty man."

This remark, coming from such a source, produced the profoundest impression in the mind of May Penfold, and Norwood himself seemed relieved, while the baronet stood on the hearthrug and looked stolidly on.

"Then we can work together?" said the lawyer.

"Yes, to prove the innocence of Mr. Desmond," replied Dowker. "And in doing so we will discover the real criminal."

"And now," observed Balscombe in a cold voice, "having settled this little matter about helping Mr. Desmond, whom I sincerely trust will be proven innocent of this charge, perhaps, Mr. Dowker, you will inform me the reason of your visit?"

"Certainly, sir," replied Dowker, deliberately. "I want to ask you a few questions about Lady Balscombe."

Two of his listeners looked at him in surprise, struck by the singularity of the coincidence that he should have called on exactly the same errand as they did.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Snuff-Taking.

When snuff-taking was fashionable, an English nobleman calculated that a person addicted to the habit wasted upon his nose thirty-six and a half days in the year. A snuff-taker took one pinch every ten minutes, and each pinch with its accompaniments occupied a minute and a half. Allowing sixteen hours to the day, he would be busy two hours and twenty-four minutes every day, or thirty-six and a half days in the year.

Talleyrand insisted that diplomatists, at least, did not waste time by snuff-taking. It afforded them, he said, an opportunity of delaying and thus of gaining time for framing a reply which was not ready at hand. It also allowed the removal of one's eyes from those of the questioner, and occupied the hands whose fidgeting might betray a nervousness that had better be concealed.

Archbisop Whately acted upon Tallyrands's hint while an Oxford professor. When he had put a pithy question to a student, who delayed answering until he had unravelled it, the professor found it convenient to take a pinch of snuff, as it helped him to allay his impatience.

A sketch drawn of him represents the logic class assembled, and Whately, while yet in the doorway, calling out:

"Mr. Johnson, explain the nature of the third operation of the mind."

Then he flings himself in the chair, crosses the calf of one leg over the knee of the other, and, balancing himself on the two hind legs of the chair he shows signs of impatience before Mr. Johnson has gathered his wits together. Out comes his huge snuff-box, from which a handful of snuff is administered to his nose and sprinkled upon his waistcoat. It soothes him so that, when Johnson answers in the words of the text-book, he is calm enough to give a luminous exposition of the subject.

Darwin, the naturalist, used snuff to stimulate his mind during working hours. That he might not take too many pinches, he kept a jar of snuff on the hall table. The distance between the hall and his study acted as a check upon over-indulgence.

But the chink of the lid of the snuff-jar was a familiar sound in the family. Sometimes, when in the drawing-room, Darwin would suggest that the study fire must be burning low. The family smiled as he went out ostensibly to replenish it, but really to get a pinch of snuff.

An eloquent preacher of Glasgow, the Rev. William Anderson, was so addicted to snuff that he would take a pinch in the pulpit. Once, while uttering the words, "My soul cleaveth to the dust," he took a pinch of snuff. He lamented the mastery which the habit had gained over him, and once, while preaching from the text, "All is vanity," treated his nose to snuff and then said, "And this also is vanity."

Carl Pretzel's Philosophy.

Der handt of Providence vas stretched always out. Vhen you dond dook it, dot dond vas my lookout.

Der shnake vas lie der ambushes of flowers in. Look pooty vell out vhen you got plaindy bleasures enuff dot der shnake dond shting you mit his bite.

It vas a certain ting, dot drue liberdy dond can get ub mit der hellup of wice. Wicket mans vas a shlafe und no feller cood been free except he vas wirtuous und good.

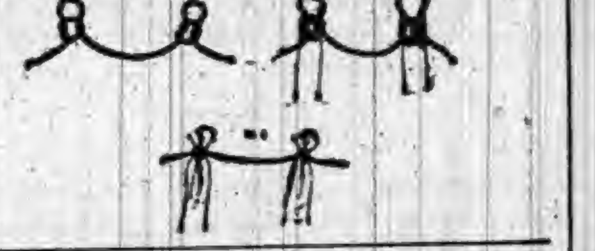
Vhen you vas foolish enuff to adopt one leedle sin your family in, pooty gwick you vill hafe to been der fadder of all its kindret.—Sunday National.

HOW TO MAKE AND FLY KITES.

Suggestions on Kite-Flying Which Boys Should Study and Save.

MUCH has been written early and late concerning kites, and how to make them, says St. Nicholas, but no one seems to have paid proper attention to one very important part of this great subject—that is, the making of the kite's tail. Now, the tail of a kite does for the kite precisely what ballast does for a ship. No vessel will sail well and steadily unless her ballast is properly adjusted, and the same principle applies to kites.

A bad kite with a good tail will fly better than a good kite with a bad tail.

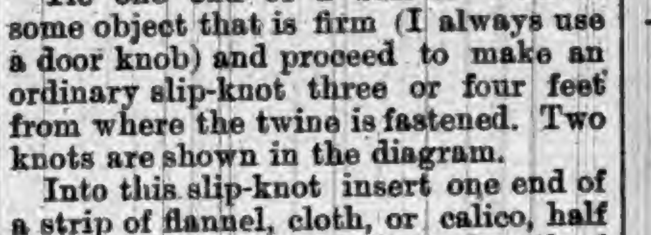


I will explain the way in which a tail should be made:

Generally speaking, the tail should be four times the length of the kite.

Tie one end of a ball of twine to some object that is firm (I always use a door knob) and proceed to make an ordinary slip-knot three or four feet from where the twine is fastened. Two knots are shown in the diagram.

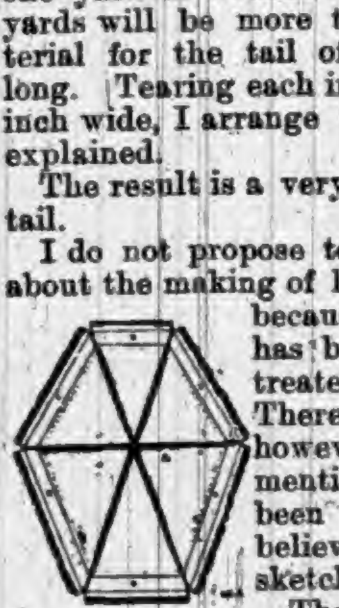
Into this slip-knot insert one end of a strip of flannel, cloth, or calico, half an inch in width and half the length of the kite, and pull the knot tight. Then make another loop two and a half inches from the first, and proceed as in the first case, continuing in like manner until you have a sufficient quantity. The next thing is to trim the strips, grading them like those in the illustration.



My own plan is to use one yard of blue and one yard of red flannel, and one yard of common muslin. Three yards will be more than enough material for the tail of a kite six feet long. Tearing each into strips half an inch wide, I arrange them as already explained.

The result is a very handsome kite-tail.

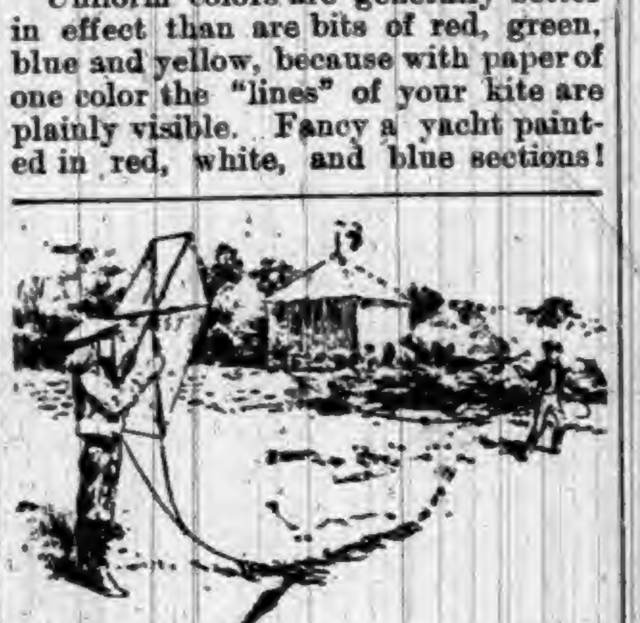
I do not propose to say very much about the making of kites themselves, because that subject has been exhaustively treated by others. There is one specimen, however, worthy of mention, which has not been put on record, I believe. You will see a sketch of it in this cut.



The sticks are prolonged beyond the actual size of the covering; from their tip is stretched a string around the kite's edge, on which are pasted strips of fringed tissue paper, doubled across it.

If the colors of the kite cover and of the fringe are tastefully chosen, this makes a very handsome though somewhat heavy kite.

Uniform colors are generally better in effect than are bits of red, green, blue and yellow, because with paper of one color the "lines" of your kite are plainly visible. Fancy a yacht painted in red, white, and blue sections!

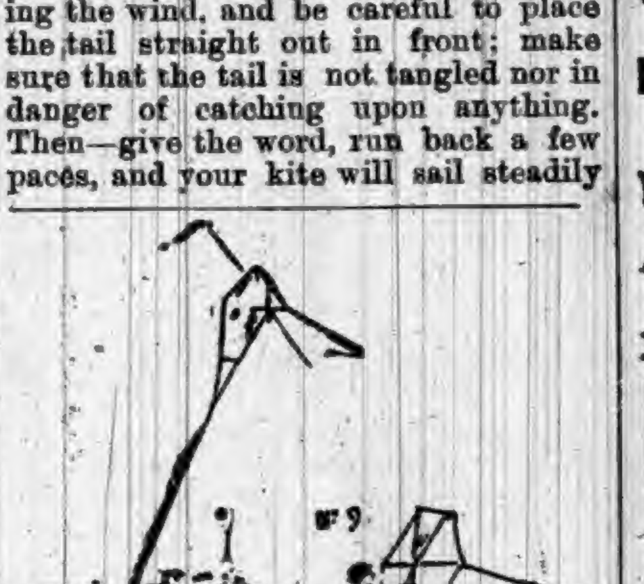


What would we see of her symmetry?

The strings which sustain the kite's tail should be fastened to the sticks at their lower ends, and when drawn taut their center should be just long enough to reach the crossing of the sticks. To these strings the tail is tied firmly in the center, and care should be taken that the knot comes exactly in the middle.

The pictures show the proper way to "raise" a kite.

Have a young friend to hold it, facing the wind, and be careful to place the tail straight out in front; make sure that the tail is not tangled nor in danger of catching upon anything. Then—give the word, run back a few paces, and your kite will sail steadily and gracefully from the earth, as shown in the cut, and soon take the position of the one at the top of the drawing.



When a kite twirls round and round it is because the tail is too light. "Darting" comes from the same cause, as a rule, although this may come from a badly adjusted belly-band. "Wobbling" is caused by putting the cross-stick too high usually, or by making the belly-band too long for the string.

Nice Mathematics.

"And now, children," remarked Professor Hailes in one of the public schools the other day, "if a family consisting of father and mother and seven children should have a pie for dinner, how much would each one receive?"

"Why," remarked the bright boy, "each would get an eighth."

"But there are nine persons, you must remember."

"Oh! I know that; but the mother wouldn't get any. There wouldn't be enough to go around."—Albany Journal.

WHILE Christians are urged to be as harmless as doves, they are also warned to be as wise as serpents. And they are wise as serpents. In many churches the collection is taken up before the sermon begins.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills makes a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

TANK HEATER.

A GREAT SAVING TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.

Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price. Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.

COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES.

O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO.;
LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR— CRAYON PORTRAIT

NICELY FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT.

Plush Border. Size, 24 x 28 inches.

For $3.00

As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00.

(ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.)

BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF PROVOST'S Cream Washing Powder.

ONLY COSTS 5c PER PACKAGE.

One Coupon in Every Package. Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity.

Ask Your GROCER For It.

If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it.

WARREN PROVOST & CO.,
26-30 Humboldt St., - Brooklyn, N. Y.

DR. ELLIOTT'S MEDICATED FOOD,

A Sure Cure for all Diseases in HORSES, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs

Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY

G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *6 30	am *5 05	......
Wheeling	am *7 25	9 10	9 15	9 05	pm 12 15
Zanesville	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 50	7 01
Newark	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 06
Columbus.....ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus.....lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	10 50
Mansfield	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 03
Deshler	3 30	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance	4 22	5 43	10 15	8 50	1 50
Auburn jc	......	6 40	11 34	10 23	2 58
Avilla	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc	......	......	1 16	am 12 05	4 16
Wellsboro	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *1 55	am ‡7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 28
Avilla	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc	......	7 05	12 38	3 22	9 40
Defiance	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 48
Mansfield	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 33	6 20
Wheeling.....ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York.....ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent,
Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.
Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo	12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading	2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale	2 37	7 30	......
Fort Wayne Junc	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson	3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.
Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale	......	12 30	7 45
Bankers	9 40	12 56	8 01
Reading	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola	12 00	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo	2 35	2 35	9 23
Auburn	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP,
Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..........5:38 am—Daily
Boston Express............5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.............5:38 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim..............5:35 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express...........1:20 am—Daily
Logansport Accom..........9:35 am—Ex Sun
Mail & Express............12:38 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim...1:35 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
J. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE
THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT
NO TROUBLE NO BOILING
POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON
INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..........APRIL 24, 1890.

City Caucus.

The democratic voters of the town of Auburn will meet in nominating caucus at Ensley's Hall on

MONDAY, MAY, 26, 1890,

at 7:30 in the evening to put in nomination a ticket to be voted for at the city election of May 5, including trustees for the first, third and fourth wards, a treasurer, clerk and marshal. It is earnestly desired that all who are in favor of efficient, honest and business-like methods in our city government should turn out and assist to nominate a good ticket. Please give this matter attention.

D. Y. HUSSELMAN, } Committee.
I. N. COOL, }

County Convention.

By order of the Democratic Central Committee of DeKalb County Indiana, notice is hereby given that the County Convention of the Democratic party of such County, will be held at Auburn on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

At 10 o'clock a. m. to place in nomination, the candidates to be voted for at the general election to be held on November 4, 1890. The officers to be elected at such election, are:

A Representative.
A Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court.
A County Auditor.
A Sheriff.
A Treasurer.
A Recorder.
A Surveyor.
A Coroner.
A Commissioner for the Southwest district.
A Commissioner for the Southeast district.

The basis of representation to such convention is one delegate for every ten (10) votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State in 1888, in each precinct, and one delegate for a fraction of five (5) or more votes given such Secretary of State, therein. The votes given for such Secretary of State in 1888, and delegates to the County Convention from each election precinct in DeKalb County, are as follows:

ELECTION PRECINCTS.	SEC'Y OF STATE VOTE.	NO. OF DELE'S.
Butler	113	11
Jackson	214	21
Concord South	120	12
Concord North	130	13
Newville	75	8
Stafford	73	7
Wilmington South	173	17
Wilmington North	216	24
Auburn South	246	25
Auburn North	196	20
Waterloo East	164	16
Waterloo West	84	8
Richland	202	20
Fairfield	238	24
Smithfield	170	17
Franklin	144	14
Troy	56	6
Keyser East	271	27
Keyser West	263	26
Total		314
Necessary to a choice		158

It was also ordered that caucuses for the purpose of selecting such delegates, will be held in each election precinct in the county (except the precincts in Union, Grant Wilmington and Keyser townships) at the usual place of holding elections, on Saturday May 24, 1890, at one (1) o'clock in the afternoon, and in the precincts in the townships of Union, Grant, Wilimgton and Keyser on the same day at 7½ o'clock in the evening. Provided that a different hour of such day may be named by the Central committeeman of any precinct of which due notice shall be given, by such committeeman.

At the same time and place of holding such caucuses, there will also be selected one delegate from each precinct for each of the following conventions, viz., The State Convention, the Congressional Convention, the Judicial Convention and the Joint Representative Convention. But the voting power of such delegate to such last named conventions is to be determined by shuch conventions respectively.

ALFRED KELLEY, Chairman,
Dem. Co Cent. Com.

Announcements.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

I will again be a candidate for the position of representative in the state legislature from this county, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

FREEMAN KELLEY.

FOR CLERK.

W. B. Brown, of Union township, will submit his name to the democratic county convention of May 31, for the nomination for clerk, subject to the decision of the delegates.

Wm. B. Lees, of Grant township, hereby submits his name to the democratic county convention, in the hope that he may receive at their hands, the choice for clerk of DeKalb circuit court.

Hon. D. D. Moody desires to say to the democratic delegate convention that assembles in Auburn May 31, that he hopes for a favorable consideration at their hands of his claims as a candidate for county clerk. He leaves his case subject to their decision.

Solomon Barney, of Concord, at the desire of many supporters will be a candidate for county clerk, subject to the action of the democratic convention.

TO THE EDITOR: Please announce me as a candidate from Smithfield, for the office of clerk of DeKalb county, subject to the decision of the coming convention. JAMES W. CLARK.

AUDITOR.

I. N. Cool, of Auburn, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention for the nomination for auditor, and asks that his claims may have impartial consideration at their hands.

I would respectfully announce my intention of being a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the democratic nominating convention.

FRANK A. BORST.

W. L. Blair, of Wilimington, desires to say to the delegates to the democratic county convention that he will submit his name to them and ask at their hands the nomination for county auditer.

TREASURER.

Reuben Sawvell, of Franklin, is announced as a candidate for the office of treasurer, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

Perry Fitch, of Butler township, at the request of numerous democratic friends will ask the nomination for treasurer at the coming county convention.

B. L. Duncan, of Grant, will ask the nomination for treasurer at the hands of the delegates to the democratic convention at Auburn, May 31.

RECORDER.

George L. Lanning, of Union, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention which meets in this place May 31.

The name of Cory Shugers, of Jackson, will be submited to the favorable considation of the democratic convention for the office of recorder at the request of many friends.

S. R. Heberling, of Union township, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention that meets May 31,

Noah H. Weaver, of Grant township, submits his name for the office of recorder, subject to such action as may be deemed wise and consistent by the democratic convention of May 31.

EDITOR COURIER: Please announce the name of Lucius C. Loveland, as a candidate from Stafford township, for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

MANY DEMOCRATS.

EDITOR COURIER: I will submit my name to the democratic county convention, as a candidate from Fairfield, for the office of recorder, subject to their decision. SAMUEL WILLIAMS.

TO THE COURIER: I will again be be a candidate from Grant township, for recorder, of DeKalb county before the democratic convention of May 31, and subject to its decision.

W. S. GETTS.

COMMISSIONER.

The friends of Henry Lindorfer, of Jackson township, desire to announce his name as candidate for commissioner of the southwest district, at the coming democratic convention.

I will be a candidate for commissioner of the southwest district for a re-nomination at the hands of the democratic convention of May 31,

GILBERT I. PATTERSON.

THE Michigan Central road will put on a fast train that will run from New York to Chicago in twenty-three hours. This will beat all former trains.

THE two republican senators from Montana have been seated, by throwing out the vote of the disputed precinct. And yet at at the very time this steal was being made, that very precinct went democratic again, at the spring elections, thus showing that the vote last fall was an honest one.

IS IT not about time our republican contemporaries start up their old cry, "A tariff is not a tax?" Or they could rehash the "tariff makes cheaper" theory or the "tariff makes the farmers rich," or a "home market is what we want to give us big prices for farm products." People may forget these sparkling arguments if not told them often.

RHODE ISLAND, has gone democratic at last. She has often given democratic pluralities, but like Connecticut, a candidate must have a majority over all or it goes to the legislature, which by means of gerrymanders is always republican. At the late election, the democratic candidate for governor, did not get quite a majority over all though he had a plurality, and a number of legislators were in the same fix. So they had to have a second election for the lacking members, and the democrats won and now have a majority of two in the two houses. So they can get a governor and state officers. They had the new, or Australian system of voting and it gave good satisfaction. It is but lately that all the people there could vote, as it required under their old constitution, a certain amount of property, and those who did not have that were not allowed to vote. Now this difficulty is removed. And besides this, the new way of voting is so secret that numerous factory hands can go into the booths and vote just as they please, and the bosses won't know how they did vote.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Charley Speer is working in Chicago.

May 9th our schools close for the summer vacation.

The Maud Dusand combination is in town this week.

Frank Smith has returned from his visit in Michigan.

Mrs. Wareham had friends from Mich. visiting her last week.

Miss Ella Goodwin has quite a large class in music at Corunna.

Miss Ella Phillips has a position with Mrs. Gill in her millinery store.

Miss Ola Kiplinger is employed by J. G. Johnson in his millinery store.

Dr. Shutt, of Bryan, Ohio, was in town Thursday on his way to Ft. Wayne.

Judge McBride and family will move to Elkhart about the middle of May.

Miss Teddie Carpenter and J. Orwig, of Pleasant Lake, was in town Sunday.

The mother of Rev. J. W. Lilly died at her home, in Ohio, on Thursday of last week.

L. A. Hine, a junior student from Purdue University, LaFayette, was in town this week.

Robert Patterson has taken the fence away from his property leaving it open to the street.

Last Thursday evening a musical entertainment was given at the Presbyterian church.

Miss Hughey from Algansee, Mich., has for a few days been visiting friends near Waterloo.

The botany class have already made two pleasant excursions to the woods for flowers to analyze.

Rev. Smith and wife visited with their friends here last week, when they left for their new home in Pierceton.

Quite a number of people from this place are in attendance at the U. B. missionary meetings in Butler, this week.

Mrs. Snyder, of Chicago, and Mrs. Hall, of Kendallville, were visiting their sister Mrs. Worley west of town last week.

Miss Hattie Rohm, west of town, entertained about fifty of her friends last Saturday evening. All report a pleasant time.

Mrs. Mary Jones and daughter, of Crestline, Ohio, are visiting her uncle and cousin, Robert and Isaac Speer, of this place.

Misses Lila Baker and Mary Kelly, of Auburn, were up last Tuesday evening to attend the concert given by Prof. Davis' music class.

Miss Lillie Shoner who is employed by Mrs. Blackburn, of Garrett, as trimmer in her millinery store, was home on a flying visit last week.

A letter from A. C. Jackman says that Mr. and Mrs. Caro, have both been very sick. They are now at Grand Rapids, Mich., but are getting better

A number of ministers of the Reformed church passed through this place on last Tuesday to attend the St. Joseph classis, in session in Goshen this week.

Last Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Beard's baby died with the croup. The funeral was from the residence Sunday, the services being conducted by Rev. Retts.

R. McCorkle who spent the winter in Bordentown, N. J. returned to Waterloo last Friday. He will remain here some days, and then leave for Bayview. Mich,

Dr. Carpenter lately received from a friend in the south, some interesting relics from the old Florence and Libby prisons, also several fine specimens of southern flora.

Last Saturday the engineer of the steam shovel met with a painful accident. They were at work not far from Waterloo, and in some way his hand was scalded severely.

Father Henry Zirkle and his worthy wife celebrated their fiftieth anniversary yesterday, their children, who are scattered over several states were all home to celebrate the event.

Speer and Co. have arranged to have pictures of their customers enlarged at less than one-fourth of the regular rates, as an advertising scheme, for a short time. No risks to be taken.

Last Sunday William Kennedy and wife were surprised. It was the thirty-fourth anniversary of their marriage and many of their friends called upon them with a present of a fine silver set. A very enjoyable time was had by all.

Mrs. B. F. Blair and son Don, of Newville, spent Sunday with Gen. Blair's family.

The town council refused to pass an ordinance requiring the railroad company to put in cement walk, or the same as the citizens are compelled to build. It seems there is no sense of justice, or respect for the just wishes of the public.

Twenty-two persons from Waterloo and vicinity, attended the U. B. quarterly meeting, held by Elder J. W. Lilly, in Auburn last Sunday. They report the new society to be cosily situated in the German Methodist church, and all speak well of the meeting.

DEKALB.

Oats sowing has commenced.

James Monroe commenced working on the section.

H. P. Housel is still in the ditch and laying tile for Vandercook.

William Weygandt is grafting for Mr Kitchen, of Butler Center.

J. F. Housel has a fresh milch cow for sale—calf a week old. Twenty-five dollars is the price asked.

Boys, please do not go fishing on Sunday, but wait until after school hours on week days; the fish bite better and you have more pleasure after a well studied lesson.

Quite an excitement over the harness steal, Thursday night. D. W. Terry had a double set of farm harness stolen; also, George Weygandt a double set—only used about one year. They carried A. McKinley's buggy harness far enough away to examine them and it appears they left them at the railroad. They went through the barn of J. F. Housel, but nothing was disturbed. They made their entrance through a window and opened the stable door, which was fastened by a hook and staple on the inside and left it open. Later: D. N. Terry's harness was found along the railroad south of St. Johns. George Weygandt has given up finding his.

The Five Great Battles.

We give this week the last of the five great battles named by the committee. It is worthy of a careful study by every student of history.

FIVE FORKS.

The victory of Five Forks opened up a series of events of such absorbing interinterest and following in such quick succession, that they dim somewhat the splendor of that brilliant spectacle. It always appears near the beginning of a chapter so full of thrilling incidents that the attention of the reader will not be detained, but rushes on with strained eagerness and grand excitement till the white flags and the stacked arms are seen at Appomattox.

It was a complete and perfect pitched battle.

General Grant, in the movement to the left with which he commenced his final operations, threw his cavalry so far out to the westward as to tempt and require General Lee to detach heavily to defend his railway communications and protect his flank and rear. The once splendid Confederate cavalry had been so far ruined by Sheridan that it was not equal to the emergency, and the strategic importance of the menaced point was so great that it was necessary, with all the mounted force of the Army of Northern Virginia, to risk also beyond the protection of the strong works of Petersburg a considerable body of infantry.

The force thus directed against General Sheridan outnumbered his troops, but he repulsed the attack, and held the field at Dinwiddie Court House when night ended the fighting on the 31st of March. The Fifth Corps from the Army of the Potomac and Mackenzie's Cavalry from the Army of the James having been sent to his assistance, the enemy, early on the morning of the 1st of April, fell back northward to Five Forks, followed closely by the Union cavalry.

It was late in the day before the reinforcing infantry divisions could be placed in the positions assigned to them in the engagement.

The Confederate infantry consisted of three brigades of Pickett's division and two brigades of Johnson's division. These were protected by a line of strong entrenchments, about one mile and three-quarters long, refused almost at right angles on the left. On the right flank—the west end of the line—was posted the strong cavalry division of W. H. F. Lee, and on the left Mumford's cavalry, dismounted, guarded the interval between the detached force and Lee's army, while Rosser's cavalry guarded the trains in the rear. The whole force was commanded by General Pickett, and, excluding Rosser's cavalry, numbered, perhaps, nearly eighteen thousand men The Confederacy had no better soldiers.

General Crook's division of cavalry was left south of Dinwiddie Court House, and was not engaged in the battle. General Sheridan had with him Merritt's cavalry of the Army of the Shenandoah, consisting of two divisions under Devin and Custer. He also had about fifteen hundred troopers under Mackenzie, whom he threw out upon his right flank. And he had the Fifth Corps, without its artillery. His available force numbered about twenty thousand.

With Merritt's cavalry he engaged the enemy in front, and made a feint as if to turn and overthrow the right flank. Having disposed his infantry upon his right, he threw it against the return and around the left flank of the enemy, at the same time assaulting vigorously in front with his dismounted cavalry.

The attack commenced about 4 o'clock. It was short, sharp and glorious. The resistance was courageous and determined. The veterans of many a hard fought field were desperately struggling to uphold the last prop of the tottering Rebellion. From the shelter of their last ditch they hurled such a destructive storm that even the old Fifth Corps was staggered for a time, But when Sheridan, snatching his headquarters flag from the standard bearer and holding it aloft, plunged among the breaking troops, they quickly and enthusiastically rallied to the assault and went over the works with their heroic commander.

Six thousand prisoners, six pieces of artillery and thirteen battle flags were captured, and the remainder of the enemy, broken to fragments, retreated in complete rout toward the west and away from Petersburg. Lee's movement to protect himself was turned to the positive advantage of his adversary. The strategic point had been taken; the right wing of Lee's army had been broken; the way to his communications and line of retreat had been opened. The immediate evacuation of Petersburg and Richmond and the retreat of Lee were rendered necessary.

The most momentous interests were for a time in suspense; at once all became clear and certain. Sheridan lost about 1,300 men. Pickett about 7,000.

The strategy of the campaign was General Grant's. To General Sheridan belongs the credit of the grand tactics of the engagement. Educated soldiers have regarded it as "the most perfect battle in its tactics ever delivered in Virginia."

Badeau says it was "a battle which, for intelligence in conception and brilliancy of execution and completeness of result, both immediate and far-reaching, has few rivals in any war."

General Horace Porter, of Grant's staff, who was present for the purpose of keeping General Grant advised of the progress of events, says that it was "one of the most interesting technical battles of the war, almost perfect in conception, brilliant in execution, strikingly dramatic in its incidents and productive of immediately important results."

Respectfully, GEO. F. MCGINNIS,
FRED. KNEFLER,
JAMES B. BLACK.

Waggoner Ditch Assessment.

In matter of the Geo. Waggoner Ditch } No. 2923.
In the DeKalb circuit court.

Notice is hereby given to all owners of lots and lands assessed for benefits in the construction of the above named ditch and all others interested in said ditch, that for the purpose of raising the funds for the construction of said ditch and the costs in such proceeding, a sum equal to eight (8) and one-third (⅓) per cent of all the assessments of benefits per month, be paid and collected on the 1st day of each month commencing on June 2, 1890 and continuing until a sum sufficient therefor shall be raised, but not exceeding the sums assessed for benefits. Said payments to be made at the office of Bickel & Sprott in Farmers bank building in Auburn DeKalb county, Indiana. Sums in excess of said 8⅓ per cent will be received and credit given before maturity.

THOS. H. SPROTT,
Commissioner for the construction

Dated April 22, 1890.

Close Cash Buyers,

Come and see if I cannot

Save You Money,

THESE HARD TIMES.

LOOK!

Wood Seat Chairs	$ 2 00
Cane Chairs	$ 3 00
Bedsteads $1 00 and up.
Marble Tables	$ 4 50
Chamber Suit	$16 00
Marble Chamber Suit	$30 00
Center Table	$ 1 50

Mortuary Goods

For one-half what you have been paying. Come and see. First door east of Bank, Butler, Ind.

S. L. HAMLIN.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. TRADE MARK. "IT CURES CANCERS, SCROFULA."

Female Weakness, Sores, Ulcers, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism and all Blood and Skin Diseases. PRICE $1, per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb can Solid Extract $2.50. J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., DETROIT, MICH. Sold by all druggists.

SOLD BY F. E. DAVENPORT,
AUBURN, IND.

GOLDEN EGGS!

STOP! Were you going to pass over this ad. without reading it? I want to ask you one question, and that is, what are you going to do with your eggs this summer? If you will send me your name on a postal card, I will mail you one of our new circulars for 1890, which will show you how to get 24 cents a dozen the year round for them. The Golden Egg formula is warranted to keep eggs fresh two years, and is the only perfect egg preserver now in use. There are no "shakers" among them: that is, the yolks do not become addled, or settle to the shell, but retain their natural condition in center of the eggs—the whites thick and ropy, the same as fresh eggs There are several other methods of preserving eggs, but the one particular objection above named is present in all of them. Cost of packing and getting ready for market will not exceed ½ cent per dozen. Price of individual right to use is $2.00, two for $3.00 Send for circular to

P. P. LOCHNER, Auburn, Ind., Proprietor of Golden Egg Formula for DeKalb County.

HAMBLETONIAN.

COLONEL STERLING.

—PEDIGREE.—

Colonel Sterling was sired by Sterling 1447, he by Volunteer, 55, and he by Hambletonian, 10. Colonel Sterling's dam was sired by Robert Fillingham, Jr., he by George Wilks, 519, he by Hambletonian, 10.

Look at the Royal blood combination, that of Hambletonian, 10, George Wilks, 519, and Volunteer, 55, all for $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

Write for extended pedigree.

F. J. YESBERA,
AUBURN, IND.

JUST ARRIVEN!

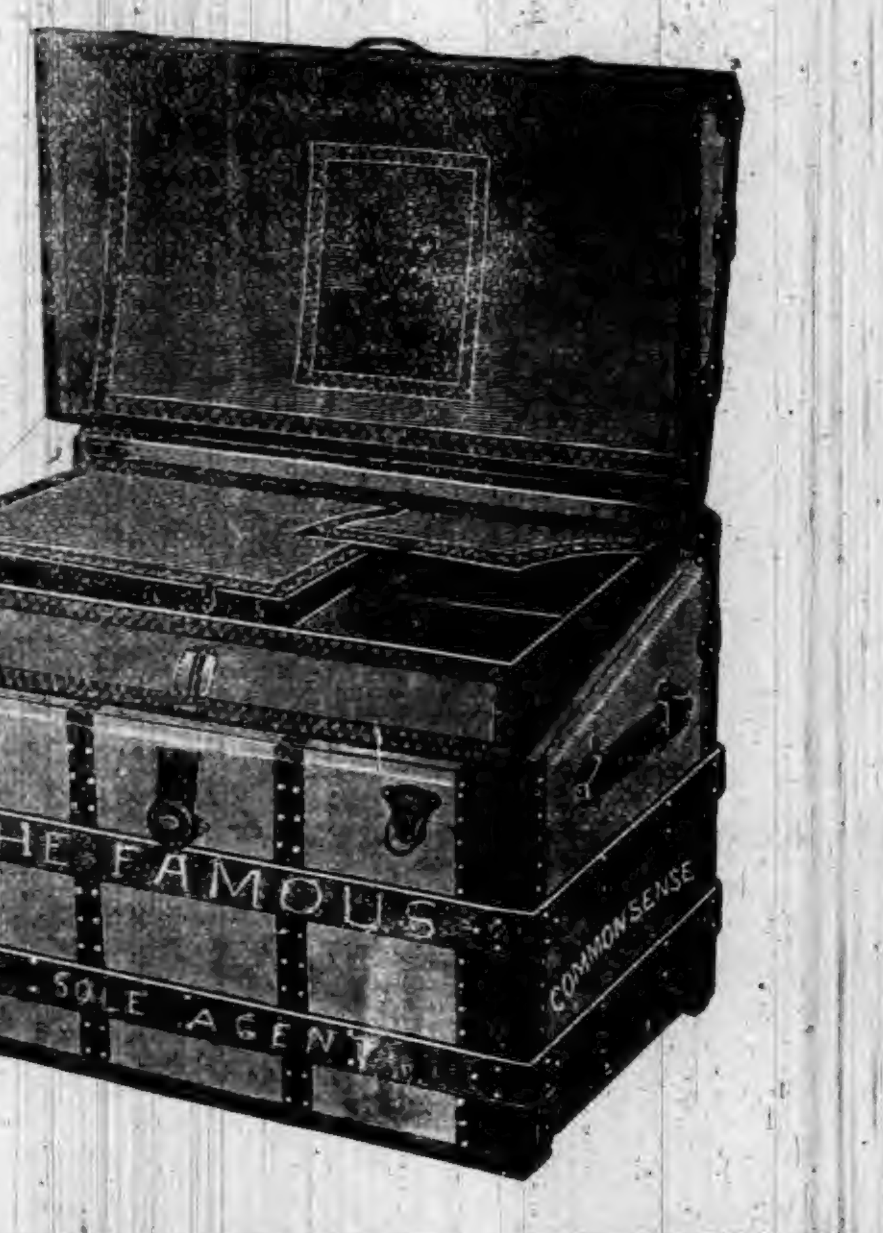
The anxiously awaited pleasant weather.

You Can Now Take That Trip,

—FOR—

PLEASURE OR HEALTH,

As you may desire to term it. A good SUBSTANTIAL Trunk and Valise being necessary adjuncts. I will call your attention to our



COMMON SENSE TRUNKS

AND

Grain Leather Valises,

And anything necessary to make you comfortable, and feel that you are well dressed, you can always find at

The Famous,

NORTH SIDE COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, IND.

CHAMPION BINDERS MOWERS

ARE THE

BEST

AND SO WARRANTED.

SAMPLES AT ONE OR MORE AGENCIES IN EVERY COUNTY. FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ADDRESS.
THE WARDER, BUSHNELL & GLESSNER COMPANY.
CHICAGO, ILL.—SOLE MANUFACTURERS.—SPRINGFIELD, O.

The Seal of Popularity

AND

ATTRACTIVENESS

Has been placed upon our

Spring and Summer Stock of Great in Assortment

AND

UNAPPROACHABLE

In price and quality.

Everything you want in the line of Boots and Shoes,
Waiting For You At

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

Every Lady in Auburn.

Is requested to call on F. E. Davenport and try a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the great guaranteed remedy for coughs, colds and all lung and throat troubles. It is as sweet and pleasant as as gum or candy, and the price is only 25 cents. It is selling entirely upon its own merits and is guaranteed to cure or money refunded by F. E. Davenport.

WANTED! Salesmen to sell our Choice Nursery Stock. All goods guaranteed first-class. Good salaries and expenses, or liberal commission paid. No experience necessary. Write for terms, giving age, and secure your choice of Territory. G. L. KNIGHT & CO., 100 Park Avenue, Rochester, N. Y. 17

Election Notice.

I, J. F. Aber, clerk of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Ind., do hereby certify that at a corporation election to be held on

Monday, May 5, 1890,

the following officers are to be elected:

One Marshal.
One Clerk,
One Treasurer,
Each for the term of one year.
One Trustee for the First (1) Ward.
One Trustee for the Third (3) Ward.
One Trustee for the Fourth (4) Ward.

In testimony of which I have set my hand and affixed the Seal of said town this 16 day of April, 1890, J. F. Aber Town Clerk,

Notice of Sale of Personal Property

Notice is hereby given, that I, William Seeley administrator of the estate of Ann Murray deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, at her late residence ¼ mile west of Newville, Indiana, on

Saturday, May 10, 1890,

at 10 a. m. the following described personal property, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to wit:

Two brood mares, one yearling colt, One cow and calf, One yearling heifer, Two brood sows, Eleven shoats, chickens and turkeys, all her household goods, wagons, harness and many other things.

TERMS OF SALE: For all amounts not exceeding five dollars, cash in hand. For amounts of five dollars and upwards, a credit of nine months will be given.

Note, bearing six per cent interest after maturity, with approved security, and waiving valuation and appraisement laws, will be required.

WILLIAM SEELEY,
16-18 Administrator.

MUNCIE ROUTE.

FORT WAYNE, CINCINNATI AND LOUISVILLE RAILROAD.

—o—

The Direct, Most Popular and only line with Solid Trains to Cincinnati.

22 Miles the shortest line between Fort Wayne, Louisville and the

SOUTHWEST.

The only line with through cars to Indianapolis. Direct connections are made at Union Depots at Indianapolis, Cincinnati, and Louisville, for all points in the East, South and West. Rates lower than other lines and service unexcelled. For Rates and other information, call on nearest agent or address

W. H. Fisher, G. P. A., Fort Wayne.
Geo. W. Saul, Gen'l Manager

TIME CARD.—SOUTH.

Dec. 1, 1889. Standard Time.

Fort Wayne	Lv	* 6 00 am	†10 25 am	* 6 05 pm
Bluffton	ar	6 58 "	11 21 "	7 07 "
Montpelier	"	7 30 "	11 52 "	7 40 "
Hartford	"	7 48 "	12 10 pm	7 58 "
Muncie	"	8 30 "	12 50 "	8 40 "
Indianapolis	"	10 30 "	3 50 "	10 30 "
Cincinnati	"	....	5 30 "	....
Louisville	"	....	7 00 "	....

* Daily. NORTH. † Ex. Sunday.

Louisville	Lv	....	† 7 30 am	....
Cincinnati	"	....	7 59 "	....
Indianapolis	"	† 7 00 am	11 10 "	* 3 05 pm
Muncie	"	* 9 05 "	1 15 pm	5 10 "
Hartford	ar	9 45 "	1 57 "	5 50 "
Montpelier	"	10 05 "	2 15 "	6 08 "
Bluffton	"	10 36 "	2 48 "	6 38 "
Fort Wayne	"	11 35 "	3 45 "	7 40 "

DO YOU NEED A
New Carpet?

If so, now is the time to buy as Carpets never were cheaper.

ALL-WOOL INGRAINS,

Very best quality.

Lowell's 60 cts. All other makes 55 cts.

COTTON and WOOL INGRAINS,

22c, 25c, 35c, and 40c.

TAPESTRY BRUSSELS,

45c, 65c, 75c.

Body Brussels, Velvets, Three-Plys, Hemp, Rag and Stair Carpets, Straw Mattings, at very close prices.

LACE CURTAINS....In Pairs,

$1.00, 1.25, 1.35, 1.50, 2.00, 2.50, and $3.00.

CHENILLE PORTIERES....All New,

$5.50, $7.50 and $10.00.

CURTAIN POLES,....Blacks and Cherry,

All complete with brass trimmings, at 19 cents.

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

Coming to Auburn

Geary's Traveling

WORLD'S MUSEUM,

And Theater Annex under canvas. James Geary, Fort Wayne Manager.

ONE DAY ONLY.

May 14.

Three separate pavilions; 6,000 square feet of canvas. Everything grand, brilliant and complete.

BIG ELIZA

The biggest human being on earth, and a hundred other curious wonders. A first-class stage entertainment and concert, all for one admission, 10 cents. Inquire, investigate, beware, be there May 14. Defiance, Ohio, May 16 and 17.

AUBURN SANITARY Baths.

HOT, COLD AND MEDICATED WATERS.

STEAM, TURKISH, CABINET AND ELECTRIC BATHS.

The MASSAGE Treatment given when desired.

PEOPLE are realizing the true value derived at the Sanitarium at Auburn, and many are availing themselves of this opportunity, and are coming here for treatment, where they enjoy the best of attention from skillfull and practical attendants. Good board and furnished rooms near by can be had at reasonable rates.

Drs. D. J. & Vesta M. Swarts
PROPRIETORS.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Noss Family, April 26.

Mrs Ezra Foltz is reported quite sick.

Buy fruit trees and plants of C. P. Houser.

Willis Brown's new house is nearly completed.

Dr. D. J. Swartz' new building is going up nicely.

Al Zerwis is building a new residence on Fifth street.

New line of gents neck wear at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

New line of brillianteen dress goods at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Our young people break the Sabbath when they go fishing on that day.

Mrs. P. W. Silver has built a neat little residence on her lot on North Main street.

The Kiblinger factory under the management of Krueger and Lawrence is going up successfully.

The street sprinkler was out for the first time Tuesday morning. Charley Pickens can now lay aside his old iron scraper.

M. Bline is having his residence on North Main street repainted in fine colors. E. Foltz and Tarney are the manipulators of the brush.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler Ind. tf

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red, Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protrupiles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

The musical novelties, the famous Noss family, will be at the Opera House, Saturday evening, April 26. Our people will remember the fine musical entertainment they gave when they appeared here before and will give them a good house.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

100,000 Pounds of Wool Wanted at the Auburn Woolen Mills.

Found Guilty!

THE FIRM OF SCHAAB & MURPHY

Have Been Found Guilty

—OF DOING THE—

Largest Clothing Business

IN AUBURN, IND.,

Simply because they make it so warm for their competitors that they cannot compete with their prices and styles. There is no use talking, but that their

Prices, Styles and Quality

Will win where competition cannot possibly survive. People who have seen their beautiful display of

Spring and Summer Suits

Within the past month, will attest the fact that no other Clothing House in the city can duplicate the line of styles and quality they are offering.

Their Children's Suits

Are the envy of all dealers in taste, style and fabric. They are world-beaters in this line, having inside facilities to give you styles and prices. See their

NOBBY SPRING HATS

In all the fashionable colors, for less money than they can be purchased for anywhere else. Everybody is invited to call and see goods and get prices at

SCHAAB & MURPHY'S,

West of Courthouse,

AUBURN, IND.

Noss Family April 26.

Democratic city caucus Monday evening.

Currant, Gooseberry and Grape plants best varieties at Houser's. tf

New laces, ribbons, handkercheifs and hosiery at Mrs. Jones & Son's 15 17

Everything in the fruit tree line at C. P. Houser's. Prices reasonable.

Newport and cloth surface peasant gossamers at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

All leading varieties of raspberry and strawberry plants for sale at C. P. Houser's. tf

Rev. Mr. McCorkle, an old friend, spent Sunday with the family of A. B. Richards.

For paper hanging and decorating, and all kinds of house painting, call on Murphy & Spooner, reliable contractors, Auburn, Ind.

Use Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer and your gray locks will thicken up and be restored to their youthful color, vigor, and beauty.

Frank D. Buss and Layfayette Buss, have been appointed executors of the estate of their father the late Abram Buss of Fairfield township.

Geary's big show here May 14. See his advertisment. A large assortment of curiosities, including Big Eliza, the largest woman in the world.

Everyone remembers the Noss Family and the excellent entertainment they gave when they were here before. They are at the Opera House April 26.

The Noss family was greeted by a big house last night. This is one of the best musical, comedy and novelty companies on the road.—Joliet (Ill.) Press.

Sampson of old was noted for his great strength, but the great poultry friend of to-day is Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure. Sold by Robbin's & McCord.

Henry McClish of Fairfield, was here last week. He is still hale and hearty at sixty, in spite of the fact that he has helped to clear up several farms in the woods.

How everybody did enjoy the fine roads Sunday. It was a proud day for the owners of family horses that had been pawing the stable floors for about five months.

For full information about HARVEST EXCURSIONS April 22, May 20, September 9 and 23, and October 14, 1890, call on or address, Rickel & Sprott, Immigration Agents, Auburn Ind. tf

One of the new Auburn scrapers is being used on the streets. It beats all and our own people all over this section should patronize this popular machine, made at Auburn Machine Works.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

For the delicate and aged and all in whom the vital current is impoverished and sluggish, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the very best tonic. It restores the wasted tissues, and imparts to the system surprising elasticity and vigor. Price $1.00. Worth $5.00 a bottle.

NOTICE: The Opera House managers give notice that after this date, all entertainments will begin promptly at 8 p. m. standard time and that no delay will be permitted as heretofore. All should take notice of this and assist in securing a more prompt attendance in order that the entertainment may close earlier.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's. tf

"Don't buy a pig in a bag." Investigate carefully before purchasing. Harvesting machinery should be durable and light draft, and therefore it must be properly designed and constructed of first-class material. Steel and malleable iron produce the best results in this direction. The superiority of Champion Binders and Mowers results from the fact that more malleable iron and steel is used in their construction than in others.

Cleveland, Ohio.
J. M. Loose Red Clover Co., Detroit.

I was recommended, by one who had been cured by it, to use your Red Clover Extract. I did so and have been a happy woman ever since. The first application gave me more relief than all the medicine I had ever taken. After using less than one third of the solid extract sent me, I walked from my home down town, a distance of one mile, for the first time in 34 years. I can be on my feet all day, without any suffering, my work is a pleasure to me and I no more look forward with dread to days of pain and suffering. Your Red Clover has given me new life and am positive of a speedy cure.

Yours gratefully
MRS. M. G. KEITH.

Many Lives, Histories, or Biographies of the late Jefferson Davis, purporting to be written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis, are being advertised throughout the country. The only genuine work of the kind written by Mrs. Davis is that to be published by Belford Company. 18-22 East 18th street, New York, entitled "Jefferson Davis, Ex-President of the Confederate States: A Memoir, by His Wife." All other works claiming the authorship of Mrs. Jefferson Davis must necessarily be injurious to her personally and pecuniarily The book is being sold by subscription, and territory is being rapidly assigned. The work promises to be one of the most popular ever published, and those desiring to canvass for it should apply at once to the publishers, who will furnish circulars and information.

Soda water. Robbins & McCord's.

Go to G. W. McKay & Co., for wall paper.

Try the new soda fountain. Robbins & McCord's. 17 19

See the notice to subscribers to the reading room.

Soda water, pure and cold. Robbins & McCord's. 17 19

Plaids and stripe silks, new and elegant at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

Handsome patterns in sateen dress goods at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 15 17

Send to P. P. Lochner, Auburn, for one of the golden egg circulars.

Large assortment of silk umbrellas received this week at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

From $3 to $10 can be saved by buying your baby carriage of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., at Fort Wayne.

Miss Lotta Houston and Sada Lochner, of Jackson township, were in attendance at the Junior Ex. last Friday evening.

Let no democrat, no matter how busy he may be, stay away from the caucus Monday evening. We want everyone to come.

Farmers began plowing all over the county last week. In some favored localities they had begun a little before that, a few having oats sowed and up.

No one should think of completing a house without putting in iron thresholds. W. L. Meese will sell you one that won't let in a drop of water, no matter how hard the storm.

A little daughter at the home of J. W. Baxter, was the word passed around town Friday morning. That makes a pair of each, two girls and two boys, a nice little family.

The big hailstorm drove the water under the doors and into the house injuring the carpets. All this could have been avoided by using one of Meese' iron thresholds. Buy one and save your carpets.

We begin the announcement of candidates for county offices this week. The COURIER says, "Go," and may the best man win. If the people will use their best judgment here is a chance to get a good set of county officers.

For nearly half a century Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been the most popular cough remedy in the world. The constantly increasing demand for this remedy proves it to be the very best specific for colds, coughs, and all diseases of the throat and lungs.

The Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., Fort Wayne, La Fayette and Terre Haute are the largest dealers in carpets in the state. Measure the exact size of your room, step aboard the cars for Fort Wayne, and make your selections from the handsomest line of Carpets you have ever seen.

Keep up with the fashion. If you buy old style furniture, you will not be pleased with it. The newest styles will always give you the best satisfaction. At Foster's Furniture store, Ft. Wayne, Ind., you will always find the newest styles and handsome designs, just as soon as they are out.

NOTICE: All who have pledged shares of stock for Auburn Reading Room Association are requested to meet at the Baptist church next Monday evening April 28, to complete an organiztion. Others who wish to take one or more shares are also invited.

By order of committee.
Chas. Eckhart, Chairman.

Dr. Nusbaum assisted by Drs. Swarts and Allen, operated on Ex-Clerk Husselman Monday morning removing a part of the upper portion of the hip bone, which has been troubling him so long. It will be remembered, that it has been affected for several years. The Doctor thinks now, he will be measurably a sound man again in a week or two. He stood the operation well, and being otherwise in good health we hope he will be able to resume his duties at the Eagle Iron Works at an early date.

We publish a call for the city caucus, which we hope all will read and remember. It often happens, that people, business men especially, pay no attention to these things. This is wrong, every business man should turn out to the caucus and see that good business men, who are alive to the interests of the town are placed in nomination. Let every one get ready and spend an hour or two that evening for the good of the town. Our town government has been wise and judicious in nearly everything. Let us continue their policy. Many have said to us, they would like to see the entire town government continued. That would suit us. But if any of the members refuse a re-election, then let us get men just as good, and who will continue in the main, to follow the same policy. Come to the caucus.

Supt. Merica had an exciting and costly runaway Saturday evening. He had hitched up to his new buggy, that he had never had out but once before, and was going to drive over to Garrett. He went into the house to get his supper before he started, leaving the horse securely hitched to the hitching post. In some way, the bridle got off, and the horse probably started for the barn, and as is supposed, stepped on the hitching strap and broke it, and probably the buggy struck the post. Anyway, the horse, usually a very gentle one, took fright, and the buggy was upset. It started off over the garden, then around onto the street, and finally came up town and around north of the square, over the sand pile for the new rooms by the post-office, and at last, with a part of the buggy left, it rushed into Trout's livery barn, jumped over a buggy, and in some way got down to the farther end and stopped beside one of the horses. The new buggy was a ruin and was gathered up in pieces. The horse was only a little bruised.

See notice of wool wanted.

Trees are leaving out, and people are making gardens.

Farmers are busy all over the county plowing for spring crops.

Have you seen Robbins & McCord's elegant soda fountain? 17 19

Best paint on the market at G. W. McKay & Co., for $1.25 a gallon.

The Young Sports beat the Whites last Saturday by a score of 37 to 12.

Don't buy your wall paper until you have seen the stock at G. W. McKay & Co's.

Yesterday morning, we had a slight rain here. Strange to say it was much needed.

Among those from Waterloo who attended the Junior Ex. were Mr. Harper and daughter Lucy, Clyde Willis, Geo. Kennedy and Mattie McBride.

LOST: Sunday evening, April 13, somewhere between the M. E. church and the marble shop, a single, plaid shawl. Finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

The Eagle Iron Works have the contract for the great iron pipes to be put in at the Avenue bridge, where the tile were washed out by the flood of the great hailstorm.

Wm. Swartz, from near Waterloo, and his daughter, Jennie, called at our office one day last week. Mr. Swartz and his wife were also over here Sunday to attend the U. B. services.

Edison's Electrical Exhibition in New York for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange will be described by Agnes B Ormsbee in the number of Harper's Bazar to be published April 25th. The article will be accompanied by two half-page illustrations.

The incandescent electric lights are now running, and are very convenient. All you have to do is to "turn on the gas," and when you are done, "turn it off." They began the middle of last week. Nearly every business house has them, and some private houses.

Home seekers excursion to the west and Valley of Virginia via B. & O. April 22, and May 20, the B. & O. will sell tickets to principal points in west, north-west, south, southwest and via Harper's Ferry to the Historic Valley of Virginia at one fare for the round trip, good returning thirty days. For route and tickets apply to ticket agents of the B. & O. 17 18

Mr. L. B. Fretz, canvasser for the COURIER will be around among the people for a week or two. He is authorized to take subscriptions, make collections and transact other business for us. He is a young man of ability and honesty and we hope he will be well received where ever he goes. We assure our friends that any business intrusted to him, will be properly cared for.

The Dispatch will make a mistake by trying to make O. P. Myers believe the COURIER did not support the latter. Mr. Myers knew the editor of this paper while the Dispatch folks were in the peanut age of youth, and is besides, too much of a man, and too good a democrat to allow republicans to work this old gag on him. A paper that expects to run the republican machine of this county will have something else to do, besides seeking to make democrats quarrel among themselves.

William Sharp will contribute to Harper's Magazine for May a paper entitled "Through Bush and Fern," which is devoted to clearing up some persistent misconceptions and imparting some entirely new conceptions about Australian scenery, and the fauna and flora of "the oldest land in the world." Australia will be brought to the reader's attention in another part of the same number, for Mr. Howells will review the recent work describing Prof. Carl Lumholtz's life among the Australian cannibals.

Nicholas Ensley and his family, last week quietly moved to Indianapolis, where he will have his home during his term of office as state pension agent. It removes from our midst a worthy and prominent family, and we wish them a pleasant stay in the city of their adoption. With the coming democratic victory in 1892 it will be a double pleasure to know that it will bring them back to Auburn. The ladies of the L. L. C will miss Mrs. Ensley, who is one of their charter members, and who with her daughter, Miss Eva, have been faithful in their duties at the society's meetings.

Little Edith Lesh, daughter of Eph. Lesh, died at the residence of I. B. Brandon, Saturday evening, April 19, and was buried Monday afternoon. The services were by Rev. D. F. Kain, pastor of the Lutheran church. She was about six years old. Mr. Lesh has been in the far west somewhere, since the death of his wife, and the little girl had been a member of Mr. Brandon's family, by whom she will be greatly missed. The present location of Mr. Lesh is not known. Henry Lesh, made several attempts to communicate with him, but failed. He was last heard of at Gainesville, Texas.

Joe Beugnot came near getting a joke on himself last Sunday. The laws of the state of Indiana don't compel a man to keep his saloon open on Sunday, or on Sunday evening if he don't want to and Joe did'nt want to. But when he went home Saturday evening he forgot to turn off the new electric lights, consequently, when the "machine" started up Sunday evening, a big, bright light streamed from every window of Joe's saloon, giving it the appearance of being in full blast. Joe was at home, with his family, and in utter ignorance of the interest his glaring lights had created down town. Many an anxious look was directed to the half opened window curtains, by thirsty souls who stood about hoping to see the door open. But it didn't open. The lights blazed out cheerily till the machine stopped, but that was all.

City caucus Monday evening.

All that are thirsty come drink at Robbins & McCord's new soda fountain.

Prices talk. Wall paper from 10c per roll to $1.00. Window shades 30c. to $1.50.

If you are a lover of delicious soda water go to Robbins & McCord's new soda fountain. 17 19

Call and examine our stock of paper, paint and shades and you will be pleased. G. W. McKay & Co.

Auburn Woolen Mills solicit all kinds of custom work. Farmers, don't forget this. We want your work. tf

The street sprinkler started up Tuesday morning. Was a queer sight after five months of mud and slush.

FOR SALE: A vacant lot on one of the principal streets in Auburn. Enquire of E. L. Casebeer. 17 19

Odd Fellows' celebration to-morrow evening. Oration by Capt. W. R. Myers. Everybody likes to hear him. See program.

The official board of the M. E. church, decided Monday evening to go right ahead and build the new church this summer.

Taxpaying ended Monday evening according to law, but we believe it is always allowed to have the whole week to come in if they wish to.

The trial of Penfield's case against the Auburn Church Furniture Co., is going on, before Judge VanFleet of the Elkhart circuit, without a jury.

Judge Zollars is here assisting the defense in the Church Furniture case. He was Kelley's counsel the week before; C. M. Phillips of Waterloo, was the other, and proved himself an able lawyer.

We have prepared a short write up of each of the candidates announced so far, but were unable to get them all set up and in the paper this week. So we hold them all till next week, so all can have an equal chance, and start even.

The Press says we admit that "democracy and mormonism are the same." The Press says this wilfully, knowing we have said nothing of the kind. Please read that commandment once more, about the sin of bearing false witness.

The great overhead iron arch that is to span Eighth street, so as to connect the two big Kiblinger factories, is being made at the Auburn Foundry and Machine Works. It will be 14 feet high, and 66 feet long, and will be a piece of artistic work that will do credit to the enterprising foundrymen, as well as to Mr. Kiblinger.

Mrs. Jessie Zollars started for Shelbyville, Tenn., Tuesday by the way of the Wabash road. She goes to rejoin her husband, who is located there and prospering. Her little daughter accompanied her, and both will be missed by our friend Mike Douglas and his good wife. We unite with the friends here in wishes for their prosperity.

There came near being a fire in Kiblinger's residence Tuesday morning. In changing some of the fixtures of the natural gas, a pipe was broken. A stove was burning in the room, and at once, there was a flash. And it took a fight to save the house. It was soon shut off, but not before some damage was done. Had the pipe been broken below the floor, nothing could have saved it the house.

It will be remembered that several years ago, C. P. Houser's father was killed in Lagrange county, by a runaway team that overtook him, as he was driving along, and ran over him. Mr. Houser sued the owner of the team for damages, and after a long fight was awarded $2,000. It was appealed to the supreme court, and last week it was reached and they sustained the lower court. This will be good news to Mr. Houser, who has been at great expense in the case, as well as to his mother and sister.

Odd Fellows Celebration.

Mentor Lodge No. 591 and Crescent Lodge No. 254 D. of R. assisted by sister lodges of the county will celebrate the 71st anniversary of Odd Fellowship with appropriate services at Auburn on Friday April 25, 1890. All members of the order are requested to assemble at their headquarters at one p. m. standard time. Procession will then be formed and proceed to the Opera House where the following exercises will be held, commencing at 2 p. m., to which the public are very cordially invited.

Anthem—Messrs Scott, Widney, Mrs. Post and Mrs. Bowman.
Prayer—Rev. H. M. Lamport.
Solo—J. M. Widney.
Address of Welcome—Mrs. Bowman.
Response—Judge Powers.
Duet—Mrs Post and Mrs. Bowman.
Address to D. of R.—Hon. W. R. Myers Past G. M
Short Addresses—By Visiting Brothers.
Song—By Quartet.

Adjourn for supper, which will be served free to all visiting Odd Fellows and their wives, and Daughters of Rebekah. Exercises in the evening will commence at 7:30 at the Opera House.

Song—Messrs Widney, Harper, Scott and Hanna.
Prayer—Bro. C. M. Merica.
Song—Mrs. Post, Mrs. Yesbera and Mrs. Bowman.
Address—Hon. W. R. Myers, Past G. M.
Solo—Mrs. Yesbera.
Song—Messrs Scott, Harper, Hanna and Widney.

For Sale.

Two horses, one buggy, two single harness, four collars and one pair buggy fills.

FRANK HOLMAN
Cedar Creek, Ind. 17 19

Tuesday's Fire Alarm.

Tuesday, about 5 o'clock, p. m., fire was discovered issuing from the oil room in the rear of John L. Davis' hardware store, by Frank Davenport, jr., who at once gave the alarm, and Bob. McClellan being the second to see it, ran to the engine house and rang the fire bell, which called out the fire department. But in the meantime Frank Davenport thought of the fire extinguisher hand grenades they have in the store, and taking two of them, ran across the street and dashed them into the flames, almost entirely quenching them. He returned to the store for more, but a few buckets of water were applied and the fire got under control. Perhaps two minutes more, and Auburn would have witnessed a terrible calamity, for the room contained about 25 tanks of oil, benzine, gasolene, etc., the explosion of which would have been disastrous to both life and property. Mr. Davenport deserve great credit for his thoughtfulness and prompt action in this critical moment. He had a suit of clothes ruined by the fluid from one of the extinguishers. The fire was started by a little five-year-old boy, who had been playing near the building and who had piled up a lot of shavings and fired them to see them blaze.

Bicycle Riders,

As well as lawyers, ministers and everybody who are in in any ways interested in this healthful exercise will do well to send 25c. postal note for one year's subscription to the National Wheelmen a large handsome illustrated cycling periodical, that publishes and illustrates everything of interest to the wheelmen. Roe, Elwood, Butler and other noted cycle riders are contributors. Don't fail to read Wells on fancy riding; Carpenter on touring; Miss Ritcher on lady riders. Sworn circulation exceeds 10,000. National Wheelmen, Churubusco, Indiana.

To the Sunday School Workers of DeKalb Co., Greeting.

Wm. H. Levering of Lafayette, Ind., will be in Auburn, on Monday afternoon, May 12, and will be glad to meet all Sabbath School workers at 3 o'clock at the Baptist church where he will give them an interesting talk on some part of the work. Let the church be filled.

M. B. WILLIS Vice-pres.
DeKalb Co., S. S. A.

Missed a Few.

We missed a few names of probable candidates when we gave the list last week. But they were men we did not know would be in the field. Cory Shugars, will be a candidate for recorder, and Henry Lindorffer for commissioner. Both are from Jackson and both are good men. We also hear men speak of W. S. Dancer for a commissioner, a first-rate choice. Wm. Seely of Newville, is also spoken of for commissioner in that district. No better selection could be made.

Treasurer's Report, for the Year Ending April 7, 1890.

To the Honorable board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn DeKalb County Indana.

The undersigned Treasurer of said town submits his annual report of the receipts and expenditures for the year ending April 7, A. D. 1890, as follows to wit:

MUNICIPAL FUND,
Bal. at last rept. April 15, '89	$ 117 42
Received from county treasurer May 28 1889	967 77
Received from county treasurer Dec. 4, 1889	825 30
All other Sources	468 34
Total	$2,378 83
Redemption of 98 orders		$2,276 42
Balance in treasury April 7, 1890		102 41
Total		$2,378 83
ROAD FUND.
Bal. at last rept. April 15, '89	$ 72 49
Received from county treasurer May 28, 1889	691 95
Received from county treasurer Dec. 4, 1889	36 25
Total	$ 800 69
Redemption of 34 orders		$ 716 83
Balance in treasury April 8, 1890		83 86
Total		$ 800 69
ADDITIONAL SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND.
Bal. at last rept. April 15, '89	$ 492 85
Received from county treasurer May 28, 1889	925 66
Received from county treasurer Dec. 4, 1889	781 67
Total	$2,200 18
Redemption of bonds and interest		$1,572 68
Balance in treasury April 7, 1890		627 50
Total		$2,200 18
SUMMARY OF BALANCES.
Balance of road fund		$ 83 86
" of additional spel. school fund		627 50
Balance of municipal fund,		102 41
191 municipal orders outstanding		6,967 61
44 road orders outstanding		1,633 33

Respectfully submitted this 7th day of April, 1890.

CHARLES H. G. JONES
Town Treasurer

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Daniel Yeothers deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 19th day of May, 1890, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 22nd day of April, 1890.

DANIEL ANTHONY, administrator
James E. Rose, Atty.

REFORMED CHURCH.

Sunday—April 27 Sunday school services.
Monday evening—Choir practice.
Tuesday evening—Private prayer meeting at Mrs. Debilius'
Wednesday evening—Gathering of the little ones. (Parsonage).
Thursday p. m.—Social at Mrs. John Lamm's.
Friday evening—Prayer meeting in the church.
Saturday evening—Choir practice.

B. RUF.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

ONLY 12 per cent. of the population of Russia can read and write. The number of primary schools is 38,000 for the population of 100,000,000.

SENATOR VANCE says that North Carolina produced more gold prior to the discovery of the gold mines in California than all other States put together.

IT is told of Matthew Arnold that when he was in this country and ate some buckwheat cakes, he remarked: "Why, they are not so nasty as they look."

AFTER forty years of Mormon rule all the city of Salt Lake has to show is some sets of books that the most expert bookkeeper in the universe cannot balance.

THERE is an extraordinary increase of suicide and dueling in high military circles in Russia. The fashionable duel is fought at five paces with cavalry revolvers.

AN ingenious Maine editor's clever dog prints his paper for him by means of an animal power which the editor has invented. One dog can run two printing presses with it.

THE Chinese in San Jose, Cal., lease property from a white man for twelve months in the year, and charge their tenants thirteen months, there being thirteen months in the Chinese year.

GEORGE W. CHILDS says that since the introduction of foreign and native mineral waters as table beverages, the use of wine has decreased nearly one-half at dinner parties and entertainments.

IT is stated that the Russian Government will attempt in April to lift two English steamers which were sunk off Balaklaya during the Crimean war. It is believed that in one of the vessels is a chest containing $200,000.

THE Supreme Court of Mississippi has decided that wine made in that State from grapes grown there may be sold in the State, even in prohibition counties. The laws of the State encourage the manufacture of native wines.

THE librarian of the New York Free Circulating library states that Germans read better books than Americans and boys than girls. In fiction "Uncle Tom's Cabin" leads all competitors in the main library and three branches.

A WATCH for blind people has been invented in Switzerland. In the middle of every figure is a small peg which drops when the hour-hand reaches the figure. The owner feels that the peg is down and counts back to twelve to determine the hour.

AN Adelaide, Australia, daily paper has in its employ three men named Day. One of them is called Sun Day because he is a clergyman; another, being the cashier, is called Pay Day, while the third, being a law reporter, goes by the name of Judgment Day.

FOR some years before her death Mrs. Prudence Crandall Philleo received an annuity of $400 voted her by the Connecticut Legislature in recompense for the injury done her years ago by the same body in breaking up her school for colored girls.

QUEEN MARGHERITA of Italy receives some curious letters. One epistle from this country asked her to send to the writer a complete collection of Italian postage-stamps. Another American requests her Majesty to forward one of her cast-off jewels.

A WEALTHY citizen of Osaka, Japan, who is the owner of a rich copper mine, has celebrated in a rather peculiar manner the two hundredth anniversary of the mine coming into the possession of his family. On that occasion each of his three hundred or more employes received as a memento of the occasion a swallow tail coat.

ROSS RAYMOND, the once brilliant journalist, but now notorious as a swindler, is doing penal servitude for a long term, and if he survives this period he will doubtless be sent back on other charges that will be brought against him as soon as he walks out of prison. Raymond was convicted and sentenced in Glasgow.

SAYS an eminent physician: "Show me a professional athlete 40 years old, and I will show you a man old beyond his time, with bones out of shape, muscles injured and joints stiffened, and no one would promise him five years more of life. Outside of movements to expand the lungs gymnastics are a positive injury."

GEORGE MEREDITH for many years was among the least regarded of living English authors, but the experiment of popular editions and perhaps the growing cultivation of taste have at last brought a recognition for his talents, and Harold Frederick says in his London cable letter the announcement that he is shortly to issue a new novel is everywhere treated as a literary event of the day.

ANOTHER plan for shortening materially the ocean voyage between this continent and the British islands is said to have been propounded by a company of English and Canadian capitalists. Their object is to be secured by building a railway from Quebec to St. Charles' Bay, on the Labrador coast, and running a line of fast steamers thence to Milford Haven.

THE question of the wholesale destruction of swallows by electricity has at last been taken up in France, and a report on the subject was presented at a recent meeting of the Zoological Society. In the south of France long wires are systematically erected along the sea-shore, and when the tired swallows alight on them they are stunned or killed by an electric shock. The birds are then sent to Paris, where they are used for decorative purposes.

A SURGEON in the mining region of the West tells the Pittsburg Dispatch: "The miners cannot always be made to understand that it is sometimes necessary to give them considerable pain in reducing fractures, amputating fingers and the like. They have, too, an embarrassing way of interrupting the operation by knocking down the surgeon. So I take a revolver with me, and before I begin to operate take out the revolver and lay it somewhere handy and well in sight of the subject. It always has a calming effect."

THE new Brazilian marriage law makes civil marriage obligatory. Any marriage not made before civil powers is null and void. The parties have to pay to the judge $1 and to the clerk 50 cents if the marriage is performed at his office, and double that if in a private house, besides the cost of carriage or traveling expenses. Relatives of the first and second degrees, girls under fourteen and boys under sixteen years are prohibited from marrying. Widows may not marry until ten months after the decease of their husbands. Civil marriages may be preceded or followed by religious services.

SIG. SUCCI, who claims to have invented a liquid which enables a man to go without solid food, has reached London. Medical men on the continent have been examining his claims and are astonished at the results of their investigations. Succi intends to show the Londoners how he can fast, and then come to this country. Succi is a short, spare man, of dark complexion, bright eyes, a nervous manner, and an expression of great energy in his countenance. He says that power of will is really his whole secret. Succi was once an African explorer. While hippopotamus-shooting he fell in with Stanley eleven years ago near the Voami river.

A FAMOUS English statesman was especially accomplished in the art of saying "no" without giving offense. A happy instance of this is related: "A friend of mine wished to obtain a consular appointment for a relative—this was before the introduction of competitive examinations. 'Too happy to serve you,' said the great man. 'Call to-morrow, and I will see what can be done.' The next day he proposed a consulship of six hundred a year in Asia Minor. My friend was delighted; but as he was leaving the room, the statesman called out, 'I will have the papers sent to you to sign.' 'What papers?' 'Why, you are aware that whoever recommends a consul is made responsible for all the money that passes through the consul's hands?' There was an end to the transaction, for the relative was fond of play, which our diplomat well knew."

Devil's Lake.

Devil's Lake is the name of a body of water in North Dakota which has from time immemorial been held in awe by the copper-colored aborigines who live in the vicinity. The Indians believe that the lake is inhabited by the evil spirits and the name Minnewakan (Devil's lake) was given it hundreds of years ago. Weird tales of the doings of supernatural beings supposed to people it are numerous and the truth of many fictitious stories told about it have until late years never once been doubted. Civilization is, however, getting in its work in the neighborhood and is rapidly dispelling the feeling of awe in which the lake has been held by the Indians.

There is a modern story of Devil's Lake, however, which vies in superstitious fancy with those of abnormal times. Not alone the Indians, but the soldiers at Fort Totten, which is situated on the northern border of the lake, have a firm belief in the existence of a phantom steamboat which is said to ply the waters of Minnewakan. Some weird tales are told of how this airy creation goes puffing up and down the silent lake in the darkness of summer nights, its spectral fires gleaming on the black water and the beat of its screw keeping up a rhythmic motion that becomes suddenly silent on the approach of a mortal.

The first appearance of the phantom steamboat was early in the '80's when it was witnessed one night by a party of soldiers who were crossing the lake. Many people have since claimed to have seen it go puffing up and down the lake in the darkness of moonless nights, its fires making trails of light on the water, while the throbs of the ghostly engine were distinctly heard.

Hints to the Sleepless.

How many hours sleep do you require? No rule can be laid down. Jeremy Taylor thrived on three hours, and so does Cardinal Newman. Many centenarians are contented with five hours, but some of them require eight or nine. But there are two rules of sleeping which everybody may adopt without hesitation. 1. Never let yourself be awakened by anybody else, but wait until you have slept out your sleep. 2. Get up as soon as you are awake. If you follow these two rules, the hours of sleep will very soon regulate themselves. If you read yourself to sleep, you should read a heavy book, not a light one. A dull book is good, a stupid one is better. Some persons recommend a cup of beef-tea—just to amuse the digestion.—St. James Gazette.

HIGHER TARIFF TAXES.

THE M'KINLEY BILL AT LAST BEFORE THE HOUSE.

Ex-Speaker Carlisle, Speaking for the Democrats, Shows that the Measure Carefully Protects the "Infant" Industries and Increases the Public Burdens.

[Washington telegram.]

Just before midnight, Wednesday, Mr. Carlisle was called out of his bed and informed that the Republicans of the Ways and Means Committee had again changed their bill by restoring hides to the free list, and by making sugar free, with a bounty of two cents a pound on sugar produced in the United States. For the fifth time Mr. Carlisle had to rewrite the report of the minority to suit the changed conditions. This afternoon the completed tariff bill was reported to the House, with the report of the majority written by Chairman McKinley. While surprise was expressed at the change in sugar after the repeated declarations of McKinley and his colleagues that the bill was completed, the Western members of the committee are jubilant over their success in getting sugar on the free list. Governor Gear, of Iowa, and Mr. La Follette, of Wisconsin, stood out for free sugar till they were overwhelmed by the majority of the committee, and then submitted under protest. In order to save their hides in New England, the Eastern high-taxers consented to make sugar free with a bounty. Of course this has made Claus Spreckles very angry, and Mr. McKenna, his representative on the committee, has written a minority report protesting against the change on sugar and claiming that he has been treated with bad faith. Spreckles has been making millions of dollars a year out of his Sandwich Islands sugar, which he has brought in free under the reciprocity treaty and sold in a protected market. It is charged that he put $450,000 into the beet sugar industry simply as a ruse to save the protective tax on sugar. He hoped that by joining hands with the beet sugar men Congress could be made to believe a great new industry was springing up which the protective party would not dare harm. The Republicans have Gov. Gear and Mr. La Follette to thank for whatever credit they hope to get out of the change of front on sugar. It is announced that while no changes have been made in the wool schedule, changes will be made in carpet wools in response to public sentiment after the bill has been taken up in the House.

THE M'KINLEY ABORTION.

Mr. Carlisle's Scathing Analysis—The True Inwardness of the Measure Exposed in the Minority Report.

The report of the minority is a concise and forcible statement of the views of the tariff-reform party, and its arraignment of the McKinley bill for its imposition upon the people in the interest of the classes will undoubtedly become the great campaign document of the year. The report says:

JUST AND EQUAL TAXATION.

The minority contends for the principle of just and equal taxation upon all, according to their ability to bear the burden, while the majority has in this bill thoroughly committed itself to the policy of unjust and unequal taxation of the many for the benefit of the few. We are as anxious as the majority can possibly be to promote and encourage American industries and advance the interests of American laborers, and those who impute to us any other purpose or design either misunderstand or misrepresent our position. But we believe that both these objects can be accomplished by reducing the burdens of taxation, and not by increasing them, and that the benefits thus secured will be far more permanent and far more satisfactory to those directly concerned than any supposed advantage that can result from a different policy. The majority, after months of patient and laborious investigation, has been able to satisfy a part only of the demands made upon it. The only remedy is to remove as far as possible artificial burdens and restrictions, and give to all our industries an equal chance in the field of competion at home and abroad.

PROTECTION A CONFESSED FAILURE.

According to the statements made before the committee the protected industries of the country have never been at any time in our history in such depressed and discouraging condition as they are now. After nearly thirty years of continuous protection by government taxation for their support a great many of them are reported to be on the very verge of bankruptcy and ruin, while very few of them, according to the testimony, are yielding a fair profit upon the capital invested. A great many of the parties engaged in these industries have declared that the slightest reduction in the rates of duty now imposed upon competing foreign products would compel them to close their works and discharge their employes, and others have even gone so far as to assert that they will be forced to go out of business if the rates of taxation are not increased. At the same time the laborers in those industries are complaining of insufficient wages, repeated suspensions of work and a general condition of uncertainty and insecurity in their relations to those who give them employment. These laborers, fully realizing the fact that this system has wholly failed to increase their earnings or improve their condition in any way, have been compelled to organize trades' unions and resort to other methods of combination and co-operation for self-protection; and these various organizations now afford the only efficient means at their command for the preservation even of the existing rates of wages.

While we have no doubt that many of the statements made before the committee were great exaggerations of the actual condition of affairs, yet, after making proper allowance for the zeal of advocates pleading their own cause, enough remains to show clearly that the existing system of protection, after a trial of thirty years, has proved a failure, and that, instead of being strengthened and made more restrictive and prohibitive, it ought to be abandoned, and a more liberal policy inaugurated. When capital and labor unite in declaring that our protected industries are not profitable under that system, although it was designed and has been maintained for their special benefit, the conclusion is inevitable that there is a vice in it somewhere that ought to be removed; for there is no reason to doubt that in a country like this every productive industry would be reasonably prosperous if a wise and just revenue and financial policy prevailed.

We believe, therefore, that the only manner in which our industries can be helped by legislation at the present time is to exempt from taxation the materials they are compelled to use and to reduce proportionately the taxes on finished products, so that all our farmers, mechanics, and manufacturers may be able to compete on equal terms with those of other countries. That is the policy we advocate and which we desire to see inaugurated and completed just as early and as rapidly as circumstances will permit. The capitalist who has invested his money in those industries, the laborers he employs, and the domestic consumer to whom he sells, would all be benefited and nobody would be injured. With untaxed materials, it is evident that they could afford to pay their laborers better wages than they can afford to pay them now, and still sell their products to consumers at lower prices than are now charged.

PLUNDERING THE MANY FOR THE FEW.

At a time when it is confessed by all parties that the Government does not need additional revenue, but that there ought to be a reduction of its receipts, the bill reported by the majority proposes to levy upon a great many articles of absolute necessity higher rates of duty than were ever heretofore proposed in any measure reported to Congress. These increases of rates are made in every instance for the purpose of restricting trade and thereby affording what is called protection to the producers of similar articles in this country. The original argument in favor of protective duties was that they were necessary to foster infant industries by preventing ruinous competition from abroad until they could secure a hold on the home market, and thus become self-sustaining, and it was again and again predicted by the earlier advocates of the system that a few years of public support would enable them to do this. But the present bill is based upon precisely the opposite view. It is framed upon the assumption that as our industries grow older they grow weaker and more dependent upon the bounty of the Government and the forced contributions of the people who purchase and consume their product, and, accordingly, we find that as a general rule the important increases in the rates of duty are made with a view of still further protecting the products of our oldest industries, such as manufactures of iron and steel, woolen goods, cotton goods, manufactures of flax, hemp, etc.

The original claim that protection was to be a temporary expedient, and that after the lapse of a reasonable time the masses of the people would be compensated for their previous outlay by obtaining goods made at home more cheaply than they could be obtained abroad, has been entirely abandoned, and it is now avowed that taxation of the many for the benefit of the few is to be the settled policy of the government, and that this unjust system is to be made more onerous and restrictive from time to time as subjects for its application may be discovered and as the demands of old industries may increase. Hereafter taxes are to be imposed for the primary purpose of protecting certain private interests against competition, with incidental revenue for the government, and our people are to be deprived of the privilege of purchasing, without paying tribute to somebody, any article which any one or more persons in the United States, however incapable or wasteful, might possibly succeed in producing, with the aid of a sufficient tax on their neighbors to establish and maintain them in the business.

NEW INFANTS TO BE CODDLED

For instance, there are a few persons in this country who believe that they could manufacture tin or tin plate if those who use that necessary article were compelled by law to pay a higher tax upon it, and accordingly the bill now reported proposes more than to double the duties. This will injuriously affect the interests of thousands of laborers now engaged in the manufacture of tin caps and other vessels used in canning fruit, vegetables, meats, and fish in nearly every part of the country, and it will constitute a direct charge upon the producers and consumers of these various kinds of food, but the theory upon which the bill is based takes no account of the welfare of this great mass of American citizens so long as two or three firms or corporations insist that the tax will be beneficial to them.

Again, there are a few persons in the United States who claim that if they had what they call "proper encouragement" they could produce raw silk here, and accordingly this bill proposes to compel all the people to pay out of the public treasury a bounty of $1 a pound, or $2,240 per ton, on all the raw silk reeled from cocoons, and 7 cents on every pound, or $156.80 per ton, of fresh cocoons, including the worms, produced in the United States. This expense is to be charged to all the people, whether they use silk goods or not, and be paid out of the public treasury.

At the same time the bill proposes to make enormous increases in the rates on woolen goods, which all our people are compelled to purchase and use, and very large increases in the rates on some kinds of cotton and linen goods, which are absolutely necessary for the health and comfort of all classes. The increase of taxes on wool and woolen and worsted goods, including carpets, amounts to about $15,500,000 per annum, estimated upon the importations of the last fiscal year; but in fact it will be many times that amount by reason of the enhanced prices which consumers will be compelled to pay for the domestic product.

DEAR NECESSARIES AND CHEAP TOBACCO.

While the bill proposes to make this large addition to the tax on woolen clothing and carpets, it also proposes to abolish the internal revenue taxes to the amount of $8,860,994 on manufactured chewing and smoking tobacco and snuff—articles which certainly cannot be classed among the necessaries of life. While we would be willing to repeal the internal revenue taxes on tobacco in connection with reductions upon other articles which the people are obliged to use, as was proposed by the bill which passed the last House, we cannot agree to a measure which provides for the abolition of any part of such taxes and at the same time increases the rates of duty on cotton, linen and woolen clothing, and on earthenware, glassware, table cutlery and many forms of iron and steel which can not be dispensed with. Besides, about the only substantial reason that can be urged for the repeal of the tax on tobacco is the fact that the governmental supervision and control necessary to enforce its collection is a constant source of vexation and annoyance to those engaged in manufacturing that article. A mere reduction of the tax from 8 cents to 4 cents per pound does not dispense with this supervision and control to any extent whatever, nor does it diminish to any extent the expense of collection. The same supervision, the same books and forms, the same bonds, oaths and penalties, and the same number of officials, will be required to collect 4 cents per pound that are required to collect 8 cents per pound.

WHERE THE BILL INCREASES TAXES.

We cannot undertake here to point out in detail the numerous increases in the rates of duty on imported goods which this bill proposes to make, but a few will suffice:

The lowest grades of woolen yarn, worth not over 30 cents per pound, are to be subjected to a duty of 112 per cent., while the most costly yarn will pay 72 per cent. One grade of coarse cheap blankets will be required to pay 106 per cent., but the finest blankets will pay 72 per cent. The coarsest and cheapest woolen hats will be subject to a duty of 111 per cent. and the finest to 66 per cent. Women's and children's cheapest dress goods with cotton warp are to be taxed 106 per cent. and the finest 73 per cent. The lowest grade of woolen cloths will pay 125 per cent. and the highest grade 86 per cent. The cheapest qualities of knit goods for underwear range from 112 to 138 per cent., but the finest and most expensive will pay 78 per cent. Woolen shawls of the coarest and lowest grade used by the poorest people will pay 135 per cent. duty, and worsted goods of the lowest grade will pay 138 per cent., while the highest grades will pay 90 per cent.

There are many increases of the rates on iron and steel, and scarcely any reduction on articles which can be imported at all under the existing rates. The reductions in this schedule, as a general rule, will not diminish taxation to any appreciable extent, while all the increases are so arranged as to obstruct importations and enhance the prices of the domestic articles of the same kind. On common table cutlery the new rates of duty imposed by this bill are very largely in excess of the old ones, under which our manufacturing establishments have been successfully carried on for many years, and on the cheaper grades of pocket-knives and razors especially the rates are greatly increased. Common window glass, not exceeding 16 by 24 inches square, is increased to 123 per cent.; not exceeding 24 by 30 inches square, is raised to over 135 per cent., and all sizes above that are raised to over 138 per cent., while there are very large increases upon bottles and various other manufactures of glass.

Camel's hair, a raw material extensively used in this country in the manufacture of certain kinds of goods, and which has been admitted free of duty for a good many years, is by this bill taken from the free list and subjected to a tax of 12 cents per pound, which is equivalent to 77 per cent. ad valorem. During the last fiscal year we imported free of duty 6,648,197 pounds of this material, which is absolutely necessary to enable some of our manufacturing establishments to carry on their business and supply the goods they are now making for their customers, but if this bill passes and the same quantity is imported next year, it will cost the people $797,771 in addition to the value of the hair itself. The imposition of this duty, like the imposition of all other duties on raw materials, works a double injury. In the first place it imposes an unnecessary burden upon the consumers, who in the end pay all the duties with profits added, and, in the second place, it destroys the power of the domestic manufacturer to compete with his foreign rival in the production of the goods into which the taxed material is converted.

We have for a long time been endeavoring to increase our trade with the people of Central and South America and Mexico, and at our request an international conference is now being held to devise means for the accomplishment of this result. The people of all these countries had a right to suppose that this Government was acting in good faith when it invited them to send their delegates here, and that nothing would be done by us to disturb the harmony of their deliberations or prevent the success of their mission; but in the midst of their consultation and when it was earnestly hoped that some practicable plan might be agreed upon for the establishment of closer commercial relations, this bill is reported, containing provisions which will not only retard reciprocal arrangements for the future, but destroy a large part of the trade now existing between this country and some of our neighbors on the south.

The policy of placing farm products on the dutiable list, as provided for in this bill, in order to give the farmer protection, is fallacious. It is impossible to protect the farmer against foreign competition in his home market, because he has no such competition.

ENORMOUS BOUNTIES FOR SUGAR GROWERS.

Last year the grades of sugar which are now made free yielded to the Government $54,894,181, all of which is now to be surrendered, and the sugar industry is to become an annual charge upon all the people who are engaged in other occupations, some of which are far more important and all of which are fully as meritorious as this one. In 1888, which is the last year for which we have complete returns, the sugar product in this country was 375,855,877 pounds, so that even if there should be no increased production under the bounty system the sum which the people are to be compelled to donate each year for the support of this favored industry will be $7,520,000, or $113,000,000 during the fifteen years. But the very object of the bounty is to encourage the production of this article, and its advocates claim that in a few years it will result in a domestic supply equal to the whole demand for home consumption. In addition to the home product we imported and consumed during the last fiscal year 2,750,421,302 pounds of sugar not above No. 16 in color, making a total annual consumption, including domestic and imported, of 3,076,277,079 pounds, and therefore, if the system results as its advocates predict, the annual payment out of the Treasury will be $61,528,425, even without any increase in the amount now consumed. We protest against the gross favoritism and injustice of such a policy, and we deny the moral or constitutional right of the Government to tax the people who grow corn, wheat, cotton, rye, oats, and other agricultural products for the purpose of raising money to be given to those who produce sugar or any other article.

The bounty provisions contained in this bill are confessions that the whole system, which it seeks to strengthen and extend, is a system of discriminations between the various productive industries of the country—a system which imposes charges upon some for the support of others, and disregards every principle of justice and equality in distributing the burdens of taxation.

In our opinion, the increase in the tobacco schedule, resulting mainly from the imposition of a duty of $2 per pound upon unstemmed leaf for cigar wrappers, will be $16,305,925, instead of $9,754,069 as shown by the tables, and we are confident that an analysis of the importations of that article for a series of years past will sustain our position.

DELUSIVE PROMISES OF THE BILL.

We do not mean to assert that the bill actually increases the customs revenue $65,000,000 over what it is under existing law, but that it proposes to impose upon the articles it leaves upon the dutiable list, except sugar and molasses, that sum in excess of the amount collected on the same schedules last year. It places upon the free list articles which yielded a revenue of $6,039,969 during the last fiscal year, and it makes a reduction of $54,922,110.56 on sugar and molasses, and these two sums, amounting to $60,962,079, being deducted from the $65,000,000, leaves a net increase of over $4,000,000 in tariff taxation under this bill.

In our opinion the exercise of a just discrimination in the selection of the subjects of taxation and in fixing the rates of duty to be imposed upon each would enable the Government to realize from this source of revenue ample means for its own support, and at the same time greatly improve the present condition and prospects of all our citizens who have invested their means or embarked their labor in manufacturing, mining, agriculture and commerce.

While we would gladly co-operate with the majority in the passage of any measure which would relieve the people from unnecessary taxation, promote the prosperity of our various industries, and secure ample wages and steady employment to the laborers engaged in them, we feel constrained to make an earnest protest against this bill, because, in our opinion, it will not accomplish any of those desirable results.

Messrs. Carlisle, Mills, McMillin, Breckinridge and Flower signed the minority report.

VIGOROUS PROTESTS.

Importers of Hosiery and Dealers in Sporting Goods Object to Higher Taxes.

[New York special.]

All the principal New York importers of hosiery met to-day and signed the protest already signed by all the leading hosiery importers of Philadelphia, Boston and Milwaukee against the proposed change by the McKinley bill of the duties upon cotton hosiery and underwear.

[Leavenworth (Kan.) special.]

The local gunsmiths and sporting goods dealers are in receipt of a communication from New York gun manufacturers urging them to write at once to the Kansas Representatives and Senators at Washington protesting against the proposed new tariff bill, which increases the duties from 35 to 80 and 100 per cent on breechloading guns. If the new tariff on guns takes effect the result will be to cut the business of the sporting goods men in half in this particular line.

Deluding the Farmers.

[From the Chicago Tribune, Republican.]

Western Congressmen who are supporting the McKinley bill, which proposes to raise the taxes on nearly all the necessaries of life, seem to think the farmers will be satisfied with the idea that they are being "taken in on the ground floor" in the new tariff deal, and will be enabled hereafter to extort artificial prices from their town customers just as the ultra protected manufacturing bosses have long done with their victims. Farmers will not be able, however, to see that they can be benefited by establishing non-intercourse with other nations. For this reason it will hurt American farmers as much as the Canadians to cut off trade with Canada. If the United States bars out Canadian barley Canada will certainly forbid the importation of American beef, pork, and corn, and Congress will find it has been cutting off the nose to spite the face. For every Canadian who is injured by this prohibition policy an American will have to suffer as much. Duties on agricultural products may drive Canadian farmers out of the Eastern markets and deprive this country of their purchases, which always equal their sales, but no one has explained how such levies can add a particle to the price of products which are produced in the West in excess of home needs.

Why Domestic Linen Is Impossible.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

The McKinley tariff bill doubles the duties on fine linen goods and on cheaper goods raises them to 50 per cent. ad valorem and 3 cents a pound. To sugarcoat this bitter pill to the farmer the duty on flax fiber is largely increased. If there is a human being who imagines that this doubling of duties or one still larger will add to the quantity of linen made or flax grown in this country he is doomed to disappointment. Ever since 1720, when the Scotch-Irish first came to America, the manufacture of linen has been faithfully and unsuccessfully tried by them and their descendants. Coming from a land notable for fine flax and its linen industries, the Scotch-Irish tried, wherever they settled in this country, to do what they had done so successfully at "home." They stuck to it patiently till cotton fabrics were cheapened, and then gave it up utterly.

Millions of dollars have been sunk in the attempt to manufacture linen in this country, and capital has learned its lesson.

Therefore it is madness to talk of increasing the linen duties. As this is one of those cases where protection cannot protect it would be wise to take them off altogether and let the American consumers enjoy the full benefit of climates which are specially adapted for the growing of flax and the manufacture of linen.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY IN RHODE ISLAND.

The Elections in Providence Result in a Sweeping Defeat of Republicans.

The election in Rhode Island on the 12th inst. resulted in the naming of a Democratic Senator and seven Democratic Representatives. The Republicans elected one Representative. The incoming Legislature now stands: Fifty-seven Democrats, fifty Republicans. This insures the election by at least two majority in the grand committee of the Democratic State ticket, as follows:

Governor—John W. Davis, of Pawtucket.

Lieutenant Governor—William T. C. Wardwell, of Bristol.

Secretary of State—Edwin D. McGuinness, of Providence.

Attorney General—Ziba O. Slocum, of Gloucester.

Treasurer—John G. Perry, of South Kingston.

Election day was a half-holiday, and pleasant weather brought out the full Democratic vote. The Republicans also polled a larger vote than at the regular election, but could not overcome the increased vote of their rivals. The election of Governor Davis and his colleagues will take place in the May session of the General Assembly at Newport. The Australian ballot system worked smoothly, very few voters requiring instruction and all having ample time to prepare their votes.

[From the Chicago Herald.]

If the news telegraphed from Providence, R. I., that the Democrats have triumphed in the "bye" elections in that city and thereby secure the Legislature and the State officers should prove true, it will be regarded as a political event of great interest and considerable importance to the Democratic party.

For the last twenty years the Democrats of Connecticut and Rhode Island have been practically disfranchised. The election laws of those States require that where no candidate for a State office receives a majority of all the votes cast the office shall be filled by the Legislature; and, as these States have been very ably gerrymandered, the Legislatures have almost always been Republican. The Democrats have generally had very little difficulty in electing their candidates by a plurality vote, but only to see it set aside by the election in the Legislatures. If this state of things existed in South Carolina or Mississippi it would be shown up in every Republican newspaper in the North, and John J. Ingalls would make it the subject of numerous vitriolic tirades in the Senate. But, being in the North and to the advantage of the Republican party, it occasions no comment. It makes all the difference in the world whose ox is gored.

If little Rhody is really to be treated to a Democratic outfit, we congratulate her. We predict that she will be so pleased with it that she will never try Republican officials again, and never need a "bye" election to snow the Republicans under. It is to be hoped that some change may be wrought in the laws of the State before another election that will insure this result.

GIVE CREDIT WHERE IT IS DUE.

Congressman Frank Lawler's Work in the World's Fair Fight.

It is worthy of note that while horns were blown in all quarters after the final vote was taken which decided the battle, this man and that man claiming to have performed prodigies of valor, and this person and that person insisting that if it had not been for him and them Chicago would have been walloped out of her boots by New York and the learned Dr. Depew, the modest persons, which kidney, it is true, is greatly in the minority, made no sign and held their peace.

It is due to Congressman Frank Lawler to say that, although he makes no claim to have done more than yeoman duty, nevertheless, through intelligent and well-directed efforts, he accomplished greater results than all the outside promoters and their allies toward insuring the victory for Chicago. His proselyting work on the floor of the House was simply magnificent in its many successes. Quite an array of the members who were counted as either opposed, doubtful or indifferent were wheeled into line through Mr. Lawler's persuasion and pressure.

He labored night and day in the missionary vineyard, and on the day the vote was taken in the House seemed to cover the whole floor, apparently ubiquitous. Even the New York members congratulated him and complimented the masterly manner in which Mr. Lawler had captured some of New York's supposed adherents.—Kansas City Times.

A WESTERN man has discovered a process for making whisky out of beans.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderful valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhoea,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every-one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every-one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

GOSSIPY LETTER FROM OUR WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT.

Proposed Rule Limiting the Time of Senators in Debate—Growing Sentiment in Favor of Government Control of the Telegraph Service—Threatened Indian Outbreak in Montana.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON, April 21, 1890.

Perhaps the death of no statesman has so stirred the heart of the Washington public as the demise of Hon. Samuel J. Randall, after a continued service in the House of Representatives for thirty years. He was the most conspicuous figure on the floors of Congress for more than twenty years, and was the acknowledged leader of his party upon the floor. It is said of him that he was a man of most wonderful self-control and iron will. This was displayed to a large degree during the last Congress, when almost his solid party was arrayed against him on the tariff question, and notwithstanding the gigantic efforts of the whole administration to bring him over. Only future history will tell the almost superhuman struggles Mr. Randall endured during this period, and of the disappointments brought upon him by his own party administration, unwilling as it was to heap them upon him. His judgment upon all questions was only formed after mature deliberation, and a position once taken no power on earth could change. Representative Roger Q. Mills, one of the strongest opponents in the last Congress of Randall's tariff ideas, thus feelingly and earnestly speaks of the deceased statesman: "Of unimpeachable integrity and a natural born leader. He had more of the elements of leadership than any man I ever came in contact with. Nothing but his views on the tariff could have prevented him from being the leader of the Democratic party. If it had not been for that he would have been nominated for President in 1876, and," said Mr. Mills, with emphasis, "he would have been elected and seated, for he would have asserted his rights. But when he believed his opinions were right he would never change them, no matter what might happen. When our tariff bill was up I pleaded with him, urged and begged him to make some concessions and compromise, but he believed he was right and could not be moved. When his whole party, except Sowden and one or two others, came over he still held out and would not move. That was the only thing in which we differed."

* * *

Unless the House of Representatives concludes to disagree with the action of the Senate, the great National Museum building will be doubled in size, a bill appropriating $500,000 for that purpose having passed the latter body. This addition gives fifteen more exhibition halls and an available floor space of 200,000 square feet. The lack of room at the present time is a serious drawback to one of the grandest institutions of the kind in the world. No visitor leaves Washington without seeing the magnificent collection here. It contains object lessons in natural history dating backward for a thousand years, and once seen is never forgotten.

* * *

There is a disposition rapidly growing in the Senate to change the rules governing debates. There are two reasons why such a proposition will find favor in the eyes of the Senators themselves and the country at large. The proposed change is to limit the time allowed for debate on each question. As it now is discussions, sometimes on trivial questions, run on for days. Beyond this, these discussions are confined to half a dozen Senators on each side of the chamber. There seems to be a recognition or assent to the saying that a Senator is to "say nothing, but saw wood," until he has served two or more terms. But few men have had the daring to break this rule. Indeed, Turpie, of Indiana, and Spooner, of Wisconsin, are the only ones I can call to mind who have had the audacity to trample on this precedent with impunity and afterward maintain their position. So that a rule limiting the time of debate on all questions will be hailed with delight by the younger branch of Senators, and they are by far in the majority.

* * *

A prominent man in public life who is making remarkably little noise this session is Allison, of Iowa. Many of his friends and a good many who are not particularly friendly to him are wondering what is keeping him so quiet. But this reminds me that there is a saying in Washington that you can't tell very much what Allison is doing by what he says about it. He is one of the closest but most effective workers in Congress. Some years ago an important piece of legislation came up before the Senate which Ingalls had determined to oppose. The measure passed and then it came to light that Allison had engineered the whole thing through. Frank G. Carpenter, an old newspaper correspondent, in an interview with Ingalls asked him what he thought of Allison. "He's the slickest man in the Senate," replied Ingalls; "you could put his two hundred pounds into hob-nailed clogs and drive at a ten-mile pace over a corduroy road and he wouldn't make as much noise as a tomcat slipping across a Turkish carpet after a canary bird."

* * *

The proposition of Mr. Wanamaker to have the Government take charge of the telegraph service of the country is securing the unqualified indorsement of hundreds of labor organizations throughout the country as well as an immense number of country newspapers. The Postmaster General's personal mail is a sight to look at, being larger than any of the other Cabinet offices. He keeps a clerk for no other purpose than to open and dispose of letters and newspapers containing matter relating to the Government telegraph system. Without attempting to discuss the feasibility of Mr. Wanamaker's plan, it is at all events seemingly a most popular one.

* * *

Representative Mudd, the successful contestant in the case of Mudd vs. Compton for a seat in Congress from a Maryland district, is already becoming initiated into the trials and tribulations of his new position. A coppersmith from Mudd's district, recently discharged from the Navy Department, appealed to him for reinstatement. Receiving a discouraging reply he began to abuse the member most unmercifully. Mudd "hauled off," as it were, and struck at him, but the blow fell short, when they both clinched, and for a few minutes had a razzle-dazzle, rough and tumble sort of a time. The amusement was interrupted by the Capitol police.

* * *

Several prominent Congressmen who have been sending out printed copies of speeches are much troubled over various and sundry squibs, appearing in opposition papers, intimating that the speeches were never delivered, but simply ordered printed. A few years ago it was the custom of a member to rise in his seat and state that he had a few remarks which he desired printed in the record, and it was so ordered. This practice was so absurd that during the Forty-ninth Congress the rule was abrogated, and now nothing can go into the record that is not publicly proclaimed in open session. Therefore the statement that speeches are printed and sent out without being delivered is calculated to deceive the dear constituent.

* * *

Notwithstanding that Washington City is over one hundred years old and has almost two hundred thousand inhabitants, her first experience in the way of cable street-cars dates from last week. During the first day over 16,000 people were carried up and down Seventh street, and the pavements on both sides were crowded with as many thousands more all the afternoon. The cable-cars proved as much of a curiosity as a circus in a Nebraska village.

* * *

The salary and allowance division of the Postoffice Department is now engaged in the readjustment of the salaries of Postmasters throughout the country for the coming year. These salaries are enlarged or reduced according to the increase or diminution of the receipts of the office for the fiscal year. Examinations thus far made indicate an increase in an astonishingly large per cent. of the offices, especially in the Western States.

* * *

The celebrated Neagle habeas corpus case from California has been finally disposed of by the United States Supreme Court. The judgment of the Circuit Court holding that the killing of Judge Terry by Marshal Neagle was performed while in the line of duty, and that therefore he could not be held punishable for the act, was affirmed. The case was vigorously contested by the ablest counsel on both sides. A lengthy opinion was rendered by Justice Miller.

* * *

The District of Columbia enjoys the undisputed possession of about seventy-five thousand colored people. On Wednesday last at least half of this number dressed up in their best suit of clothes and joined in a grand parade and celebration in honor of Emancipation Day. The gaudy uniforms of colored militia and numberless brass bands had entire possession of the city. Indeed, white faces on Pennsylvania avenue from sunrise to sunset on the great negro holiday were few and far between.

* * *

The War Department has been notified that war is likely to break out at any time between the Cheyenne Indians in Montana and the settlers. The agent has telegraphed the Secretary that there is great danger of a bloody outbreak, and calls for troops to aid in suppressing it. Secretary Proctor announces that the policy of his department shall be so rigid toward outbreaking tribes of Indians that he hopes to put an end to Indian wars forever, but, at the same time, he will accord full protection in all their rights.

* * *

The House Committee on Printing has authorized a favorable report on a resolution to publish 10,000 copies of a compilation of the inaugural addresses of the Presidents of the United States from George Washington to Benjamin Harrison, inclusive, for the first century of Presidential inaugurations, with authenticated incidents connected therewith, biographical sketches of the Presidents from official sources, together with steel plate portraits of the Presidents, steel-plate illustrations of the Capitol and White House. This book will be a handsome addition to any library.

* * *

The Senate Republican caucus committee, after a long and heated discussion reached the following conclusions on the silver question;

1. That the Secretary of the Treasury shall buy 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion monthly and issue notes in payment for the same, the notes to be redeemable in bullion or lawful money.
2. That national banks shall be allowed to issue notes to the full par value of the bonds deposited to secure their redemption which would add 10 per cent. to the national bank currency.
3. That the hundred millions retained in the Treasury for the redemption of treasury notes be put into circulation.

A similar House committee also met and agreed upon a policy not very different from the above. A long and exciting debate is expected to occur as soon as this subject is brought up for action in Congress.

JAS. C. MOODY.

Britain's Great Gun Foundry.

Years ago, before Woolwich was known, the great royal armory used to be in Moorfields, and here were manufactured the great guns with which Britain terrorized her foes. One day a modest-looking young man was visiting the place. He saw a large red-hot mold being prepared for some process or other, and he asked what it was for. Upon being told that a cannon was about to be cast therein, he said: "That is an impossibility; if you attempt it an explosion will follow." He was laughed at, and the workmen proceeded with their labor. But no sooner was the work of casting begun than the mold exploded with terrific violence and several men were killed.

The catastrophe created a prodigious stir, of course. Recalling the words of warning uttered by the stranger, the identity of the young man was sought and discovered; he had made a study of gun manufacturing, and to those interrogating him he evinced a thorough knowledge of the art. The result of the matter was that this young man was employed by the Government and subsequently rose to the superintendency of the works, which were eventually moved to Woolwich.

One day, a hundred years ago, a benevolent-looking man, clad like a farmer, meandered into the manufactory. The men were taking their noon. "My lads," asked the stranger, "what are you doing?" "We're doing nothing now," answered the men, "but presently we shall be eating our dinner of bacon and beans." "Good!" exclaimed the stranger. "And if you have no objection I will eat bacon and beans with you."

The farmer-like stranger was his Majesty George III., and ever since that day, in commemoration of that event, the second Saturday in July is celebrated at the arsenal. There is given what is called the "bean-feast," and folk gather from all over the kingdom to participate therein.—London Letter.

A Change of Venue.

The Duluth (Minn.) Herald reports a laughable incident as occurring in a justice's court in the backwoods of that section. Court was held in a lumberman's shack, in the bunks of which a number of woodsmen were reposing, interested spectators of the proceedings. The Judge was a young man of mild aspect, with red hair and mustache, who nervously arranged matters for the trial. There were no attorneys, both plaintiff and defendant acting for themselves. After a painful silence the defendant arose. He was minus coat and vest, being attired in a gayly fringed and ornamented buckskin shirt and striped flannel pants. Said he:

"Yer Honor, I want a change of veenyou in this hyar case." "Why?" blandly inquired the Judge. "Well," was the blunt reply, "the Jedge in the other place is, I c'sider, a leetle better posted on law than ye be." This was hitting the Judge in a tender spot. His breath came hard for a few minutes, but maintaining his dignity with great effort he gave the defendant to understand that his reason was not sufficient. "Well, then, I b'lieve you're prejudiced agin me," said he of the buckskin garment, "and I demand my rights as an American citizen. I want a show in this case and I know I can't get it in this here court." This settled the matter. The Court granted the change of venue, and the defendant signalized this success by inviting the whole courthouse out to take a "snifter."

THOSE fellows who dote on their girls sometimes find matrimony a powerful antidote.

THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS AND WHAT THEY ARE DOING.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted On—Gist of the Business.

AMONG the petitions presented in the Senate on the 15th inst. and referred was one by Mr. Dawes, from the Boston Executive Business Association, for the privilege of purchasing ships abroad for ten years. The Montana election case was taken up and Mr. Morgan and Mr. Daniel addressed the Senate. After Mr. Morgan had concluded the Senate adjourned. In the House after the reading of the journal Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, called up the naval appropriation bill, the pending question being upon the amendment adopted in committee of the whole, striking out the clause providing for the construction of three coast-line battle-ships. The action of the committee was rejected—yeas, 104; nays, 132. Mr. Holman, of Indiana, moved to recommit the bill, with instructions to the Committee on Naval Affairs to report it back with an amendment providing for one battle-ship. Lost. Yeas, 103; nays, 128. The bill was then passed. The House spent the afternoon in consideration of the bill to establish Appellate Courts in the various circuits over which Circuit Judges now preside and passed the bill before adjournment. The bill met with much opposition from the Democratic side, but was passed without amendments. It provides that the President shall appoint, with the advice and consent of the Senate, two additional Judges in each circuit to sit with the present Circuit Judges and consider cases appealed from district and State courts. These courts are to have exclusive and final jurisdiction in all cases except those involving constitutional questions or questions arising under the laws of the United States, or cases where two judges shall certify to the Supreme Court that the case involves questions of such difficulty or importance as to require a decision by the Supreme Court. The terms of these courts are to be held annually in the various circuits, the cities selected being as follows: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, New Orleans, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, and San Francisco, and such other places in each of the circuits as the Supreme Court may designate. This bill, it is believed, will greatly relieve the Supreme Court, which is now over three years behind in its work.

IN the Senate, on the 16th inst., bills were passed authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at some accessible point between the mouth of the Illinois and the mouth of the Missouri River, and the House bill granting to the Palouse and Spokane Railway a right of way through the Nez Perces Indian Reservation in Idaho. The Senate took up Senator Hale's Chinese census bill. After a lengthy discussion with reference to amendments, on motion of Senator Stewart the bill was laid upon the table. The Senate then took up and discussed calendar business until 5 o'clock, the hour at which it was agreed a final vote upon the Montana election case should be taken. Senator Butler introduced a resolution that the majority and minority reports be both recommitted to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. The resolution was defeated by a vote of 38 to 19, Senators George, Barbour, Kenna, Gibson and Walthall voting with the Republicans. The vote was then taken upon the resolution declaring Messrs. Power and Sanders duly elected members of the United States Senate, the result being a strict party vote, 32 to 26 in its favor, and at 5:40 p. m. Senator Power, escorted by Senator Washburn, and Senator Sanders, escorted by Senator Hoar, were duly sworn in by the Vice President. After an executive session of about ten minutes the Senate adjourned. In the House, Mr. McKinley (Ohio), from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported the tariff bill, and it was ordered printed and referred to the committee of the whole. Mr. Carlisle (Ky.) presented the views of the minority, and Mr. McKenna (Cal.) presented his individual views. Ordered printed. The House then went into committee of the whole, Mr. Payson (Ill.) in the chair, on the military academy appropriation bill. After a short time occupied in its consideration the committee rose and the bill was passed. Mr. Bergen (N. J.), from the Committee on Elections, called up the contested-election case of Posey vs. Parrett, from the First Indiana District. The committee reported unanimously in favor of the sitting member and the report was adopted. Mr. Rowell (Ill.) called the contested-election case of Bowen vs. Buchanan, from the Ninth District of Virginia. The resolution, which confirms the right of the sitting member, was adopted. The House then adjourned.

IN the Senate, on the 17th inst., Messrs. Sanders and Powers, the Montana Senators, drew lots to decide upon their terms of office. Senator Sanders drew the short term, which expires March 3, 1893, and Senator Powers the long term, which expires March 3, 1895. The Senate spent most of the day in discussing the bill for the appointment of thirty additional medical examiners for the Pension Bureau, and adjourned without action. Bills making appropriations for public buildings were taken from the Senate calendar and passed as follows: Mansfield, Ohio, $100,000; Hot Springs (reservation), Ark., $50,000 (Senate bill); Mankato, Minn., $150,000 (Senate bill); Dallas, Texas (additional), $200,000 (House bill); Kansas City, Kan., $200,000 (Senate bill). Also a Senate bill appropriating $200,000 for the improvement of the military reservation known as Fort Walla Walla, in the State of Washington. Also a House bill for the appointment and retirement of John C. Fremont as Major General in the United States army. After the reading of the House journal, Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, arose and said that it was seemly and proper and a just tribute of respect to the memory of the distinguished man whose funeral took place that day that the House adjourn. A motion to that effect was immediately adopted.

IN the Senate, on the 18th inst., after an executive session, Senator Hawley called up the World's Fair bill, consideration of which was fixed for the following Monday. A bill was rushed through prior to adjournment providing for terms and places of holding United States District Courts in Minnesota. During the executive session the Senate concluded the investigation instituted for the purpose of finding out how newspaper correspondents managed to obtain their information about the proceedings of executive sessions. The investigation was a total failure, and correspondents who have been technically held as witnesses have been discharged. In the House, after routine business, the Southern war-claims bill was taken up, and its consideration occupied the entire afternoon. When the session closed the bill had been left in the hands of the committee of the whole as unfinished business on Friday, 25th—private bill day. The House Committee on Postoffice reported the bill authorizing the construction of postoffice buildings in all cities where the net receipts of postoffice are $3,000 per year and county seats where they are $2,500 per year. The bill appropriates $2,000,000 for beginning this work, but it is estimated that to carry out the programme will cost $30,000,000.

In "A Minor" Key.

Money talks, but ex-change doesn't.

The best life preserver—Temperance.

Something to handle—A musical crank.

The professional sportsman has a distinct aim in life.

"Spring suits are cut by-us," as the tailor remarked.

"Brush light," murmurs the inventor of it to the barber's boy.

When the case is urgent it is a nigh and near doctor that you want.

Much charity that begins at home is too feeble to get out of doors.

Two flats often make a scene on an elevated car, as well as in a theater.

Since electricity supercedes hanging, criminals will not be so high strung.

One is a tea-pot and the other a settee. Arrange the conundrum to suit yourself.

It is commendable in a fast horse to lower his record, but we hate to see a man do it.

The ancient Egyptians honored a cat when dead. They knew when a cat most deserved it.

A man who was a good deal of a fool when he was a boy, generally shows his age very little.

When lovers hang over the gate there is a good deal to be said on both sides before they quit.

An ex-prize-fighter who teaches pugilism in New York, calls his establishment a school of decorative art.

When the devil wants to train up a young man in the way he desires him to go, he employs Idleness to boss the job.

A Mobile paper made a mistake the other day, and printed a list of coming weddings under the head of "Sugar Crop."

"Give me another horse!" cried Richard III. hoarsely, and a boy in the gallery wanted to know if one hoarse wasn't enough.

"Poor fellow," said one Chicago detective of another, whose funeral he attended, "he tried hard enough, but he never turned up anything but his toes."

"How do you like the 'business' in my play?" a poor star asked of the manager. "I like the business in your play better than I do the business in the house," was the reply.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

As Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine; it is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co.

☞ Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.

At a Boarding-House.

Scientific Boarder—There are no nerves of taste in the roof of the mouth. If we wish to get the full taste of—of bread and syrup, for instance, we must put it in the mouth with the sweet side down.

Practical Boarder—Ah! I suppose that is why we all eat this bread and butter with the buttered side up.—New York Weekly.

The Only Guaranteed Cure

for all blood taints and humors, pimples, blotches, eruptions and skin diseases of every name and nature is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. A certificate of guarantee from a responsible business house warrants it to benefit or cure, or money refunded.

CHRONIC Nasal Catarrh positively cured by Dr. Sage's Remedy. 50 cents, by druggists.

A Fair Proposition.

Customer—This is the cough mixture for my grandmother?

Drug Clerk—Yes, and it costs 40 cents. As you have only paid thirty please hand over 10 cents more.

Customer—I have got it, but I'll tell you what we can do; just you take a couple of swallows and then there will only be thirty cents' worth in the bottle.—Texas Siftings.

Cheap Excursions to Attalla, Alabama.

The Monon Route will on April 26th, 27th, 28th, and 29th, sell tickets at reduced rates to Attalla, Ala., and return, for the Great Land Sale April 28th, 29th, and 30th, tickets good until May 10th, with privilege of stopping over at Chattanooga and Lookout Mountain returning. Don't miss the opportunity to visit the New South.

Express trains daily to Cincinnati, connecting with the Queen and Crescent route. Attalla is the Natural Eastern gateway of the great future iron manufacturing district of North Alabama, in the center of the rich, soft red and brown ore belt, with coal and limestone in easy reach, has four (4) railroads, fine water power, three (3) furnaces, car works, cotton compress, oil well and planing mills.

But three years ago a village of four hundred, now a thriving city of 2,000. The sale is under the auspices of Attalla Iron and Steel Company and consists of choice manufacturing business and residence lots within the corporation limits of the city and adjoins the vast coal and iron fields.

SOME one wants to know how to deaden the sound of a piano. One good plan would be to kill the player.—Boston Post.

A Boon to Wives.

Having used "Mother's Friend," I would not be without it. It is a boon to wives who know they must pass through the painful ordeal of childbirth. Mrs. C. Melbourne, Iowa. Write the Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga., further particulars. Sold by all druggists.

WHAT'S in a name? About the hottest country on the globe is Chili.—San Francisco Post.

Six Novels Free, will be sent by Cragin & Co., Philada., Pa., to any one in the U. S. or Canada, postage paid, upon receipt of 25 Dobbins' Electric Soap wrappers. See list of novels on circulars around each bar. Soap for sale by all grocers.

THE man in Germany who has made and sold 3,000,000 thermometers ought to believe in weather profits.—Texas Siftings.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

HOW TO raise mustaches—stir up the ash-barrel on a windy day and the mussed-ashes are sure to come out.—Texas Siftings.

To Those Interested.

HASTINGS, Mich., April 22, 1889.

Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich:

GENTS—This is to certify that I had been troubled with rheumatism in all its forms for the past twelve years, and was confined to my bed at various periods from three to six months at a time, and I could get about only by the aid of crutches. I employed several first-class physicians of this city, none of whom effected a cure or gave temporary relief even.

About two years ago I was induced to try Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, and, after taking a few bottles I experienced relief, and now consider myself cured. I unhesitatingly recommend this medicine for rheumatism. I know what it has done for me, what physicians could not do, i. e., cured me of rheumatism.

MRS. M. J. KENFIELD.

Ask your druggist for it.
I certify to the above statement.

FRED L. HEATH, Druggist.

A Distant Acquaintance.

A.—Jones did not recognise you when he passed just now.

B.—Well, you see his eyesight is bad. I never heard that before.

Yes, he has become cold and indifferent since his eyesight was affected by a draft.

Yes, it was a sight draft. I drew it on him for some money he has been owing me for a long time. He never sees me now no matter how close I may be to him.—Texas Siftings.

[From the St. Louis Bulletin.]

ST. LOUIS, MO., Feb. 26, 1887.

Dr. A. Owen is the most successful inventor and manufacturer in the country of electrical appliances for the cure of acute, chronic, and nervous diseases. They have received the unqualified indorsement of physicians of high standing, as well as thousands of sufferers who have been cured by them. The following indorsement, for instance, is absolutely convincing, and the writer is professor of the theory and practice of medicine in the American College of St. Louis:

ST. LOUIS, MO., June 10, 1886.

I take pleasure in stating that I have examined and tested Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belt and Appliance, and do not hesitate to say that it is the most practical and efficient of all the galvanic belts I have used in my practice. It is a very useful device, and whenever electric belts or shields can be of any benefit, this will more than take the place of anything of the kind I have ever seen.

GEORGE C. PITZER, M. D.,

Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in the American College, St. Louis; Clinical Lecturer at the City Hospital, St. Louis; Editor of the American Medical Journal; Author of "Electricity in Medicine and Surgery," and Author of "Direct Medication." See their advt. in this paper.

An Imposition.

Attendant (in art gallery)—You must leave your umbrella at the door, sir.

Mr. Greene—Leave my umbrella here? Young man, I'd think, bein' as you're hired by a art gallery you might have more sense about art. If I don't have my umbrella how'm I goin' to point out the beauties of the picturs to my darters?—New York Weekly.

"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are widely known as an admirable remedy for Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Coughs, and Throat troubles. Sold only in boxes.

'TIS a poor dress that won't turn both ways.—Carl Pretzel.

A Family Gathering.

Have you a father? Have you a mother? Have you a son or daughter, sister or a brother who has not yet taken Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the guaranteed remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup and all Throat and Lung troubles? If so, why, when a sample bottle is gladly given to you free by any druggist, and the large size costs only 50c and $1.00?

NO MATTER how fond a man may be of gambling, when he loses his money it is a sort of ante-dote.

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

A SPRING bonnet springs right off to church.—Pretzel's Weekly.

Ask your dealer for "Tansill's Punch."

MADE of awl work—a pair of shoes.—Oil City Derrick.

Peculiar to Itself

That Hood's Sarsaparilla does possess curative power Peculiar to Itself is conclusively shown by the wonderful cures it has effected, unsurpassed in the history of medicine. This absolute merit it possesses by reason of the fact that it is prepared by a Combination, Proportion and Process Peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, known to no other medicine, and by which the full medicinal power of all the ingredients used is retained. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Juniper Berries and other well known vegetable remedies. It has won its way to the leading place among medicines by its own intrinsic, undisputed merit, and has now a larger sale than any other similar preparation in the country. If you have never taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fair trial will convince you of its excellence and merits. Take it this season.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have for a long time been using Hood's Sarsaparilla, and believe me, I would not be without it. As a spring medicine it is invaluable." E. A. RHODES, 130 Ontario Street, Chicago, Ill.

"I feel very much indebted to Hood's Sarsaparilla for I believe it is to the use of this medicine that I owe my present health. In the spring I got so completely run down that I could not eat or sleep, and all the dreaded diseases of life seemed to have a mortgage on my system. I was obliged to abandon my work, and after seeking medical treatment and spending over $50 for different preparations, I found myself no better. Then my wife persuaded me to try a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before the first bottle was gone I began to amend. I have now used two bottles and have gained 22 pounds. Can eat anything without it hurting me; my dyspepsia and biliousness have gone. I never felt better in my life, am at work again and consider myself a well man. Those two bottles were worth $100 to me." W. V. EULOWS, Lincoln, Ill.

The Spring Medicine

"Hood's Sarsaparilla purified my blood, gave me strength, and overcame the headache and dizziness, so that now I am able to work again." LUTHER NASON, 53 Church St., Lowell, Mass.

N. B. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

7 NEW MUSIC BOOKS. 7

CLASSIC FOUR-HAND COLLECTION ($1.) Nineteen superior Duets for Piano, by Godard, Bohm, Hoffman, Brahms, and other first-class composers.

YOUNG PLAYERS' POPULAR COLLECTION ($1.00.) 51 of the very best, and very easiest pieces for beginners, filling 143 pages. Heartily commended to Piano Teachers as the first book of pieces (or recreations) to use.

WHITNEY'S ORGAN ALBUM ($2.) 33 good pieces for Manual and Pedal, by 20 good composers.

OPERATIC PIANO COLLECTION ($1.) 19 of the best operas are represented, and their melodies form the themes for as many pieces, by the best modern composers, furnishing the very best entertainment for the lovers of favorite operatic airs.

CHOICE SACRED SOLOS For Soprano, Mezzo Soprano or Tenor. ($1.) 35 of the most lovely sacred songs, suitable for solos in church or for enjoyment at home.

PIANO CLASSICS Vol. 2. ($1.) Contains 31 pieces of medium difficulty, and of the best quality.

POPULAR DANCE MUSIC COLLECTION ($1.) Is as bright and merry as a book can be, and is quite full of the best new Dance Music.

Any book mailed promptly for retail price.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY,

BOSTON, MASS.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC BELT AND SUSPENSORY.

PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887, IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY will cure All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES, PRICE, $1 PER PAIR. Also an Electric Truss and Belt Combined. Send 6c. postage for free illust'd book, 224 pages, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper. Address OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO., 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO. 826 Broadway, NEW YORK CITY.

COPYRIGHT 1889

A CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

"You certainly are mistaken," said one young man to another at an evening party, "but that cannot be the young lady I met last winter, though the name is the same. Judge for yourself. This girl has a glorious complexion, while the other young lady—Good heavens, what a skin she had! Covered with blotches and red-headed pimples; it was like a nutmeg grater. Oh no, this cannot be the young lady." But it was, though, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery had worked the miracle. As a remedy for pimples, blotches, eruptions and all Skin and Scalp diseases, it is the most wonderful medicine extant. Of all the many blood-purifiers and remedies for skin diseases, "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only one guaranteed to do all that's claimed for it, or money promptly refunded! Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Salt-rheum, Tetter, Erysipelas, Eczema, Boils, and Carbuncles. In all Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, "Fever-sores," "Hip-joint Disease" and all impurities of the blood, no matter from whatever cause arising, it effects the most marvelous cures. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Manufacturers, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 OFFERED for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head by the proprietors of DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. Only a few of these symptoms likely to be present at once. Dr. Sage's Remedy cures the worst cases. Only 50 cents. Sold by druggists, everywhere.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

25 CTS 25 CTS

Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF

MONT.
DAKOTA
WISCONSIN
NEBRASKA
OMAHA
COUNCIL BLUFFS
OGDEN
SALT LAKE CITY
ILLINOIS
E. St. Louis
Evansville
MISSOURI
JEFFERSON CITY
Trinidad
Santa Fe
Albuquerque
El Paso
Deming
MEXICO
IND. T.
ARK.
Wichita Falls
Ft. Worth
Ft. Smith
GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE.

THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

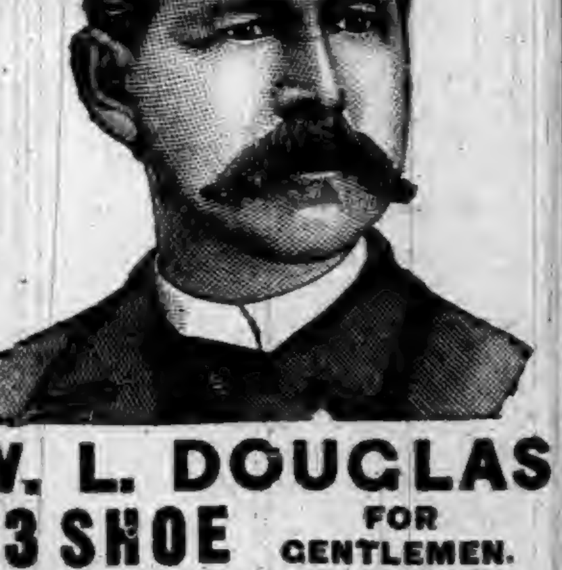
VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager.
CHICAGO, ILL.
JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.



W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

BEST IN THE WORLD.

OTHER SPECIALTIES for GENTLEMEN, LADIES, MISSES and BOYS.

None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom. Sold everywhere.

☞ Send address on postal for valuable information.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

FAT FOLKS using "Anti-Corpulene Pills" lose 15 lbs. a month. They cause no sickness, contain no poison and never fail. Sold by Druggists everywhere or sent by mail. Particulars (sealed) 4c. Dr. Wilcox's Specific Co., Phila., Pa.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

N. U., F. W.............................No. 17—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

SILK DEPARTMENT.

We have received from the manufacturers 22-inch

PRINTED CHINA SILKS,

Double faced, heavy, fine, and come in a great variety patterns and colorings. We place them on sale at

50 Cents a Yard.

COLORED SURAH SILKS,

45 to 75 cents a yard.

These can be had in colors and blacks

SPRING WRAPS.

Ladies wanting a garment not being able to visit the department can have them sent by express, on memorandum, stating size and colors wanted. Jackets, Newmarkets, Visites, Shoulder Capes, Fichus, etc.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

Filled with the choicest patterns. Ingrain Carpet, 25 cents up to 75 cents. Brussels Carpets, 50 cents up to $1.00. Several hundred peices each pattern. Moquets, Velvets, Axminsters, Curtains and Draperies.

WASH DRESS FABRICS.

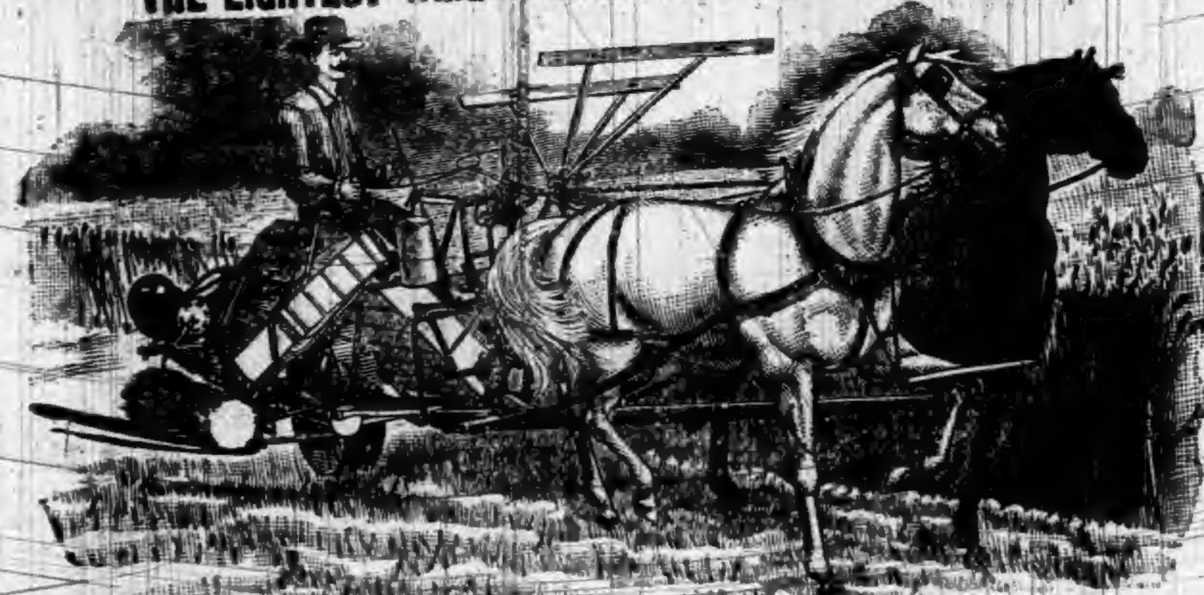
Handsome Dress Ginghams, Lovely Novelties from 12½ cents up to 75 cents per yard. The great width of the finer goods make them desirable.

We invite you to send for samples. Any goods sent not satisfactory can be returned—in this way we protect our customers.

ROOT & COMPANY.

DEERING JUNIOR STEEL BINDER

THE LIGHTEST WEIGHT PRACTICAL BINDER EVER MADE.



It works perfectly on rough, uneven ground; in fall, heavy grain; in light, short grain; in badly lodged grain. Some others do not.

Strongest Frame, Simplest Construction, Lightest Draft, Greatest Durability, Most Easily Managed. GREAT IMPROVEMENTS for 1890 place it further than ever in the lead of pretended rivals.

DEERING LIGHT REAPER,
DEERING GIANT MOWER,
NEW DEERING MOWER, } Each the Leader in its Class.

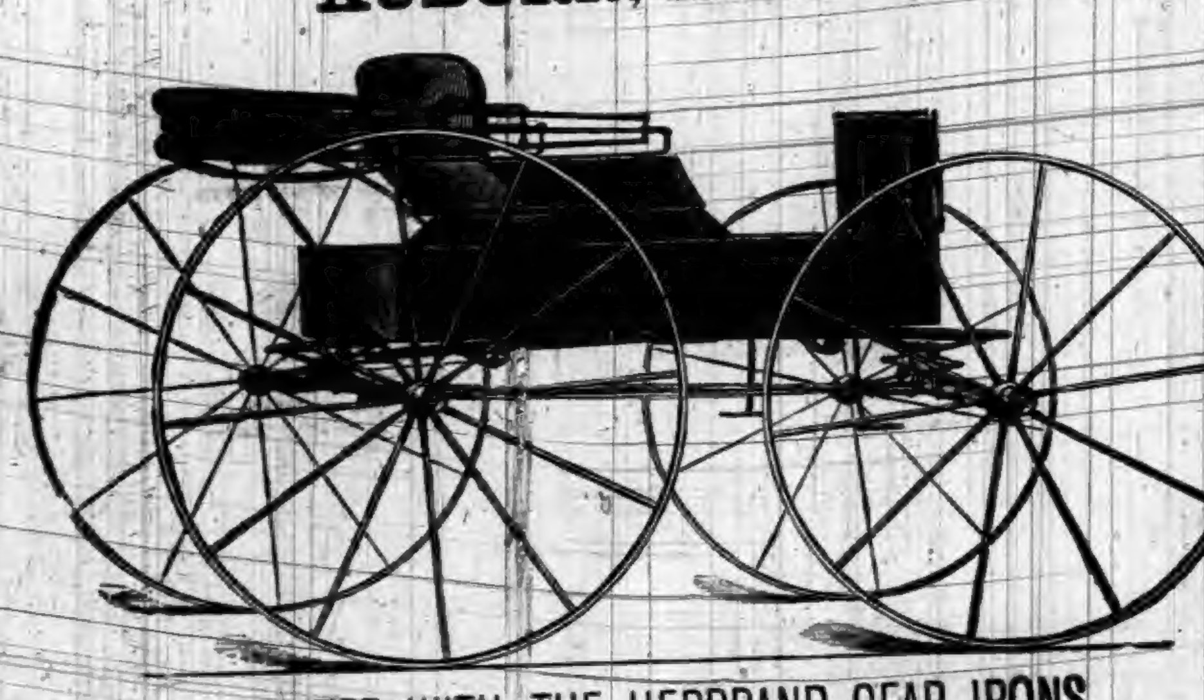
The DEERING BINDER TWINE made by ourselves is the best in the world.

Apply to our nearest agent for Illustrated Catalogue and Full Information or write direct to us.

WM. DEERING & CO., Chicago, Ill.

ECKHART CARRIAGE COMPANY,

AUBURN, INDIANA.



MOUNTED WITH THE HERBRAND GEAR IRONS.

BETTER STYLES, BETTER FACILITIES, BETTER WORK, Better Accommodations.

FOR the past sixteen years we have made and sold to the people of DeKalb County, Buggies and Carriages of all kinds, and have always justified our claim that we POSITIVELY make the BEST in the COUNTRY for the money, until now it has become a common saying that if you want a GOOD BUGGY, one that will stand the knocks,

BUY THE ECKHART BUGGY.

WE have handsomer and more thoroughly made work this year than ever before and expect to be able to furnish our customers, this year, without delay. For the accommodation of our customers we have established the following repositories:

At St. Joe, Ind.,	under the management of				J. K. Stafford.
At Butler, Ind.,	"	"	"	"	Maxwell & Shoub.
At Corunna, Ind.,	"	"	"	"	P. N. Calkin.
At LeOtto, Ind.,	"	"	"	"	E. A. Ditmars.

WHERE we will at all times keep a full line. We will also keep our Repository at our Factory well filled with the styles most in demand.

The Juniors.

The Junior Ex. that had been delayed by the bad weather, was held Friday evening of last week and though the weather was tolerable, there was not as great an audience as usual. But it deserved a full house, for the young people acquitted themselves splendidly. Mr. Harrison and Mr. Coe occupied the front of the tastefully decorated stage, while overhead hung the class motto, "Successus Diligentiam Coronat" which a fortunate, though of course, accidental circumstance enabled the class to display in a manner quite novel. The motto has twenty-seven letters the middle one being the letter "G." Each end of the streamer containing the words, was supported at the right and left of the stage, while in the center, a large stuffed eagle was suspended, and held in its beak, the middle of the streamer, the "G" being at its mouth, with thirteen letters on each side. We should remark right there, that the various classes that have graduated in the Auburn schools, have shown a wonderful ingenuity and originality in the constructing and showing of their mottoes at their exhibitions and commencements. It always constitutes a surprise, and one of the pleasant features of the entertainment. As we often have occasion to say, these purely literary entertainments must be seen and heard, to be fully appreciated. They are always much better than can be told. So was this one Miss Alda Barkley played an excellent selection on the piano, showing how much she is accomplishing in the way of a musical education. The prayer by Mr. Lamport, was brief but full of sensible thoughts. The male quartet, Mr. Scott, Mr. Hanna, Mr. Harper and Mr. Widney, sang "Maid of the Mill." Of course this was fine. Fred Ashley made the first speech in the class exercises, and did well, as did also, Ollie Buss, whose youthful appearance, was not able to lessen the good effect of his oration. Mr. Ashley had "The Alphabet" and Mr. Buss, "Self Made Men." Mrs. Yesbera then sang a piece in her usual excellent manner. Wilson Feagler spoke of "Modern Warfare" in a well prepared and well given oration, and Charles Hague did equally well, in "Invisible Forces" though his subject was rather a difficult one. Gertie Wilson gave a very fine oration, "Superstition," and showed that she had fully studied her subject. The exercises closed with a debate on the question: Resolved, That the church should seek to reclaim the Drama and make it wholesome and useful," Walter Hartman spoke for the affirmative, and Daniel Link for the negation. Both young men acquitted themselves with ability, and the evening's work gave the audience a good opinion of the abilities and possibilities of the class. The closing song by the quartet was "Three Solemn Owls" a most entertaining piece. These gentlemen have proved themselves singers of rare ability. We came near forgetting a little change in the program. The "Little German Band" gave a selection, instead of a duet which had been arranged for Mrs. Yesbera and Miss Hortie Culbertson. Walter Hartman, Frank Davenport, Harry and Ed. Rainier were the performers, and were loudly cheered. In fact, the audience seemed to appreciate fully the good work of the evening for they applauded generously. We had hoped there would be such a good attendance that we might be able to say this week that expenses were all paid, and some money left to add a few books to the school library. But the receipts fell short of expenses and the members of the class will have to make it up.

Obituary.

Ida M. Hall, wife of William Olinger was born in Richland county, Ohio, August 16, 1867, and died at her home in Garrett, Ind., April 16, 1890 at the age of 23 years and 8 months. Mrs. Olinger was a professor of christianity, and died in the faith of her Savior. She was baptized a short time before her death, by Rev. H. M. Lamport of the M. E. church in Auburn. She was married to Mr. Olinger Sept., 5, 1886, and to them were born two children a daughter and a son. The latter now about four months old survives her leaving him and a bereaved husband to mourn the loss of a fond wife and mother. The funeral was held at the Christian Union church north of Garrett, and was conducted by Mr. Lamport. A large concourse of the friends and neighbors followed her to her last resting place.

She has crossed the mystic river;
She is with the angels now;
She has laid aside earth's crosses,
And the crown is on her brow.

She is clothed in clean white linen,
As she walks the streets of gold.
My beloved one is safe forever,
Within the Savior's fold.

Harvesting Machinery from the World's Fair City.

Chicago, April 15, 1890.—Special—A monster freight train drawn by two engines left this city to-day for Minneapolis. The entire train was loaded with Deering Twine Binders and Deering Mowers, from the works of Wm. Deering & Co., this city, said to be the largest manufacturers of harvesting machinery in the world. The train was highly decorated and a brass band in uniform accompanied it. On one car a binder and a mower were shown set up for work. Dispatches from points passed to-day show that enthusiastic crowds greeted the train at all stations, and the trip so far is one grand triumphal procession. It is not unusual for this firm to send solid train loads of machinery all over the country, but this train attracts especial attention.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court. May term 1890. John Byrne, the unknown heirs of John Byrne, deceased, Barbara Byrne, the unknown heirs of Barbara Byrne deceased, William Bricker and the unknown heirs of William Bricker, deceased, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, on complaint to quiet title by Martha E. Mathews, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 25th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 19th, 1890.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 21st day of April 1890. GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.

WILLIAM H. LEAS, Attorney.

TRUSTEES' REPORT.

Report of the Trustees of the Incorporated Town of Auburn, DeKalb Co., Ind., for the fiscal year commencing May 1st, 1889, to April 20th, 1890.

Orders Issued.

No.	To Whom Issued.	In Payment of	Amt. of Order.
1521	D A Sebring	ser special committee	$ 15 00
1522	W H McIntosh	ser aud com	15 00
1523	Jacob Walborn	"	15 00
1524	C C Shaffer	cash advanced	182 70
1525	Shaffer & Berg	wagon	52 50
1526	Jno Treesh	labor	2 37
1527	"	cash overpaid	5 15
1528	C C Shaffer	ser trustee	80 00
1529	S R Heberling	"	80 00
1530	J A Potter	"	80 00
1531	D A Sebring	"	80 00
1532	T G Matheny	"	80 00
1533	Henry Baker	ser night watch	1 00
1534	T P Scott	ser marshal	50 00
1535	Jos W McKay	ser clerk of election	2 00
1536	W H McIntosh	ser election board	2 00
1537	D Z Hoffman	"	2 00
1538	M B Masters	"	2 00
1539	J A Potter	inspector of election	2 00
1540	S Hollister	meals for election board	3 50
1541	J F Aber	ser clerk	37 25
1542	Wm Poorman	oats	14 16
1543	Kuhlman Bros	tile	28 81
1544	C A Picker	ser marshal	26 66
1545	Jos Pfefferel	ser fire team and feed on hand	44 01
1546	E O Boigegrain	ser as stakeman	8 63
1547	W J Wallace	repairing lamps	1 95
1548	Auburn Mining Co	gas for streets	20 00
1549	R O Talbert	stone	6 00
1550	Groscop & Reesch	lumber	3 36
1551	Jno Reesch	care fire bell	1 00
1552	D S Ober	lumber	96 04
1553	Jos Pfefferel	hay and oats	23 27
1554	Fred Funk	lime and cement	9 40
1555	Grogg, Kandel & Co	building material	4 70
1556	Wm Click	ser engin'r and heat'r for eng'n	95 00
1557	Ahrens Mfg Co	rent of engine	400 00
1558	Adam Carper	piling	68 25
1559	H C Shull	gravel	38 70
1560	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1561	J F Aber	ser clerk and tax duplicate	49 60
1562	Adam Hartman	stone	1 35
1563	Jos Pfefferel	feed	13 76
1564	J A Barns	printing	14 05
1565	A M Case	labor on crossings	6 75
1566	Kuhlman Bros	sewer pipe and lumber	22 94
1567	Groscop R & Co	lumber	16 51
1568	Jno Knoder	blacksmithing	2 90
1569	Jno Treesh	labor on crossings	2 36
1570	A M Case	"	7 50
1571	H C Shull	sidewalks	33 25
1572	Jos Pfefferel	feed	30 14
1573	H C Shull	dirt and gravel	41 00
1574	M C Sheets	lumber	4 02
1575	Jno Weaver	gravel	15 30
1576	C H Saylor	blacksmithing	3 30
1577	J S Lotzenheiser	boarding team	1 44
1578	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1579	Jacob Walborn	cement	87 50
1580	D S Ober	lumber	47 52
1581	Henry Baker	ser night watch	6 50
1582	Jno L Davis	gasoline	5 62
1583	Jos Pfefferel	oats	5 86
1584	J F Aber	ser clerk	15 00
1585	Jos Pfefferel	ser teamster on acct	21 86
1586	A C Wilson	cement	2 00
1587	Wm Sheffer	mdse	51 80
1588	Jos Pfefferel	ser teamster	42 66
1589	Geo L Lanning	labor	1 50
1590	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1591	A M Case	labor	1 30
1592	Henry Pickhart	labor	3 75
1593	Lewis & Widney	lumber	3 30
1594	A W Wheelock	stone	63 00
1595	Geo L Lanning	freight advanced	38 68
1596	Stoneware Pipe Co	sewerpipe	97 47
1597	Nathan Sebring	labor on streets	3 00
1598	A Umber	labor on engine	3 75
1599	H E Richey	repair on fire apparatus	5 50
1600	Michael Cyphers	labor on streets	3 00
1601	G W Griswold	"	3 75
1602	John Treesh	"	18 00
1603	Henry Pickhart	"	5 00
1604	Jos Pfefferel	feed	30 60
1605	C E VanAuken	surveying	15 00
1606	Henry Baker	ser night watch	6 50
1607	Auburn Dispatch	printing	3 20
1608	W H Dills	ser attorney	40 00
1609	A F Moody	feed	17 45
1610	W H Kiblinger	hardware	29 87
1611	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1612	"	cash advanced	2 00
1613	Aug Shutt	labor on streets	4 25
1614	Wm Click	ser engineer	45 00
1615	D S Ober	lumber	41 80
1616	Jos Pfefferel	feed	8 36
1617	Jas Blodgett	water	5 50
1618	John Treesh	labor on crossings	1 25
1619	Henry Pickhart	labor on streets	65
1620	A W Griswold	"	65
1621	Christ Sailer	blacksmithing	5 80
1622	Jno Reesh	specl ser f d	75
1623	Jno L Davis	mdse	37 30
1624	D D Moody	ser attorney	25 00
1625	Auburn Church Furniture Co	lumber and labor	11 75
1626	M B Willis	map of town	50
1627	J F Aber	special ser annexation	17 74
1628	A M Case	labor on streets	1 00
1629	H C Shull	gravel and dirt	36 50
1630	C A Picker	ser notices	2 00
1631	Jos Pfefferel	feed	11 52
1632	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1633	J A Barns	printing	12 30
1634	Geo M Crane,	recording	30 00
1635	Ora Kuhlman	lumber and tile	7 18
1636	D S Ober	lumber	18 51
1637	Jacob Walborn	cement	122 50
1638	Albert Zirwes	sec fire co	12 00
1639	Jos Pfefferel	ser and feed for team	114 85
1640	Casebeer & Matheny	merchandise	3 00
1641	Auburn Dispatch	printing	10 00
1642	C H Saylor	blacksmithing	3 95
1643	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1644	Lewis & Widney	lumber	10 19
1645	Wm Click	ser engineer	45 00
1646	Ahrens Mfg Co	final payment on engine	575 00
1647	Auburn Mining Co	street lights	168 00
1648	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1649	G W McKay	merchandise	5 92
1650	C C Walter	duplicate	15 00
1651	Auburn F & M Works	castings and labor	119 68
1652	D S Ober	lumber	22 48
1653	Jos Pfefferel	feed	34 03
1654	G L Lanning	cash advanced	4 12
1655	E J Rickard	cleaning chimneys	1 50
1656	J R Moody	boarding invalids	2 00
1657	J F Aber	ser clerk and statistical rep't.	20 50
1658	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1659	Stevens & C	printing	2 75
1660	D S Ober	lumber	18 03
1661	Groscop & R	lumber	5 93
1662	Frank Reesch	labor	6 00
1663	Jos Pfefferel	hay	16 06
1664	Shaffer & Berg	blacksmithing	26 50
1665	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1666	Jos Pfefferel	feed	15 70
1667	Henry Baker	ser night watch	8 50
1668	Auburn M Co	street lights to April 1st	194 50
1669	Jos Pfefferel	feed	9 04
1670	Rickel & Sprott	insurance	18 00
1671	J F Cartright	pt pay on sidewalk	24 00
1672	"	" "	22 75
1673	Wm Click	ser engineer	45 00
1674	Jos Pfefferel	feed	16 05
1675	M B Willis	index record	2 00
1676	C A Picker	ser marshal	40 00
1677	J J VanAuken	laying sidewalk grades	55 65
1678	Auburn Dispatch	printing	1 25

Resources and Liabilities of the Corporation.

	Resources.	Liabilities.
Municipal Orders Outstanding		$ 6 967 61
Road Orders Outstanding		1 633 33
School Bonds		6 000 00
Interest due May 1st, 1890		480 00
Total		$15 080 94
Tax Duplicate 1889, Tuition Tax	$ 927 42
" Special School	2 058 30
" Additional Special School	1 854 80
" Bond Sinking Fund	741 92
" Municipal Fund	1 854 80
" Special Dog	61 00
Estimate of Delinquent, Basis of ⅔, Amount	4 489 56
Cash on Hand { Municipal Fund	102 41
Cash on Hand { Road	83 86
Cash on Hand { Additional Special School	627 50
Outstanding Claims	301 56
Total Amount of Resources	$13 103 13
Excess of Debt over Resources	1 877 81
	$15 080 94	$15 080 94

OTHER AVAILABLE RESOURCES.

Real Estate, Not Including School Property	$ 2 000 00
Improvements, " "	600 00
Engine, Hose Cart, Hook and Ladder Truck, Etc	4 000 00
Team, Harness, Wagon, Etc	500 00
Road Scraper and Other Tools	100 00
Total	$ 7 200 00

All of which is respectfully submitted this 21st day of April, 1890.

ATTEST: J. F. ABER, TOWN CLERK.

S. R. HEBERLING, PRES. BOARD.

AT WILSON'S SOHE STORE,

Great Bargains!

See our $2.?0 Calf Boot, usually sold for $2.50. Our Oil Grain Tap Sole Solid Working Shoe for $2.00. Our $1.25 Shoes can't be beat.

Fine Shoes For Ladies' and Gents'.

Quality and Style Unsurpassable.

PRICES LOW.

Call and see us, south side of square, Auburn, Ind. Repairing promptly done. Respectfully yours,

J. N. WILSON & SON,

AUBURN and WATLRLOO.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.

Do you need a CARPET This Spring?

IF you do, come and see us, so we can show you how much better you can do with us than elsewhere. We can sell you a handsomer and better carpet in all respects, and for less money than you can get them for at any other place.

We are showing a large and exquisite line of Moquettes, Velvets, Body Brussels, Tapestries and Ingrains.

REMEMBER WE ARE AGENTS FOR

LOWELL :-: INGRAINS.

This carpet is wound on a hollow stick. Buy a carpet with a hollow stick in the center, and you will get one that will not fade or spot. We sell these for the same price that other dealers ask for an inferior quality.

Rugs, Lace Curtains, Mats, Draperies and Window Shades.

Do not get so interested in our Carpets that you will forget all about our DRESS GOODS. The different styles and colors we are showing this spring are handsomer than ever. Henriettas and Brilliantines. An elegant assortment of novelty suit patterns. A 36-inch all-wool plaid for 45 and 49 cents a yard.

Louis Wolf & Co.,

54 CALHOUN ST., FT. WAYNE, IND.

For All Kinds Of

Finest Millinery, Notions, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Furnishing Goods,

And Articles for Fancy Work, it will pay you to call on

J. G. JOHNSTON, Waterloo, Ind.

000 000 000

WE keep the largest assortment, very latest styles, lowest prices. The best facilities for doing business and the largest force of experienced help of any establishment of the kind in this part of the country.

000 000 000

IN addition to our Millinery Department, we pay close attention to other lines above mentioned, which means a great variety of articles too numerous to mention.

000 000 000

WE shall continue as in the past to add to our stock, novelties, both in millinery and our stock generally, as fast as they appear in the eastern markets, and will be at all times ready to furnish our customers with just what they want, as we keep a large assortment of each article in our stock varying in prices and qualities, in proof of which, do as others are doing, call and be convinced. Thanking you for past favors,

I am yours truly,

J. G. JOHNSTON,

WATERLOO, IND.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

For May, 1890. Francesco Crispi, the Italian Premier, is undoubtedly, since the retirement of Bismarck from the Chancellorship of the German Empire, the most potent and picturesque figure in European politics. A striking portrait of the Sicilian statesman is given in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for May, with a very interesting article entitled "Signor Crispi and the Italian Chamber," by the Hon. George Makepeace Towle. Douglas Sladen eloquently describes "Vancouver (British Columbia): A great sea-port of the XXth century." "Elephant-catching in India, with Prince Albert Victor of Wales," is written about by a British officer, and illustrated with great spirit. "Forest destruction by fire," by Col. R. J. Hinton, is truly an object lesson to congress. There are papers on "Chartres and its Cathedral," "Brass-hammering and Repousse-work," etc., together with the usual amount of first-class story and other literature provided in every number of this remarkably voluminous and entertaining magazine.

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city, leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory. H. J. Trentman.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1890. NUMBER 18.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold or any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial Bottles Free at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 6

The Yale senior class has received from a Tiffin, Ohio, firm a package of circulars to be distributed to the members of that class in which the firm offers to furnish essays, compositions, debates, orations, etc., by the wholesale, at prices ranging from $3 to $25.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

Dubuque, Ia., barbers and bootblacks threaten to strike against Sunday work. They want the old blue laws ridigly enforced.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great Nerve Tonic and Alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c. at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 6

More than two thousand farmers have applied to the Agricultural Department for seeds of the sugar beet, of which the department has imported several tons. This looks as if the farmers were going to try the beet sugar experiment on a grand scale.

CATARRH—CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—Hay Fever—A New Home Treatment.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is, that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above. ly

Nearly the whole of Sennacherib's great palace in Assyria has been cleaned out, and the result is that 1,700 new tablets, etc, have been secured for the British museum.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence. GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

The Supreme Court of the United States is three years behind in its business, which is piling up at a rate that is likely to set the court still further in arrears.

Great Discoverers.

What Bell and Edison are to the telephone and electricity, says the Pittsburg News, Dr Franklin Miles, the well known specialist in nervous diseases, is to the nervous system and nerve fluid. Among his numerous discoveries the Restorative Nervine is undoubtedly one of the greatest. It is unsurpassed in nervousness, dyspepsia, headache, epilepsy, neuralgia, backache, melancholy, sleeplessness, change of life, etc. Free trial bottles of it may be had of F. E. Davenport, the druggist. All should read his "New and Startling Facts for the Afflicted," a very able, interesting, and finely illustrated book. Free to all. 6

The school teachers of Spain are an illtreated class and suffer severely from poverty. A teacher at Velez-Malaga literally starved to death, though the community owed him $1,500.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The unusually large number of 112 species of migratory birds have been seen in the vicinity of Philadelphia this season according to the Delaware Ornithological Club.

For Twenty Years.

Mr. George Frank, ex-commissioner of Adams Co. Ind., says: I have had a bronchial cough for twenty years and used all the different cough medicines, and found nothing that has given me so much relief as Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I can heartily recommend it to all of those that are affected with a chronic cough and guarantee that it will give entire satisfaction. Yours, GEO. FRANK. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Judge McBride is in Elkhart this week.

E. H. Braun went to Ft. Wayne Monday.

Miss Ona Brand went to Ft. Wayne Monday.

Frank Lehman moved to Elkhart last Saturday.

H. Hawkins will move to Kendallville in a few days.

Dr. H. Chamberlain visited Auburn Wednesday last.

The town council have a large job of tiling to dispose of soon.

R. Lockhart and C. Meeks shipped a carload of potatoes Monday.

Secondhand glass and sash in good condition for sale cheap by Speer & Co.

Rev. W. O. Butler is in town this week, collecting amounts due for internal revenue licenses.

Wednesday last Elder Keller attended the U. B. session of conference at Butler. Mrs. J. A. Denison and Miss Mattie Maxson, of this place, were also present.

G. T. Abbey has purchased the building on the Duncan burnt district, removed it to his property near the M. E. church, and is fitting it up for a dwelling house.

Lost, strayed or stolen: The articles of confederation of the latest Sunday school adventure in this place. Whosoever findeth or toucheth them will be entitled to a life membership in said institution.

The seceders have determined to withdraw from the U. B. Sunday school in this place and organize a school of their own. To this end, J. W. Bachtel tendered his resignation as assistant superintendent last Sabbath.

Wm Cook had a rather sorry adventure on one of those very rainy nights a short time ago, by which he and his best girl were thrown out of the buggy into the ditch and both received a thorough soaking. But true love never did run smooth.

While driving near town last Thursday evening, some unknown person attempted to stop Clarence Robertson's horses, which frightened them and they became unmanageable and ran. Robertson was thrown from the buggy and considerably injured. The buggy was broken. Whether the person causing all this mischief attempted a joke or a robbery is not known.

A large number of persons from here attended the U. B. Woman's Missionary meeting at Butler last week. The meetings were largely attended by delegations from different parts of the conference, and, on the whole, was one of the best meetings ever held by the society. The collections at the meeting amounted to about $120 Mrs. DeLong, of Newville, paid $90, for which nine of her relatives were made life members. The session closed on Thursday night with an entertainment which was a grand treat to all who attended it. The next annual meeting will be held in Waterloo in April, '91.

Within a few days a very pleasant gathering occurred at the residence of Mr. Denison, father of our townsman, J. A. Denison. The occasion was the golden wedding of the old couple. About fifty persons were assembled, and every member of the family, except the daughter, Mrs. Kiplinger, who is not living, was present. The husband, however, was there, making eight sons and daughters present. Many very fine gifts were made to Mr. and Mrs. Denison, among which was a set of gold band table ware, napkin rings, etc., and on turning up her plate Mrs Denison found a pair of gold frame spectacles, and under his plate Mr. D. found a fine gold watch. The surprise and gifts, however, were not all on one side, as each of the eight children found under their plate five $20 gold pieces, a gift from the parents.

BUTLER.

Jerome Brown remains in the employ of Campbell, Fetter & Co.

Levy & Wolff have a very gentlemanly clerk recently imported from New York City.

The new glass front in S. J. Seed's store building attracts considerable attention.

The Wabash restaurant has again changed hands. Wein & Co., of Spencerville, O., now manage it.

A. Goumont has made an addition to his hotel boarding house on the south side, and is prepared to accommodate all who call.

Peleg Hull is tiring of rural life and is putting up a new dwelling on West Depot street, and may, by the by, become a resident of our own fair city.

A. D. Morse has fitted up a very nice suit of rooms over his grocery store that he will occupy until he can complete his new dwelling on west North street.

Mel. Wilkinson is erecting a very nice dwelling on North Broadway. The young ladies of Butler are eying it anxiously and wondering which among them, if anyone, is to be its happy mistress.

SUMMIT.

D. Doyle, of Hudson, was in town last Monday.

Lloyd Hamilten, of Hudson, was in our town Monday.

H. P. R. Lawson went to Ft. Wayne Tuesday on business.

Wm. and Isaac Betts and families visited friends in Hamilton last Sunday.

Miss Alta Kegeries and sister were the guests of Mrs. Adam Wolf Friday last.

Amos Sweigart moved his harness shop into Frank Lockamyre's house recently.

H. P. R. Lawson and wife, Miss Etta Vogtman and Rolla McDougal were the guests of Henry Snowberger and wife last Sunday.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Mr. J. C. Warnock, Atlanta, Ga., says: I have been treated by the most prominent physicians seventeen years for kidney disease without benefit. About six weeks ago I suffered such intense pain—scarcely being able to breathe at times—I concluded to try "Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure," and after using one bottle was entirely and absolutely cured. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga., Proprietors; also, manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure for coughs, colds, asthma and consumption.

HERE WE ARE AGAIN!

BUT this time we come with a list comprising a choice lot of new properties at exceedingly low prices, in fact any one of them is a bargain, when the location, improvements and general surroundings are taken into

CONSIDERATION.

While heretofore we have offered many bargains, all of which have been gobbled up with the great rapacity of

A HUNGRY MAN.

We believe this to be the choicest lot of all, and the only one we will be able to offer on such favorable terms and prices, but these pieces are for sale at prices that

WILL SELL THEM,

and if you think of buying for a residence or as an investment, call at our office and we will convince you our statements are true as to

PROPERTY AND PRICES.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. The soil is a most splendid one for producing large yields of all kinds of grain. There are 30 acres of good timber on this farm. This farm is cheap at $60 per acre, but we will sell it for less money.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn, and would make someone a fortune if they would buy and plat it in acre lots.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling barn, orchard and good fences. This would be a bonanza for anyone at $2,800, but it goes for less. "First come first served" in this trade.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings, 2 good wells sugar camp, fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared. This is a great bargain for someone with small capital, to secure a house, and is cheap at $2,500, but it can be be bought for less money.

No. 230. One hundred and ninety-two acres in Newville township, within short distance of Newville and Hicksville. 130 acres under cultivation, balance timber land. Elegant brick dwelling, frame barn, wind pump, two good orchards. School and church near. Here is an opportunity which is seldom found in a lifetime, to secure a farm which is ready to make money for the purchaser from the time of purchase. This farm is well worth $65 per acre, but less will buy it, if taken at once.

No. 304. Sixty acres fine land in Wilmington township. Good frame building with all modern improvements, good orchard. This can be bought for less than $2,500.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O. This will be sold at any reasonable price as it must go.

No. 305. One hundred and forty acres of as good land as there is in this county and with improvements on it that are equalled by but few farms in this county, lies within two and one-half miles of good market. We wish to call your especial attention to this tract as one of our best bargains and is cheap at $10,500, but less will buy it if taken soon. The owner is sick, and has not the necessary help and cannot farm it to any advantage, is the reason a sacrifice will be made. Long time and easy terms

No. 309. Seventy-eight acres in Concord township. Fine large brick dwelling, large frame barn, splendid orchard of over 100 trees, all bearing. Small fruits in abundance, and soil unsurpassed for producing all kinds of crops. This farm can be bought cheap and will be like finding money at $7,500.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana Trade well established. Here is a chance for someone to make money with but little capital to invest, as the property can be bought cheap, and will give immediate possession.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street. You know that property in the south end of town is not for sale, generally speaking, and when offered is not long in the market. So it will be with this one. Do not delay, but come at once as it must go.

Vacant lots in the South End of town, at prices to suit customers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we are still loaning money on farms in sums of $1,000 and over at 6 per cent. interest on five years' time.

Also, that we offer to the public

THE MOST LIBERAL

Fire, Life and Accident Policy of any Agency in Northern Indiana. Come in and get our terms.

Also, that we can sell you a Railroad or Steamship Ticket at rates that will astonish you. Our rates are the lowest and our routes the best. Come and see us and we will convince you that these are facts.

We have omitted many bargains (our space being limited,) especially in town properties, a list of which may be seen at our office. Call and see us.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

We are highly pleased with the business we have done so far this season.

We have an elegant line of dry goods, clothing, carpets etc., which we are always pleased to show.

If you want the very latest and nobbiest goods the market affords you can find what you want in our stock. Our prices are always most reasonable for quality of goods.

We will be pleased to have you call and will do all we can to make your visit both pleasant and profitable to you.

Always anxious to please.

Yours Respectfully,
SCHAAB & BRO.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

JEWEL GRAND STEP.

JEWEL
GEO. M. CLARK & CO. CHICAGO
PAT. APPLIED FOR

THE GRANDEST OF ALL GRANDS!

MORE-FOR-NO-MORE-MONEY.

GREATEST PERFECTION & ECONOMY GUARANTEED.

Positively No Odor or Smell.

FOUR BURNERS ON TOP, OF WHICH YOU CAN USE ONE OR ALL.

One set between the Oven and Roasting Chamber for Baking and Roasting, Toasting or Broiling at the same time with the same flame.

This is the best stove in America, and you cannot be pleased with any other after seeing this, therefore don't fail to see it.

J. BEURET, Dealer in Hardware and Tinware.
Tinshop at 15, North Main St, Auburn, Ind.

GOLDEN EGGS!

STOP! Were you going to pass over this ad. without reading it? I want to ask you one question, and that is, what are you going to do with your eggs this summer? If you will send me your name on a postal card, I will mail you one of our new circulars for 1890, which will show you how to get 24 cents a dozen the year round for them. The Golden Egg formula is warranted to keep eggs fresh two years, and is the only perfect egg preserver now in use. There are no "shakers" among them: that is, the yolks do not become addled, or settle to the shell, but retain their natural condition in center of the eggs—the whites thick and ropy, the same as fresh eggs. There are several other methods of preserving eggs, but the one particular objection above named is present in all of them. Cost of packing and getting ready for market will not exceed ½ cent per dozen. Price of individual right to use is $2.00, two for $3.00 Send for circular to

P. P. LOCHNER, Auburn, Ind., Proprietor of Golden Egg Formula for DeKalb County.

HAMBLETONIAN.

COLONEL STERLING.

—PEDIGREE.—

Colonel Sterling was sired by Sterling 1447, he by Volunteer, 55, and he by Hambletonian, 10. Colonel Sterling's dam was sired by Robert Fillingham, Jr., he by George Wilks, 519, and he by Hambletonian, 10.

Look at the Royal blood combination, that of Hambletonian, 10, George Wilks, 519, and Volunteer, 55, all for $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

Write for extended pedigree.

F. J. YESBERA,
AUBURN, IND,

Well Driving.

Purdy & Son, the well known well drivers of Auburn, will devote their time to this business and give all their patrons good work. They have an abundant experience, and can show certificates from the leading property owners in the county, to show the satisfaction their work has given. Call on them at Auburn, or write where you want them to come. Address PURDY & SON, Auburn, Ind.

OLD SETTLERS.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the DeKalb County Pioneer Association will be held at the Secretary's office, in Auburn, on

Friday, May 2, 1890,

at 1 o'clock, p. m., to select the place and make the necessary arrangements for holding the next annual meeting to be held June 19, 1890. With the President and Secretary, the following persons compose such committee, viz:

Phillip Noel,
Wm. Carr,
R. Culbertson,
S. H. Bartlett,
S. P. Waltenbe,
J. D. Wood,
A. F. Pinchin,
M. B. Willis,
R. N. Crooks,
N. Griffiith,
O. C. Clark,
J. Buchanan,
E. R. Shoemaker,
F. D. Oberlin,
Wm. R. Emerson.

All persons feeling interested in the objects of the Association are invited to be present.

J. D. LEIGHTY, President,
W. H. DILLS, Secretary.

SALESMEN WANTED.

LOCAL OR TRAVELING.

To sell our Nursery Stock. Salary, Expenses and Steady Employment guaranteed.
CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY,
Rochester, N. Y.

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough, remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Minorca Chickens.

I have eggs for sale sale for hatching. This is a new, and popular breed of chickens having been in the United States, but a few years. I have Black and White Minorcas. All wanting eggs, call on JAMES STONEBRAKER, Corunna.

IF YOU WANT TO

BUY CHEAP,

—Go to the—

Bargain Store

On Eighth St. West of Court House.

Coming to Auburn

Geary's Traveling

WORLD'S MUSEUM,

And Theater Annex under canvas. James Geary, Fort Wayne Manager.

ONE DAY ONLY.

May 14.

Three separate pavilions; 6,000 square feet of canvas. Everything grand, brilliant and complete.

BIG ELIZA

The biggest human being on earth, and a hundred other curious wonders. A first-class stage entertainment and concert, all for one admission, 10 cents. Inquire, investigate, beware, be there May 14. Defiance, Ohio, May 16 and 17.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS

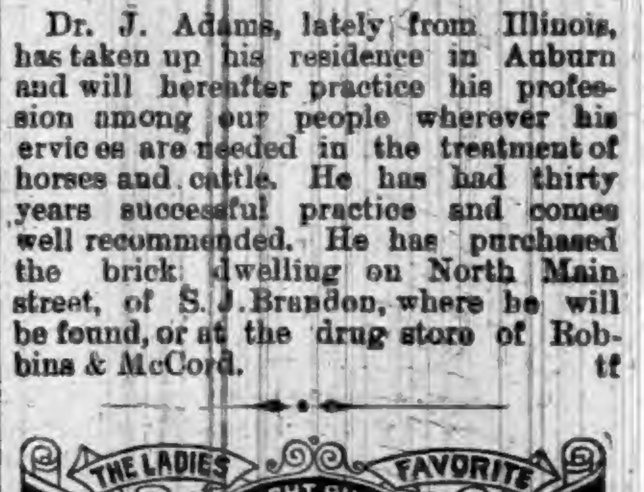
"THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER." TRADE MARK. "IT CURES CANCERS, SCROFULA."

Female Weakness Sores, Ulcers, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism and all Blood and Skin Diseases. PRICE $1. per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb can Solid Extract $2.50. J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., DETROIT, MICH. Sold by all druggists.

SOLD BY F. E. DAVENPORT,
AUBURN, IND.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf



THE LADIES FAVORITE
THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
THE FINEST WOODWORK
THE BEST ATTACHMENTS
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE Co ORANGE-MASS
CHICAGO, ILL. 28 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. SAN FRANCISCO CAL.
ATLANTA, GA.
ST. LOUIS, MO. FOR SALE BY DALLAS, TEX.

F. J. YESBERA, Agent,
Auburn, Ind.

Commissioner's Sale.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned Commissioner appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court, in the case of Samuel Davis et al. vs Matilda Radormer et al. in said court by order of said court will sell at public auction on the premises on

Saturday, May 17, 1890.

The following premises in DeKalb county, Indiana, to wit: Sixty-two and one-half (62½) acres off of the north end of the east half of the northeast quarter of section nineteen (19) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east, excepting the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago railroad, passing through said land. And also the south half of the southeast quarter of section seven (7), all in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east. Sale to commence at ten o'clock a. m. of said day.

Terms: One-third cash, one-third in one year and one-third in two years. The deferred payments to be secured by notes, at interest, waiving relief, and secured by a mortgage on the premises.

JOHN NELSON, Commissioner.

April 14, 1890.
James E. Rose Atty.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

HIGH WATERS.

A Flood in Dallas, Texas, Causes a Very Great Amount of Damage.

A special from Dallas, Texas, dated the 29th, says: This morning in about 400 homes in Dallis and suburbs the inhabitants had been driven out of by the overflow in Trinity River. The river at this rise was a few inches higher than that of 1866, which was the highest recorded within the memory of the oldest settlers. Large forces of men are hard at work repairing the washouts on the Texas, Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Texas Trunk and Oak Cliff elevated railways. The water last night ran through the windows of the first floor of the Dallas elevator and damaged a large amount of wheat as well as machinery and belting. The St. Louis Press Brick Company are heavy losers, as well as Allenworch & Russey. Two thousand bales of cotton were soaked at the compress, at the foot of Lamar street, and the Dallas Brewing Company will suffer considerably from inconvenience caused by water. The Eureka Steam Laundry has suspended operations, as the water is several feet deep in their buildings. Yesterday, as the mail was being transferred from one train to the other on the Texas and Pacific a pouch of registered mail slipped off a hand-car and sunk in the swift current before it could be recovered. The city water works are useless and water for making steam and sprinkling streets is getting very scarce. The streets could not be sprinkled on that account to-day. The damage done by the flood in Dallas will amount to several hundred thousand dollars.

St. Martinsville (La.) special: Water in this parish is rising at the rate of eight inches every twenty-four hours, and those who reside in the lowland sections, near the woods, were compelled to leave their homes and move to the bayou banks. The crops in their sections, which were magnificent, are all lost. Cattle are daily driven through here, going on the west bank of the bayou for pastures. Two thousand five hundred people will suffer in this parish from the floods. If it keeps on rising at the present rate for six days more it will reach the 1882 mark, and may go higher.

A Grosse Tete special says: The little town of Grosse Tete presents a pitiful sight from a distance. It looks like a tug would in the Atlantic Ocean. The protection levee gave way, letting the angry waters directly in upon the already inundated and helpless town which has been under for several days from back water coming from Broquet's crevasse, two miles below. The people have their stock on platforms and Indian mounds, and both people and stock are badly in need of assistance at once. They have neither provisions or feed stuff to sustain themselves with, and no money to buy any with. Upon the whole the situation is distressing.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

The Defeat of the Mormons in Salt Lake City Already Proves a Great Blessing.

Salt Lake, special: Since the Gentile victory at the February election in this city, but more particularly during the past month, representatives of eastern capital have been endeavoring to purchase public works of various kinds here, and also to establish others of a public nature. Among the five syndicates seeking to replace the present water works system, owned by the city, is the Denver-Omaha-Chicago syndicate; which has local stockholders and elected local officers of the Utah water supply company, with a capital stock of $3,000,000. The question of whether or not the city should own its water works is being made the subject of a series of interviews in local papers. The company guarantees to provide a supply adequate for a city of 200,000 people and more if desired.

Another Man Hurt by Carelessly Handling Dynamite.

While R. H. McCormick, foreman of Baltes & Palmer's stone quarries, at Monpelier, Ind., was handling a dynamite cap, it exploded and tore his right hand all to pieces. The fuses had rusted and he was going to throw them away. They had been handling them all spring, taking the wires off to use, when the first one he picked up exploded. A few days before Alva Rhoten had his hand torn to pieces in the same quarries.

A Service Pension Bill.

Senator Ingalls has introduced a bill granting a pension of $6 a month to all persons who served in the late war not less than three months, nor more than one year; to those serving more than one year and not exceeding 800 days, $8 a month, and those over 800 days, 1 cent per day for each day's service. No person who is worth $5,000 at the time of the filing of his application shall be entitled to this service pension.

Granted the Demands.

Pittsburgh special: The Baltimore and Ohio has granted the demands of its employes for an advance, giving the day conductors $2.75 and night conductors $2.90. The day brakemen will be paid $2.50 and night men $2.70, ten hours to constitute a day's work. This is the first break in the railroad lines.

Struck His Wife with a Bottle.

At Findlay, O., William Flannery struck his wife on the head with a bottle, causing injuries which will produce death. Flannery was intoxicated and wanted his wife to stay at home. He became enraged and assaulted her. He is under arrest.

Ohio Legislators Adjourn.

The regular session of the Ohio Legislature has adjourned to meet next January.

FIRE AT GREENWOOD, MISS.

Business Portion of the Town Destroyed—Two Lives Lost.

Greenwood (Miss.) special: The smoldering ruins are all that remain of a large portion of the business part of Greenwood. From Front street south to Market, and from Howard street east to Main, there is not a single house standing, where before was a solid block The east side of Main street, from Front to Market, is also in ruins, including the handsome residence of Col. Gid Montjoy. The fire originated in the kitchen of the Allen House, kept by Harry Lee. In the hotel were two men who were under the influence of liquor. They were dragged out of bed, but they were so stupefied with drink that they made no attempt to save themselves, but instead crawled back into bed again. Their remains were found among the ashes of the house. One of them was named John Douch and the other was known as "Jimmie, the Swede." This is the only loss of life. The loss aggregates $124,000, with only about $37,000 insurance.

SPREADING.

Large Tracts of Territory in Louisiana Inundated—Railroad Tracks Submerged.

A special from Baton Rouge (La.) dated the 26th inst., says: Both ends of the Martinez crevasse, below this place, have been secured and a determined effort will be made to close it. The water is rapidly filling the country to the rear, and made its appearance in Shannon's canals this morning. Mr. Shannon does not anticipate that all of his place will go under, even if the break is not closed. The chances are that the track of the Mississippi Valley road will be submerged. The break at Lobdell's, the old Parish Levee, as it is called, eighteen miles above here on the West Baton Rouge side, is 800 feet wide. All of Clark's Chamberlain's and John Devall's land is under water. David Devall, president of the police jury, has 250 acres of land under and 175 out, with the backwater still rising. The backwater has reached Burk and Dougherty, Westover Place, but the rear levee is an excellent one and they expect to keep the water out. The steamer Wheelock, that has been doing relief around Morganza, has arrived here. Her captain says: "We went as high as the mouth of Red River in search of all that needed assistance. We brought down a few people and some stock. Some we landed at Bayou Sara and some here. The steamer Henry Marks proceeded down the Atchafalaye to see if any assistance was needed. So far as I can see, there is no need for any further relief boat. The people refuse to leave their homes. I saw Capt. Kingsman Wednesday evening. He expressed the opinion that the ends of Morganza can be protected. Tuesday and Wednesday, Capt. Kingsman and others were devoting their energies to saving life and property. So far there has been no loss of life reported, and the damage thus far in the overflowed sections at and in the vicinity of Morganza has been confined almost exclusively to the crops in the field."

The steamer Dakotah, Capt. Mitchell, has transported from the submerged district to this side, about 1,500 people and a large quantity of stock. Capt. Mitchell said the break in the old Morgansea at 3 o'clock yesterday evening was 600 feet wide, while the break in the grand levee just below was 1,000 feet wide and washing rapidly, as the soil is sandy. These levees, three miles in length, are a comparatively small portion yet destroyed. The work of repairing the Martinez crevasse is progressing under the supervision of General Manager Aarahan, of the Valley road, and J. D. Houston. They are confident of closing the break by next Tuesday. W. L. Clark, of West Baton Rouge, was down here this morning to help to close the Lobdell break, which seems a forlorn hope.

NO HELP FOR THEM.

Thirty Men Entombed in a Burning Colliery in Wyoming—All Hope of Rescue Abandoned.

Cheyenne (Wy. T.) special: Thirty men are imprisoned in the Rock Springs coal mine No. 4, which is on fire, and it is almost certain that all are dead. The mine was discovered to be on fire at 1 o'clock Thursday morning, and at 9 o'clock, when the flames began to spread rapidly, the men were ordered to the surface. They had hardly begun to issue from the shaft's mouth when an explosion occurred. A searching party to go to the rescue of the men below had just disappeared when another explosion occurred, followed by three others in rapid succession. Seven of the searchers were injured, one past recovery. A dozen more volunteers descended and brought up six insensible Chinamen, two of whom died in a few minutes. They saw ten other Chinamen lying prostrate. Smoke began to issue in a large volume from all the entrances, and further attempts to save the men imprisoned below were abandoned. There are still at least thirty men in the mine, mostly Chinese. All the entrances to the mine have been closed, in order to keep the fire within certain bounds. The mine has an underground area of nine miles, a capacity of 500 cars a day and the prestige of producing the best fuel mined in the West. It is the property of the Union Pacific Railway and valued at $1,000,000

DEATH IN THE FLAMES.

A Dozen Perish in a Burning Silk-Mill.

Allentown (Pa.) special: Fire was discovered in the dye-house of the Unicorn silk mill at Catasaqua. The flames spread with remarkable activity and soon enveloped the entire building, which was destroyed, together with machinery, a quantity of fine silks, plushes, ribbons, etc. The loss is estimated at $250,000 to $300,000. Many employes had already gathered in the mill to begin work. Of these, John Cooper, Charles Frick, and John Tottejeaxi, an Italian, lost their lives in trying to escape and about thirty-five more were injured. Three or four may die. Some of the injured were taken to St. Luke's hospital at Bethlehem. The cause of the fire is unknown.

LATER—Instead of only six people losing their lives, double that number perished, and over fifty others employed in the place were injured. The fire broke out in the dye-house and spread with such rapidity to the main structure that it was impossible for the hundreds who were employed at the works to escape without injury. All of the expensive machinery in the building and a large quantity of silks, ribbons, plushes, etc., were destroyed, and the loss will reach $300,000. While the firemen were working hard to subdue the flames an explosion of vitrol and acid took place, and before the firemen could escape several of their number were injured by flying debris.

INDIANA GRANGERS.

Farmers Forming a State Alliance—Strength of the Movement Among the Hoosiers.

Delegates representing the National Farmers' Mutual Benefit Alliance and Industrial Union, met at Indianapolis, to form a State Alliance, and reports were had showing the Alliance was now organized in twenty-four States, with a membership exceeding 2,000,000. The aim is to enable farmers to control their own crops, and prevent manipulation by speculators and gamblers. Statistics relative to the order in this State showed thirty-eight Alliances in Marion County alone, with 1,500 members, and ten other counties also reported strong organizations. Announcement was made that all the various farmer organizations, save the Grangers, would consolidate with the National Alliance during the coming year. The officers elected included T. W. Force, of Martin County, President; D. H. Yeoman, of Jasper, Vice President; A. C. Barton, of Gibson, State Lecturer, and W. W. Prigg, of Henry, Secretary. One object of the Alliance is to establish commercial exchanges, and the existence of a contract store was reported at Loogootee, where every piece of goods for sale is marked plainly with both the cost and selling price.

Fell Dead.

As a party of young ladies were on their way home to Sinsinawa Mound, Wis., after spending the day at Hazel Green, Miss Murray, one of the party, suddenly stopped, threw up her hands and fell dead in the road. It is supposed she ruptured a blood-vessel while indulging in a fit of laughter.

Panama Going to Sleep.

Panama special: The walls continue to tumble about our ears, and even the hotels and private boarding houses are rapidly closing up, following in the wake of the dry goods stores, of which there are now few remaining. If the work on the big ditch is not speedily resumed Panama will, by the close of the year present a pitiable parody on her former condition. At present, however, hope beats high in the breasts of all, and there is as yet little or no apprehension regarding the future. At any rate the Panama Ice Company has imported a fine ice-making machine from Chicago, which is in course of erection, and work on the Panama aqueduct is being vigorously pushed, so that in two years' time, at the outside, the city will have a full supply of water, which it has not had in the 300 years of its existence.

Her Last Curtain.

Minneapolis special: Marie Wainwright did not appear at the Harris Theater, and in all probability will never be seen on the stage again. The other night, at the close of the last act, in "Twelfth Night," she fainted away. A leading prysician of the city was immediately summoned, and after careful examination announced that Miss Wainwright was suffering from hemorrhage of the brain. She was removed to her rooms at the West Hotel. The evening papers contained the announcement that she was suffering from neuralgia, but such is not the case. Her real ailment is hemorrhage of the brain, which has caused, in addition, a partial loss of sight of one of the eyes.

Three Workmen Killed.

A special from Newcastle, Pa., says an explosion occurred at the Etna Mills, three men being killed and six badly injured, two of whom will probably die. While all of the men were working, the flue end of the big roller collapsed with a deafening roar, and in a moment the place was drenched with steam. A full half hour was lost before the injured men could be rescued, and the dead recovered. Those instantly killed were George Klingensmith, John Welsh, and Johnny Murphy. The latter could not be found for some time. His body was finally discovered in the fly-wheel pit, where it had been hurled and ground to a pulp.

Freak of a Lunatic.

Dubuque (Iowa) special: Smoke was seen issuing from the upper windows of the residence of Richard Gruner. A neighbor heard a scream, and, looking through a lower window, saw Mrs. Gruner brandishing a huge butcher-knife above her two little children. He leaped through the window and seized the demented woman and threw her to the ground. She had piled a heap of rubbish around the bed, saturated it with kerosene and placed a panful of red-hot coals in the midst, and intended to kill her children and perish herself. The flames were extinguished. Mrs. Gruner has had two similar insane fits.

Wrecked by Grain and Pork.

The Pittsburgh Commission Company, the largest bucket shop in Pennsylvania, has suspended payment. The Company's business was larger than any three similar concerns in this city. The capital stock was only $10,000, but the aggregate amount handled by it was at least $500,000 a year. Its liabilities are estimated at $150,000. It is said that the company paid out $350,000 in the last seven weeks. The bulge in grain and pork sadly crippled the concern, and the continued advance in the stock market rendered abortive all efforts to recover.

A Gypsy's Deadly Aim.

Noah Palmer, aged 70, a member of a band of Gypsies encamped at Morrisville, near Trenton, N. J., and who had been on a protracted spree, during a quarrel with his wife, shot her, killing er instantly. He then attempted to shoot his daughter, who was sleeping beside her mother, but failed, the bullet going through the tent. Then he turned the pistol on himself and put a bullet into the back of his head, inflicting a wound from which the doctors say he cannot recover. All the parties in the encampment are in charge of the police.

A Young Demon.

At Brazil, Ind., the pupils of the Meridan street school building were on the playground at recess, when Ben Corbery, 10 years old, with a revolver shot little Cora Rubach, about the same age, the ball taking effect in the hand and the side of the face. The wound is not fatal. The reason for the assault is that the girl had previously given the teacher information of Corbery's misconduct. He fled after school, and the City Marshal is in pursuit.

Sabbath-Breaking by Machine.

Fort Wayne, special: C. W. Cook, a hotel-keeper, of New Haven, was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $50, for Sabbath desecration. His offense consisted in possessing a cigar-case, which permits a person depositing a nickel in it to remove a cigar. On last Sunday a person entirely unknown to Cook deposited his nickel and obtained and smoked a cigar. The jury trying the case was out sixteen hours before reaching a verdict.

A Hoosier Liaison.

A few days ago a young, comely, and rather pretty woman named Mrs. R. S. Jones arrived in Muncie, Ind., from Indianapolis for the purpose of visiting relatives. Since her arrival she has learned that her husband has eloped with another woman of the capital city and left for Europe to secure $75,000, that amount being a legacy left him by a wealthy relative. The woman here is heart-broken and is left in poor circumstances.

Shot a Prisoner.

William R. Wales, alias Webb, who was arrested on the 17th at Cincinnati and who is wanted in Baltimore on several charges of obtaining money on false pretenses, was sent to that city. Just before the hour for removal from the County Jail he forced the door with a hatchet, got into South Court street and was there shot and captured by Turnkey Whalen. The ball made a bad flesh wound in the leg.

A Father's Awful Act.

A well-to-do farmer named Morrison, living two miles from Shelburne, Ont., after drowning three of his children in a barrel of rainwater, attempted to drown himself in a creek. Some neighbors found him lying by the creek in a precarious condition. There are no chances of his recovery. No reason can be assigned for the terrible tragedy.

Captured the Thief.

The Chicago Police Department was notified by the authorities of Tiffin, O., to arrest Sherman Knight, who had in his possession $7,000 belonging to the Commercial National Bank of Tiffin. He was arrested as he stepped from an incoming train. When searched he was found to have all of the missing money on his person.

Severed an Artery.

Rolla Tracey, an employe of the Lima Paper Mills, picked up a box, when his arm came in contact with a sharp knife which had been left lying on the box, and an artery severed, nearly causing death before the flow could be checked. His recovery is doubtful.

Burned to the Water's Edge.

A special from Kingston, Ont., says: The tug McArthur, owned by the Collins Bay Rafting Company, burned to the water's edge with twenty thousand dollars' worth of wrecking machinery which she had just brought from the wreck of the steamer Armstrong. W. Leslie is the principal owner. He lost $5,000 on his contract to raise the sunken steamer Armstrong. The boat is insured, but the machinery is not. The McArthur was worth between fifteen and eighteen thousand dollars.

Clayton's Murderer.

Gov. Eagle, of Arkansas, has evidence which, it is claimed, will convict the assassin of John M. Clayton, who is known, but that he will not make it public until submitted to the Congressional Investigating Committee. It is stated, however, that this evidence will show that the crime was committed by a man who mistook John M. Clayton for ex-Governor Powell Clayton, and believed he was avenging the death of a relative killed while Powell Clayton was Governor.

Valued His Family at $50.

Mrs. Nora Diboss, wife of a hotel-keeper at Robertsdale, Pa., eloped with a newly-arrived boarder named Emil S. Chairio, a Hungarian, taking her three little children and $370 of her husband's money. At Mount Union the husband overtook the fleeing couple and demanded the return of his money. He was tendered $50 of the money in consideration of his wife's liberty, which he accepted, and the elopers and children at once took a train for the West.

Big Fire at Rochester.

Rochester (N. Y.) special: Fire in John G. Wagner's five-story business block caused a total loss of about two hundred thousand dollars. The Osborn Hotel near by was scorched and the guests rushed into the street in their night clothes, but no one was injured. The heavy losers are the owner of the block, Weaver, Thomas & Kirk, manufacturers of fine shoes, and Langslow, Fowler & Co., leather, plush, and carpet chair manufacturers.

Illinois Temperance Women.

At the conference of the Illinois non-partisan Christian Temperance Union a clause was inserted in the constitution by which no officer of the association is allowed to do any campaign work for any political party while holding office. This is the first time such a clause has been adopted by any similar body. The name of the association was also changed to read the "Women's Non-Partisan Christian Temperance Alliance."

Suspicious Fulfillment of a Prophecy.

A short time since B. P. Glazier, of Ipswich, Mass., then apparently in the best of health, had a coffin left in his yard with a plate, giving the date of his birth and the date of his death as a few days later. Glazier died within two weeks. Aaron Sanborn, a railroad section boss, had been ejected from the house for attention to Mrs. Glazier, and the latter says Sanborn arranged the coffin. The body will probably be exhumed.

Congressional Nomination.

Henry U. Johnson, one of the leading members of the Richmond bar, was nominated on the twelfth ballot of the Republican Congressional Convention held at New Castle, Ind. Mr. Johnson was the leader on the Republican side of the Senate during the past two sessions of the Indiana Legislature and is noted for his bold methods in order to carry a point. The district is about nine thousand Republican, and his election is assured.

Bloody Anti-Jewish Riots in Galicia.

A serious anti-semetic demonstration has occurred at Balla, in Galicia, forty-three miles southwest of Crascow. A mob numbering 4,000 persons, made an attack upon the Jewish quarter and wrecked and sacked a number of dwellings and shops. The troops were called out to disperse the rioters, but did not succeed in restoring order before eleven of the mob were killed and many injured.

Tax Ferrets.

Ex-Judge Maurice Winfield, of Logansport, Ind., has brought suit to enjoin the Commissioners of Carroll County from paying any further fees to "tax ferrets" for hunting up sequestered taxes, and to recover fees already paid over, amounting to $4,000. This is believed to be the first time the question has been raised. The complaint alleges that the contract is void and against public policy.

A Fatal Boiler Explosion.

The boiler at Cook Brothers' tile brick yard, south of Flint, Mich., exploded. Fred Cook, son of Henry Cook, was scalded and died. Other victims are George Baldwin and Edward Purcell, lads. Their recovery is doubtful.

Killed the Negro.

A negro who committed an outrage on a respectable white lady near Cameron Station, Ark., was arrested, and fully identified by the lady. After dark a party overpowered the guard and shot the negro to death.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.

CATTLE—Prime	$4.75	@	5.25
Fair to Good	3.50	@	4.75
Common	2.50	@	3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.75	@	4.50
SHEEP	4.00	@	6.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.87½	@	.88
CORN—No. 2	.32	@	.33
OATS—No. 2	.24	@	.25
RYE—No. 2	.49	@	.50
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.16	@	.18
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.08½	@	.10¾
EGGS—Fresh	.10½	@	.11½
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu.	.45	@	.55
PORK—Mess	13.25	@	13.75

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.83	@	.85
CORN—No. 3	.33	@	.33½
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@	.27½
RYE—No. 1	.51	@	.52
BARLEY—No. 2	.45	@	.46
PORK—Mess	13.25	@	13.75

DETROIT.

CATTLE	3.00	@	4.25
HOGS	3.00	@	4.25
SHEEP	3.50	@	5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.88½	@	.89½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.35½	@	.36½
OATS—No. 2 White	.29	@	.30

TOLEDO.

WHEAT	.90	@	.90½
CORN—Cash	.34½	@	.35½
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@	.26½

NEW YORK.

CATTLE	4.25	@	5.00
HOGS	4.25	@	5.00
SHEEP	5.50	@	7.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.97	@	.98
CORN—No. 2	.42	@	.44
OATS—Mixed Western	.33	@	.36
PORK—New Mess	13.50	@	14.00

ST. LOUIS.

CATTLE	4.25	@	5.00
HOGS	4.00	@	4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.86	@	.86½
CORN—No. 2	.31	@	.31½
OATS—No. 2	.26½	@	.27
RYE—No. 2	.50	@	.50½

INDIANAPOLIS.

CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.00	@	4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@	4.50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@	6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.90	@	.90½
CORN—No. 1 White	.34	@	.35
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@	.27

CINCINNATI.

HOGS	3.75	@	4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.88	@	.90
CORN—No. 2	.37	@	.38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.27	@	.28
RYE—No. 2	.51	@	.53

BUFFALO.

CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.50	@	5.25
HOGS	4.00	@	4.75
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.96	@	.97
CORN—No. 2	.36½	@	.37

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

A Minister's Romance.

Last week Rev. Henry M. Bacon, for fifteen years pastor of the Westminster Church, of Toledo, O., and now pastor of the Congregational Church at that place, was married to Mrs. Susan S. Orr, at the home of her brother, Dr. Spottswood, in Terre Haute. The marriage is the culmination of a romance. Dr. Bacon, twenty-five years ago was engaged to Mrs. Orr, at Toledo. She was at that time a leading beauty there. Her parents opposed the marriage, and the girl was sent away to school. The separation was complete, her whereabouts being kept a secret from Rev. Bacon, then a rising young theological student. Each, in time, married, Mrs. Orr's husband dying some years ago, and Dr. Bacon's wife dying about two years ago. The Congregational pulpit in Terre Haute being vacant, Rev. Bacon was invited to that city temporarily, and he there learned the whereabouts of his first love. A meeting took place, the lovers were re-united and made one, after all these long years. Mrs. Orr's father was Rev. John Schemmerhorn, of Utica. N. Y., a prominent man in his day, who served as Indian Commissioner under President Jackson.

Practical and Expert Jail-Breakers.

A jail delivery occurred at Marion, in which five prisoners, charged with penitentiary offenses, made their escape. The fugitive malefactors are: William Nucum, under a two years sentence for highway robbery; Olney Shrock, charged with accessory; William Henderson and John Ryan, held for grand larceny, and Jasper N. Watson, for subordination of perjury. Nucum and Schrock, the only prisoners locked in a cell, sawed off the hinges of the cell door. A piece of boiler iron in the floor two feet square was pried up, opening the way into the cellar, where they tunneled through a two-foot stone wall and crawled through the window. All five are still at large. Nucum and Shrock, who broke jail on the 4th of last January, had just been recaptured at Troy, O. There were eighteen prisoners in jail, but none of the other thirteen tried to escape. Among those who remained was John Sage, indicted for murder in the first degree. The other 12 who remained are held for trivial offenses.

Minor State Items.

—Rochester voted a subsidy to the "Gold Spike" Railroad Company.

—In Cass Township, Dubois County, Ludwig Seig, an aged farmer, dropped dead while at work in a field.

—Joseph Leclaire, of Hanna, was instantly killed at La Porte, while crossing the Fort Wayne railroad ahead of the vestibule train.

—Mrs. Voorhees, mother of Senator Voorhees, near Stone Bluff, has received serious injuries by a fall on her head and face. Her advanced age makes her condition critical.

—The drillers struck a fine flow of artesian mineral water at C. Fletcher's residence at Spencer. The water pours out, by actual measurement, one hundred and eighty barrels per hour.

—A little daughter of Mrs Henry H. Snyder was frightfully burned about the head and shoulders by the burning of an apron which she had wrapped around her neck while playing near a bonfire.

—The spring trotting meeting which was to have been held in Fort Wayne in June has been declared off, as satisfactory arrangements could not be made with the other cities of the proposed circuit.

—Meyer Quint, of Richmond, died in the Jewish hospital at Cincinnati, of a fractured skull. He said the injury was accidental, but his friends believe he was struck by a companion and will investigate.

—W. A. Parker, a farmer residing near Azalia, Bartholomew County, while in Columbus, stepped off a side-track to avoid a freight train. He stood near the cerealine-mill, where he was struck by a switching engine and pressed against a wall with such force as to cause death.

—A large number of fox-hounds that had been chasing a fox near Columbus, for twelve hours left their trail and fell upon a flock of sheep, and killed forty and wounded many more before they could be checked by their owners. Three of the hounds were killed before they would quit their murderous work.

—While James Evers, one of the proprietors of the Cottage steam laundry of Muncie, was working one of the ironing machines he got his right hand caught between the large hot cylinders, where it was badly burned and mashed. When released from the perilous position the flesh dropped from the bones in strips, leaving them bare.

—A large oak saw-log hauled in to Maley's saw-mill, at Columbus, from the woods, which was cracked and somewhat windshaken in the heart, while being quartered up, fell apart, and blacksnakes began running in every direction. Twenty-seven of the reptiles of all sizes were killed, besides several that got away, the largest of which measured six feet seven inches in length.

—State Fish Commissioner Dennis will institute proceedings in the Dubois County courts against persons who have been violating the fish laws by seining in Patoka and other rivers of that county.

—The barn of Michael Hannahan, nine miles southeast of Marion, was destroyed by fire with all its contents, including three horses and two head of cattle. The loss is $2,000, partially covered by insurance in a New York company. The fire is supposed to have been cause by tramps.

—While using some alcohol near a lighted lamp Mrs. George La Comty, living near Syracuse, Kosicusko County, was seriously burned by the fluid igniting and setting fire to her clothing. It is thought she cannot recover.

—Will Reed, employed in the saw-mill of his brother, C. E. Reed, at Swayzee, was instantly killed. A ragged sleeve caused him to be caught in the machinery. His right arm was jerked off, both legs were broken in two places, and he was mangled beyond recognition. Deceased was 23 years old and unmarried.

—Isaac Lavender, a brick-layer of Evansville, while on his way to his work was run down by the cars, having his head cut completely off and his body badly mangled. He was about fifty years of age, and leaves a large family.

—Mrs. Albert Butt, an aged German lady residing near Napoleon, was found dead in a well near her residence. She had been declared insane a day or two ago, and the Sheriff was going to take her to the asylum. She declared she would not go. It is supposed she committed suicide to avoid the asylum.

—S. B. Erdhaus and Miss Lena Defner, of Shelbyville, and the latter's sister, Miss Anna Defner, and a Mr. Wolfe, both of Cincinnati, while out riding near Shelbyville, had a runaway and were all badly hurt except Mr. Wolfe, who suffered slight internal injuries. Miss Anna Defner had a leg and arm broken, and Miss Lena was cut about the face and bruised all over. Erdhaus had his leg badly hurt and his shoulder severely bruised.

—The Welker Colored Plate Glass Company, of Findlay, O., has closed a contract with Rekley citizens to establish a glass plant there within ninety days, giving employment to fifty men. The bonus given them is five acres of land, free gas and $6,000 in cash, the company binding themselves to employ 100 men in one year from the first fire, and to keep the plant in operation at least five years. The money has been raised and the land secured, and the enterprise is an assured fact.

—Mamie, the handsome little 3-year-old daughter of James Masterson, a prominent farmer living near Pulaski, was playing about a burning stump in a patch of ground where they had been clearing, when her clothing caught fire. Before her father could reach her she was so badly burned and the flesh on her little limbs so completely cooked that it fell in great bunches from the bones, when they lifted her from the ground. In this condition she lived for a few hours, when death relieved her of her pain.

—The gas well being drilled on the farm of Benj. Foust, south of Knightstown has developed into a great salt producer. At a depth of 800 feet a volume of water burst forth from the well, and has since been flowing at a height of fifty feet, bringing out with it an abundant supply of pure salt. The contractor of the well said that it was producing one hundred barrels of salt a day. Major Doxey was informed, and will at once make arrangements to utilize the valuable production of the well. Immense crowds viewed the novel sight.

—William A. Parker, aged 74 years, a millwright by occupation, who resided at Azalia, in Bartholomew County, was standing on a switch used by the J., M. & I. Railroad Company, entering between two brick walls to the large cerealine mills, when suddenly a switch engine, pushing a large freight-car, dashed in upon, and caught him between the box-car and the brick wall, in a space of but ten inches, and in a standing position, rolled him a distance of thirty feet, crushing the bones of his chest, and causing his death in thirty minutes.

—The other day at Muncie, Melvin H. Tyler took out a license to wed Miss Emma Heffner. Tyler, who is a prominent manufacturer, came to Muncie two years ago and wedded the same lady, with whom he lived nearly a year, when a former wife from Portland, Me., whom he had deserted, had him arrested, convicted and sentenced for bigamy. Tyler's popularity and failing health secured a pardon for him from jail, where he was serving the lowest possible sentence. During the trial wife No. 1 agreed to get a divorce and free him if $500 alimony be allowed her and her child, which was done, and Tyler has recieved the papers that made him free to wed Miss Heffner, which he will do.

—Pension Agent Ensley has made out and forwarded to William Bohley, of Linton, Green County, a voucher of $13,636.80, the largest amount of pension money ever paid to any one man in the State of Indiana. Bohley was a private in Company F, Thirty-first Indiana Volunteer Infantry, Gen. Cruft's regiment, and is now blind from a disease of the eyes contracted while in the army. He is a German, about fifty-two years old, and owns a little farm near Linton, which place is largely made up of Germans. Until Bohley's claim of $13,637.80 was ordered paid, the largest pension granted in this State was that of Owen Flaherty, of Terre Haute, who, on Feb. 20 last, was given $13,079.07. Flaherty is insane from wounds received in the service.

—Two years ago a fine-looking young fellow, named Charles Shephard, came to Elkhart from Michigan, won the affections of Miss Lulu Horton, daughter of Dr. John Horton, and later married her under duress. As soon as the marriage ceremony was over Shephard disappeared, and, though his wife did all in her power to discover his whereabouts, she did not succeed, and at last secured a divorce on the ground of desertion. The other day, however, Shephard voluntarily, apparently conscience-stricken, put in an appearance, won anew the affection of his disheartened wife, secured a license, was remarried by Judge Henderson, and the happy couple went to Grand Rapids, where he has a good position. Shepard's family is wealthy and influential, and, it is understood, had something to do with his return to the girl he had deserted.

—The Greencastle gas well is down 2,475 feet, and the drillings fail to pump out. The contractors are at a loss to know what becomes of them.

—Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Sykes, who reside near the government weather station at Weed Patch Hill, in Brown County, have a 4-year-old midget. The little boy is eighteen inches in height and weighs but twenty pounds. He has never known what it is to be sick any length of time. The father and mother are rather portly and of the average height.

—Jule Sarasinzin, the 4-year-old son of a French miner, August Sarasinzin, who lives at South Washington, was playing with matches when his clothes became ignited, and before assistance reached him the little fellow was burned to death.

—Madison coal merchants shipped during the year 2,500 car-loads of coal to stations along the line of the J., M. & I. Railroad. This year's shipments promise to be much larger than those of last year, and it is expected that the number of car-loads shipped from that city will reach nearly 1,000.

If Your Liver Reminds You

Of its existence by dull pain or sharp twinges in the right side, or beneath the dexter shoulder-blade, accept the reminder as a warning, and regulate the organ without loss of time, by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The above symptoms are usually accompanied by yellowness of the skin, constipation, furred tongue, disorder of the stomach, sick headache and morning nausea. But a reform is promptly instituted by the Bitters, the best possible substitute for calomel, blue pill, and other superpotent and hurtful drugs erroneously designated as remedies for biliousness. Appetite and digestion are restored, and the bowels resume activity, when an impetus is given to the functions of health by this sterling anti-bilious medicine, which also has the effect of enriching and purifying the circulation, and fortifying the system against malarial infection in air or water. It is also highly beneficial for rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles.

From the Advance Sheets of "Damon and Pythias."

"I've seen plenty of cowboys in my life," said the Major, rising from his chair and lighting a fresh cigar; "but there is one thing I never saw and never expect to see."

"What is that, Major?" asked the Colonel, filling his glass and twirling his mustache gracefully.

"A boy-cow," replied the Major.

This was the beginning of the end. A year later these two men met in the twilight of a summer evening. No look of recognition, no glad words of welcome passed between them. They were as strangers.—Puck.

HALL'S CATARRH CURE is a liquid and is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Write for testimonials, free. Manufactured by F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

He Did Not Get Enough.

Gilhooly—The bigger fool a man is the more luck he has.

Gus De Smith—What causes you to make that remark?

"You know Tom Beasly?"

"Yes."

"Well, he has married a widow worth $50,000."

"Humph! If he had had luck in proportion to his stupidity he would have had a million, at least."—Texas Siftings.

Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup.

There is certainly something remarkable in this preparation, as it is meeting with a success never attained by any other medicine. It never fails if used as directed.

For over twenty years I have been a great sufferer from the effects of a diseased stomach, and for three years past have been unable to do business. Two years ago my case was pronounced incurable. I visited different water cures and climates, all to no purpose. Last June I began taking Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup (prepared by Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich.), and at once began to feel better. I have used thirteen bottles and am a well man.

EDWARD BAKER,
Master Mechanic and Blacksmith, 202 Jackson street, Jackson, Mich.

If you wish to keep your horse fat don't allow any man to get a lien on him.—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

ST JACOBS OIL
CURES PERMANENTLY
SPRAINS and STRAINS.

Athletes Praise it Highly.
656 Minna St., San Francisco, Cal., May 3, 1887.
Some time ago, while a member of the Olympic Athletic Club, I sprained my knees severely and suffered agony, but was speedily and completely cured by St. Jacobs Oil.
JOHN GARBUTT.

Jumped from Engine.
609 S. 17th St., Omaha, Neb., Sept. 22, 1888.
I jumped from an engine in collision, and strained my ankle very badly. I used canes for weeks. St. Jacobs Oil completely cured me.
G. ROEDER.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

To Restore Tone
and Strength
to the System when weakened by
La Grippe
or any other
Illness,
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
is positively
unequalled.
Get the BEST.
Prepared by
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

SEVEN SEVENTEEN SEVENTY
To cure Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, Malaria, Liver Complaints, take the safe and certain remedy, SMITH'S
BILE BEANS
Use the SMALL SIZE (40 little beans to the bottle). They are the most convenient; suit all ages. Price of either size 25 cents per bottle.
KISSING at 7, 17, 70: Photo-gravure, panel size of this picture for 4 cents (coppers or stamps).
J. F. SMITH & CO., Makers of "Bile Beans," St. Louis, Mo.

I LIKE MY WIFE
TO USE
POZZONI'S
MEDICATED
COMPLEXION
POWDER.
Because it Improves Her Looks and is as Fragrant as Violets.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

MAY FLOWERS—OF SONG
FOR SCHOOLS.
CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SONGS (35 cts., $3.60 doz.) of simple explanations, and 119 new and selected songs for general singing. This little book is being received with much favor.
Kindergarten Chimes. ($1.25.) Kate Douglas Wiggin. Good manual, and fine collection.
Kindergarten and Primary School Songs. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Menard.
Songs and Games for Little Ones. ($2.) Walker and Jenks.
Gems for Little Singers. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Emerson and Swayne.
Rhymes and Tunes. ($1.) Mrs. Osgood.
Motion Songs. (25 cts., $2.28 doz.) Mrs. Boardman.
Get them all! They are most delightful books! Also try the sweet little Cantatas:
Kingdom of Mother Goose. (25 cts., $2.28 dozen.) Mrs. Boardman.
Rainbow Festival. (20 cts., $1.80 doz.) Lewis.
Who Killed Cock Robin? (40 cts., $3.60 dozen.) Ford.
Song Manual: Book 1, Primary. 30c; $3.00 doz. Book 2, Medium. 40c; $4.20 doz. Book 3, High. 50c; $4.80 doz.
By Emerson. These are the newest and best books for teaching music in schools.
Send for Lists and Descriptions.
Any book mailed for retail price.
LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.
OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

Ely's Cream Balm
IS SURE TO CURE
Cold in Head
QUICKLY.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

BABY FREE

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION
THE RESULT OF USING LIQUID POLISHES MADE OF WAX BENZINE TURPENTINE ETC.

ABSOLUTELY NON COMBUSTIBLE
EBONY STOVE ENAMEL
ONLY PERFECTLY SAFE LIQUID STOVE POLISH MADE
ALSO EBONY PASTE POLISH
ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT BUY IT TRY IT
THE BUFFALO POLISH CO LTD BUFFALO NY

USE ONLY THE BEST.
UNDERWOOD'S
CELEBRATED
WRITING AND COPYING INKS,
MUCILAGE, Etc.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.
TYPEWRITER RIBBONS,
CARBON PAPERS,
LINEN PAPERS,
RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.
163 LaSalle St. CHICAGO. | 30 Vesey St. NEW YORK. | 10 Johnston St. TORONTO.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
DIABETES
LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.
PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE
Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write
WM. T. LINDLEY & CO.,
214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1, '88. Brightine cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. Mrs. A. A. Gilliam, Treas. Woman's Exchange.
Chicago, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, Brightine entirely cured me. A. C. Smith, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.
Buffalo, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. Brightine cured me. Shanahan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.
St. Louis, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. Stand'd Drug Co. 900 Franklin Av.
St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. Meyerbrook, D'gs 109 S. B'way.
Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. Rev. John Hawkes.
Chicago Times, March 28, '88—Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88.—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88, PRAISE BRIGHTINE.
Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros. J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS
A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA
One package of Steketee's Dry Bitters will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packets for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address,
GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Always mention this paper.

FOR MEN ONLY!
VIGOR AND STRENGTH
For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Older Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE RAIN UPON THE ROOF.

BY ARTHUR E. SMITH.

Oh! I love, upon the roof, to hear the patter of the rain,
And the music, when it dashes swift against the window pane,
Then I love to sit and watch the wheat bending unto the breeze,
And the dripping of the rain-drops from the arching linden trees,
For I know the storm will vanish soon and bright the sun will shine,
And the flowers I love, more sweet, will raise their love-lit eyes to mine.

How I love to watch the leaden clouds sail swiftly overhead,
And to hear the distant thunder's roar, and the storm's heavy tread!
There is grandeur when the great clouds roll across the western sky,
And the grey mists sweep in splendor down the wooded hillsides nigh,
While in sheets before the wind, the rain drives o'er the parched plain,
And the proud pines sway and bend before the strength of the hurricane.

But I like the storms of life, because they make the heart more strong;
When the storms of sin sweep down, the heart grows stronger 'gainst the wrong;
As the oak upon the hillside, wrenched by ev'ry passing gale,
Ever takes a deeper, firmer root within the strength'ning soil;
So the heart, when wrenched by storms of sin, for strength looks to the Lord,
And takes deeper, firmer hold in the precious glories of his word.

Oh! I love, upon the roof, to hear the patter of the rain,
And the music, when it dashes swift against the window pane,
For there's hours of solid comfort when the skies are overcast,
And Dame Nature, fresher, fairer will seem when the storm is past.
As the sun shines brighter after the dark clouds have rolled away,
So the soul, after fierce trials, will upon its pilgrim way.

APPLETON, Wis.

The Piccadilly Puzzle.

THE STORY OF A TERRIBLE EPISODE IN THE LIFE OF AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN.

By F. W. HUME.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued.

"I wish to know," said Dowker, "if you are aware that your wife called at Lord Calliston's chambers on the night of the murder?"

"Who says so?" asked Balscombe, harshly.

"No one," replied the detective, "but did she?"

"I cannot tell you," said Sir Rupert; and he gave the same account of his movements on the night in question as he had done to Norwood.

"Oh," said Dowker, stroking his chin; "so you were in town after all on that night?"

Sir Rupert looked uncomfortable under the steady gaze of the detective, and blurted out, somewhat confusedly, that he was.

"And you," questioned Dowker, turning to Norwood, "think it was Lady Balscombe that Desmond saw?"

"Yes; because he said he could not get permission to speak except from the lady on board the Seamew, and the lady we know is Sir Rupert's wife."

"But Lady Balscombe did not leave this house till after 12 o'clock, and as the woman saw Mr. Desmond before that time it could not have possibly been Lady Balscombe."

"How do you know my wife did not leave till after 12?" demanded Balscombe.

"From the evidence of her maid, Anne Lifford."

"Yes, she told me the same thing," interposed May, "and if that is so, well——" she looked at the other three in helpless confusion.

"As Mr. Desmond refuses to give us any information," said Dowker, the only thing to be done is to wait and find out the truth from Lady Balscombe herself."

"What could she know about this woman's death?" asked Sir Rupert.

"She might not know much," replied Dowker, significantly, "but enough to show in what way her sister met her death."

"Her sister!" echoed the others in surprise.

"Yes, I have ascertained Lena Sarschine to have been the sister of Lady Balscombe."

"Are you mad?" said the baronet, angrily. "Do you know who my wife was?"

"I do. The daughter of Captain Michael Dicksfall, of Folkestone—he had two daughters, twins; one, Miss Helena Dicksfall, ran away with Lord Calliston three years ago and became Lena Sarschine, the other, Miss Amelia Dicksfall, married Sir Rupert Balscombe."

The baronet sank into his seat looking pale and haggard.

"My God," he muttered, "this is worse and worse. I knew Amelia had a twin sister, but understood she was dead."

"Dead as Helen Dicksfall, not as Lena Sarschine."

At this moment a servant entered with a telegram which he handed to Sir Rupert. Tearing it open the baronet glanced hastily over it and then sprung to his feet.

"Now we will know the truth," he said, triumphantly.

"What do you mean?" asked May, trembling in every limb.

"Simply this," said her guardian, crushing up the telegram in his hand, "the Seamew is on her way to England."

CHAPTER XIV.

A STARTLING DISCOVERY.

Myles had no warmer supporter among all his friends than Spencer Ellersby. The young man appeared to be genuinely sorry that his evidence about meeting Desmond in St. James street should be used against him.

"Hang it," he said to Marton, as they were seated at their club, "if I had only known how it would have been twisted I'd not have said a word, but that detective fellow got it out of me somehow—brute of a fellow—killed my dog, you know, Pickles."

"Well, I hear they'll not be able to prove the dagger in Desmond's possession was the one used," said Marton, "good for poor old Myles—hey!"

"I think it's rubbish, the whole thing," retorted Ellersby, hotly, "what the deuce should Myles kill this woman for? She was nothing to him; more likely Calliston knows more about it."

While this interesting conversation was going on, Sir Rupert, Dowker, and Norwood were all in a first-class carriage on their way to Brighton. As Marton had informed Ellersby, the Seamew had returned to England the previous day, and now the trio were going down to see if Lady Balscombe could give them any information likely to solve the mystery of the murder of Lena Sarschine.

On the way down Norwood told Dowker the discovery he had made about the dagger, at which the detective was much astonished.

"If, as you say," he remarked, "the lodging-house servant can prove the broken dagger was in the house all the time, it certainly cannot have been the weapon used, and yet it corresponds in every particular with the other weapon I took from Cleopatra Villa. I can quite understand Miss Sarschine taking it and the manner in which it came into Desmond's possession, but if this was not the weapon used, where is the weapon that was?"

"There are plenty of these daggers," suggested Norwood.

"Certainly—but the coincidence in this case is that the dagger found in Mr. Desmond's rooms, which came from the house of the murdered woman, was poisoned, and Lena Sarschine was killed by a poisoned instrument."

"There were no other daggers taken from the house, I suppose?" asked Norwood.

"Not that I know of," replied the detective, "but I am convinced that the whole secret of this crime lies in the conversation between Mr. Desmond and Lady Balscombe."

"You do not say my wife is guilty of this murder?" said Sir Rupert, angrily.

"I say nothing," replied Dowker, evasively, "till I see Lady Balscombe."

When the trio arrived at Brighton it was growing late, so they went to the Ship Hotel and had something to eat. Finding out from the waiter that the Seamew was lying a short distance from the pier they went down, and hiring a boat rowed to the yacht. When they climbed up on to the deck they were accosted by one of the officers, who wanted to know their business.

"We want to see Lord Calliston," said Balscombe quietly.

"I'm afraid that's impossible," replied the officer, "as he went up to town to-day on business."

"Is there not a lady on board?" asked Norwood.

"Yes—you mean——"

"Never mind telling us her name," said Balscombe shortly, feeling a horror at hearing his wife's name mentioned. "Can we see her?"

"I will ask," answered the officer; and he went down-stairs to the cabin, from which he soon reascended with the news that they could go down.

Dowker went first, followed by Norwood and Sir Rupert, all feeling in a strange state of excitement at the prospect of the coming interview.

The cabin was small, but luxuriously fitted-up in pale-blue silk, and the walls paneled in oak, with small medallions of seascapes around. A lamp hanging from the ceiling shed a soft, mellow light over all, and on the table below was a work-basket and some embroidery.

"She has been working, I see," whispered Balscombe with a sneer, as they entered into the cabin. No one was present, but suddenly they heard the rustle of a dress, and a curtain at the end of the cabin parted, admitting a woman—a tall, fair-faced woman, with shining golden hair.

At this sight, Norwood and Dowker turned to look on Sir Rupert, to watch the effect of the sight of his wife on him, when they saw he was pale as death and had made a step forward.

"You wish to see me?" asked the lady, advancing toward the group.

"You——you——" cried Sir Rupert in a choking voice. "You are not Lady Balscombe."

"I!" in surprise. "No!—I am not Lady Balscombe."

Dowker and Norwood turned suddenly.

"Who are you?"

"Lena Sarschine!"

CHAPTER XV.

MORE REVELATIONS.

If there were ever three men taken aback, those three were certainly in the cabin of the Seamew. As for Miss Sarschine, she stood looking calmly at them with an expression of surprise.

"Will you kindly tell me what you want?" she asked quietly. "Is it to see Lord Calliston?"

"No," replied Dowker, who had somewhat recovered himself, "we wanted to see you."

"To see me?" she said with surprise.

"Or, at least, Lady Balscombe."

Miss Sarschine smiled contemptuously.

"I understand what you mean," she said, coolly. "You thought that Lord Calliston had eloped with Lady Balscombe—so he intended to have done, but I changed his plans and eloped instead."

"And where did you leave Lady Balscombe on the night you visited her?" asked Norwood.

"I do not answer that question till I know who you are," she said boldly, frowning at him.

"I will tell you," said Sir Rupert, who had hitherto kept silent. "This gentleman is Mr. Norwood, a solicitor; this Mr. Dowker, of Scotland Yard; and I am Sir Rupert Balscombe."

"You—you Sir Rupert Balscombe?" she said quickly.

"Your sister's husband."

"How do you know Lady Balscombe was my sister?"

"I found it out," interposed Dowker, "from your father, Captain Dicksfall."

"My father," she murmured, turning pale. "You have seen him?"

"Yes."

"Well," she said coldly, "now you have found out my relationship with Lady Balscombe, what do you want to see me about?"

"Her murder," said Dowker, in a deep voice.

She sprang forward with a sudden cry.

"Her murder—her—what do you mean?"

"I mean that the victim of the Jermyn street murder, whom we thought to be you, turns out to be Lady Balscombe."

"My wife?" said Sir Rupert, with a groan, burying his face in his hands.

"God!—it's too horrible," cried Lena, and sank down into a chair. "Amelia dead—murdered—by whom?"

"That's what we want to find out," said Norwood, coldly.

"What enemies had she?" muttered Miss Sarschine half to herself. "None that would desire her death. I cannot understand—I cannot." Then suddenly struck by a thought she asked. "Why did you think that the dead woman was me?"

"Because she was dressed in your clothes."

"Yes! yes!" she said, feverishly. "I can understand now—I can understand."

"Where did you see her last?" asked Norwood.

"At her own house in Park Lane."

"Did you leave her there?"

"No! she left me."

"Oh!" cried Dowker, a light breaking in on him, "now I understand—you changed clothes there, and she left the house first."

"She did—to go to Calliston's rooms."

"I thought so," said Norwood, with a cry of triumph; "it was Lady Balscombe Desmond saw."

"Desmond! Desmond!" she echoed. "What has he to do with this?"

"Simply this—he is now in prison on a charge of murdering Lena Sarschine."

"I see you mistook my sister for me—but murder—I can't understand—I can't understand." And she pressed her hand across her forehead.

Sir Rupert looked up.

"Listen to me," he said, sternly; "a man's life hangs on your evidence, so tell us all that happened between you and my wife on that night."

There was a carafe of water on the table, and filling a glass from it Lena drank it up quickly, and then turned with ashen face to the three men, who sat cold and silent before her.

"I will tell you all," she said, in a shaky voice, "and you can form your own conclusions."

The three settled themselves to listen, and she began to speak in a trembling voice, which gradually became steadier, the following story:

"I need not tell you my early history, as you already know it. When I left Folkestone I went abroad with Lord Calliston, and when we returned he took the house for me in St. John's Wood. I stayed with him because I loved him, and he promised to marry me—a promise he has since fulfilled. When my sister became known in London as Lady Balscombe, I soon found it out from Calliston, and then implored him to make me his wife. He laughed, and said he would. Then my sister fell in love with him—not he with her, I swear, for he loves no one but me—and in the end she persuaded him to elope with her. I discovered the fact from my maid, who learned it from Lady Balscombe's maid, Anne Lifford, and in despair I went to see Calliston and implore him to give up the mad idea. Blinded with rage and despair, I took a dagger from the wall of my drawing-room, intending to kill Calliston if he did not agree to give up my sister. Sounds melodramatic, I know, but look what I had at stake! Calliston was not in, and I only saw Mr. Desmond, who tried to persuade me to go home again. He tried to get the dagger from me, and I flung it across the room. By accident he put his foot on it and broke it. So, seeing it was useless, I made no further attempt to get it, and he put the pieces in his pocket. Then I went home in despair, but could not rest. I went out with the intention of catching an early train to Shoreham, concealing myself on board the yacht, and then confront my sister when she arrived.

"Then I thought I would call and implore her to give up my lover. She had gone to a ball, but I waited for her, and when she came into the room revealed myself. We had a stormy scene—she refused to give Calliston up, and, at length, the only thing I could obtain from her was this, that she would go to Calliston's chambers, ask him if his love was for her or me, and when she got his answer return to me at Park Lane. I agreed to this, but proposed, as she would compromise herself in going to a bachelor's rooms at that hour of the night, that she should put on my clothes, and, as we were very like one another, she could pass herself off for me in the event of discovery. We changed clothes, and she went away while I remained and locked myself in her room. I waited nearly all night for her return, but as she did not come I left the house about 4 o'clock in the morning, and went to London Bridge station, where I caught the 5:45 train to Shoreham. I was dressed in Lady Balscombe's clothes, and went straight on board the yacht without awaking suspicion, as they were expecting my sister. I went into my cabin and fell asleep, worn out with the events of the night. When I woke, about 10 o'clock, I found we were on our way, and that Lord Calliston was on board. Being told that Lady Balscombe was on board asleep, he did not trouble himself to see me, or else he would have discovered the truth, but said I was not to be disturbed, and gave orders for the yacht to start. When he did see me I need hardly tell you his surprise. I told him all, and we had a terrible battle over things. He wanted to go back again to England, but I swore I'd throw myself overboard if he did, so he yielded, and in the end we made it up. We started for the Azores, but the yacht became disabled in a storm, and put in to a French port, where we were married by the English Consul. Then we started back for England, and arrived yesterday. Lord Calliston went up to town on business, and I remained here; so that is all I know of the affair."

"Then you are now Lady Calliston?" said Sir Rupert.

"Yes, he has done me that justice at last."

"Then I hope you'll have a happier life and end than your sister," said the baronet, bitterly; "but even what you have told us does not solve the mystery of her death."

"It solves a good many things, however," said Dowker, cheerfully; "it proves the truth of Mr. Desmond's statement about the dagger, and shows us how it was Lady Balscombe went to Lord Calliston's chambers, instead of Miss Sarschine—I beg pardon, Lady Calliston—but tell me, madame, did your husband know of the murder before he left England?"

"No, how could he?" she said, in surprise. "He came down to Shoreham by an early train and the yacht left at once."

"But he would be sure to see about it in the morning papers?" suggested Norwood.

"He would only see the announcement, but no details," said Dowker, "and thinking Lady Balscombe was on board the yacht and Miss Sarschine at home he would never think one of them was the victim."

"Well, gentlemen," said Sir Rupert, turning his haggard face toward them, "now we have discovered the dead woman to have been my wife, what is the next thing to be done?"

"See Lord Calliston," answered Dowker, promptly, "I want to know all his movements on that night."

"You don't suspect him?" said Lena, turning on him like a tiger.

"I never said I did," he replied, quietly. "I merely want to find out his movements, and I daresay he'll have no hesitation in giving an account of them."

"Of course he won't," she replied, wearily. "And now, as I've told you all, you'll permit me to retire. I'm quite worn out."

She bowed to the three men, then left the cabin slowly. When she disappeared, Dowker shook himself briskly.

"Well, gentlemen, we must go back to town at once and see Lord Calliston. I want an account of all his movements on that night, and I already know where he was at 9 o'clock."

"Where?" asked Norwood, curiously.

"At the 'Pink 'Un,' Soho, to see a boxing match; afterward I don't know where he went, but I must have a satisfactory explanation."

"But you don't think he murdered Lady Balscombe?" said the baronet.

Dowker looked wise.

"No," he replied, significantly. "I don't think he murdered Lady Balscombe, but he might have murdered Lena Sarschine."

"You mean he might have mistook my wife for her?"

"Exactly."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Driving a Yoke of Oxen.

We were sitting on the veranda of a village hotel in Wisconsin when a man drove up with a yoke of oxen and entered the hardware store opposite.

"The ox is a curious animal when you come to study him," observed the agent of a New York hardware house.

"Yes, and it is quite a knack to drive a yoke of them," replied the drummer from a Philadelphia cloth house.

"Pooh!"

"Don't you believe it?

"Naw! Anybody can drive oxen."

"They can, eh? I'll go you five that you can't drive that yoke around the square without an accident of some sort."

"Done!"

And we went over and told the farmer what was up, and promised him the stakes, no matter who won. He looked rather anxious, but finally consented, and the drummer took the gad, stepped to the shoulder of the nigh ox, and called out:

"Gee up, boys—come along, now!"

They looked at him in astonishment, shook their heads, and the farmer called out:

"Look out a little for that off ox. He's bin sort o' sneezy all day."

"Oh, I'm on to him. Gee up, I say!"

He touched the off one with the gad, and they moved off at a fast pace. We followed, of course, and they proceeded fairly well to the first corner. Here was where they were to turn to the left, and the drummer called out:

"Gee there, boy—whoa! gee!"

But they didn't. They put their heads down elevated their tails, and started for the country on a wild run, and in three minutes were out of sight. The farmer received the $10, and then he started after them. We did not see him again until dark. Then he came in on foot to hunt us up, and say:

"Boys, it was kind in you to give me that $10, but when I came to figure up damages I found myself just $37 short. That 'ere partner of yours had better let oxen alone after this, and try hogs or geese."

FOLLY AS IT FLIES.

A hard blow—a hurricane.

Passing away time—handing over your watch to a footpad.

Woman may be a conundrum, a puzzle, but the world will never give her up.

She—Clarence, I am afraid you are a black sheep. He—Yes, dear, that is why I love ewe.

"The bustle is a thing of the past," says a fashion exchange. It always was a little behind.

The Indiana couple who were married by telephone must not be surprised if they find their anticipated heaven a hell-o.

Mrs. de Million—And you thought I married you for love? What did you take me for? De Milton (mournfully)—For better or worse.

Louisa—Mamma, I'm quite disappointed in Robert. Mamma—Why, dear? Louise—Why, when I said "yes" he merely kissed my hand.

There is only only one letter in a man's alphabet and that is "I;" only one in a girl's and that is "O," only one in a married woman's and that is "U."

"I don't like your acquaintance. Who is he?" "An acrobat." "He's too fresh to suit me." "Acrobats are queer people. Some are fresh and somersault."

Young Callow—I say, fellow, I'm in a great hurry. Give me two pounds of dog biscuit? Clarkson (formerly in gents' furnishing goods)—Yes, sir; for yourself, sir?

Judge—Can you give any reason why you can't pay your debts? Delinquent Debtor—I have nine reasons, your Honor, a wife, a mother-in-law, six children and an empty pocketbook.

A soft answer: Wife (reproachfully)—You never kiss me now; (suspiciously)—Why don't you? Husband—Because I'm ashamed to, my love. You're getting to look too young for such nonsense.

Publisher—Can I get credit here? Banker—I never give credit. Publisher—Why, I remember you now. You used to be the editor of the Angel Choir. You never gave credit then, either.

Charley Lovelox (who sees a chance to say something really bright)—Weally, Miss Squelcher, you wemind me of a Cowoner's juwy. Miss Squelcher—Yes! Why, pray? Charley Lovelox—Why, you sit on a body so, you know.

Daintily expressed: Old Brer Jackson—Dat ar gal yoah Mose am keepin' comp'ny wif am mos' white; ain't she Mrs. Johnson? Old Man Johnson—Why, yes; she am pooty light fo' a a brunette!

"What is it, little girl?" said a Harlem grocer to a five-year-old miss, as he leaned over the counter. Little girl—Mamma sent me for a lamp chimney and she says she hopes it will be as strong as the last butter you sent us.

Pompano—These high hats have their uses. I sat behind one of them last night in the theater and rather enjoyed the sensation. De Baggs—But I understood that you never saw the stage? Pompano—That was the enjoyable part. It was an amateur performance of "Hamlet."

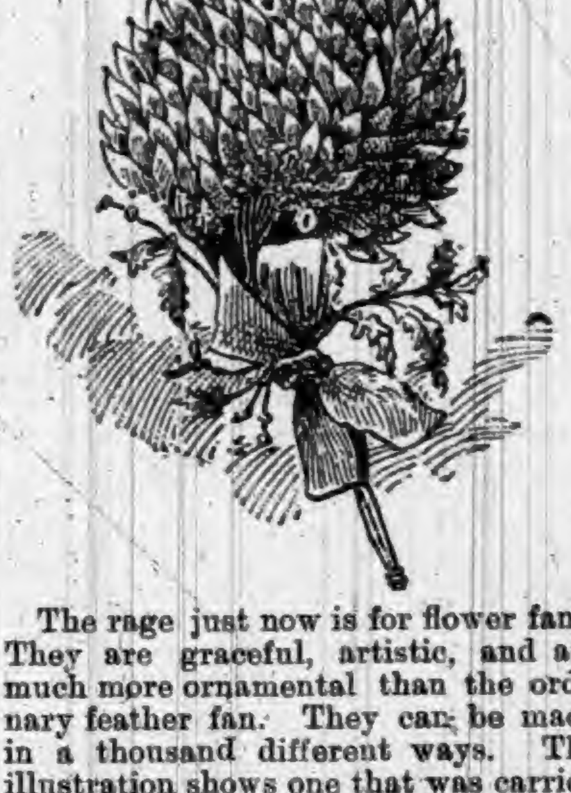
COUNTED OUT.

I thought that I had won her heart,
That she was mine alone;
No more would rivals rouse my fears,
Henceforth her love I'd own.

For she had asked in tender tones,
In which true love sighs were,
If I my latest photograph
Would kindly give to her.

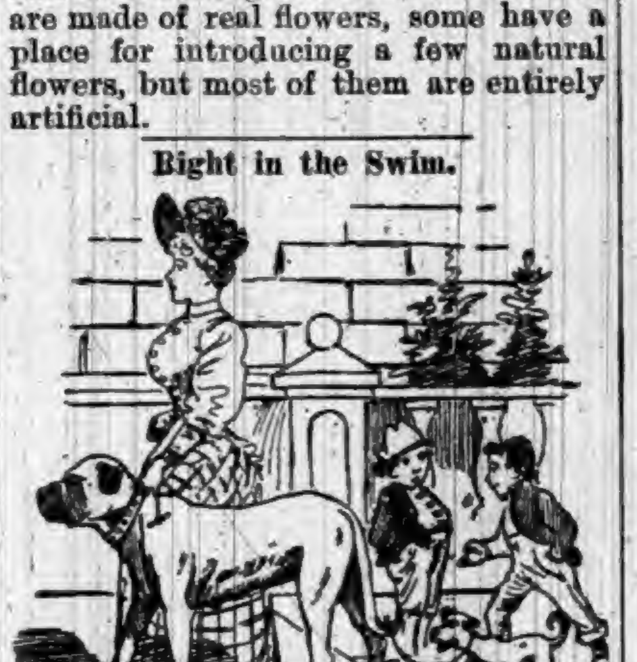
Deceitful wretch! she gave it to
The maid that cleans the halls,
But first she wrote upon the back:
"I'm out when this one calls.

The Current Fancy in Fans.



The rage just now is for flower fans. They are graceful, artistic, and are much more ornamental than the ordinary feather fan. They can be made in a thousand different ways. The illustration shows one that was carried by a New York belle at a recent ball and attracted great attention. Some are made of real flowers, some have a place for introducing a few natural flowers, but most of them are entirely artificial.

Right in the Swim.



Jimmy—Wat's dat?

Swokes—Rattles don't have much fun, so I'm givin' him a high-toned percesh up the Avernyer.—Puck.

Sunset-Cox Said "Matrimony."

The following little anecdote shows the ready wit of the late S. S. Cox. It was during his visit at Huron, S. D., that a young lady, accompanied by her best young man, was introduced to the honored guest. Extending her hand to him, she said very gushingly:

"Oh, Mr. Cox, I am so glad to know you and hear you speak. Just say one word, one single little word, that I can say I have heard your voice."

The roguish statesman squeezed tenderly the soft, white hand that was laid in his, glancing at the faces of the young couple standing before him, and in a sweet, low voice said:

"Matrimony."

'Tis unnecessary to state that the day was soon named.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

It is impossible that an ill-natured man can have a public spirit; for how could he love ten thousand men who never loved one.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

TANK HEATER.
A GREAT SAVING
TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.
Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price.
Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.

COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES.
SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES.
O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO.,
LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR—
CRAYON PORTRAIT
NICELY
FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT.
Plush Border. Size, 24x28 inches.
For $3.00
As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00.
(ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.)
BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF
PROVOST'S
Cream Washing Powder.
ONLY COSTS 5c. PER PACKAGE.
One Coupon in Every Package. Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity.
Ask Your GROCER For It.
If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it.
WARREN PROVOST & CO.,
26-30 Humboldt St., - Brooklyn, N. Y.

DR. ELLIOTT'S
MEDICATED FOOD,
A Sure Cure for all Diseases in
HORSES,
Cattle, Sheep and Hogs
Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.
A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.
SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *6 20	am *6 05	......
Wheeling........	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 36	pm ‡3 15
Zanesville........	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark...........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus......ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 35
Columbus......lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	†6 50
Mansfield........	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 03
Deshler..........	3 39	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance.........	4 22	5 48	10 15	8 30	1 50
Auburn jc........	......	6 40	11 34	10 23	2 58
Avilla...........	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	1 16	am 12 05	4 16
Wellsboro........	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc.......	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 28
Avilla...........	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc........	......	7 05	12 38	3 28	9 40
Defiance.........	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 42
Mansfield........	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus.........	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark...........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville.......	8 50	1 31	1 42	1 33	5 20
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington....ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York......ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday.
‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

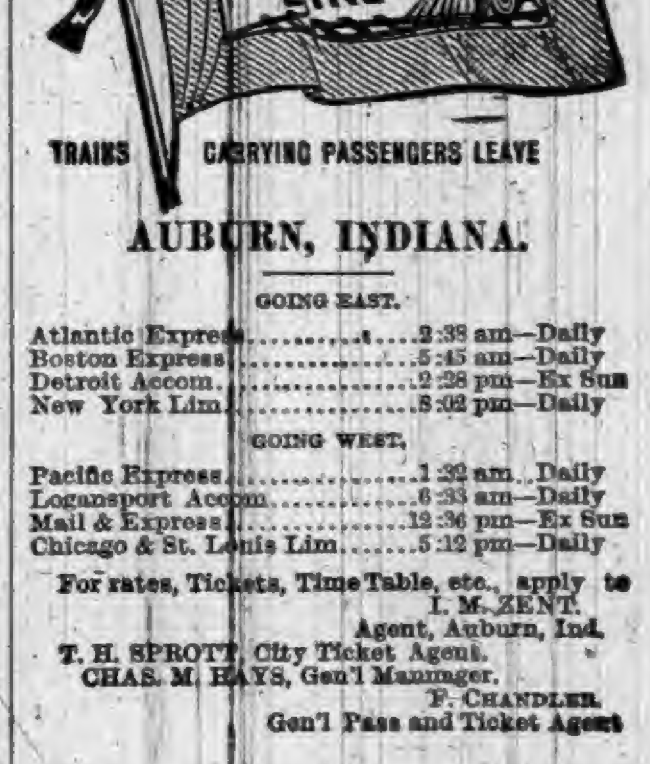
Stations—		Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne....	dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era.......		12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc...		12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn........		12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo......		12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit........		1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake.		1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola........		1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont.......		1 35	6 24	1 25 pm
Reading.......		2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers.......		2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale.....		2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc		2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville....		2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson.......		3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson.......	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville....	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale.....	....	12 30	7 45
Bankers.......	9 40	12 56	8 01
Reading.......	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont.......	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola........	12 00	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake.	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit........	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo......	2 35	2 35	9 23
Auburn........	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc...	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era.......	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne....	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..........2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express............5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.............2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim..............8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express...........1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom..........6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express............12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim...5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE
THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT
NO TROUBLE NO BOILING
POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS
75 CTS PER CAN
STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON
INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............MAY 1, 1890.

Announcements.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

I will again be a candidate for the position of representative in the state legislature from this county, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.
FREEMAN KELLEY.

FOR CLERK.

W. B. Brown, of Union township, will submit his name to the democratic county convention of May 31, for the nomination for clerk, subject to the decision of the delegates.

Wm. H. Leas, of Grant township, hereby submits his name to the democratic county convention, in the hope that he may receive at their hands, the choice for clerk of DeKalb circuit court.

Hon. D. D. Moody desires to say to the democratic delegate convention that assembles in Auburn May 31, that he hopes for a favorable consideration at their hands of his claims as a candidate for county clerk. He leaves his case subject to their decision.

Solomon Barney, of Concord, at the desire of many supporters will be a candidate for county clerk, subject to the action of the democratic convention.

TO THE EDITOR: Please announce me as a candidate from Smithfield, for the office of clerk of DeKalb county, subject to the decision of the coming convention JAMES W. CLARK.

AUDITOR.

I. N. Cool, of Auburn, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention for the nomination for auditor, and asks that his claims may have impartial consideration at their hands.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COURIER: Please announce the name of Frank Seiler, of Fairfield township, who will be a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the county democratic nominating convention to be held at Auburn, May 31, 1890.

I would respectfully announce my intention of being a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the democratic nominating convention
FRANK A. BORST.

H. N. Coffinbury, of Keyser township, will submit his name to the delegates to the democratic convention, as a candidate for county auditor, subject to their decision.

W. L. Blair, of Wilimington, desires to say to the delegates to the democratic county convention that he will submit his name to them and ask at their hands the nomination for county auditor.

SHERIFF.

Phil. Plum will be a candidate for renomination for sheriff subject to the democratic nominating convention of May 31.

TREASURER.

Reuben Sawvell, of Franklin, is announced as a candidate for the office of treasurer, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

Perry Fitch, of Butler township, at the request of numerous democratic friends will ask the nomination for treasurer at the coming county convention.

B. L. Duncan, of Grant, will ask the nomination for treasurer at the hands of the delegates to the democratic convention at Auburn, May 31.

Henry Hines of Jackson township, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention, for the office of treasurer, subject to their decision.

RECORDER.

George L. Lanning, of Union, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention which meets in this place May 31.

The name of Cory Shugers, of Jackson, will be submited to the favorable consideration of the democratic convention for the office of recorder at the request of many friends.

S. R. Heberling, of Union township, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention that meets May 31.

Noah H Weaver, of Grant township, submits his name for the office of recorder, subject to such action as may be deemed wise and consistent by the democratic convention of May 31.

EDITOR COURIER: Please announce the name of Lucius C. Loveland, as a candidate from Stafford township, for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention
MANY DEMOCRATS.

EDITOR COURIER: I will submit my name to the democratic county convention, as a candidate from Fairfield, for the office of recorder, subject to their decision. SAMUEL WILLIAMS.

TO THE COURIER: I will again be be a candidate from Grant township for recorder, of DeKalb county before the democratic convention of May 31, and subject to its decision.
W. S. GETTS.

Warren N. Miller, of Newville, will ask the nomination for recorder of DeKalb county at the coming democratic convention and subject to their decision.

Mahlon Baker, of Concord, will at the request of many democrats be a candidate for recorder at the coming county convention.

SURVEYOR.

Jacob M. Hook will be a candidate for renomination for county surveyor, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

COMMISSIONER.

The friends of Henry Lindorfer, of Jackson township, desire to announce his name as candidate for commissioner of the southwest district, at the coming democratic convention.

I will be a candidate for commissioner of the southwest district for a re-nomination at the hands of the democratic convention of May 31.
GILBERT I. PATTERSON.

EDITOR COURIER: The many democratic friends of James M. Henderson, of Jackson township, will ask his nomination for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the coming county convention.

Henry Hull, of Concord, will be a candidate for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

Robert N. Crooks, of Grant township, will be a candidate for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention of May 31.

As to the Candidates.

It cannot be expected that the COURIER should take sides in a contest for nominations. This would not be fair, for while trying to assist one democrat, we would run a risk of injuring another democrat. When the nominations are made, then we shall do our best to get the fortunate man elected as against his republican opponent. We shall give each name as the announcement is made, and in the same order:

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

Hon. Freeman Kelley, who has served the county in this capacity for two years, will again ask the people for their support. He served them well a year ago last winter, and worked hard to secure legislation the people need and which they have often asked. His course while there proved him to be a man of inflexible integrity and one who never lost sight of the interests of his people.

FOR CLERK.

W. B. Brown, as candidate for clerk, is a well known and popular business man here, having been one of the firm of Brown & Culbertson for several years He has also been for two years the county chairman of the democracy helping them to win the hard fought campaign of 1888, in which every man on the county ticket was elected. He is capable of filling this or any other office. He has never asked for an office before.

W. H. Leas, the next on the list is a rising attorney of Waterloo, an able business man, and one who will bring to the office, should he be the fortunate one, the necessary legal knowledge, to fill the place satisfactorily. He has a large acquaintance among and the confidence of our German speaking people, with whose language he is familiar. He has been "put on the ticket" a time or two for prosecutor, rather against his will, as the great majority against him made the race hopeless. He now, for the first time asks a place, where there will be a show for him to succeed.

Hon. D. D. Moody is too well known to need extended notice. He has served in the state legislature six years, and four years ago, was a candidate for nomination for clerk. He has been prominently identified with every campaign for several years, and his legal attainments will come in play in discharging the duties of clerk of the court should he succeed.

Solomon Barney, for clerk, is one of the best known of St. Joe's business men. He was formerly at Spencerville, where he was also in business. His democracy is of the most unswerving type, and he always helps to see that old Concord comes up smiling after a hard fight at each election.

James W. Clark, one of the candidates for clerk is a well-to-do intelligent farmer of Smithfield. He is well educated, having passed a good course in Commercial college at Hillsdale, Mich. He made the race four years ago, and had a flattering vote.

AUDITOR

I. N. Cool, is also a candidate for auditor. He is one of the best known of DeKalb county's active and energetic democrats. Always at the front and doing straight forward, honest work for the success of the ticket. He is a hard-working and industrious man, being now employed in a confidential position in the great Kiblinger factory. He has an excellent practical education and would make a superior officer.

Frank Seiler, of Fairfield, started in the race for auditor four years ago, but yielded gracefully to the successful man and helped all he could to keep in the line, the sturdy democrats of his township. He is well qualified, having a fine business education and belongs to a family that has always stood high in the county He also speaks the German language. He has been for several years a successful teacher.

Frank A. Borst, in announcing his name as a candidate for auditor, wishes to say that owing to this being the busy season, the demands on his time will prevent his meeting his friends at as early a date as he would like to. In addition, we might say, that Mr. Borst's ability and knowledge of the duties of the office are unquestioned, his long experience having made him familiar with every detail. He is a good man for the place.

H. N. Coffinberry, candidate for auditor is a well known and prominent officer for the B. & O. at Garrett. He occupied a similar position for the Wabash road while located at Butler. The fact that he has been retained in highly responsible positions by these roads for so many years, is evidence of his ability and integrity. There is no question as to his ability to fill the office.

W. L. Blair is too well known all over the county, to need a formal introduction. He stands high as a citizen, and is one of the earliest settlers of the county. He is familiar with the work that will be required of him. The county and the people would not suffer at his hands.

SHERIFF.

Phil Plum for sheriff, will have no opposition. There should be none. We always give a second term to a sheriff, and we feel sure he will meet no opposition. He has been an able officer so far. Give him the nomination unanimously

TREASURER.

Reuben Sawvel, of Franklin township, submits his name for this office. Mr. Sawvel is an intelligent farmer, who has also spent several years teaching. He has the unbounded confidence of his people, and would be an extra good officer. His claims should be carefully considered.

Perry Fitch, for treasurer is one of Butler township's best and most favorably known farmers. He in an intelligent and able business man, and if successful will make a good treasurer.

For treasurer, B. L. Duncan, of Waterloo, was in the race two years ago, but gave up gracefully to Mr. Probst. Now he is in the race to stay. He has never held a county office, but being a good business man is well qualified. He has been for some years a member of the well known and popular grocery firm of Duncan Brothers, and everybody knows him. He would be a good officer.

Henry Hines, "'Squire Hines" as his neighbors call him, for he was justice of the peace for many years, is a well to do Jackson township farmer, who has also the qualities necessary for a good treasurer. If he succeeds, the county's dollars will be properly cared for.

FOR RECORDER.

George L. Lanning, now a member of the town council of Auburn, is a young man of unusual intelligence and business capacity. He has also served several years with marked ability as city clerk. For several years he has been the bookkeeper and chief accountant, at J. L. Davis' hardware and banking establishment. If Mr. Lanning should be so fortunate as to get this office, he would not have to sub let the work, for he is of untiring industry.

Cory Shugers, is a young man of fine educational qualifications and good character. Being incapacitated for active farm work, he has come to the conclusion that he can succeed at something else. He is industrious and economical, and would be an excellent officer.

S. R. Heberling is candidate for recorder, and is a man well qualified for the place. He is of mature age, large business experience, has been a consistent democrat for 31 years, was a soldier during the war, and has fully earned recognition at the hands of his fellow democrats.

Noah H. Weaver, of Waterloo, is also one of the best known men in the county. He has been asked frequently to run for a county office, but has always declined till now. He desires the place of recorder, and would be an extra good man for the place. He has been day telegraph operator at Waterloo many years, showing that the company have had confidence in him.

L. C. Loveland, of Stafford township, a candidate for recorder, is a well known farmer, of that section. His home called "River Bluff Farm," is near the site of the Old Webster Mill, on the river north of it Newville. He is a self-sustaining, industrious man, and would fill the place satisfactorily.

Samuel Williams, of Fairfield, for recorder, sought the place four years ago, but was not successful. Since then he has given it to be understood that he would again ask the place. He is a sound man for the place, is an old soldier and would be a splendid officer.

W. S. Getts, of Waterloo, for recorder was before the convention four years ago, and was second. He is an industrious, hardworking man, having worked at the tinner's trade over twenty years. He will work as faithfully for the people if he gets it.

Warren Miller, of Newville, for recorder, is a young man of intelligence and capable of doing the work well. He is, we believe a son of John N. Miller, who was sheriff of this county one term from 1862 to 1864. We believe he is now a farmer.

Mahlon Baker, candidate for recorder, from Concord, is an industrious, intelligent and respected citizen one who is well qualified for the place. He was in the service during the late war and is a deserving man.

SURVEYOR.

J. M. Hook our efficient surveyor is entitled to a unanimous renomination, and will get it He has been a faithful, efficient and economical officer. His office is one that entails great expense, but it is not his fault. There is no officer more watchful or careful in regard to the expenses that come from the public funds. This should have weight in his election.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

Henry Lindorffer is a well known German American citizen of Jackson, one who has always earned his living by honest toil, and who therefore can be said to know the value of a dollar, whether it is his money, or belongs to the county. He has always been a hard working and staunch democrat.

G. I. Patterson, as candidate for commissioner needs no introduction to the people. He has already served them acceptably for two years, having yet another year to serve. He will ask a renomination, believing that his work so far will justify his request. He has been faithful and conscientious in the discharge of his duties, and will of course be still better equipped for work during a second term.

James M. Henderson, candidate for commissioner for the southeast district, is a wide awake farmer of Jackson township, with every qualification necessary for the place. He is besides, a pleasant and agreeable gentleman, and one who stands high in his community. He would be a good man.

Henry Hull, who is a candidate for commissioner in the southeast district is a well known and highly respected farmer, a man of excellent character, good business ability, an old settler, and one who served his country faithfully in the war. His case should receive a fair consideration.

Robert N. Crooks, candidate for commissioner in the southeast district, is one of the best known men in the county. He has been township trustee for several terms and was an able one. His business ability and integrity are of a high order. He would be a good man for the place.

The Penfield Matter.

The suit brought by Mr. Penfield against the Church Furniture Company is a most unfortunate piece of business. In the first place, we believe it was wholly unnecessary and uncalled for. We said this at the time the suit was begun and repeat it now. No man who cares for the interests of the town and of the establishments to which the town so largely owes its remarkable prosperity, would have taken the course he did. Granting that the Church Furniture people could have made it pleasanter for him. Granted that they may in some regards have been in the wrong, that does not justify an attempt of one man to set up his own, his single interests, against the interests of the entire community. We do not believe a man has either a moral or a legal right to do this. But because the noise annoyed him he brought suit. Many witnesses were called on both sides. The judge decided against the factory. He said they must pay $56 damages—enough to carry costs. He said they must close the double doors at the west while working, must put a spark arrester over the smoke stack, change the exhaust pipe, and do several other difficult things, some of which were impossible. The decision created a storm of indignation, both against Mr. Penfield and against the judge. That same evening about nine or ten o'clock, a number of persons, many of them employes of the various factories, gathered at the Kiblinger corner, put up some old tar barrels and burned Mr. Penfield in effigy. We mention this episode, not that it is approved by all our people, but to show the extent of the feeling. The business men of the town, who had watched the growth and progress of the factory from its infancy, looked with dismay upon the success of the attack made on it, and at once took steps to see if the matter could not be in some way compromised. After various steps, a meeting of about twenty business men met Mr. Penfield at the Swineford house Monday evening and a long consultation was held, lasting till midnight. After much talk, a proposition was made to him that he pay all costs in the suit, except his lawyers' fees, remit the $56 and release the company from the injunction in regard to the spark arrester, etc. This he would not do. Mr. Penfield, however, intimated that he would pay his part of the costs, but the injunction against using the exhaust pipe as heretofore, and compelling the use of a spark arrester, shutting the door while at work, he insisted must be carried out. In addition, he thought the company or the people should sell his house for him or buy it. Mr Eckhart offered to be one of ten to pay $1,000 for it. But this he said was too small, as he had been offered $1,400. Various persons spoke, Mr. Blattner, Penfield's law partner, took part in the discussions as did Mr Perrine, Mr. Zimmerman, Mr Brandon, J. W Baxter, and nearly everyone present. Mr. Campbell of the Dispatch, and J. A Barns, of the COURIER, had been made secretaries, but among such a mass of matter, no very good report could be made. We give only a brief synopsis Then a committee of seven to be appointed by the chairman, Dr. Nusbaum, was decided on. Mr. Penfield then requested that he might select three of the committee from among those friendly to him. This was allowed him, and he said he would like to take one of the Lockwoods, Lyman or Reuben, and County Clerk Bishop. But finally took Reuben Lockwood, Mr. Bishop and Charles Eckhart, the last named, while opposed to Mr. Penfield having shown himself moderate. The chair then selected Mr. Perrine, S. J. Brandon, G. H. Yesbera and Frank Zimmerman. They met next morning at 9 o'clock in G. H. Yesbera's store and agreed on an offer somewhat similar to the one made the night before, but Penfield would not agree. They met again in the afternoon, but failing to get an agreement, gave him till 6 o'clock to decide But he left on the 5:16 Wabash train for the west and that closed the matter. We have thus given in brief a general outline of this deplorable affair. It is unfortunate in every way. Unfortunate for the town, for the community, for our manufacturing interests, unfortunate for the factory, and doubly so for Mr Penfield. We write this in no spirit of enmity, but with the feeling of duty done in resenting a wrong to the community and a desire to say, in a temperate, respectful but unmistakable way, that Mr. Penfield has been the aggressor, and is wrong. In the meantime the case has been appealed to the supreme court, and we have faith enough in the honesty and legal ability of that body, to believe they will promptly reverse Judge Van Fleet's decision, which we cannot regard as showing either good judgment or a good knowledge of law.

LATER—The committee, after inspecting the factory, were still unable to come to an agreement. Another meeting was had Tuesday evening, after Mr. Penfield had gone. But the whole matter was a failure. To give a clearer idea of the offers made by both sides, we give below the latest offer made by the committee of citizens, and the counter offer made to it by Mr. Penfield.

CITIZENS' OFFER

We as a committee, having visited the property of the Church Furniture Co., and seen them operate their business, do find that the following would be to the best interests of all concerned, as the injunctions, restrictions, etc are the points that the citizens object to as such, according to their opinion, are discouraging to the manufacturing interests of this town. We advise that Mr. Penfield dissolve the said injunctions according to law, also that he assume and pay all of the expenses of his witnesses and all of the court charges in the trial just finished Also that the Church Furniture Co. do pay their witnesses, and further, do experiment and try the following, viz.: To place a spark arrester on their smoke stack and experiment to lessen the noise on their exhaust pipe, and that if either or both of these are a success, said Church Furniture Co. pay for and use them. That if they or either of them do not prove a success, Mr Penfield pay the cost of the experiment for either or both that prove a failure or not a success. Further, that the whistle on premises be not blown longer than one-half minute at one time, four times each working day, except in case of fire, breakage or necessary shut down.

We, the undersigned, after due deliberation, acting in the interests of all concerned, according to our best judgment, feel confident that if the above is accepted and agreed to by both parties, it will satisfy and please both the citizens and Mr. Penfield, and restore the mutual good feelings of all concerned.

PENFIELD'S OFFER.

GENTLEMEN:—Your proposition of even date herewith has received my attention and due consideration, and at your request I gladly reply to the same. As I have stated to you before, the litigation, so far as I was concerned, was one unsought and entered into with great reluctance and with a firm belief of my right To concede, gentlemen, all the matters which you suggest, it seems to me, admits one of two things: either that I was wrong and repent, or that I am compelled to surrender that which conscientiously I believe to be right. Yet, members of your committee whom I hold in the highest esteem have conversed with me personally as to the great diversity of opinion in reference to the effect of the decision, and while I hold the decisions of our courts of law as sacred and entitled to respect, and would not compromise them or any principle for which I had conscientiously contended, yet I would sacrifice personal convenience or even dollars and cents in order to amicably settle any difficulty, so long as the same did not conflict with principle. And at your kindly suggestion, I tender to you this counter proposition: There being no question, as I understand it, about the feasibility of the steam exhaust pipe remedy at a very trifling expense, then I ask you as fair minded men, if it ought not to be done. As to the spark arrester, I will propose to procure the services of a competent engineer and endeavor to remedy the same according to your very fair suggestion. If it is unsuccessful, I will pay him for his services and the cost of materials used. As to the whistle and double doors, and in fact as to all matters in contention, let me say: that I am assured and believe that inside of 45 days at the utmost, a purchaser can be procured and my property disposed of at its actual value, for which I have before, during, and since the trial, offered it at sale. In fact, this afternoon I am in receipt of two propositions concerning the same, but in the short time allotted to me to answer your proposition, I have not the time to investigate and consider them. But as to the ultimate result of a sale in the near future I entertain no doubt. Should I dispose of the property and part with all interest in it, I will pledge myself to release the injunction, except, should the spark arrester prove practical, then for the benefit of my neighbors, who have so bravely stood by me and whom I would not desert for a thousand demonstrations, I would insist that that remain; should it prove impracticable, then that will end that. Now during the 45 days or the time necessarily occupied in disposing of the property, I will, as to the whistle, comply with your suggestion, only asking and suggesting as to the length of time, which I think should be reduced to a quarter of a minute, instead of half a minute. Likewise as to the double doors, which, when the weather demands for the purpose of ventilation, I will waive that restriction.

Now, as to the costs, you have heard the clerk of the court say that 75 per cent of them were made by the company and it would not be just for me to pay what I did not make; my own costs I will assume, and as to the $56 judgment, I never sought a court of law to obtain money merely of the Church Furniture Co., and while the court as a matter of law rendered a judgment in that sum, I will remit it. As I understood it, this committee was appointed for the purpose of calmly, deliberately and conscientiously considering the matters in contention for the purpose of adjusting them. If the committee serves its purpose, I believe that you cannot help but feel that as between man and man I have been generous in my concessions.

I have the honor to be,
Yours very respectfully,
W. L. Penfield.

JUST ARRIVEN!

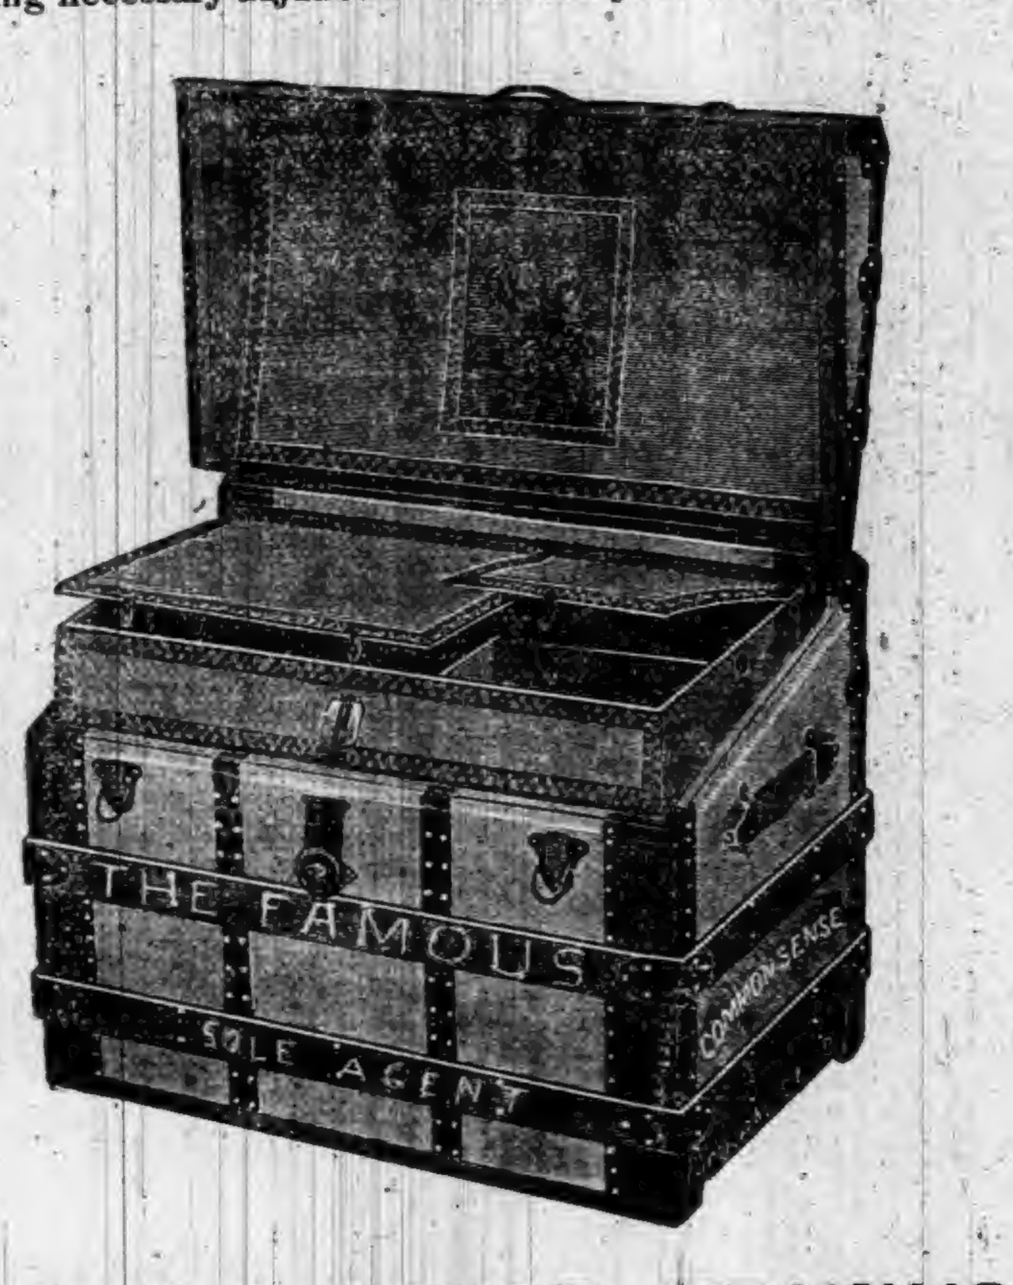
The anxiously awaited pleasant weather.

You Can Now Take That Trip,

—FOR—

PLEASURE OR HEALTH,

As you may desire to term it. A good SUBSTANTIAL Trunk and Valise being necessary adjuncts. I will call your attention to our



COMMON SENSE TRUNKS

AND

Grain Leather Valises,

And anything necessary to make you comfortable, and feel that you are well dressed, you can always find at

The Famous,

NORTH SIDE COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, IND.

J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER, IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

Beautiful Spring Carpets.

All the best makes, all the handsomest and newest designs, and at prices at which almost any person can afford a good carpet, at Foster's Carpet house, Fort Wayne, Ind.

WANTED! Salesmen to sell our Choice Nursery Stock. All goods guaranteed first-class. Good salaries and expenses, or liberal commission paid. No experience necessary. Write for terms, giving age, and secure your choice of Territory. G L KNIGHT & CO., 100 Park Avenue, Rochester, N. Y. 17

Notice of Sale of Personal Property

Notice is hereby given, that I, William Seeley administrator of the estate of Ann Murray deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder at her late residence ½ mile west of Newville, Indiana, on

Saturday, May 10, 1890,

at 10 a. m. the following described personal property, belonging to the estate of said decedent to wit:

Two brood mares, one yearling colt One cow and calf, One yearling heifer, Two brood sows, Eleven shoats, chickens and turkeys, all her household goods, wagons, harness and many other things.

TERMS OF SALE: For all amounts not exceeding five dollars, cash in hand. For amounts of five dollars and upwards, a credit of nine months will be given.

Note, bearing six per cent interest after maturity, with approved security, and waiving valuation and appraisement laws, will be required.

WILLIAM SEELEY,
Administrator.

16-18

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein H. S. Maring administrator of the estate of Daniel Adams deceased is plaintiff, and Ensign B. Rose, Catharine J. Rose, Lewis Moore and Edward W. Fosdick are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three thousand six hundred and forty three dollars and twenty-seven cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, May 24, 1890.

Between the hours of 10 o'clock, a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north half of the northwest quarter of section thirty (30) in township thirty-five (35) north of range fifteen (15) east containing eighty acres more or less, in DeKalb county, state of Indiana. The said property has been appraised and will not be sold for less than two thirds its appraised value.

If such rent and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
F. D. Gunsaullus Att'y for Plaintiff.
Auburn, Ind., May 1, 1890.

Notice to Contractors.

I will let to the lowest responsible bidder the contract for cutting a road through the timber part of Alexander Culbertson's place north of the B. & O. railroad in Jackson township. Sealed bids will be received at my office in said township, up to 10 o'clock a. m. of Saturday. May 17, 1890. I reserve the right to reject any and all bids. Plans, etc., made known on day of sale. Sale to take place at site of road.

A. J SHUTT,
Trustee of Jackson township.
April 28, 1890. 18-20

CHAMPION BINDERS MOWERS

ARE THE BEST AND SO WARRANTED.

SAMPLES AT ONE OR MORE AGENCIES IN EVERY COUNTY. FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ADDRESS.

THE WARDER, BUSHNELL & GLESSNER COMPANY,

CHICAGO, ILL.—SOLE MANUFACTURERS.—SPRINGFIELD, O.

The Seal of Popularity

AND

ATTRACTIVENESS

Has been placed upon our

Spring and Summer Stock of Great in Assortment

AND

UNAPPROACHABLE

In price and quality.

Everything you want in the line of Boots and Shoes,

Waiting For You At

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

New Millinery

—FOR THE—

Summer -:- Season.

Tuesday and Wednesday, May 6 and 7, we will display a beautiful selection of Summer Styles in

TRIMMED HATS AND BONNETS,

And we invite all the ladies to call and see these pretty goods.

—LARGE LINE—

Smith & Angell

Fast Black Hosiery.

(Every pair fully warranted.)
OPENED NEW THIS WEEK.

CARPETS! CARPETS!!

LACE CURTAINS....SCRIMS.

Excellent Selection at Low Prices.

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - - IND.

New Millinery!

—AT—

Cowan Sisters.

Mrs. Leas has been east and just returned yesterday with an additional stock of the latest and finest goods. She attended the last spring opening and got the latest

FASHIONS,
IDEAS and
NOVELTIES.

LADIES,

who have not bought already, are kindly invited to see our new goods.

AUBURN
SANITARY
Baths.

HOT, COLD AND MEDICATED
WATERS.

STEAM, TURKISH, CABINET AND ELECTRIC BATHS.

The MASSAGE Treatment given when desired.

PEOPLE are realizing the true value derived at the Sanitarium at Auburn, and many are availing themselves of this opportunity, and are coming here for treatment, where they enjoy the best of attention from skillfull and practical attendants. Good board and furnished rooms near by can be had at reasonable rates.

Drs. D. J. & Vesta M. Swarts
PROPRIETORS.

LOCAL NEWS.

Soda water. Robbins & McCord's.

Go to G. W. McKay & Co., for wall paper.

Buy fruit trees and plants of C. P. Houser.

Try the new soda fountain. Robbins & McCord's. 17 19

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Ladies, call early and see the latest, newly arrived goods at Cowan Sister's

All leading varieties of raspberry and strawberry plants for sale at C. P. Houser's. tf

Lost or Loaned: A scrap book, containing selections and scraps of value to the owner. The borrower or finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

Sick headache: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

Piles, Piles, Piles: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protruding piles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Miles' Nerve & Liver Pills. An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's. tf

"Don't buy a pig in a bag." Investigate carefully before purchasing. Harvesting machinery should be durable and light draft, and therefore it must be properly designed and constructed of first class material. Steel and malleable iron produce the best results in this direction. The superiority of Champion Binders and Mowers results from the fact that more malleable iron and steel is used in their construction than in others.

100,000 Pounds of Wool Wanted at the Auburn Woolen Mills.

Found Guilty!

THE FIRM OF SCHAAB & MURPHY

Have Been Found Guilty

—OF DOING THE—

Largest Clothing Business

IN AUBURN, IND.,

Simply because they make it so warm for their competitors that they cannot compete with their prices and styles. There is no use talking, but that their

Prices, Styles and Quality

Will win where competition cannot possibly survive. People who have seen their beautiful display of

Spring and Summer Suits

Within the past month, will attest the fact that no other Clothing House in the city can duplicate the line of styles and quality they are offering.

Their Children's Suits

Are the envy of all dealers in taste, style and fabric. They are world beaters in this line, having inside facilities to give you styles and prices. See their

NOBBY SPRING HATS

In all the fashionable colors, for less money than they can be purchased for anywhere else. Everybody is invited to call and see goods and get prices at

SCHAAB & MURPHY'S,

West of Courthouse,

AUBURN, IND.

Good house to rent. Call at this office.

Soda water, pure and cold. Robbins & McCord's. 17 19

See Cowan Sister's new advertisement of new styles.

Currant, Gooseberry and Grape plants best varieties at Houser's. tf

Everything in the fruit tree line at C. P. Houser's. Prices reasonable.

Remember the new spring goods just arriving, at Cowan Sisters' this week.

Mrs. Leas has been east again attending the last spring opening, and has just returned bringing the very latest styles of goods.

For paper hanging and decorating, and all kinds of house painting, call on Murphy & Spooner, reliable contractors, Auburn, Ind.

Mrs. R. Timmerman wishes to announce that she is now prepared to receive boarders at Mrs. Mott's house on North Cedar street, Auburn. 18 20

Geary's big show here May 14. See his advertisment. A large assortment of curiosities, including Big Eliza, the largest woman in the world.

Married: By Rev. James Barton, at his residence in Richland township, April 24, Mr. Samuel B. Healy to Miss Lydia Campbell, both of this county.

Presto! Change! Gray and faded beards made to assume their original color by applying Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers. It never fails to satisfy.

A. M Harkey of Collingwood, and Miss Lizzie Rickard of Noble county, were married last evening, so a correspondent from the former place writes us.

Supt. Glazier at the County Home has under his charge a number of children, who can be adopted by anyone who desires to do so. Call on him and take your pick.

For full information about Harvest Excursions April 22, May 20, September 9 and 23, and October 14, 1890, call on or address, Rickel & Sprott, Immigration Agents, Auburn Ind. tf

A letter from Samuel McEntarfer, Russel, Kansas, says crops are looking fine, and that they have had nice growing rains. Glad to hear that the old DeKalb boys are prospering.

Anyone wishing to subscribe for the Daily Plain Dealer can do so by seeing Phillie Gibson. Every democrat should take it; 20 cents per week or 25 cents with large Sunday edition.

Phillie Gibson, Agent

Since the introduction of Roberts, Throp & Co's (Three Rivers, Michigan,) improved hollow bar method of separating grain, parties wager that they can thresh and separate twenty-five hundred bushels a day.

Dr. A. B. Mathews a former resident of Fairfield, has moved back to the Center again. He has been for several years in Michigan, and later in Steuben county We are sorry to hear that he is in poor health.

The L. L. C. will meet on next Saturday at the home of Mrs. A. Lewis. Program, Byzantine Empire, Mrs. Schaab, leader; paper, Present Attitude of the European Powers toward Turkey, by Mrs. Emanuel; Quizzes by the club.

Mr. Rice of Wayne county, Ohio, made us a call this week in company with John Shugers. He is Mrs. Frank Shugars' father and was called here at the time she was so dangerously sick. As she is now better he will return to his home.

A dry, hacking cough keeps the bronchial tubes in a state of constant irritation, which if not speedily removed, may lead to bronchitis. No prompter remedy can be had than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is both an anodyne and expectorant.

How's your liver, your stomach, and bowels this spring?" all out of "whack," do you want to brace up and feel as though you were some good? Then take Loose's Extract of Red Clover and see how quick you'll get there. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

The value of a remedy should be estimated by its curative properties. According to this standard, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and most economical blood medicine in the market, because the most pure and concentrated. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

No one should do without J. D. McAnally's fruit sprayer. It is cheap and durable. There are more worms and stingers than usual this spring, on account of the warm winter. He gives you a never-failing recipe, and a sprayer made of brass, for $2. With brass nozzle, $3. Call on him at Waterloo.

Miss Sadie Bartlett at St. Joe has just returned from the City where she has learned all the newest styles in millinery and trimming. She has the nicest line of goods she ever had. All the latest novelties in ladies' and children's hats, flowers, laces, ribbons, fancy and piece goods. Call on her at St. Joe. It will pay you. 18 20

Home seekers excursion to the west and Valley of Virginia via B. & O April 22, and May 20, the B. & O. will sell tickets to principal points in west, northwest, south, southwest and via Harper's Ferry to the Historic Valley of Virginia at one fare for the round trip, good returning thirty days For route and tickets apply to ticket agents of the B. & O. 17 18

Rev. J. E. Gilbert of Indianapolis, State Superintendent of the Indiana Sunday School Union, will deliver an address in the Presbyterian church at Auburn, on Wednesday evening, May 7. All are earnestly requested to attend this meeting. Dr. Gilbert will also talk to the Sunday School workers of the county Thursday morning at the same place at nine o'clock. Pastors will please announce these meetings from their pulpits next Sunday.

Have you seen Robbins & McCord's elegant soda fountain? 17 19

Best paint on the market at G. W. McKay & Co., for $1.25 a gallon.

All that are thirsty come drink at Robbins & McCord's new soda fountain.

Don't buy your wall paper until you have seen the stock at G. W. McKay & Co's.

Prices talk. Wall paper from 10c per roll to $1.00. Window shades 30c. to $1.50.

If you are a lover of delicious soda water go to Robbins & McCord's new soda fountain. 17 19

Call and examine our stock of paper, paint and shades and you will be pleased. G. W. McKay & Co.

Auburn Woolen Mills solicit all kinds of custom work. Farmers, don't forget this. We want your work. tf

John Ludwig returned to California, Tuesday morning. He will stop in Kansas a few days to visit relatives.

James McDowell is getting along nicely with his injured hand. Though badly mangled it will be a good deal better than nothing.

C. Snyder of Pierceton, was up here last Friday and Saturday making a visit with the family of John W. Shaffer and other relatives.

Lost: Sunday evening, April 13, somewhere between the M. E. church and the marble shop, a single, plaid shawl. Finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

C. M. Phillips started for Kansas City, Mo., Tuesday evening, over the Wabash road. He goes to take depositions in an important law case he has on hand. Mr. Phillips is getting a valuable practice in his profession. He has a reputation as a good fighter.

Reading Room: A meeting was held at the Baptist church, Monday evening and adjourned to meet again at the same place Friday evening at 7:30 sharp. Every one who has subscribed stock to this worthy enterprise is urgently requested to attend, as much business is to be done.

The Noss Family had a fair house Saturday evening, and the entertainment was excellent. They were good when here before, but were very much better this time. They have much new and expensive material, new costumes and new work. We seldom see an Auburn audience so carried away as they were Saturday. The Noss family will always have good houses here.

The proposed law to give a government postoffice building to each town whose postoffice receipts reach $2,500 it is said will give the privilege to Auburn, Ligonier and Kendallville. The bill ought to be passed. Of all the millions being appropriated, no one thing would do the people at large so much good as this. Let Congress save a few millons at other points and give the people an appropriation.

"The test of the pudding is the eating." The careful and intelligent farmer will let the manufacturers test and demonstrate that new devices are really improvements before investing his money. The Champion Binders and Mowers have been in successful use for many years. The Champion Binder is now being copied by other manufacturers, and some of these untried machines will be offered for sale at the present season.

We forgot to give a word of just praise last week to the Lester Opera Company that had given two nights here. The first evening they gave "Chimes of Normandy," and the second, "The Bohemian Girl." Both were excellent. The company is the strongest one that has appeared here, there being about thirty people. They are singers of unusual ability and good actors as well. The owners of the Opera House should be congratulated on their success in giving us entertainments like this and the one by the Noss Family.

L. B. Fretz whose thumb was crushed in the engine in the Courier office about two weeks ago, is getting the injured member in good shape again, but it will be some time before he can set type or do press work. In the meantime he will visit various parts of the county and meet as many of the Courier's friends as he can. He will take subscriptions and get new subscribers and transact any of the Courier's business, with faithfulness and dispatch. All transactions with Mr. Fretz will be promptly honored.

The celebration given by the Odd Fellows last Friday was a grand success. Brethren from all the neighboring towns took part and helped to make a big display. The afternoon session at the Opera House, included an address of welcome by Mrs. Bowman as a member of the Rebekahs,—an excellent speech by the way—which was responded to by Judge Powers in a brief but happy manner. Capt. W. R. Myers made a short talk, but reserved his full speech for the evening. A brief speech was also made by Mr. Kimball of Kendallville, who always makes a neat speech on such occasions. Mrs. Bowman and Mrs. Post sang a fine duet and there was also good singing by Messrs Harper, Widney, Scott and Hanna. These also sang in the evening, when Mrs. Yesbera sang a fine solo. Mrs. Yesbera, Mrs. Bowman and Mrs. Post sang a duet. All the singing was good. The great feature of the evening however, was the address by Capt. W. R. Myers, ex secretary of State and candidate in 1888 for lieutenant governor. He is always an orator, no matter whether he is on the "political stump," at a commencement or teachers' institute, or an occasion like this. He is a powerful speaker, and very impressive. Those who crowded the great hall felt that they were listening to a master. The processions were large and good, and the uniformed cantons showed off to a great advantage. Altogether the meeting will be a bright one for all our Odd Fellows, as well as for our people in general.

Schaab & Murphy buy wool.

Edward Orr, of Corunna, was in town Tuesday.

We want to buy 200,000 pounds of wool, Schaab & Murphy.

John McMillan is back from California, and is looking well.

Wool! Wool!! Farmers, we want your wool. Schaab & Murphy.

Some matter has been crowded out this week, but will appear next week.

Mike Boland was called to Toledo last Friday, by the death of his father.

We are glad to chronicle the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hanna.

Communion services at the Lutheran church next Sunday forenoon, at the usual hour.

Miss Josie Singler, of Garrett, is visiting here this week the guest of Miss Mary Young.

Miss Ida Stahl is home again from her recent visit with the family of T. J. Cuppy at South Whitley.

S. G. Bressler has moved from here to Nevada Mills, Steuben county, where he will be engaged in farming.

For Sale: A vacant lot on one of the principal streets in Auburn. Enquire of E. L. Casebeer. 17 19

Farmers will be interested to know that Schaab & Murphy will buy their wool and pay them the highest market price.

Ft. Wayne has received from the government, the headstones for soldiers' graves. Why can't we have them for the unmarked graves here?

Ex-Clerk Husselman is getting along well since the operation on his hip Sunday he was out of doors a few minutes enjoying the bright sunshine.

Baby carriages a fine stock and cheap as you can find anywhere in the state, in Ft. Wayne or anywhere else. Call and see them at Robbins & McCord's. 18 20

Mr. Sawyers was at the spring meeting of the Presbytery at Fort Wayne last week. He says it was one of the very best of their meetings that he has attended.

Mrs. C. R. Reed of Waterloo and C. P. Hamman of Franklin, and Geo. Cox of Richland, were among those who attended the teachers' examination Saturday. About twenty-five were present.

Wanted: To trade heavy low wheeled wagon and set of heavy harness, for a buggy. Also good heavy horse for light roadster. Come quick if you have anything to trade. T. H. Sprott. 3t

Dr. Adams, the veterinary surgeon, has been kept busy for the past two or three weeks, treating horses that have been sick. Much of the trouble has been caused by overworking horses that have been idle all winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rolap and Misses Theresa and Mary Ashley were at Ft. Wayne last Thursday to attend the wedding of Mr. Rolap's sister Anna to Mr. Peter Baltes, which occurred that day at St. Mary's Catholic church there.

Miss Kate Woodbull of Angola, expects to have a class in instrumental music here soon. She is a highly accomplished teacher, and those who wish to secure the services of a first-class teacher would do well to wait and see her.

Handsomest baby carriages, or carriages for babies, at Foster's Furniture store, Fort Wayne, Ind. They make a specialty of these goods, and you can save from two to ten dollars by buying your baby carriages of them. They will deliver it to you at Auburn, with express charges prepaid.

Several additions have been made to Auburn's population lately, in the way of little sons and daughters. And we have reason to believe it would be well for our local census taker to wait a little while before concluding his labors, as we would like to see our population show up to as big a figure as possible.

Make your selections of Furniture from the mammoth stock of the Foster Furniture Co., at Fort Wayne, Ind. If your bill amounts to $25 or more, they will deliver it to Auburn, free of freight, charge. They have the newest styles the largest stock, the best made goods, and can save you a good deal of money on your purchases.

As will be seen by the school report we publish this week, written by Mrs. Harding, formerly Miss Belle Cox, she has found the new school books very satisfactory. She is among the ablest of our county teachers and her judgment is surely entitled to more weight than the opinion of a republican editor who knows little or nothing about school books.

We gladly give place to a correction in the matter of young Mr. Fisher, a teacher, whose vote it had been claimed, had been purchased, or at least improperly influenced, in the Stafford township election. By his letter it will be seen he did just right and showed himself an honorable man. Give us more such young men, and we can soon clean out the corruption in politics.

City election next Monday. Let every democrat turn out and help elect our ticket by a good majority. It will make a strong board. Some of the names are of new men, but we feel certain they are not old fogies but will gladly fall into the line of work so well begun and carried out for several years past. Auburn must keep up with the most progressive of her neighbor towns, and a little ahead. We must, in order to do this, elect every man on our ticket. No democrat can afford to split up his vote.

Ornamental Trees.

I have just received a large stock of first-class evergreen trees viz: Norway, Spruce, White Cedar, Balsam, Fir and Hemlock, which I am closing out very cheap. Call and see them.

G. S. McCord,
Auburn, Ind. 3t

The Kain Road Cart factory will start up next week at the old Case factory, foot of Main street. They will employ about fifteen hands. Seven families will come over from Albion.

The Arion Quartet go over to Columbia City Saturday to give a concert that evening. There will be a prohibition convention there that afternoon, and the concert will be at the rink in the evening. We assure our Columbia City friends that the Arions, Messrs Fisher, Widney, Quince and Warrick are fine singers, and have won a high place in the estimation of the people, especially by their unique songs at prohibition meetings.

Democratic Caucus.

The city caucus came off Monday evening at Ensley's Hall, as advertised. There was a large attendance, for the Courier had urged everybody to come. The meeting was called to order by I. N. Cool. D. D. Moody was called to preside and James Baxter made secretary. It was decided that nominations should be made by commencing at the first ward and going through the list, ending with marshal. A ballot box had been prepared, and on motion by J. A. Barns, it was decided unanimously to adopt this the primary system of voting, to select candidates. Two judges were appointed by the chair, C. C. Shaffer and S. J. Brandon, and Mr. Dills was selected for a second clerk. So the vote for trustee of the first ward was taken, Dr. Sebring declined to run, so did also S. L. Campbell and Vet. Rogers. August Shutt received 55 votes, Joseph Link, 43; Jacob Walborn, 39; Ira Brandon, 31; J. P. Kandel, 6; scattering 4. Schutt having a plurality was declared nominated. In the third ward, J. A. Potter had 58, and John Krueger, 78. In the fourth, T. G. Matheny had 72; S. U. Tarney, 48; and Mr. Madden, 15. For clerk, J. F. Aber had 11, Frank Hoff, 51 and Geo. Grund, 71. Mr. Potter, Mr. Aber and Dr. Matheny made no efforts for a nomination, while the other fellows looked over their fences and got there. We trust they will do as well as their predecessors, and serve the people and the town as well. Charles Jones for treasurer and Charles Picker for marshal had been nominated by acclamation. The ticket is a good one and will no doubt be elected. It will be of interest to know that the primary system worked splendidly, the only trouble being that it took longer. The fact that it is perfectly fair, made the defeated ones feel better satisfied than they would have been under the old and careless method. The names were written but once, for after that each came in line before the judges and deposited their ballots. A few changes should be made in the system, and then it will work splendidly. We believe it is the first regular primary election in the county. At the close of the caucus it had been the intention to pass resolutions condemning the action of Mr. Penfield and his friends and sympathizing with the laboring men, whose rights were being threatened by the attacks on our manufacturing interests. But this was not done as at that hour, there was in session a meeting to see if some argument could not be reached, by which Mr. Penfield would withdraw his persecutions, and it was thought that the resolutions would present an amicable settlement, so they were omitted.

Surveying the Line.

The surveying party was started out on the new Wabash line Monday afternoon. Gene Trout took them to the starting point, having Wolf's drum corps along to furnish a fitting sendoff. They began at the Wabash track just west of the railroad bridge over the little run west of the Wabash depot, and went west, going along near the south line of Fluke's land. Jay VanAuken is in charge of the transit and Mr. Johnston has the level. The party numbers ten in all. Begins to look like business. Since writing the above, in company with L. Bowers, we visited the surveying party, overtaking them at the old Truelove farm, just by the Noble county line. They were getting along finely, and expect to reach Albion Saturday. On Tuesday, they ran five miles, nearly, in spite of an accident cutting in two of the steel tape line. They have not changed direction since starting but continue their first course, which is north 87 degrees west. This brought them across the road which is in Auburn our Seventh street, at the point where it turns south to get back on the section line, at the old Hathaway farm. The line missed the worst part of the tamarac swamp, and the land was nearly level. The first uneven ground was at the Wm. Fountain farm, and then on the Truelove farm. The party took dinner yesterday west of the county line. As noted above VanAuken runs the line and Mr. Johnson gets the level. His assistant is Ex-Surveyor Frank McDowell. There are ten in the party, and all are enjoying the work. The rapidity with which they get over the ground, shows that the surveyors are masters of their business.

County Convention.

By order of the Democratic Central Committee of DeKalb County Indiana, notice is hereby given that the County Convention of the Democratic party of such County, will be held at Auburn on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

At 10 o'clock a. m. to place in nomination, the candidates to be voted for at the general election to be held on November 4, 1890. The officers to be elected at such election, are:

A Representative.
A Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court.
A County Auditor.
A Sheriff.
A Treasurer.
A Recorder.
A Surveyor.
A Coroner.
A Commissioner for the Southwest district.
A Commissioner for the Southeast district.

The basis of representation to such convention is one delegate for every ten (10) votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State in 1888, in each precinct, and one delegate for a fraction of five (5) or more votes given such Secretary of State, therein. The votes given for such Secretary of State in 1888, and delegates to the County Convention from each election precinct in DeKalb County, are as follows:

ELECTION PRECINCTS.	SEC'Y OF STATE VOTE.	NO. OF DELE'S.
Butler	113	11
Jackson	214	21
Concord South	120	12
Concord North	130	13
Newville	75	8
Stafford	73	7
Wilmington South	173	17
Wilmington North	216	22
Auburn South	246	25
Auburn North	196	20
Waterloo East	164	16
Waterloo West	81	8
Richland	202	20
Fairfield	238	24
Smithfield	170	17
Franklin	144	14
Troy	56	6
Keyser East	271	27
Keyser West	263	26
Total		314
Necessary to a choice		158

It was also ordered that caucuses for the purpose of selecting such delegates, will be held in each election precinct in the county (except the precincts in Union, Grant Wilmington and Keyser townships) at the usual place of holding elections, on Saturday May 24, 1890, at one (1) o'clock in the afternoon, and in the precincts in the townships of Union, Grant, Wilmington and Keyser on the same day at 7½ o'clock in the evening. Provided that a different hour of such day may be named by the Central committeeman of any precinct of which due notice shall be given, by such committeeman.

At the same time and place of holding such caucuses, there will also be selected one delegate from each precinct for each of the following conventions, viz. The State Convention, the Congressional Convention, the Judicial Convention and the Joint Representative Convention. But the voting power of such delegate to such last named conventions is to be determined by such conventions respectively.

Alfred Kelley, Chairman,
Dem. Co. Cent. Com.

A Correction.

Butler, Ind., April 28, 1890.

Editor Courier—Dear sir: I saw in the issue of last week's Courier an article with reference to the election contest from Stafford township, which reads as if I had sold my vote to Charles Arford, consideration a school for next winter. Now, I would say that it is a mistake, that is, he did not secure my vote, but made me the offer, aforesaid, which I did not accept and besides that I took it as an insult and therefore would not have voted for him under any consideration. I will be much obliged if you will make the correction this week.

Yours,
Ed. H. Fisher.

To the Sunday School Workers of DeKalb Co., Greeting.

Wm. H. Levering of Lafayette, Ind., will be in Auburn, on Monday afternoon, May 12, and will be glad to meet all Sabbath School workers at 3 o'clock at the Baptist church where he will give them an interesting talk on some part of the work. Let the church be filled.

M. B. Willis Vice-pres.
DeKalb Co., S. S. A.

For Sale.

Two horses, one buggy, two single harness, four collars and one pair buggy fills.

Frank Holman
Cedar Creek, Ind. 17 19

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Isaac N. Askew deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

Rebecca H. Askew, administratrix.
April 12th, 1890. 4t

LIQUOR LICENSE.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, that I will apply to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their next regular session, to be held in the court house of said county, commencing on Monday, the 2nd day of June, 1890, for license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a quantity less than a quart at a time, with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises, to wit:

The northeast one-fourth, "¼", the same being thirty-five "35" feet east and west and sixty "60" feet north and south of lot number twenty-eight "28" in the original plat of the town of Auburn, in said county and state.

John A. Neal.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Daniel Yeothers deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 19th day of May, 1890, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 22nd day of April, 1890.

Daniel Anthony, administrator
James E. Rose, Atty.

REFORMED CHURCH.

Sunday, May 4, English German service.

SUBJECT OF SERMON:

"The Office of the Holy Spirit." Text, John XVI, 5-15.

Our newly organized congregation in Garrett intends to build a church this spring.

B. RUP.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

IN a recent address in the East, David Dudley Field, the eminent New York lawer, strongly urged the need of laws compelling people to vote.

IT is rumored that Chauncey M. Depew talks so much when he goes out to dinner that he often returns home hungry and indulges in the luxury of "a cold bite."

THE Cocopah tribe of Indians of Lower California are killing each other and are without a chief. The moment old Colorow died trouble began, and it looks now as if the whole tribe will be cleaned out.

THE largest and heaviest locomotive ever constructed was made by the Baldwin Locomotive Works for the Northern Pacific Railroad Company last year. It weighed, with its tender, 225,000 pounds. The ordinary weight is from 47,000 to 165,000 pounds.

A SACHEL containing $400 mysteriously disappeared from the residence of Mrs. Stacy Wilkins at Lumberton, N. J. She advertised in one of the papers, and the sachel was found hanging on the hook where she had left it, but some one had hung a coat over it.

THUNDERSTORMS are more frequent in Java than in any other part of the globe. On an average they occur in the island on ninety-seven days in the year. In England the average marks thunder storms on about seven days in the year—only half the number recorded in France.

IN the Medical Museum, Washington, there are two skulls all cracked up like a couple of egg shells that had been knocked together. They formerly belonged to a couple of Norfolk, Va., negroes who butted each other to death because a woman couldn't decide which of the two she liked best.

JOHN MARKHAM, an Irish land bailiff, who had been boycotted for ten years, and was constantly guarded by the police while he lived, died a few days ago, and, the guard being relaxed a little, some persons unknown stole his body and made away with it so effectually that it has not since been found.

THE Government of Denmark has erected fifty telephone stations, chiefly on the west coast of Jutland, for the use of fishermen, who are thus able to communicate with the fish dealers at a distance and secure better prices. All the life-boat stations in the country are also connected by telegraph and telephone.

THE German Empress is forming a league for the preservation of good habits among Prussian ladies. The members bind themselves to discourage luxury in every form, both for themselves and their friends; to wear fewer, more simple and cheaper dresses, and to practice rigid economy in their households.

MRS. DIVENS, of Lee County, Georgia, has an old negro woman who does not know she is free. When freedom dawned upon the negroes, and they all started to leave, this one, who is deaf and cannot talk well, could not be made to understand it, and she has not found it out to this day, and is still living on the old plantation.

EMPEROR WILLIAM still retains the French cooks that ruled the kitchen of the imperial palace under his late grandfather, but he positively refuses to allow their French bills of fare to be put before him. The cooks draw up their day's list of dishes under their French names, and these are translated into German for his Majesty's table.

THERE is a war at Brussels between the owners of carrier pigeons and the telephone companies, the former declaring that the fine wires of the latter strung over the streets are traps into which the pigeons run blindly and where they receive frequently fatal injuries. Several championship races of the pigeons are said to have been interfered with in this way.

THE possible annexation of Lower California is still taken very seriously by the people of the southern section of California. The press demands it, the politicians see in it a great future. The peninsula at present has only 30,000 population, a large proportion of which is Indian. There are also a great many Englishmen and miners there. The Mexicans are clearly in the minority.

THE Government of Saratoff, Russia, sells each year to the people an immense quantity of tar for use in their business. All the sales are on credit, and as the peasants can neither read nor write the account of each is kept by means of certain signs made with the tar upon his doorpost. Pay day comes every fall, and then only are the doorposts of Saratoff washed clean until a new account is started.

NOAH DREW, a once prosperous Michigan farmer, who went crazy over religion and went to England to join the Zeezrcelites or "New and Later House of Israel," has just died and been buried in the Potter's Field. He spent his fortune to further the interests of the Zeezrcelites. Rev. Canon Cooke, of Brompton, and other clergymen are trying to raise funds by public subscription to send his widow back to her home in America.

A SCOTCH printer invented the postage stamp, which was introduced into England fifty years ago. A year later they were introduced into the United States of North America and Switzerland, and again, a few years later, in Bavaria, Belgium and France. One of the most important and valuable collections of postage stamps is in the German Imperial Museum, which contains over 10,000 postage stamps and other postal delivery devices.

WOMEN are finding a new occupation in serving legal papers, said a well-known lawyer recently. Almost all prominent law firms employ a man solely to serve papers; but often the server runs up against some individual whom it is impossible for him to get at. The most wary debtor will not suspect a woman of having clandestine designs against him, and a well-dressed female paper-server can easily gain admittance where it would be impossible for a man to enter

DURING the late war R. D. Cole, Jr., of Newman, Ga., secreted a box of silver between the ceiling and roof of the residence then occupied by the family. After the war the box could not be found, though diligent search was made for it. A few days since Mr. Cole was making some repairs on the old church, and had occasion to tear away some of the interior frame-work. As he removed one of the lower partition boards a silver coin fell out, and upon looking further he was rewarded by finding every dollar of the long-lost money.

TWO WHITE men were sold at public auction at Norfolk, Va., a few days ago, and became the property of the buyer for three months. There is a law on the statute books of Virginia which authorizes this sort of thing. It was drafted with a view to the discouragement of the dangerous and vagrant classes. The men who are disposed of under it are liable if they attempt to run away to be kept at labor by means of a ball and chain attachment, or to be sent to jail for three months to subsist upon nothing more substantial than bread and water.

ATTENTION is being called to the fact that the peak of Teneriffe at dawn casts upon the ocean a shadow that at first appears to be flat upon the surface, but that gradually seems to rise up until it is perpendicular, and stands apparently a reproduction in black of the real mountain which beside it is white and glowing in the sunlight. The scientific explanation of the phenomenon is that the shadow at first is really flat upon the water, but that, as the heat of the rising sun causes a vapor to rise from the ocean, the shadow gradually becomes cast against the bank of fog instead of upon the water, and really is straight up in the air.

AT a small town in Wurtemburg, recently, a marriage took place which brings about a complicated state of family relations. The woman had been married three times before, and each time had taken for her husband a widower with children. Her fourth husband was also a widower, and as he had had children by his first wife, who was herself a widow with children when he married her, the newly married couple have started their matrimonial companionship with a family composed of the children of no less than eight previous marriages. It would puzzle a magician to settle the exact relationship existing between this very assorted household.

GERMAN JOKES.

STRENGTHENING THE MEMORY.

A.—My memory is getting weaker and weaker every day.

B.—I can give you a remedy.

"What is it?"

"Lend me fifty dollars."

A DAMAGED SWEAR-OFF.

Judge—Before you are sworn I'd like to ask you if you have ever taken an oath before?

Witness—I swore off from tobacco and whisky on the first of the year, but it ought not to count.

A CHRONIC DEBTOR.

Collector (in a rage)—Sir, when are you going to pay me what you owe me?

Debtor is silent.

Collector—You even prefer to owe me an answer to my question.

ANOTHER SLUR AT BALD HEADS.

He—I think it is an outrage that the ladies wear high hats in the theater.

"She—Yes, I must admit you men are much more considerate.

"Of course we are."

"Some of you who sit in the front row are even so considerate as to leave your hair at home. You are too good for this world."

THEATRICAL NOTE.

Schultz—Have you seen William Tell?

Müller—No, I have not, and I am not going to see it, either.

"Why not?"

"Because that's the piece in which the apple is shot off the boy's head, and the discharge of fire-arms on the stage always makes me jump."

A MEAN TRICK ON A FRUGAL MAN.

Schmidt—I am puzzled what to buy my uncle for a birthday present. He is fearfully stingy, and no matter what I give he lays it aside and never uses it.

Hufnagel—If that's so you can get off very cheap.

"How so?"

"Fill half a dozen bottles with water, and seal them up good, label them 'Old Gin,' or 'Old Cognac,' and he will never be the wiser."—Texas Siftings.

THE worst fault that people have to find with the fellow who is always saying that he feels like committing suicide is that he doesn't go and do it.

TEARING THE TARIFF.

JAMES H. WALKER'S VIEWS ON THE M'KINLEY BILL.

The Well-Known Chicago Dry-Goods Merchant Arraigns the Ohio Protection Tinker—He Says Kansas Is Opening Her Eyes to New Convictions.

[From the Chicago Herald.]

James H. Walker, the head of the big Chicago dry-goods house bearing his name, is the writer of the following interesting letter on the tariff. It was written in reply to Capt. B. Rockwell, of Junction City, Kan., and its opening sentences tell in stronger language than words sometimes express themselves the story of how light is dawning upon Kansas and the West. Mr. Walker's letter, or rather arraignment of the McKinley bill, is as follows:

I am sorry to hear that the citizens of Kansas are experiencing so little prosperity in their business affairs. Your conviction that the tariff is largely responsible for their straitened condition is undoubtedly correct. The tariff is the question of the hour and is assuming an importance little suspected by the majority of the citizens of this country. It is scarcely within the scope of a letter to discuss the "pros and cons" of this subject.

The venerable sophistries of protectionists have been current so long that they are reputable through age, and to the thoughtless have the appearance of truth. With touching credulity the farmer has accepted the highest possible tax as his greatest benefactor, and as the cause of our national prosperity. The present tariff, originated for war purposes, was loyally accepted by the people. So long as wheat remained above a dollar it was not severely felt, but with wheat at 78 cents in Chicago it has become a burden too intolerable to be borne, and the general conditions of the country are crying aloud for relief. The farmer, knowing that the most bountiful crops which ever smiled upon this country are producing him no net profit, is casting about for some alleviation. He feels that what he buys costs him too much, and, believing that his local merchants exact too large a profit, is organizing "farmers' alliances" in various parts of the country, hoping thereby to purchase his supplies at a smaller percentage of profit than is required by the merchants. This, however, will not meet the difficulty. The merchants' profits are none too large. The trouble is that, on account of being so heavily taxed, the goods originally cost the merchant too much.

The farmer has long been led to believe that the present exorbitant tariff is for the benefit of American labor, in order to enable it to get high wages, and thereby create a good home market for the products of the farm. A little investigation will prove to you that the operatives in the mills of the protected industries get far lower wages than the employes of the unprotected industries, and the highest scales of wages and salary in this country are in those trades, professions and occupations which are not protected in any manner whatever. The mercantile clerks of this country get the highest salaries in the world. The carpenters, bricklayers, blacksmiths, locksmiths, and all the mechanics engaged in the local industries which exist in our towns and villages get far higher wages than operatives in the mills, and much higher than similar workers in any part of the world. Our farmers are not protected in any sense of the term, and yet the farm laborer is better paid in this country than in any other. These facts seem to prove that high wages depend upon conditions rather than on a protective policy. The benefits of protection apply to very few people in this country—probably not over 5 to 10 per cent. of the whole population. The other 90 to 95 per cent. pay enormous taxes for the enrichment of that 5 to 10 per cent., and get nothing in return.

Does your community know that the tariff tax on dry goods, such as dress goods, farmer's satin, cashmeres, henriettas and shawls, will average 75 per cent. at the port of entry and nearly 100 per cent. by the time they reach the consumer?

Does your community know that there is a bill now being considered by Congress which is called a revised tariff bill?

The country at large imagines that revision of the tariff means a reduction of the tariff. The facts are that as far as dry goods are concerned it means a still further increase of the tariff of from 5 to 12½ per cent.

Does your community know that organized manufacturers are in Washington at present urging the passage of this enormous additional tariff on top of a tariff incredibly large already?

Does your community know that the passage of this bill means that many dry goods when they reach the consumer will cost exactly double what they ought to cost, or double what they would cost if this tariff did not exist?

Cotton warp dress goods pay a duty at the port of entry of 70 per cent. Add the profits of the importer and retailer to the duty, say 25 per cent. more, and when they reach the consumer the tax is equal to 87 per cent. The bill now in Congress proposes to make this tax 102 per cent. in place of 87 per cent., or 15 per cent. more.

All wool cashmeres now pay an average duty of 80 per cent. Add the importer's and retailing profits, and when they reach the consumer the tax is 100 per cent. The bill now before Congress proposes to increase this duty about 10 per cent. more, making the tax 110 per cent.

Fancy flannels for lawn tennis suits, waists, and shirts now pay a duty of 75 per cent. With the importer's and retailer's profits added, 100 per cent. Congress proposes to increase the duty by 33 per cent., making the tariff on those goods 133 per cent.

Silk-warp Henriettas now pay 50 per cent. It is now proposed to increase the duy to 60 per cent.

Woolen shawls now pay 80 per cent. It is now proposed to increase the duty to 90 or 100 per cent.

Is it just for any class of American citizens to receive a bounty of 100 per cent for doing business when 95 per cent of our citizens receive no bounty at all? Does not this savor of discrimination in favor of a few against the many, and does it not look very much like class legislation in favor of a privileged minority? Our agriculturists sell what they produce in the markets of the world, and the prices which the foreigner is willing to give for what we export makes the market prices for what is consumed at home.

The following are among the very large list of articles which are heavily taxed by the tariff and which are not produced in this country, never have been produced, and possibly never will be produced, because climatic and other conditions prevent:

Linen goods of all classes (except common crash) pay 35 per cent., and when they reach the consumer the tax is 45 per cent. The present bill before Congress proposes to increase this tax 5 per cent. more.

Linen handkerchiefs, which are not and never have been produced in this country, pay 35 per cent. at the port of entry, or 44 per cent. when sold to the consumer.

Wool veilings, which are not produced in this country, pay a tax of 50 per cent., and in the consumer's hands this tax is increased to 65 per cent. by the intermediate profits as previously stated.

Embroideries, which are not produced in this country to any appreciable extent, pay 40 per cent. Add the importer's and the retailer's profits, the tax reaches the enormous amount of 50 per cent. The same figures apply to cotton velvets and many other articles of general use among the masses.

See the disadvantages of our farmers compared with those of foreign countries. Certain styles of common dress goods, which are imported largely into this country, cost in England and France 13 cents per yard. The same goods, with duty added, cost in this country 25 cents per yard. The farmer in England and France gets for his wheat $1 a bushel. Our farmers west of the Missouri River obtain for their wheat about 50 cents a bushel. In other words, our farmers pay almost twice as much for what they buy as the foreigner, and they only receive 50 per cent. as much for what they sell. Can it be possible that our Representatives and Senators in Congress are aware of these facts? And if they are, will they dare to still further increase taxes to the extent proposed?

Previous to the meeting of the last Republican convention in June, 1888, the Chicago Tribune, in a very powerful editorial article, asked the question: "Who will speak for the farmer?" The convention met. It spoke for the politician and for the manufacturer, and for everybody but the farmer, and that great, patient, industrious, loyal, docile class of our country was left unrepresented. In the November following, with pathetic docility the farmer voted according to his old beliefs for a "protective" policy which is little short of robbery.

Not many weeks ago a Congressional committee was appointed to take testimony concerning the workings of the present tariff. The accounts of that investigation seem to indicate that nobody was invited to testify except the manufacturers. The merchants were not represented. The farmers were not represented. The great unprotected class who pay nearly all the taxes were unrepresented, and the beneficiaries of this enormous system of taxation represented themselves. The result is seen in the present bill which is before Congress. And what a sight it is. Self-interest in the halls of the Capitol testifying in its own behalf. The collectors of the taxes clamorous for more. The payers of the taxes apparently indifferent or ignorant of what is going on.

The present tariff having continued in operation nearly twenty-seven years, it is high time that our infant industries should have placed themselves in a position where they will require less rather than more tariff, as they are now demanding.

Patents, which are the reward of genius and invention, usually run out in seven years. The tariff has lasted twenty-seven years.

No manufacturer is entitled to a bounty of 50, 60, 70, 80 or 100 per cent. for doing business. The manifest injustice of this discrimination in favor of any class of people is only too evident. The tariff should be reduced largely as soon as possible, and if the people desire a policy of protection, it should be of a moderate character, and not a guarantee of enormous profits to anybody who chooses to embark in the manufacturing enterprises. Surely the mass of the people are entitled to some consideration, and equal justice in these matters should be meted out to all.

A reduction of tariff would of course create a depreciation of values in certain directions; but how much have farm lands depreciated within the last five years, owing to the depreciated value of crops? The amount is equal, probably, to more than the entire value of all the manufacturing plants in this country. Yet that shrinkage has been borne uncomplainingly, and without any great disaster.

The effect upon the money market of the excessive taxes collected by the Government, under the tariff, has become a very serious matter.

The Treasury is full to overflowing and has a very large surplus. Meanwhile, money throughout the country is uncomfortably close, and business enterprises are retarded and jeopardized through a lack of available funds.

In order to get this Treasury surplus into circulation again in the ordinary channels of trade, unusual and unnatural methods are adopted, and in the exercise of those methods the Secretary of the Treasury is invested with a discretionary power which is without parallel in the history of finance. Some secretaries may exercise that power judiciously. Some day we may have a speculating secretary, whose interests will lie in the direction of a very tight money market and a consequent depreciation of values. Such a possibility should not exist, and would not under a judicious tariff.

Since writing the above I have received a sketch of the proposed tariff bill now being considered by Congress, and find the increased duties so much greater than anybody anticipated that I herewith append a comparative list of some principal items, being unwilling to do any injustice to the insatiate greed of the tariff "reviser." Specific rates are computed ad valorem, for comparison:

	Present duty per cent.	McKinley bill proposed duty per cent.
Cotton warp dress goods, costing less than 15c sq.yd.	60 @75	81 @ 98
(goods costing 8d for 36-in.) from 15 to 20c sq. yd.	60 @75	90 @105
(goods costing 8d for 36-in.) from 20c upward	50 @82	61 @ 98
Farmer satins below 15c sq.yd	64 @68	86 @ 90
(this class includes 3 of our grades) from 15 to 20c sq.yd.	64 @68	95 @100
(this class includes 3 of our grades from above 20c sq. yard	71 @75	85 @ 90
Ceylon suitings (fancy flannels), value between 60c and 80c a pound	75	126
Woolen goods costing 6s a yard, 59-in	57½@70	67 @ 84
Beaver shawls	66 @95	72 @118
English spring shawls	50	63
Persian shawls	48	58
Cashmere gloves	65	85
English cashmere hose	62½@68	77½@ 87
French all-wool goods costing 1 franc per meter	70	80
French all-wool goods costing 1 franc, 36-in. wide	85	110
French cashmeres	65 @87½	84 @113

JAMES H. WALKER.

A NATIONAL SCANDAL.

SCATHING ARRAIGNMENT OF QUAY AND QUAYISM.

Serious Charges Against the Chairman of the National Republican Committee—An Open Letter from Henry C. Lea to Ben Harrison.

Henry C. Lea, the book publisher, respected as one of the most upright, intelligent and earnest citizens of Philadelphia, has written the following open letter to President Harrison:

"To the President:

"SIR—No graver scandal has darkened our political history than the charges brought against Senator Quay by the New York World in its issues of Feb. 10 and March 3. It would be useless here to recapitulate them further than to say that, with full details of names and places and dates, the World asserts him to be a man whose political career has been a succession of flagrantly dishonest acts, including the temporary abstraction from the State Treasury of $260,000 in one instance and of $400,000 in another.

"No such accusations, involving iniquity so varied and so continuous, and supported by such an array of minute detail, have ever before, I believe, been brought against a politician so conspicuous. If they are true, Senator Quay ought to be in the penitentiary. If they are false, he is a cruelly libeled man; his accuser is a journal of the highest financial standing, and no jury of his countrymen would refuse him exemplary damages that would put him beyond all future reach of want. Vindication and profit both await him as an incentive to prove his innocence, but although two months have elapsed since the gravest of the charges were made public, neither solicitude for his character nor desire of gain has prompted him to break silence. It is his own fault if the public should regard him as acquiescing in the truth of the charges.

A NATIONAL SCANDAL.

"It is true that the crimes alleged against Senator Quay are connected only with his career as a Pennsylvania boss, but your close connection with him has rendered the scandal national. You were duly warned in advance from a friendly source of the dangers of such an alliance, yet by accepting his man, Mr. Wanamaker, as a member of your Cabinet you assumed responsibility for both of them. In pursuance of this alliance, you have enlarged Mr. Quay's importance by virtually giving him control of the Federal patronage in Pennsylvania, thus rendering him the dictator of the Republican party in the State. He boasted of your subserviency to him when, in explaining his triumph over Representative Dalzell in the struggle for the Pittsburg postoffice, he publicly said that 'the President, though very anxious to gratify Mr. Dalzell, for whom he has a high esteem, could not, under all the circumstances, well avoid complying with my wishes.' Even Mr. Quay's remarkable silence under the accusations of the World does not seem to have lessened his influence over you. He signalized his return from Florida a week or two since by capturing the Pittsburg Surveyorship of Customs against candidates urged respectively by Secretary Blaine and Representative Dalzell. Indeed, his power would seem to be as great in Washington as in this State, for the party organs now tell us that he has been endeavoring to buy off a superfluous candidate for the Governorship with an Assistant Secretaryship of War. In thus entering into a political partnership with Mr. Quay you must share the losses as well as the gains of the venture. It is not Pennsylvania alone; nor even the Republican party only, that has a right to protest; every citizen of the land must feel humiliation at the smirch thus inflicted on the Chief Magistracy of the nation.

AN ACCOUNTING DEMANDED.

"As a Republican by conviction, ardently desiring the success of the party so long as it deserves success, let me request you, Mr. President, to take a calm survey of the situation and render to yourself an account of your stewardship. Thirteen months ago you entered upon the duties of the highest office which the world has to bestow; your party was supreme in the control of both houses of Congress, and of the executive; everything promised a prosperous and useful administration, in which you, by simply adhering to the pledges under which you were elected, might earn another term from the confidence and gratitude of the people. The only cloud upon the political horizon was your acceptance of a Postmaster General at Mr. Quay's dictation, ostensibly as a reward for certain services performed during the canvass. That cloud, then no larger than a man's hand, has spread till it covers the firmament. Look back now and reflect upon your work. You have sedulously devoted yourself to the distribution of 'patronage;' you have turned out nearly 40,000 Democratic office-holders, and in this ignoble business you have filled vacancies thus made by giving 'recognition' to the worst elements in the party. You have thus degraded it to the lowest level, till it no longer deserves or enjoys the public confidence, and its interest, as well as that of the nation, demands its purification by defeat. You have earned for it the denunciation of the Hebrew prophet:

"'The heads thereof judge for reward, and the priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof divine for money, yet will they lean upon the Lord and say, is not the Lord among us? Therefore shall Zion for your sake be plowed as a field and Jerusalem shall become heaps.'

A WARNING FROM THE PEOPLE.

"But it needs no prophet to foretell the result. The elections of last November were a warning that the people would not tolerate your methods. You have refused to heed the lesson, and the elections of next November will emphasize it. The narrow Republican majority in the lower house will be swept away, and your path for the latter half of your administration will be a path of thorns. You have rewarded the magnificent majority of 80,000 given to you by Pennsylvania by riveting upon her the chains of Quayism. You need not wonder that disaffection is spreading rapidly throughout her borders in a manner that may render even her allegiance doubtful. The outlook for 1892 is even darker. Were the Presidential election to take place to-morrow there could scarce be doubt of Democratic success. Let me counsel you, Mr. President, as a friend, to reflect that this has been your work in one short year of misused power.

TIME FOR REPENTANCE.

"If this retrospection should bring with it repentance and amendment, you still have before you three years which may be fruitful for good. Bear in mind that 'faithful are the wounds of a friend, but the kisses of an enemy are deceitful.' Discard the advisers who are luring you to your downfall. Recognize that the truest political expediency lies in the application of conscience to public affairs, and that you can serve your party best by stimulating the nobler aspirations of the nation, rather than by pandering to the baser appetites of spoilsmen. Cease to expect to gather figs from thistles, or to touch pitch without defilement. Apply to your public duties the high standard of morality to which you adhere in your private life. Remember that evil can give birth only to evil, and that you, as Chief Magistrate of sixty-five millions of freemen, have on your soul a charge for which you must reckon to posterity and God. I am, Mr. President, your obedient servant,

"HENRY CHARLES LEA.

"PHILADELPHIA, April 8, 1890."

THERE are four United States mints where coins are made, one at Philadelphia, one at New Orleans, one at Carson, and one at San Francisco. The S seen on some coins shows that they were made in San Francisco, and O shows that the coin was made in New Orleans.

THE NATIONAL SOLONS.

WORK OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Law-Makers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed and Acted On.

IN the House on the 22d Mr. Candler, of Massachusetts, moved that the House concur in the Senate amendment to the World's Fair bill. This being agreed to by a vote of 93 to 21, the bill is finally passed and will be sent to the President for his action. The House then went into committee of the whole, Mr. Payson, of Illinois, in the chair, on the legislative appropriation bill. A good deal of discussion was elicited over the features of the bill which relate to the pay of the Civil Service Commission and its expenses. Mr. Grosvenor made a vigorous attack upon the system, which he designated as one of sham and humbug. He did not believe that it had benefited the public service but on the contrary had proved disadvantageous. Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, made an earnest speech in defense of the system. He made no concealment, however, of his belief that it was systematically and persistently violated by representatives of both parties. After further discussion, the House adjourned without completing the bill. In the Senate a number of resolutions were introduced, none of which were finally acted upon. The Senate spent the entire afternoon in the consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill which was passed.

IN the Senate, on the 23d inst., the Chair presented a communication from the Secretary of the Interior containing copies of certain documents in reference to the recent decision in the Pacific Railroad cases. A concurrent resolution providing for the irrigation of arid lands in the valley of the Rio Grande and the establishment of a dam at a point near El Paso, Texas, for the storage of waters was reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations. It was considered and agreed to. The conference report on the Senate bill to provide a temporary government for the Territory of Oklahoma was taken up and adopted. Among the bills brought before the Senate was one providing for the erection of an equestrian statue at Manchester, N. H., of Major General John Stark. The bill elicited strong objection from Messrs. Cockrell and Hawley while Messrs. Blair, Hoar, Dawes, and others spoke in eloquent terms of the advisability of erecting such monuments to the memory of the nation's heroes in every part of the United States. A good deal of feeling was manifested in the arguments upon the bill, which lasted until 6 o'clock, when the Senate adjourned. The House spent the day in a bitter partisan debate on the legislative appropriation bill, the discussion being mostly over the paragraph which provides for clerks for Senators.

IN the Senate, on the 24th inst., the Senate bill appropriating $50,000 for an equestrian statue at Manchester, N. H., of Maj. Gen. John Stark was taken up and passed—yeas, 37; nays 15. On motion of Mr. Gray the House bill to transfer the revenue cutter service from the Treasury Department to the Navy Department was again taken up for consideration. The amendments reported from the Committee on Naval Affairs was agreed to. Pending the consideration of the revenue cutter bill Mr. Hoar from the Committee on Privileges and Elections, reported (as an original measure a bill to amend and supplement the election laws of the United States and to provide for the more efficient enforcement of such laws, and it was placed on the calendar. The Senate spent the entire afternoon in consideration of the bill to forfeit certain lands heretofore granted for the purpose of aiding in the construction of railroads. It adjourned at 5:30 without action. The House resumed consideration of the legislative appropriation bill. Mr. Beggs, of California, made a vigorous attack upon the civil-service system advocating the doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils. Others followed, and on motion to strike out the clause providing compensation for the Civil-Service Commission, which was then put, the vote stood: Yeas, 62; nays 121. The House then adjourned.

IN the Senate, on the 25th, the bill constituting Gladstone, Mich., a port of delivery in the Customs District of Superior was reported and passed, and the House amendment to the Lafayette (Ind.) building bill (reducing the appropriation from $100,000 to $80,000) was concurred in and a conference asked. The Senate then took up and passed the joint resolution for the relief of the Southern flood sufferers. The land grant forfeiture bill was then discussed, after which eulogies were delivered on Hon. Edward Gay and the Senate adjourned. In the House, on motion of Mr. Adams of Illinois, a bill was passed to provide for a term of court at Danville, Ill., the first Monday in May. Mr. Cannon of Illinois, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported a joint resolution appropriating $150,000 to enable the Secretary of War to distribute rations for the relief of the destitute people in the district overflowed by the Mississippi and its tributaries. The appropriation was sufficient to enable the Secretary to give one ration a day for twenty-one days to 35,000 people. The joint resolution was passed—yeas, 139; nays, 24. The resolution passed the Senate without opposition, and the President has signed it, and it is now a law. The afternoon was spent on the legislative appropriation bill, and an evening session was held, at which the House passed thirty private pension bills, and at 11:30 adjourned.

Rural Notes and News.

Air the cellar on mild days.

Mixed farming is the safest.

Use good seed—plant carefully.

Is your wood-house well-filled?

Fat vegetables require fat land.

Girls, have a fine show of flowers.

Farm for both profit and pleasure.

Make all tramps work or move on.

Remedy for worry—earnest work.

Be gentle with the colts and calves.

Carefully guard against foreign fires.

Raise plenty of carrots for the horses.

"Plow deep while sluggards sleep."

Keep the poultry house and yard dry.

Confine the fowls on cold, windy days.

Make a good seed-bed before planting.

All foods for plants must be soluble to be available.

Do not remove the mulch from trees and plants too early.

Ground bone is a good fertilizer to put around trees in setting them.

Docking and castrating may be done when the lamb is a week old.

Give your fruit trees a good soil. They can not feed and thrive on nothing.

If you want to feed milk to a lamb use a tin can with a long spout like an oil can.

"Management." This one word has more meaning on the farm than is generally suspected.

How many tradesmen and men in other lines of business are bankrupted to one on the farm?

The farm may not yield big profits, but is there any other calling so sure to give a man his living?

A wash of fresh buttermilk is said to kill lice on hogs. The milk needs to be well rubbed into the bristles.

Give the ewe clover hay if you have it, bran, and crushed oats, and she will provide the lamb with plenty of milk.

The world's available supply of wheat on March 1 was 13,750,000 quarters, against 14,000,000 quarters a year ago.

A well-managed creamery in a community will give the community a prosperity that it has never before known.

Prepare your ground well before planting, cultivate well, and, barring accident, the harvest will not disappoint you.

Plant the garden so that you can have a regular succession of vegetables. Plant small fruit with the same end in view.

The scrub animal has a pedigree which by adverse circumstances has a downward instead of an upward tendency.

Every man should try to furnish himself with all necessary tools and not rely too much on the good nature of his neighbors.

Literary Brevities.

It is probable that Mrs. Frances Hodgson-Burnett will not return to this country from abroad until next fall.

Susan Coolidge will join the literary exodus to Europe this summer, and intends to remain abroad for six months.

Tennyson has quite recovered from his recent illness, and is enjoying the primroses and the violets of his beautiful island.

Mary J. Holmes, the novelist, received royalties on 77,000 copies of her books sold during 1889, showing that literature, with some, is productive of satisfactory results.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
NERVINE TONIC
—AND—
Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach".

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE COURIER.

THEIR PLEDGE.

BY EBEN E. REXFORD.

Yesterday I heard what pleased me as I walked the busy street,
Where the tide of life flowed past me, as two comrades chanced to meet.
I had often paused to watch them, as they passed me day by day,
For their pleasant faces won me, as they came and went their way.
"They are manly little fellows," often to myself I said,
And I hoped their feet would follow where the best and bravest tread.

They had paused upon the pavement where a luring light was cast
From a gayly painted window o'er the people as they passed.
Often strains of merry music floated out upon the air,
Like the voice of sirens drawing men to sorrow and despair.
Men were coming, men were going ever through the fatal door,
Drifting on the tide of ruin to the rocks that line life's shore.

"O, God, grant these boys steer safely past the shore where danger is,
Let the wrecks of manhood warn them; save them from a fate like his,"
Prayed I, as the door was opened and a young man staggered out,
And his ribald, drunken laughter woke the echoes all about.
All the traces of his manhood drink had driven from his face,
Leaving there the bitter story of his ruin and disgrace.

He went reeling from the doorway where they sell to those who'll buy
Shame and sorrow, woe and ruin, with drink's madness in his eye.
Long the two boys stood and watched him; then one turned, and, "John," said he,
"Do you think our lives will ever such a sad, sad failure be?"
"No," the other answered, proudly; "I will tell you what I'll do—
I will pledge my word of honor for all time to come with you

"That I'll touch not, taste not liquor. Will you promise me the same?
Come, let's have a temperance order, though it may not have a name."
"I will promise," said the other; then they clasped each other's hand
In that warm fraternal friendship which all true hearts understand;
Clasped each other's hand and promised they would shun the tempting bowl
That would lead them down to ruin of the body and the soul.

Can you guess what joy it gave me to be witness of their vow?
I was proud of them before it; I was prouder of them now;
O, my boys, be wise, be careful; turn away when tempted sore,
Dash aside the cup that's offered, say you'll touch it nevermore.
Ask of God the strength that's needed, in temptation's hour be brave,
Thinking that the way leads downward and its end's a drunkard's grave.

SHIOCTON, Wis.

SAPPHIRA'S BOARDERS.

A Memory of the Great Chicago Fire.

BY W. M. GLENN.

THE early settlers of Chicago, and especially those familiar with the south division of the city before the fire, will doubtless remember an old red brick house with Dutch gables and green blinds, which used to stand on Congress street, not far from the lake. It matters little who owned the property; it is sufficient to say that Mrs. Sapphira Dodge, the widow of a down-East sea captain, occupied it, and there conducted a home-like but aristocratic boarding-house. The array of boarders around Mrs. Sapphira Dodge's tables differed little from that in scores of other resorts of a similar kind. The gossip was as prolific among the ladies; the rivalry in dress and the petty jealousies flourished there as they always have and always will in boarding-houses of wealth and ease. But on the fatal night of October 9, 1871, the house was destroyed, and Mrs. Sapphira Dodge never again opened her establishment. Many of her boarders never showed up again after that night, and quite a number of board bills are still unpaid.

A romance grew from the burning of Mrs. Dodge's boarding house, and a confirmed bachelor became a benedict. Prominent among the boarders was Colonel T. G. Frost, a middle-aged attorney, who did little but collect rent from half a score of buildings at the beginning of each month. And then there was Mrs. Amos T. Matthews, a widow with an income and two charming daughters. May, the elder, was tall and willowy, while her sister, Anna, was plump and round of figure. It had long been the talk of the boarders in general that if the Colonel had a very little encouragement he would have placed his future happiness at the disposal of Miss May. But the encouragement did not come, and though the Colonel was bold in war he was bashful in matters of love, and had it not been for the awful fire he had in all probability lived and died a bachelor.

The boarders were all excited on the night of the fire. Long before they went to bed that night they watched the lurid sky and in hushed whispers wondered what was burning. No one ever dreamed that they need fear. A few of the young, unmarried men left for the scene of the fire late in the evening, but they did not return. Whatever became of them Mrs. Dodge never knew. Their board bills are among the unpaid.

Every one who knows anything of the fire of October, 1871, knows how the flames roared and how the burning brands rained over the roofs far in advance of the main body of the "fiery hurricane." As it was in scores and hundreds of other cases, so it was with Mrs. Sapphira Dodge's household. They went to bed that night little feeling the danger they were in, and slept peacefully. Long before the flood of fire reached the old red brick, Dutch-gabled boarding house on Congress street, one of the treacherous brands set fire to the roof. It went like typical tinder. The boarders had barely time to escape with their lives. Then the streets were crowded with thousands of homeless and excited people rushing in a mad torrent for the lake front. The air was stifling with heat and smoke; the weak were pushed aside and trodden down by the strong. Women clung madly to their babes, or wailed for their lost little ones. Fathers got lost from their families, wives were separated from their husbands, but on the torrent swept. It was a wild race for life. Such was the scene which met the gaze of Sapphira Dodge's boarders. They had slept through all the noise and were awakened to find themselves in a world of fire.

Had it not been for Colonel Frost it is highly probable that the entire household of boarders would have been burned to death. He occupied a room on the third floor front. The first he knew of the fire was a strong smell of smoke in his room. Jumping out of bed, he drew on a pair of trousers and ran out into the hall. He quickly realized that prompt action was necessary, and he at once began to arouse the house. The pandemonium which raged in the street did not tend to pacify the boarders. Half-clad they tore through the halls to the street, and were soon lost in the vast tumult that swept on to the lake. By some fortunate chance Colonel Frost ran back to his room for more clothing after rousing the sleeping boarders. As he came back to the hall he was amazed to find that Mrs. Matthews and her daughters had not yet escaped. The smoke and heat were pouring up the stairway, making an exit by that route next to impossible. There was a fire escape from the rear hall window, and he urged the ladies to waste no time in using it. The daughters were so overcome with smoke and fright that he had to almost carry them down the ladder. He made a third trip for the mother to find her insane with hysteria. She was afraid of the ladder. In the most piteous terms she begged him to try the stairs. Complying with her wish came near proving fatal to both. There was a pitcher of water in his room. This he dashed over a blanket and throwing it over their heads they started down the stairs through the blinding smoke. Before they reached the second flight the mother fainted. Hastily rolling the blanket about her the Colonel made a fierce rush for the street. He got out, but was terribly burned. His face and breast were fairly cooked. A short time in the open air and the mother revived. In the excitement the Colonel heeded not his burns. Through his tireless energy they reached a place of safety. Then came a time of terrible suffering from heat, cold, and exposure. It was late the following afternoon when they reached the home of a friend who had escaped the fire. The Colonel was in a frightful condition. His eyes were almost swollen shut and he had a high fever. As soon as they reached shelter he sank into unconsciousness. For days he raved in delirium. When the fever left his face and breast were still raw. The skin refused to grow over the burned flesh. In vain the doctor applied healing lotions. One day he chanced to remark in the presence of the elder daughter that he wished some one would invent a good substitute for the natural skin. She asked what he meant. He explained that if he had what he wanted in that line he could soon cure the Colonel, and save him from disfigurement as well. In other words they wanted some human skin to engraft a new growth on the Colonel's face and breast. Miss Matthews at once offered her services. Without flinching she permitted the surgeon to peel off portions of skin from her shoulders and plant it on the Colonel's face and breast. It was all done without Colonel Frost's knowledge, but it worked like a charm.

It was fully a year before the Colonel got his business affairs straightened out, but he did not lose sight of Mrs. Matthews and her two daughters. He was not discouraged in his attentions, and on the second anniversary of the fire Miss May and he were married. He is a handsome man of fifty years now, and whenever any one passes a compliment upon his looks, he invariably says it is due to the fact that he stole his complexion from his wife.

Western Wisdom.

When we see people doing wrong we say we hope that they will not be punished for it, but we never mean what we say.

The poorer a man is, the more apt he is to think that there is nothing that money could not buy.

The only secret that a woman should keep from her husband is that she manages him.

Girls have signals for changes of seasons as well as boys. When you see a boy with his marbles you need not look far to see a little girl with a jumping rope.

Clean up your alley now and you can sit on the fence and advise your neighbor when to clean up his.

A loafer hates work, but he likes to see it going on.

When you are sitting in an opera house, making fun of the people in front of you, do you ever think that there may be people behind you making fun of you in the same way?

It's a pity a man cannot take out his liver every spring and wash it.

When a woman takes good care of a good husband she is taking the best possible care of herself.

A good many people talk poker slang who never play poker. Many men want the reputation of being a hard poker player who never play at all.

The only way you can get rich is to do without things until you are so old you have no appetite for them.

Women do not marry for money, but they say it is easier to love a rich man than a poor one.

In one respect a woman is superior to a man: she can be good-natured when she is hungry.

There is one beauty about an amateur opera: if the boys get mashed on the chorus girls they don't have to follow the show off.

How persistent people are about shutting a door when you want it open.

The trouble caused by finding a mistake is more than made up by the pleasure in finding that somebody else made it.

What men call public opinion, women call fashion.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Licking a Man Softly.

Two men met on Sixth street near High, the other day, and both stopped and looked hard at each other. Then one said:

"Jim, I'm going to lick you!"

"When?"

"Right off—now!"

"I don't believe you can do it!"

"Then I'll die trying. It shall be a fair fight."

"Very well."

Then one took out his false teeth and laid them on the fence, the other hung his new hat and overcoat on a picket and the first observed:

"Be careful of my left leg, Tom, I've had a boil there."

"All right, and you look out for my right ear, as it is sore from neuralgia."

At this moment a policeman happened along and warned them against raising any row, and one said:

"All right, Jim—I'll lick you next week!"

"I'll be there Tom! Good-by!"—Detroit Free Press.

A SNAKE kept by a Zurich naturalist was fond of entering a small pond and lying in ambush for gold-fish. It seized its pray by the belly, when, very curiously, the fish became stiff and apparently dead, though it was found to be uninjured, and if liberated readily swam away. The naturalist thinks the snake had a hypnotic influence on its victim.

PRACTICAL SCIENCE.

MATTERS OF POPULAR INTEREST INTELLIGENTLY DISCUSSED.

The Legal Weights of Leading Farm Products—Cultivating the Strawberry—How to Make a Successful Flower-Garden.

BY PROF. J. F. ELSOM.

Legal Weights of Farm Products.

The following is the legal weight per bushel of the articles named:

ARTICLES.	Michigan.	Indiana.	Illinois.	Minnesota.	Iowa.
Wheat	60	60	60	60	60
Shelled Corn	56	56	56	56	56
Corn in ear	70	68	70	70	70
Oats	32	32	32	32	33
Barley	48	48	48	48	48
Rye	56	56	56	56	56
Buckwheat	42	50	52	40	52
White Beans	60	60	60	60	60
Irish Potatoes	60	60	60	60	60
Sweet Potatoes	55	55	55	55	55
Turnips	55	55	55	55	55
Onions	56	57	57	57	57
Dried Apples	28	25	24	28	24
Dried Peaches	28	33	33	28	33
Bran	20	20	20	20	20
Hungarian Seed	48	48	48	48	48
Hemp Seed	44	44	44	44	44
Stone Coal	..	82	70	..	..
Charcoal	22	22	22	22	22
Coarse Salt	50	50	50	50	50
Clover Seed	60	60	60	60	60
Timothy Seed	..	..	45	46	45
Flax Seed	56	53	56	56	56

Strawberries.

The best time for planting strawberries, all things considered, is in the spring; the next best, other things being equal, is late in the summer, during a cool damp spell. Some successful strawberry growers recommend to plant in the verey driest time. This, they claim, is practicable, but our experience has been otherwise, and nearly all those who have tried both seasons are as a unit in favor of dampness and no sunlight for all kinds of transplanting. By planting in summer the plants will bear a moderate crop during the ensuing season. Plants put in in the spring often bear some fruit the same season, especially if the soil and season are favorable, but not as a general rule. In planting always select long runners, but avoid the use of old plants for transplanting. The runners should be prepared the previous season by being layered, or stopped, as it is termed by horticulturists, by breaking off the extremity of the runner, after the first joint, and laying a flat stone on it, or drawing the soil up to the young plant. Strawberries are now generally planted in rows, varying from two to three feet wide, according to the idea of the cultivator and the scarcity of the soil. If wide space between the rows is adopted, the plantation may be kept longer in good bearing condition, by keeping the soil clean and well worked, removing the superfluous runners, and keeping the plants more in hills. Some extensive cultivators do not allow a plantation to remain more than three years without being renewed, but the writer has an old plantation that has borne an average crop for twenty seasons, and to all intents and purposes, is as good as ever, though the fruit is an old-fashioned kind (some old-fashioned kinds are the best), and the plantation has had good care and attention, two requisites to all kinds of small fruit culture. All things considered, however, it is the wisest plan to renew the plants often, as the soil is thereby renewed, and a new rotation of crops carried out. Fabulous accounts daily meet the eye of the product per acre of a well-tended strawberry plantation during a good fruit year; these, however, will not do to bank on, inasmuch as the product depends altogether on the care and attention devoted to it.

Flower Gardens.

A great many persons when they plant a flower garden, desire such flowers as will give the greatest show with the least trouble. Again, many can afford but a few kinds. Some people take catalogues and look them over, getting completely bewildered before they get through. Everything there shown is described as being desirable and gorgeous, and they cannot determine really what to get and what not to get. This is the experience of every one when they commence growing flowers, but they will soon learn what kinds succeed best in a common garden, and are most satisfactory. We will suppose the reader has had some little experience; in such cases about a dozen varieties will be selected. First in the list will be the petunias, those old but ever new beautiful flowers. These are desirable; they begin to bloom when very small, and continue to bloom until frost kills them, thus giving a constant succession of flowers. As the plant grows the blooms increase in number, and a common-sized plant will cover a space three feet square, often showing two hundred blossoms at once. They are of all shades of radiant purple, and when mixed with white have a dazzling effect. Next comes the modest—beautiful by virtue of modesty—flox. This begins to bloom early, and, like petunias, has large clusters of flowers, increasing in number as the plant grows. From the time they commence to bloom until killed by the frost they are never without flowers. Nothing in the floral family can give a greater variety of colors, or present a more dazzling effect, than flox, red, white, blue, purple, scarlet, pink, striped, and dotted. Then come the asters. These do not bloom until late in the season, but amply repay one for waiting. They are a beautiful flower—another old-time friend of the lovers of the beautiful, and sport almost as great a variety of colors as the flox. Next get some scarlet Chinese pinks, for they give variety. They are hardy, constant bloomers, and of all conceivable shades of red and scarlet, striped and spotted with brown and white. Then one can make a selection from the pansies, verbenas, stock snap-dragons, balsams, zamias, morning glories and nasturtiums for climbers and festoons about the cornices and porches. These are all constant and profuse bloomers, and will give all colors and shades. The pansies, stock, and petunias are very fragrant, and will give tall and upright as well as low and training plants. Make your home beautiful; bring to it flowers.

Every-Day Science.

THE entire seacoast line of the globe amounts to a little over, altogether, one hundred and thirty-six thousand miles.

THE queen bee produces at least two hundred eggs per day, so that in the space of two months she lays upward of twelve thousand eggs.

A SALMON trout will glide over eighty-six thousand four hundred feet in an hour, and it could easily make the tour of the world in a few weeks.

AN ordinary bee can draw twenty times the weight of its body, and some of the species of beetles—there are an unknown number of varieties—can draw forty-two times their own weight.

THE power that Dame Nature gave the toad of inflating its body is its principal means of defense. This makes it appear so large that its enemies, principally snakes, do not attempt to swallow it.

LETTERS FROM THE CORNERS.

NECK OR NOTHIN' HALL,
KILKENNY CORNERS.

MR. Editur: All the way to the park, next day, the min folks wus a talkin about "teams" an "flys" an "fielder" an "home streetch" an the like. I coodn't make hed or tale, likewise the widder nor Billy's wife couldn't nuther. When we got there, thay want a teem in site, fur I looked, an I don't no to this day why they wus all a-talkin 'bout this teem an that teem, do you Mister Editur?

Thay wus the boys from Rag Ally agoine to play agin the boys frum Upsturt street; an thay wus all thare, rigged out in thare bran new unicorns, an thay looked first rate.

The Rag Ally boys hed the fust play, or innins, es thay call it, an one of 'em took the bat an while he wus a waitin fur the other feller to pitch the ball, why the feller thet wus behind him put a wire bird-cage over his face, then the other feller throwed the ball, an Rag Ally hit it a welt the fust thing an sent it a flying clare off.

"What a hevingly fly!" ses a gal a standin clost by me; an I looked all aroun an I kno they want a fly nowhares neer.

I tell you, ef they want a lot o' peeple thare, an sum of 'em dressed fit to kill.

The widder an her bow found a shady seet an set thare eatin penuts an' candy. What wus a game o' ball to them? Want thare soles a sailin in to a sea o' bliss? es the poick ses. Willam Henery wus that axcited he woodn't let me half listen to what the folks around me wus a sayin. I jest cot a part of it.

"An I jest tole her thet I'd see her furder——" ses one.

"Nor nothin I cood do wood——" ses a little womin.

"Make him get her a new bunnit," ses another.

"Laws, ses I, hain't you, afeerd he'l——" an ole lady ses.

"Take it on the fly, skinny," ses a boy.

"Yes, an wood you believe it, she got 3 bunnits in 17 years and him only——"

"Twenty-five cents a glass an ice cold, cum——"

"Away out West whare I wus you cood——"

"Do enny thing? Well, I shood say——"

"Git thare, Eli," ses another boy.

"I do jist love——" ses a purty blunde.

"Takin medisin every hour to, its——"

"My own horse, ses he, and I haint afreed to bet——" ses a tall man.

"My resete fur cookeys? Of course you kin——"

"Tell you what it is, Naber Clark haint no——"

"Spring chickens? Well I haint thet menny now——"

"I never expect to go thare agin fur——"

"O! what a beestly fluke thet was——"

An thet wus jest the way thay kep a runnin on, an I never got to hear all thet enny of em sed. It wus purvokin, Mister Editur, fur jest es Id begin to sents what one sed sum one elts ud say sumpthin.

"Haint this a bully good game, Hester Ann?" ses Wm. Henery.

"I dont no nuthin about it," ses I.

"Hurrah fur Rag Ally!" ses he, a jumpin onto a bench an wavin his banana.

"Shet up!" ses a feller.

"Shet up yur own self," ses Willam Henery, a hollern "Hurrah!" louder 'n ever.

"Cum along with me, I'll pull ye fur 'sturbin the piece," ses the man who wus a hossifer in disgust.

I wus auful skeert. So no more at present.

HESTER ANN SCOOPER.

Freemasonary at a Drug Store.

Scene: Chemist's shop in a temperance town out West, where, among other good things, "soda water" is retailed in pretty considerable quantities. Enter young man, who inquires if there is a vacancy for an assistant.

"Have you the requisite knowledge and experience?" was the proprietor's first question as he drew the applicant aside.

"I think I may safely say I have," the young man answered in an undertone.

"Been long in the business?"

"Three years."

"Where?"

"In Milwaukee."

"Humph; what would you do if a customer gave you a nod of the head as he went up to the soda fountain?"

"Let him have good old corn brandy and soda."

"A couple of short nods and a clack of the tongue?"

"Fill the glass half full of Jamaica rum."

"Suppose somebody asks for banana syrup with his fore-finger and thumb stuck in his left waistcoat pocket?"

"He means cognac with ginger."

"Three nods while pointing with his thumb over the left shoulder?"

"Old Holland gin, and the same for his friends behind him."

"If somebody says 'Hudson,' and expectorates to the left?"

"Old corn, with peppermint and wormwood."

"Removes the quid from his mouth with his left hand?"

"Hand-made sour mash."

"Very good; that will do. You can start to-morrow. If anything out of the common is wanted—you'll find all these things in our cellar. You see, we have to be very careful in making up our prescriptions, as people's lives are at stake."

Paying Inventions.

Inventor—I have here a new life-saving appliance, which needs only capital to——

Capitalist—I'm busted. Haven't a cent left. Going to the poor house next week. Good-da——

Inventor—Let me show you one more thing—also my invention—a new patent self-feeding rotary cannon, warranted to kill 10,000 men a second.

Capitalist—Gee Whittaker! I'll give a million dollars for a half interest!—New York Weekly.

Syrup of Figs,

Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds and headaches, and curing habitual constipation.

Colored Society Note.

Sam Johnsing—Has yer lubly darter made her deboot?

Mrs. Crow—Not yet, Mr. Johnsing.

"Dat's a great pity. Sich a lubly flower was not born ter blush unseen and waste her fragrance on de desert air."

"She can't blush any odder way except onseen, she am so dark complected; but her sister Mollie am seberal shades lighter. Yer can see her blush almost ebery day."—Texas Siftings.

FIFTEEN contestants clad for the fray,
Armed with good steel and in battle array—
Striving for lucre, as brave knights of old
Strove for their honors and medals of gold.
Driving each shining pen over the paper;
Seeking to sound, as the most proper caper,
The praises of remedies known the world over—
From Paris to Calais, from Calais to Dover;
But each knight vainly strives—language fails in description
Of the manifold virtues of "Favorite Prescription."

When ill or depressed with that "dragging-down" feeling consequent upon weakness, suffering from headache, weak or lame back, and the many ills common to the weaker sex, take Dr. Pierce's Prescription, which is guaranteed to give satisfaction or price ($1) returned. See printed guarantee on bottle-wrapper.

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS—gently laxative or actively cathartic, according to dose. 25 cents.

Another Titled Son-in-Law.

Blackberry — Whafoh you let yo' daughtah marry dat ornery, wall-eyed, knock-kneed nigger, Mis' Lillywhite?

Mrs. Lillywhite — What yo' talkin' 'bout? He am a Af'ican nobleman, he am. I had to make a marriage settlement of foahty dollahs on dat coon, an' pay his debts, 'bout 'leben dollahs moah.—Munsey's Weekly.

Six Novels Free, will be sent by Cragin & Co., Philada., Pa., to any one in the U. S. or Canada, postage paid, upon receipt of 25 Dobbins' Electric Soap wrappers. See list of novels on circulars around each bar. Soap for sale by all grocers.

The Proper Time.

Smith—What is the best season for popping the question?

Jones—I never knew that one season was any better than another.

"Oh! yes. And the best time to propose is during the open winter."

"During an open winter! Why so?"

"Because in an open winter you can't expect the beautiful's 'no.'"—Boston Courier.

FOR strengthening and clearing the voice, use "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES."—"I have commended them to friends who were public speakers, and they have proved extremely serviceable."—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher.

LEADING musicians are advocating a lower musical pitch. It is to be hoped lowness will strike the scale of admission also.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

NEVER judge by appearances; but, in case of a heavy defalcation, it is generally safe to judge by disappearances.

A Sensible Man

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized any druggist to give you a Sample Bottle Free to convince you of the merit of this great remedy. Large Bottles 50 cents and $1.

IN the bright lexicon of the district messenger youth there is such a word as snail.

No stranger should leave the city without a box of "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigars.

Ouida learned that a novel called "POSITION" had been published in England several years ago, and immediately telegraphed to London and to the Lovell's of New York, to change the title to "SYRLIN," the name of one of the characters. The plates for the book were made and the alterations necessitated a delay in publication and several hundred dollars expense.

THE best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

"ORDER SLATE" is the judicious advice suspended before certain coal offices.

Don't Get Caught

This Spring, as you may have been before, with your blood full of impurities, your digestion impaired, appetite poor, kidneys and liver torpid, and whole system liable to be prostrated by disease—but get yourself into good condition, and ready for the changing and warmer weather, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It stands unequaled for purifying the blood, giving an appetite, and for a regulating and general spring medicine. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For five years I was sick every spring, but last year began in February to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I used five bottles and have not seen a sick day since." G. W. SLOAN, Milton, Mass.

"My son was afflicted with the worst type of scrofula, and on the recommendation of my druggist I gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla. To-day he is sound and well, notwithstanding it was said there was not enough medicine in Illinois to effect a cure." J. CHRISTIAN, Illiopolis, Ill.

N. B. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

I took Cold,
I took Sick,
I TOOK
SCOTT'S EMULSION
RESULT:
I take My Meals,
I take My Rest,
AND I AM VIGOROUS ENOUGH TO TAKE ANYTHING I CAN LAY MY HANDS ON; getting fat too, FOR Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda NOT ONLY CURED MY Incipient Consumption BUT BUILT ME UP, AND IS NOW PUTTING FLESH ON MY BONES AT THE RATE OF A POUND A DAY. I TAKE IT JUST AS EASILY AS I DO MILK." SUCH TESTIMONY IS NOTHING NEW. SCOTT'S EMULSION IS DOING WONDERS DAILY. TAKE NO OTHER.

Burlington Route
HALF RATES TO THE FARMING REGIONS OF THE WEST, SOUTHWEST, NORTHWEST.
For particulars call on your Ticket Agent or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

5 TON SCALES $60 Beam Box Tare Beam ALL SIZES Send for Terms

JONES OF BINGHAMTON N. Y. HE PAYS THE FREIGHT

Copyright, 1889.

KISSES.

(A la Romeo and Juliet.)

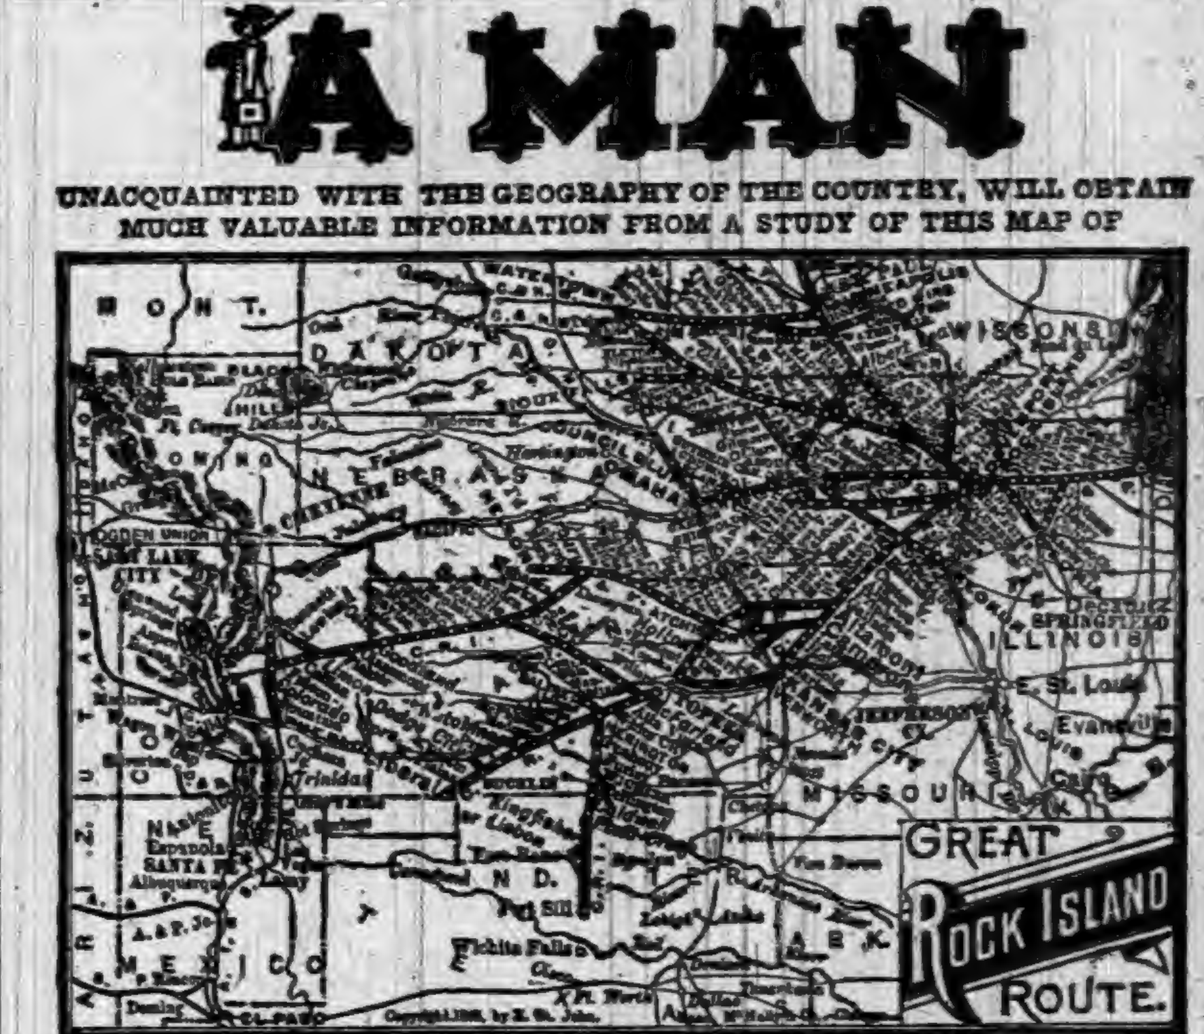
A prominent physician calls the kiss "an elegant disseminator of disease." He says, "fever is spread by it, so are lung diseases." He maintains that if the kissing custom were driven out of the land "it would save one-tenth of one per cent. of human lives" which are now sacrificed. Out upon the gnarled and sapless vagabond! Evidently kisses are not for such as he, and the old fox says the grapes are sour. Let him devote himself to making our women healthy and blooming that kisses may be kisses. This can surely be done by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which is simply magical in curing diseases peculiar to females. After taking it for a reasonable length of time there will be no more irregularity, backache, bearing-down sensations, nervous prostration, general debility and kindred ailments. "Favorite Prescription" is an invigorating, restorative tonic and as a regulator and promoter of functional action at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, it is a perfectly safe remedial agent and can produce only good results. It is carefully compounded, by an experienced and skillful physician and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. It imparts strength to the whole system. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been faithfully carried out for many years.

A Book of 160 pages, on "Woman and Her Diseases," and their Self-cure, sent, post-paid, to any address, securely sealed in a plain envelope, on receipt of ten cents, in stamps. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets
DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS
Purely Vegetable and Perfectly Harmless.
Unequaled as a Liver Pill. Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to Take. One tiny, Sugar-coated Pellet a Dose. Cures Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels. 25 cents, by druggists.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.
CATARRH
It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

A MAN
UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LOW PRICE RAILROAD LANDS & FREE Government LANDS.
MILLIONS of Acres in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.
SEND FOR Publications with maps describing THE BEST Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to Settlers. SENT FREE. Address
CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Commissioner, ST. PAUL, MINN.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS. Red Cross Diamond Brand.
The only reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. Ladies, ask Druggist for the Diamond Brand, in red metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Philada., Pa.

PENSIONS! 25 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.
Apply to MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Att'ys, 1419 F St., Washington, D.C. Branch offices, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago

PATENTS--PENSIONS—How to get a pension Quick. Send for digest of Pension and Bounty Laws. Send for Inventors' Guide or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Attorney at Law, Washington, D. C.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular

YOUNG MEN wanted to learn telegraphy. Situations furnished on railroads. Addr's Valentines' School, Janesville, Wis

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.
SMITH & WESSON,
Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

WILCOX'S COMPOUND TANSY PILLS!
Safe, Certain and Effectual. At Druggists or by mail. Send 4c. for "Woman's Safe-Guard." Dr. Wilcox Specific Co., Phila., Pa.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

TELEGRAPHY. We guarantee a good paying position to every graduate. American School of Telegraphy, Madison, Wis.

PENSIONS PATENTS and Government claims of all kinds prosecuted by Thos. McSherry, Attorney at Law, Washington, D.C. and Fremont, O.

N. U. F. W........................No. 18--90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

SILK DEPARTMENT.

We have received from the manufacturers 22-inch

PRINTED CHINA SILKS,

Double faced, heavy, fine, and come in a great variety patterns and colorings. We place them on sale at

50 Cents a Yard.

COLORED SURAH SILKS,

45 to 75 cents a yard.

These can be had in colors and blacks

SPRING WRAPS.

Ladies wanting a garment not being able to visit the department can have them sent by express, on memorandum, stating size and colors wanted. Jackets, Newmarkets, Visites, Shoulder Capes, Fichus, etc.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

Filled with the choicest patterns. Ingrain Carpet, 25 cents up to 75 cents. Brussels Carpets, 50 cents up to $1.00. Several hundred peices each pattern. Moquets, Velvets, Axminsters, Curtains and Draperies.

WASH DRESS FABRICS.

Handsome Dress Ginghams, Lovely Novelties from 12½ cents up to 75 cents per yard. The great width of the finer goods make them desirable.

We invite you to send for samples. Any goods sent not satisfactory can be returned—in this way we protect our customers.

ROOT & COMPANY.

ECKHART CARRIAGE COMPANY,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

MOUNTED WITH THE HERBRAND GEAR IRONS.

BETTER STYLES, BETTER FACILITIES. BETTER WORK, Better Accommodations.

FOR the past sixteen years we have made and sold to the people of DeKalb County, Buggies and Carriages of all kinds, and have always justified our claim that we POSITIVELY make the BEST in the COUNTRY for the money, until now it has become a common saying that if you want a GOOD BUGGY, one that will stand the knocks,

BUY THE ECKHART BUGGY.

WE have handsomer and more thoroughly made work this year than ever before and expect to be able to furnish our customers, this year, without delay. For the accommodation of our customers we have established the following repositories:

At St. Joe, Ind., under the management of	J. K. Stafford.
At Butler, Ind., " " " "	Maxwell & Shoub.
At Corunna, Ind., " " " "	P. N. Calkin.
At LaOtto, Ind., " " " "	E. A. Ditmars.

WHERE we will at all times keep a full line. We will also keep our Repository at our Factory well filled with the styles most in demand.

Close Cash Buyers,

Come and see if I cannot

Save You Money,

THESE HARD TIMES.

LOOK!

Wood Seat Chairs	$ 2 00
Cane Chairs	$ 3 00
Bedsteads $1 00 and up.
Marble Tables	$ 4 50
Chamber Suit	$16 00
Marble Chamber Suit	$30 00
Center Table	$ 1 50

Mortuary Goods

For one-half what you have been paying. Come and see. First door east of Bank, Butler, Ind.

S. L. HAMLIN.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.,

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.

ON THE WING.

Items and Ideas Found by the Courier Reporter in His Journey.

On Monday of last week we were afforded the opportunity of passing a few minutes in conversation with Geo. Wilcox, of Butler township. Mr. Wilcox is an enterprising farmer and everything around him speaks of earnest toil and industry. He is one of Butler township's staunch republicans, but considers the COURIER an absolute necessity.

We had occasion to met Tho. Wyatt, of Butler township, a few days since, and found him to be one of our most successful farmers. Last year he raised about 2,700 bushels of produce, such as wheat, oats, corn and potatoes. He also has an abundance of fine stock around him. To beat a DeKalb boy, you must get up and hustle.

In conversation with John Muhn, of Butler township, we found him to be a very genial young man, who by his diligence is gradually climbing the ladder of success. We are quite certain he will keep posted on the current events of the day because he has found it a wise thing to read the COURIER.

One of the sound reasoners of Butler township, is Philip Noel. A few days since a scribe was granted the privilege of viewing his surroundings, and found him to be quite awake to the demands of modern times. Last year he erected a residence as finely finished as the majority of city structures. A good wind pump carries water to all parts of the house where it is needed. This arrangement, is not excelled in this part of the state. This elegant structure is only one of the many exhibitions of enterprise displayed by Mr. Noel. He is a staunch republican, but finds it convenient to read the COURIER.

J. F Housel, of DeKalb, is a man full of genuine business enterprise. In addition to holding the honored position of postmaster at that place, he has built a good substantial building in which he has put a first-class stock of groceries and provisions. Hitherto he has kept the post office only, but now he can accommodate the office patrons with the necessities of life. He is a thorough farmer and a life-long republican, but the COURIER finds consideration in his household.

The continued wet weather during the latter part of the winter has thrown farm work all on a pile, and farmers are obliged to labor early and late to get their crops in the ground. You don't find any of them stitting on store boxes whittling for a salary or larger commission for services. All are striking while the iron is hot.

N. W. Beaber, of New Era, is one of those good farmers who welcomes the COURIER as a constant visitor.

John Lung is one of our ruralistic friends who knows a good thing when he sees it. He looks for the COURIER once a week.

Joseph Heitz is one of those farmers, who believe in cultivating mentally as well as agriculturally and has proven the the same by reading the COURIER.

Adam L. Heitz is one of those jolly, whole-souled fellows that don't stay long in the rear of a venture. He reads the COURIER for the next year.

Approaching Wm. Merica we found him a genial good natured wielder of the "point and share." He has read the COURIER for more than a half-score years and finds it a household necessity.

Daniel Lung is a wide-a-wake young farmer, who finds that the farming business is not complete without a good paper to read. The COURIER will be a visitor at his home for twelve months.

James Holman falls in with the line of march and is now reading the COURIER.

Wm. Sawyer, of this city, is awake to his best interests and reads the COURIER for what it contains.

B. F. Stahl, the accomodating barber at the south end, finds that barbering will not satisfy a hankering after knowledge. He will now read the COURIER between shaves.

Joshua Miller is another of Butler township's earnest democrats, who has taken the COURIER for sixteen years and calculates upon its appearnce once a week just as surely as he makes a trip to Auburn to pay his taxes.

Samuel Long is a democrat, who has welcomed the COURIER as a constant visitor for 18 years.

Robert Weidler, of Garrett, is a young farmer, whom our scribe found desirous of relieving his mind of the cares of life by good reading. He will read the COURIER for some time.

J. D. Price, of DeKalb, is one of those gentlemen who prove all things and hold fast to that which is good. He expects the COURIER to be his guest for one year.

J. S. Recktenwald, of Garrett, has found that married life without a good county paper is a failure. The COURIER is to be his guest for one year.

Levi F. Long, of Cedar Creek, is a farmer who knows that a home without a paper is like a pump without a handle—minus a member. He and his family will read the COURIER.

Charles Wiant, of Garrett, falls in with the line of march and will submit to the missiles from the "mortar gun" of the COURIER for one year.

Geo. Smith, of Cedar Creek, will liven his household with the news to be found in the COURIER for one year.

James Wells, of Swan Station, is one of those extensive farmers, who believes in mingling a little pleasure with labor. He will read the COURIER for one year.

John Krumlauf, of LaOtto, has found it a desirable thing to read a pure county paper. He thinks the COURIER fills the bill and will read it for a year.

John Nickerson, from LaOtto, has concluded to study the merits of his own county. To do this he has arranged to have the COURIER come to his house once a week.

In conversation with Mrs. Rebecca Stonestreet, of Cedar Creek, we learned that they had taken an Auburn paper for thirty years, and that the COURIER has been welcomed to that household for nineteen years, ever since it started, and she looks for its appearance each week just as earnestly as in days of old.

In conversation with A. B. Haines, of St. Johns, we found him to be a genial whole-souled gentleman.

The household word at this season of the year is, get a hustle on you or you won't get your oats out.

P. P. Hostler is one of those genuine "old hickory" democrats who has read the COURIER for 18 years. He expects it to visit his home once a week.

A few days ago while in conversation with Mr. McClure, of Sugar Grove, we learned that he is a first-class farmer, who has divided his attention in a pleasant and profitable way by reading the COURIER, lo these many years. It has become a household word, a family necessity.

Our pen-pusher had occasion a few days since to call upon Michael Whetsell and wife at their pleasant home near Sugar Grove, where he received a genial reception. They are a very pleasant couple and seem to be enjoying the autumn of their existence in a way worthy of imitation. The COURIER has come to their house for many years, and has proved a source of profit.

William Mason is one of those genial whole-souled farmers who believe in investing their money where it will do the most good, and bring in the greatest returns in the least time. While stopping to rest and refresh his physical manhood, he intends to feed his mental manhood upon the good things to be found in the COURIER. A wise conclusion.

A. and H. Mason are two of Keyser township's enterprising young men, who are farming together, and their surroundings and work indicate that they are bound to make it win. We know a part of their venture will be a success because they are reading the COURIER.

Oliver Benward, of Garrett, is one of those jolly teamsters who know when they have a good thing within their grasp. He has been teaming for a firm there for seven years. He has joined the "royal band" and will read the COURIER one year.

G. W. Long, one of our fellow townsmen, thinks that poking wood into a furnace is not all that a young man can or ought to do as a pre-requisite to life's happiness. He has hoisted his banner to the masthead, and calculates on welcoming the COURIER in his home for the next year to come.

While the COURIER pen-pusher was trying to accellerate the locomotion of his pedal extremities along one of the principal highways of Keyser township a few days since, his attention was arrested by the sound of a hammer, which seemed to be in the hands of one skilled in its use. On going nearer it was found that J. H. Haag was in his shop repairing some furniture, that being his profession. After "the man of markin' stick fame" made his presence known, a delightful conversation took place in which Mr. H. introduced a piece of furniture made from the finest piece of birdseye burl that has been seen in DeKalb county for years. The matchless curlings and twistings of the natural wood, together with the brilliant polish, makes it a triumph of mechanical workmanship. The log from which this lumber was obtained, was got in Mr. Gorrell's woods in Butler township, which had lain for some years in a remote part of the bush and was supposed to be rotten, but after chopping into it, solid wood was found. Mr. Gorrell hauled it to the sawmill intending to have fence boards made of it. The mill man concluded to make something else however.

In the language of an old adage we learn that "the proof of a pudding is the taste of it." This being true, we take it for granted that the COURIER having been read by citizens of DeKalb county from one to eighteen years is proof sufficient that it has not been a failure or its mission in vain, as a prime educator and a practical county newspaper, whose chief characteristic is purity of tone and firmness in advocating the right. In proving all things, "hold fast to that which is good."

School Report.

Report of school district No. 8, Richland township, DeKalb, county, for the month ending April 25, 1890. Number of pupils enrolled during the month 27, average daily attendance 25. Names of those absent during the month, Sammie Treesh, Mary Rice, Sadie Bolinger, Frank Grob, Clark Treesh, Hugh Dawson, Essie Lawhead, Frank Treesh, Orpha Lawhead, Frank Dawson, and Sadie Hoover. Those absent one day or less, Norman Roland, Emma Treesh, Laura Treesh and Libbie Reed. This being the term of six and one half months. Literary exercises were held in the afternoon consisting of songs, declamations, dialogues and a paper, in the presence of 46 visitors. Quite an interest was manifest during the entire year. and good work was done by the regular pupils, and in our school as well as in all others in this township, the new school books proved very satisfactory, especialy the readers and geographies. This closed my 18th term having taught my first term in Salem township, Steuben Co., in the spring of 1881.

BELLE C. HARDING
Teacher.

Harvesting Machinery from the World's Fair City.

Chicago, April 15, 1890.—Special—A monster freight train drawn by two engines left this city to-day for Minneapolis. The entire train was loaded with Deering Twine Binders and Deering Mowers, from the works of Wm. Deering & Co., this city, said to be the largest manufacturers of harvesting machinery in the world. The train was highly decorated and a brass band in uniform accompanied it. On one car a binder and a mower were shown set up for work. Dispatches from points passed to day show that enthusiastic crowds greeted the train at all stations, and the trip so far is one grand triumphal procession. It is not unusual for this firm to send solid train loads of machinery all over the country, but this train attracts especial attention.

James M. Gœtschius.

James McMaster Gœtschius was born in Duchess county, N. Y., July 4, 1812, departed this life April 25, 1890, aged 77 years, 9 months and 21 days. He was a son of Lewis and Helen (McMaster) Gœtschius. When three years old, his parents moved to Tioga county, N. Y. and he there grew to manhood. In 1833 he married Miss Elizabeth Waterman also of New York. In the spring of 1834 he moved to Huron county, Ohio, where the same year his wife died, leaving a daughter, now the wife of Daniel Z. Hoffman, of Auburn, Ind. He came to DeKalb county, Ind. in the spring of 1836, and entered several tracts of land. On the tract in Butler township, he cleared some and built a log cabin. He took jobs of clearing in this and Allen counties, and was one of a number who got out timber for the old Wabash canal, then building through Ft. Wayne. In 1839 he visited his old home in New York and in May of that year married his second wife, Miss Abigail Barnes, who survives him. The same year they moved to their new home among the wilds of a new country. In 1850 he crossed the plains to the gold fields of California, and remained there about 2½ years engaged in mining. He returned home through Central America by the way of the Isthmus. In the spring of 1856 he sold his farm in Butler township and moved to Auburn, where he resided during the summer. And in the fall of the same year bought the farm in Richland township where he lived until his death. To the latter union were born ten children but six of whom are now living, Helen A. married to Stephen Masters, and lives in Sebastian county, Arkansas; Elizabeth, married Jesse Thomas, and lives near the home of the deceased; Emily, married Thomas Lipsett, and lives in Goshen, Ind.; James Philander, lives in North Dakota; Abram Dewitt, lives in Hay's city, Kansas; Ira Barnes, lives at the old home in Richland township. The deceased was an active man held different offices of trust and responsibility, in his township and served three terms as county commissioner. He was very prominent in shaping the interest of the county, living for the best interest of his family, and always ready to lend a helping hand to any one in need. He was never without a kind word, a bright smile, or an act of charity to cheer some fellow creature. About five years ago, he was stricken with softening of the brain and gradually grew worse until death came and released him from his sufferings. Thus has passed away another pioneer. And many, if not all of the pioneers, of the few that are left, will remember with pleasure, the name of James M. Gœtschius and recall many jovial and happy moments when in his society.

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

There are now 101 union soldiers in Congress and eighty-one who served in the confederate army.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court. May term 1890. John Byrne, the unknown heirs of John Byrne, deceased, Barbara Byrne, the unknown heirs of Barbara Byrne deceased, William Bricker and the unknown heirs of William Bricker, deceased, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, on complaint to quiet title by Martha E. Mathews, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 25th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 19th, 1890.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 21st day of April 1890. GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.
WILLIAM H. LEAS, Attorney.

Jerome Wood, of Long Lake, N. Y., found the name of Annie Hodgson, of Sheffield, England, in an umbrella, wrote to her and later married her.

Next Sunday Morning

at ten o'clock or any day this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough as it is guaranteed to cure and relieve all chronic and acute coughs for less money than any other, as the price is only 25 cts. It enables all to give this great medicine a trial. A fresh supply at F. E. Davenport's.

A plea was made to school children to contribute one egg each for a hospital at Harrisburg, Pa., and the result was a collection of 5,006 eggs.

A Valuable Discovery.

Dr. Brown Sequard's elixir of youth may be an important discovery, but every one knows that Dr. Franklin Miles' New Heart Cure certainly is. It has given thousands afflicted with serious heart disease a new lease of life Druggists who can observe its effects on many customers everywhere speak highly of it. Mr. John Weaver, of Knightstown, Ind., says: "I have sold much of Dr. Miles' New Cure and have received many good reports." O. Monroe, of Dunkirk, N. Y., reports large sales "And the best part of it is every bottle has given satisfaction." Sold and guaranteed by F. E. Davenport. 6

AT WILSON'S SHOE STORE.

Great Bargains!

See our $2.00 Calf Boot, usually sold for $2.50. Our Oil Grain Tap Sole Solid Working Shoe for $2.00. Our $1.25 Shoes can't be beat.

Fine Shoes For Ladies' and Gents'.

Quality and Style Unsurpassable.

PRICES LOW.

Call and see us, south side of square, Auburn, Ind. Repairing promptly done. Respectfully yours,

J. N. WILSON & SON,

AUBURN and WATERLOO.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.

Do you need a CARPET This Spring?

IF you do, come and see us, so we can show you how much better you can do with us than elsewhere. We can sell you a handsomer and better carpet in all respects, and for less money than you can get them for at any other place.

We are showing a large and exquisite line of Moquettes, Velvets, Body Brussels, Tapestries and Ingrains.

REMEMBER WE ARE AGENTS FOR

LOWELL :-: INGRAINS.

This carpet is wound on a hollow stick. Buy a carpet with a hollow stick in the center, and you will get one that will not fade or spot. We sell these for the same price that other dealers ask for an inferior quality.

Rugs, Lace Curtains, Mats, Draperies and Window Shades.

Do not get so interested in our Carpets that you will forget all about our DRESS GOODS. The different styles and colors we are showing this spring are handsomer than ever. Henriettas and Brilliantines. An elegant assortment of novelty suit patterns. A 36-inch all-wool plaid for 45 and 49 cents a yard.

Louis Wolf & Co.,

54 CALHOUN ST., FT. WAYNE, IND.

For All Kinds Of

Finest Millinery, Notions, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Furnishing Goods,

And Articles for Fancy Work, it will pay you to call on

J. C. JOHNSTON, Waterloo, Ind.

WE keep the largest assortment, very latest styles, lowest prices. The best facilities for doing business and the largest force of experienced help of any establishment of the kind in this part of the country.

IN addition to our Millinery Department, we pay close attention to other lines above mentioned, which means a great variety of articles too numerous to mention.

WE shall continue as in the past to add to our stock, novelties, both in millinery and our stock generally, as fast as they appear in the eastern markets, and will be at all times ready to furnish our customers with just what they ask. We keep a large assortment of each article in our stock varying in prices and qualities, in proof of which, do as others are doing, call and be convinced. Thanking you for past favors,

I am yours truly,

J. G. JOHNSTON,

WATERLOO, IND.

The Blood is the Life!

SAMUEL DUNLAP, OF ATLANTA, GA.

The above gentleman had rheumatism in its most excruciating form, took two bottles of

HUNNICUTT'S

RHEUMATIC CURE,

and has enjoyed perfect health ever since. We have thousands of similar certificates. It is made of barks, roots and herbs indigenous to the South. It is a superb blood purifier, an excellent tonic and the gem of all remedies for the cure of blood, stomach and kidney diseases. One bottle often effects a cure. Price, $1 per bottle. If not kept by your druggist, send to us direct. Prepared by who also manufacture Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure, a sure cure for Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs and Colds. Book of testimonials FREE.

Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city. leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory. H. J. Trentman.

WANTED.—Gentlemen and Lady Agents to handle our celebrated Polish for polishing Gold, Silver, Nickel and Brass. Best article of the kind ever produced. We have agents making as high as $200 a month. Article sells at sight. Sample 25 cents Salary to good agents. For particulars address manufacturers,

16-18 EDELL & ELLIOTT,
530 N. Michigan St., South Bend, Indiana.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned have been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the last will of Abraham Buss deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANK D. BUSS,
LAFAYETTE B. BUSS,
Executors.

April 21, 1890.

COURIER--Supplement, Auburn, Ind., Thursday, May 1, 1890.

GRAND AUCTION SALE!

SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1890, OF ALL UNSOLD LOTS IN THE Natural Gas Addition.

This is the chance of a lifetime to get a good building lot for a home at your own price on

SATURDAY, MAY 17, '90.

Lots in this addition are on a high elevation, affording natural and easy drainage, pure, sparkling water rises to the surface of the ground. The soil is of a sandy nature and very productive.

Sale will commence at 1 o'clock. Good music will be furnished by the Auburn Cornet Band. Come one and all and bring the children.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third cash; balance in three equal deferred payments, in 6, 12 and 18 months with 6 per cent. interest.

AUBURN, INDIANA, APRIL 16, 1890.

W. H. McINTYRE, SECRETARY AUBURN MINING CO.: SIR:---I have carefully examined the records in the Recorder's, Clerk's, Auditor's and Treasurer's office of this county, in so far as it refers to the property bought of Edward J. Baker, now platted, and known as the "Natural Gas Addition," and find that you have an absolute title to the above property free from any and all encumbrance. Very respectfully, R. DEXTER TEFFT, Abstractor.

I concur in above. D. Z. HOFFMAN, Abstractor.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1890. NUMBER 19.

Recorder's Office

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

The Swedish Oyster Culture Society is trying to acclimate American oysters from Connecticut on the coast of the province of Babus. The young oysters seem to thrive well.

CATARRH—CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—Hay Fever—A New Home Treatment

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is, that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above. ly

A contemporary, which has been looking into the matter, reports that fewer daily papers are published in Boston now than in 1846.

A Safe Investment.

Is one which is guaranteed to bring you satisfactory results, or in case of failure a return of purchase price. On this safe plan you can buy from our advertised Druggist a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It is guaranteed to bring relief in every case, when used for any affection of throat, lungs or chest, such as consumption, inflammation of lungs, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, etc. It is pleasant and agreeable to taste, perfectly safe, and can always be depended upon. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's. 1

It is said that the postage stamps of half the nations of the world are engraved and printed in New York.

Fifty Spasms a Day.

Had Mrs. H. A. Gardner, of Vistula, Ind., lived two thousand years ago she would have been thought possessed by evil spirits. She was subject to nervous prostration, headaches dizziness, backache, palpitation and forty or fifty spasms a day. Though having been treated by eight physicians for years without success, she was permanently cured by one bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. A trial bottle of this new and wonderful medicine, and a finely illustrated treatise free at F. E. Davenport's drug store, who recommends and guarantees it. 1

An exciting scene took place at a burial in Syracuse, N. Y., the family monument falling, smashing the coffin and precipitating it, the body and a pall bearer into the grave.

Marvelous Endurance.

The vast amount of labor performed by the heart in keeping all portions of the body supplied with blood is not generally known. It beats 100,000 times, and forces the blood at the rate of 168 miles a day, which is 3,000,000,000 times and 5,150,880 miles in a life time. No wonder there are so many heart failures. The first symptoms are shortness of breath when exercising, pain in the side or stomach, fluttering choking in in the throat, oppression, then follow weak, hungry or smothering spells, swollen ankles, etc. Dr. Franklin Miles' New Heart Cure is the only reliable remedy. Sold by F. E. Davenport. 1

The British fisheries last year yielded the catchers between thirty and forty million dollars.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

Our postage stamps are counted no less than thirteen times during the process of manufacture.

For Twenty Years.

Mr. George Frank, ex-commissioner of Adams Co. Ind., says: I have had a bronchial cough for twenty years and used all the different cough medicines, and found nothing that has given me so much relief as Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I can heartily recommend it to all of those that are affected with a chronic cough and guarantee that it will give entire satisfaction. Yours, GEO. FRANK. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Small diamonds fixed in the front and back sights of rifles are said to enable the marksman to take aim even in a bad light.

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough, remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Zinc-covered kitchen tables are finding favor now with housewives and servants. They are easy to keep clean and are exceedingly durable.

Next Sunday Morning

at ten o'clock or any day this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough as it is guaranteed to cure and relieve all chronic and acute coughs for less money than any other, as the price is only 25 cts. It enables all to give this great medicine a trial. A fresh supply at F. E. Davenport's.

CITY ELECTION.

The election Monday brought out a good vote, 565 ballots being cast. There was a good deal of scratching off and putting on, making the count slow. The resuld stood:

Trustee First Ward.

August Schutt, d	234
Wm. Sheffer, r	305
Michael Kline, p	17
Total	556
Sheffer's plurality	71

Trustee Third Ward.

John Kruger, d	240
W. P. Harter, r	299
W. L. Meese, p	16
Total	555
Harter's plurality	59

Trustee Fourth Ward.

T. G. Matheny, d	286
F. J. Yesbera, r	257
S. A. Rakestraw, p	22
Total	565
Matheny's plurality	29

Clerk.

George Grund, d	282
Howard McCord, r	257
James D. Pilgrim, p	21
Total	560
Grund's plurality	25

Treasurer.

Chas. H. G. Jones, d	306
G. W. McKay, r	232
A. D. Northam, p	21
Total	559
Jones' plurality	74

Marshal.

C. A. Picker, d	269
D. C. Headley, r	276
John H. Weaver, p	18
Total	563
Headley's plurality	7

GARRETT.

First Ward.

Lewis Sapp, d	219	59
John D. Paul, r	160

Second Ward.

John B. Mayer, d	239	103
Charles Hopper, r	136

Clerk.

Geo. Arnold, d	247	116
H. C. Boyd, r	131

Treasurer.

B. Hunsel, d	236	95
A. L. Haiter, r	141

Marshal.

Charles Condell, d	238	96
W. D. Dare, r	142
Total vote cast	381

OTHER TOWNS.

At Butler the republicans elected all their ticket but the marshal, the democrats putting in Wm. McMorgan by 113 majority. The republican majority averaged 64. Total vote, 524.

At Waterloo there was no politics and some of both parties were elected. Abe McEntaffer and Chas. Bassett were elected trustees, J. D. Campbell for treasurer, Sol. Beidler for clerk, and Marshal Vogtman was given his office for another year.

Old Settlers.

Nearly all the executive committee of the Old Settlers Society, viz: Messrs. Pinchin, Shoemaker, Willis, Carr, Crooks, Oberlin, Culbertson, Noel, Rose, Clark, Emerson, Cosper and the Secretary, met May 2 and resolved to hold a re-union June 19 at Auburn. Rose, Carr, Willis, Jos. Rainier and Dills were appointed a general committee of arrangements to carry out the objects for that occasion.

Messrs. Pinchin, Noel, Crooks and the Secretary were instructed to prepare amendments to the constitution, so that all re-unions be held at Auburn and that all persons who have been residents of Northern Indiana for thirty three years prior to any annual meeting may become members of the society, which are to be acted on at the next meeting.

The following are the sub committees of the Old Settlers Society, viz: on speakers, Elder Ward, E. D. Hartman and G. W. Gordon; on finances, C. C. Walter, G. A. Porter and Ed. Baker; on railroads, T. H. Sprott, I. M. Zent, E. T. DeLapp and A. J. Bell. Will meet at the Secretary's office Tuesday, May 13, at 7:30 p. m.

W. H. DILLS, Sec.

A Gala Day for Auburn.

When Manager Geary arrives with the monster fat woman, Big Eliza, at 10 o'clock a. m., next Wednesday, May 14, the Lake Shore depot will present a sight new to everybody. Twenty men are advertised for to help unload her from the car and place her on the biggest wagon in Auburn, which will haul her from the depot up the street to the show grounds. Immediately afterwards the big show will open. Geary's traveling world's museum and theater annex under canvas is a veritable wonderland of curiosities, mechanical automatons, works of art, animate and inanimate curios, wonders of the world, and hundreds of novel, intricate, instructive objects meet the eye on all sides. While the theater, separate from the museum department, presents a first-class, strictly moral entertainment. One of delightful pleasure. Nothing but fun, inocent, invigorating, beneficial amusement for old and young. Remember the doors will open at 1 o'clock and remain open until 10 p. m. come at any time and see the entire exhibition admission is only 10 cents to everything. A few reserved seats in the theater if desired 5c. extra.

Low Rates for Dedication Garfield Monument.

The dedication of the National Garfield Monument will take place at Cleveland, O., May 30th. For this occasion the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Cleveland and return, May 29, at one lowest first-class fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good to and including June 2, 1890. Apply to E. T. DeLapp for full particulars. 19 21

HERE WE ARE AGAIN!

BUT this time we come with a list comprising a choice lot of new properties at exceedingly low prices, in fact any one of them is a bargain, when the location, improvements and general surroundings are taken into

CONSIDERATION.

While heretofore we have offered many bargains, all of which have been gobbled up with the great rapacity of

A HUNGRY MAN.

We believe this to be the choicest lot of all, and the only one we will be able to offer on such favorable terms and prices, but these pieces are for sale at prices that

WILL SELL THEM,

and if you think of buying for a residence or as an investment, call at our office and we will convince you our statements are true as to

PROPERTY AND PRICES.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. The soil is a most splendid one for producing large yields of all kinds of grain. There are 30 acres of good timber on this farm. This farm is cheap at $60 per acre, but we will sell it for less money.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn, and would make someone a fortune if they would buy and plat it in acre lots.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling, barn, orchard and good fences. This would be a bonanza for anyone at $2,800, but it goes for less. "First come first served" in this trade.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings, 2 good wells sugar camp, fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared. This is a great bargain for someone with small capital, to secure a house, and is cheap at $2,500, but it can be be bought for less money.

No. 230. One hundred and ninety-two acres in Newville township, within short distance of Newville and Hicksville. 130 acres under cultivation, balance timber land. Elegant brick dwelling, frame barn, wind pump, two good orchards. School and church near. Here is an opportunity which is seldom found in a lifetime, to secure a farm which is ready to make money for the purchaser from the time of purchase. This farm is well worth $65 per acre, but less will buy it, if taken at once.

No. 304. Sixty acres fine land in Wilmington township. Good frame building with all modern improvements, good orchard. This can be bought for less than $2,500.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O. This will be sold at any reasonable price as it must go.

No. 305. One hundred and forty acres of as good land as there is in this county and with improvements on it that are equalled by but few farms in this county, lies within two and one-half miles of good market. We wish to call your especial attention to this tract as one of our best bargains and is cheap at $10,500, but less will buy it if taken soon. The owner is sick, and has not the necessary help and cannot farm it to any advantage, is the reason a sacrifice will be made. Long time and easy terms

No. 309. Seventy-eight acres in Concord township. Fine large brick dwelling, large frame barn, splendid orchard of over 100 trees, all bearing. Small fruits in abundance, and soil unsurpassed for producing all kinds of crops. This farm can be bought cheap and will be like finding money at $7,500.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana Trade well established. Here is a chance for someone to make money with but little capital to invest, as the property can be bought cheap, and will give immediate possession.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street You know that property in the south end of town is not for sale, generally speaking, and when offered is not long in the market. So it will be with this one. Do not delay, but come at once as it must go.

Vacant lots in the South End of town, at prices to suit customers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we are still loaning money on farms in sums of $1,000 and over at 6 per cent. interest on five years' time.

Also, that we offer to the public

THE MOST LIBERAL

Fire, Life and Accident Policy of any Agency in Northern Indiana. Come in and get our terms.

Also, that we can sell you a Railroad or Steamship Ticket at rates that will astonish you. Our rates are the lowest and our routes the best. Come and see us and we will convince you that these are facts.

We have omitted many bargains (our space being limited,) especially in town properties, a list of which may be seen at our office. Call and see us.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

We are highly pleased with the business we have done so far this season.

We have an elegant line of dry goods, clothing, carpets etc., which we are always pleased to show.

If you want the very latest and nobbiest goods the market affords you can find what you want in our stock. Our prices are always most reasonable for quality of goods.

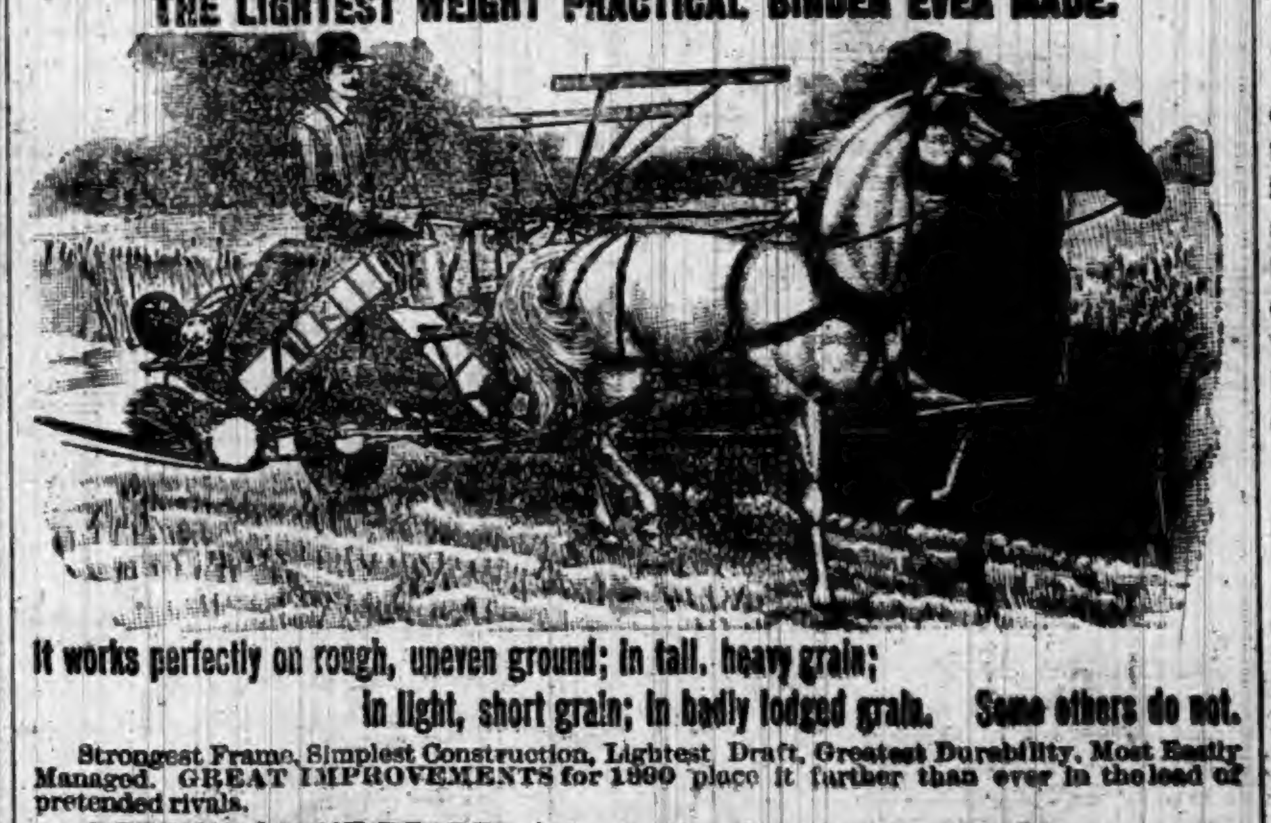
We will be pleased to have you call and will do all we can to make your visit both pleasant and profitable to you.

Always anxious to please.

Yours Respectfully,
SCHAAB & BRO.

DEERING JUNIOR STEEL BINDER

THE LIGHTEST WEIGHT PRACTICAL BINDER EVER MADE.



It works perfectly on rough, uneven ground; in tall, heavy grain; in light, short grain; in badly lodged grain. Some others do not.

Strongest Frame, Simplest Construction, Lightest Draft, Greatest Durability, Most Easily Managed. GREAT IMPROVEMENTS for 1890 place it further than ever in the lead of pretended rivals.

DEERING LIGHT REAPER.
DEERING GIANT MOWER.
NEW DEERING MOWER.
} Each the Leader in its Class.

The DEERING BINDER TWINE made by ourselves is the best in the world.

Apply to our nearest agent for Illustrated Catalogue and Full Information or write direct to us. WM. DEERING & CO., Chicago, Ill.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

The returns of the pensioned veterans who fought under the great Napoleon, who now receive $50 a year, put their number at 112 instead of 180, as in 1888.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Mr. J. C. Warnock, Atlanta, Ga., says: I have been treated by the most prominent physicians seventeen years for kidney disease without benefit. About six weeks ago I suffered such intense pain—scarcely being able to breathe at times—I concluded to try "Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure," and after using one bottle was entirely and absolutely cured. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga., Proprietors; also, manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure for coughs, colds, asthma and consumption.

The biggest edible oysters in the world are found at Port Lincoln, in South Australia. They are sometimes more than a foot across the shell, and the oyster fits the shell so well he does not leave much margin.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 1[illegible] Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

GOLDEN EGGS!

STOP! Were you going to pass over this ad. without reading it? I want to ask you one question, and that is, what are you going to do with your eggs this summer? If you will send me your name on a postal card, I will mail you one of our new circulars for 1890, which will show you how to get 24 cents a dozen the year round for them. The Golden Egg formula is warranted to keep eggs fresh two years, and is the only perfect egg preserver now in use. There are no "shakers" among them: that is, the yolks do not become addled, or settle to the shell, but retain their natural condition in center of the eggs—the whites thick and ropy, the same as fresh eggs. There are several other methods of preserving eggs, but the one particular objection above named is present in all of them. Cost of packing and getting ready for market will not exceed ½ cent per dozen. Price of individual right to use is $2.00, two for $3.00 Send for circular to

P. P. LOCHNER, Auburn, Ind.,
Proprietor of Golden Egg Formula for DeKalb County.

HAMBLETONIAN.

COLONEL STERLING.

—PEDIGREE.—

Colonel Sterling was sired by Sterling 1447, he by Volunteer, 55, and he by Hambletonian, 10. Colonel Sterling's dam was sired by Robert Fillingham, Jr., he by George Wilks, 519, and he by Hambletonian, 10.

Look at the Royal blood combination, that of Hambletonian, 10, George Wilks, 519, and Volunteer, 55, all for $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

Write for extended pedigree.

F. J. YESBERA,

AUBURN, IND.

Well Driving.

Purdy & Son, the well known well drivers of Auburn, will devote their time to this business and give all their patrons good work. They have an abundant experience, and can show certificates from the leading property owners in the county, to show the satisfaction their work has given. Call on them at Auburn, or write where you want them to come. Address PURDY & SON,
Auburn, Ind.

150,000 New Farms a Year.

The census of 1880 showed that in every year since 1870 there had been opened in the United States on an average upwards of 150,000 new farms per year. This fact explained the mystery, for even to some of the manufacturers themselves it seemed a mystery as to where all the new self-binders and mowers went to. William Deering & Co., of Chicago, alone manufacture between twenty and thirty thousand complete self-binders and as many mowers every year, and with reapers and various other implements and attachments their products run up to many thousands. Of course as they stand at the head the product of other works is smaller, but in the aggregate it takes many new farms to make places for all.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court, May term 1890, John Byrne, the unknown heirs of John Byrne, deceased, Barbara Byrne, the unknown heirs of Barbara Byrne deceased, William Bricker and the unknown heirs of William Bricker, deceased, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, on complaint to quiet title by Martha E. Mathews, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 25th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 19th, 1890.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 21st day of April 1890. GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.
WILLIAM H. LEAS, Attorney.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well known Nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. A steady position with a Nursery of over thirty years' standing, and a known responsibility. We want good, lively workers, and will pay well. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.
CHASE BROTHERS CO., Chicago, Ill.

Commissioner's Sale.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned Commissioner appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court, in the case of Samuel Davis et al. vs Matilda Radormer et al. in said court by order of said court will sell at public auction on the premises on

Saturday, May 17, 1890.

The following premises in DeKalb county, Indiana, to wit: Sixty-two and one-half (62½) acres off of the north end of the east half of the northeast quarter of section nineteen (19) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east, excepting the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago railroad, passing through said land. And also the south half of the southeast quarter of section seven (7), all in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east. Sale to commence at ten o'clock a. m. of said day.

Terms: One-third cash, one-third in one year and one-third in two years. The deferred payments to be secured by notes, at interest, waiving relief, and secured by a mortgage on the premises. JOHN NELSON,
Commissioner.

April 14, 1890.
James E. Rose Atty.

IF YOU WANT TO

BUY CHEAP,

—Go to the—

Bargain Store

On Eighth St., West of Court House.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who responded so nobly to the needs incurred by Mr. Ragan's untimely removal from the scenes of earth to the unalterable eternity. The kindness exhibited by Auburn people will never be forgotten.

MRS. HUMILITY J. RAGAN, and family.

BURLINGTON ROUTE.

But One Night Chicago to Denver.

"The Burlington's Number One" daily vertibule express leaves Chicago at 1:30 p. m. and arrives at Denver at 6:30 p. m. the next day. Quicker time than by any other route. Direct connection with this train from Peoria. Additional express trains, making as quick time as those of any other road, from Chicago, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Cheyenne, Denver, Atchison, Kansas City, Houston and all points west, northwest and southwest. 19 26

Temperance Wine for Invalids.

It is well known that there are cases when the most strict advocates of temperance are obliged to use some sort of wine, especially those who are old and infirm. Many weakly females as well as invalids and debilitated persons in warm weather need more strength. The great difficulty has been in procuring a wine that is reliable. There are many cases where wine would be used to to great advantage in place of alcoholic drinks, if only a genuine article could be had, and upon which physicians could rely as being strictly pure. The wine of Alfred Speer, of Passaic, New Jersey, and his Unfermented Grape Juice have been analyzed by chemists in nearly every state, and have always been proved strictly pure and beneficial. These wines are now being used in hospitals and by families for medical purposes, also by churches for communion service. It is principally sold by druggists. Mr. Speer's mode of preserving is such as to retain the rich flavor and sweetness of the fruit. Transcript.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. TRADE MARK. IT CURES CANCERS, SCROFULA.

Female Weakness Sores, Ulcers, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism and all Blood and Skin Diseases. PRICE $1. per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb can Solid Extract $2.50. J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., DETROIT, MICH. Sold by all druggists.

SOLD BY F. E. DAVENPORT,

AUBURN, IND.

THE LADIES FAVORITE

THE LIGHT RUNNING

NEW HOME

SEWING MACHINE

THE FINEST WOODWORK THE BEST ATTACHMENTS

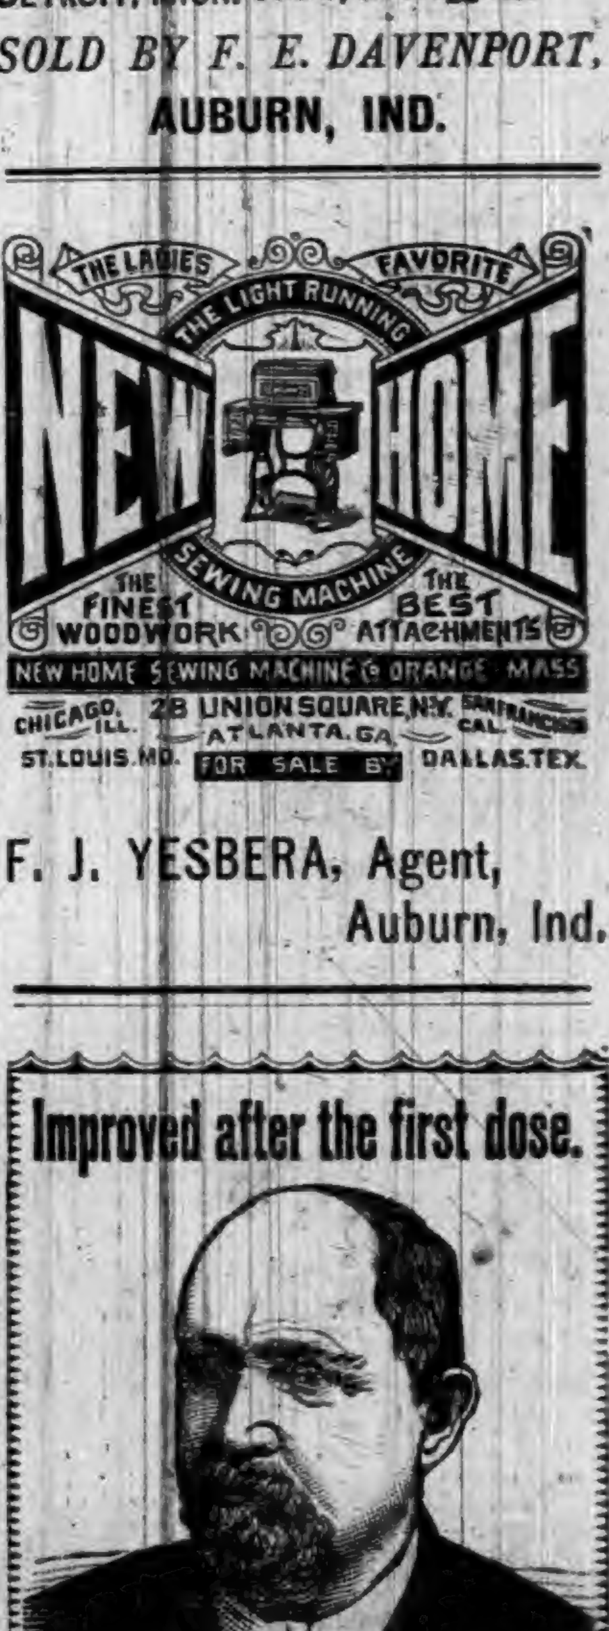
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.

CHICAGO, ILL. 28 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. ATLANTA, GA. ST. LOUIS, MO. DALLAS, TEX.

FOR SALE BY

F. J. YESBERA, Agent,
Auburn, Ind.

Improved after the first dose.



JAMES C. DUNLAP, ATLANTA, GA.

This gentleman's wife was cured of a violent attack of sciatica by taking

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE,

Infallible for RHEUMATISM in all its forms, Kidney Affections, Eczema, Dyspepsia, General Debility, Nervous and Sick Headache, Syphilis, Running Sores, Ulcers, Tetter, and all diseases of the skin and blood. It is a strictly vegetable compound, a superb tonic and invigorator, and a fine alternative and diuretic. It tones up the system. Price $1 per bottle by druggists. Send for book FREE. Prepared by

HUNNICUTT MEDICINE CO.
ATLANTA, GA.

MANUFACTURERS OF HUNNICUTT'S THROAT AND LUNG CURE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

THE STRIKE.

A Probability that the Chicago Strike Will Soon Be Settled.

Chicago special: The carpenters' strike has not been quite settled. The terms of agreement by which the men were expecten to return to work have not yet been arrived at; but the end is not far distant, and it is expected that the strike will be declared off soon.

The anticipated strike at N. K. Fairbank & Co.'s works on Eighteenth and Blackwell streets did not materialize. Except the coopers, who went out, the full force went to work as usual.

Except at the Malleable Iron Works the labor troubles in the "Black road" district seem to have settled into quiet repose. At nearly all the great manufacturing establishments in that region, most of those who went out are back on same conditions against which they rebelled. At the McCormick works the full force is again on duty. Two-thirds of the 1,700 employes at Wells, French & Co.'s shops returned to work at the former rate of wages and hours of labor.

The condition of the strike and the strikers in relation to the eight-hour movement in the planing-mill district seems to be somewhat confused. At some of the mills the men have returned to work on the old ten-hour basis. A few proprietors have conceded the eight-hour day with ten-hour wages pending further negotiations. At still other shops the eight-hour day has been granted by the owners and eight hours' pay has been accepted by the men. A few places have not attempted to resume work.

Fernist Cleveland, Ohio.

New York special: Justice Barrett, of the Supreme Court, has granted a temporary injunction restraining the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks from holding their annual meeting of 1890 in Cleveland, O., and Secretary Arthur C. Moreland from removing from this State the seal and charter, books and papers of the order. The organization was formed in this State in 1871, and has now 160 lodges. The balance of power used to be in the East, but now the West has the majority. There are but fifteen lodges in this State. Until 1877 the annual meetings were held in that State, but in that year the Grand Lodge went to Philadelphia. There was objection to this, and it was shown that the annual meetings were required by the constitution to be held in this State. In 1888 an amendment was adopted providing that, by a majority vote, the Grand Lodge meeting might be appointed for and held in cities outside of this State. Last year when the selection of a place for this year's convention was made, Cleveland had a plurality and was declared to be the choice. There was a large majority against Cleveland, however, so Louis Mendel, Treasurer, has gotten an injunction, contending that a plurality is not a majority and that a majority being against Cleveland ruled, and so the court decided.

Killed by a Hurricane.

Williamspoint (Tex.) special: A hurricane struck here at noon Tuesday and every house in town is more or less damaged. Two persons were killed outright and several injured. The killed are Mrs. Bowen, caught under a falling wall and crushed to death; a negro girl, 14 years old, daughter of Sam Mitchell. The injured are Jack Ballard, internally, dangerous; a son of E. McManus, arm broken in two places; Mrs. Mitchell, (colored), mother of the girl killed. Mrs. Freeman's residence was blown over, the family just getting out in time to escape injury. The Methodist church and public building were demolished while other churches were blown off their foundations. A number of stores and residences were blown down. The hurricane also visited Mesquote, Thornton, Terrell and other points, doing great damage.

A Negro Lynched.

Willie Leaphart, a negro 18 years old, under sentence of death for committing a criminal assault on a white girl, was murdered in the Lexington jail, twelve miles from Columbus, S. C. Fifty men compelled the Sheriff to give up the keys, entered, and attempted to bring Leaphart out and hang him; but he seized a club, knocked down several of the foremost men, whereupon the lynchers opened fire and riddled the negro with bullets. It is understood that the Governor has important information showing Leaphart was innocent of the crime charged, but to conceal the crime of others was made the victim of a horrible conspiracy.

Sues the Buyer of His Vote.

Perry Hickman has brought suit against Anderson Collett at Martinsville, Ind., under a law passed by the last Legislature, which provides that any voter influnced in voting may recover $300. Hickman says, on April 7, Collett gave him two pints of whisky and $10 to secure his vote for a township trustee. This is the first case under the new law.

Bursted a Blood Vessel.

Mrs. George Morrison, who lived two and a half miles south of Pleasant Lake, Ind., while visiting her daughter at the home of Joseph Rex, fell down a flight of stairs, bursting a blood vessel in her back, from the effects of which she died in a few minutes.

Married at the Age of 101.

James Sevate, aged 101, and Mrs. Terence, aged 83, were married at Laurel Park, W. Va. The groomsman was 81 and the bridemaid 78.

Natural Gas Explosion.

A natural gas explosion considerably wrecked the cracker and candy manufactory of B. W. Skelton, at Fort Wayne, and very seriously but not fatally injured M. P. Faulks, the head baker in the establishment. It would be difficult to ascribe the cause of the explosion to neglect or carelessness. The circumstances are that shortly after noon a large jet under the ovens in the rear of the place was turned low by an employe. The draft from the flue blew this out, and when Mr. M. P. Faulks, the head baker, arrived he applied a lighted taper, all unconscious of the danger. There was a flash and almost instantaneously an explosion took place which shook buildings and rattled windows for a distance of two squares in that neighborhood. The front of Skelton's place was blown out and the plate glass shattered into thousands of pieces, particles of them being blown a long distance away. Mr. Faulks was badly burned about the head, shoulders and right arm. He was taken to the drug store of Beneke & Co., across the street, where Dr. Younge applied soothing remedies. He is not fatally injured, but he will be marked for life. Mr. Faulks is a Knight of Pythias and a stranger here. By what mysterious cause the interior of Mr. Skelton's store and the stock remained undamaged is an unexplainable mystery. Huge piles of pails filled with candies and other stock was not damaged. The double doors at the rear of the building were blown off their hinges. The loss falls to the owner of the building, who is Mrs. Johnson, a widow. A young man named Archer, who is a shipping clerk, and William, son of Mr. Skelton, were standing near Faulks when the explosion occurred, but neither one sustained injury.

THE STRIKES.

The Status of Labor Troubles in the Different Cities of the Country.

A Chicago special, dated the 3rd inst., says: The arbitration committee having under consideration the difference between journeymen carpenters and the Builders and Traders Association adjourned shortly after 1 o'clock to-day without having reached definite conclusion. The only points at issue now are the employing capacity of the new bosses association and the manner in which the old bosses association shall be treated by the union men in case the strike is declared off. Matters at the Wells & French Car Company's shops have assumed a serious air. Not a single man of the 1,000 employes is at work. The men made no formal demand of the officials, but quietly folded up their tools and left. The 200 blacksmiths waited long enough to say that they would not return to work unless they were granted eight hours.

The strike situation at Detroit is practically unchanged, although it is rumored several more contractors have acceded to the demands of the men. It has been ascertained that an agreement has been made between the strikers and machinery workers of the Builders' Exchange, that the latter boycott all products of wood entering into a building which are produced by "scab" or non-union labor. The strikers' committee say the boycott will be declared as soon as the agreement is signed Philadelphia special: There was rejoicing among the carpenters at the strikers' headquarters when it was announced that the bricklayers had come to the aid of the striking carpenters by ordering that no bricklayer should work upon "scab" frames. In other words, that they should not window or doorframe for bosses who refuse to grant the increase of the carpenters' wages to thirty-five cents an hour. In some cases the bricklayers have stopped work on that account, and all of them will obey the order. This will be a help to the strikers in winning their fight, and as ninety-eight out of 300 master carpenters in the city have already conceded the advance, the strikers feel that victory is within their grasp. Boston, Milwaukee, Louisville, Cincinnati and other cities report the strike still on but no violence is heard of.

SUDDENLY STRICKEN.

Senator Beck Drops Dead Near the Spot Where President Garfield Went Down.

Washington special: Senator James B. Beck, of Kentucky, dropped dead in the Baltimore and Potomac station at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He had just arrived on the limited express from New York, and was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Goodloe, wife of Major Goodloe, of the United States Marine Corps. He got off the train with the rest of the passengers and walked with his daughter the entire length of the platform and through the gate leading to the station proper. He seemed to walk with an effort and to breathe with labor. But these symptoms were the usual accompaniments of exertion with him for some months past. After passing into the station the Senator and his daughter stopped and were joined by his Private Secretary, who had brought a carriage to take them home. A few words were exchanged with regard to the care of baggage, when the Senator suddenly turned pale, and, with the remark, "I feel dizzy," feel into the arms of his companions. They could not support his weight and he dropped to the floor, where he swooned away. His daughter was naturally alarmed and screamed for help. Willing hands were numerous, as the station was crowded at the time, and the limp and helpless body was borne into the office of the Station Master, about twenty feet away. Great excitement ensued, and, although it was apparent that the Senator was dead, half a dozen messengers were immediately dispatched for physicians, and all the remedies at hand were applied, but to no effect. Dr. Chamberlain was the first physician to arrive, and he was soon followed by Dr. Wells and others, but there was nothing for them to do except to examine the body to determine the cause of death. A superficial examination only was possible at the time, but this was sufficient to satisfy the physicians that death resulted from paralysis of the heart. The news was telegraphed to the Capitol, and subsequently spread like wildfire to all sections of the city. Representatives Breckenridge, Caruth, Stone and others of the Kentucky Congressional delegation repaired to the station and arranged for the removal of the remains to a more suitable place. He fell and expired within a few feet of the brass star in the tile floor which marks the spot where Garfield went.

The Public Debt.

Interest bearing debt: Principal, $797,802,082; interest, $6,053,271; total, $803,855,353. Debt on which interest has ceased since maturity: Principal, $1,826,045; interest, $149,702; Debt bearing no interest: Principal, $790,011,194. Total debt: Principal, $1,589,639,322; interest, $6,202,974; total, $1,595,842,296. Total debt, less available cash items, $544,390,904; net cash in Treasury, $1,051,393; debt less cash in the Treasury May 1, 1890, $1,015,520,771; debt less cash in Treasury, April 1, 1890, $1,023,157,572; decrease of debt during the month, $7,636,901; decrease of debt since June 30, 1889, $61,125,851; cash in Treasury available for reduction of public debt, $144,390,903; reserve fund held for redemption of United States notes, acts of January 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882, $100,000,000; unavailable for reduction of debt: fractional silver coin, $22,989,474; minor coin, $222,984; total, $23,212,958. Certificates held as cash, $28,720,850; net cash balance on hand, $35,930,622; total cash in Treasury, as shown by Treasurer's general accounts, $632,254,786.

Buckeye Veterans.

At the encampment of the Department of Ohio, in session at Cincinnati, a resolution offered by Comrade L. F. Mack, was adopted with enthusiasm. It was as follows:

> Resolved, That without abandoning any claim heretofore made in behalf of our needy and disabled comrades and widows and orphans of our dead comrades, we now demand of the Congress of the United States the passage of a per diem service pension law, pure and simple.

A Council of Administration was selected as follows: Wells S. Jones, Waverly, O.; Thomas McConnell, Urbana, O.; J. W. R. Cline, Springfield, O.; B. M. Moulton, Lima, O.; N. S. Smith, Columbus, O. The place of the next meeting will be determined by the Council of Adminstration. A warm invitation was extended by Sandusky. The officers were installed and the encampment adjourned. A campfire was held at Pike's Opera House. A handsome gold watch was presented to the retiring Commander, S. S. Hurst, and a set of silver to Mrs. Hurst, by members of the encampment as a token of high esteem in which his services are held.

Convicted of Forgery.

Toledo special: The trial of Madam Devere, clairvoyant, on a charge of forgery and uttering forged paper, which has lasted over a week, ended in a verdict of guilty on both charges. Both she and Joseph Lamb, for years trusted employe of the United States Express Company here, and a man of high standing, were arrested for forgery to the amount of about $25,000, having been negotiated by Lamb at various banks here, to which the signature of Richard Brown, a wealthy iron master of Youngstown, O., had been forged as maker. The case has excited intense interest here, the opinion being divided as to whether Lamb or Madam Devere were fellow conspirators, one the dupe of the other. Lamb was recently tried on an indictment for forgery, but was acquitted. Another indictment against him is pending, however. Madam Devere's counsel will move at once for a new trial.

Kemmler's Respite.

United States Commissioner, John Shields, at New York, in an interview regarding the Kemmler case, said: "Under the circumstances, Judge Wallace could not refuse to grant the writ of habeas corpus. It was a matter of life or death and Kemmler was entitled to the writ if there was the slightest color of ground for the application. At first Judge Wallace refused to grant it and told Mr. Sherman he must make application to the United States Supreme Court; then it was represented to him that before any application could be made there Kemmler would likely be executed. Here Judge Wallace said he would grant the writ, but only to bridge over the emergency, and that Mr. Sherman must immediately after serving it proceed to Washington and apply to the Supreme Court or he would vacate the writ."

Leo Against Socialism.

The Pope has redeemed his promise to inaugurate worldwide social reform movements which he made week before last. He said he would at once grapple with social disorder and African slavery. Leo XIII has begun this tremendous task by writing a powerful appeal to the German bishops urging them to begin at once a crusade in defense of society and civilization and against the revolutionary spirit of socialism. This important document is addressed to Archbishop Krementz, of Cologne. It will be followed by similar pontifical receipts to other nations. The Pope asserts that the church's part in the work of relieving the situation will be more important than that of civil governments, because the divine force inherent in religion will turn men willingly to be just and honest.

Died in the Desert.

It has just come to light that a party of Chinese who attempted to smuggle themselves into the United States at Lower California, got lost on the desert, and had a terrible experience, one of the party dying of thirst and exposure. They found the frontier so closely guarded that they stole to the eastward, and got into the desert. Here they wandered about aimlessly for several days, and suffered greatly. One of the Mongolians was a youth of fourteen years. His sufferings drove him crazy, and in his ravings he imagined the blistering sand was water, and eagerly filled his parched mouth with it. This only added to his sufferings, and he finally died. The others at last reach the railroad, and were rescued.

Devoured by Hogs.

In the absence of her husband, Mrs. Mary McManaman, an aged lady living two miles north of North Vernon, went to search for some hogs in a field near by. While thus engaged she fainted from the feebleness and debility dependant upon age, and falling, lay unconscious upon the ground. Seeing her helpless body the hogs attacked and madly scrambled in the effort to devour her body. The flesh was already torn from her arms and legs, when a neighbor discovered and rescued her from a horrible death. When carried home she was a pitiable sight to behold, with the flesh hanging in bloody sheds from her torn and mangled body. The physicians say she can not recover.

A Bold Diamond Robbery.

A bold and successful diamond robbery was accomplished at Cincinnati, at the jewelry store of Michie Bros., West Fourth street. Two thieves entered the store and asked for diamond rings. At a favorable opportunity one snatched the tray and both dashed out of the door across the street into an alley. The third had placed himself outside the door prepared to lock in the inmates, but his spring-lock did not work quickly enough. Michie Brothers burst out and with help caught the man at the door, but the others escaped. The tray had $5,000 of diamonds in it, but a number of rings fell on the floor and were saved. The thieves got away with about $3,000 worth.

Hendricks' Monument.

The Hendricks monument has arrived at Indianapolis. It will be unloaded from the cars and transported to the Capitol grounds without delay. Its two hundred tons loads fifteen cars. C. B. Canfield, of the New England Monument Company, who will have charge of the erection of the monument, has also arrived. He says the monument will be in position and ready for the unveiling in less than a month. The monument has been greatly changed and elaborated. Historical and classical figures will be used in connection with the statue of the Vice President, but, of course subordinated. As a work of art the monument has been greatly improved.

The Carpenter's Strike at Chicago Settled.

Committees of the new bosses' association and the striking carpenters met to further consider the terms of the proposed resumption of work. At the close of the session, President O'Connell, of the Carpenters' council, said that an agreement had been reached upon all points of difference except two, and that it had been agreed to submit these to arbitration. Each side will choose a disinterested citizen and they will choose a third for this purpose. President O'Connell adds that work will probably be resumed next Monday.

Sad Accident.

L. E. Hursh, car inspector for the Pennsylvania Company, was killed at Fort Wayne while passing between two freight cars. The cars were not in motion when he started to cross the track, but a G. R. & I. freight train, which it is supposed he did not see, was at the time backing down towards the cars between which he attempted to pass and the two cars were forced together.

Drop from a Church Steeple.

At Anniston, Ala., George Hasselvonder, a boss carpenter, while on the tower of the new Methodist Church now being erected, lost his footing and fell a distance of 100 feet, striking the stone pavement, breaking nearly every bone in his body, and killing him instantly. He was married, having a wife and one child.

Why They Were Discharged.

Indianapolis special: The Railroad Conductor's Association is smarting under the wholesale discharge of its members by the lines centering here. Nearly all the men discharged were Masons of the Thirty-second degree, and it is claimed that their discharge was brought about by a fellow Mason of the same degree, who traveled over all the roads and succeeded in getting transportation by giving the Masonic sign of distress. He proved afterward to be a spotter, and reported every man who showed him a favor. The outrages followed.

Narrowly Escaped Lynching.

An unknown man about fifty years of age assaulted the 16-year-old daughter of Lew Supernaw at Big Rapids, Mich. The child's screams were heard by the father, and he proceeded to the place whence they came, and on finding out the cause, kicked the brute into insensibility. The police then got the man to the station, but as workmen from the factories gathered and threatened a lynching-bee, the fellow was spirited away to the county jail. He refused to give his name, and is thought to be a tramp.

Encroached on by Water.

Davenport (Iowa) special: Damage to the amount of $30,000 was done to property at the Rock Island arsenal by an overflow. A new water power dam is being built on the south side of the government island, and to protect this work cofferdams have been constructed above and below it. The high water wore its way around the upper bulkhead and washed away some 50,000 yards of earth, and the water has cut into the island 50 feet deep by 300 in length. The work of dam-building will be delayed for weeks.

Oil Excitement at Montepelier Indiana.

Montepelier (Ind.) special: The late advancement of the price of Ohio crude oil has caused great excitement at this place. The speculators and leasers are crowding the hotels, and are readily taking all leases offered. Two wells are now being drilled, and the prospects are favorable for a big oil field in this vicinity, as there have been several wells drilled heretofore that produced forty barrels per day, and were locked in on account of the low market.

Another Jumbo.

The citizens of Decatur, Ind., are elated at the news that a gas well bored under the auspices of the Decatur Trenton Rock Company, near Balbec, south of that city, is the strongest producing well in the Indiana belt. Gas was struck and so forcible is the flow that a five-inch packing must be used to control the element. This is the second gusher which the company has struck in that vicinity within the last month.

Violent Deaths at Ft. Wayne.

Fort Wayne special: Robert Simpson, a stranger, committed suicide by jumping from the St. Mary's River bridge. He had nothing on his person to indicate his residence.

Samuel Rable, a yard conductor in the Nickle Plate yard, was run down by a switch engine and both legs cut off and badly crushed about the body. He died soon afterwards.

Sat Down on the Track.

Lafayette (Ind.) special: William Long, a colored man, who claimed to have come direct from Indianapolis, where he was for some weeks employed at the Surgical Institute, was instantly killed here. He sat down on the Wabash Railway side-track, and a train was switched in, cutting him nearly in twain.

A Freight House Destroyed.

The office and freight house of the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati & Lousville Railroad at Sheidlers, Ind., eight miles north of Muncie, was destroyed by fire. Everything was consumed but the trunk of M. E. Spencer, the agent. It is supposed the building caught fire from a passing engine.

Caught by Machinery.

Miss Lulu Fry, aged 12 years, employed in the hosiery mill on Ekin Avenue, New Albany, Ind., was caught by the hair in the machinery and in a trice was thrown up over the swaft. Before she could be rescued the hair and scalp on one side of the head was torn off, terribly mutilating the unfortunate girl.

Severed an Artery.

Rolla Tracey, an employe of the Lima Paper Mills, picked up a box, when his arm came in contact with a sharp knife which had been left lying on the box, and an aretery svered, nearly causing death before the flow could be checked. His recovery is doubtful.

Revolution in Paraguay.

A revolution has broke out in Paraguay. Several persons have been killed and many wounded. Telegraphic communication is interrupted, and the details received are meager.

Monument Unveiled.

California's monument of James W. Marshall, who was the first man to discover gold in California, was unveiled at Coloma, recently, with imposing ceremonies.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$ 4.75	@ 5.50
Fair to Good	3.50	@ 4.75
Common	2.50	@ 3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.75	@ 4.50
SHEEP	5.00	@ 7.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.92	@ .92½
CORN—No. 2	.33	@ .34
OATS—No. 2	.25½	@ .26
RYE—No. 2	.49½	@ .50
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.17	@ .20
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09½	@ .10¾
EGGS—Fresh	.10½	@ .11½
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu.	.45	@ .52
PORK—Mess	12.75	@ 13.25
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.86	@ .87
CORN—No. 3	.32	@ .33
OATS—No. 2 White	.28	@ .29
RYE—No. 1	.50	@ .51
BARLEY—No. 2	.44	@ .46
PORK—Mess	13.25	@ 13.75
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 4.25
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.93	@ .95
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.35	@ .36
OATS—No. 2 White	.31	@ .32
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.90	@ .91
CORN—Cash	.35½	@ .36½
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@ .26½
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.25
HOGS	4.25	@ 5.00
SHEEP	5.50	@ 7.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.98	@ 1.00
CORN—No. 2 White	.47	@ .48
OATS—Mixed Western	.33	@ .36
PORK—New Mess	14.00	@ 14.50
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.25	@ 5.00
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.89	@ .90
CORN—No. 2	.32	@ .32½
OATS—No. 2	.26½	@ .27½
RYE—No. 2	.55	@ .56
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.00	@ 4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.25
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.93½	@ .94½
CORN—No. 1 White	.34	@ .35
OATS—No. 2 White	.27	@ .27½
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.75	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.88	@ .91
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .37½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.27½	@ .28½
RYE—No. 2	.56	@ .57
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.50	@ 5.25
HOGS—Medium and Heavy	4.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.95	@ .95½
CORN—No. 2	.36	@ .36½

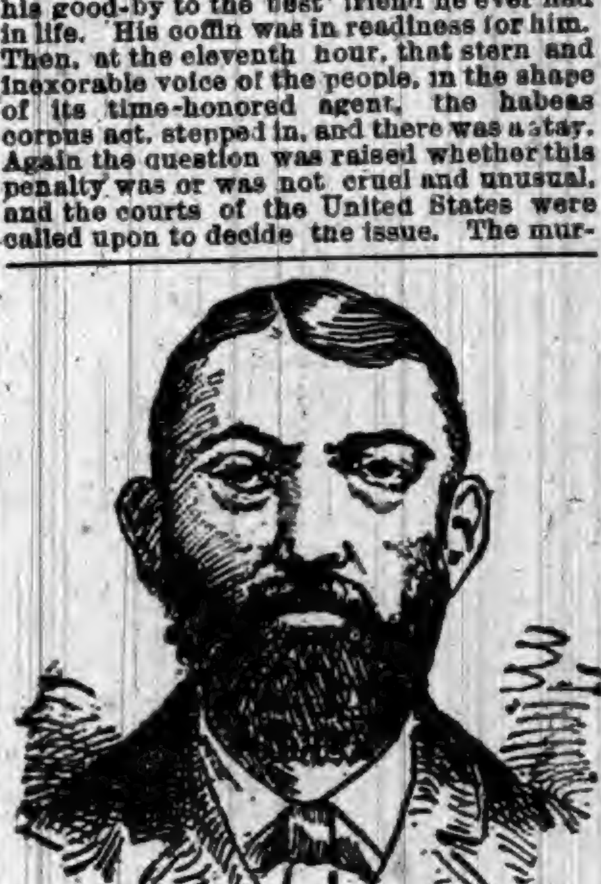
KEMMLER STILL LIVES.

A STAY OF EXECUTION GRANTED IN HIS CASE.

Judge Wallace of the United States Circuit Court Issues a Writ of Habeas Corpus Returnable June 16—The Apparatus by Means of Which the Electric Shock Was to Have Been Administered.

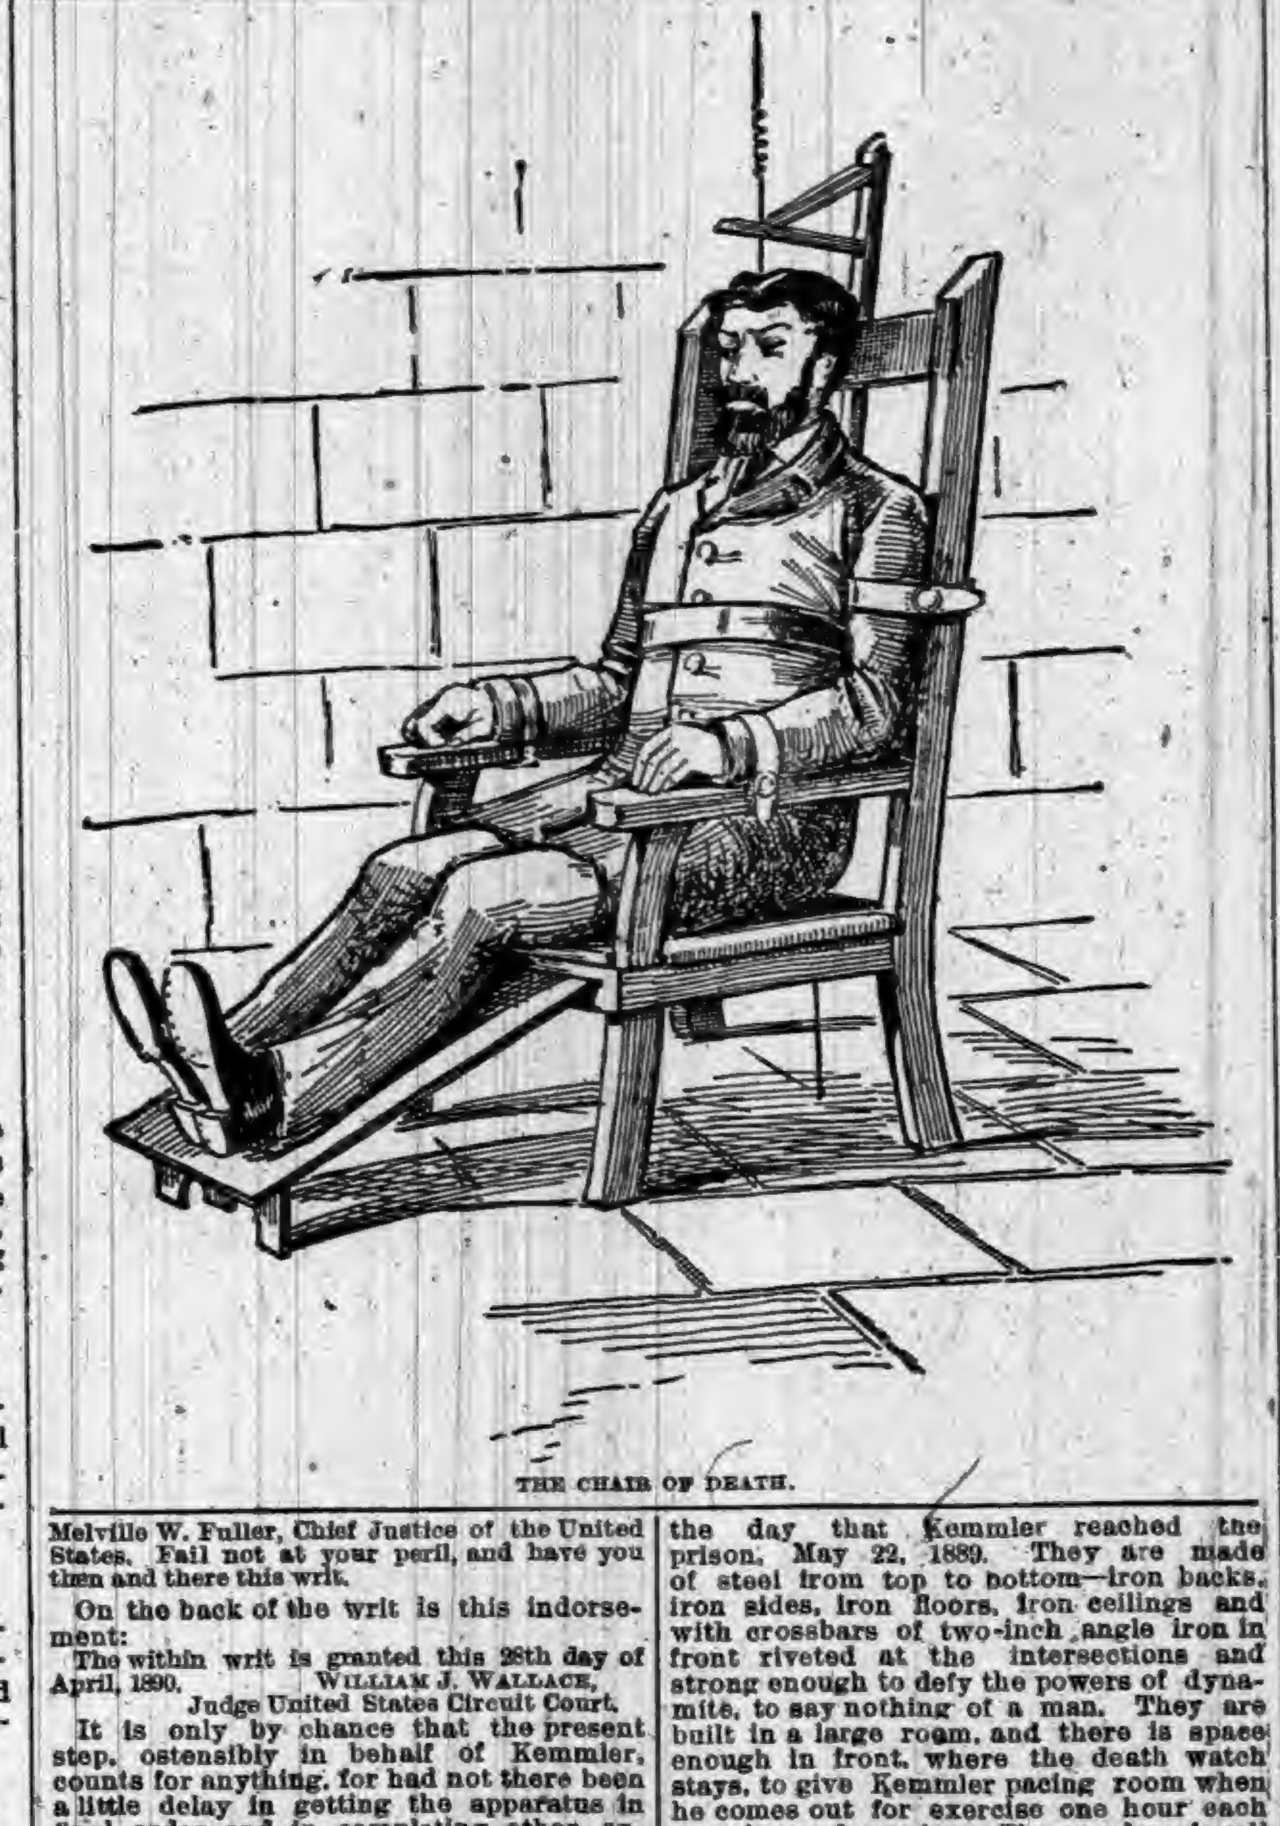
[AUBURN (N. Y.) CORRESPONDENCE.]

WILLIAM KEMMLER, the Buffalo murderer, has received a new lease of life, and there will be no electrical execution in Auburn State Prison this week. Indeed, it is altogether probable that the proof of the success or failure of a legal execution by electricity in this State will be postponed for many months. The arrangements had been made to the smallest detail. The hideous paraphernalia of the secret death chamber was in place and ready for the last test. The witnesses of the execution had been chosen and many of them were on hand. The day, almost the hour, was selected. The murderer had been told that his time had come to die, and had been baptized and said his good-by to the best friend he ever had in life. His coffin was in readiness for him. Then, at the eleventh hour, that stern and inexorable voice of the people, in the shape of its time-honored agent, the habeas corpus act, stepped in, and there was a stay. Again the question was raised whether this penalty was or was not cruel and unusual, and the courts of the United States were called upon to decide the issue. The murderer was snatched from a death which might have proved so awful as to have shocked the civilized world and might have been as peaceful as the sleep of childhood. The stay came with the person of Roger M. Sherman, of the law firm of Sherman & Herling, of New York City, and reads as follows:



WILLIAM KEMMLER.

> The President of the United States to Charles F. Durston, Warden and Agent of Auburn Prison, greeting:
>
> The people of the United States whom God defend, do command you that you have the body of William Kemmler, by you imprisoned and detained, as it is said, together with the time and cause of such imprisonment and detention by whatsoever name the said William Kemmler is called or charged, before the Circuit Court of the United States for the northern district of New York, to be held at Canandaigua on the third Monday of June, at 10 o'clock in the morning. Witness the Hon. Melville W. Fuller, Chief Justice of the United States. Fail not at your peril, and have you then and there this writ.



THE CHAIR OF DEATH.

On the back of the writ is this indorsement:

> The within writ is granted this 28th day of April, 1890. WILLIAM J. WALLACE,
> Judge United States Circuit Court.

It is only by chance that the present step, ostensibly in behalf of Kemmler, counts for anything, for had not there been a little delay in getting the apparatus in final order and in completing other arrangements, the criminal would have been shocked into the next world on Tuesday morning just after daybreak. It was the Warden's intention, it is declared by those who have seen the first notification, to have the deed done in that hour. Had his original plans been carried out the movement of Kemmler's mysterious friends would have been fruitless.

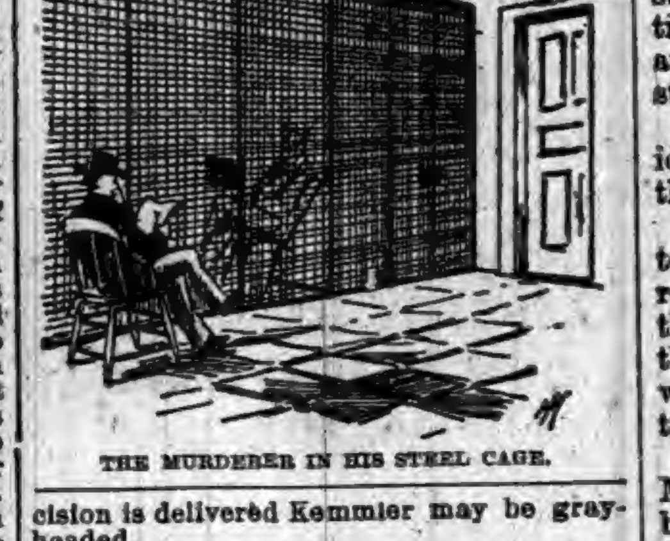
The Warden, for some reason best known to himself, kept putting off announcing to Kemmler the change in his fortunes. It was a little before 4 o'clock when the Warden went to tell the unsuspecting murderer of the great meaning of the paper he had signed and the greater meaning of the writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Durston, laying his hand on Kemmler's shoulder, explained to him that a writ of habeas corpus had been served upon him, and that the paper he signed before Mr. McNeil meant that he had a new lawyer who was going to try his case over again. The prisoner gazed with a look that showed he did not fully understand the Warden's language. Then Mr. Durston said:

"It means that your execution is not coming off now, and that you will have two months and perhaps longer to live."

"Oh," said Kemmler, just as if the real facts were beginning to dawn upon him; "that makes me feel easier."

The Warden stood there for a moment; Kemmler walked to his chair and sat down. His face was expressionless, and he said nothing to indicate great astonishment or delight. Mr. Durston turned, locked the corridor door, and came away.

The future of the case will be one of long-protracted litigation. When Kemmler is produced at Canandaigua on June 16 the first argument will be had. That may last for several days, and it may be weeks before the decision of the court is handed down. If it is against Mr. Sherman he may take the case on appeal to the United States Supreme Court at Washington. There are many cases before that bench, and it may take months or years to get the question fully before that court. When the final decision is delivered Kemmler may be gray-headed.



THE MURDERER IN HIS STEEL CAGE.

The Chair of Death.

The preparations for Kemmler's execution had been fully completed, and the shock of the law's thunderbolt would have pierced his body within less than twelve hours except for the interference of Lawyer Sherman in his behalf. The fatal chair in which the condemned man was to sit while he received the deadly electric current (an exact picture of which is herewith presented) is thus described:

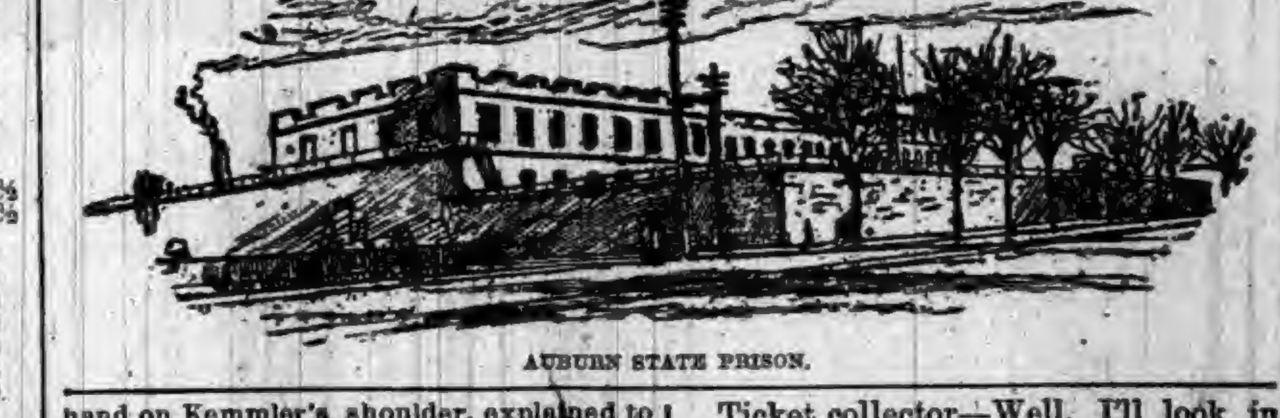
It is a comfortable chair with an upright back and arms that are adjustable to those of the man who sits in it. There is a leather-covered pillow for the head to rest against.

Fastened to the back is an adjustable figure 4, which can be raised or lowered so as to come down over the head of the condemned. The technique of the thing is very simple. Through the lower outer angle of the 4 (figure a) there is a hole, and through this will pass a rubber tube containing a rod of steel or copper, to which a wet sponge is fastened. This sponge will touch the crown of the condemned man's head. Another pipe, with webbing inside and a sponge, will pass up through the seat so as to touch the base of the spine, when the man is strapped firmly in his seat. This will be accomplished by the use of several straps, one passing around the chest, another around the abdomen, which will draw the webbing against the spine, while the arms will be firmly strapped to those of the chair on which they will rest. The feet will rest on a comfortable foot rest, after the fashion of those in use in a barber-shop. Indeed, the strong resemblance of this instrument of death to a barber's chair has already caused the prison officials to speak of electrocution in their roughly humorous way as a bald-headed shave. The electricity will be generated by a dynamo which has been placed near to the power-room, a thousand feet away from the place of execution, and the insulated wires which will connect it with the rods and sponges have all been strung in readiness for their work.

There is nothing uncomfortable about the chair save the deadly current which goes with it, and if death by the latter be as sudden and painless as its advocates affirm, it will certainly be the most merciful means of capital punishment used anywhere.

Kemmler's Steel Cage.

The situation of Kemmler's cell is one of the prison secrets. It lies in the south wing of the prison underneath the hospital and on the floor below the main offices and visiting room. There are two of them, built by the Warden when the new law went into effect, and completed, strange to say, the day that Kemmler reached the prison, May 22, 1889. They are made of steel from top to bottom—iron backs, iron sides, iron floors, iron ceilings and with crossbars of two-inch angle iron in front riveted at the intersections and strong enough to defy the powers of dynamite, to say nothing of a man. They are built in a large room, and there is space enough in front, where the death watch stays, to give Kemmler pacing room when he comes out for exercise one hour each morning and evening. The murderer's cell is most plainly furnished. There is an iron bedstead in the corner toward the front of the prison, and Kemmler says he has never slept better in his life than he has done since he slept on it.



AUBURN STATE PRISON.

Wasn't Losing His Memory.

[Scene — Scotch railway station. Ticket collector, in making his collection, finds an old gentleman fumbling in his pockets for his ticket.]

Ticket collector—Tickets, please.

Old gentleman—I'm just lookin' for it.

Ticket collector—Well, I'll look in again in a few minutes. See and have it ready then.

Ticket collector returns shortly; but the old gentleman is still hunting for it.

Ticket collector (suddenly)—Why, you have it in your mouth, man!

Old gentleman (giving him the ticket)—Oh, so I hae! Here you are!

Another gentleman in the carriage, as the train moves on, to first gentleman—I'm afraid you're losing your memory, sir.

Old gentleman—Nae fear o' that; nae fear o' that! The ticket was a fornicht ould, and I was jist sookin' the date aff't!

A Burglars' Gazette.

A new trade journal reached our office last week. Nowadays nearly every trade and profession is represented by a paper, but the journal referred to above represents a profession which has heretofore struggled along without an organ. Its title is The Burglars' Gazette, and, as its name suggests, it represents the burglars.

Why they should send a copy to Siftings office is more than we can understand, and we feel hurt at the insinuation. We may not be pink and white angels, but we will be blowed if we will stand coolly by and be called burglars.

In order to give our readers a fair idea of The Burglars' Gazette we clip the following from its columns:

"Every live burglar should subscribe to The Burglars' Gazette. It is the recognized organ of the profession, and the editorial on the seventh page, entitled, 'How to Quiet House Dogs,' is worth ten times the cost of subscription."

"WANTED.—A sober, honest pal. Must have experience in the banking business and a good kit of tools. Address Sharkie, this office. e o w."

"We had a very pleasant call last week from Kid Swipes. Although a young man, Kid is away up in his profession. He says business is booming, and he showed us some magnificent specimens of his industry. We predict for him a bright future. Call again, Swipes, old man, call again."

"Invaluable Hints to Burglars, or, How to Burgle Successfully. This little volume should be in the hands of every burglar in the land. Mailed upon receipt of ten cents in silver. 4 t."

"Don't fail to read our magnificent premium offer. Send us six yearly subscriptions and you will receive as a premium a beautiful silver-plated jimmy of the latest design. These jimmies are very stylish, and are used by the elite of the profession. You can rely on 'em every time. Now is your time to subscribe."

"Geo. F.—A sandbag should be used."

"Ah! how sad is death! Jimmie Kergee is no more. He died last night suddenly at the residence of a citizen on High street. Had Jim read 'Invaluable Hints to Burglars' he would now be well and alive. He stood high as a member of the Burglars' Union."—Texas Siftings.

THE giraffe presents the most wonderful case of sore throat on record.

ST. JACOBS OIL

Cures
Backache.
Backache.
Backache.

Martinez, Cal., October 2, 1888.
I could hardly walk or lie down from lame back; suffered several weeks. St. Jacobs Oil permanently cured me, other remedies having failed to do so. FRED. HITTMAN.

Cloverdale, Ind., Feb. 8, 1887.
From a bad cold pains settled in my back and I suffered greatly; confined to bed and could hardly move or turn. I tried St. Jacobs Oil, which cured me. I do not fear recurrence.
MRS. P. M. REINHEIMER.

"Oh, So Tired!"
is the cry
of thousands
every Spring.
For that Tired Feeling
take
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
and recover
Health and Vigor.
It Makes
the Weak Strong.
Prepared by
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.
BEST IN THE WORLD.
OTHER SPECIALTIES for GENTLEMEN, LADIES, MISSES and BOYS.
None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom. Sold everywhere.
☞ Send address on postal for valuable information.
W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.

The Soft Glow of The TEA ROSE
Is Acquired by Ladies Who Use
POZZONI'S
MEDICATED
COMPLEXION
POWDER.
TRY IT. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably
DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S
CELEBRATED EYE-WATER.
This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century. There are few diseases to which mankind are subject more distressing than sore eyes, and none, perhaps, for which more remedies have been tried without success. For all external inflammation of the eyes it is an infallible remedy. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. For sale by all druggists. JOHN L. THOMPSON, SONS & CO., TROY, N. Y. Established 1797.

Ely's Cream Balm
WILL CURE
CATARRH
Price 50 Cents.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG. CO.
No. 14. Tight bottom and dash.
For 16 Years have sold to consumers at WHOLESALE Prices, saving them the DEALER'S profit. Ship ANYWHERE for examination before buying. Pay freight charges if not satisfactory. Warranted for 2 years. 64-page Catalogue FREE. Address W. B. PRATT, Sec'y, Elkhart, Indiana.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims.
Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau.
3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

OAK LUMBER WANTED—Timbers and plank. For prices write to HATCH & KEITH, Twenty-first and Brown Sts., Chicago, Ill.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN—
Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION
THE RESULT OF USING LIQUID POLISHES

ABSOLUTELY NON COMBUSTIBLE
EBONY STOVE ENAMEL
ONLY PERFECTLY SAFE LIQUID STOVE POLISH MADE
ALSO EBONY PASTE POLISH
ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT BUY IT TRY IT
THE BUFFALO POLISH CO LTD BUFFALO NY.

USE ONLY THE BEST.
UNDERWOOD'S
CELEBRATED
WRITING AND COPYING INKS,
MUCILAGE, ETC.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.
TYPEWRITER RIBBONS,
CARBON PAPERS,
LINEN PAPERS,
RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR
ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.
163 LA SALLE ST. CHICAGO. | 30 VESEY ST. NEW YORK. | 10 JOHNSTON ST. TORONTO.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE
DIABETES
LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.
Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write
WM. T. LINDLEY & CO.,
814-834 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. MRS. A. A. GILLIAM, Treas. Woman's Exchange.
CHICAGO, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.
BUFFALO, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. BRIGHTINE cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.
ST. LOUIS, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. STAND'D DRUG CO. 900 Franklin Av.
ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. MASTBROOK, D'gs 109 S. B'way.
Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. REV. JOHN HAWKES.
Chicago Times, March 28, '88—Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88.—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88. PRAISE BRIGHTINE.
Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros, J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

STEKETEE'S
DRY BITTERS
A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits.
It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packets for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address,
GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

FOR MEN ONLY!
VIGOR AND STRENGTH
For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

"THOU SHALT BE MY QUEEN FOREVER."

BY CHARLES C. HAHN.

"I am Queen," the Persian beauty
Said, in accents proud and taunting,
As she looked, with jealous anger,
On the favorite of the harem.

"Truly speaks she," said King Sapor,
"She my Queen is. Thee, I, loving,
Press thee closer to my bosom.
In that Paradise we long for
Love shall rule, and there, my loved one,
Thou shalt be my Queen forever."

The Piccadilly Puzzle.

THE STORY OF A TERRIBLE EPISODE IN THE LIFE OF AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN.

By F. W. HUME.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN.

Mrs. Povy was delighted to see Calliston back again, but she was not going to betray any exultation, as she did not think him worthy of it, so received him with great dignity and formality. Lord Calliston, a tall, dissipated young man, noticed the restraint of her manners, and commented thereon at once.

The door opened and his valet entered, soft-footed and deferential.

"A gentleman to see you, my lord," he said, handing Calliston a card.

"Humph! I thought so," said Calliston, glancing at the card; "show Mr. Dowker up, Locker."

Locker retired, and Mrs. Povy was about to follow his example when Calliston stopped her.

"Don't go, Mrs. Povy," he said, authoritatively, "you saw this man before, so you can hear our interview—I may have to ask you something."

Totty acquiesced obediently, and went over to the window, while Locker, showing Mr. Dowker into the room, retired, closing the door after him. Calliston opened the conversation at once.

"Your name is Dowker—you are a detective—you want to see me about the Jermyn street murder?"

"Quite correct, my lord," replied Dowker, quietly, though rather astonished at the business-like tone assumed by Calliston. "I want to ask your lordship a few questions. I want an account of your lordship's movements on that night," he said smoothly.

Lord Calliston sprang to his feet with a burst of laughter.

"Good heavens!" he cried. "Surely you don't think I killed Lady Balscombe?"

Dowker said nothing, but looked discreetly on the ground, upon which Calliston frowned.

"Now, then, Mr. Dowker," said Calliston, tapping the table impatiently, "where do you want me to begin from?"

"From the time your lordship arrived at 'The Pink 'Un.'" Calliston stared at him in astonishment.

"How the deuce did you know I was there?" he asked.

"Easily enough," replied the detective, coolly; "the little urchin you gave money to told me."

"The devil!" said Calliston, in a vexed tone. "One seems to be surrounded with spies—perhaps you can tell me how I spent the rest of the night?"

"No, I leave that for your lordship."

"Then it's easily done," retorted the young lord, coolly. "I left these rooms intending to go to Shoreham by the ten minutes past nine train from London Bridge."

"Was Lady Balscombe to meet you there?"

"No—she intended to go first to the Countess of Kerstoke's ball in order to avert suspicion, and then was to come down to Shoreham by the first train in the morning—about 5:45. At all events, I left here about eight o'clock in order to go down, when I looked in at my club for a few minutes, and heard of a sparring match coming off at 'The Pink 'Un,' and was induced by some friends to go. I thought I'd not bother about going down by the 9:10 train, as I could catch the early train in the morning, and go down with Lady Balscombe, so I went to 'The Pink 'Un' and saw the match. Then I thought I'd go home to my rooms. Just as I got to them a woman came out of the doorway and rushed away like a mad thing. If you remember, it was a foggy night, but I was close enough to recognize the dress, and thought it was Lena Sarschine. Just as I was puzzling over her sudden appearance, a man passed me quickly and went after the woman—they both disappeared in the fog and I thought I'd better follow and find out what was up. I lost myself in the fog, and, after wandering about for a couple of hours, I managed to get a cab and go to my club. There I met some fellows, and, as I had to catch an early train, did not think it worth while to go to bed. I fell asleep, however, on the sofa, and the end of it was I went down to Shoreham by a late train and came on board the yacht. They told me Lady Balscombe was on board, so I ordered the yacht to start at once, and it was only when we were right out that I found out my mistake—until I came back to England I had no more idea than you that Lady Balscombe had been murdered."

Dowker listened to all this with the deepest interest, and then asked Lord Calliston a question.

"Who was the man who passed you in pursuit of the woman?"

"How should I know?" replied Calliston, fidgeting in his seat.

"You did not know him?"

"How could I recognize any one on such a foggy night?"

"Had you any idea who it was?" persisted Dowker.

"Well, I had," said Calliston, reluctantly. "It is only fancy, mind, because I did not see the man's face, but I thought his figure and bearing resembled some one I know."

"And the name of that some one?"

"Sir Rupert Balscombe."

Dowker uttered an ejaculation of astonishment and summed up the whole thing in his own mind.

"Cock-and-bull story," he muttered to himself. "He has learned since it was Lady Balscombe whom he saw, and wants to put the blame on to the husband—pish!"

"Well," said Calliston anxiously.

"It's a grave accusation to make," said Dowker.

"I'm not making any accusation," retorted Calliston, violently. "I only think it was Sir Rupert. I'm not accusing him of anything. Is that all you want to know? If so, you'll oblige me by leaving my rooms."

Both men arose to their feet and looked at one another, and so absorbed were they that they did not hear the door softly open behind them.

"Not yet, Lord Calliston," said Dowker calmly. "I want to know what you did those two hours you were in the fog?"

"Do! Nothing, except walk about looking for the woman I thought Lena Sarschine."

"And you found her?"

"No."

"Bah! What jury would believe that?"

"Do you mean to accuse me of this murder?" asked Calliston furiously, clinching his fists.

"I accuse you of nothing," retorted Dowker coolly. "I merely put a case to you. Here is a man, yourself, going to run off with another woman when his mistress, as he thinks, comes to stop him. He sees her leave his chambers in a furious rage, follows her—what is more natural than that he should meet her, and she heaps reproaches on him——"

"Wait a minute," interrupted Calliston with a sneer. "Your picture is very tragic, but quite wrong. Suppose I did meet the woman who left my chambers. I would find not Lena Sarschine, but Lady Balscombe, the very woman I wanted to meet."

Dowker rubbed his head, being for once in his life nonplused by a man a clever as himself.

"It does sound wrong, I confess," he said, ruefully; "still you are in an awkward situation. If you did not kill Lady Balscombe, what is the name of the person who did?"

"Lena Sarschine!"

It was a third voice who uttered the name, and both men turned round to see Lena Sarschine looking at them with blazing eyes.

"Yes!" she said, advancing toward Dowker. "I knew you suspected Calliston when you came to the yacht yesterday, and I came up to prevent him meeting you. I am too late for that, but not too late to prevent you from arresting an innocent man. You want to know who murdered my sister—I did—I was mad with rage and jealousy, I followed her from my own house and saw her leave these rooms—we met, and she told me she was going down to Shoreham and defied me, so I killed her with this dagger," and, throwing a small silver-mounted stiletto at the detective's feet, her unnatural strength gave way, and she sank on the floor in a dead faint, while the other two men stood looking blankly at one another.

"My God!" said Calliston, "this is terrible!"

"Yes," replied Dowker, "if it is true."

"Don't you believe it?"

"Not one word!"

CHAPTER XVII.

WHAT MYLES DESMOND THOUGHT.

Imprisonment is not calculated to raise a man's spirits, consequently poor Myles, having now been shut up for some weeks, was in rather a dismal frame of mind. Norwood informed him from time to time of the discoveries that were made, so, in spite of his quixotic ideas concerning the promise he had made to Lady Balscombe, there seemed every chance that he would soon be released from his perilous position.

After the discovery that Lady Balscombe was dead and not Lena Sarschine, Norwood, accompanied by May Penfold, went to tell Myles about it in the hope that this being the case he would now tell all about his interview with the deceased, and thus possibly throw some light on the mystery. Myles was delighted to see May and clasped her fondly to his breast, while Norwood, finding the meeting of two lovers somewhat trying, busied himself with his notes at the other end of the cell.

Myles paused a moment, and was then about to speak, when the door of the cell was opened and Dowker entered in a state of suppressed excitement.

"Good-morning, Miss Penfield and gentlemen," he said, rapidly. "I have some news—good news—for you!"

"About what?" asked Norwood, curiously.

"This Jermyn street case," replied Dowker. "I have been to see Lord Calliston, and found out his movements on that night."

"Do they incriminate him?" asked Norwood.

"If they did it would not much matter," replied the detective, "for I have discovered the real criminal."

"What?" cried Norwood and Miss Penfold, while Myles said nothing, but fixed his eyes eagerly on Dowker's face.

"Yes—she has confessed."

"She!" cried May. "Is it a woman?"

"It is—Lena Sarschine!"

"Lena Sarschine!" echoed the three in astonishment.

"The same. She has confessed that she followed her sister on that night and killed her through jealousy."

"What weapon did she use?" asked Desmond, disbelievingly.

"This," replied Dowker, and produced the dagger Lena had thrown at his feet.

"Do you believe this story?" asked Desmond, looking at Dowker.

"At first I did not believe one word," answered the detective slowly, "but I am now doubtful, as I don't see what she would gain by confessing herself guilty of a crime she had not committed."

"I can tell you what she would gain," said Desmond vehemently. "Yes—she loves Calliston devotedly, and thought you were trying to bring home the crime to him. Did she overhear your conversation?"

"Some of it," admitted Dowker reluctantly.

"Then that explains all;" said Myles triumphantly. "She thought Calliston was in danger of being arrested for the murder, and swore she did it in order to save him. Remember, she has an excitable nature, and her nerves are overstrung with the horror of her sister's death. Ten to one she did not know what she was saying."

"But this dagger?" began Norwood.

"Pish!" retorted Myles. "I don't believe that toy had anything to do with it. Find out if it's poisoned, for I'll stake my existence it is not. No, Lena Sarschine did not commit the crime!"

"You seem to be very certain," said Dowker. "Perhaps you can tell me who did?"

"I can't tell you for certain," retorted Desmond, "but I have my suspicions. You wanted to know my reasons for not divulging the identity of the deceased," he went on, turning to Norwood. "I can now give them, as this self-accusation of Lena Sarschine's is too absurd to be allowed to stand. I told you I did not see Lady Balscombe again on that night. I told a lie—I did. When I left the house to follow her and see that she got home safely I went along Piccadilly, as I told you. Under a gas-lamp I saw Lady Balscombe standing talking to a man. They were quarreling, and the man's voice was raised in anger. Suddenly I saw the man put his hand to her throat and wrench something away. Lady Balscombe gave a cry and fled across the street in the direction of St. James street, followed by the man. They were swallowed up in the fog, and I saw no more of them. It was the direction they took that led me into St. James street on that night. If you remember, there was a mark on Lady Balscombe's neck, as if something had been wrenched off, so you can now understand the reason. I believe the man inflicted the fatal wound at the same time. She fled from him, went blindly down St. James street, into Jermyn street, and sank in a dying condition on the steps where she was found."

"Did you recognize the man?" asked Dowker, who had been listening intently to this story.

"I did."

"And who was it?" cried the trio.

"Sir Rupert Balscombe," said Myles.

May fell into Norwood's arms with a stifled cry, but Dowker began to speak rapidly:

"Why, Lord Calliston also said he saw him going after Lady Balscombe. By Jove! so he is the criminal after all. What a fool I've been—I'm off!"

"Where to?" asked Norwood.

"I want to find out where the locket and chain is that Sir Rupert wrenched off his wife's neck."

CHAPTER XVIII.

WHAT DOWKER DISCOVERED.

After hearing the revelations made by Lord Calliston and Myles Desmond concerning the movements of Sir Rupert Balscombe on the night of the murder, Dowker had no doubt in his mind that the baronet was guilty of the crime.

Dowker did not go at once to Park lane, as he was anxious to know how Lena Sarschine, or, rather, Lady Calliston, was after her hysterical confession of guilt, so he drove down to Cleopatra Villa, and on being shown into the drawing room was confronted by Lord Calliston. That young nobleman looked haggard and worn out, so that in spite of his conduct, which had led to the murder of one woman and the self-accusation of another, the detective felt sorry for him.

"What do you want now?" he asked, irritably. "Have you come to arrest my wife?"

"Your wife?" said Dowker, pretending to have heard this for the first time.

"Yes," replied Calliston, boldly; "we were married in France, and she is now my wife. I don't believe her guilty of this crime—do you?"

"I told you this morning I did not," said the detective, quietly. "It was only a statement made by her to save you, because she thought you were guilty."

"What do you say?" asked Calliston, abruptly.

"If you had asked me this morning, I should have said the circumstances were suspicious," said Dowker, smoothly, "but now I can say heartily that you are innocent."

"How do you know I am?" demanded Calliston, ironically.

"Because I have found out the real criminal at last—one I believe to be the real criminal."

"Sir Rupert Balscombe?"

"Yes, Sir Rupert Balscome."

"I thought so," said Calliston, bitterly. "I knew he hated his wife."

"And had he not reason?" asked Dowker, significantly. Calliston flushed, and turned his face away.

"I'm not a saint," he said, in a low voice, "and though my conduct may appear to have been wrong, I could hardly help myself; it would have taken a stronger man than myself to withstand the temptation."

"And now?"

"Now," replied Calliston, turning toward the detective, "I have married the only woman I ever really cared about, and we are going a tour round the world as soon as she is well—that is, if she ever does get well."

"Is she then so ill?"

"Brain fever," replied Calliston, curtly.

"I'm very sorry to hear it," replied Dowker, quietly, "for she is a noble woman."

Calliston made no reply, but flung himself down on a couch and buried his face in his hands, so, without saying another word, Dowker left the room and made his final exit from Cleopatra Villa.

It was now about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, so Dowker drove to the Park lane mansion and asked for Sir Rupert Balscombe. The footman told him the baronet was out, but added, on hearing his name, that Miss Penfold had given orders if he called that he was to be shown into the library, as she wished to see him. Dowker was pleased at this, as he wanted to ask May some questions, and followed the servant in a very pleased frame of mind.

May Penfold was seated by a small table talking eagerly to Mr. Norwood, who sat near her with a pocketbook open on his knee. When Dowker entered, May arose and went forward in a curiously eager manner. Her face was very pale, and there were dark circles under her eyes, but her features wore a very hopeful expression, for she was now certain of saving her lover, though on the other hand she might lose her guardian.

"I'm so glad you've come, Mr. Dowker," she said, quickly. "Mr. Norwood and myself have been talking over the position of the case and we want your assistance."

"I will be delighted to give it," answered Dowker, gravely, taking a seat. "I am anxious to make Mr. Desmond all the reparation in my power, as I was the unconscious cause of all his trouble."

"You only acted according to your duty," said Norwood, in a business-like tone. "The evidence against my client was very strong, but the evidence against Sir Rupert——"

"Is stronger still," finished the detective. "Exactly; but we have to find out that evidence. Lord Calliston and Mr. Desmond can swear they saw him in Picadilly following his wife, and the latter saw him wrench the locket off his wife's neck. Now, I want to find that locket, and also—if possible—the dagger with which the crime was committed."

At this moment they heard footsteps outside and a man talking, whose voice May immediately recognized.

"It's Mr. Ellersby," she said, quickly. "He has come to see Sir Rupert about my marriage. I cannot meet him."

"Neither can I," said Dowker, "as I want to see Sir Rupert alone. Is there no place where we can wait?"

"Yes, here," said May, and walked to the end of the room, where there was a door leading to a smaller apartment, before which hung a curtain. "Let us all go in here till he is gone."

Dowker and Norwood took up their hats and went after her into the room, leaving the library quiet and deserted.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Studies Astronomical.

It was at Spirit Lake, at the very limit of the pier. They were all alone. There was no moon, but the stars were big and bright and so full of self-conceit that they looked at themselves in the water and winked. Far out a boat slid noiselessly along. In a nearer boat a fair tenor voice carelessly half-hummed, half-sang a common love-song. From the hotel came now and then the twang of the strings of the orchestra of mandolins. On such a night as this did Dido stand upon the wild sea bank and wave her love to come again to Carthage. On such a night as this did Jessica—but a truce to the bard! It was the sort of night on which a man could make love to his own wife—and those two, Edouard and Alicia, had not bespoken their tender vows.

"Do you know anything about the stars?" inquired Edouard, in a voice like the murmur of the wind in the summer trees.

"A little," answered Alicia, tenderly. "I know some of the constellations—the Great Bear—the——"

"Yes," interrupted Edouard, "I know all about the big bear and I can find the north star; but right over there is a group. Do you know the name of that?" And Edouard threw his arm across Alicia's shoulder and pointed to a cluster of shining worlds in the east.

Alicia leaned toward him. "I don't know what that is," she breathed, as one who did not care.

"And there is another constellation just over our heads!" Edouard passed his arm around her neck, and placing his hand under her chin so tilted it that it would be easy for her to see. And then to Alicia's eyes the heavens became one grand carnival of constellations. Shooting stars chased each other athwart the firmament, comets played riotous games among the plannets, and finally there came a soft and radiant blur which hid them all.

Edouard had kissed Alicia.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Got Him.

A negro boy, while walking along the street, took off his hat and struck at a wasp that had alighted on a tall shrub, hanging over a fence. The boy put on his hat, turned to a man and said:

"I thought I got dat ar ole wass."

"Didn't you get him?"

"No, sah, but I——" He snatched off his hat, clapped his hand on the top of his head, squatted, howled and said:

"Blame 'f I didn't git dat ole wass."—Arkansaw Traveler.

WISE AND UNWISE.

A BAR-GAIN—When the drinks are paid for.

CHESTNUT burs, like milliners, have fall openings.

A FEW stiff horns will make many a timid man a pugnacious bull.

MEN are are apt to worship what they cannot understand—women for example.

EXTREMES easily meet in infancy. It is no work at all for the baby to suck his toes.

THESE are trying times for me, was what the cook said as she stood over the lard keg.

"O, LORD! how you make me jump!" as the grasshopper remarked when he was first created.

THE small boy remarked that he would like his teacher better if her ruling passion was not so striking.

"HE'S a master of the fine arts," was the manner in which a culprit who had just paid a financial penalty referred to the judge.

"AH, yes! those tarts our mothers used to make! By the way, are you fond of jams?" "Yes—every kind but one." "What is that?" "It's first name is James."

A HEART SORROW: "I should never have recognized this other photo of you, dear. It looks careworn and old." "Yes; that was taken when papa wouldn't buy me the Duke of Dirtwater!"

CUSTOMER—What's the charge? Barber—Thirty cents. C.—Thirty cents! Why, I thought you charged only fifteen cents for a shave. B.—Yes, sir, but you see you have a double chin.

PESSIMISTIC auditor (at a concert)—Seems to me this is a mighty short programme, considering the price they charge. Optimistic auditor—Oh, we can easily get the worth of our money. Just encore everything.

WATTS—I suppose your wife is like most women—never admits that she made a mistake. Wickwire—Oh, she occasionally asserts that she made a mistake in marrying me, but she never admits that outside the family.

"DID the prisoner at the bar strike you in the altercation?" asked the lawyer. "No, sar, boss," replied the dusky prosecutor, "he biffed me right behind de lef' year. Ef yo'll jes' lean ober a little ways I kin sho' yo' de 'zact spot." The lawyer didn't lean.

"SURE," cried the Irishman, "and I'm heir to a splendid estate under my father's will. When he died, he ordered my brother to divide the house with me; and by St. Patrick, he did it—for he tuck the inside himself, and gave me the outside!"

"WELL, my dear madam, and how are you to-day?" "Oh, Doctor, I have terrible pains all over my whole body and it seems impossible to breathe! Of course, I can't sleep at all; and I have not a particle of appetite!" "But otherwise you feel all right, don't you?"

"DO YOU think your sister likes me, Tommy?" "Yes. She stood up for you at dinner." "Was anybody saying anything against me?" "No, nothing much. Father said he thought you were a good deal of an ass, but sis right up and said you wasn't and told father he ought to know better than judge a man by his looks."

SHE WAS WILLING.

"I'd like to get permission—"
Faintly the young man said.
"Permission for what?" she asked him,
As she coyly poised her head.
"Permission to court and win you,"
Demanded the bold young man;
"I want to pay you court," he said,
"And win you, if I can."
"Oh, you have my permission,
If that is all you need—
Permission to court and try to win,
But—I don't think you'll succeed."

A Great Pipe Collection.

One of the finest collections of pipes in the world is to be found in the English residence of Capt. Bragge, well known to every antiquary and bric-a-brac dealer on this terrestrial sphere. He has clay pipes from the sixteenth century, wooden pipes from Switzerland, very ancient German pipes of china and porcelain; French pipes of great antiquity, made from curious woods now unknown to growers; Swedish pipes of copper and stone; Russian of silver, niclo and malachite; great, seductive Turkish pipes of glass, metal and clay, nargilehs, chibouques and hookas; Italian pipes, centuries old, of terra cotta and olive wood; antique Spanish pipes, that might have been smoked by the Moorish dons after the invasion, and which were formed of various woods, and of a material resembling meerschaum, that is still found in Spain; African pipes, brought by traders from the interior, where they had belonged to kings and chiefs in the Black Country; venerable Chinese pipes, said to be of almost mythical age; and those that the Hindoos use in their temples.

America contributes jade, flint, and hard stone pipes from Mexico; but how pipes were carved from jade is a mystery. It is the hardest of all materials, and was used in Egypt and Greece for certain weapons, and it is even to-day esteemed as so valuable that the Chinese hold it as the equal of gold. Also Indian calumets made from the pipe stone or catlinite. Others were of Aztec clay, similar to our potter's clay, and having the general characteristics of all Aztec pottery workmanship. From the Lake Superior region came many pipes artistically inlaid with copper and lead, and along the lower valley of the Mississippi the pipes of the mound builders, somewhat similar in form to those of the Aztecs.

This collection has been repeatedly loaned to exhibitions, and contains 5,000 specimens, and is considered very valuable as showing the progress in art development in the past.—Tobacco.

THE principle of the anemometer, which may be described as a small self-registering windmill, has been applied to a device for indicating the speed of vessels. The cup-armed wheel, protected as much as possible, is placed under the keel of the vessel amidships, and its motion is imparted to a vertical shaft passing upward to a point on the deck, where the number of revolutions caused by the vessel's passage through the water is registered on a dial.

THERE is a growing tendency among chemists to regard the elements as varying arrangements—produced at successive stages in the process of cooling—of one original form of atom. Evidence in favor of the hypothesis is claimed in the fact that some elements seem not to have formed in the sun, while yet more are absent from still hotter stars.

WOMAN is more plucky than man. She is never afraid of the overhead wires in bonnet frames.

FULL WEIGHT
PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING
POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

TANK HEATER.
A GREAT SAVING
TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.

Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price.
Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.

COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES.
SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES.
O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO.,
LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR—
CRAYON PORTRAIT
NICELY
FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT.
Plush Border. Size, 24 x 28 inches.
For $3.00
As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00.
(ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.)
BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF
PROVOST'S
Cream Washing Powder.
ONLY COSTS 5c PER PACKAGE.
One Coupon in Every Package.
Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity.
Ask Your GROCER For It.
If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it.
WARREN PROVOST & CO.,
26-30 Humboldt St., - Brooklyn, N. Y.

DR. ELLIOTT'S
MEDICATED FOOD,
A Sure Cure for all Diseases in
HORSES,
Cattle, Sheep and Hogs
Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. F. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St. Joe Station, Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *6 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling........	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 05	pm 12 15
Zanesville......	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark..........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus......ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus......lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	10 50
Mansfield.......	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 03
Deshler.........	3 39	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance........	4 21	6 43	10 15	8 50	1 50
Auburn jc.......	......	6 40	11 34	10 24	2 58
Avilla..........	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc......	......	......	1 16	am 12 05	4 16
Wellsboro.......	......	9 02	2 38	2 00	5 40
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro.......	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc......	......	......	11 00	2 06	8 22
Avilla..........	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc.......	......	7 05	12 38	3 32	9 40
Defiance........	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 48
Mansfield.......	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus........	*5 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark..........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville......	8 50	1 31	1 48	1 33	6 20
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	3 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington....ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York......ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday.
‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne.........dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era..............	12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc..........	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn...............	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo.............	12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit...............	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake........	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola...............	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont..............	1 35	6 24	1 35 pm
Reading..............	2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers..............	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale............	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc......	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville...........	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson..............	3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson..............	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville...........	8 50	12 14 pm	7 31
Fort Wayne Junc......	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale............	....	12 30	7 45
Bankers..............	9 40	12 56	8 01
Reading..............	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont..............	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola...............	12 01	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake........	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit...............	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo.............	2 35	2 35	9 23
Auburn...............	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc..........	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era..............	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne...........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..................2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express....................5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.....................2:36 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim......................8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express...................1:32 am. Daily
Logansport Accom..................6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express...................12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim...........5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT,
Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER,
Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

INSTANTANEOUS
CHOCOLATE
NO TROUBLE
NO BOILING

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT
POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS
75 CTS. PER CAN
STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON
INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..............MAY 8, 1890.

Announcements.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

I will again be a condidate for the position of representative in the state legislature from this county, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

FREEMAN KELLEY.

ED. COURIER:—Please state that my name will be presented to the Democratic County Convention as a one term candidate for representative to the General Assembly W. H. DILLS.

FOR CLERK.

W. B. Brown, of Union township, will submit his name to the democratic county convention of May 31, for the nomination for clerk, subject to the decision of the delegates.

Wm. H. Leas, of Grant township, hereby submits his name to the democratic county convention, in the hope that he may receive at their hands, the choice for clerk of DeKalb circuit court.

Hon. D. D. Moody desires to say to the democratic delegate convention that assembles in Auburn May 31, that he hopes for a favorable consideration at their hands of his claims as a candidate for county clerk. He leaves his case subject to their decision.

Solomon Barney, of Concord, at the desire of many supporters will be a candidate for county clerk, subject to the action of the democratic convention.

TO THE EDITOR: Please announce me as a candidate from Smithfield, for the office of clerk of DeKalb county, subject to the decision of the coming convention JAMES W. CLARK.

AUDITOR.

I. N. Cool, of Auburn, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention for the nomination for auditor, and asks that his claims may have impartial consideration at their hands.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COURIER: Please announce the name of Frank Seiler, of Fairfield township, who will be a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the county democratic nominating convention to be held at Auburn, May 31, 1890.

I would respectfully announce my intention of being a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the democratic nominating convention

FRANK A. BORST.

H. N. Coffinbury, of Keyser township, will submit his name to the delegates to the democratic convention, as a candidate for county auditor, subject to their decision.

W. L. Blair, of Wilmington, desires to say to the delegates to the democratic county convention that he will submit his name to them and ask at their hands the nomination for county auditor.

SHERIFF.

Phil. Plum will be a candidate for renomination for sheriff subject to the democratic nominating convention of May 31.

TREASURER.

Reuben Sawvell, of Franklin, is announced as a candidate for the office of treasurer, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

Perry Fitch, of Butler township, at the request of numerous democratic friends will ask the nomination for treasurer at the coming county convention.

B. L. Duncan, of Grant, will ask the nomination for treasurer at the hands of the delegates to the democratic convention at Auburn, May 31.

Henry Hines of Jackson township, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention, for the office of treasurer, subject to their decision.

RECORDER.

George L. Lanning, of Union, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention which meets in this place May 31.

The name of Cory Shugers, of Jackson, will be submited to the favorable consideration of the democratic convention for the office of recorder at the request of many friends.

S. R. Heberling, of Union township, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention that meets May 31.

Noah H Weaver, of Grant township, submits his name for the office of recorder, subject to such action as may be deemed wise and consistent by the democratic convention of May 31.

EDITOR COURIER: Please announce the name of Lucius C. Loveland, as a candidate from Stafford township, for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

MANY DEMOCRATS.

EDITOR COURIER: I will submit my name to the democratic county convention, as a candidate from Fairfield, for the office of recorder, subject to their decision. SAMUEL WILLIAMS.

TO THE COURIER: I will again be be a candidate from Grant township for recorder, of DeKalb county before the democratic convention of May 31, and subject to its decision.

W. S. GETTS.

Warren N. Miller, of Newville, will ask the nomination for recorder of DeKalb county at the coming democratic convention and subject to their decision.

Mahlon Baker, of Concord, will at the request of many democrats be a candidate for recorder at the coming county convention.

SURVEYOR.

Jacob M. Hook will be a candidate for renomination for county surveyor, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

COMMISSIONER

The friends of Henry Lindorfer, of Jackson township, desire to announce his name as candidate for commissioner of the southwest district, at the coming democratic convention.

I will be a candidate for commissioner of the southwest district for a re-nomination at the hands of the democratic convention of May 31.

GILBERT I. PATTERSON.

EDITOR COURIER: The many democratic friends of James M. Henderson, of Jackson township, will ask his nomination for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the coming county convention.

Henry Hall, of Concord, will be a candidate for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

Robert N. Crooks, of Grant township, will be a candidate for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention of May 31.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a decree to me directed from the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Hannah R Moss is plaintiff and Perry Alling is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of two hundred forty seven dollars and seventy six cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Lots numbered 13 and 14 in the Western addition to the town of Auburn situated in DeKalb county Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.

Auburn, Indiana, May 8, 1890.

JAMES E. ROSE, Attorney for Plaintiff.

LICENSE NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned will make application to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their next regular session, to be held at the court house in said county, commencing on the 2d day of June, 1890, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in less quantities than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the premises where sold. The premises on which I desire to sell are located as follows:

Commencing at the southeast corner of lot number twenty-seven (27) in the original plat of the town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, and running thence west twenty two and two-thirds (22⅔) feet, thence north to Sixth Street, thence east twenty two and two thirds (22⅔) feet, thence south along the line of said lot number 27 to the place of beginning.

THOMAS SOMMERS.

The Stafford Election Case.

This case came up before the Board of Commissioners on Monday, May 5, Joseph Wilson democratic candidate for trustee brings suit against Charles Arford, the republican candidate for possession of the office. The vote had showed 64 for Arford, and 63 for Wilson, but the contest was brought on the ground that Arford had bribed men to vote for him, and was therefore ineligible. It was claimed that Arford had paid $2 each to Frank and Allen Cook, twin brothers to vote for him, and had offered a school next year to Ed. Fisher, a teacher, in order to influence his vote, though Fisher refused the offer.

The Board convened in their room at 1 p. m. and finding it too small, adjourned to the court room. Present, G. I. Patterson, J. H. Platter and John Hoffelder, Auditor C. C. Walter, was present as clerk, E. D. Hartman as county attorney and J. J. Latson was made bailiff. Counsel for Wilson were W. H. Dills, A. J. Baxter, and D. D. Moody came in later. Defense had Penfield, J. E. Rose, J. H. Rose and C. J. Coats. There was a delay of about half an hour for Mr. Baxter and Mr. Penfield. After some delay, the attorneys got ready, the complaint was read by Mr. Dills, and the usual motions and sparring for advantage were heard, and occupied some time. The defense, claimed that Wilson had bought one vote which if true, would not have made Arford's crime any less, should it be proved on him. They also alleged that 20 illigal votes had been cast for Wilson, which if true, however, would still have elected Wilson by 40 votes, as all votes for Arford would be void, if the charges against him were proved. There were frequent struggles over this and similar questions but we cannot give them, and the public may not care to read them At last they got down to business. Several witnesses sworn by the contestor, Wilson, he himself being the first one on the stand. His testimony showed him a native of England and as he came over at about the age of eleven, his father's oath of allegiance made him a citizen. No particular thing was brought out till cross examination, when he was asked if he had bought any votes. He was about to reply, but his attorneys objected. Another struggle followed, and the Board decided he need not answer a question that might criminate himself. Frank Cook took the stand. Was 22 years old the 28th of April, Allen Cook is his twin brother. Voted for Arford, and an entire republican ticket, except as to David McDaniel, for assessor and James Campbell, for supervisor. Saw my brother vote similar ticket. We got $2 each just after we had voted. It was daylight. Several persons saw Arford pay the money. Arford first approached me on Saturday, April 5, at Butler, in Morris' store. He took me into the back room and said if I would vote for him he would give me $2 to pay my poll tax. We were alone. I agreed to do it. We went outside and found my brother, Arford told him he would do the same by him as he had promised to me. He said in my presence. "You understand that if you vote for me I will do the same by you, as by Frank." He gave us each a cigar and went away, saying he would see us on Monday at the election. Arford's plan to know how we voted, was to see our tickets. Before we voted, he took us into the privy, which is south of the school house, and shut the door. He reached into our vest pockets and took out the democratic tickets we had there and gave us the republican tickets. We wanted to vote for McDaniels and Campbell, and he wrote in their names. He then took us to the polls and we voted the tickets. Soon after this, he took me around south of the school house and gave me the money, two silver dollars. Several persons saw him do this. I did not see him pay Frank. But as we went home, Frank showed me his $2. We did not have any money before. Have not talked with Arford since. The witness went on to say that he had on last Saturday been induced to run off into Ohio. He had been called on where he was working by Mrs. Lou Philbrick, of Garrett, the lady who had taken him to raise, when at the age of 8 or 9 from among a number brought here from an orphan asylum at Marshfield, Mass He had not lived with her for several years. She came to the boys, and told them they had better skip out of the state as they had voted before they were of age and might get into trouble. This frightened them and they agreed to go. He said she gave him $7 and his brother $6 They hired Frank Conkle to take them to Hicksville, Ohio. They started about 4 p. m. On cross examination the witness got rattled at a furious onslaughter of Arford's lawyers, who made up their minds to bulldoze at pleasure, as they were not in regular court. They asked how it happened he got back to Indiana. He said he came from Antwerp to Ft. Wayne in company with Surveyor Jake Hook. Here they went for him like a Kansas cyclone, and he told them he did not see Jake Hook, till he got to Ft. Wayne. Here the defendant's lawyers retired to consult over the hit they had made. They afterwards, began again, but the witness, now reiterated his first statement, that he had seen Hook at Antwerp. And finally admitted he had seen him at Hicksville. Hook had told them they had better go back to Indiana, and they came back with him. Did not know why they came by Fort Wayne, but thought it was to consult Judge Lowry. Thought the object was to ask Lowry if they would be safe to come back. Here another struggle by lawyers took place, and at six the Board adjourned to meet at 8 the next morning. It appeared that as soon as Cook's attorneys heard that the boys had been induced to run off, Hook went down to investgate. He was told that the boys had not run off, but were still there. Soon the man who had driven them to Hicksville came back and even he denied any knowledge of the boys. Hook believed they were deceiving him and kept pressing the matter home and the man at last admitted, they had spirited the boys over to Hicksville. Hook went back to Butler, got A. J. Baxter and drove over to Hicksville. He found the young men had registered at the Swilley House. They readily agreed to return. He got a team and went to Antwerp, where they took the train to Ft. Wayne, arrriving there Monday morning, and then came to Auburn on the noon train in time to be present at the trial. The general opinion is that Arford or his friends had caused the boys to skip out, so they would not be witnesses against him.

Met Tuesday at 8 a. m., and after some talk the cross examination of Frank Cook, was continued. He saw Mrs. Philbrick last fall, but not this spring, and did not go to ask her as to age. Objected to by Moody and Dills. But withdrawn. I went to Mrs. Philbrick last fall to see if I could get a job on the railroad. She said, "I looked at your papers the other day and saw what year you was born in." She said I would be of age April 28, 1890.

Allen Cook called. Had known Arford about a year. Been in Stafford with David Steckley part of the time, say 3 or 4 months, and have worked for Henry Group 9 months. I voted at the April election. I voted for Charles Arford, David McDaniels and James Campbell. All names were printed except McDaniel and Campbell, which were written. Arford paid me $2 for voting this ticket, Charles Arford helped me fix the ticket. About half an hour after I had voted, he paid me two silver dollars. I had no money in the morning. Showed the money to my brother while going home. Arford first spoke of this, Saturday before election at Morris' grocery in Butler. Was on outside, near back end. No one near by but my brother, Arford said if we would favor him in voting for him for $2 he would give it, and fix the tickets for us. Q. Did you honestly believe you were of age? Objected to, but allowed to go on. Board said had allowed such evidence, because did not wish to err by too great strictness. Q by Dills. Have parties prevailed on you to leave the state? Lou Philbrick did at Butler last Saturday. Were in office of John Campbell. He was present. C. J. Coats soon came up, but they said nothing. Coats and Campbell talked by themselves. Objected by Rose, but Baxter said we want to show that Arford's friends got these men to run away. Witness: This talk was about 3 p. m. Did not see Arford that day. We went home soon. Mrs. Philbrick came on after us to Dave Steckley's in a livery rig soon after. She had not advised us what to do till we got into Campbell's office. She said we ought to leave the state, as it would be a year in prison at least if we had voted under age. She was at Steckley's about an hour. She talked in secret with us at the barn. She went over into Ohio to Conkel's about two miles. I took her there. Took her in a cart, but did not take her from Butler, as she said she did not dare to go with me, as there were so many that would suspect what she was there for. I left her at Conkle's, went back to Steckley's and after supper went with my brother to Conkle's and then to Hicksville, Mrs. Philbrick and Conkle went with us, about half way, she gave me $6 and Frank $7. She said we should stay out of Indiana till we had a letter from her, but if any one came for us, we must see they had a warrant, and be sure the warrant had "U. S." on it. Otherwise we must not come. Brother and I went with Jake Hook to Antwerp, then to Ft. Wayne, then to Auburn, A. J. Baxter was with us at Hicksville, also. Went to Wayne to see a lawyer. Wanted to ask if we were safe in coming back. How did Arford know you voted his ticket? He saw that we voted the tickets he gave us. He went into the school house, and saw us take the tickets from our pockets where he had put them after he had taken out the democratic tickets. Arford said he would go to school house and see us vote. He stood near us when we voted. We were north of the school house, when he paid money. He took $2 out as we walked and slipped into my hand and both walked on quietly, I went back among the others, and then I and Will Hook went back to town then back to Hook's. There I met my brother. Had no money that morning. Had $2 when I left the polls. Cross ex. Baxter and Hook found us at Hicksville while we were in bed that morning. They did not try to run us away. Hook went along. He paid our fare part of the way, and I paid the rest. I first spoke to Andy Baxter about having sold my vote. I had heard from my brother, that I should go to Butler. (Here he repeated in substance about the voting, as he had before.) Looked at the ticket while we were in the privy. Did not promise to give the money back to Mrs. Philbrick. It was a gift to us. She said we might be punished for voting under age. Jake Hook had told us we must help in this case, as we could not get out of it. Hook did speak of our being arrested. We told them we were going away to avoid going to the pen. Baxter said let him tell everything that was said. Hook had suggested we go to Ft. Wayne. (Baxter here said "you folks advised him to stay.") Daniel Hook called. Resides in Stafford, known the Cook boys for some time. Saw Arford and Frank Cook walking south along the fence, saw motions by Arford, handling what looked like two silver dollars handing them to Cook. Frank took it in his hand, but did not see him put it into his pocket I was about 100 feet away. They walked part way back to the school house, then parted. Cross, ex. by Rose. I was east of the southwest corner, when I saw them, about 20 feet from building. They were nearer the road and fence. Cook and Arford were going south, Not certain which was nearer the road. The reason I watched, was that on Saturday, the week before the boys had told us, they had an offer of $1 to vote for Arford. I did not offer any money. Is not unfriendly to Arford. Wm. Hollinger called. Lives in Wilmington township. Was at the Stafford polls. Saw Arford about 10 a. m., walking with Frank Cook, walking south of the school house and Arford gave him what looked like two silver dollars. They then returned and separated. I did not see the Cook boys vote. Arford reached into his pocket and got out the money, and Cook took it in his hand, I was about 110 feet away. I live ½ mile from Stafford line. The men were about ten feet from fence. Saw it go from one hand to the other. The dollars slid from Arford's hand to Cook's. I was not looking for such a thing, but happened to see it. Told my father about it because I was not used to seeing money used at an election. Here both sides stopped.. It appears that Arford gave the case up. He did not swear a witness, nor did his attorneys say a word to deny he had committed the crime. The board adjourned at this point till 1 p. m.

On meeting at one o'clock, Mr. Baxter spoke a few minutes, and then the commissioners made up their verdict. All signed it. It read.

THE FINDING.

After hearing the evidence, and the argument of counsel, the board finds for the contestor, Joseph Wilson and that said contestor, Joseph Wilson was on the 7, day of April 1890, the same being the first Monday of April 1890, duly elected trustee of the township Stafford, in DeKalb Co., state of Indiana, for the term of four years from the first Monday in August 1890.

It is therefore ordered and adjudged that the auditor of said county issue to said Joseph Wilson a certificate of said election.

It is further ordered that said contestor do have and receive of the contestee his costs herein, taxed at——dollars, except the cost made by contestor in filing his 5th specification of cause of action.

An appeal was taken to the circuit court, but it is not believed Arford will care to have his transactions ventilated there.

The Resolutions.

At the meeting the evening of the big parade the following were adopted:

WHEREAS:—It is the privilege, right and duty of all American citizens to meet and express their opinions and judgment upon all matters of general or common concern, wherein they may believe their rights and privileges have been infringed, as well as to approve or condemn the cause and conduct of public officials who are only the servants of the people and not their masters, and to criticize and denounce the action of any and all citizens whose actions and course have become a source of evil disturbance and commotion in a quiet, law-abiding neighborhood:

Resolved:—That it is the firm and universal opinion of the convention of citizens of Auburn that the recent decision of the judge in the case of Penfield against the Church Furniture Co. is erroneous and wrongful in the application of a good and wholesome system of laws to a misconception of the facts in the case, and that the judge and the plaintiffs in the case do not appreciate the fact that the hum and noise of operating machinery and factories are evidences of the thrift and well being of any society, and that some poor men are earning means whereby their families are to be maintained That we deplore that decision which, if applied to all our manufacturing industries, would stop every wheel in them, ruin the great prosperity of our town, drive more than one-half of our citizens from our midst, render useless thousands of dollars invested in well paying manufacturing establishments, bankrupt their owners and proprietors and throw out of employment over one thousand of well paid, happy, contented, good and permanent citizens of our town and community. Also that Judge VanFleet's decision, that we are bound by the laws to submit to for awhile, is not entitled to that respect which should emanate from a high-minded, enlightened, fair and unprejudiced mind upon the facts in the case, and while we do not charge him with any official or corrupt motives, we assert our belief in his incapability and want of capacity to discriminate as to the facts in the case and to know and grasp the questions involved. Also that while we do not wish to drive out any of our citizens, we cannot allow one wheel in our factories to stop its revolutions nor one of our industries to leave our place. We emphatically say to those of our citizens who are so petulant, peevish and cranky as to allow themselves to be annoyed by our growth and prosperity and the noise of our factories, to go, the sooner the better It will be a happy riddance and they will not be missed Also that the Judge who decided that cause has rendered himself obnoxious to the best interests of every manufacturing community and laboring men of every locality, for his apparent sympathy with the plaintiffs.

Lastly: That neither Judge Van Fleet nor Wm. L. Penfield can enjoin us nor restrain us from making noises which are unpleasant to them individually, while the same are unquestionably necessary for our prosperity and welfare of every working man.

AT GOSHEN.

The Goshen Commercial Exchange under date May 2, writes to the Church Furniture Co.

At a meeting of the Goshen Commercial Exchange held this evening the following resolution was unanimously adopted and the secretary of the Exchange instructed to forward the same at once.

Resolved:—That we extend to the Auburn Church Furniture Co. of Auburn, Indiana, our sincere sympathy in the result of their late trial, and extend to them our cordial invitation to come to Goshen, where the blowing of whistles and the busy hum of machinery is sweet music to the ears of over 7,000 people. including the lawyers, who will welcome them with open arms, and has not a crank among the number.

Goshen Commercial Exchange.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of Solomon Shearer, Jackson and Concord townships DeKalb county, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday the 3rd day of June, 1890, the same being the 2d day of their June term, 1890

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to-wit:

Beginning two hundred and fifty (250) feet south of the center of the southwest quarter of section fourteen (14), township thirty three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east, DeKalb county Indiana, and from thence as follows:

No.	Course.	Distance.
1	east	800 feet
2	south 78 degrees east	100 feet
3	north 85 degrees east	400 feet
4	north 68 degrees east	380 feet
5	north 51 degrees east	120 feet
6	north 38 degrees east	500 feet
7	north 81 degrees east	500 feet
8	north 50 degrees east	200 feet
9	north 20 degrees east	425 feet
10	east	1,100 feet
11	south 58 degrees east	275 feet
12	south 70 degrees east	180 feet
13	north 78 degrees east	380 feet
14	north 85 degrees east	210 feet
15	north 48 degrees east	250 feet
16	east	350 feet
17	north 23 degrees west	150 feet
18	north 28 degrees east	200 feet
19	north 51 degrees east	300 feet
20	north 25 degrees east	140 feet
21	north 12 degrees west	380 feet
22	north 68 degrees east	240 feet
23	north 58 degrees east	400 feet
24	south 80 degree east	280 feet
25	east	400 feet
26	south 57 degrees east	100 feet
27	south 75 degrees east	200 feet
28	south 50 degrees east	400 feet
29	south 60 degrees east	400 feet
30	south 70 degrees east	450 feet
31	east	300 feet
32	north 57 degrees east	622 feet

Ending seventy two (72) feet below stake No. 43 of the Daniel Shilling drain No. 517,

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Peter W. Long,
John Strong,
Francis M Hines,
Solomon Shearer,
Daniel Shearer,
Mary Shearer,
The heirs of Abraham Johnson deceased to wit,
Uriah Johnson,
John Johnson,
Mary Rock,
James Johnson,
Zeruiah Hettiger,
Abraham Johnson Jr.,
And the unknown heirs of Nathan Johnson, and perhaps others unkn'n,
William Johnson,
Michael Wagoner,
Rebecca Loutzenhiser,
William Wise,
Daniel Morr,
Frederick Morr,
Daniel Wyatt,
John Wasiler,
Nancy Cobler,
John Hamilton,

C. C. WALTER,
Auditor DeKalb County.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition

In the matter of the petition of Joachim Witt Richland and Union township, DeKalb County, Indiana, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday the 3rd day of June 1890, the same being the second day of their June term, 1890.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route, to-wit:

Beginning ten (10) rods east and six (6) rods north of the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of section thirteen (13), township thirty-four (34) north of range twelve (12) east, DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence as follows:

No.	Course.	Distance.
1	south 70 degrees east	700 feet
2	east	1875 feet
3	east	625 feet

Ending thirty-six (36) feet below stake forty-two (42) of the Henry Korff drain, No. 464, of DeKalb county, Indiana, said ending being in the west half (½) of the northwest quarter of section nineteen (19) township thirty four (34), north of range thirteen (13) DeKalb county, Indiana.

The proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Joachim Witt,
Martha J. Sheffer,
David S. Ober and
Harriet D. Ober,
Martha McKay,
Joseph McKay,
Groscop heirs—whose names are Mary Groscop, William Groscop, Charles Groscop, Lena Reisch, Frank Groscop, Frederick Groscop Jr., Sopha Hebel, John Groscop, Herman Groscop, Emma Groscop, and perhaps others unknown.

C. C. WALTER,
Auditor DeKalb County

JUST ARRIVEN!

The anxiously awaited pleasant weather.

You Can Now Take That Trip,

——FOR——

PLEASURE OR HEALTH,

As you may desire to term it. A good SUBSTANTIAL Trunk and Valise being necessary adjuncts I will call your attention to our

THE FAMOUS
COMMON SENSE
SOLE AGENT

COMMON SENSE TRUNKS

AND

Grain Leather Valises,

And anything necessary to make you comfortable, and feel that you are well dressed, you can always find at

The Famous,

NORTH SIDE COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, IND.

CHAMPION BINDERS MOWERS

ARE THE BEST AND SO WARRANTED.

SAMPLES AT ONE OR MORE AGENCIES IN EVERY COUNTY. FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ADDRESS

THE WARDER, BUSHNELL & GLESSNER COMPANY,

CHICAGO, ILL.——SOLE MANUFACTURERS.——SPRINGFIELD, O.

The Seal of Popularity

AND

ATTRACTIVENESS

Has been placed upon our

Spring and Summer Stock.

Great in Assortment

AND

UNAPPROACHABLE

In price and quality.

Everything you want in the line of Boots and Shoes,

Waiting For You At

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

Hon. W. H. Dills, who will ask the nomination for representative in the state legislature, is a man of unquestioned ability and experience. He has been all his life, an active worker for the cause of democracy, though he has never been elected to an office if we except that of presidential elector in 1884. He has had large experience in all lines of legal business, has a wide acquaintance and his fitness for the place will be conceded by all.

Notice of Bridge Letting.

The Commissioners of DeKalb county, Indiana, will receive sealed proposals for building the following named bridges, said lettings to be made on the sites of the several bridges, with the privilege to reject any or all bids, on the following dates: May 20, 1890, at 10 a. m. a bridge across Big Run on the Stafford and Wilmington township line southeast of Butler, Ind., and known as the Reed bridge. The Gaff bridge near Big Run church in Stafford township, at 2 p. m. May 20. The Gaskell bridge in Troy township, May 21, at 9 a. m. The Goodwin bridge in the south part of Smithfield township, at 3 p. m. May 21, 1890. The Beard bridge in the south part of Smithfield township, at 5 p. m. May 21, 1890. The Washington Frick bridge south of Waterloo, May 22, 1890 at 10 a. m. The Morning Star bridge northeast of Auburn, May 22, at 3 p. m. All of said bridges will be 14 feet roadway and the following lengths: Morning Star, 100 feet; Beard, 50 feet; Goodwin, 50 feet; Gaskell, 75 feet; Gaff, 55 feet; Frick, 75 feet; and the Reed bridge on Stafford line, 44 feet.

G. I. PATTERSON,
Pres. Board.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein H. S. Maring administrator of the estate of Daniel Adams deceased, is plaintiff, and Ensign B. Rose, Catharine J. Rose, Lewis Moore and Edward W. Fosdick are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three thousand six hundred and forty three dollars and twenty-seven cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, May 24, 1890.

Between the hours of 10 o'clock, a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north half of the northwest quarter of section thirty (30) in township thirty-five (35) north of range fifteen (15) east containing eighty acres more or less, in DeKalb county, state of Indiana. The said property has been appraised and will not be sold for less than two thirds its appraised value.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.

F. D. Gunsaullus Att'y for Plaintiff.

Auburn, Ind., May 1, 1890.

Notice to Contractors.

I will let to the lowest responsible bidder the contract for cutting a road through the timber part of Alexander Culbertson's place north of the B. & O. railroad in Jackson township. Sealed bids will be received at my office in said township, up to 10 o'clock a. m. of Saturday, May 17, 1890. I reserve the right to reject any and all bids. Plans, etc., made known on day of sale. Sale to take place at site of road.

A. J SHUTT,
Trustee of Jackson township.

April 28, 1890. [illegible]

We Have Got Them!

THE BEST and CHEAPEST

SUMMER CORSET

FOR 50 CENTS.

Do not fail to see them.

New Millinery

—FOR THE—

Summer -:- Season.

—LARGE LINE—

Smith & Angell

Fast Black Hosiery.

(Every pair fully warranted.)

OPENED NEW THIS WEEK.

CARPETS! CARPETS!!

LACE CURTAINS…SCRIMS.

Excellent Selection at Low Prices.

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

New Millinery!

—AT—

Cowan Sisters.

Mrs. Leas has been east and just returned yesterday with an additional stock of the latest and finest goods. She attended the last spring opening and got the latest

FASHIONS,

IDEAS and

NOVELTIES.

LADIES,

who have not bought already, are kindly invited to see our new goods.

AUBURN SANITARY Baths.

HOT, COLD AND MEDICATED WATERS.

STEAM, TURKISH, CABINET AND ELECTRIC BATHS.

The MASSAGE Treatment given when desired.

PEOPLE are realizing the true value derived at the Sanitarium at Auburn, and many are availing themselves of this opportunity, and are coming here for treatment, where they enjoy the best of attention from skillfull and practical attendants. Good board and furnished rooms near by can be had at reasonable rates.

Drs. D. J. & Vesta M. Swarts

PROPRIETORS.

LOCAL NEWS.

Soda water. Robbins & McCord's.

Go to G. W. McKay & Co., for wall paper.

Buy fruit trees and plants of C. P. Houser.

Try the new soda fountain. Robbins & McCord's. 17 19

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

All leading varieties of raspberry and strawberry plants for sale at C. P. Houser's. tf

LOST OR LOANED: A scrap book, containing selections and scraps of value to the owner. The borrower or finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protrupiles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's. tf

MERIT WINS. We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits.
Robbins & McCord, Druggists. 1

100,000 Pounds of Wool Wanted at the Auburn Woolen Mills.

Found Guilty!

THE FIRM OF SCHAAB & MURPHY

Have Been Found Guilty

—OF DOING THE—

Largest Clothing Business

IN AUBURN, IND.,

Simply because they make it so warm for their competitors that they cannot compete with their prices and styles. There is no use talking, but that their

Prices, Styles and Quality

Will win where competition cannot possibly survive. People who have seen their beautiful display of

Spring and Summer Suits

Within the past month, will attest the fact that no other Clothing House in the city can duplicate the line of styles and quality they are offering.

Their Children's Suits

Are the envy of all dealers in taste, style and fabric. They are world beaters in this line, having inside facilities to give you styles and prices. See their

NOBBY SPRING HATS

In all the fashionable colors, for less money than they can be purchased for anywhere else. Everybody is invited to call and see goods and get prices at

SCHAAB & MURPHY'S,

West of Courthouse,

AUBURN, IND.

See notice to contractors.

Schaab & Murphy buy wool.

Good house to rent. Call at this office.

Soda water, pure and cold. Robbins & McCord's. 17 19

Look at the big ad. of Wilson the boot and shoe man.

Ex-Commissioner Nelson Griffith, was in town Friday.

Big melon crop in Georgia, and will be ripe earlier than usual.

We want to buy 200,000 pounds of wool, Schaab & Murphy.

Currant, Gooseberry and Grape plants, best varieties at Houser's. tf

Big sale of lots in the gas addition on Saturday, May 17, at 1 p. m.

Wool! Wool!! Farmers, we want your wool. Schaab & Murphy.

Everything in the fruit tree line at C. P. Houser's. Prices reasonable.

The Grand Rapids road is making extensive improvements on the dam at Rome City.

Electric lights for headlights on locomotives are being tried now on the Michigan Central road.

Wm. Little has established a feed barn on South Cedar street, about a block south of the public square.

FOR SALE: A vacant lot on one of the principal streets in Auburn. Enquire of E. L. Casebeer. 17 19

Farmers will be interested to know that Schaab & Murphy will buy their wool and pay them the highest market price.

Wm Little's feed barn and feed yard one block south of the engine house, or south of jail. Your horses will be well cared for. Try him. tf

Mrs. R. Timmerman wishes to announce that she is now prepared to receive boarders at Mrs. Mott's house on North Cedar street, Auburn. 18 20

Geary's big show here May 14. See his advertisment. A large assortment of curiosities, including Big Eliza, the largest woman in the world.

Hall's Hair Renewer eradicates and prevents the formation of dandruff, thickens the growth, and beautifies the hair as no other preparation will.

Baby carriages a fine stock and cheap as you can find anywhere in the state, in Ft. Wayne or anywhere else. Call and see them at Robbins & McCord's. 18 20

Supt. Glazier at the County Home has under his charge a number of children, who can be adopted by anyone who desires to do so. Call on him and take your pick.

For full information about HARVEST EXCURSIONS April 22, May 20, September 9 and 23, and October 14, 1890, call on or address, Rickel & Sprott, Immigration Agents, Auburn' Ind. tf

Dr. Breeding, of Glasgow, Ky., says: "My chickens are thriftier, healthier, finer, larger, and have beautiful plumage since I began using Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure."

WANTED: To trade heavy low wheeled wagon and set of heavy harness, for a buggy. Also good heavy horse for light roadster. Come quick if you have anything to trade. T. H. Sprott. 3t

Anyone wishing to subscribe for the Daily Plain Dealer can do so by seeing Phillie Gibson. Every democrat should take it; 20 cents per week or 25 cents with large Sunday edition.
Phillie Gibson, Agent

How's your liver, your stomach, and bowels this spring?" all out of "whack," do you want to brace up and feel as though you were some good? Then take Loose's Extract of Red Clover and see how quick you'll get there. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Miss Kate Woodbull of Angola, expects to have a class in instrumental music here soon. She is a highly accomplished teacher, and those who wish to secure the services of a first-class teacher would do well to wait and see her.

Go to Little's feed barn south of the public square one block, to get your team cared for when in town. Only 10 cents to have your team in a comfortable place and well cared for. Mr. Little is an experienced and careful hand. Give him a trial.

No one should do without J. D. McAnally's fruit sprayer. It is cheap and durable. There are more worms and stingers than usual this spring, on account of the warm winter. He gives you a never-failing recipe, and a sprayer made of brass, for $2. With brass nozzle, $3. Call on him at Waterloo.

Miss Sadie Bartlett at St. Joe has just returned from the City where she has learned all the newest styles in millinery and trimming. She has the nicest line of goods she ever had. All the latest novelties in ladies' and children's hats, flowers, laces, ribbons, fancy and piece goods. Call on her at St. Joe. It will pay you. 18 20

D A. Garwood has lately made a valuable addition to his law library, in the shape of a complete set of the acts of the legislature of Indiana since 1837. We believe there is no other complete set of these works here. It is interesting to look over them, and see on what a small scale everything was at those early dates. There is the bill creating the county of DeKalb and naming the persons who were directed to "meet at the house of Wm. Parks" to locate a county seat. Then there are the DeKalb county statistics for 1839 as follows:

No. of acres assessed, 40; value of land and improvements, $250; value of personal property, $10,280, total, $10,570. Total tax on property and polls, $151.53. Total value of all taxables, $9,702. Increase in taxables since 1838, $868. No. of polls in 1838, 212; in 1839, 240; increase in one year 28.

John Cool, of Hudson, visited his old home here last week.

Have you seen Robbins & McCord's elegant soda fountain? 17 19

Mrs. Emma Lavey, of North Manchester, was here over Sunday.

Best paint on the market at G. W. McKay & Co., for $1.25 a gallon.

Rollie Tefft and wife, came home Saturday for a visit with his parents.

Hugh Culbertson's new residence on North Main street is going up rapidly.

All that are thirsty come drink at Robbins & McCord's new soda fountain.

P. D. Childs, of Fairfield, was here this week shaking hands with his friends.

Don't buy your wall paper until you have seen the stock at G. W. McKay & Co's.

Prices talk. Wall paper from 10c per roll to $1.00. Window shades 30c. to $1.50.

Ab. Kelley and family, of Waterloo, were driving on our streets Sunday afternoon.

Lawrence and Kruger will soon have the brick work on the Kiblinger factory completed.

Joseph Ashley of Avilla, was in town last week, greeting his former neighbors and friends.

Misses May Boots, Blanche Long and their escorts of Butler, drove around our city Sunday.

If you are a lover of delicious soda water go to Robbins & McCord's new soda fountain. 17 19

Call and examine our stock of paper, paint and shades and you will be pleased. G. W. McKay & Co.

Auburn Woolen Mills solicit all kinds of custom work. Farmers, don't forget this. We want your work. tf

Mrs. Anna Harris, of Chicago, was here this week visiting her brother, Joe. Rainier, and sister, Mrs. Wm. Sheffer.

The sixth annual commencement of the Tri State Normal College, at Angola, Ind., will be held Thursday May 15, 1890.

The lumber came Friday for the new buildings on the fair ground, and Saturday several teams were busy hauling it over there.

Rheumatism is caused by an acid in the blood; therefore, external treatment affords no permanent relief. To eliminate the poison and make a thorough cure of the disease, nothing else is so efficient as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Give it a trial. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

There are very desirable lots yet to be sold in the Gas Addition east of Ninth street bridge. They will be sold to the highest bidder, on Saturday, May 17, at 1 o'clock. There will be music by the band, and good bargains. Everyone should embrace this chance to get a lot for a home at a reasonable price. See posters and the supplement to the COURIER.

"Be sure you're right." The policy of the manufacturers of the Champion is to find out the kind of Binder and Mower best adapted to the wants of the farmer, make those machines well and of first-class material, and thus retain the patronage of each customer. It costs more to make machines in this way, but the demand is increased and farmers and manufacturers are both benefited.

Henry Emme, who now owns the old Altenburg farm, was in Saturday, and ordered the COURIER sent to him this year. Though born in Germany, he lived some years in London, England, and with his residence in this country has gained a fair knowledge of our language. He knows the value of a newspaper in acquiring a more perfect knowledge of English.

On Thursday afternoon, May 1, Capt. Rowland, of this place, together with his staff of officers, drove over to Waterloo, where everything was arranged for the institution of what will be known as "R. A. Stevens Camp No. 221, S of V." Brothers were present from Butler, Hamilton and Kendallville, making a very nice company to begin work with. Installing officer Rowland called the meeting to order at 7:30 and began work at once. This camp starts out upon a very promising voyage with a membership of 20, whose interest in the order is very high. Truly, they seem to realize the full importance of the position they occupy, and the connection the order has with this nation. Captain Wilson can congratulate himself upon the good taste he has displayed in selecting his staff. This is the third camp of S. of V's. that Samuel Ford camp has instituted in the past year and a half. The hospitalty of Waterloo people will live in the memory of the visiting Sons for years to come.

A surprise awaited our people Saturday morning. On coming up town they saw for the first time, the beautiful iron arch that is to connect the two Kiblinger buildings spanning Eight street. Work had been commenced on it before daylight, and by seven o'clock, the frame of the entire structure was up. That day saw the stringers or bed pieces put in position the iron work painted, and the planking prepared to be laid on. The finishing strokes were made this week. The structure looks quite city-like. It is sixteen feet, seven inches high at the highest point, measuring from the ground to the under side of the structure. It is of iron, with iron bed, iron trestle work, and iron braces. Of course, the floor is of plank. The iron trestle work and bed pieces are painted in red, white and blue, giving it a very tasty appearance. Mr. Wheelock is the contractor, and the iron work was done at the Auburn Foundry and Machine Works. The structure reflects great credit on all concerned and especially shows the push and enterprise of Mr. Kiblinger. As has already been explained, it is to be used to connect the two parts of his factory and over it can be passed buggies and such other things as may be needed.

Otmar Baxter of Butler, was in town a few days attending the trial.

We are under obligations to Attorney Gengler of Garrett, for favors this week.

Big lot of evergreens just received by George McCord. Will be sold cheap. Call on him.

We had quite a variety of weather this week. Monday, rain, Tuesday, snow and Wednesday clear and frosty.

Frank Tucker Comedy Co., at the Opera House next Tuesday evening. They were extra good when here before.

G. B. McCord has just got on a large quantity of the finest evergreen trees ever seen here, and will sell them cheap.

MARRIED: At the residence of and by W. L. Meese, Auburn, May 1, 1890, Mathias Otto, and Susan H. Cool, both of Auburn.

There will be a meeting of the board of Directors of the Wabash extension at Albion, this afternoon, (Thursday) at 2 o'clock p. m.

MARRIED: At the residence of and by W. L. Meese, in Auburn, April 27, 1890, Wesley Hines and Olive Tarney, both of Jackson township.

The Nickel Social of the M. E. church will be entertained by Mrs. M. Boland next Friday afternoon. A very cordial invitation is extended to all.

MARRIED: At the residence of the bride's parents, in Auburn, April 6, 1890, by Rev. W. L. Meese, August Bahlke, and Jennie M. Maurer, both of Auburn.

W. J. Huber, the Warsaw piano dealer was up here last Saturday on a flying visit. We can recommend Mr. H. to our Kosciusko friends as a man given to fair dealing.

A new postoffice has been established by our economical national government, just one mile from Collingwood, a postoffice that fully supplies all demands of the people.

Samuel McEntarfer, of Russell, Kansas, is the latest of the DeKalb boys in foreign lands, to send in his name and cash for the old home paper, the COURIER. Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Kibbe have gone to Carlisle, St. Joe county, this state. Mrs. Kibbe's sister, formerly Laura Tomlinson, resides there also. The COURIER wishes them all success.

The Frank Tucker Company was here about a year ago, and our people will remember the splendid entertainment they gave us. They will be at the Opera House again next Tuesday, May 13.

Samuel Lige, sr. was here yesterday and reported that there would be two old-fashoned raisings in Jackson this week. A barn will be raised by James Freeman to-day, and one by Henry Myers to morrow, Friday.

Mamma (to her little boy). "Now, Bennie, if you'll be good and go to sleep, mamma'll give you one of Dr. Ayer's nice sugar-coated Cathartic Pills, next time you need medicine." Bennie, smiling sweetly, dropped off to sleep at once.

Miss Edith Trentman celebrated her birthday last Saturday by a visit to the woods in company with Flora Bachtel, Samme Ralston, Myrtle Dills and Nellie Barns. They met with numerous adventures and came home laden with flowers and fish?

The W. R. C. will have a nickel social at the home of Mrs. Flora Myers two doors west of Mrs. Pearse's in McIntyre addition, next Thursday, May 15, from 2 till 5 p. m. Bring your thimbles. Every body cordially invited.
Alice Stafford, Sec.

The Helen Blythe Company at the Opera House Monday and Tuesday evenings gave unusually good entertainments, but had poor houses. The management are doing their best to secure good talent, and this should be remembered.

The Young People of the Lutheran church will give a clothespin social in the lecture room of the church Friday evening of this week, April 9. Supper 10 cents. Ice cream and cake 10 cents. Everybody come and get a good supper for 10 cents.

The democratic candidates who were defeated here Monday, may lay it chiefly to the unsought, but poisonous friendship of the disreputable Garrett Clipper. That vile sheet last week announced that the new candidates were in accord with its fight against our electric lights, fire department and other improvements. This was a lie of course, but it was impossible to combat its bad influence. The defeated men were not to blame for the Clipper's volunteer friendship but it set Auburn people against them. They were at least as good as the men who got the places, and would have done right by the town's interests. Their defeat is to be deeply regretted.

The literary excercises at the High School last Friday were very entertaining. Among them were three essays entitled "Looking Backward," "Looking" and "Looking Forward," delivered by Wilson Feagler, Walter Hartman and Gertie Wilson. Wilson dwelt upon the past with all its glories of conquest. Walter upon the present, bringing forth many things which are being presented to the world in the way of inventions. Gertie's was interesting and unique. She said "that people would in the year 2,600 wear electric wheels on their shoes and when you wanted to stop all you had to do was to press a brass button. And people would go flying through the air in flying machines which far exceed that of Darius Green. That the earth would stand perfectly still and the school children would read with wonder that the earth formerly revolved and that a certain Prof. Ira T. Green had lectured to the scholars of the high school in 1890, saying, "that the time would come when the earth would stand perfectly still." There were other essays, recitation and singing, making the afternoon a pleasant, social time.

We are again obliged to leave out items owing this time to the long. Stafford article.

The Wabash road will sell half fare tickets to the German Baptist Meeting to be at North Manchester, Ind., and Pertle Springs, Mo., May 22, to 30.

Ira Sunday, of Pleasant Lake, was in town yesterday. He is a typewriter and understands short hand, and was looking among our factories for a position. He seems like a worthy young man.

Thos. Cadwallager, a young man of this place, who has been braking on the B. & O. for some time, got his ankle severely sprained a few days ago by jumping from his train to open a switch near Chicago. The injured member is quite sore, and perhaps will take some time to heal.

W. L. Meese is still meeting with great success in the sale of his Favorite Washer. One day last week he sold four machines, all of which were bought without trial, two in Auburn, one in Garrett and one in Grant township. People are beginning to know the merits of this labor-saving machine.

The celebrated horsemen, Government Scout, Indian Interpreter Eagle Eye, with Geary's World's Museum will give a free exhibition of skilled horsemanship. Anyone having young horses to break, Eagle Eye will handle them free of charge. Saddle rolling, side riding, lasso throwing, polo practice, etc.

It was a queer look that our shade trees put on when the leaves began to show up last week. They had started out in the warm winter, but had stopped and the buds had dried. Then the hard storms lately knocked off these dead buds, and now the newly formed ones. put out leaves that looked a little sickly and scattering. It was not like the healthy dark green they usually show when coming into leaf. But they are coming out all right.

A crowded house greeted Frank Tucker's Metropolitan Theater Company on Saturday evening when the curtain went up on the first act of "Miss Multon." The play was rendered in an intelligent and artistic manner by the entire company. Frank Tucker as Mons De Latour, Miss Nellie Thompson as 'Miss Multon" and little Essie Thomson as Jane, deserving especial mention. Frank and his company are favorites in this city, and are always sure of good houses which he deserves.—Daily Call, Greenville, Mich., April 21.

C. J. Porter, the Waterloo optician, will be in Auburn the first Tuesday in each month, to meet all who desire his service in fitting defective eyes with the proper glasses, and for all work in his line. Long experience should be valuable in this case above all others. The eyes should not be trifled with. An eye once lost can never be restored and great care should be taken to preserve them. Mr. Porter stands at the head of his profession in this special department. Don't trust your eyes to inexperenced or careless men, but call on him when here and get glasses such as you need. Don't forget the dates, the first Tuesday of each month.

Dr. James Adams the veterinary surgeon is getting quite a reputation in his line. People have heretofore believed that a horse or other large animal could not be saved if a leg was broken. But the Doctor has put all such ideas to flight. Last December, a horse belonging to Ed. Mitchell broke its leg. Dr. Adams was called and set the broken member, assuring Mr. Mitchell that it would in time be all right. In seven weeks the horse was taken out for exercise, and is to-day as good an animal as ever, and perfectly sound. Tuesday morning, H. C. Shull had a cow break her leg, and the Doctor set it. She is getting along finely, and will soon be sound again.

Another Fatal Railroad Accident.

Last Friday, G. W. Ragan who buys timber for the band sawmill, was walking on the B. & O. track near Hicksville, when hearing a train coming behind him, he stepped aside to let it go by. As the last car passed him he stepped back on the track again, only to be struck by a car behind him. It appears that the train had broken in two, and that what he had thought was the end of the train, was merely the last car of the first half of the train, and the second half was what caught him. Some of the train men, as well as others, saw him struck, or it would never have been exactly understood, how he came by his death. He was brought home to his stricken family, and on Sunday the funeral was held at the Lutheran church here, under the auspices of the G. A. R. of which he was a member.

G. W. Ragan was born March 12, 1840, died May 2, 1890, at the age of 50 years, 1 month and 20 days. He leaves a wife and six children, two boys and four girls, to mourn his untimely death. He was married to Miss Humility J. Wilson, of Perry township, Noble Co. Ind., May 2, 1867. He was always a kind hearted man, who cared well for his family. The family have lost a good father and a kind husband.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:
In the DeKalb circuit court, May term, 1890, Fredreick J. Lieberenz and Catharine Lieberenz are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, on foreclosure of mortgage, by the Real Estate and Improvement Company of Baltimore City, and that the same will be heard and determined on the third juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 19, 1890.
Witness, the clerk of said court, this 2nd day of May, 1890. George A. Bishop, Clerk.
James E. Rose Attorney 19-21

County Convention.

By order of the Democratic Central Committee of DeKalb County Indiana, notice is hereby given that the County Convention of the Democratic party of such County, will be held at Auburn on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

At 10 o'clock a. m. to place in nomination, the candidates to be voted for at the general election to be held on November 4, 1890. The officers to be elected at such election, are:

A Representative.
A Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court.
A County Auditor.
A Sheriff.
A Treasurer.
A Recorder.
A Surveyor.
A Coroner.
A Commissioner for the Southwest district.
A Commissioner for the Southeast district.

The basis of representation to such convention is one delegate for every ten (10) votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State in 1888, in each precinct, and one delegate for a fraction of five (5) or more votes given such Secretary of State, therein. The votes given for such Secretary of State in 1888, and delegates to the County Convention from each election precinct in DeKalb County, are as follows:

ELECTION PRECINCTS.	SEC'Y OF STATE VOTE.	NO. OF DELE'S.
Butler	113	11
Jackson	214	21
Concord South	120	12
Concord North	130	13
Newville	75	8
Stafford	73	7
Wilmington South	173	17
Wilmington North	216	22
Auburn South	246	25
Auburn North	196	20
Waterloo East	164	16
Waterloo West	81	8
Richland	202	20
Fairfield	238	24
Smithfield	170	17
Franklin	144	14
Troy	56	6
Keyser East	271	27
Keyser West	263	26
Total		314
Necessary to a choice		158

It was also ordered that caucuses for the purpose of selecting such delegates, will be held in each election precinct in the county (except the precincts in Union, Grant Wilmington and Keyser townships) at the usual place of holding elections, on Saturday May 24, 1890, at one (1) o'clock in the afternoon, and in the precincts in the townships of Union, Grant, Wilimgton and Keyser on the same day at 7½ o'clock in the evening. Provided that a different hour of such day may be named by the Central committeeman of any precinct of which due notice shall be given, by such committeeman.

At the same time and place of holding such caucuses, there will also be selected one delegate from each precinct for each of the following conventions, viz. The State Convention, the Congressional Convention, the Judicial Convention and the Joint Representative Convention. But the voting power of such delegate to such last named conventions is to be determined by such conventions respectively.

ALFRED KELLEY, Chairman,
Dem. Co. Cent. Com.

New Election Precincts.

The commissioners in order to find the wishes of the people as to how best to form the new precincts required by law will be in Auburn four days, to meet the trustees and committeemen of the several townships to be divided. May 13, they will call in the committeemen and trustees of Jackson, Concord and Richland; May 14, those of Keyser, Fairfield and Smithfield; May 15, Wilmington and Franklin; May 16, Union and Grant. The final work will be finished at the June session.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Isaac N. Askew deceased, late of said county.
Said estate is supposed to be solvent.
REBECCA H. ASKEW, administratrix.
April 12th, 1890. 4t

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned have been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the last will of Abraham Buss deceased, late of said county.
Said estate is supposed to be solvent.
FRANK D. BUSS,
LAFAYETTE B. BUSS,
Executors.
April 21, 1890.

REFORMED CHURCH.

May 11, German service, 10:30 a. m.

SUBJECT OF SERMON.

"The doers of the Word and their blessings."

Text, James, 1 22-27.

Come and take encouragements home to your work.

B. RUF.

Ornamental Trees.

I have just received a large stock of first-class evergreen trees viz: Norway, Spruce, White Cedar, Balsam, Fir and Hemlock, which I am closing out very cheap. Call and see them.
G. S. McCord,
Auburn, Ind. 3t

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of said town, intends to apply to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their next regular session, to be begun on Monday, the 2d day of June, A. D. 1890, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following described premises situate in said town of Auburn, to-wit: The one-story brick building located on the west end of lot numbered sixty-five (65) in the original plat of said town; said part of said lot being thirteen and one-half (13½) feet wide east and west, by fifty-six (56) feet in length north and south and located in the southwest corner thereof. Dated this 5th day of May, 1890.
SAMUEL REVIER.

Christian Endeavor.

A district convention of the Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor will be held in the First Presbyterian church of Fort Wayne, on Tuesday, May 13, afternoon and evening. Delegates from societies in Lagrange, Steuben, Noble DeKalb, Whitley, Allen, Huntington, Wells, Adams, Blackford and Jay counties will be in attendance. Names of delegates should be sent immediately to Miss Lida Lowry, 90. West Berry street, Ft. Wayne.

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety, comfort, equipment, track, and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 19 24

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

It is said that the Georgia Railroad is the only road of its size in the world that has never killed a passenger and never had a mortgage on it.

No city in Europe is increasing so rapidly in population as old Rome. Land speculators there are saying that it will again be the great city of the world.

Fishermen say that Rush Lake, in Montmorency County, Mich., has been overstocked with whitefish by the Fish Commission, and that they are starving to death by scores.

All of the bank note currency of the Italian Government is engraved and printed in the United States. The notes are neat, but small, resembling somewhat the fractional notes issued in war times.

Thomas Seymour Denton has invented the word "manuprint," verb, adjective, and noun, for work done with the type-writer. It is at once more accurate and suggestive than "manuscript" for such work.

The widow of the Crown Prince Rudolph, of Austria, will shortly make her first appearance as an authoress, for she is at present busily engaged in preparing a selection from the journals of her travels for publication.

In different ports of the world, under the auspices of sixteen different societies, there are twenty-seven vessels engaged in missionary work. Six of these are employed in the Pacific Ocean and sixteen of them along the coast or on the rivers of Africa.

The rush to the gold fields in the Transvaal region has been unprecedented in history. In three years £150,000,000 of English money have been invested there. Cities have sprung up where in 1868 only grass could be found and no habitation.

Barney McGuire, aged 85, who has been in prison thirty-five years of his life, pleaded guilty, in Rochester, to larceny, saying he had no home or friends, and wanted to go to prison for life. The judge gave the old man a fourteen-months' sentence to Auburn.

In the larger cities of Northern Italy co-operative societies have recently started stores and dwellings for the benefit of working people, and they are meeting with extraordinary success. The stores give good stuff at cost, and the dwellings, though small and extremely cheap, are yet very comfortable, and supplied with modern conveniences, yards and flowers in profusion.

Justice Lamar, who never accepts a pass or present of any kind, tells of himself this one: "Down in the locality I call my home lives old John Dillard. Some years ago John presented me with a very fine Alderney cow. I said: 'John, I never receive presents.' 'Well,' he replied, 'Lamar, just give me your note, and, as you will never pay it anyway, you will be nothing out and a cow ahead.'"

"I was six years old," said Leland Stanford, "but I can remember it well. Two of my brothers and myself gathered a load of horseradish in the garden, washed it clean—I think they made me do most of the scrubbing, for I was the youngest—took it to Schenectady and sold it. We received six York shillings for the lot, and of that I received two shillings. I felt very proud of that money, you may be sure."

The Colorado Mineral Palace, now being erected at Pueblo, Colo., is to be used for a permanent exhibition, open every day all the year round. A large quantity of material is now on hand, and a great deal arriving daily. It is the intention of the gentlemen having the enterprise in hand to exhibit the display at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1892, either as a whole or by selections of the finest specimens of each department.

James Sparks, of Dahlonega, Ga., the ditch-walker on the lower section of the hand-ditch, has been walking this line daily for eleven years, a distance of sixteen miles. At this rate he has walked 416 miles per month, 4,992 miles per year, or a total of 54,912 miles, or nearly two and one-half times the distance around the world. Mr. Sparks is now some seventy-odd years old, and is still apparently as active as a young man.

An impressive incident occurred during a recent sermon in Atlanta. The preacher was eloquent and earnest, and the audience were listening in rapt attention. Suddenly an awful peal of thunder smote upon all ears, and for a moment it looked as if a panic was imminent. But in an instant the minister closed the book and said: "When God speaks, man should be silent!" and the congregation was immediately calmed.

A Danish expedition to Greenland will start next summer, intending to spend two years in the arctic regions. The expedition is to consist of nine members, under Navy Lieutenant Ryder, provided with three strong boats and numerous sledges and dogs. During the summers they will explore the region between 66 degrees and 73 degrees north, and in the winters they will push into the interior on sledges, while they finally hope to get down to the east coast and meet a steamer to bring them home.

Prince Victor Napoleon has just come into possession of a number of interesting relics of the first Napoleon. They comprise the red velvet robe which the First Consul wore on great occasions, notably during the "Te Deum" sung at Notre Dame in honor of the concordat; the saddle and holster used by the Emperor at Austerlitz; the cashmere girdle worn by Napoleon at the battle of the Pyramids; a cane chair from St. Helena; the cup, tea-pot, saucer and candlestick used in the bed-chamber of the dying exile, as well as the sheet and pillow of his death-bed; the handkerchief he used in his last moments to wipe his face, and the case of mathematical instruments he always carried.

The President of the Republic of Mexico has promulgated a decree, through the Minister of Justice and Education, providing the necessary regulations for a normal school for women teachers in the City of Mexico. The course of instruction will extend over four years, and the plan of study is very thorough. Eighty of the pupils may receive from the Government a sufficient allowance for their maintenance, in addition to the free instruction for all, as a reward for application and talent. Those receiving this special aid will be obliged by contract to teach for three years in the Federal district, or in the Territories of Leipic or in Lower California.

The boundary line between the United States and Canada is not "imaginary," as most people suppose. The fact is the line is distinctly marked from Lake Michigan to Alaska by cairns, iron pillars, earth mounds, and timber clearings. There are 385 of these marks between the Lake of the Woods and the base of the Rocky Mountains. The British placed one post every two miles, and the United States one between each British post. The posts are of cast-iron, and cast on their faces are the words "Convention of London, Oct. 20, 1818." Where the line crosses lakes, mountains of stones have been built projecting eight feet above high-water mark. In forests the line is defined by felling trees for a space a rod wide.

An earthquake-proof church has just been constructed at Manilla, one of the Philippine Islands. It is built of iron, and when finished will be painted in imitation of stone, and will present an external appearance similar to that of many of the beautiful stone cathedrals of Europe and America. The entire framework is of wrought iron bolted together in the firmest manner possible, the fluted columns and buttresses being hollow. The walls are of double plate iron, with a space of thirty inches between the plates. The decorative work, which is quite elaborate, is of cast iron. The total weight of iron in the building is sixteen hundred tons, or about one-fourth of the weight of material in the Eiffel Tower. The total cost of the church will be three hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

One of the saddest things in modern literature is the recent quarrel between Messrs. Erckmann and Chatrian, the French novelists, who, together, have written some of the choicest works in the whole realm of fiction. So close had been their affiliation and so remarkable the resemblance in their style that for years it was believed that Erckmann-Chatrian was one man. For years they labored together, and were as congenial as brothers. Every one, almost, has read "Waterloo," "Madame Therese," and their other works full of pathos and patriotism. Few authors have had such a wide circulation for their books, and in their declining years it was expected that they would walk hand in hand. But jealousy has come between them. Each thinks the credit for their success belongs to himself, and now they are bitter enemies. Literature will know them no more, as it is not likely that either alone can produce anything like their joint works.

Positions in Church Choirs.

I wish I might say that the one great requirement for obtaining a position in a city choir, is a voice. But, unfortunately, I cannot. Influence, youth, a pretty or intelligent face, taste in dress, and a good address will each and all have their value in this, as in other pursuits and professions. All of the latter, however, are of only the slightest importance in comparison with the power wielded by the first of them—influence. In different cities its powers are differently limited; while, on the one hand, in some it is of almost no value at all, in others it is of equal, and sometimes even of greater importance than the voice itself—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Cherokee "Strip."

She was from Boston; he was from St. Joseph.

"You have traveled a great deal in the West, have you not, Miss Beacon?"

"Oh, yes, indeed. In California and Arizona and even New Mexico."

"Have you ever seen the Cherokee Strip?"

There was a painful silence, but finally she looked over her glasses at him and said:

"In the first place, sir, I deem your question extremely rude, and in the second place you might have been more refined in your language by asking me if I had ever seen the Cherokee disrobe."

How soon forbearance ceases to be a virtue when the forbearance is for the faults of those we dislike.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS.

WHY THEY HOPE TO CARRY THE STATE THIS FALL.

Republican Revolt Against the Tariff—Disintegration in the Ranks of the Party of Protection—Thousands of Voting Farmers Organized—Illinois' Election Landslides.

[From the Chicago Daily News, Ind. Rep.]

Illinois Democrats are breathing an atmosphere of great confidence. They believe they can carry the State and elect a State Treasurer and a State Superintendent of Public Instruction. These hopes are based on what they consider tangible evidences of Democratic reinvigoration and Republican demoralization. To carry Illinois in an off year would not be extraordinary. Henry Raab, a Democrat, was elected Superintendent of Public Instruction in 1882, and Orendorff was defeated for Treasurer by only about 5,000 votes.

REPUBLICANS ARE UNHAPPY.

Republicans do not deny that their party is honeycombed with dissatisfaction that in many portions of the State amounts to disintegration. This is due in some degree to dissatisfaction with President Harrison. His administration has not pleased the bread-winners—the men who produce the results at elections. They do not say he is a bad President. They simply complain that he is a poor party leader. There is no blood in the party, no enthusiasm. In addition, there is a wide-spread discontent among the farmers. Farm products are below the cost of production. Agricultural prosperity is dwindling. The situation is much the same as it was in the pinching times of the early '70s, when the grange and greenback movements were seized upon as a solution of hard times. Added to this is the growth of trusts, the compact organization of monopolies, the steadily rising and baleful domination of the manufacturing, commercial, and financial elements of the country. The farmers feel the pressure due to a want of prosperity, and in their endeavors to free themselves are disposed to strike at the powers that be.

DEMANDS FOR TARIFF REFORM.

During the last year over one hundred tariff-reform clubs have been organized in the State. These embrace both Republicans and Democrats. They are nonpartisan. A distinct and determined effort has been made by the organizers of these clubs to keep them out of politics and to keep politics out of them. This is so pronounced that but little information concerning them is obtainable for use in treating of the political situation. It is reliably asserted that these clubs now embrace at least thirty thousand members. These members are all posted on tariff-reform matters. They are aggressive and always ready to point out how the existing depression of agricultural interests is due to the protective-tariff policy—the policy of the Republican party. These 30,000 tariff reformers are mainly agriculturists or men dependent upon agricultural prosperity for their livelihood. This element must have great effect wherever the question of tariff reform becomes an issue in the campaign.

THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

In addition to this the Farmers' Alliance has taken a deep root in twenty or thirty of the northern and central counties of the State. Its membership amounts to somewhere near 20,000. These are all farmers. The alliance embraces, it is believed, more Republicans than Democrats. Its purpose is to discuss economic questions. This brings in the tariff, monopolistic and trust questions—all of them leading-strings away from the Republican fold.

The Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association has a strong hold in about forty counties in the southern or Democratic portion of the State. This association is less devoted to the discussion of economic questions than the alliance, but its membership is composed of farmers who study the relation of the agriculturist to the remainder of the producing world. It opposes national banks. It complains that the agriculturists with less than one-third of the taxable wealth of the State pay one-half the taxes of the State. To remedy this the association demands the repeal of all class legislation which gives to some industries artificial aid at the expense of the other industries. The association demands more currency, and especially the free coinage of silver. It demands a wholesale reduction of tariff duties on all articles of necessity and a wholesale increase of duties on all luxuries. It demands a tax on great incomes. It demands of the Legislature a law making 6 per cent. the legal rate of interest; a law providing school-books at cost, and a law providing for the Australian system of voting. It denounces the State Board of Equalization as "a process of legal robbery" operated in favor of the corporations against the small tax-payers.

A STRONG ORGANIZATION.

This organization has an enormous strength, estimated at from 30,000 to 40,000 voters. It runs co-operative stores and is compact and united. All its doctrinal teaching leads away from the Republican party. In many Senatorial districts it will run candidates for the Legislature without regard to Republican or Democratic nominations. In the very nature of things, however, it will find itself more in alignment with Democratic than with Republican policy. In other words, it may agreeably fraternize with the Democrats. It is impossible to see how it can consistently fraternize with the Republicans.

Taking these three organizations together they aggregate nearly 100,000 voters. They indicate a revolt—a revolt against the existing order of things, especially the high protective tariff. This may not make them a Democratic organization, but it does make them an anti-Republican organization; and anything that impairs Republican unity imperils Republican success.

The Democratic State campaign managers watched the result of the spring elections with a great deal of interest. Since the election a careful analysis of the results has been made. This analysis, they claim, indicated extraordinary Democratic gains. Elections were held the 1st of April in all the counties under township organization. There are over eighty of those counties. More than half of them usually—in fact, regularly—elect Republican Boards of Supervisors.

A DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE.

This spring there was a Democratic landslide and sixty-five counties elected Democratic boards. This is something that has not occurred since the war. To show the character of these victories individual counties are instanced. Champaign County, it is said, never before this spring elected a Democratic board. Piatt has nearly always been Republican, but this year it elected a Democratic board. De Witt County, almost always Republican, went Democratic. Every county in Congressman Cannon's district, with but a single exception, elected Democratic boards. They have been regularly Republican heretofore. In Congressman Rowell's district, strongly Republican, it was much the same way. Decatur, usually Republican by 800, elected a Democratic City Council. Livingston County, in Congressman Payson's district, heretofore overwhelmingly Republican, elected a Democratic board. Jo Daviess and Stephenson Counties went the same way. Several counties in Congressman Gest's district reversed the political complexion of the county boards.

Besides these facts the Democrats claim there was a gain all along the line, especially in the agricultural districts. This, they assert, is indicative of a landslide in the same direction next November.

Listen to Jerry Rusk.

It would be very difficult to say what part of Secretary Rusk's recent address to the farmers on agricultural depression is the most shameless and absurd. But, at the risk of making a mistake, we would designate the following passage as entitled to that distinction:

"I would say to the farmer, stand firm as the everlasting hills in demanding what is right and resisting any possible infringement on your rights as citizens by any other class or combination of people; but beware, lest in your just eagerness to secure your own rights you seek to infringe upon the rights of others. No measure that conflicts with the rights of any one class of citizens but what is sure to follow the course of the boomerang, and return to injure the hand that shaped it."

It will be observed that the doctrine involved in this little lecture to the impoverished farmer, in addition to being shameless and absurd, is also brand-new. The theory of protection has always been that it was a measure of public safety. It has been defended on the single ground that it fosters and develops infant industries, and in that way promotes the independence and commercial welfare of the whole people. The wealth which it confers on the protected manufacturer has always been treated as merely incidental to the good done to the nation. The charge brought by Democrats that the protective tariff is designed primarily to enrich a few monopolists has invariably been denounced by Republicans as a slander. But now comes Secretary Rusk and sets up the claim that the protective tariff is a natural and inalienable right of the nabobs to whose good it inures. He tells the farmer that he has the right to diversify his crops, adopt business habits, and make a living if he can; but reminds him that while he has a right to do this, the manufacturers of New England have exactly the same right to a protective tariff—at the farmer's expense. This idea is something really new and really infamous.

If Jere Rusk would hold his tongue and lay down his pen, no one would know what a foolish fellow he is. But if he sends out many more circulars on agricultural depression he will inevitably wreck the reputation of the whole administration, not only for intelligence, but for sanity. For these circulars are doubtless approved by the whole Cabinet, and furnish a fair criterion of its economical theories.—Chicago Herald.

TRYING TO FOOL THE FARMERS.

A Republican Paper's Arraignment of the McKinley Abortion.

[From the Philadelphia Telegraph (Rep.).]

Of all the silly things Mr. McKinley has yet done in connection with the tariff question his report to the House in favor of the Ways and Means Committee bill is the most grotesque. What possible sense is there in trying to fool the farmers of the United States by the statement that their industry is being prostrated on account of the crowding of American markets with foreign agricultural products? In order to back up this utterly absurd declaration Mr. McKinley is driven to quote the importations of sugar, tea, coffee, fruits, tobacco, animals, and fibers—the latter including wool, hemp, jute, etc. What does the sugar industry in nine-tenths of the United States amount to? It is practically unknown in thirty-six of the forty-two States. How much tea and coffee are raised in this country? The importation of animals, as everybody knows, is chiefly confined to first-class breeding stock, brought in by fancy farmers. The carpet men have clearly shown that the class of wool most needed in this country is not and cannot be grown here profitably.

The fact of the matter is—and no man knows the truth more clearly than Mr. McKinley himself—that when he puts our total agricultural imports at nearly $350,000,000 he is guilty of the most idiotic deception. This statement is made for the purpose of carrying with it a false impression. Until Mr. McKinley's report appeared the friends of the so-called "Farmers' Tariff" bill were quite content in speaking of agricultural imports coming into competition with American productions in placing the amount in the neighborhood of $75,000,000. This, too, is an outside figure, and is at least very largely the result of trade with Canada. When this argument was quickly met and demolished, in these columns and elsewhere, Mr. McKinley and his friends shifted their ground and made a bold advance that must make them ridiculous in the sight of intelligent men everywhere. It being clearly shown that this $75,000,000, even if the farmers got the full benefit of it, would be more than swallowed up under this tariff bill in the increased cost of clothing and the other necessaries of life, it became necessary to swell the figures and pull the wool, if possible, still further over the eyes of the doubting agriculturists. Mr. McKinley's report in this respect will prove a boomerang of the most destructive sort.

It doesn't pay to indulge in this kind of deception at any time. The bill is now before the House and before the country, and it must stand or fall upon its merits.

The Grand Old Party's Last Hope.

Congressman Allen, of Mississippi, told some plain truths in the House of Representatives during a political debate started by Mr. Kelley, of Kansas, while the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill was under discussion. "There never has been a time in the history of the grand old party," said Mr. Allen, "when Southern outrages were more necessary for the purposes of that party than they are to-day. It has gone to the wall on the tariff; it has busted higher than a kite on the civil service; the elections are going against it, and if it cannot carry the election on Southern outrages the chances of the grand old party are gone."

Mr. Allen confessed he was somewhat disappointed in the bill. He quoted from a speech delivered by Mr. Cannon and used as a campaign document, declaring that the Republican party was devoted to the country, and would, if it came into power, administer the Government with greater economy, and greatly reduce expenditures. It was this promise which accounted for his disappointment. He failed to find that there was any reduction in this bill. Now and then he liked to meet his Republican friends on the street and chat with them, but after the 4th of March, 1889, it was impossible for him to keep up with them in their wild rush to the departments to get offices and show their devotion to their country. He then quoted from the civil-service plank of the Republican party and from President Harrison's letter of acceptance. But the Republican party had gone back on its promises and he wanted to call the attention of the country to the civil-service pretensions of the administration. He had some respect for the man who acknowledged himself a spoilsman; but a man who obtained office under a hypocritical guise would never get the respect of the people. He told a story of Senator Ingalls going to the White House to secure an office. On the way he met with a friend, who told him he would not get it, as Harrison had a friend in Kansas that he was going to appoint. The Senator scratched his head a moment and said: "That is right, if he is sure of it; but I am pretty well acquainted with that State, and if he has a friend there, I don't know it." [Laughter.] Another story Mr. Allen recalled as showing the Republican opinion of the administration was to the effect that meeting a Republican and asking him what he thought of it, he received the following reply:

"Wanny runs the Sunday-school;
Levi runs the bar;
Baby runs the White House,
And damn it, here we are."

One Background for Quay.

The Republicans will have to put Quay in the background unless he takes steps to establish his innocence of the crimes charged against him.—Chicago News.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

IMPORTANT MEASURES CONSIDERED AND ACTED UPON.

At the Nation's Capitol—What Is Being Done by the Senate and House—Old Matters Disposed Of and New Ones Considered.

The Senate on the 29th passed the land grant forfeiture bill. The bill provides for the forfeiture to the United States of all unearned land grants for railroad purposes where the railroads have not been completed within the time specified when the grants were made. The Senate then, on motion of Mr. Allison, proceeded to the consideration of the customs administrations bill. After the adoption of various amendments the bill went over as unfinished business, and the Senate adjourned. The House resolved itself into committee of the whole, Mr. Burrows in the chair, and proceeded to the discussion of Mr. Dingley's bill for the classification of all worsted cloths under the head of woolen cloths. Mr. Dingley took the floor, and was answered by Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky. Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Mills also spoke on the bill, as did also Mr. Bland and Mr. Cummings. Mr. Dingley then moved that the committee rise and the motion was carried. The Democrats generally opposed the bill, though of course it was favored by Republicans. After a considerable amount of filibustering and failing to get a quorum the House adjourned.

In the Senate on the 30th ult. Mr. Dolph, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported a concurrent resolution requesting the President to negotiate with the Governments of Great Britain and Mexico with a view of securing treaty stipulations for the prevention of the entry into the United States of Chinese from Canada and Mexico, and he asked for its immediate consideration. The resolution went over and the Senate resumed consideration of the customs administrative bill, which was discussed until adjournment, without action being taken. The House passed the Morrill service pension bill by a vote of 179 yeas to 70 nays. The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to place on the pension roll the name of any officer or enlisted man of 60 years of age or over, or who shall hereafter reach that age, who served ninety days or more in the army, navy, or marine corps of the United States during the war of the rebellion and shall have received an honorable discharge therefrom; the pension to commence from the date of the application therefor, and to continue during the term of life of such officer or enlisted man, at the rate of $8 a month. All persons who served ninety days or more in the military or naval service of the United States during the late war of the rebellion, and who have been honorably discharged therefrom, and who are now or may hereafter be suffering from mental or physical disability equivalent to the grade now established in the pension office for the rating of $8 per month, upon due proof of the fact, according to such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may provide, shall be placed upon the list of invalid pensioners of the United States at $8 per month. It also provides for a pension to the widow of any soldier when she shall arrive at the age of 60 years, or when she shall be without other means of support than her daily labor. The House also passed the bill for the classification of worsted cloths as woolen cloths. The bill was passed—yeas 138, nays 0—the Speaker counting a quorum. The text of the bill is as follows: "That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to classify as woolen cloths all imports of worsted cloth, whether known under the name of worsted cloth or under the names of worsteds, or diagonals, or otherwise."

In the Senate, on the 1st inst., the House amendment to the Senate bill for a public building at Aurora, Ill., was non-concurred in and a conference asked. The customs administrative bill was taken up—the pending question being on Mr. Gray's amendment securing to an aggrieved importer the right to bring a common law suit against the collector. After a long discussion, Mr. Allison moved to lay Mr. Gray's amendment on the table. Agreed to—yeas 31, nays 16 (a party vote). Mr. Coke moved to amend the bill by inserting a provision that no allowance for damage to imported goods shall be made unless they are sold at public auction. Rejected. The bill then went over, and after an executive session the Senate adjourned. The House took up the Senate bill to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies. After a discussion covering, as Mr. Heard said, every question other than the one under consideration, Mr. Bland, of Missouri, offered an amendment making unlawful any contract or agreement to prevent competition in the sale or purchase of any commodity transported from one State to another. The amendment was adopted on a viva voce vote, and the bill was passed in the same manner with a single negative vote. Mr. Adams, of Illinois, next called up the international copyright bill and explained its provisions. Without action upon the bill, the House adjourned. During the debate Mr. Cannon announced that the tariff discussion would begin next week.

In the Senate, on the 2d inst., the customs administrative bill was taken up and the bill was passed—yeas 35, nays 18 (Mr. Payne being the only Democrat voting in the affirmative). The bill is practically unchanged from that reported by the Finance Committee on the 19th of March, the only change of any importance being the insertion of a provision in the fourth section that the Secretary of the Treasury may make regulations by which books, magazines, and other periodicals published and imported in parts, numbers, and volumes, and entered to be imported free of duty, shall require but one declaration for the entire series. A conference on the disagreeing votes was asked, and Messrs. Allison, Aldrich and McPherson were appointed conferees. On motion of Mr. Jones, of Nevada, the bill authorizing the issue of treasury notes on deposit of silver bullion was taken up and made the "unfinished business" from Wednesday next until disposed of. The conference report on the Oklahoma town sites bill was presented and agreed to. After an executive session the Senate adjourned. In the House Mr. Milliken, of Maine, presented and the House adopted the conference report on the Lafayette (Ind.) public building bill. The limit of cost is $80,000. On motion of Mr. O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, a resolution was adopted setting apart Saturday, June 14, for the delivery of eulogies upon the late Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania. The House then resumed the consideration of the international copyright bill. Mr. Carlisle made a short speech in favor of the bill and was answered by Mr. Payson, who said that this country is made the barnyard and cesspool of literature that ought to be condemned. Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, said that when we give children books at their impressionable age we should give them American books and not books that teem with dukes and duchesses. He hoped with his whole heart that the bill would be passed. Mr. Covert, of New York, also spoke in favor of the bill. Mr. Farquhar, of New York, and Mr. Butterworth then followed in favor of the bill. The yeas and nays were then called for, and the bill was defeated—yeas 98, nays 126. The House held an evening session for the consideration of pension bills.

Chat About Women.

Perfumed ink is the proper kind for love letters.

Long sleeves are now seen on evening dresses, but no extra amount of material is required, as the neck is cut much lower.

Every woman nowadays wants to look tall, and to attain this end very many carry white parasols and wear hats with white aigrettes.

The delicate and showy colors so much noticed in the windows and supposed by many to be for evening wear are intended for the promenade.

Capes have become a rage and now for evening wear we have one formed of row upon row of white lace on a foundation of white or tinted silk. Knots and loops of ribbon fall from the throat over the lace in a very pretty manner. With a dainty toque such a cape would be quite a stunning theater outfit.

The new corsage front which is cut on the bias is totally without seams and fastens under the arms and on the left shoulder. It is altogether untrimmed and worn with a tight skirt devoid of trimming, hence it is rather severe and should be worn by the most perfect of figures, so say the dress-makers.

English belles wear sunshades made of cloth to match the gown and lined with silk of a contrasting shade. The long handles of last season are relegated to the past, the present ones being about four inches shorter, but are rendered more expensive by being mounted in amber. Some have a small knob, but the costliest ones have a walking-stick handle of amber on which the owner's name is run all around in silver letters.

Young ladies in Paris now array themselves in Greek gowns and preside over the booths at a rainbow reception, which is a simple and pretty method to adopt for a church or charitable benefit. The booths are draped in the rainbow's hues. Those of violet, orange, and white are devoted to the sale of such articles as a church fair usually displays; the light-blue to sweets, the red to Japanese and oriental articles, the yellow to lemonade and cake, the green to flowers, while the indigo will form a fitting retreat for the grab-bag and its patrons. Tea, coffee, and light refreshments are served in a booth in which all the colors are combined.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
NERVINE TONIC
—AND—
Stomach AND Liver Cure
The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.
It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE COURIER.

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

—Four cars were smashed in a freight wreck on the Big Four, near Adams.

—Charles Allison was accidentally wounded in the leg by George Yard, at Kokomo.

—Carl Tiederman, a merchant, of Goshen, was clubbed into insensibility by foot-pads.

—George Grinup, switchman, was struck by a train at Logansport and dangerously hurt.

—Theodore Huil, Grand Trunk yardmaster at South Bend, was fatally crushed between cars.

—Aaron McKissick has died at Linton, as the result of injuries suffered in a recent boiler explosion.

—Henry Rock, of Logansport, was struck on the head by a falling plank and probably fatally injured.

—Frank Golding was terribly cut about the neck and back by the breaking of a heavy sheet of plate glass, at Kokomo.

—A. J. Shirkle was thrown from a buggy in a runaway accident at Howell's Station and suffered concussion of the brain.

—Dennis Barrett was kicked in the face by a horse at Terre Haute. His nose was broken and several teeth were dislodged.

—Millard Kennedy of Union Township, Johnson County, required three days to recover consciousness after being kicked by a horse.

—A 4-year-old daughter of Carl Huffer, residing near Muncie, was kicked in the head by a horse and dangerously injured.

—Philip Vassen, a plumber, of Fort Wayne, upset a pot of molten metal, which splashed into his face, blinding both his eyes.

—Horace, aged 10, son of Marshal McDonald, of Retreat, fell from a load of hay, and a bale of hay falling upon him, crushed him to death.

—A. Yeager was fatally hurt at Walcottville by a smash-up of machinery in the mill where he was employed. A chisel was driven into his head.

—Mrs. Robert Par[illegible] residing near Greencastle, was kicked by a mule, the animal's heels laying bare the frontal bone of her forehead. Her injuries will result fatally.

—The owner of a bus line at Crawfordsville is "Walkup," and he is in a peck of trouble over what to place upon his vehicles, because his own name might suggest to travelers an invitation to "walk up" from the depots.

—James Clark, aged 20, an employe of the Electric Light Co. at Indianapolis, while attempting to shut off certain lights through the switch board was instantly killed. In moving the switch his hand came in contact with one of the wires and the shock caused instant death.

—While handling dynamite cartridges the 10-year-old son of William Deerwester, living at Eagle Lake Station, two miles east of Warsaw, had one of his hands so badly shattered by the explosion of one of the cartridges that amputation was necessary. He was otherwise uninjured by the explosion, and it is feared he cannot recover.

—A terrific natural gas explosion occurred in B. W. Skelton's cracker factory, Fort Wayne, which resulted in $500 damage to the building. N. C. Foulks, a baker employed in the factory, was badly burned. He had turned the fire in the oven too low, and the flame was extinguished while Foulks was at dinner. On his return the explosion occurred.

—Charley Phillips was accidentally shot by Everett Henley, at the farm residence of Nixon Henley, one mile east of Monrovia. Everett was examining an old-fashioned "pepper-box" revolver, when from some unknown cause the weapon began firing, one ball penetrating the face of Phillips near the right cheekbone, ranging downward through the parotid gland, making a serious and ugly wound. It is thought that he will recover.

—One of the wealthiest farmers in Ohio Township, Bartholemew County, called at the Moore's Vineyard postoffice recently to buy a quantity of postage stamps at a reduced price. He offered one and a half cents for two-cent stamps and one-half cent for a one-cent stamp. The offer was refused, and he became enraged and was restrained by friends from an assault on the postmaster. The stamps were not for the farmer's use, but were sent for by a young lady stopping at his house. The farmer hoped to turn an honest penny by making 2 per cent. on his investment.

—As William Gibson was going to Logansport with a party of six in a spring wagon, the harness broke, and the dashing of the wagon on to the horses caused them to run away. The wagon was overturned, and all were injured. Gibson suffered three broken ribs and internal injuries. His wife had her arm broken and was badly bruised. Mrs. Stephen Mason was badly cut and bruised. Mr. Mason and Fred Gibson and wife all received injuries, painful but not serious. The accident occurred on the Puterbaugh pike, south of the city.

—Knox County boasts an assessor who can bark. He uses his accomplishment to arouse all the dogs that tax-payers attempt to sequester.

—Miss Lulu Fry is employed at the New Albany hosiery mills, where she operates a knitting machine. The other day she was in a stoping position, looking under her machine, when the hair, which was hanging loosely about her shoulders, became entangled in the needles. The scalp was torn completely off the top of her head, and she was otherwise seriously bruised.

—John Speed, the 10-year-old son of one of the candidates for Mayor of Crawfordsville, in attempting to get on a Big Four passenger train, was caught between the cars and the platform and received injuries that will cause his death.

—John Killing, an old Soldier of New Palestine, was run over and instantly killed by a passenger train on the C., H. & I. Railway, one mile west of Fountaintown. He was subject to epileptic attacks, and it is supposed he fell on the track while suffering from an attack.

—A large fish pond, owned by J. M. Troutman, near Crawfordsville, was dynamited during the past week, and hundreds of fish killed. The affair is being investigated.

—Benjamin Long, of Logansport, aged 17, has won the Youth's Companion prize of $100 for the best essay on "The Patriotic Influence of the American Flag When Raised Over the Public Schools."

—A huge live war eagle, 10 months old, was captured in Crawford County by one of the hill dwellers of the county, who managed to escape the huge bird's talons by throwing his overcoat over it. It measures seven feet six inches from tip to tip, and weighs fifty pounds. This kind of eagle, while found in abundance in the mountains of the Western Territories, is very rare in this part of the country.

—A few months ago Miss Lucy Wilks caused the arrest of P. V. Ring, a prominent grocer of this city. The case caused great excitement in society circles, and the trial lasted six days. After the jury was out thirty-six hours they returned a verdict of $500 fine and six months' imprisonment in the county jail. A petition was circulated by his many friends, and he was pardoned. his aged mother then called at the jail to welcome her son home again. On seeing him she exclaimed: "My darling boy, how we have missed you at home," and suddenly fell dead at his feet.

—Wm. H. Guy, aged 22, had been refused in marriage by the daughter of John Murray, a farmer living near Mitchell, for whom he was working. Guy threatened violence to the family, and H. A. Miller, a neighbor, had been stopping at Murray's house to protect it. The other night Murray and Miller heard a shot in the yard. They rushed out, but became separated. Miller stumbled on to the body of Guy, under a tree, and becoming excited, fired three shots into his head. Later investigation showed that Guy had first killed himself with a pistol, and it was this shot which called out Miller and Murray, the former having been shooting at a man already dead.

—A contract has been closed at Anderson by which the entire plant of the Covington Wire Nail Mill will be removed to that city at once, together with 150 operatives, with their families. The establishment, when completed, which will be early in the summer, will cut eight hundred kegs of wire nails per day. This American wire-rod, wire and wire-nail-works in Anderson will furnish employment to about 500 skilled men. The Novelty Wire and Fence Company have broke ground for their factory, and a large force of men are at work. The factory will employ thirty skilled men, a number of whom have purchased lots and are building pretty cottages in the vicinity of the factory. Negotiations are pending for a number of other valuable factories.

—The year 1890 promises more for Portland than any previous year. Eastern capital has become interested in the construction of the Chicago, Portland & Wabash Railroad, and articles of association have been forwarded to Indianapolis to be filed. Elections will be ordered in Wayne Township and Penn Township at once, and if the aid is voted and the required amount raised the road will be constructed at once as far as Camden, and at that point the road reaches the largest gravel hills in Indiana or Ohio. Portland has secured four good factories in the last year, and is now raising money for a desk factory to be located there. Besides these, the enlargement of such factories as the Bimbel wheel-works and the Creamery Package Company, the largest of their kind in the State, is making it quite a manufacturing city.

—Patents have been granted to the following Indiana inventors: William H. Bennett, Kokomo, saw-mill dog; William L. Durth, Frankfort, metallic buggy bed; Oscar R. Decker, Rochester, watch-bow fastener; John E. Donaldson, Montezuma, assignor to Clay Shingle Company, Indianapolis, roofing tile; Emil E. Herman, Terre Haute, trousers; Ira W. Eikenbary, Warren, automatic sliding gate; Edmund H. Hanna, assignor of one-half to A. T. Baker, Portland, plane; Willis C. Howe, Evansville, spindle for vehicles; Harry Huddleston, Liberty, wheel hub; Charles McNeal, assignor of one-half to E. Skillman, Goshen, split pulley; Henry Nichols, assignor of three-fourths to J. W. and E. E. Ruark, and A. J. Bird, Mount Meridan, car coupling; Lewis J. Rice, Indianapolis, hose coupling.

—George Zimmer, a farmer of Maysville, Allen County, discovered a radical, though somewhat expensive remedy to cure vermin-infected cattle. A neighbor told him to rub the animals thoroughly with kerosene and they would no longer be troubled with the vermin. Zimmer did so, saturating the hides of eight cows until they were dripping wet with the fluid. Along in the afternoon he took a red-hot iron and started to brand one of the cows, when in an instant, the animal was enveloped in flames. A stampede followed, and the burning cow mingled with the rest of the herd, until all eight of them were a mass of flames. They rushed into a barn, setting fire to it. A hay-stack was next ignited and consumed, and pandemonium reigned. The barn was saved. When all was over, it was found that the vermin were dead, and so were the cows.

—David Tumbleson, of Marshalfield, Warren County, was visited by White Caps, cruelly whipped, and ordered to leave the country or receive a coat of tar and feathers. He filed a number of affidavits against his assailants and then left for the South.

—William Biddle, employed at the Central Iron and Steel Company's rolling mill at Brazil, got his right wrist and hand mashed under the trip-hammer used in ending car axles. His injuries are very painful. He narrowly escaped losing his entire arm.

—Will Higgins got his hand caught in a machine at Ball's tin-stamp works at Muncie, and lost a finger. A few moments later Charles Valentine, another youth, went to work at the same place, and lost the index finger to one of his hands and badly cut another.

—A skiff containing clothing and provisions was found floating in the Wabash near Vincennes. Pasted on a box were a few verses of doggerel addressed to Mrs. Caroline Berham, of Riverton, Sullivan County, intimating that the writer would be cold clay in the immediate future, and signed "John."

THE CATTLE INDUSTRY.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING DRESSED BEEF.

Mr. Vest and His Colleagues Say the Markets of the Country Are Controlled by Four Firms Having Chicago as Their Headquarters—Remedies Proposed by the Committee.

Washington dispatch: The report of the special committee of the Senate appointed in May, 1888, on the transportation and sale of meat products has been presented to the Senate by the chairman, Mr. Vest. It is a long document, accompanied by a copy of the testimony taken by the committee in prosecuting its inquiries at St. Louis, Chicago, and New York, and is signed by all the members of the committee—Messrs. Vest, Coke, Plumb, Manderson, and Farwell.

The several legislative measures proposed by the committee to remedy the evils of the traffic are set forth in Mr. Vest's statement in the report of the Senate proceedings. The committee says that when the examination of witnesses began in St. Louis it was evident that conflicting influences were at work, especially in the International Cattle Range Association, and that industrious efforts were being made to prevent the inquiries of the committee affecting injuriously the dressed beef interests of Chicago.

There was no diversity of opinion among the witnesses as to the price and as to the fact that the methods of selling beef cattle had been entirely revolutionized in the last ten years. The revolution took the form of a concentration of the market for cattle at a few points, with the controlling market at Chicago. This change, the committee says, is due principally to the fact that a few enterprising mem at Chicago are able, through their enormous capital, to centralize and control the business at that point.

The dressed-beef and canning business is practically in the hands of four establishments in Chicago—Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Nelson, Morris & Co., and Hammond & Co. Whatever difference of opinion is expressed as to the existence of a combination between these firms not to bid against each other in the purchase of cattle there was no hesitation on the part of witnesses, even when obviously prejudiced in favor of the packers, in stating that the control of the market was absolutely in the grasp of these four houses if they chose to exercise it.

As a result of the influence of these houses the committees noticed a reluctance on the part of cattle raisers and commission men to testify to facts or opinions which might prejudice them in future transactions. The principal inquiry which the committee was directed to make was as to the existence of a combination "by reason of which the prices of beef and beef cattle have been so controlled and affected as to diminish the prices paid the producer without lessening the cost of of meat to the consumer."

The facts developed, some of which are detailed in the report, the committee thinks prove overwhelmingly a combination such as is described in the clause of the resolution quoted above. The committee quotes a statement from Mr. Armour's testimony that beef cattle had increased more rapidly than population during the last five years, from which he argued that the low prices of beef cattle are partly due to overproduction. This argument, the committee states, is not warranted by the facts, and the committee has no hesitation in stating that a combination exists at Chicago which controls the market and fixes the price of beef cattle in its own interest.

The railroad trunk line, says the committee, controls the entire meat traffic of the country in the interests of the railroad companies. Comparing the railroad charges on a car of wheat and a car of dressed beef, the committee shows a discrimination in favor of dressed beef of about 60 per cent. As to the remedies to relieve the situation the committee says that Congress, in the bill recently passed by the Senate on the subject of trusts, has gone so far as its power extends. State legislation must supplement that by Congress to punish combines operating within the State lines, and active, intelligent officials must be found to enforce the laws enacted.

"If the Federal and State authority shall thus act in concert and the other legislation as to unjust discrimination by railroads in transporting cattle, the removal of quarantine restrictions as to American cattle shipped to Great Britain, and the breaking up of the monopoly in the steamship carrying trade of cattle to foreign ports be enacted, we have great confidence in obtaining relief from existing evils."

In conclusion the committee says:

"If the cattle-raisers of the United States are only true to themselves, the immediate future promises deliverance from present evils. There is no excuse for panic. The worst feature of the cattle trade is the fact that so many cows and calves are being thrown upon the market; the indication being that producers are panic-stricken, and anxious to realize now without regard to the future. There were marketed at Chicago during the last year 3,023,281 cattle, of which from 25 to 30 per cent were cows, and 4 per cent were calves.

"The cattle-raisers of the United States should be and are the most competent judges as to their own interests, but if they will accept a suggestion from those whose duty it has been for months to examine the cattle question in all its aspects, they will cease marketing their breeding and immature stock and preprepare for a larger supply and a brighter future. It is only a question of time, and very brief time, when the problem will be that of supplying our own people with beef without regard to foreign markets."

STOOD BY THE CHURCH.

Disestablishment Defeated in the British Commons.

London cable: In the House of Commons Mr. Cameron moved the disestablishment and disendowment of the Church of Scotland. Mr. Gladstone, replying to a member's assertion that the majority of the Midlothian electors were against disestablishment, said he would be glad to answer to his electors for the vote he was about to give. He would be thankful to the government if they gave him an opportunity to do so, at the earliest possible moment.

The only ground in defense of the church establishment was that it was performing some special religious work in the country. He believed that the condition of the Scotch opinion which Lord Hartington described in 1877 as justifying disestablishments, was now reached, and he therefore supported the motion. In his opinion there never was a country where the question was so simplified as it was in Scotland. It would not entail a tenth part of the violence entailed by the disruption of 1843.

Lord Hartington said he regretted the new position which Mr. Gladstone had taken up. He was unable to agree with him that Scotland had pronounced unmistakably on this question. Besides that it was necessary to know the lines upon which it was proposed to act. In opposing the motion, however, it must not be supposed that they opposed necessary reform of the Scotch church or even disestablishment should reconstruction prove impossible.

Mr. Cameron's motion was rejected, 256 to 318.

Her Criticism.

She was visiting her artist cousin's studio upon an invitation to criticise his latest work. He had the canvas upon the easel, and occasionally touching it up here and there, would walk away a few paces, then turn to observe the effect.

"Fred," said she, finally, "I think I would be afraid to turn my back upon that picture and walk away as you do if I had and desire to finish it."

"Why?"

"Why, I'm almost certain that if I had painted that picture and should get a little start away from it I would keep on going and never come back any more."—Texas Siftings.

How Soon Are We Forgotten.

A gentleman who lives not a thousand miles from this city has recently been absent from home several months on business. Not long ago his wife received a letter from him, which she began to read aloud at the breakfast table. But she was somewhat interrupted by a young son and heir, who apparently found other things more interesting than the letter.

"My child," she said in a tone of maternal rebuke, "don't you want to hear this nice letter from papa?"

"Papa, papa," was the puzzled reply. "Oh, yes; you mean the man who used to live at our house."—New York Tribune.

The Clangor of an Alarm Bell

Close by, in the stillness of the night, could scarcely startle the ordinary individual more than do trifling noises the nervous invalid. But once the nerves are braced and the system invigorated with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, this abnormal sensitiveness is succeeded by a tranquility not to be disturbed by trivial causes. Impaired digestion is a fertile cause of nerve weakness and unnatural mental gloom, and a vigorous renewal of the action of the stomach is one of the surest means of invigorating and quieting the nerves. Insomnia, or sleeplessness, a form of nervous disease, is unquestionably benefited by sedatives, when it is prolonged, or of frequent occurrence, but its permanent removal is more effectually achieved with the Bitters. This medicine is also signally efficacious for malaria, rheumatism, constipation, liver complaint, and torpidity of the kidneys and bladder.

Test of Grit.

President Insurance Company—Want to be appointed a life insurance agent, eh? What experience have you had?

Applicant—None. I will be frank with you, sir. I wish to marry old Moneybags' daughter, and I want to be able to say that I am in business for myself. See?

President—I see. Now, I'll be frank with you. Go to old Moneybags, tell him you haven't a cent, and don't expect any, yet you want to marry his daughter. Of course he'll refuse and kick you out. But if you keep at him and stick to it until he finally consents, I'll appoint you superintendent.—New York Weekly.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O., Props. of Hall's Catarrh Cure, offer $100 reward for any case of catarrh that can not be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for testimonials, free. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Juvenile Perplexity.

A member of a certain order invited several brother members to call at his house for the purpose of organizing a Building and Loan Association.

When they had arrived, the gentleman's wife and little son were in the parlor, to whom he introduced his friends as brother so and so.

His son sized each individual up for all he was worth, and when the good-nights were in vogue the party was electrified by the youngster saying: "You may be dad's brothers and my uncles, but I'll be Jim Crowed if I can see any family resemblance."—Texas Siftings.

A Michigan Central Railroad Employe Wins His Case, After Seven Years' Contest.

While employed as agent of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, at Augusta, Mich., my kidneys became diseased and from an impoverished and impure state of the blood my general health was entirely undermined. I consulted the leading physicians of this city and Ann Arbor and all pronounced my case Bright's disease. In October last I began taking Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and am to-day a well man. It affords me pleasure to render suffering humanity any good that I can, and I wish to say that I think it the greatest blood, kidney and liver medicine in the world.

E. Darzilere,
Agent M. C. R. R., Albion, Mich.

Sold by all druggists. Prepared only by The Charles Wright Medicine Company, Detroit, Mich.

Go West.

Beggar—Please, sir, I am out of work and my family is starving.

Western Man—Out of work? Of course you are. What else could you expect, living here in the effete East? Why don't you go West—the free, the boundless, glorious West yearns for you. That's the place for you, sir. Meet me in Dugout City this day week, and I'll sell you the finest corner lot in Jackrabbitville for only $10,000, and put you up a one-and-a-half story, four-room frame-house, with painted front, for only $10,000 more.—New York Weekly.

The Finest on Earth.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad is the only line running Through Reclining Chair Cars between Cincinnati, Keokuk and Springfield, Ill., and the only direct line between Cincinnati, Dayton, Lima, Toledo, Detroit, the Lake Regions and Canada.

The road is one of the oldest in the State of Ohio, and the only line entering Cincinnati over twenty-five miles of double track, and from its past record can more than assure its patrons speed, comfort and safety.

Tickets on sale everywhere, and see that they read C. H. & D., either in or out of Cincinnati, Indianapolis or Toledo.

E. O. McCormick,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.

Lost the Joke.

Managing Editor—What's the matter, Funny Man?

Funny Man—I was reading over this article for errors.

Managing Editor—Well?

Funny Man (gloomily)—Well, I found the errors, but I can't find the joke now.—Texas Siftings.

Sufferers from Coughs, Sore Throat, etc., should try "Brown's Bronchial Troches," a simple but sure remedy. Sold only in boxes. Price, 25 cents.

Good Training.

Landlady (to actor)—And you are going to leave me?

"Yes. I only meant to stay until I perfected myself in the part I am going to play this evening."

"What part is that, pray?

"The 'lean and hungry Cassius.'"—Life.

One Reason

Why nearly everybody should take a good medicine in the spring is because at this season the system is especially susceptible to the benefit to be derived from a reliable preparation like Hood's Sarsaparilla. In the winter various impurities accumulate in the blood, the effect of which is most felt when spring comes on, in general weakness and languor. The system craves assistance to maintain the health tone and expel impurities, which Hood's Sarsaparilla readily gives. Try it.

"For five years I was sick every spring, but last year began in February to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I used five bottles and have not seen a sick day since." G. W. Sloan, Milton, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Miss Larkins was bilious and feeble and sick,
And it seemed as if nothing would ever relieve her.
Her liver was clogged with impurities thick,
And her stomach was constantly burning with fever.
Of the great G. M. D. she bought a supply,
And directions for taking pursued to the letter.
'Twas the best thing on earth she could possibly try,
And soon, very soon, Miss Larkins was better.

The G. M. D. which she took was Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great remedy for bronchial, throat and lung diseases, sick headache, scrofula, dyspepsia, and all diseases that have origin in impure blood and a disordered liver.

The cleansing, antiseptic and healing qualities of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are unequaled.

A Scaly Trick.

Grocer—Yes, I want a pair of grocery scales, but—ahem—

Hardware Dealer—Oh, the weights are all right. We have a hole in the bottom of each one to be filled up with lead. No pound weight will go over fourteen ounces until filled up.

"Ah, I see. Very well, sir. Your house evidently understands its business. Send me the scales."—Texas Siftings.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

Postal Note.

Amalie—So your sister-in-law will soon visit you?

Mrs. Jones (amazed)—Yes; but how do you know she will?

"Oh, my feller works in the postoffice and he read it on a postal card, the other day."—Texas Siftings.

Worth Hundreds of Dollars.

My wife used only two bottles of "Mother's Friend" before her third confinement. Says she would not be without it for hundreds of dollars. Had not half as much trouble as before. Dock Miles, Lincoln Parish, La. Write The Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga., for further particulars. Sold by all druggists.

An English Tramp.

Police Judge—Where did you come from?

Tramp—I'm English, you know.

Any business?

Oh, yes, Your Honor; I'm one of Her Majesty's Footmen of the Backyards and All Outdoors.—Texas Siftings.

The Excitement Not Over.

The rush on the druggists still continues, and daily scores of people call for a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption. Kemp's Balsam, the standard family remedy, is sold on a guarantee and never fails to give entire satisfaction. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free.

Ten mills don't make a cent in Lowell, Mass., no matter what the schoolmasters say.—Independent.

Six Novels Free, will be sent by Cragin & Co., Philada., Pa., to any one in the U. S. or Canada, postage paid, upon receipt of 25 Dobbins' Electric Soap wrappers. See list of novels on circulars around each bar. Soap for sale by all grocers.

A capital crime—well, kissing is about as good as any of them, if we admit that kissing is a crime.—Somerville Journal.

Best, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

Mormons ought to be good sailors—they have so much marry-time experience.—Texas Siftings.

Rich, fragrant, fine, "Tansill's Punch."

Young lovers don't mind addition, but they despise the rule of three.—Texas Siftings.

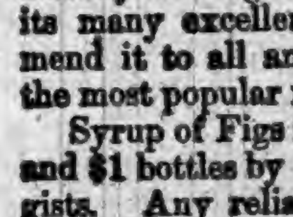
ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887, IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.



DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY will cure All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES PRICE, $1 PER PAIR. Also an Electric Truss and Belt Combined. Send 2c. postage for free illust'd book, 224 pages, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper. Address OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO., 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO. 826 Broadway, NEW YORK CITY.

THE BEST
THE BEST
THE BEST
CHEAPEST
U.S. Standard Scales
address for Prices
Binghamton N.Y.

Burlington Route

HALF RATES
—TO THE—
FARMING REGIONS
—OF THE—
WEST, SOUTHWEST, NORTHWEST.

For particulars call on your Ticket Agent or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

PENSIONS of JOSEPH H. HUNTER, Attorney, Washington, D. C. If you want your pension without delay, put your claim in the hands

PATENTS—PENSIONS—How to get a pension Quick. Send for digest of Pension and Bounty Laws. Send for Inventors' Guide or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Attorney at Law, Washington, D. C.

Copyright, 1889.

A LOVELY WOMAN

overheard one say of her, "By Heaven, she's painted!" "Yes," retorted she indignantly, "and by heaven only!" Ruddy health mantled her cheek, yet this beautiful lady, once thin and pale, and suffering from a dry, hacking cough, night-sweats, and spitting of blood, seemed destined to fill a consumptive's grave. After spending hundreds of dollars on physicians, without benefit, she tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; her improvement was soon marked, and in a few months she was plump and rosy again,—a perfect picture of health and strength.

This wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery," now world-famed as a remedy for consumption, which is really lung-scrofula, is not only an acknowledged remedy for that terribly fatal malady, when taken in time and given a fair trial, but also for all forms of Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp diseases, as White Swellings, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas and kindred ailments. All scaly, crusty, itching, troublesome eruptions yield readily to its curative powers. It invigorates the liver, enriches the blood and promotes all the bodily functions. It is the only liver, blood and lung remedy, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, that it will do all it is recommended to, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded. No ordinary remedy could be sold under such peculiar and trying conditions. To do so would bankrupt its manufacturers. Not so with "Golden Medical Discovery" which outsells every other liver, blood and lung remedy, throughout the civilized world. It's a legitimate medicine, not a beverage; contains no alcohol, to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; as peculiar in remedial effects as in its composition; it stands alone, transcendent in curative properties, unique in composition, its sale backed by a substantial forfeit in case of failure to do all that is claimed for it. There's nothing at all like it, either in composition or curative effects; therefore, don't be induced to take something else represented to be "just as good," that the dealer may make a larger profit. Every dealer knows it's the best and only guaranteed Liver, Blood and Lung Remedy.

World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS.

They are Purely Vegetable and Perfectly Harmless.
As a LIVER PILL, Unequaled!

ONE PELLET A DOSE! SMALLEST, CHEAPEST, EASIEST TO TAKE.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS

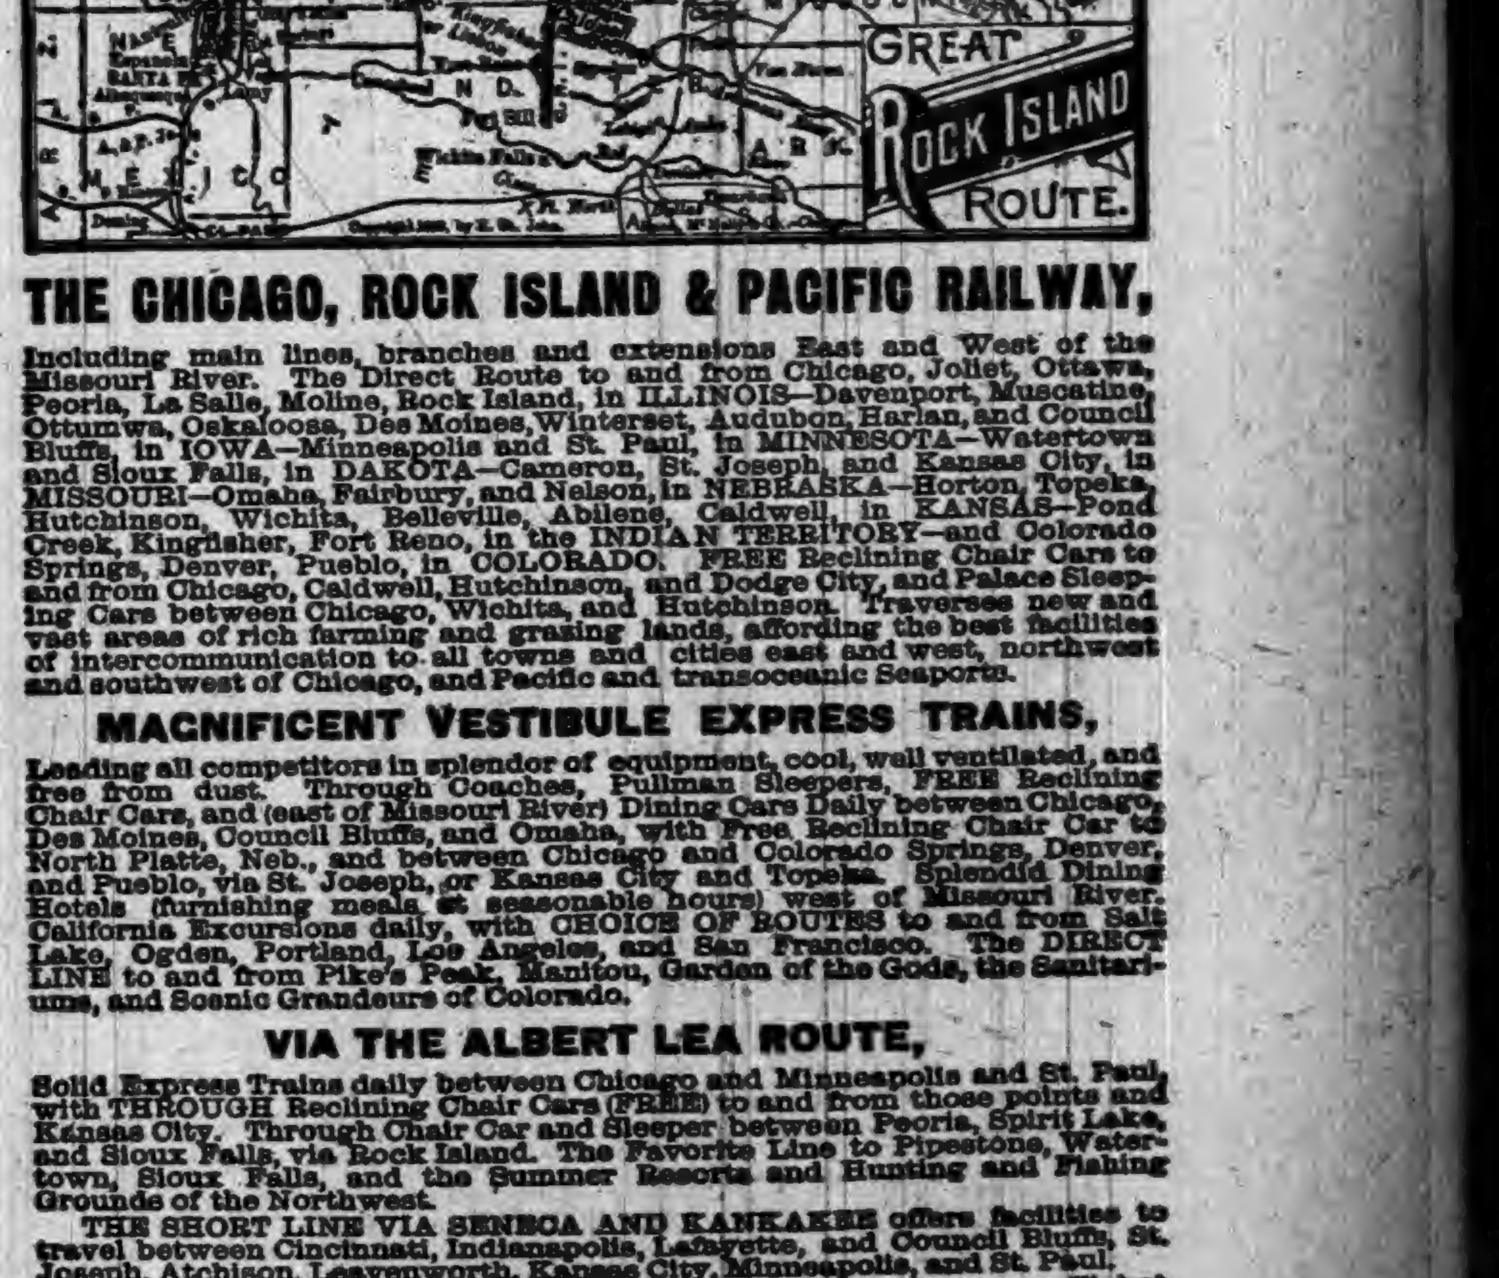
Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.

CONSUMPTION

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager.
CHICAGO, ILL.
JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

MAY FLOWERS—OF SONG

FOR SCHOOLS,

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SONGS (35 cts., $3.60 doz.) 8 pages of simple explanations, and 138 new and selected songs for general singing. This little book is being received with much favor.

Kindergarten Chimes. ($1.25.) Kate Douglas Wiggin. Good manual, and fine collection.
Kindergarten and Primary School Songs. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Menard.
Songs and Games for Little Ones. ($2.) Walker and Jenks.
Gems for Little Singers. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Emerson and Swayne.
Rhymes and Tunes. ($1.) Mrs. Osgood.
Motion Songs. (30 cts., $1.80 doz.) Mrs. Boardman.

Get them all! They are most delightful books! Also try the sweet little Cantatas:

Kingdom of Mother Goose. (25 cts., $2.28 dozen.) Mrs. Boardman.
Rainbow Festival. (20 cts., $1.80 doz.) Lewis.
Who Killed Cock Robin? (40 cts., $3.60 dozen.) Ford.

Song Manual
Book 1, Primary.	30c;	$3.00 doz.
Book 2, Medium.	40c;	$4.20 doz.
Book 3, High.	50c;	$4.80 doz.

By Emerson. These are the newest and best books for teaching note reading in schools.

Send for Lists and Descriptions.

Any book mailed for retail price.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping our selves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

FAT FOLKS using "Anti-Corpulene Pills" lose 15 lbs. a month. They cause no sickness, contain no poison and never fail. Sold by Druggists everywhere or sent by mail. Particulars (sealed) 4c. Dr. Wilcox's Specific Co., Phila., Pa.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

N. U., F. W. .... No. 19—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

SILK DEPARTMENT.

We have received from the manufacturers 22 inch,

PRINTED CHINA SILKS,

Double faced, heavy, fine, and come in a great variety patterns and colorings. We place them on sale at

50 Cents a Yard.

COLORED SURAH SILKS,

45 to 75 cents a yard.

These can be had in colors and blacks

SPRING WRAPS.

Ladies wanting a garment not being able to visit the department can have them sent by express, on memorandum, stating size and colors wanted. Jackets, Newmarkets, Visites, Shoulder Capes, Fichus, etc.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

Filled with the choicest patterns. Ingrain Carpet, 25 cents up to 75 cents. Brussels Carpets, 50 cents up to $1.00. Several hundred peices each pattern. Moquets, Velvets, Axminsters, Curtains and Draperies.

WASH DRESS FABRICS.

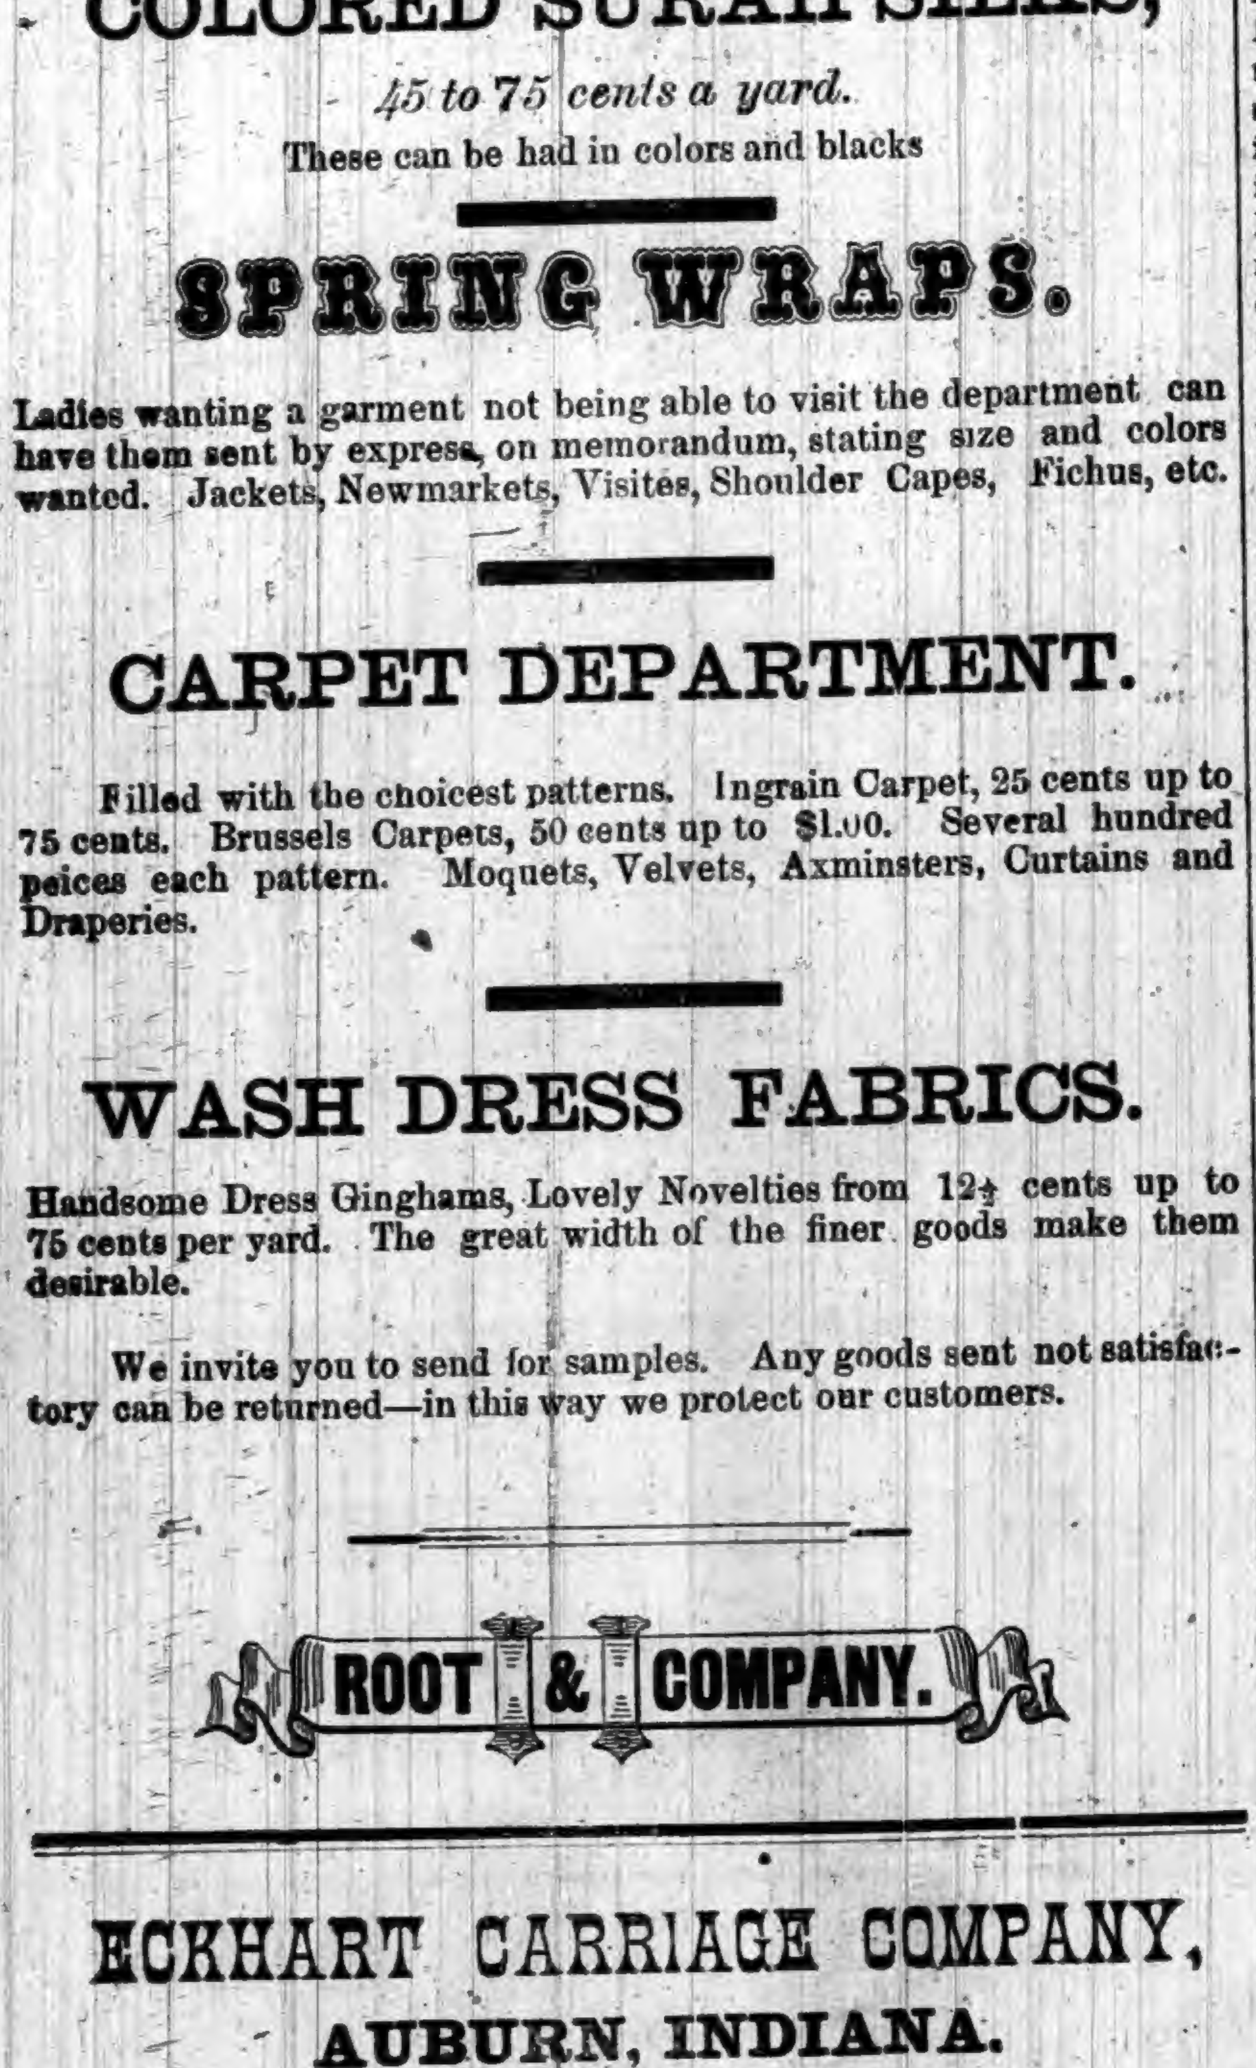
Handsome Dress Ginghams, Lovely Novelties from 12½ cents up to 75 cents per yard. The great width of the finer goods make them desirable.

We invite you to send for samples. Any goods sent not satisfactory can be returned—in this way we protect our customers.

ROOT & COMPANY.

ECKHART CARRIAGE COMPANY,

AUBURN, INDIANA.



MOUNTED WITH THE HERBRAND GEAR IRONS.

BETTER STYLES, BETTER FACILITIES, BETTER WORK, Better Accommodations.

FOR the past sixteen years we have made and sold to the people of DeKalb County, Buggies and Carriages of all kinds, and have always justified our claim that we POSITIVELY make the BEST in the COUNTRY for the money, until now it has become a common saying that if you want a GOOD BUGGY, one that will stand the knocks,

BUY THE ECKHART BUGGY.

WE have handsomer and more thoroughly made work this year than ever before and expect to be able to furnish our customers, this year, without delay. For the accommodation of our customers we have established the following repositories:

At St. Joe, Ind., under the management of J. K. Stafford.
At Butler, Ind., " " " " Maxwell & Shoub.
At Corunna, Ind., " " " " P. N. Calkin.
At LaOtto, Ind., " " " " E. A. Ditmars.

WHERE we will at all times keep a full line. We will also keep our Repository at our Factory well filled with the styles most in demand.

Close Cash Buyers,

Come and see if I cannot

Save You Money,

THESE HARD TIMES.

LOOK!

Wood Seat Chairs	$2 00
Cane Chairs	$3 00
Bedsteads $1 00 and up.
Marble Tables	$4 50
Chamber Suit	$16 00
Marble Chamber Suit	$30 00
Center Table	$1 50

Mortuary Goods

For one-half what you have been paying. Come and see. First door east of Bank, Butler, Ind.

S. L. HAMLIN.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.

ON THE WING.

Items and Ideas Found by the Courier Reporter In His Journey.

F. T. Smith, of Cedar Creek, has proven his wisdom as a DeKalb county citizen, by subscribing for the COURIER. He intends to keep posted on the leading topics of the day—A good plan, who will be the next?

Mrs. Mary Depew, of Swan Station, is one of those intelligent ladies who believe in the support of a home enterprise. Being a widow lady living alone, she has for some years had rather a struggle to attend to the farm and household, but she bid defiance to despondency, and intends to gladden the long weary days with the good things to be found in the COURIER.

While passing through Aitona the other day, the usual sight met our gaze, a farmer hustling to get his ground ready for oats. After conversing with him a short time, it was learned that he was one of Keyser township's successful farmers. He will read the COURIER, and his address will be John E. Dawson.

At this season of the year the good roads in the country are very little used. But all over the country can be seen men and boys of all sizes and ages, striving to improve the opportunities of turning the present condition of their lands into one more adapted to raising a crop. Days of idleness are a stranger to the ruralist, who calculates on the earning out of his subsistence by the sweat of his brow.

Horace Shoemaker is one of the "boys in blue" who is interested in his own county. He proposes to keep posted on the things essential to the welfare of every citizen, just what is going on at home. To do this, he has employed the COURIER as a medium through which this knowledge is to be guided.

David Zimmerman one of those mirthful, good natured teamsters who make Auburn their home, has learned that to keep matrimony from being a failure, wife must have something pure and wholesome to read. He has found the COURIER to be about the thing he wants and will look for its coming every Thursday.

Jacob Davis is the man who has pulled the ribbons over the team that has hauled the wood that our people consumed from the band saw mill, for several years past, has found that a newspaper whose tone and principle are elevating is a nice thing to have around. He will expect the COURIER to visit him every week.

Edward Beaty an enterprising young man who has held the position of fireman at the band saw mill for a year or so, has put on the "armor of a student," and will try by means of the COURIER to study the many things which abound in DeKalb county, of which its citizens ought to be proud. As a prime factor in the chronicling of weekly occurences, he feels confident of getting value received.

In "pedestrianating" through the country one is greatly and pleasantly surprised to learn that farmers and country people generally are so eagerly grasping after knowledge. You can go into any household and find from one to six newspapers, and books of various kinds are found in the book-case and on the stand; which are read by father, mother, sister and brother with a pleasure and profit not excelled by any of those who live in the city and have every advantage of books and schools of a high order. To say that country people—farmers, as a class, are ignorant, would be utterly erroneous. Though a farmer's face is browned by the burning heat of a summer's sun, and his hands, muscles and sinews are toughened by the toils of the farm, yet his mind is permitted to exercise full sway over the minor elements of his existence, and by reading and reasoning, he is enabled to secure an education, that in many cases is more applicable to the needs of everyday life, than that acquired by some who have a diploma.

S. H. Richmond, of Garrett, is a man of business enterprise who is fully alive to the comfort of the traveling public. He is keeping a first class restaurant and is enjoying a liberal patronage, But while he may be able to satisfy the appetite for something to eat, he has learned that he must have something digestible on which to feed the brain. The COURIER will assume its part of that task for awhile.

James Bender, is a very enterprising young man who is working on the farm of James Kelham. He seems to be full of genuine push and has arranged to have the COURIER come to him every week, so that he may know something about his own county. That is right. If there is any one thing aside from another, we wish to see, it is a young man striving by earnest toil and hard study to gain the top round on the ladder of fame, so they may be useful men. In the language of the poet:

> "The heights by great men reached and kept,
> Were not attained by sudden flight,
> But they, while their companions slept
> Were toiling upward in the night.

The "pedestrianating manipulator" of the mystic wand which gives tangible form to the thoughts, and a knowledge of the researches of men, was a few days since directing his weary footsteps along the highway that leads from Garrett to Avilla. He stepped to the front door of a neat residence along the road and sought admittance. An aged lady opened the door in answer to his rap, whom he found to be Mrs. Eliza Bender who has been reading the good things in the COURIER for the past ten years. She expects it every week just as she calculates upon reading it when it does come.

AGENTS to canvass for the sale of our Home-Grown Nursery Stock WANTED. Most Liberal Terms. Unequaled facilities. One of the largest, oldest-established, and best known nurseries in the country. Address,

W. & T. SMITH, Geneva Nursery. Established in 1846. Geneva, N. Y.

Electioneering Practices.

MR. EDITOR:—A prominent farmer a few days ago made this inquiry of me:

"Dills, can you not suggest some plan to get rid of this useless trouble of the people being bothered nearly to death, by those fellows who want an office?"

Having heard this complaint frequently before, from business men and farmers, I gave him for answer the old democratic idea, and that was he should tell it to every candidate who called on him. "Let the office seek the man, and not the man seek the office." He told me that already he and his hands had been bothered from one to three or more hours daily by candidates, some of whom he has never seen or heard of before. That the spring was late, his work behind and that he is and will be hurried with his work for months. He said his nature was not to be rude or uncivil, but felt sorely aggrieved at the loss he has and will sustain if this thing was kept up, and in good faith desired to know if there was no remedy. I then suggested another plan, the one farmers have of keeping hunters out of their woods, by placing up a board in front of their houses with these words on "No candidates allowed on these premises."

Another said that he lived in sight of a very prominent democratic farmers' residence in Concord township in 1888, and that during that campaign, he had many days seen buggies hitched at his gate, and politicians and candidates sitting on his porch the whole day, and often late at night, and that he believed that farmer had at his table a daily average of at least four men.

Now, Mr. Editor, this is riding a free horse too hard. Is it right? There is but one answer, which I need not give. Let any man take a second thought and they will acknowledge that the custom and practice is hateful and obnoxious to many. No respectable man will snub or insult an other under such circumstances, nor fail to invite or even press another to take a meal with him or stay over night. But every one knows, that it is not always convenient to entertain strangers even to a meal. Not because of its expense, but because of other reasons well known to every man who ever was the head of a family.

I know too, that many men consider it an honor to be thus called on especially if the candidate gives them a little taffy to feed their vanity. But the active pushing energetic and busy business men and farmers, do not think so, and although they may express themselves pleased with the call, will after the candidates has left, say, "I wish he hadn't come," and will be compelled to do on to-morrow, what should have been done that day.

But Mr. COURIER, I actually have no remedy to suggest. The remedy rests largely with these busy business men and farmers. They are greatly to blame for the hours of time and labor they lose. They, if they do not have the time, should promptly excuse themselves from giving further time to these visitors, and honestly say that it is inconvenient to take them home to dinner or over night. Candidates and their friends can give much relief in this direction, by making their calls short and accept no invitation which might occasion inconvenience.

This custom has became quite a burden upon the candidate, which is wrongful and has a tendency to keep a good many men from becoming candidates. It excludes the poor man or men of ordinary means from entering the race, because of want of time and means, and thus either the rich candidate gets the office, or the fellow who has nothing else to do but be on the run, begging, imploring importuning and boring others to give an office, if not doing worse things to get it.

A man can not make such a campaign unless it cost him from $200 to $300, his time, and necessary traveling expenses, to say nothing of incidental and accidental outlays will reach those sums, and if he is a poor man he can not stand it, if he should be successful, he is crippled just that much in his campaign after the nomination. So Mr. Editor from every point we may view the subject, the custom is hurtful to the man as well as the party. This thing of the candidates being let loose and on the run for weeks working in, as they call it their interests, engenders a great deal of feeling, conflict of interests and talk and insinuations which frequently culminates in lies and slanders, which generally produces bolting and kicking with a defeat to the candidate and the party. Ours is a democratic county by 300 or 400 majority, and the defeats with which we have met in the last twenty years, can be traced more certainly to this kind of campaigning, than from any and all other causes.

So now Mr. Editor if by these lines I can call the attention of our candidates and their friends, our farmers and business men and the mass of our voters, to the evils of this custom, I feel assured that I have performed a duty, which will bear good fruit not only to a great many individuals, the candidates and the party generally in this county.

W. H. DILLS.

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 8 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman,

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city, leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory.

H. J. Trentman.

The Indignation Parade.

As had been advertised a big parade was held last Friday evening, in which all the factories, and a great part of the citizens joined. The procession was headed by the Foundry band, looking neat in their tasty uniforms. They furnished appropriate music all along the line of march. There were also a few fish horns, and such things though everybody was quiet and orderly. There were a number of fine transparencies in the procession, incribed with appropriate mottoes, and many people not usually given to marching fell into line and helped to swell the crowd. They marched up Main to Fourth street and thence onto Jackson and going south returned to Main street, went south around the public square and into the Opera House which was instantly filled to the galleries, leaving a good crowd still on the street. It was expected there would be a speech from Gen. Blair, of Waterloo, but for some reason he was not present. W. B. Brown called the meeting to order. Resolutions expressive of the feelings of the citizens were read, and then adopted. It was then decided to send a copy of said resolutions to the Indianapolis Journal and Sentinel, and to one paper in Chicago.

Moody, Zent, Dills, Hanna and others were called upon to make speeches, none responded to the call except Mr. Hanna, who in a few pointed words expressed his desire to hear some views of the affair expressed in public as had been expressed by some in private. No one responded. Chairman Brown then made a few pointed remarks in which was embodied the particular feature, termed justice. Three loud, long cheers for the manufactories of Auburn rang out on the the evening air. This closed the evenings proceedings.

It may be added that the Opera House was never filled to its utmost capacity by a more enthusiastic company in so short a time. And all the evening on the streets and elsewhere the best of order was maintained, and no sign of a riot or of disorderly conduct. Everyone was on his good behavior.

Bought a Spark Arrester.

"Angelina, we must sever. No more may I press thee to my breast; no longer taste the nectar of thy honeyed lips."

"Oh, Ivan, why pain me with these forebodings dire?"

"Dearest, Auburn must know me no more. Thy father has purchased a spark arrester."

"What meanest thou, Ivan? Thy speech is dark and difficult of comprehension."

"I saw him bartering with a man of evil countenance for a ferocious canine."

"O, Ivan, fleet is justice and maketh frequent errors. Then haste thee to the mountains, where thy melodious whistle shall echo unmolested and the portals of thy speech be ever open."

Thus passeth into innocuous desuetude another infant industry. Selah.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

AT WILSON'S SHOE STORE,

Great Bargains!

See our $2.00 Calf Boot, usually sold for $2.50. Our Oil Grain Tap Sole Solid Working Shoe for $2.00. Our $1.25 Shoes can't be beat.

Fine Shoes For Ladies' and Gents'.

Quality and Style Unsurpassable.

PRICES LOW.

Call and see us, south side of square, Auburn, Ind. Repairing promptly done. Respectfully yours,

J. N. WILSON & SON,

AUBURN and WATERLOO.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.

Carpets! Carpets!

ALL GRADES, ALL MAKES.

Axminsters, Moquetts, Velvets, Tapestries, Body Brussels, and Ingrains. Never were carpets sold cheaper than this season. We show the correct styles in all the new colors and designs. none better to be had.

OUR PRICES THE LATEST.

Buy the Lowell Ingrain Carpets, "wound on a hollow stick." Best all-carpets on earth. We are selling agents for them in Ft. Wayne.

In a few words, we are the leading carpet dealers of Ft. Wayne. Carry the largest line of ol grades of carpets and curtain goods, and expect to do a larger business this spring than ever before. A new and elegant line of

Straw Mattings,

Curtains and draperies in endless variety, new and pleasing to the eye. It It will pay you to come one hundred miles to see these goods before furnishing your homes.

Louis Wolf & Co.,

54 CALHOUN ST., FT. WAYNE, IND.

If you purchase Dry Goods or Carpets of us to the amount of Ten Dollars or upwards, we will pay your railroad fare.

For All Kinds Of

Finest Millinery, Notions, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Furnishing Goods,

And Articles for Fancy Work, it will pay you to call on

J. C. JOHNSTON, Waterloo, Ind.

000 000 000

WE keep the largest assortment, very latest styles, lowest prices. The best facilities for doing business and the largest force of experienced help of any establishment of the kind in this part of the country.

000 000 000

IN addition to our Millinery Department, we pay close attention to other lines above mentioned, which means a great variety of articles too numerous to mention.

000 000 000

WE shall continue as in the past to add to our stock, novelties, both in millinery and our stock generally, as fast as they appear in the eastern markets, and will be at all times ready to furnish our customers with just what they want, as we keep a large assortment of each article in our stock varying in prices and qualities, in proof of which, do as others are doing, call and be convinced. Thanking you for past favors,

I am yours truly,

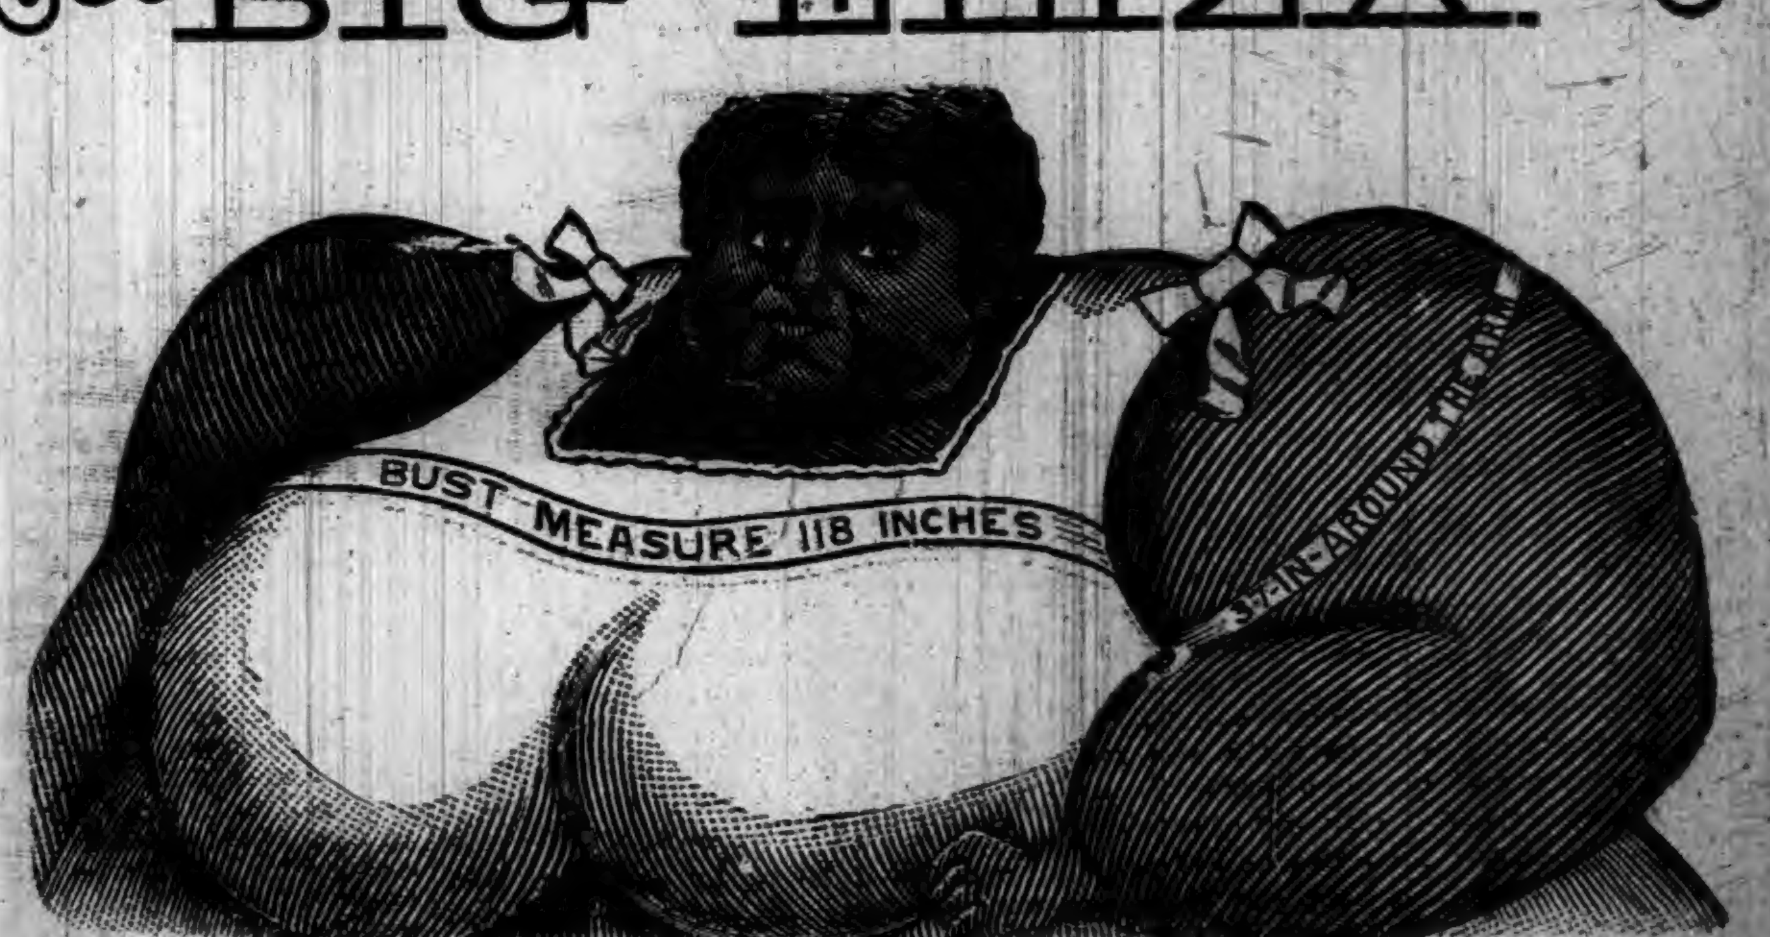
J. G. JOHNSTON,

WATERLOO, IND.

Geary's Traveling World's Museum Under Canvass,

JAMES GEARY, Manager.

BIG ELIZA.



The largest human being on earth; born at Malvern, Ky., 46 years of age; bust measure 118 inches; measures round the arm 37 inches; travels in her own special car. Everybody invited to see her unloaded, on the morning of arrival, from the car, loaded on a mammoth caravan and paraded through the principal street from the depot to the show grounds. A hundred other interesting, amusing, living curiosities, mechanical inventions, automations, etc. Eagle Eye, wife and Family of genuine Sioux Indians. The [illegible] Family. Francisco, child glass dancer. [illegible], Snake Enchantress. Master Kinnan, Human Pin Cushion. Shadowgraphs. Juggling. Punch and Judy. The Living [illegible]. [illegible] of Cunning Monkeys and Domestic Animals and numberless other wonders. Interesting descriptive lectures on every object exhibited. The Theatre Annex adjoining seated with comfortable adjustable circus seats. [illegible] complete in every detail, presenting a first-class moral entertainment. Doors open at 1 o'clock, performances continuous every hour from 1 to 10 p. m. You can come at any time—1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 or 10 o'clock—and see the entire show. Ladies and children can attend without an escort. Everything strictly moral and first class. Nothing shall be said or done that cannot be repeated at home in the library. Come at any time during the day. Admission always 10 cents. A few reserved seats in Theatre 5 cents extra.

Will Exhibit in AUBURN ONE DAY, Afternoon and Evening,

Wednesday May 14.

COURIER--Supplement, Auburn, Ind., Thursday, May 8, 1890.

GRAND AUCTION SALE!

SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1890, OF ALL UNSOLD LOTS IN THE Natural Gas Addition.

This is the chance of a lifetime to get a good building lot for a home at your own price on

SATURDAY, MAY 17, '90.

Lots in this addition are on a high elevation, affording natural and easy drainage, pure, sparkling water rises to the surface of the ground. The soil is of a sandy nature and very productive.

Sale will commence at 1 o'clock. Good music will be furnished by the Auburn Cornet Band. Come one and all and bring the children.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third cash; balance in three equal deferred payments, in 6, 12 and 18 months with 6 per cent. interest.

AUBURN, INDIANA, APRIL 16, 1890.

W. H. McINTYRE, SECRETARY AUBURN MINING CO.: SIR:---I have carefully examined the records in the Recorder's, Clerk's, Auditor's and Treasurer's office of this county, in so far as it refers to the property bought of Edward J. Baker, now platted, and known as the "Natural Gas Addition," and find that you have an absolute title to the above property free from any and all encumbrance. Very respectfully, R. DEXTER TEFFT, Abstractor.

I concur in above. D. Z. HOFFMAN, Abstractor.

Recorder's Office.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1890. NUMBER 20.

Post's Sacrifice Sale.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY.

Closing our stock at

Bankrupt Prices.

All Dress Goods 1-4 and 1-2 off. All our trimmings, etc., Ginghams, Prints, Muslins, at Actual cost. In fact all our entire stock at less than cost. It will pay you to call at

POST'S.

There are said to be three or four ladies well known in London society who are determined to appear at the next meet of the Coaching Club on horseback, astride.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

A lighted cigar stump that he was trying to save until after the performance set fire to the clothes of a man in a Newark theater gallery. They promptly put him out.

CATARRH—CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—Hay Fever—A New Home Treatment

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is, that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above. ly

The doctors in the French fleet have been forbidden to practice "hypnotism" on their patients. A similar prohibition was issued some months ago to the French army doctors.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

Professor Forster, of Breslau, states that 300 cases have come under his notice in which the eyesight has been affected by the disturbance of the circulation caused by wearing tight collars.

For Twenty Years.

Mr. George Frank, ex-commissioner of Adams Co. Ind., says: I have had a bronchial cough for twenty years and used all the different cough medicines, and found nothing that has given me so much relief as Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I can heartily recommend it to all of those that are affected with a chronic cough and guarantee that it will give entire satisfaction. Yours, GEO. FRANK. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Mr. Taylor, of Prescott, Ariz., took a trip recently to the African diamond fields. He wrote to a friend that he had to pay a tax of £5 on each chamber of his revolver before he could step into that country.

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough, remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well known Nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. A steady position with a Nursery of over thirty years' standing, and a known responsibility. We want good, lively workers, and will pay well. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.

CHASE BROTHERS CO., Chicago, Ill.

"How do you like your beau, Jennie?"
"He's a fellow after my own heart."
Boston Courier.

A Fortunate Woman.

Mrs. Mary L. Baker, of Ovid, Mich., has reason to be very thankful. She was a great sufferer from heart disease for years. Was short of breath, had hungry spells, pain in side, fluttering, faintness etc. After taking two bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, she says, "I am better than for twenty years. My mind and eyesight have improved wonderfully, I advise all persons thus afflicted to use this great remedy." F. E. Davenport the druggist, recomends and guarantees it. Dr. Miles' work on heart disease, containing marvelous testimonials free. 2

President Diaz, of Mexico, is a man about fifty years of age, of a dark swarthy complexion, of engaging address, and has always a pleasant greeting for all he meets.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own house work and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Robbins & McCords drug store, large bottles 50c and $1. 2

It is supposed our new election law will enable the authorities to post over the entrance to the polling places: "Who enters here leaves soap behind."

They All Failed.

The following letter from W. A. Thomson, of Columbus, Wis., is peculiarly interesting: "My wife," says he, "has been treated for her head, stomach, and nervous prostration by three doctors in New York, two in Chicago, one in Philadelphia, one in Cincinnati, and at the large institute in Buffalo for 16 months. They all failed. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine helped her wonderfully." This should be used in all headaches, backaches, changes of life, nervous disturbances, fits, rheumatism, etc. Ask at F. E. Davenports' drug store for a free trial bottle and Dr. Miles' new book on the nerves and heart.

The 300 Chinese vegetable dealers at Los Angeles have formed a trust to control the business.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O

Next Sunday Morning

at ten o'clock or any day this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough as it is guaranteed to cure and relieve all chronic and acute coughs for less money than any other, as the price is only 25 cts. It enables all to give this great medicine a trial. A fresh supply at F. E. Davenport's.

Well Driving.

Purdy & Son, the well known well drivers of Auburn, will devote their time to this business and give all their patrons good work. They have an abundant experience, and can show certificates from the leading property owners in the county, to show the satisfaction their work has given. Call on them at Auburn, or write where you want them to come. Address PURDY & SON, Auburn, Ind.

Obituary.

Jonathan Rummel, was born in Portage county, Ohio, Jan. 26 1836. He was the second son of John and Sarah Rummel, natives of Ohio, and of German descent. When he was 8 years old, his father died, and he remained with his mother until he was 14 years of age, the greater part of the time being devoted to study. At the age of 14 he began to work at the harness maker's trade, which he was obliged to abandon, on the account of ill health. He returned to the farm, and in 1852 came to Indiana, locating in Wells county. He was variously employed until 1858, when he began to work at the painter's trade, which he followed until the breaking out of the rebellion. May 19th 1861, he enlisted in Co. F. 13th Ind. Infantry, the first three years regiment in the state. Among the more prominent battles in which he participated, were Petersburg, Jones Run, Winchester and Richmond. At Greenbrier Creek, Oct. 3 1861, he was wounded in the right leg and disabled for four months. At Ft. Fisher he received four slight flesh wounds. A portion of his term of service, he performed the duties of commissary sergeant. He was discharged Sept. 5, 1865, after a service of four years and four months. Upon his return to civil life, he resumed work at the painter's trade in Ft. Wayne. In 1870 he moved to Waterloo, and in 1876 accepted the management of the DeKalb county poor farm, to which he brought system and industry, bringing order out of chaos and making the farm self supporting.

Mr. Rummel was married July 13, 1865 to Mary E. daughter of Simon Acker, of Portage county Ohio, and later of Wabash county Ind. To them have been born six children. But one is living, Cora E. Mr. and Mrs. Rummel were members of the Lutheran church, and have been for about 23 years, he was also a member of the Waterloo lodge, No. 1436, Knights of Honor. He departed this life May 9, 1890, age 54 yrs. 3 mos. and 13 days.

He was a man who had the esteem of all who knew him, and the friendship the people felt for him and his family was attested by the great numbers attending the funeral both of Auburn and Waterloo people. The funeral was at the Lutheran church in Auburn, on Sunday, May 11, at 10:30 a. m., the services being conducted by Rev. D. F. Kain, the pastor. He was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at Waterloo, at which place a great concourse of his old neighbors had gathered to pay him their last tribute of respect.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Mr. J. C. Warnock, Atlanta, Ga., says: I have been treated by the most prominent physicians seventeen years for kidney disease without benefit. About six weeks ago I suffered such intense pain—scarcely being able to breathe at times—I concluded to try "Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure," and after using one bottle was entirely and absolutely cured. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga., Proprietors; also, manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure for coughs, colds, asthma and consumption.

Low Rates for Dedication Garfield Monument.

The dedication of the National Garfield Monument will take place at Cleveland, O., May 30th. For this occasion the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Cleveland and return, May 29, at one lowest first-class fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good to and including June 2, 1890. Apply to E. T. DeLapp for full particulars. 19 21

HERE WE ARE AGAIN!

BUT this time we come with a list comprising a choice lot of new properties at exceedingly low prices, in fact any one of them is a bargain, when the location, improvements and general surroundings are taken into

CONSIDERATION.

While heretofore we have offered many bargains, all of which have been gobbled up with the great rapacity of

A HUNGRY MAN.

We believe this to be the choicest lot of all, and the only one we will be able to offer on such favorable terms and prices, but these pieces are for sale at prices that

WILL SELL THEM,

and if you think of buying for a residence or as an investment, call at our office and we will convince you our statements are true as to

PROPERTY AND PRICES.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. The soil is a most splendid one for producing large yields of all kinds of grain. There are 30 acres of good timber on this farm. This farm is cheap at $60 per acre, but we will sell it for less money.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn, and would make someone a fortune if they would buy and plat it in acre lots.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling, barn, orchard and good fences. This would be a bonanza for anyone at $2,800, but it goes for less. "First come first served" in this trade.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings, 2 good wells sugar camp, fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared. This is a great bargain for someone with small capital, to secure a house, and is cheap at $2,500, but it can be be bought for less money.

No. 230. One hundred and ninety-two acres in Newville township, within short distance of Newville and Hicksville. 130 acres under cultivation, balance timber land. Elegant brick dwelling, frame barn, wind pump, two good orchards. School and church near. Here is an opportunity which is seldom found in a lifetime, to secure a farm which is ready to make money for the purchaser from the time of purchase. This farm is well worth $65 per acre, but less will buy it, if taken at once.

No. 304. Sixty acres fine land in Wilmington township. Good frame building with all modern improvements, good orchard. This can be bought for less than $2,500.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O. This will be sold at any reasonable price as it must go.

No. 305. One hundred and forty acres of as good land as there is in this county and with improvements on it that are equalled by but few farms in this county, lies within two and one-half miles of good market. We wish to call your especial attention to this tract as one of our best bargains and is cheap at $10,500, but less will buy it if taken soon. The owner is sick, and has not the necessary help and cannot farm it to any advantage, is the reason a sacrifice will be made. Long time and easy terms.

No. 309. Seventy-eight acres in Concord township. Fine large brick dwelling, large frame barn, splendid orchard of over 100 trees, all bearing. Small fruits in abundance, and soil unsurpassed for producing all kinds of crops. This farm can be bought cheap and will be like finding money at $7,500.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana Trade well established. Here is a chance for someone to make money with but little capital to invest, as the property can be bought cheap, and will give immediate possession.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street You know that property in the south end of town is not for sale, generally speaking, and when offered is not long in the market. So it will be with this one. Do not delay, but come at once as it must go.

Vacant lots in the South End of town, at prices to suit customers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we are still loaning money on farms in sums of $1,000 and over at 6 per cent. interest on five years' time.

Also, that we offer to the public

THE MOST LIBERAL

Fire, Life and Accident Policy of any Agency in Northern Indiana. Come in and get our terms.

Also, that we can sell you a Railroad or Steamship Ticket at rates that will astonish you. Our rates are the lowest and our routes the best. Come and see us and we will convince you that these are facts.

We have omitted many bargains (our space being limited,) especially in town properties, a list of which may be seen at our office. Call and see us.

BICKEL & SPROTT,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

We are highly pleased with the business we have done so far this season.

We have an elegant line of dry goods, clothing, carpets etc., which we are always pleased to show.

If you want the very latest and nobbiest goods the market affords you can find what you want in our stock. Our prices are always most reasonable for quality of goods.

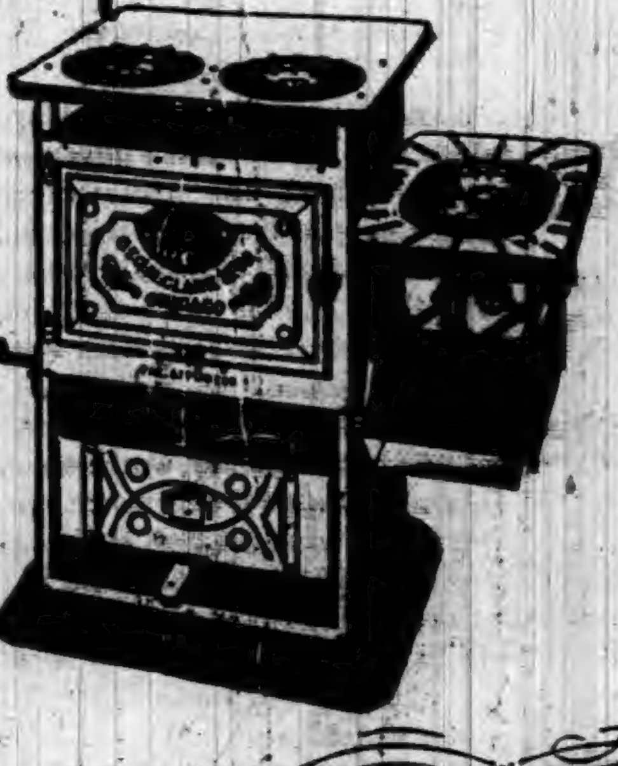
We will be pleased to have you call and will do all we can to make your visit both pleasant and profitable to you. Always anxious to please.

Yours Respectfully,
SCHAAB & BRO.

JEWEL GRAND STEP.

THE GRANDEST OF ALL GRANDS!

MORE-FOR-NO-MORE-MONEY.



GREATEST PERFECTION & ECONOMY GUARANTEED.

Positively No Odor or Smell.

FOUR BURNERS ON TOP, OF WHICH YOU CAN USE ONE OR ALL.

One set between the Oven and Roasting Chamber for Baking and Roasting, Toasting or Broiling at the same time with the same flame.

This is the best stove in America, and you cannot be pleased with any other after seeing this, therefore don't fail to see it.

J. BEURET, Dealer in Hardware and Tinware.
Tinshop at 15, North Main St., Auburn, Ind.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Killed on a Trestle.

A letter from L. J. Gengler, at Garrett, dated May 8, 1890, says:

Thursday evening about 6:55 o'clock R. L. Simpson returning from Kendallville, started to walk from Avilla to Garrett, when within 2½ miles west from Garrett on the large trestle west of Frank Clark's slaughter house, No. 6 over took him. Mr. Simpson stepped to one side leaning over, had his head bent to-ward the engine, which struck him in head taking the top of his head off, then falling down off of the trestle about 18 feet to the bottom. Geo. Bowersox was the engineer, stopped his train and brought him to Garrett. He was taken to E. Bretz undertaker where the inquest was held. Mr. Simpson was about 68 years of age, he kept a second hand furnishing and repairing shop. The day before he was called to Kendallville by his sister on account of sickness. He was a member of G. A. R. and was buried under the auspices of the order.

New Farm Gate.

C. C. Boyer, of Waterloo, is the patentee of the handiest farm gate we ever saw. It is so arranged that it rests on the ground, or some other support, at one end so that it cannot sag, and is hung by strong hinges at the other. It can be raised easily, so as to swing clear of snow, or other obstacles, and in case of very deep snow can be easily turned, so as to swing several feet high. It costs only about a third more than common gates, and its greater durability makes it really cheaper. Several reliable and well known farmers have approved it and some of them are acting as agents for its sale. So far they have not been able to make gates fast as orders came, but are increasing their facilities. Reliable agents wanted in every township, to solicit orders.

An Encouraging Word to Farmers.

Over production of farm products, too much wheat, oats, corn, too many cattle, hogs and sheep, is now the cry. We produce more than our own people consume, and foreigners will only take our surplus at their own prices. Is there any light ahead? Yes, a little. Nearly all of the cheap government lands have been sold, and western migration for homestead and cheap land is stayed. Our population is increasing at the rate of 2,200,000 a year, and in less than ten years a healthy home demand will more than overtake production. Then the great Deering factory, which put the first successful Grain Binder upon the market, and has always, as now, led the way to economical methods of harvesting grain and grass, is still at it more largely and successfully than ever, endeavoring to help the farmers to make and save money, while helping themselves by furnishing the constantly improved Deering Binders and Mowers. Chicago, Ill., April, 16, 1890.

IF YOU WANT TO

BUY CHEAP,

—Go to the—

Bargain Store

On Eighth St., West of Court House.

HAMBLETONIAN.

COLONEL STERLING.

—PEDIGREE.—

Colonel Sterling was sired by Sterling 1447, he by Volunteer, 55, and he by Hambletonian, 10. Colonel Sterling's dam was sired by Robert Fillingham, Jr., he by George Wilks, 519, and he by Hambletonian, 10.

Look at the Royal blood combination, that of Hambletonian, 10, George Wilks, 519, and Volunteer, 55, all for $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

Write for extended pedigree.

F. J. YESBERA,
AUBURN, IND.

Commissioner's Sale.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned Commissioner appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court, in the case of Samuel Davis et al. vs Matilda Radormer et al. in said court by order of said court will sell at public auction on the premises on

Saturday, May 17, 1890.

The following premises in DeKalb county, Indiana, to wit: Sixty-two and one-half (62½) acres off of the north end of the east half of the northeast quarter of section nineteen (19) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east, excepting the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago railroad, passing through said land. And also the south half of the southeast quarter of section seven (7), all in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east. Sale to commence at ten o'clock a. m. of said day.

Terms: One-third cash, one-third in one year and one-third in two years. The deferred payments to be secured by notes, at interest, waiving relief, and secured by a mortgage on the premises.

JOHN NELSON,
Commissioner.

April 14, 1890.
James E. Rose Atty.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

Killed by Savages.

San Francisco special: Four white and forty-seven natives, who were going as laborers to Australia, were lost by the wreck of a schooner on the new Hebrides. The survivors say that about twenty natives and one white man reached shore, but the islanders, after inviting them to a feast, tomahawked and ate the whole crowd except one boy who escaped. The schooner was the Eliza Mary, and she had on board a crew of eighteen, two passengers, forty-four recruits and fifteen returning laborers. During a blind rain storm on March 4 the schooner was driven on the reefs at Mallicolo. A boat manned by four white men and several blacks was lowered, but was dashed to pieces in an attempt to gain the shore. The four white men and a number of the blacks were drowned. About twenty of the blacks succeeded in swimming to shore and making their way to Mission Station, ten miles distant. Here the castaways were given food, but while eating it the savages set upon and began tomahawking them. Of the twenty, only one, a boy, succeeded in escaping. In all, four white men and forty-seven blacks were lost.

Southern Railroad Accident.

One engineer, two firemen, and two brakemen were killed by the collision of two freight trains on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway at a tunnel four miles from Chattanooga, Tenn. The accident was caused by a misunderstanding of running orders. The killed are: Alfred Harris, colored brakeman; John Bailey, fireman of Rome, Ga.; Scott Price, colored brakeman, J. M. Clifford, fireman of Knoxville, and a brakeman whose name is unknown. Engineer Gregory was probably injured fatally.

Randall's Successor.

Richard Vaux, who was nominated by the Democrats in Randall's district at Philadelphia, was born in 1816 and was admitted to the bar when 20 years of age. During President Van Buren's administration he acted as Secretary of the American Legislation at London. He was elected Mayor of Philadelphia on the Democratic ticket in 1866 and served one term. He has always been a stalwart Democrat and is popularly known as the "Bourbon of Bourbons."

The Ohio Cyclone.

Tiffin (Ohio) special: Later information is to the effect that the late storm was disastrous in various parts of the southeastern section of Seneca County, although no lives were lost. At McCutchenville, on the Wyandot line, Chamberlin's hardware store was unroofed and partly demolished, and large barns on the Samson and Zigler farms were scattered to the winds near New Riegel, and a large and a valuable barn was struck by lightning and burned with its contents. The total loss so far as learned will aggregate several thousand dollars.

Perished in the Flames.

A fire occurred in a small frame building at Campbellford, Ont., resulting in the death of two persons, a boy named William Flynn, aged 13, and his grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Soules, aged 80. The old lady was quite helpless and was up stairs in bed. When the fire was discovered the boy rushed upstairs to bring his grandmother out. He was overtaken by the flames which spread rapidly and perished with the grandmother.

Saved from Drowning.

D. Asire, at the risk of his life, succeeded in saving two boys named Sprout and Sharf from drowning at Fostoria, Ohio. While walking near where the waterworks reservoir is to be located he saw the Sprout lad, who was swimming in Portage Creek, sink twice. The Sharf boy went to his assistance, but his friend seized him around the neck, and both sank. Mr. Asire hastened to their rescue and with great difficulty succeeded in saving them.

A California Lynching.

Santa Maria (Cal.) special: Twenty masked men entered the saloon where E. L. Criswell has been confined since Constable Southard's murder, stood up the guards with shot-guns, placed blankets over their heads, and then proceeded to Criswell's room and tied and gagged him. They then passed a rope up over the rafters, swung him up and left him hanging until daylight.

A Horrible Discovery.

A cask supposed to contain salted vegetables, was landed at San Francisco from a cargo at Yokohama on the 16th instant. The stench from it was unbearable, and on its being opened it was found to contain the corpse of a man and a child much decomposed. The cask was from Nimsea, Corea, and consigned to a Toledo merchant, who says he bought them for medical purposes. The police are investigating.

Attempt to Assassinate a Priest.

An attempt was made at Jeffersonville, Ind., to assassinate Rev. E. Andran, rector of St. Augustine's Catholic church. Two shots were fired as he was standing on his porch. The perpetrator missed his mark and escaped. The venerable priest is popular and was not known to have an enemy.

Michigan Millionaire Dead.

Thomas Nestor, a Michigan millionaire and lumberman, died at Barayo of apoplexy, aged 55. He was worth $40,000,000, made in pine lands, starting in as a poor lumber chopper in the woods.

An Editor Disappears.

It is reported that I. A. Baker, editor of the Moron (Ill.) Times disappeared May 7 and has not been heard from since. Foul play is suspected.

Mutilated and Eaten by Fish.

Indianapolis special: Boys found the head, trunk, hips, and arms of an unknown white man in Eagle Creek, west of the city. The body was in dissevered fragments, apparently cut apart with an axe, and the whole fastened down in a pool of water, and the features entirely eaten away by fish. The Coroner is satisfied it is a foul murder, and reports that unusual ingenuity was shown in concealing the body. Several citizens have mysteriously disappeared in the past three months. The supposition is that the remains are Abraham Cline, a real estate agent, who was last seen ten days ago with considerable money, and whose family stoutly hold that he has been murdered by unknown parties. Cline's family and friends, assisted by the police force and detectives, have been untiringly searching for some trace of the missing man ever since his disappearance. Every possible clue, however slight, has been followed until it proved itself a hopeless cause, and even then hesitatingly abandoned. It now seems that boyish play has accidentally unravelled a mystery which has baffled skill, experience and affectionate solicitude and anxiety. It is hoped that some identifying mark may be found upon the mutilated remains by which assurance can be gained that they are all that is earthly of poor Cline. Positive knowledge of his death will be preferable to the agonizing suspense which his family has undergone.

MORE HORROR.

Another Insane Asylum Burned and Eleven More Lives Sacrificed.

A special from Utica, N. Y., dated the 9th inst., says: The Chenango County Poor-house and Insane Asylum, located at Preston, six miles west of Norwich, were entirely consumed last night. The fire was discovered about 11 o'clock, in the north wing of the poor-house building, where the idiots were kept. There was no means for extinguishing the flames. The keepers and neighbors gave their attention to getting out the 125 paupers and insane, and let the building burn. Eleven idiots are missing. Six bodies can be seen slowly burning. The other five are supposed to be covered up. The poor-house building was three stories high and built of wood. The asylum was also a wooden building two stories high and only separated from the poor-house by a driveway. The property was estimated worth $25,000 and insured for $20,000. The Universalist and Baptist churches have been opened for the reception of the unfortunates. The origin of the fire is unknown. Yesterday afternoon a woman was in the idiot department smoking. She put her pipe in her pocket and was soon enveloped in flames, and later died from the effects of the burns. It is supposed that some of the idiots got hold of some matches, and in playing with them set fire to the building.

All the departments in the institution were crowded and it can well be imagined that the rescue of the poor creatures, many of them old and feeble, and others wild with fear and terror, which added to their insane delusions, was by no means an easy task. The firemen and citizens worked as best they could to carry, drive, drag and push the inmates out, but the flames spread so rapidly there was little time, and the great wonder is that so many were rescued. There was little system in the conduct of the effort to save. People went at it at haphazzard, spalled by the awfulness of the cries and moans of the inmates and the magnitude of the catastrophe. Not one of those who worked expected that so many would be saved. Sheriff Kinney has sworn in a large number of deputies and is searching for missing paupers. The number of dead may possibly reach thirteen, but from the state of the ruins it is impossible to state exactly. The most careful count of the Superintendent does not show that more than thirteen were burned.

AN INTERNATIONAL EPISODE.

An Officer Experiences Difficulty in Making an Arrest on Board a German Ship in Harbor.

San Francisco special: A collector in the employ of an outfitting firm went aboard the German ship Theodore, which is anchored in the bay here, to collect some money from the third mate, Waldoff. Waldoff repudiated the debt and, after an altercation, knocked the collector down. The latter went ashore and secured a warrant for Waldoff's arrest. The warrant was given to Officer Mahoney, who went to the ship in a small boat accompanied by two boatmen. As the boat approached the vessel the ladder was hauled up, but after making an explanation to First Mate Schukin the ladder was lowered and Mahoney was allowed to go aboard, though the ladder was drawn up immediately to prevent the boatmen from following him. Mahoney went into the cabin with Schukin and Waldoff, and after some parley placed the latter under arrest. Schukin soon went on deck, and as Woldoff refused to go with the officer the latter led him out of the cabin. When they reached the deck the crew of twenty-seven men were gathered aft, and Mate Schukin pointed to the German flag floating astern and informed him that he was on a German ship and could not take Waldoff off. Mahoney attempted to push his way through the crowd with his charge, but the crew closed around him, grasped him by the arms and rescued his prisoner. The boatmen hearing the disturbance jumped on the ladder which had been again let down. One of the crew attempted to cut the ladder rope with his knife, but the boatmen told him they would shoot him if he did so and they came aboard. Officer Mahoney then concluded to go ashore for help, and as he left the ship the crew shouted expressions of contempt. Capt. Dunlevy, of the harbor police, laid the facts before Capt. Hawes, of the Theodore, who was ashore at the time, and the officer again went aboard the ship and arrested both mates without further difficulty.

Exciting Steamboat Race.

Liverpool special: A stirring ocean race has just taken place across the Atlantic between the steamships Auranta of the White Star line, and the City of Rome of the Anchor line, on the result of which a great deal of money will change hands. The Aurania left New York on Saturday, May 3, at 4 p. m., and the City of Rome at 5 p. m. They kept each other in sight all the way across, the Aurania being always about five knots astern. As the ships neared Brow Head the City of Rome led by about ten minutes. The betting aboard both ships was fast and furious. When they approached the Mersy, the City of Rome was fifteen minutes ahead, and the passengers wagered with each other on board while the spectators ashore, who had become aware of the race, took odds, first on one ship and then on the other, till the amount at stake was enormous. The City of Rome landed at Liverpool at 7 a. m. on Saturday, and was declared the winner.

Terrific Tornado.

Akron, Ohio, was struck by the most terrific tornado ever known in that vicinity. About one hundred dwellings and business houses were totally demolished and a number of others wrecked. At the brewery the hurricane did the most damage. The extensive buildings were entirely ruined, and the loss will probably reach $20,000. A little daughter of Gebhart Herman was pinned to the floor by an overturned stove, and before she could be extricated was frightfully burned. Melvin Irish and family were seated at supper when the storm struck the house. Mrs. Irish cried to the family to run to the cellar, that a cyclone was upon them. The lady herself and the children escaped, but before Mr. Irish could reach a safe place he was caught by falling timbers and fatally crushed. The full extent of damage to the city and vicinity can not yet be estimated.

"Pete the Pincher" Pinched.

Jersey City special: The mysterious character known as "Pete the Pincher," has been captured. He has terrorized the population—particularly the female portion—for the past six months. His assaults were not bloody like those of "Jack the Ripper," his mind running more to osculatory pleasures than to brutal butchery. He was finally captured by a crowd of enraged women who threatened him with lynching and were only prevented from putting their threats into execution by the interference of officers.

Attempted Escape of the Cronin Murderers.

Joliet (Ill.) special: A huge sensation was unearthed in the penitentiary, and four convicts, including Burke and the Cronin suspects, are in solitary confinement. The officers became aware that a conspiracy was being hatched for some prisoners to escape, and brought into the office Burke and Kavanaugh (sent up for attempting to bribe the Cronin jury) and two others. The four were stripped, and on each was found a big roll of money, and on Burke some whisky. One of the men had a letter on his person directing his friends to send money to Barrett, foreman of Winterbottom & Son, owners of the cooper shop in the prison. Barrett was ordered from the prison and the prisoners sent to solitary confinement. Barrett claims it to be a put-up job, as he was hard on the prisoners.

The Loyal Legion.

At the annual meeting of the Ohio commandry of the military order of the Loyal Legion in session at Cincinnati, the following officers were elected: Commander, Major E. C. Dawes, Cincinnati; senior vice-commander, Gen. Thomas J. Wood, Dayton; junior vice-commander, Gen. A. C. Vooris, Dayton; recorder, Capt. Robert Hunter, Cincinnati; registrar, Capt. J. C. Michie, Cincinnati; treasurer, Major F. B. James, Cincinnati; chancellor, Capt. W. Crane, Cincinnati; chaplain, Rev. H. M. Bacon, Toledo; Council, Lieutenant Colonel G. M. Finch, Major H. K. Cushing, Cleveland; Major W. H. Chamberlain, General R. W. Healy, Cincinnati. The commandery adopted a resolution urgently insisting that all possible speed, compatible with accuracy, be maintained in the publication by the government of the records of the rebellion.

Murder at Batavia, Ohio.

John G. Prather, a prominent citizen of Chilo, in Clermont County, was buried at Batavia. As the funeral train was returning from the cemetery, they heard cries from an old, white-haired man named Stewart, who was standing in the road with blood pouring from a ghastly knife wound in the neck. Stewart said that George Heck had tried to murder him. Heck was immediately arrested and placed in the county jail at Batavia. Threats of lynching were made by the excited citizens. Heck's version of the affair is to the effect that Stewart tried to kill him a year ago, and had again stabbed him, and in warding off the blow Heck had stabbed the old man with a penknife with which he happened to be whittling a stick at the time.

A Demon's Deed.

Near Fairfield, Ohio, Ira Marlatt shot and killed Barick Ashton and seriously wounded Lewis Bell. It seems that Marlatt went to Ashton and Bell, and asked them to sign a bond or note. They refused, and he became angry. Drawing a revolver he fired at both. Ashton fell dead, and Bell received a bad wound from which it was at first thought he could not recover. After the shooting Marlatt fled, and Sheriff Wyman found him at the home of his mother. Wyman knocked at the door and it was not opened, when Wyman battered it down and as he entered, Marlatt shot Wyman in the side inflicting a flesh wound which is not dangerous. The prisoner was locked up in the County Jail.

Government Aids Flood Sufferers.

The Secretary of War has sent a telegram to Capt. Weston, of the commissary depot, at New Orleans, in reference to relief of the flood sufferers in Mississippi, instructing him to cause an investigation as to the necessity of relief at places in that State. The telegram is as follows: "The responsibility is put upon you to investigate and decide in cases where reports are conflicting. The Secretary relies upon you to supply the destitute and carry out the purpose of Congress in granting appropriations, and at the same time guard against imposition and see that the bounty of the government reaches the deserving and is carefully and prudently distributed.

An Engineer Injured.

While Grand Rapids & Indiana No. 66 was taking water at the crossing at Muskegon, Mich., the conduit swung around and threw Engineer H. M. Jones head foremost to the ground. He struck on a tie and his skull was badly fractured. He was taken to a house and a physician sent for, who pronounced the wound dangerous, but not necessarily fatal. Mr. Jones is married and lives on South Iona street, Grand Rapids, where he will be taken as soon as he is able to be moved. He formerly came from Fort Wayne, Ind., the home of his wife, and there he was prominent in base ball circles.

A Bishop's Funeral.

The obsequies of the late Bishop Borgess, which took place at Kalamazoo, Mich., were the most elaborate and imposing that have ever occurred there. Dignitaries of the Church of Rome were present from all the Western States. The vespers for the dead were sung in the presence of a great throng and Bishop Dwenger, of Fort Wayne, preached the sermon. Pontifical high mass or the obsequies proper occurred, and the sermon was preached by Archbishop Elder, of Cincinnati. The interment was in the newly made vault in the church-yard.

Boy Killed by Cars.

A watchman found the body of Robert McMahan lying beside the Lake Shore track at the Central Avenue crossing, Toledo, Ohio, with his skull fractured and the brains oozing out. He had been up to Monroe, Mich., and it appears was riding home on a freight. He had jumped from the train here while it was in motion and was dashed against a cattle guard. The boy was the 19-year-old son of ex-Detective R. W. McMahan, who has been in the West. He lived with his mother on Bartlett street.

The President's Summer Vacation.

President Harrison contemplates passing a portion of the coming summer at Deer Park in the same cottage he and his family occupied last season. It was said that he would take possession of the Elkins cottage, now that Mr. Elkins has removed from Deer Park to his new ninety-room house at Elkins, W. Va., but it is unerstood that Mr. Washington McLean and family have already engaged the Elkins cottage for this summer.

The World's Fair Site.

At a meeting of the World's Fair Committee held at Chicago, it was decided to report favorably on Lake Front as the site for the new World's Fair buildings. This ground lies in the center of the city, is surrounded on one side by the fine buildings of architecture and Lake Michigan, and comprises about three hundred acres. It is believed as soon as plans are adopted work on the new buildings will begin at once.

The Coal Miners Next.

Pittsburgh special: William Martin, Vice President of the American Federation of Labor, said: "The success of the carpenters and joiners has gone beyond all their expectations, and the coal miners of the United States, to the number of 75,000, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will next strike for eight hours." The strike will probably occur about the 20th inst.

Treasure Hunters in the South Pacific.

Valparaiso special: Another expedition will shortly leave this bay for Coco Island, in the Pacific, on which it is believed an enormous amount of treasure is buried. Two or three expeditions have gone from Valparaiso on a similar errand, but they have proved profitless. Faith is still maintained, however, in the existence of the treasure, and about $10,000 has been obtained for the new experiment. The crews receive a certain salary, and will also get a fixed proportion of the treasure if any shall be found.

Section Men Killed.

A special train on the Chicago, Burlington and Northern carrying the members of the Boston Symphony orchestra from St. Louis to Minneapolis, ran into a hand car on which there were three section hands, at Prescott, Wis., killing two and injuring the other, it is thought, fatally. The train was running at a speed of forty-five miles an hour when the accident occurred and was almost upon the hand car before the engineer saw it, then too late to reverse.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

Buffalo special: A heavily loaded train was being taken to East Buffalo by an engine, when an explosion took place, and the engine was a total wreck. The engineer and fireman were killed. The former was blown 1,000 feet, and made a mass of jelly. The latter was seen ascending over an elm tree about fifty feet and subsequently found in the water under a bridge. The cause of the accident is unknown, but it is supposed to be negligence of the engineer.

Don't Desecrate the Flag.

Representative Caldwell has introduced in the House a bill introduced by S. S. Cox in the Forty-Fifth Congress to prevent the desecration of the United States flag. The bill provides that any person who shall disfigure the national flag, either by printing on it or attaching to it any advertisement for public display, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be fined not over $50, or imprisoned for not less than thirty days, or both.

A Triple Tragedy.

Mazeppa (Minn.) special: There is great excitement in this neighborhood over a triple tragedy that occurred near Chester, four miles from this place. Constantine Schaefter, laboring under a fit of temporary insanity, conceived the idea of ridding himself and family of all further vexation. He brained his wife with an ax, nearly decapitated his 6-year-old son with a carving knife, and then, as a fitting finale to his murderous work, ended his own life by hanging.

No Place for Whisky Sellers.

The most important action taken at the meeting of the Central Labor Union of New York, was the adoption of the report of the Credential Committee refusing admission to the Union of the Saloon-Keeper's Association, on the ground that its members are not wage-workers. The action of the saloon-keepers in seeking admission to the Union was characterized as a political scheme.

Disfigured for Life.

William Riley, of Tipton Township, Cass County, was putting a bell on a cow, when the animal tossed her head up, and one of the horns struck Riley in the face, tearing an ugly gash upward from the left side of his nose to the corner of his eye. The injured man went to Logansport and had the wound dressed by Dr. Coleman. He will be permanently disfigured.

Carlisle Declares His Candidacy.

Ex-Speaker John Griffin Carlisle has declared his candidacy for the seat made vacant by the death of Senator Beck, of Kentucky. In company with his friends from Covington and Newport he is at Franklin to present his claim to the Legislature, now in session. It is believed he will be nominated by caucus on the second ballot.

Among the Lepers.

Rev. Mr. Chapman, of London, has received a letter from his sister, Gertrude, who went out to the Sandwich Islands to nurse lepers. She says she is at Kaliki, the new leper station, in care of Dr. Lutz. There are no lepers there yet and she expresses her regret that she is not allowed to go to Molokai and carry out her mission.

Severed an Artery.

Rolla Tracey, an employe of the Lima Paper Mills, picked up a box, when his arm came in contact with a sharp knife which had been left lying on the box, and an aretery svered, nearly causing death before the flow could be checked. His recovery is doubtful.

Fatal Collision.

A Jersey Central express and a Lehigh Valley pasenger train collided at a crossing at Allentown, Pa. Miss Emma Hall, a passenger, was instantly killed and ten other persons more or less seriously injured.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Prime	$4.75	@ 5.50
Fair to Good	3.50	@ 4.75
Common	2.50	@ 3.50
Hogs—Shipping Grades	3.75	@ 4.50
Sheep	5.00	@ 7.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.94	@ .95
Corn—No. 2	.34	@ .35
Oats—No. 2	.25½	@ .26½
Rye—No. 2	.51	@ .52
Butter—Choice Creamery	.17	@ .19
Cheese—Full Cream, flats	.09	@ .10
Eggs—Fresh	.10½	@ .11½
Potatoes—Choice new, per bu.	.40	@ .52
Pork—Mess	12.75	@13.25
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 2 Spring	.86	@ .87
Corn—No. 3	.32	@ .33
Oats—No. 2 White	.28	@ .29
Rye—No. 1	.50	@ .51
Barley—No. 2	.44	@ .46
Pork—Mess	13.25	@13.75
DETROIT.
Cattle	3.00	@ 4.25
Hogs	3.00	@ 4.50
Sheep	3.50	@ 5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.93	@ .95
Corn—No. 2 Yellow	.35	@ .36
Oats—No. 2 White	.31	@ .32
TOLEDO.
Wheat	.95	@ .95½
Corn—Cash	.35	@ .36
Oats—No. 2 White	.28	@ .28½
NEW YORK.
Cattle	4.00	@ 5.25
Hogs	4.25	@ 4.75
Sheep	5.00	@ 7.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1.00	@ 1.02
Corn—No. 2 White	.43	@ .45
Oats—Mixed Western	.33	@ .36
Pork—New Mess	14.00	@14.50
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle	4.25	@ 5.00
Hogs	3.75	@ 4.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.93	@ .94
Corn—No. 2	.34	@ .35
Oats—No. 2	.27½	@ .28½
Rye—No. 2	.55½	@ .56½
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping Steers	3.00	@ 4.75
Hogs—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.25
Sheep—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 6.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.93½	@ .94¼
Corn—No. 1 White	.34	@ .35
Oats—No. 2 White	.27	@ .27½
CINCINNATI.
Hogs	3.75	@ 4.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.88	@ .91
Corn—No. 2	.37	@ .37½
Oats—No. 2 Mixed	.27½	@ .28½
Rye—No. 2	.56	@ .57
BUFFALO.
Cattle—Good to Prime	4.50	@ 5.25
Hogs—Medium and Heavy	4.00	@ 4.50
Wheat—No. 1 Hard	1.00	@ 1.01¼
Corn—No. 2	.36	@ .36½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Patents Issued to Hoosier Inventors.

Patents have been issued to Indiana inventors as follows: Cyrus C. Boger, Waterloo, swinging gate; John P. Brown, Rising Sun, metallic land mark for evidencing surveys of land; Frank C. Butts, assigner of one-half to J. H. Johnson, Indianapolis, gas valve; Charles A. Carpenter, Richmond, natural gas burner; Joseph S. Cole, assignor of one-half to L. H. Baldwin, Albany, combined clothes-rack, ironing-table, and clothes-dryer; Samuel B. Davis, assignor of one-half to T. B. Myers, Clinton, clod-fender; Henry H. Dille, Richmond, lawn-edge trimmer; Lewis Girdler, Sellersburg, weighing machine for testing purposes; James B. Knickerbocker, assignor to Knickerbocker Gas-Regulator Company, Indianapolis, automatic pressure regulator; Jesse M. Lillpop, assignor of one-half to H. L. Wheat, Kyana, vegetable cutter; Fred L. McGahan, Indianapolis, feed water-heater; Job X. Mills, Pine Village, feed-rack; James C. Moses, Decatur, moldboard; Newton Rogers and J. A. Wharry, Terre Haute, hydro-carbon furnace; William H. Sexton, Dugger, coal-separator; George W. Sturm, Dana, attachment for center-cut mowers; Israel M. Swauth and A. C. Cosner, assignor of one-third to J. Grossnickle, North Manchester, bathing apparatus; Lewis Wallace, Crawfordsville, railway ties.

Pettit Wants Another Analysis.

Rev. William F. Pettit, under indictment at Lafayette for poisoning his wife by strychnine, has filed a petition asking the court to compel Prosecuting Attorney Haywood to turn over to petitioner's attorneys the remainder of the stomach, spleen, liver, heart, intestines, and brain of Mrs. Pettit, now in the hands of the chemist who made the analysis of her remains. Dr. Peters, who made the analysis, swore to finding four hundred and sixty-five thousandths of a grain of strychnine in his examination. Pettit recites in his petition that Peters was paid by the county for his services, that he removed the parts of Mrs. Pettit's body without notice of petitioner, and made in secret, in the absence of all persons. Pettit also avers that he can only disinter the body of his wife by permission of her relatives, and this they refuse to give. Pettit avers that he is innocent of the charge against him, and desires the remaining portions taken by Dr. Peters, claiming that a chemical analysis by a competent analytical chemist will disclose the absence of strychnine therein, and establish the fact that Mrs. Pettit's death was not caused by strychnine. He says he cannot safely go to trial without such chemical analysis. His demand upon the prosecution was refused, hence the appeal to the court.

Jail Delivery at Crawfordsville.

Three prisoners, James Hogan, Frank Kelly and Mat Lynes, escaped from the jail at Crawfordsville. The wife of Sheriff McClarkey heard a noise in the corridor, and going in to investigate, noticed that the outside bolt to the cell-corridor door was out, and these three prisoners were standing at the iron-grating door. As she walked toward the door to put the pin back, the men pushed open the door, and, rushing past her into the dining-room, thence going to the kitchen, they escaped. They were in jail on the charge of burglarizing the Casad grocery, in April. They had used two knives, a small file and some nitric acid, and had drilled a hole from the inside, just opposite the iron pin that held the door. Then a small wire was filed from a dust-pan, and with this wire passed through the hole, the pin was worked out. When the men were not at work drilling the hole, they would fill it up with soap, so it could not be noticed.

Minor State Items.

—Charles Hoffman, a prominent farmer near North Manchester, dropped dead from heart disease.

—Mrs. Mamasah E. Jeffries, residing near Greenfield, died very suddenly of congestion of the stomach.

—Henry Gordon, aged 68, died at Seymour, Sunday from the effects of a kick by a horse the day before.

—Joseph Hullinger, an old citizen of Marion, was run down and killed by a Panhandle freight engine.

—The fine barn of Elberson Gentry, near Little Point, was burned, containing five head of horses, all of his hay and corn and farming implements. Loss, $3,000; insurance, $600.

—George Zinn, of Goshen, was fatally injured by being crushed by the cross-bar of a gateway through which he was driving. He was a wealthy retired farmer.

—The City Council of Anderson has granted a franchise to another street-railway company, and there is lively rivalry in the work of grabbing the streets.

—Wm. Manning fell dead in church at Pin Hook, two miles north of Bethel. He was on his knees when the stroke came, his wife praying by his side. It is supposed heart trouble caused his sudden death.

—Moses Dodge, residing near Georgetown, about twelve miles from New Albany, had occasion to go to his barn after dark. He was passing one of his horses when the animal kicked him on the head and on the leg. The kick on the head fractured his skull and that on the leg badly fractured that member. The wounded man was carried to his home near by, where he expired in a few hours after the accident. Mr. Dodge was one of the most prominent citizens of the vicinity in which he lived.

—Rev. Carl C. G. Bez, at present teacher in St. John's Lutheran school, in Fort Wayne, has been tendered a unanimous call by the congregation of St. Marcus Lutheran Church in East Toledo, O. Rev. Bez will probably accept.

—James Black, of Summitville, while driving home from Frankfort, the other night, was attacked by a wild animal, which he believes to have been either a wild-cat or panther. He beat it off, but his clothing was reduced to strings. He is the third man recently attacked near that point by the beast.

—The Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association has declared a boycott in Cloverdale Township, Putnam County, on J. D. Reed, a butcher, for selling imported dressed beef.

—George Etchison, aged about twenty, went to Perkinsville, Madison County, to see his girl, was rejected by her, and went home at midnight and shot himself through the heart.

—While en route for Indianapolis, Harry Stevens, a barber of Greenfield, was pushed off an excursion train near the Belt crossing. He received internal injuries which may result fatally.

—Harry, the 7-year-old son of John Drake, fell into a vat of boiling water at the slaughter house of Pike & James, at Knightstown, and was frightfully scalded about the arms and chest before he could be removed.

—Hiram Stanfield, of Hillham, was convicted in the Dubois Circuit Court of buying the vote of David Philips and sentenced to jail for thirty days with a fine of $25 and disfranchised for ten years.

—Henry Philabaum, a pioneer of Miami County, died recently while sitting in a chair from heart failure. His son died two weeks before at the same hour while sitting in the same chair from the same cause.

—Charles W. Hammond, one of the most notorious horse thieves Indiana has ever produced, is dead at the northern prison, where he was sent from Boone County in 1887 to serve a sentence of thirteen years.

—C. A. Parsons, of Peru, had been annoyed for some time by an eruption on one of his arms. He consulted a physician, who removed therefrom a common sewing-needle. Mr. Parsons thinks it must have entered his system during childhood.

—Miss Alla Barrett, of South Bend, invited a number of friends to her home recently. Among other games was a charade, and while the guests were trying to guess it Miss Barrett and Mr. W. H. Sweet appeared and were united in marriage, to the intense surprise of the guests.

—John Reddick and John Derryberry, the burglars who escaped from the Sheriff of Henry County, last February, while on their way to prison to serve 8-year and 2-year sentences, respectively, have been caught on a cotton plantation at Darnell's Landing, Tenn., and returned to Jeffersonville.

—The Salvation Army at Muncie met to try William Tweedy, a new recruit, on charges of gambling and profanity. In the course of the hearing Tweedy and "Capt." Evans endeavored to try conclusions with chairs and things. Considerable damage was done to the furniture of the barracks and heads of members.

—Ellsworth Hughes, a student of Notre Dame University was drowned while rowing with two companions on St. Joseph's lake, and so far the efforts to rescue the body have been fruitless. He was one of the most popular and talented students at the college, and would have graduated next year in the scientific course. He was 18 years old, a son of the traffic manager of the Denver & Rio Grande railway, and a nephew of United States Senator Ingalls.

—The in-coming Air-line train, which always separates a short distance above the depot, at Rockport, on a steep grade, parted as usual, but the brakes on the coaches refused to work, and they came in at a lively gait. They crashed into some box cars standing on the main track, throwing the baggage car from the track. All the passengers were considerably shaken up. Miss Alice Beeler, of Chrisney, received severe injuries.

—Mrs. Caroline Winters, a woman with a sad history, died recently in the Old Ladies' Home, at New Albany, aged 84. Thirty years ago her husband, a prosperous manufacturer in Louisville, Ky., disappeared suddenly. His business was wound up and found all right, and no cause for his disappearance could be shown. The family mourned him as murdered, when, twenty years after, he as unaccountably reappeared as a tramp, making no explanation, and, mentally and physically, a wreck. He lived but a few years after his return.

—Jeff Williams was run over by an engine at the C. & I. C. depot Brazil, in a state of intoxication, and his right arm and leg cut off, the arm above the elbow and the leg between foot and knee. Williams has been for several years an inmate of the Clay County poor-house, but had a large inheritance left him by his father, Nathan Williams, an early coal operator at Staunton, some years ago, all of which he squandered by dissipation. He is about forty-seven years of age, and it is thought by the attending physician that he will not survive the shock.

—Considerable excitement has been created about Williamsburg, over the supposed drugging of a young man, Ed Nay. In company with Charles Wright and Clay Kelly he went to the woods. Young Nay not returning, as expected, with the other boys, search was made for him by his friends, and after some hours' search he was found lying on the ground, unconscious and frothing at the mouth. Physicians worked with him all night and until noon next day before he gained consciousness, and it was pronounced a case of poisoning. He says he drank whisky out of a bottle and thinks he must have been drugged. He is now out of danger.

—A recklessly-driven horse attached to a buggy ran over J. S. Bennett at Jeffersonville and seriously bruised him. On account of his age and feeble condition his injuries may result fatally.

—L. E. Hursch, car inspector for the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, in Fort Wayne, was caught between two cars and crushed to death. It was fifteen minutes before the unfortunate man could be taken from between the cars, and he was all this time suffering intense agony. Hursch leaves a large family.

—Mrs. Patrick Mannix, a bride of a week, was thrown from a buggy and fatally injured in a runaway accident at Charlestown.

—It has been discovered that some fiends have broken into the vault that contained the remains of Mrs. Mary A. Fryer, at Washington, and with long sticks tore the lid off the casket, and then disfigured the remains in a terrible manner. What could have been the motive is unknown. A clew to the wretches is thought to be had, and every effort will be employed to arrest and punish them.

When on the High Seas.

On the rail, on a steamboat, aboard a fishing smack, or yachting on the coast, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will be found a reliable means of averting and relieving ailments to which travelers, mariners, and emigrants are peculiarly subject. Sea captains, ship doctors, voyagers, or sojourners in the tropics, and all about to encounter, unacclimated, an unaccustomed, or dangerous climate, should not neglect to avail themselves of this safeguard of well-ascertained and long-tried merit. Constipation, biliousness, malarial fever, indigestion, rheumatism, and affections of the bladder and kidneys are among the ailments which it eradicates, and it may be resorted to not only with confidence in its remedial efficacy but also in its perfect freedom from every objectionable ingredient, since it is derived from the purest and most salutary sources. It counteracts the effects of unwholesome food and water.

A Hint to Landlords.

Departing Guest—Mr. Landlord, my expenses at your hotel have been greater than I anticipated, and as I am a little short of money, you will have to wait until I return before I can liquidate your bill.

Landlord — Don't bother yourself about such a trifle. I'll just make a memorandum of it on the door here until you return.

"But everybody shall read my name there, and I shall be scandalized."

"Yes, that's a fact, but I can remedy that. Just leave your fur trimmed overcoat with me and I'll hang it on the door over your bill, and nobody will ever see it.—Texas Siftings.

DR. L. L. GORSUCH, Toledo, O., says: "I have practiced medicine for forty years; have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with so much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure." Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Tabooed by Society.

Emma—I notice you don't speak to Miss De Conye anymore.

Lucy—No; I haven't any use for a girl who wears a blue gown with a brown dog.—Dry Goods Chronicle.

For Fifty Years
the Standard
Blood-purifier
and
Tonic,
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
has no equal
as a
Spring
Medicine.
Prepared by
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

MAY FLOWERS—OF SONG
FOR SCHOOLS.

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SONGS (35 cts., $3.60 doz.) 5 pages of simple explanations, and 136 new and selected songs for general singing. This little book is being received with much favor.

Kindergarten Chimes. ($1.25.) Kate Douglas Wiggin. Good manual, and fine collection.
Kindergarten and Primary School Songs. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Menard.
Songs and Games for Little Ones. ($2.) Walker and Jenks.
Gems for Little Singers. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Emerson and Swayne.
Rhymes and Tunes. ($1.) Mrs. Osgood.
Motion Songs. (20 cts., $1.80 doz.) Mrs. Boardman.
Get them all! They are most delightful books! Also try the sweet little Cantatas:
Kingdom of Mother Goose. (25 cts., $2.28 dozen.) Mrs. Boardman.
Rainbow Festival. (20 cts., $1.80 doz.) Lewis.
Who Killed Cock Robin? (40 cts., $3.60 dozen.) Ford.

Song Manual { Book 1, Primary. 30c; $3.00 doz. Book 2, Medium. 40c; $4.20 doz. Book 3, High. 50c; $4.80 doz.
By Emerson. These are the newest and best books for teaching note reading in schools.

Send for Lists and Descriptions.
Any book mailed for retail price.
LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.
OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

SEVEN
SEVENTEEN
SEVENTY

To cure Billiousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, Malaria, Liver Complaints, take the safe and certain remedy, SMITH'S
BILE BEANS
Use the SMALL SIZE (40 little beans to the bottle). They are the most convenient: suit all ages. Price of either size, 25 cents per bottle.
KISSING at 7, 17, 70: Photo-gravure, panel size of this picture for 4 cents (coppers or stamps).
J. F. SMITH & CO.,
Makers of "Bile Beans," St. Louis, Mo.

SMITH & WESSON

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.
SMITH & WESSON,
☞ Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

LADIES Who Value a Refined Complexion Must Use
POZZONI'S
MEDICATED
COMPLEXION
POWDER.
For Sale by Druggists & Fancy Goods Dealers Everywhere.

Ely's Cream Balm
is the best remedy for children suffering from COLD IN HEAD OR
CATARRH.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE CURE FOR
CATARRH
COLD IN HEAD
HAY FEVER
ELY'S
CREAM BALM

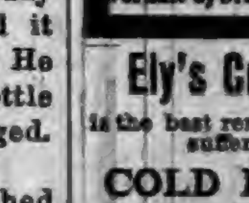
The "Little Beauty" A $5.00 Scale for $1.00
Capacity 1-4 oz. to 4 lbs. Steel Bearings, Brass Scoop and Beam. For Housekeepers, Offices or Stores. Weight packed, 5 lbs. Sent by express.



A $65.00 Sewing Machine $18.00
A 500-lb. Platform Scale 15.00
A $125.00 Top Buggy 65.00
A 2-Ton Wagon Scale 40.00
A 5-Ton Scale and Stock Rack 75.00
A $50 Feed Mill 30.00
A $40.00 Road Cart 15.00
A $15.00 Single Harness 7.00
A 240-lb. Platform Scale 3.00
Price List Free. CHICAGO SCALE CO., Chicago, Ill.

Ask Him! Who?
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.
What? Why on Scales
"He Pays the Freight."

Burlington Route
HALF RATES
TO THE FARMING REGIONS
OF THE
WEST, SOUTHWEST, NORTHWEST.
For particulars call on your Ticket Agent or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

COURIER--Supplement, Auburn, Ind., Thursday, May 8, 1890.

GRAND AUCTION SALE!

SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1890, OF ALL UNSOLD LOTS IN THE Natural Gas Addition.

This is the chance of a lifetime to get a good building lot for a home at your own price on

SATURDAY, MAY 17, '90.

Lots in this addition are on a high elevation, affording natural and easy drainage, pure, sparkling water rises to the surface of the ground. The soil is of a sandy nature and very productive. Sale will commence at 1 o'clock. Good music will be furnished by the Auburn Cornet Band. Come one and all and bring the children.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third cash; balance in three equal deferred payments, in 6, 12 and 18 months with 6 per cent. interest.

AUBURN, INDIANA, APRIL 16, 1890.

W. H. McINTYRE, SECRETARY AUBURN MINING CO.: SIR:—I have carefully examined the records in the Recorder's, Clerk's, Auditor's and Treasurer's office of this county, in so far as it refers to the property bought of Edward J. Baker, now platted, and known as the "Natural Gas Addition," and find that you have an absolute title to the above property free from any and all encumbrance. Very respectfully, R. DEXTER TEFFT, Abstractor.

I concur in above. D. Z. HOFFMAN, Abstractor.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Prosecutor Emanuel was in town Monday.

Jerry Plum visited Auburn last Thursday on business.

Archibald Smith is repainting his house on the inside.

Miss Clara Ettinger is quite seriously ill with rheumatism.

Mrs. Dr. Johnston visited friends in Waterloo last Friday.

Monday (election day) one fight, or knock down, occurred.

Geo. Duncan has moved into rooms in John Lightner's house.

Last week Wednesday Mr. McCrary, of Kendallville, was in town.

Mrs. Wm. Crane is visiting her sister, Mrs. Chilcote, in Toledo, O.

Mrs. Frœlich, of Toledo, O., is spending a few days with friends here.

H. K. Leas is building an addition to his residence on Center street.

F. P. Blair and son Harold, of Laporte, spent Sunday with his parents.

Wm. Patterson has built a new wire fence between his house and barn.

S. P. Strow has repainted and improved his residence in the east part of town.

F. W. Willis attended the funeral of Col. Reed at Ft. Wayne last Wednesday.

Dr. Watson and wife, of Auburn, took dinner Sunday with Will Miller and family.

Misses Bessie and Allie Oiler spent Sunday with their parents at Mooresville.

Last Thursday evening the Auburn Camp installed the Sons of Veterans of this place.

Gid. Fisher has moved into his property on Pine street, recently purchased of Sam. Fisher.

Wm. C. Lockhart will undertake organizing a building and loan association in Waterloo.

Attorney Philips, who went to Kansas to take depositions in an important case, has returned.

Jas. Duncan cut one of his thumbs badly on a machine at the body factory last Thursday.

Rolla Tefft and wife, of Kansas City, visited A. L. Fausett and family the fore part of the week.

S. Fisher has moved into the property on Washington street he recently purchased of Fred Haskins.

Mrs. Barns and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lamson, of Washington, D. C., were in Waterloo last week Tuesday.

N. H. Weaver has taken a layoff and is now spending his time looking after his interests in the race for recorder.

The young people's prayer meeting of the M. E church will be held hereafter on Wednesday evening, instead of Tuesday.

J. C. Boyer is repainting his house on the outside. Mr. Bartholomew and Wm. Kennedy propose to do the same with theirs.

Artie Carpenter, of Pleasant Lake, has made a business engagement with Robinson Bros. He understands the livery business.

A fight took place on one of our streets Wednesday evening between two boys. A crowd soon collected, but the marshal was not in sight.

J. D. Campbell gave a lesson in bicycle riding to Levi Anthony Tuesday morning on Wayne street. It was quite amusing to the lookers on.

The house and lot on Washington St., owned for many years by Mrs. Aldrich, of Pleasant Lake, has been purchased by J. D. McAnnally.

Ed. Ettinger, of Angola, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. B. F. Kennedy, for the past week, returned to his home last Monday evening.

R J. Fisk has purchased of Mr. Frœlich his property on the corner of Maple and Elm streets, where he expects to make his future residence.

Prof. Sniff, of Angola, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class at the M. E. church last Sunday evening. The house was filled.

A. V. Sinclair has much improved his new residence by the painting he has done. The color on a house changes the aspect greatly, in this case for the better.

Next Friday evening in the M. E. church will occur the commencement exercises of the high school. Five members of the class—one young lady and four young men—will graduate.

W. H. Leas has a curiosity in the shape of a conveyance of property that is a title to a piece of land in Lancaster Co., Pa., and is 99 years old. It is of immense size and ought to make the title good and strong.

Mike Kiplinger had a narrow escape last Friday at the planing mill. While running one of the machines, a piece of board was thrown out, hitting him on the head and cutting an ugly gash. Dr. Chamberlain dressed the wound.

Miss Cora Faucett left for Montana last week Monday, where she has an engagement to teach the coming summer at $50 a month She has acquaintances where she goes The journey is rather a trying one, fifty miles being made by stage.

Many of our ladies have pressed their husbands into their service this year to assist them in cleaning house. The ladies pronounce the work well done, and really seem to enjoy it; but one gentleman did say he thought sometimes he would like to be a woman. In reply to the question why he should wish it, he said: "So I could boss the men about."

April 29, at a regular session of the L. M. C. at the home of Mattie Maxson, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: S. C. S. Winslow, pres.; Rena Smith, vice-pres.; Mrs Faucett, Sec; Emma Keep, treas.; Mary E. Boozer, critic; Olive E. Jackman, custodian of queries. Mesdames Winslow, Smith and Keep held the same offices last year and were re-elected this.

DEKALB.

D. N. Ferry has finished sowing oats.

Mother Hall continues about the same.

George Weygandt has bought a new harness.

W. A. Feagler is preparing to build this summer.

"Prepare to plant corn" is the password among the farmers.

Wheat and clover are badly winter-killed in this vicinity.

Fruit trees are in full bloom and all hoping for a good yield.

Dory Barber is owner of a fine blooded colt about one week old.

Perry W. Fair is still working in D. Walter's hardware store at Garrett.

A couple of our town folks cannot talk pleasantly to each other. This should not be.

P. Noel has turned his attention to farming since relieved of his office as justice.

Prof. Groves is still on the road with the Singer sewing machine and reports good success.

Trustee-elect Fair has qualified, but has near three months rest before he takes his seat.

Mrs. Matilda Miller has a sale on the 17th. All wishing a good cow or hogs should attend.

Hiram P. Housel intends to commence canvassing for an eastern nursery the middle of May.

J. F. Housel and James Monroe contemplate a flying trip to Ossian, Wells Co., on business.

J. F. Housel was very much elated over the send-off given by Brother Fretz. He says, "Many thanks."

E. Housel, telegraph operator on the short line, is working the instrument at the New Era Lake Shore office for Wm. Hough, the agent, who is visiting his parents at Manchester, Mich.

Mr. Lewis Fretz, of Auburn, gave our village a pleasant call recently, in behalf of the Auburn COURIER.

Mr. John Hall, who has been visiting his afflicted mother, left yesterday for his home at Van Wert, Ohio.

Section foreman E. Lane is on the road again tamping gravel. He says he knows he had the measles this time.

El. Lane is fast improving and will soon be on the streets. He will remember when he had the measles.

D. N. Terry has qualified as constable and is ready to answer the call of the 'Squire. Both are efficient men.

M. L. Hoffman has taken his office as justice of the peace of Butler township. You can add "Esq." to his name

Mr Benedict passed through our village a day or two ago, with a load of fruit and ornamental trees, making a spring delivery to his patrons

Some one was in J. F Housel's barn Friday night, but took nothing away. They have a watch dog to contend with. They had better look a little out.

List of mail matter remaining uncalled for May 1, 1890: Mr. C. T. Bennett, Mr. J. C. Caros, James Hissong, Mrs. E. Emeline Smith, Dr. Hull Newell—postal card, Jacob Harsh, Esq.—3d class. Those calling for the same will please say "advertised." J. F. Housel, P. M.

NEWVILLE.

Uncle Sam is improving since the warm, pleasant weather.

Dode Rex visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Rex, last Sabbath. He is hustling a gang of men on the Lake Shore at Corunna.

Newville has organized a democratic base ball nine and they challenge and are ready to play any republican nine in the county or state.

Please bear in mind that the people will support Solomon Barney, of Concord, for county clerk. He, also, is an old settler and worthy of the office.

Jas. Hart has his Webster house on the blocks at last, after a protracted effort of three months. Hart is a hustler on moving buildings. He has a patent and moves them with wind.

We think W. N. Miller is going to the front for recorder. He is eligible to any office. We will go for the old settlers after this date. His father was the best sheriff we ever had in the county.

Reuben Sawvel, of Franklin, is announced as a candidate for the office of treasurer. We have learned that he is an old time democrat and has been in the county 43 years. Republicans and democrats, these are the kind of men to put in office—these old timers, who came when the county was wild with animals and no office seekers.

Cheesemaker is roaming all around like a lion in a cage, seeking whom he may devour. But he had better buy a lot in the cemetery, for he will surely die this fall and it is well to be prepared. He will die hard at that.

SUMMIT.

Mrs Teeters, from north of Hudson, was in our town last Saturday.

R. T. Duncan and wife were the guests of F. N. Rose and wife last Sabbath.

Miss Maggie Chapman commenced a select school at No. 2 last Monday.

Miss Fanny Tige, of Ohio, and Mrs. Lily Snowberger, of Steubenville, visited Henry Snowberger and wife last Sunday.

For Sale.

Two horses, one buggy, two single harness, four collars and one pair buggy fills.

FRANK HOLMAN
Cedar Creek, Ind. 17 19

M. B. Masters has moved onto J. B. Baxter's farm in Concord township and will work at farming this summer. He is also a blacksmith, and we believe, a wagon maker as well. He will be a handy man for the Concord people to have among them.

Postmaster Stoy of Butler, was here last Thursday to meet the other school trustees. He still holds the fort at the Butler postoffice, because, as we suppose the republicans can't agree. We suggest a sensible compromise by letting Mr. Stoy have it for four years more.

The Butler Record says, "Auburn might as well recall her surveyors." You see the Record wants the new railroad over there. Well, we don't blame him for that, but we can't help wishing he would let us survey our own line. We'll be real good about it, and not make much noise.

Lagrange Standard: Pension Agent Ensley last week forwarded to William Bohley, of Linton, Green county, a voucher for $13,937.80, the largest amount of pension money ever paid in Indiana. Bohley was a private in Company F. Thirty first Indiana Volunteer Infantry, General Cruft's regiment, and is now blind from a disease of the eyes contracted while in the army.

W. R. Emerson, of Troy one of the old settlers of this county, was over here Friday to attend the committee meeting of the old settlers. He called up to settle with the COURIER, and will read it again another year. Mr. Emerson had a severe attack of La Grippe, of which he has not fully recovered. He came to this county in 1842, is 75 years old, and will have been married 50 years the Fourth day of next July. We wish Mr. Emerson many pleasant years yet to come.

Excursion to Warrensburg, Mo.

The Baltimore & Ohio R. R. Co., will sell excursion tickets to Warrensburg, Mo., at rate of one fare for the round trip on account Annual meeting of German Baptists. Tickets will be sold May 19, to 27, inclusive and valid for return passage to June 26, inclusive. For tickets and further information call on B & O. Agents. 19 21

THE U. S. Supreme Court has declared unconstitutional, the Iowa law that forbids bringing liquor into that state.

HARRISON'S daughter gave a big party the other day, and wines were served in abundance. Do our temperance friends who supported Harrison, see the point?

OHIO is moving for a new school book law. It fixes the price at 75 per cent of the old prices. This is not quite as good as our law, which secures good books at about half the price.

SENATOR BECK, of Kentucky, dropped dead of heart disease at Washington, Friday. He had been away for treatment and was coming home. He was standing on the spot where Garfield was shot.

THE private secretary of Gov. Hovey is in hot water. Got a big reward for helping to bring back a murderer, and then tried to cheat the others out of the reward. Another good republican gone wrong.

CANADA has seized one of our fishery schooners and imposed on its owners a heavy fine for landing on their grounds to get supplies. As the Dispatch said just before Blaine became secretary of state. "Oh for one day of Blaine:"

THE state of Ohio will purchase and preserve "Fort Ancient" one of the most extensive of the old mound builder earthworks in the state. Harvard College has purchased and will preserve the other great earthwork, known as the "Serpent Mound."

THE service pension bill passed the House last week. It gives $8 a month to each honorably discharged soldier who served 90 days, and is sixty years old. Judge McClellan voted for it, but we suppose the republican editors about here will never hear of it.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1890. NUMBER 20.

Post's Sacrifice Sale.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY.

Closing our stock at

Bankrupt Prices.

All Dress Goods 1-4 and 1-2 off. All our trimmings, etc., Ginghams, Prints, Muslins, at Actual cost. In fact all our entire stock at less than cost. It will pay you to call at

POST'S.

There are said to be three or four ladies well known in London society who are determined to appear at the next meet of the Coaching Club on horseback, astride.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for threat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

A lighted cigar stump that he was trying to save until after the performance set fire to the clothes of a man in a Newark theater gallery. They promptly put him out.

CATARRH—CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—Hay Fever—A New Home Treatment

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is, that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above. ly

The doctors in the French fleet have been forbidden to practice "hypnotism" on their patients. A similar prohibition was issued some months ago to the French army doctors.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

Professor Forster, of Breslau, states that 300 cases have come under his notice in which the eyesight has been affected by the disturbance of the circulation caused by wearing tight collars.

For Twenty Years.

Mr. George Frank, ex-commissioner of Adams Co. Ind., says: I have had a bronchial cough for twenty years and used all the different cough medicines, and found nothing that has given me so much relief as Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I can heartily recommend it to all of those that are affected with a chronic cough and guarantee that it will give entire satisfaction. Yours, GEO. FRANK. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Mr. Taylor, of Prescott, Ariz., took a trip recently to the African diamond fields. He wrote to a friend that he had to pay a tax of £5 on each chamber of his revolver before he could step into that country.

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough, remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well known Nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. A steady position with a Nursery of over thirty years' standing, and a known responsibility. We want good, lively workers, and will pay well. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.

CHASE BROTHERS CO., Chicago, Ill.

"How do you like your beau, Jennie?" "He's a fellow after my own heart." Boston Courier.

A Fortunate Woman.

Mrs. Mary L. Baker, of Ovid, Mich., has reason to be very thankful. She was a great sufferer from heart disease for years. Was short of breath, had hungry spells, pain in side, fluttering, faintness etc. After taking two bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, she says, "I am better than for twenty years. My mind and eyesight have improved wonderfully, I advise all persons thus afflicted to use this great remedy." F. E. Davenport the druggist, recomends and guarantees it. Dr. Miles' work on heart disease, containing marvelous testimonials free. 2

President Diaz, of Mexico, is a man about fifty years of age, of a dark swarthy complexion, of engaging address, and has always a pleasant greeting for all he meets.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own house work and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Robbins & McCords drug store, large bottles 50c and $1. 2

It is supposed our new election law will enable the authorities to post over the entrance to the polling places: "Who enters here leaves soap behind."

They All Failed.

The following letter from W. A. Thomson, of Columbus, Wis., is peculiarly interesting: "My wife," says he, "has been treated for her head, stomach, and nervous prostration by three doctors in New York, two in Chicago, one in Philadelphia, one in Cincinnati, and at the large institute in Buffalo for 16 months. They all failed. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine helped her wonderfully." This should be used in all headaches, backaches, changes of life, nervous disturbances, fits, rheumatism, etc. Ask at F. E. Davenports' drug store for a free trial bottle and Dr. Miles' new book on the nerves and heart.

The 300 Chinese vegetable dealers at Los Angeles have formed a trust to control the business.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence. GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O

Next Sunday Morning

at ten o'clock or any day this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough as it is guaranteed to cure and relieve all chronic and acute coughs for less money than any other, as the price is only 25 cts. It enables all to give this great medicine a trial. A fresh supply at F. E. Davenport's.

Well Driving.

Purdy & Son, the well known well drivers of Auburn, will devote their time to this business and give all their patrons good work. They have an abundant experience, and can show certificates from the leading property owners in the county, to show the satisfaction their work has given. Call on them at Auburn, or write where you want them to come. Address PURDY & SON,

Auburn, Ind.

Obituary.

Jonathan Rummel, was born in Portage county, Ohio, Jan. 26 1836. He was the second son of John and Sarah Rummel, natives of Ohio, and of German descent. When he was 8 years old, his father died, and he remained with his mother until he was 14 years of age, the greater part of the time being devoted to study. At the age of 14 he began to work at the harness maker's trade, which he was obliged to abandon, on the account of ill health. He returned to the farm, and in 1852 came to Indiana, locating in Wells county. He was variously employed until 1858, when he began to work at the painter's trade, which he followed until the breaking out of the rebellion. May 19th 1861, he enlisted in Co. F. 13th Ind. Infantry, the first three years regiment in the state. Among the more prominent battles in which he participated, were Petersburg, Jones Run, Winchester and Richmond. At Greenbrier Creek, Oct. 3 1861, he was wounded in the right leg and disabled for four months. At Ft. Fisher he received four slight flesh wounds. A portion of his term of service, he performed the duties of commissary sergeant. He was discharged Sept. 5, 1865, after a service of four years and four months. Upon his return to civil life, he resumed work at the painter's trade in Ft. Wayne. In 1870 he moved to Waterloo, and in 1876 accepted the management of the DeKalb county poor farm, to which he brought system and industry, bringing order out of chaos and making the farm self supporting.

Mr. Rummel was married July 13, 1865 to Mary E. daughter of Simon Acker, of Portage county Ohio, and later of Wabash county Ind. To them have been born six children. But one is living, Cora E. Mr. and Mrs. Rummel were members of the Lutheran church, and have been for about 23 years, he was also a member of the Waterloo lodge, No. 1496, Knights of Honor. He departed this life May 9, 1890, age 54 yrs. 3 mos. and 13 days.

He was a man who had the esteem of all who knew him, and the friendship the people felt for him and his family was attested by the great numbers attending the funeral both of Auburn and Waterloo people. The funeral was at the Lutheran church in Auburn, on Sunday, May 11, at 10:30 a. m., the services being conducted by Rev. D. F. Kain, the pastor. He was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at Waterloo, at which place a great concourse of his old neighbors had gathered to pay him their last tribute of respect.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Mr. J. C. Warnock, Atlanta, Ga., says: I have been treated by the most prominent physicians seventeen years for kidney disease without benefit. About six weeks ago I suffered such intense pain—scarcely being able to breathe at times—I concluded to try "Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure," and after using one bottle was entirely and absolutely cured. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga., Proprietors; also, manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure for coughs, colds, asthma and consumption.

Low Rates for Dedication Garfield Monument.

The dedication of the National Garfield Monument will take place at Cleveland, O., May 30th. For this occasion the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Cleveland and return, May 29, at one lowest first-class fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good to and including June 2, 1890. Apply to E. T. DeLapp for full particulars. 19 21

HERE WE ARE AGAIN!

BUT this time we come with a list comprising a choice lot of new properties at exceedingly low prices, in fact any one of them is a bargain, when the location, improvements and general surroundings are taken into

CONSIDERATION.

While heretofore we have offered many bargains, all of which have been gobbled up with the great rapacity of

A HUNGRY MAN.

We believe this to be the choicest lot of all, and the only one we will be able to offer on such favorable terms and prices, but these pieces are for sale at prices that

WILL SELL THEM,

and if you think of buying for a residence or as an investment, call at our office and we will convince you our statements are true as to

PROPERTY AND PRICES.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. The soil is a most splendid one for producing large yields of all kinds of grain. There are 30 acres of good timber on this farm. This farm is cheap at $60 per acre, but we will sell it for less money.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn, and would make someone a fortune if they would buy and plat it in acre lots.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling, barn, orchard and good fences. This would be a bonanza for anyone at $2,800, but it goes for less. "First come first served" in this trade.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings, 2 good wells sugar camp, fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared. This is a great bargain for someone with small capital, to secure a house, and is cheap at $2,500, but it can be be bought for less money.

No. 230. One hundred and ninety-two acres in Newville township, within short distance of Newville and Hicksville. 130 acres under cultivation, balance timber land. Elegant brick dwelling, frame barn, wind pump, two good orchards. School and church near. Here is an opportunity which is seldom found in a lifetime, to secure a farm which is ready to make money for the purchaser from the time of purchase. This farm is well worth $65 per acre, but less will buy it, if taken at once.

No. 304. Sixty acres fine land in Wilmington township. Good frame building with all modern improvements, good orchard. This can be bought for less than $2,500.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O. This will be sold at any reasonable price as it must go.

No. 305. One hundred and forty acres of as good land as there is in this county and with improvements on it that are equalled by but few farms in this county, lies within two and one-half miles of good market. We wish to call your especial attention to this tract as one of our best bargains and is cheap at $10,500, but less will buy it if taken soon. The owner is sick, and has not the necessary help and cannot farm it to any advantage, is the reason a sacrifice will be made. Long time and easy terms.

No. 309. Seventy-eight acres in Concord township. Fine large brick dwelling, large frame barn, splendid orchard of over 100 trees, all bearing. Small fruits in abundance, and soil unsurpassed for producing all kinds of crops. This farm can be bought cheap and will be like finding money at $7,500.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana Trade well established. Here is a chance for someone to make money with but little capital to invest, as the property can be bought cheap, and will give immediate possession.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street You know that property in the south end of town is not for sale, generally speaking, and when offered is not long in the market. So it will be with this one. Do not delay, but come at once as it must go.

Vacant lots in the South End of town, at prices to suit customers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we are still loaning money on farms in sums of $1,000 and over at 6 per cent. interest on five years' time.

Also, that we offer to the public

THE MOST LIBERAL

Fire, Life and Accident Policy of any Agency in Northern Indiana. Come in and get our terms.

Also, that we can sell you a Railroad or Steamship Ticket at rates that will astonish you. Our rates are the lowest and our routes the best. Come and see us and we will convince you that these are facts.

We have omitted many bargains (our space being limited,) especially in town properties, a list of which may be seen at our office. Call and see us.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

We are highly pleased with the business we have done so far this season.

We have an elegant line of dry goods, clothing, carpets etc., which we are always pleased to show.

If you want the very latest and nobbiest goods the market affords you can find what you want in our stock. Our prices are always most reasonable for quality of goods.

We will be pleased to have you call and will do all we can to make your visit both pleasant and profitable to you. Always anxious to please.

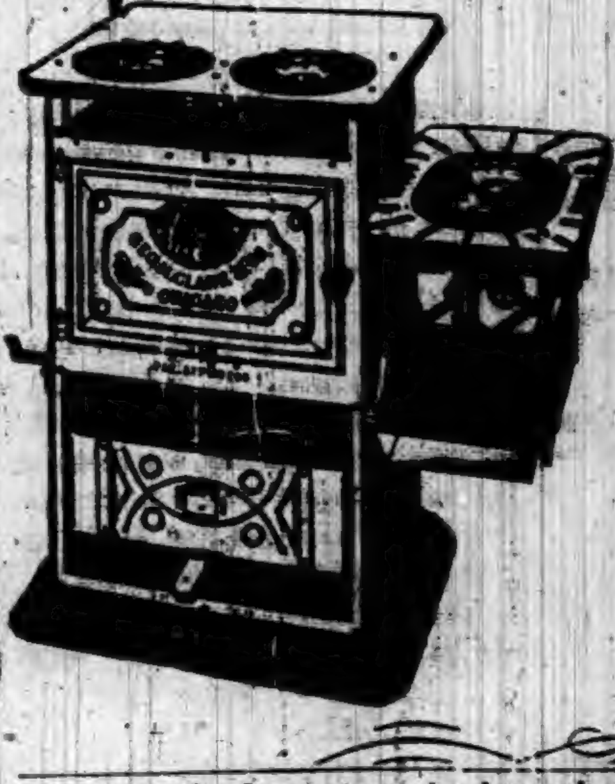
Yours Respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.

JEWEL GRAND STEP.

THE GRANDEST OF ALL GRANDS!

MORE-FOR-NO-MORE-MONEY.



GREATEST PERFECTION & ECONOMY GUARANTEED.

Positively No Odor or Smell.

FOUR BURNERS ON TOP, OF WHICH YOU CAN USE ONE OR ALL.

Oven set between the Oven and Roasting Chamber for Baking and Roasting, Toasting or Broiling at the same time with the same flame.

This is the best stove in America, and you cannot be pleased with any other after seeing this, therefore don't fail to see it.

J. BEURET, Dealer in Hardware and Tinware.

Tinshop at 15, North Main St., Auburn, Ind.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Killed on a Trestle.

A letter from L. J. Gengler, at Garrett, dated May 8, 1890, says:

Thursday evening about 6:55 o'clock R. L. Simpson returning from Kendallville, started to walk from Avilla to Garrett, when within 2½ miles west from Garrett on the large trestle west of Frank Clark's slaughter house, No. 6 over took him. Mr. Simpson stepped to one side leaning over, had his head bent to-ward the engine, which struck him in head taking the top of his head off, then falling down off of the trestle about 18 feet to the bottom. Geo. Bowersox was the engineer, stopped his train and brought him to Garrett. He was taken to E. Bretz undertaker where the inquest was held. Mr. Simpson was about 68 years of age, he kept a second hand furnishing and repairing shop. The day before he was called to Kendallville by his sister on account of sickness. He was a member of G. A. R. and was buried under the auspices of the order.

New Farm Gate.

C. C. Boyer, of Waterloo, is the patentee of the handiest farm gate we ever saw. It is so arranged that it rests on the ground, or some other support, at one end so that it cannot sag, and is hung by strong hinges at the other. It can be raised easily, so as to swing clear of snow, or other obstacles, and in case of very deep snow can be easily turned, so as to swing several feet high. It costs only about a third more than common gates, and its greater durability makes it really cheaper. Several reliable and well known farmers have approved it and some of them are acting as agents for its sale. So far they have not been able to make gates fast as orders came, but are increasing their facilities. Reliable agents wanted in every township, to solicit orders.

An Encouraging Word to Farmers.

Over production of farm products, too much wheat, oats, corn, too many cattle, hogs and sheep, is now the cry. We produce more than our own people consume, and foreigners will only take our surplus at their own prices. Is there any light ahead? Yes, a little. Nearly all of the cheap government lands have been sold, and western migration for homestead and cheap land is stayed. Our population is increasing at the rate of 2,200,000 a year, and in less than ten years a healthy home demand will more than overtake production. Then the great Deering factory, which put the first successful Grain Binder upon the market, and has always, as now, led the way to economical methods of harvesting grain and grass, is still at it more largely and successfully than ever, endeavoring to help the farmers to make and save money, while helping themselves by furnishing the constantly improved Deering Binders and Mowers. Chicago, Ill., April, 16, 1890.

IF YOU WANT TO

BUY CHEAP,

—Go to the—

Bargain Store

On Eighth St., West of Court House.

HAMBLETONIAN.

COLONEL STERLING.

—PEDIGREE.—

Colonel Sterling was sired by Sterling 1447, he by Volunteer, 55, and he by Hambletonian, 10. Colonel Sterling's dam was sired by Robert Fillingham, Jr., he by George Wilks, 519, and he by Hambletonian, 10.

Look at the Royal blood combination, that of Hambletonian, 10, George Wilks, 519, and Volunteer, 55, all for $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

Write for extended pedigree.

F. J. YESBERA,

AUBURN, IND.

Commissioner's Sale.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned Commissioner appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court, in the case of Samuel Davis et al. vs Matilda Radormer et al. in said court by order of said court will sell at public auction on the premises on

Saturday, May 17, 1890.

The following premises in DeKalb county, Indiana, to wit: Sixty-two and one-half (62½) acres off of the north end of the east half of the northeast quarter of section nineteen (19) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east, excepting the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago railroad, passing through said land. And also the south half of the southeast quarter of section seven (7), all in township number thirty-three (33) north of range fifteen (15) east. Sale to commence at ten o'clock a. m. of said day.

Terms: One-third cash, one-third in one year and one-third in two years. The deferred payments to be secured by notes, at interest, waiving relief, and secured by a mortgage on the premises. JOHN NELSON, Commissioner.

April 14, 1890.

James E. Rose Atty.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

Killed by Savages.

San Francisco special: Four white and forty-seven natives, who were going as laborers to Australia, were lost by the wreck of a schooner on the new Hebrides. The survivors say that about twenty natives and one white man reached shore, but the islanders, after inviting them to a feast, tomahawked and ate the whole crowd except one boy who escaped. The schooner was the Eliza Mary, and she had on board a crew of eighteen, two passengers, forty-four recruits and fifteen returning laborers. During a blind rain storm on March 4 the schooner was driven on the reefs at Mallicolo. A boat manned by four white men and several blacks was lowered, but was dashed to pieces in an attempt to gain the shore. The four white men and a number of the blacks were drowned. About twenty of the blacks succeeded in swimming to shore and making their way to Mission Station, ten miles distant. Here the castaways were given food, but while eating it the savages set upon and began tomahawking them. Of the twenty, only one, a boy, succeeded in escaping. In all, four white men and forty-seven blacks were lost.

Southern Railroad Accident.

One engineer, two firemen, and two brakemen were killed by the collision of two freight trains on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway at a tunnel four miles from Chattanooga, Tenn. The accident was caused by a misunderstanding of running orders. The killed are: Alfred Harris, colored brakeman; John Bailey, fireman of Rome, Ga.; Scott Price, colored brakeman, J. M. Clifford, fireman of Knoxville, and a brakeman whose name is unknown. Engineer Gregory was probably injured fatally.

Randall's Successor.

Richard Vaux, who was nominated by the Democrats in Randall's district at Philadelphia, was born in 1816 and was admitted to the bar when 20 years of age. During President Van Buren's administration he acted as Secretary of the American Legislation at London. He was elected Mayor of Philadelphia on the Democratic ticket in 1866 and served one term. He has always been a stalwart Democrat and is popularly known as the "Bourbon of Bourbons."

The Ohio Cyclone.

Tiffin (Ohio) special: Later information is to the effect that the late storm was disastrous in various parts of the southeastern section of Seneca County, although no lives were lost. At McCutchenville, on the Wyandot line, Chamberlin's hardware store was unroofed and partly demolished, and large barns on the Samson and Zigler farms were scattered to the winds near New Riegel, and a large and a valuable barn was struck by lightning and burned with its contents. The total loss so far as learned will aggregate several thousand dollars.

Perished in the Flames.

A fire occurred in a small frame building at Campbellford, Ont., resulting in the death of two persons, a boy named William Flynn, aged 13, and his grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Soules, aged 80. The old lady was quite helpless and was up stairs in bed. When the fire was discovered the boy rushed upstairs to bring his grandmother out. He was overtaken by the flames which spread rapidly and perished with the grandmother.

Saved from Drowning.

D. Asire, at the risk of his life, succeeded in saving two boys named Sprout and Sharf from drowning at Fostoria, Ohio. While walking near where the waterworks reservoir is to be located he saw the Sprout lad, who was swimming in Portage Creek, sink twice. The Sharf boy went to his assistance, but his friend seized him around the neck, and both sank. Mr. Asire hastened to their rescue and with great difficulty succeeded in saving them.

A California Lynching.

Santa Maria (Cal.) special: Twenty masked men entered the saloon where E. L. Criswell has been confined since Constable Southard's murder, stood up the guards with shot-guns, placed blankets over their heads, and then proceeded to Criswell's room and tied and gagged him. They then passed a rope up over the rafters, swung him up and left him hanging until daylight.

A Horrible Discovery.

A cask supposed to contain salted vegetables, was landed at San Francisco from a cargo at Yokohama on the 16th instant. The stench from it was unbearable, and on its being opened it was found to contain the corpse of a man and a child much decomposed. The cask was from Nimsea, Corea, and consigned to a Toledo merchant, who says he bought them for medical purposes. The police are investigating.

Attempt to Assassinate a Priest.

An attempt was made at Jeffersonville, Ind., to assassinate Rev. E. Andran, rector of St. Augustine's Catholic church. Two shots were fired as he was standing on his porch. The perpetrator missed his mark and escaped. The venerable priest is popular and was not known to have an enemy.

Michigan Millionaire Dead.

Thomas Nestor, a Michigan millionaire and lumberman, died at Barayo of apoplexy, aged 55. He was worth $40,000,000, made in pine lands, starting in as a poor lumber chopper in the woods.

An Editor Disappears.

It is reported that I. A. Baker, editor of the Moron (Ill.) Times disappeared May 7 and has not been heard from since. Foul play is suspected.

Mutilated and Eaten by Fish.

Indianapolis special: Boys found the head, trunk, hips, and arms of an unknown white man in Eagle Creek, west of the city. The body was in dissevered fragments, apparently cut apart with an axe, and the whole fastened down in a pool of water, and the features entirely eaten away by fish. The Coroner is satisfied it is a foul murder, and reports that unusual ingenuity was shown in concealing the body. Several citizens have mysteriously disappeared in the past three months. The supposition is that the remains are Abraham Cline, a real estate agent, who was last seen ten days ago with considerable money, and whose family stoutly hold that he has been murdered by unknown parties. Cline's family and friends, assisted by the police force and detectives, have been untiringly searching for some trace of the missing man ever since his disappearance. Every possible clue, however slight, has been followed until it proved itself a hopeless cause, and even then hesitatingly abandoned. It now seems that boyish play has accidentally unravelled a mystery which has baffled skill, experience and affectionate solicitude and anxiety. It is hoped that some identifying mark may be found upon the mutilated remains by which assurance can be gained that they are all that is earthly of poor Cline. Positive knowledge of his death will be preferable to the agonizing suspense which his family has undergone.

MORE HORROR.

Another Insane Asylum Burned and Eleven More Lives Sacrificed.

A special from Utica, N. Y., dated the 9th inst., says: The Chenango County Poor-house and Insane Asylum, located at Preston, six miles west of Norwich, were entirely consumed last night. The fire was discovered about 11 o'clock, in the north wing of the poor-house building, where the idiots were kept. There was no means for extinguishing the flames. The keepers and neighbors gave their attention to getting out the 125 paupers and insane, and let the building burn. Eleven idiots are missing. Six bodies can be seen slowly burning. The other five are supposed to be covered up. The poor-house building was three stories high and built of wood. The asylum was also a wooden building two stories high and only separated from the poor-house by a driveway. The property was estimated worth $25,000 and insured for $20,000. The Universalist and Baptist churches have been opened for the reception of the unfortunates. The origin of the fire is unknown. Yesterday afternoon a woman was in the idiot department smoking. She put her pipe in her pocket and was soon enveloped in flames, and later died from the effects of the burns. It is supposed that some of the idiots got hold of some matches, and in playing with them set fire to the building.

All the departments in the institution were crowded and it can well be imagined that the rescue of the poor creatures, many of them old and feeble, and others wild with fear and terror, which added to their insane delusions, was by no means an easy task. The firemen and citizens worked as best they could to carry, drive, drag and push the inmates out, but the flames spread so rapidly there was little time, and the great wonder is that so many were rescued. There was little system in the conduct of the effort to save. People went at it at haphazzard, apalled by the awfulness of the cries and moans of the inmates and the magnitude of the catastrophe. Not one of those who worked expected that so many would be saved. Sheriff Kinney has sworn in a large number of deputies and is searching for missing paupers. The number of dead may possibly reach thirteen, but from the state of the ruins it is impossible to state exactly. The most careful count of the Superintendent does not show that more than thirteen were burned.

AN INTERNATIONAL EPISODE.

An Officer Experiences Difficulty in Making an Arrest on Board a German Ship in Harbor.

San Francisco special: A collector in the employ of an outfitting firm went aboard the German ship Theodore, which is anchored in the bay here, to collect some money from the third mate, Waldoff. Waldoff repudiated the debt and, after an altercation, knocked the collector down. The latter went ashore and secured a warrant for Waldoff's arrest. The warrant was given to Officer Mahoney, who went to the ship in a small boat accompanied by two boatmen. As the boat approached the vessel the ladder was hauled up, but after making an explanation to First Mate Schukin the ladder was lowered and Mahoney was allowed to go aboard, though the ladder was drawn up immediately to prevent the boatmen from following him. Mahoney went into the cabin with Schukin and Waldoff, and after some parley placed the latter under arrest. Schukin soon went on deck, and as Woldoff refused to go with the officer the latter led him out of the cabin. When they reached the deck the crew of twenty-seven men were gathered aft, and Mate Schukin pointed to the German flag floating astern and informed him that he was on a German ship and could not take Waldoff off. Mahoney attempted to push his way through the crowd with his charge, but the crew closed around him, grasped him by the arms and rescued his prisoner. The boatmen hearing the disturbance jumped on the ladder which had been again let down. One of the crew attempted to cut the ladder rope with his knife, but the boatmen told him they would shoot him if he did so and they came aboard. Officer Mahoney then concluded to go ashore for help, and as he left the ship the crew shouted expressions of contempt. Capt. Dunlevy, of the harbor police, laid the facts before Capt. Hawes, of the Theodore, who was ashore at the time, and the officer again went aboard the ship and arrested both mates without further difficulty.

Exciting Steamboat Race.

Liverpool special: A stirring ocean race has just taken place across the Atlantic between the steamships Auranta of the White Star line, and the City of Rome of the Anchor line, on the result of which a great deal of money will change hands. The Aurania left New York on Saturday, May 3, at 4 p. m., and the City of Rome at 5 p. m. They kept each other in sight all the way across, the Aurania being always about five knots astern. As the ships neared Brow Head the City of Rome led by about ten minutes. The betting aboard both ships was fast and furious. When they approached the Mersy, the City of Rome was fifteen minutes ahead, and the passengers wagered with each other on board while the spectators ashore, who had become aware of the race, took odds, first on one ship and then on the other, till the amount at stake was enormous. The City of Rome landed at Liverpool at 7 a. m. on Saturday, and was declared the winner.

Terrific Tornado.

Akron, Ohio, was struck by the most terrific tornado ever known in that vicinity. About one hundred dwellings and business houses were totally demolished and a number of others wrecked. At the brewery the hurricane did the most damage. The extensive buildings were entirely ruined, and the loss will probably reach $20,000. A little daughter of Gebhart Herman was pinned to the floor by an overturned stove, and before she could be extricated was frightfully burned. Melvin Irish and family were seated at supper when the storm struck the house. Mrs. Irish cried to the family to run to the cellar, that a cyclone was upon them. The lady herself and the children escaped, but before Mr. Irish could reach a safe place he was caught by falling timbers and fatally crushed. The full extent of damage to the city and vicinity can not yet be estimated.

"Pete the Pincher" Pinched.

Jersey City special: The mysterious character known as "Pete the Pincher," has been captured. He has terrorized the population—particularly the female portion—for the past six months. His assaults were not bloody like those of "Jack the Ripper," his mind running more to osculatory pleasures than to brutal butchery. He was finally captured by a crowd of enraged women who threatened him with lynching and were only prevented from putting their threats into execution by the interference of officers.

Attempted Escape of the Cronin Murders.

Joliet (Ill.) special: A huge sensation was unearthed in the penitentiary, and four convicts, including Burke and the Cronin suspects, are in solitary confinement. The officers became aware that a conspiracy was being hatched for some prisoners to escape, and brought into the office Burke and Kavanaugh (sent up for attempting to bribe the Cronin jury) and two others. The four were stripped, and on each was found a big roll of money, and on Burke some whisky. One of the men had a letter on his person directing his friends to send money to Barrett, foreman of Winterbottom & Son, owners of the cooper shop in the prison. Barrett was ordered from the prison and the prisoners sent to solitary confinement. Barrett claims it to be a put-up job, as he was hard on the prisoners.

The Loyal Legion.

At the annual meeting of the Ohio commandry of the military order of the Loyal Legion in session at Cincinnati, the following officers were elected: Commander, Major E. C. Dawes, Cincinnati; senior vice-commander, Gen. Thomas J. Wood, Dayton; junior vice-commander, Gen. A. C. Vooris, Dayton; recorder, Capt. Robert Hunter, Cincinnati; registrar, Capt. J. C. Michie, Cincinnati; treasurer, Major F. B. James, Cincinnati; chancellor, Capt. W. Crane, Cincinnati; chaplain, Rev. H. M. Bacon, Toledo; Council, Lieutenant Colonel G. M. Finch, Major H. K. Cushing, Cleveland; Major W. H. Chamberlain, General R. W. Healy, Cincinnati. The commandery adopted a resolution urgently insisting that all possible speed, compatible with accuracy, be maintained in the publication by the government of the records of the rebellion.

Murder at Batavia, Ohio.

John G. Prather, a prominent citizen of Chilo, in Clermont County, was buried at Batavia. As the funeral train was returning from the cemetery, they heard cries from an old, white-haired man named Stewart, who was standing in the road with blood pouring from a ghastly knife wound in the neck. Stewart said that George Heck had tried to murder him. Heck was immediately arrested and placed in the county jail at Batavia. Threats of lynching were made by the excited citizens. Heck's version of the affair is to the effect that Stewart tried to kill him a year ago, and had again stabbed him, and in warding off the blow Heck had stabbed the old mad with a penknife with which he happened to be whittling a stick at the time.

A Demon's Deed.

Near Fairfield, Ohio, Ira Marlatt shot and killed Barick Ashton and seriously wounded Lewis Bell. It seems that Marlatt went to Ashton and Bell, and asked them to sign a bond or note. They refused, and he became angry. Drawing a revolver he fired at both. Ashton fell dead, and Bell received a bad wound from which it was at first thought he could not recover. After the shooting Marlatt fled, and Sheriff Wyman found him at the home of his mother. Wyman knocked at the door and it was not opened, when Wyman battered it down and as he entered, Marlatt shot Wyman in the side inflicting a flesh wound which is not dangerous. The prisoner was locked up in the County Jail.

Government Aids Flood Sufferers.

The Secretary of War has sent a telegram to Capt. Weston, of the commissary depot, at New Orleans, in reference to relief of the flood sufferers in Mississippi, instructing him to cause an investigation as to the necessity of relief at places in that State. The telegram is as follows: "The responsibility is put upon you to investigate and decide in cases where reports are conflicting. The Secretary relies upon you to supply the destitute and carry out the purpose of Congress in granting appropriations, and at the same time guard against imposition and see that the bounty of the government reaches the deserving and is carefully and prudently distributed.

An Engineer Injured.

While Grand Rapids & Indiana No. 66 was taking water at the crossing at Muskegon, Mich., the conduit swung around and threw Engineer H. M. Jones head foremost to the ground. He struck on a tie and his skull was badly fractured. He was taken to a house and a physician sent for, who pronounced the wound dangerous, but not necessarily fatal. Mr. Jones is married and lives on South Iona street, Grand Rapids, where he will be taken as soon as he is able to be moved. He formerly came from Fort Wayne, Ind., the home of his wife, and there he was prominent in base ball circles.

A Bishop's Funeral.

The obsequies of the late Bishop Borgess, which took place at Kalamazoo, Mich., were the most elaborate and imposing that have ever occurred there. Dignitaries of the Church of Rome were present from all the Western States. The vespers for the dead were sung in the presence of a great throng and Bishop Dwenger, of Fort Wayne, preached the sermon. Pontifical high mass or the obsequies proper occurred, and the sermon was preached by Archbishop Elder, of Cincinnati. The interment was in the newly made vault in the church-yard.

Boy Killed by Cars.

A watchman found the body of Robert McMahan lying beside the Lake Shore track at the Central Avenue crossing, Toledo, Ohio, with his skull fractured and the brains oozing out. He had been up to Monroe, Mich., and it appears was riding home on a freight. He had jumped from the train here while it was in motion and was dashed against a cattle guard. The boy was the 19-year-old son of ex-Detective R. W. McMahan, who has been in the West. He lived with his mother on Bartlett street.

The President's Summer Vacation.

President Harrison contemplates passing a portion of the coming summer at Deer Park in the same cottage he and his family occupied last season. It was said that he would take possession of the Elkins cottage, now that Mr. Elkins has removed from Deer Park to his new ninety-room house at Elkins, W. Va., but it is unerstood that Mr. Washington McLean and family have already engaged the Elkins cottage for this summer.

The World's Fair Site.

At a meeting of the World's Fair Committee held at Chicago, it was decided to report favorably on Lake Front as the site for the new World's Fair buildings. This ground lies in the center of the city, is surrounded on one side by the fine buildings of architecture and Lake Michigan, and comprises about three hundred acres. It is believed as soon as plans are adopted work on the new buildings will begin at once.

The Coal Miners Next.

Pittsburgh special: William Martin, Vice President of the American Federation of Labor, said: "The success of the carpenters and joiners has gone beyond all their expectations, and the coal miners of the United States, to the number of 75,000, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will next strike for eight hours." The strike will probably occur about the 20th inst.

Treasure Hunters in the South Pacific.

Valparaiso special: Another expedition will shortly leave this bay for Coco Island, in the Pacific, on which it is believed an enormous amount of treasure is buried. Two or three expeditions have gone from Valparaiso on a similar errand, but they have proved profitless. Faith is still maintained, however, in the existence of the treasure, and about $10,000 has been obtained for the new experiment. The crews receive a certain salary, and will also get a fixed proportion of the treasure if any shall be found.

Section Men Killed.

A special train on the Chicago, Burlington and Northern carrying the members of the Boston Symphony orchestra from St. Louis to Minneapolis, ran into a hand car on which there were three section hands, at Prescott, Wis., killing two and injuring the other, it is thought, fatally. The train was running at a speed of forty-five miles an hour when the accident occurred and was almost upon the hand car before the engineer saw it, then too late to reverse.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

Buffalo special: A heavily loaded train was being taken to East Buffalo by an engine, when an explosion took place, and the engine was a total wreck. The engineer and fireman were killed. The former was blown 1,000 feet, and made a mass of jelly. The latter was seen ascending over an elm tree about fifty feet and subsequently found in the water under a bridge. The cause of the accident is unknown, but it is supposed to be negligence of the engineer.

Don't Desecrate the Flag.

Representative Caldwell has introduced in the House a bill introduced by S. S. Cox in the Forty-Fifth Congress to prevent the desecration of the United States flag. The bill provides that any person who shall disfigure the national flag, either by printing on it or attaching to it any advertisement for public display, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be fined not over $50, or imprisoned for not less than thirty days, or both.

A Triple Tragedy.

Mazeppa (Minn.) special: There is great excitement in this neighborhood over a triple tragedy that occurred near Chester, four miles from this place. Constantine Schaeffer, laboring under a fit of temporary insanity, conceived the idea of ridding himself and family of all further vexation. He brained his wife with an ax, nearly decapitated his 6-year-old son with a carving knife, and then, as a fitting finale to his murderous work, ended his own life by hanging.

No Place for Whisky Sellers.

The most important action taken at the meeting of the Central Labor Union of New York, was the adoption of the report of the Credential Committee refusing admission to the Union of the Saloon-Keeper's Association, on the ground that its members are not wage-workers. The action of the saloon-keepers in seeking admission to the Union was characterized as a political scheme.

Disfigured for Life.

William Riley, of Tipton Township, Cass County, was putting a bell on a cow, when the animal tossed her head up, and one of the horns struck Riley in the face, tearing an ugly gash upward from the left side of his nose to the corner of his eye. The injured man went to Logansport and had the wound dressed by Dr. Coleman. He will be permanently disfigured.

Carlisle Declares His Candidacy.

Ex-Speaker John Griffin Carlisle has declared his candidacy for the seat made vacant by the death of Senator Beck, of Kentucky. In company with his friends from Covington and Newport he is at Franklin to present his claim to the Legislature, now in session. It is believed he will be nominated by caucus on the second ballot.

Among the Lepers.

Rev. Mr. Chapman, of London, has received a letter from his sister, Gertrude, who went out to the Sandwich Islands to nurse lepers. She says she is at Kaliki, the new leper station, in care of Dr. Lutz. There are no lepers there yet and she expresses her regret that she is not allowed to go to Molokai and carry out her mission.

Severed an Artery.

Rolla Tracey, an employe of the Lima Paper Mills, picked up a box, when his arm came in contact with a sharp knife which had been left lying on the box, and an aretery svered, nearly causing death before the flow could be checked. His recovery is doubtful.

Fatal Collision.

A Jersey Central express and a Lehigh Valley pasenger train collided at a crossing at Allentown, Pa. Miss Emma Hall, a passenger, was instantly killed and ten other persons more or less seriously injured.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$ 4.75	@	5.50
Fair to Good	3.50	@	4.75
Common	2.50	@	3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.75	@	4.50
SHEEP	5.00	@	7.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94	@	.95
CORN—No. 2	.34	@	.35
OATS—No. 2	.25½	@	.26½
RYE—No. 2	.51	@	.52
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.17	@	.19
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09	@	.10
EGGS—Fresh	.10½	@	.11½
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu	.40	@	.52
PORK—Mess	12.75	@	13.25
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.86	@	.87
CORN—No. 3	.32	@	.33
OATS—No. 2 White	.28	@	.29
RYE—No. 1	.50	@	.51
BARLEY—No. 2	.44	@	.46
PORK—Mess	13.25	@	13.75
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@	4.25
HOGS	3.00	@	4.50
SHEEP	3.50	@	5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.93	@	.95
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.35	@	.36
OATS—No. 2 White	.31	@	.32
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.95	@	.95½
CORN—Cash	.35	@	.36
OATS—No. 2 White	.28	@	.28½
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	4.00	@	5.25
HOGS	4.25	@	4.75
SHEEP	5.00	@	7.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.00	@	1.02
CORN—No. 2 White	.43	@	.45
OATS—Mixed Western	.33	@	.36
PORK—New Mess	14.00	@	14.50
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.25	@	5.00
HOGS	3.75	@	4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.93	@	.94
CORN—No. 2	.34	@	.35
OATS—No. 2	.27½	@	.28½
RYE—No. 2	.55½	@	.56½
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.00	@	4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@	4.25
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@	6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.93½	@	.94½
CORN—No. 1 White	.34	@	.35
OATS—No. 2 White	.27	@	.27½
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.75	@	4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.88	@	.91
CORN—No. 2	.37	@	.37½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.27½	@	.28½
RYE—No. 2	.56	@	.57
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.50	@	5.25
HOGS—Medium and Heavy	4.00	@	4.30
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	1.00	@	1.01½
CORN—No. 2	.36	@	.36½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Patents Issued to Hoosier Inventors.

Patents have been issued to Indiana inventors as follows: Cyrus C. Boger, Waterloo, swinging gate; John P. Brown, Rising Sun, metallic land mark for evidencing surveys of land; Frank C. Buttz, assignor of one-half to J. H. Johnson, Indianapolis, gas valve; Charles A. Carpenter, Richmond, natural gas burner; Joseph S. Cole, assignor of one-half to L. H. Baldwin, Albany, combined clothes-rack, ironing-table, and clothes-dryer; Samuel B. Davis, assignor of one-half to T. B. Myers, Clinton, clod-fender; Henry H. Dille, Richmond, lawn-edge trimmer; Lewis Girdler, Sellersburg, weighing machine for testing purposes; James B. Knickerbocker, assignor to Knickerbocker Gas-Regulator Company, Indianapolis, automatic pressure regulator; Jesse M. Lillpop, assignor of one-half to H. L. Wheat, Kyana, vegetable cutter; Fred L. McGahan, Indianapolis, feed water-heater; Job X. Mills, Pine Village, feed-rack; James C. Moses, Decatur, moldboard; Newton Rogers and J. A. Wharry, Terre Haute, hydro-carbon furnace; William H. Sexton, Dugger, coal-separator; George W. Sturm, Dana, attachment for center-cut mowers; Israel M. Swauth and A. C. Cosner, assignor of one-third to J. Grossnickle, North Manchester, bathing apparatus; Lewis Wallace, Crawfordsville, railway ties.

Pettit Wants Another Analysis.

Rev. William F. Pettit, under indictment at Lafayette for poisoning his wife by strychnine, has filed a petition asking the court to compel Prosecuting Attorney Haywood to turn over to petitioner's attorneys the remainder of the stomach, spleen, liver, heart, intestines, and brain of Mrs. Pettit, now in the hands of the chemist who made the analysis of her remains. Dr. Peters, who made the analysis, swore to finding four hundred and sixty-five thousandths of a grain of strychnine in his examination. Pettit recites in his petition that Peters was paid by the county for his services, that he removed the parts of Mrs. Pettit's body without notice of petitioner, and made in secret, in the absence of all persons. Pettit also avers that he can only disinter the body of his wife by permission of her relatives, and this they refuse to give. Pettit avers that he is innocent of the charge against him, and desires the remaining portions taken by Dr. Peters, claiming that a chemical analysis by a competent analytical chemist will disclose the absence of strychnine therein, and establish the fact that Mrs. Pettit's death was not caused by strychnine. He says he cannot safely go to trial without such chemical analysis. His demand upon the prosecution was refused, hence the appeal to the court.

Jail Delivery at Crawfordsville.

Three prisoners, James Hogan, Frank Kelly and Mat Lynes, escaped from the jail at Crawfordsville. The wife of Sheriff McClarkey heard a noise in the corridor, and going in to investigate, noticed that the outside bolt to the cell-corridor door was out, and these three prisoners were standing at the iron-grating door. As she walked toward the door to put the pin back, the men pushed open the door, and, rushing past her into the dining-room, thence going to the kitchen, they escaped. They were in jail on the charge of burglarizing the Casad grocery, in April. They had used two knives, a small file and some nitric acid, and had drilled a hole from the inside, just opposite the iron pin that held the door. Then a small wire was filed from a dust-pan, and with this wire passed through the hole, the pin was worked out. When the men were not at work drilling the hole, they would fill it up with soap, so it could not be noticed.

Minor State Items.

—Charles Hoffman, a prominent farmer near North Manchester, dropped dead from heart disease.

—Mrs. Mamasah E. Jeffries, residing near Greenfield, died very suddenly of congestion of the stomach.

—Henry Gordon, aged 68, died at Seymour, Sunday, from the effects of a kick by a horse the day before.

—Joseph Hullinger, an old citizen of Marion, was run down and killed by a Panhandle freight engine.

—The fine barn of Elberson Gentry, near Little Point, was burned, containing five head of horses, all of his hay and corn and farming implements. Loss, $3,000; insurance, $600.

—George Zinn, of Goshen, was fatally injured by being crushed by the cross-bar of a gateway through which he was driving. He was a wealthy retired farmer.

—The City Council of Anderson has granted a franchise to another street-railway company, and there is lively rivalry in the work of grabbing the streets.

—Wm. Manning fell dead in church at Pin Hook, two miles north of Bethel. He was on his knees when the stroke came, his wife praying by his side. It is supposed heart trouble caused his sudden death.

—Moses Dodge, residing near Georgetown, about twelve miles from New Albany, had occasion to go to his barn after dark. He was passing one of his horses when the animal kicked him on the head and on the leg. The kick on the head fractured his skull and that on the leg badly fractured that member. The wounded man was carried to his home near by, where he expired in a few hours after the accident. Mr. Dodge was one of the most prominent citizens of the vicinity in which he lived.

—Rev. Carl C. G. Bez, at present teacher in St. John's Lutheran school, in Fort Wayne, has been tendered a unanimous call by the congregation of St. Marcus Lutheran Church in East Toledo, O. Rev. Bez will probably accept.

—James Black, of Summitville, while driving home from Frankfort, the other night, was attacked by a wild animal, which he believes to have been either a wild-cat or panther. He beat it off, but his clothing was reduced to strings. He is the third man recently attacked near that point by the beast.

—The Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association has declared a boycott in Cloverdale Township, Putnam County, on J. D. Reed, a butcher, for selling imported dressed beef.

—George Etchison, aged about twenty, went to Perkinsville, Madison County, to see his girl, was rejected by her, and went home at midnight and shot himself through the heart.

—While en route for Indianapolis, Harry Stevens, a barber of Greenfield, was pushed off an excursion train near the Belt crossing. He received internal injuries which may result fatally.

—Harry, the 7-year-old son of John Drake, fell into a vat of boiling water at the slaughter house of Pike & James, at Knightstown, and was frightfully scalded about the arms and chest before he could be removed.

—Hiram Stanfield, of Hillham, was convicted in the Dubois Circuit Court of buying the vote of David Philips and sentenced to jail for thirty days with a fine of $25 and disfranchised for ten years.

—Henry Philabaum, a pioneer of Miami County, died recently while sitting in a chair from heart failure. His son died two weeks before at the same hour while sitting in the same chair from the same cause.

—Charles W. Hammond, one of the most notorious horse thieves Indiana has ever produced, is dead at the northern prison, where he was sent from Boone County in 1887 to serve a sentence of thirteen years.

—C. A. Parsens, of Peru, had been annoyed for some time by an eruption on one of his arms. He consulted a physician, who removed therefrom a common sewing-needle. Mr. Parsons thinks it must have entered his system during childhood.

—Miss Alla Barrett, of South Bend, invited a number of friends to her home recently. Among other games was a charade, and while the guests were trying to guess it Miss Barrett and Mr. W. H. Sweet appeared and were united in marriage, to the intense surprise of the guests.

—John Reddick and John Derybery, the burglars who escaped from the Sheriff of Henry County, last February, while on their way to prison to serve 8-year and 2-year sentences, respectively, have been caught on a cotton plantation at Darnell's Landing, Tenn., and returned to Jeffersonville.

—The Salvation Army at Muncie met to try William Tweedy, a new recruit, on charges of gambling and profanity. In the course of the hearing Tweedy and "Capt." Evans endeavored to try conclusions with chairs and things. Considerable damage was done to the furniture of the barracks and heads of members.

—Ellsworth Hughes, a student of Notre Dame University was drowned while rowing with two companions on St. Joseph's lake, and so far the efforts to rescue the body have been fruitless. He was one of the most popular and talented students at the college, and would have graduated next year in the scientific course. He was 18 years old, a son of the traffic manager of the Denver & Rio Grande railway, and a nephew of United States Senator Ingalls.

—The in-coming Air-line train, which always separates a short distance above the depot, at Rockport, on a steep grade, parted as usual, but the brakes on the coaches refused to work, and they came in at a lively gait. They crashed into some box cars standing on the main track, throwing the baggage car from the track. All the passengers were considerably shaken up. Miss Alice Beeler, of Chrisney, received severe injuries.

—Mrs. Caroline Winters, a woman with a sad history, died recently in the Old Ladies' Home, at New Albany, aged 84. Thirty years ago her husband, a prosperous manufacturer in Louisville, Ky., disappeared suddenly. His business was wound up and found all right, and no cause for his disappearance could be shown. The family mourned him as murdered, when, twenty years after, he as unaccountably reappeared as a tramp, making no explanation, and, mentally and physically, a wreck. He lived but a few years after his return.

—Jeff Williams was run over by an engine at the C. & I. C. depot Brazil, in a state of intoxication, and his right arm and leg cut off, the arm above the elbow and the leg between foot and knee. Williams has been for several years an inmate of the Clay County poor-house, but had a large inheritance left him by his father, Nathan Williams, an early coal operator at Staunton, some years ago, all of which he squandered by dissipation. He is about forty-seven years of age, and it is thought by the attending physician that he will not survive the shock.

—Considerable excitement has been created about Williamsburg, over the supposed drugging of a young man, Ed Nay. In company with Charles Wright and Clay Kelly he went to the woods. Young Nay not returning, as expected, with the other boys, search was made for him by his friends, and after some hours' search he was found lying on the ground, unconscious and frothing at the mouth. Physicians worked with him all night and until noon next day before he gained consciousness, and it was pronounced a case of poisoning. He says he drank whisky out of a bottle and thinks he must have been drugged. He it now out of danger.

—A recklessly-driven horse attached to a buggy ran over J. S. Bennett at Jeffersonville and seriously bruised him. On account of his age and feeble condition his injuries may result fatally.

—L. E. Hursch, car inspector for the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, in Fort Wayne, was caught between two cars and crushed to death. It was fifteen minutes before the unfortunate man could be taken from between the cars, and he was all this time suffering intense agony. Hursch leaves a large family.

—Mrs. Patrick Mannix, a bride of a week, was thrown from a buggy and fatally injured in a runaway accident at Charlestown.

—It has been discovered that some fiends have broken into the vault that contained the remains of Mrs. Mary A. Fryer, at Washington, and with long sticks tore the lid off the casket, and then disfigured the remains in a terrible manner. What could have been the motive is unknown. A clew to the wretches is thought to be had, and every effort will be employed to arrest and punish them.

When on the High Seas.
On the rail, on a steamboat, aboard a fishing smack, or yachting on the coast, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will be found a reliable means of averting and relieving ailments to which travelers, mariners, and emigrants are peculiarly subject. Sea captains, ship doctors, voyagers, or sojourners in the tropics, and all about to encounter, unacclimated, an unaccustomed, or dangerous climate, should not neglect to avail themselves of this safeguard of well-ascertained and long-tried merit. Constipation, biliousness, malarial fever, indigestion, rheumatism, and affections of the bladder and kidneys are among the ailments which it eradicates, and it may be resorted to not only with confidence in its remedial efficacy but also in its perfect freedom from every objectionable ingredient, since it is derived from the purest and most salutary sources. It counteracts the effects of unwholesome food and water.

A Hint to Landlords.

Departing Guest—Mr. Landlord, my expenses at your hotel have been greater than I anticipated, and as I am a little short of money, you will have to wait until I return before I can liquidate your bill.

Landlord — Don't bother yourself about such a trifle. I'll just make a memorandum of it on the door here until you return.

"But everybody shall read my name there, and I shall be scandalized."

"Yes, that's a fact, but I can remedy that. Just leave your fur trimmed overcoat with me and I'll hang it on the door over your bill, and nobody will ever see it.—Texas Siftings.

DR. L. L. GORSUCH, Toledo, O., says: "I have practiced medicine for forty years; have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with so much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure." Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Tabooed by Society.

Emma—I notice you don't speak to Miss De Conye anymore.

Lucy—No; I haven't any use for a girl who wears a blue gown with a brown dog.—Dry Goods Chronicle.

For Fifty Years
the Standard
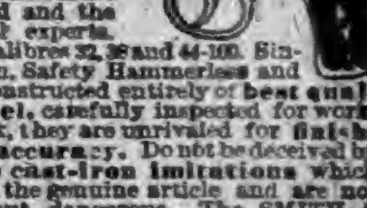
Blood-purifier
and
Tonic,
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
has no equal
as a
Spring
Medicine.
Prepared by
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

MAY FLOWERS—OF SONG
FOR SCHOOLS.
CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SONGS (35 cts., $3.60 doz.) Spages of simple explanations, and 136 new and selected songs for general singing. This little book is being received with much favor.
Kindergarten Chimes. ($1.25.) Kate Douglas Wiggin. Good manual, and fine collection.
Kindergarten and Primary School Songs. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Menard.
Songs and Games for Little Ones. ($2.) Walker and Jenks.
Gems for Little Singers. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Emerson and Swayne.
Rhymes and Tunes. ($1.) Mrs. Osgood.
Motion Songs. (20 cts., $1.80 doz.) Mrs. Boardman.
Get them all! They are most delightful books! Also try the sweet little Cantatas:
Kingdom of Mother Goose. (25 cts., $2.28 dozen.) Mrs. Boardman.
Rainbow Festival. (20 cts., $1.80 doz.) Lewis.
Who Killed Cock Robin? (40 cts., $3.60 dozen.) Ford.
Song Manual { Book 1, Primary. 30c; $3.00 doz. Book 2, Medium. 40c; $4.20 doz. Book 3, High. 50c; $4.80 doz.
By Emerson. These are the newest and best books for teaching note reading in schools.
Send for Lists and Descriptions.
Any book mailed for retail price.
LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.
OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

SEVEN
SEVENTEEN
SEVENTY

To cure Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, Malaria, Liver Complaints, take the safe and certain remedy, SMITH'S
BILE BEANS
Use the SMALL SIZE (40 little beans to the bottle). They are the most convenient; suit all ages. Price of either size, 25 cents per bottle.
KISSING at 7, 17, 70; Photo-gravure, panel size of this picture for 4 cents (coppers or stamps).
J. F. SMITH & CO., Makers of "Bile Beans," St. Louis, Mo.



IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application. SMITH & WESSON,
Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

LADIES Who Value a Refined Complexion Must Use
POZZONI'S
MEDICATED
COMPLEXION
POWDER.
For Sale by Druggists & Fancy Goods Dealers Everywhere

Ely's Cream Balm
Is the best remedy for children suffering from COLD IN HEAD
OR
CATARRH.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD
HAY FEVER
ELY'S CREAM BALM
50c

The "Little Beauty" A $5.00 Scale for $1.00
Capacity 1-4 oz. to 4 lbs. Steel Bearings, Brass Scoop and Beam. For Housekeepers, Offices or Stores. Weight packed, 5 lbs. Sent by express.
A $65.00 Sewing Machine $18.00
A 500-lb. Platform Scale 15.00
A $125.00 Top Buggy 65.00
A 2-Ton Wagon Scale 40.00
A 4-Ton Scale and Stock Rack 15.00
A $40 Feed Mill 20.00
A $40.00 Road Cart 15.00
A $15.00 Single Harness 7.50
A 240-lb. Platform Scale 3.00
Price List Free. CHICAGO SCALE CO., Chicago, Ill.

$5.00 SCALE
$1.00

Ask Him! Who?
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.
What? Why on Scales
"He Pays the Freight."

Burlington Route
HALF RATES
TO THE FARMING REGIONS
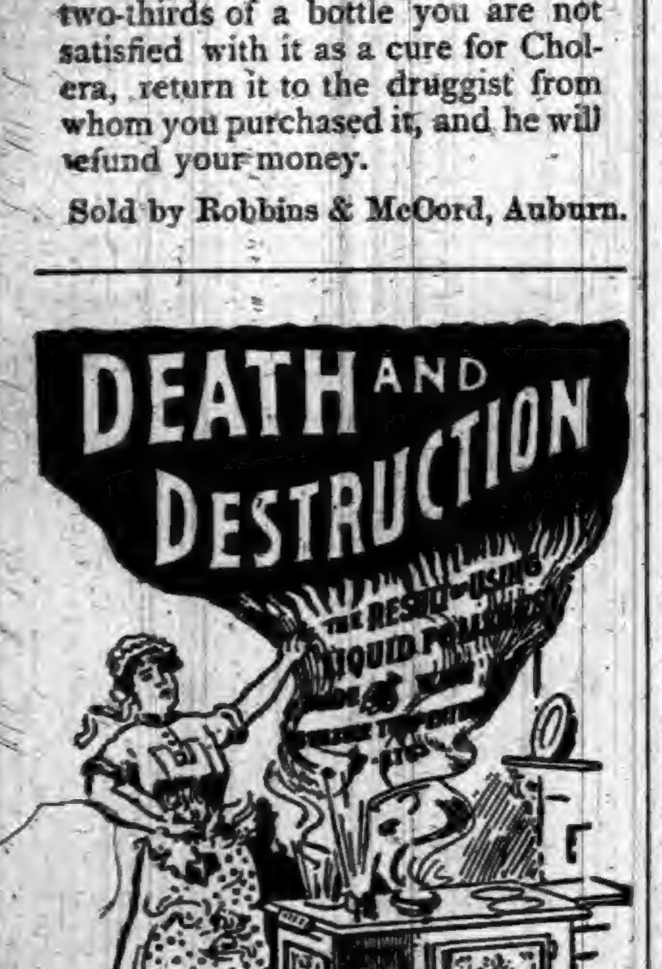
OF THE
WEST, SOUTHWEST, NORTHWEST.
For particulars call on your Ticket Agent or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.



DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

ABSOLUTELY NON COMBUSTIBLE
EBONY STOVE ENAMEL
ONLY PERFECTLY SAFE LIQUID STOVE POLISH MADE
ALSO EBONY PASTE POLISH
ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT-BUY IT-TRY IT.
THE BUFFALO POLISH CO. LTD BUFFALO, N.Y.

USE ONLY THE BEST.
UNDERWOOD'S
CELEBRATED
WRITING AND COPYING INKS,
MUCILAGE, ETC.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.
TYPEWRITER RIBBONS,
CARBON PAPERS,
LINEN PAPERS,
RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.
163 LA SALLE ST. CHICAGO. 30 VESEY ST. NEW YORK. 10 JOHNSTON ST. TORONTO.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
DIABETES
LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.
PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE.
Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write
WM. T. LINDLEY & CO.,
214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. MRS. A. A. GILLIAM, Treas. Woman's Exchange.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1 '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. BRIGHTINE cured me. Shanaan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St' boat Co.

ST. LOUIS, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. STAND'D DRUG CO. 900 Franklin Av. St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. MASTBROOK, D'gs 109 S. B'way. Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. REV. JOHN HAWKES. Chicago Times, March 26, '88—Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88—Commercial Traveler, Feb. 15, '88. PRAISE BRIGHTINE. Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros., J. Shepard, Supt. U.S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS
A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY Bitters will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packages for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address

GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

FOR MEN ONLY!
VIGOR AND STRENGTH
For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. [illegible] MANHOOD fully Restored. [illegible] HOME TREATMENT [illegible]
ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE DYING HORSE.

BY MRS. NAPOLEON B. MORANGE.

Fall back! Fall back! Give him room to die!
Hard is the bed where he needs must lie;
For his toilsome life this is the end!
Has he no master—no loving friend?

Is it here the old horse must welcome death,
Where a gaping crowd watches every breath,
Under the midsummer's scorching sun?
Is this his reward for work well done?

How his limbs shudder! How his eyes roll!
Seek they at last for a pitying soul?
Or only for quiet—quiet to die
In some lonely valley green, where a brook gurgles by?

No; he knows nothing of clover-fields cool,
Where cattle at noonday stand deep in the pool;
He never wandered the pastures sweet—
His roadway through life was the stony street.

Cherished while work brought his owner gain,
To strangers left in this hour of pain;
Deserted, now that his task is over,
Not for his old days are the fields of clover.

Not for him will the field-lark sing,
Not for him the lush grasses spring;
Nor to him will liberty come,
In his tired old age, in some country home.

Here he must suffer—here he must die,
Under the midsummer's scorching sky;
Him the broad shade-tree will never woo,
He has known but the pavement his whole life through.

Still we in our vaunted pride of soul
Conceive no future, no restful goal—
No ethereal pasture in regions blest
Where the poor old horse may in spirit rest.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Piccadilly Puzzle.

THE STORY OF A TERRIBLE EPISODE IN THE LIFE OF AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN.

By F. W. HUME.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE END OF IT ALL.

Spencer Ellersby, well dressed, nonchalant and languid, entered the room with a smile on his face, which faded quickly when he found there was no one present to receive him.

"I thought you said Miss Penfold was here," he observed sharply, turning to the footman who was showing him in.

"So she was, sir," stammered the servant in some confusion, "and two gentlemen."

"Gentlemen!" muttered Ellersby to himself, taking a chair; "some of those empty-headed men about town, I suppose."

"I think Miss Penfold must have gone up to the drawing-room, sir," said the servant, turning toward the door. "Will I take your name up, sir?"

"No," replied Ellersby, with a yawn. "I want to see Sir Rupert, just now; so I'll wait here till he comes in, and go up-stairs afterward."

"Very good, sir," said the footman, and was just retiring when Sir Rupert, looking jaded and worried, entered the room, upon which Ellersby rose to his feet, and the footman, going out, closed the door behind him.

"Ah, Sir Rupert," he said, carelessly, "I am so glad to see you, as I thought I'd have to wait for some time. I must apologize for coming into this room, but your servant said Miss Penfold was there."

"Have you seen her?" said Sir Rupert, moodily, taking his seat in front of the desk and swinging round the seat so as to face his visitor.

"No, he made a mistake. She is up in the drawing-room, so I am going to see her later on."

"Meanwhile?" demanded the baronet.

"I am going to see you," finished Ellersby, smoothly, resuming his seat.

Balscombe raised his eyebrows.

"What about?"

"A very important subject—marriage."

"Whose marriage?"

"My own."

"What have I to do with your marriage?"

"A great deal," replied Ellersby, calmly, "because I want to marry Miss Penfold."

"Impossible," said Balscombe, pointedly, "quite impossible."

"How so?" asked the other, coolly. "I have a good position, plenty of money, and my character is good."

"Your moral character?" sneering.

"Oh, that," with a laugh, "is no better nor worse than other young men, so I would like your answer. Will you favor my suit?"

"No."

"I think you will," said Ellersby, coldly, "for the very good and sufficient reason that I can force you to."

"How so?"

"You know well enough," sneered the other. "If the police ask me who committed the Jermyn street murder, I can tell them who did it—Rupert Balscombe."

"You scoundrel!—do you mean to say I killed my wife?"

"I can swear it—and I will, too, if you don't give me your ward!"

"It's a cursed lie!" cried the baronet, white with fury; "where are your proofs?"

"Open that hiding place, and you'll find them."

Sir Rupert gave a stifled cry, and staggered back against the desk, while Ellersby looked at him with a smile of triumph. The three listeners in the other room were standing close to the door, with greedy ears drinking in every word of this strange conversation.

The baronet, with an effort, recovered himself, and, turning to the desk, touched the secret spring and took down the carving. There lay the locket, the chain, and the fatal arrow.

"There is the locket you wrenched off your wife's neck on that night," said Ellersby, pitilessly, "and there is the poisoned arrow-head with which you committed the crime!"

Balscombe took out the objects and looked at them vacantly.

"What deviltry is this?" he said, fiercely. "This is the locket I know—the locket that contains your hair and your picture, curse you! But the arrow-head—I know nothing of that."

"Bah! Who would believe you?" replied the other, mockingly. "It is in your secret drawer."

"How did you know this hiding place?" demanded Balscombe.

"I never said I knew it."

"No; but you said your evidence was in there, so you must have seen these things before. I believe you put the arrow-head there yourself."

"Did I, indeed?" said Ellersby, with a sneer. "Where would I get the arrow-head? Don't blame me for a crime you committed yourself."

"I did not commit it!" shouted Balscombe in a frenzy. "I acknowledge I knew of my wife's intended elopement, and came up from Berkshire to prevent it. I was too late, and went to Calliston's rooms to see him. I missed the door in the fog, and when I found it, the first thing I saw was my guilty wife leaving the house. I followed her and caught up to her—she shrieked, and I gave way to my just anger. I knew she had this locket, and thought it contained Calliston's portrait, not yours, so wrenched it off her neck to make sure. She ran away across the street and I lost her in the fog. I swear I saw no more of her on that night till I read of her death."

"You knew it was your wife that was dead?"

"I was not certain. I heard the Seamew had sailed with Lady Balscombe on board, and thought that the dead woman was some wretched street-walker with whom my wife had changed clothes; but I was not certain that she was dead till I saw Lena Sarschine on board the Seamew, then I knew my wife was the victim of the Jermyn street tragedy; but I swear I did not kill her."

Ellersby laughed scoffingly.

"Of course it is to your interest to say that; but who will believe you with such strong evidence against you?"

"Then I suppose you mean to denounce me?" said the baronet, coldly.

"Not if you agree to give me the hand of May Penfold."

"I cannot force her inclinations."

"No; but you are her guardian and can influence her."

"If I refuse?"

"You do so at your own risk."

"And that risk?"

"Means hanging to you!" said Ellersby, brutally.

The two men stood looking fixedly at one another, and for a few moments there was a dead silence, while the three listeners waited with beating hearts for the end of the conversation, which seemed to promise the solution of this extraordinary mystery.

Balscombe remained for a time in deep thought, and then looked up with a look of determination in his eyes.

"I decline to accede to your demand," he said, firmly.

"Then you must take the consequence."

"I am prepared to do so."

Ellersby paused for a minute.

"Will you tell me the reason for your decision?"

"First, because I am innocent of the crime you accuse me of; and second, I believe you placed this poisoned arrow-head here in order to implicate me in the murder."

"I can speak openly to you," said Ellersby, coolly, "because you are in my power. "I did place the poisoned arrow-head there, in order to secure evidence against you!"

"Then it was you killed my wife!" cried Balscombe, stepping toward him with the arrow-head in his hand.

"I never said I did," retorted Ellersby, audaciously; "but I can tell you this—I met your wife on that night after you left her, and I asked her for those letters, as they compromised both her and myself. She told me where they were, and described the hiding-place to me. Last time I was here I searched and discovered the secret, but the letters were not there."

"No. They were removed by me."

"So I see—but if I did not find the letters I found something better, the locket with my portrait which you took from your wife's neck on that night—so, as I wanted to marry Miss Penfold, and wanted you to help me, I placed there the arrow-head so as to force you for your own safety to help me. I have succeeded, and you must do what I order or swing for it."

"You devil!" cried Balscome, madly. "It was you who murdered my unhappy wife. Do not deny it! I can see it in your cowardly face. I will accuse you before the world and hang you for your crime."

"Bah! Who will believe your word against mine? There is no evidence against me!"

"Your own confession!"

"Does not include a confession of murder. What I have said to you in private I will deny in public; you have no witnesses."

"You lie—here are three!"

The two men turned round with a cry, and there on the threshold of the room stood May Penfold, with a look of triumph in her eyes—and behind, Dowker and Norwood. Ellersby saw he was lost, and with a harsh shriek made a bound for the door of the library, but before he could reach it Balscombe threw himself on him and bore him to the ground. The two men rolled on the floor fighting desperately, and then Dowker joined in to assist in securing Ellerby, when suddenly his struggles ceased and he became quite passive.

"It's all over," he said quietly, with a livid face, as Balscombe arose to his feet. "I will escape you yet."

"You will not escape the gallows," cried Balscombe, panting.

"Yes, I will," sneered Ellersby, with a ghastly smile, "and by your own act. You forgot you had the poisoned arrow-head in your hand, and you have wounded me. See."

He held up his right hand and there they saw a long red, ragged wound where the weapon had torn him.

"In ten minutes I will be a dead man," he said quietly. "Not all the science in the world can save me now."

"Curse it!" cried Dowker, in a rage, while the other three remained silent with horror.

"Ah! You are angry at my escaping from you," said Ellersby, with his usual cynicism. "Console yourself, my astute thief-catcher; my capture would have not redounded to your credit, as you were quite on the wrong scent. You suspected Desmond, Lena Sarschine, and Balscombe; every one but the right one. I have fooled you to the end, and, now I am caught, will yet escape your clutches."

May Penfold stepped toward him.

"As you have sinned so deeply," she said, in a low tone, "you had better make reparation while you may, and confess all, so as to release Myles from prison. Meanwhile, I will go for a doctor."

He signed her feebly to remain.

"No doctor can do me any good," he said, faintly, "but I will tell all. Mr. Dowker will, perhaps, write it down, and, if I'm not too far gone, I'll—I'll sign it."

"I will write your confession," said Norwood, and, sitting down at the desk, he took up a pen and waited.

It was a strange scene. Ellersby lying on the floor with his eyes half closed, Balscombe leaning against the desk, with his clothes all torn, and a white, haggard face, and May Penfold, standing beside Dowker, looking with pitying eyes at the dying man at her feet.

As he knew he had not long to live, Ellersby commenced at once:

"I am, as you know, the son of a West Indian, and came to England to be educated. I was brought up, in early childhood, by a negro nurse, and before I left Barbadoes she gave me an arrow-head, which, she told me, was steeped in poison, and that one scratch would kill. Something to do with their Obi business, I suppose. She told me to use it on my enemies, but I was not so savage as she was, though I have got negro blood in my veins, and I did not bother much about it. I finished my education and went into society. One time, while down at Folkstone, I met Amelia Dicksfall, and loved her—you do not know how I loved her—with all the mad passion of a Creole. She led me on till I was her slave, and then refused to marry me for at least two years, for what reason I was then ignorant, but now I know it was because she wanted to marry a title, and kept me in hand so as to become my wife if she failed to realize her ambition. I went abroad and when I returned a short time ago I found she had married Balscombe. I saw her and reproached her with her treachery, but she only laughed at me. Then I heard how she carried on with Calliston and swore I would kill her if she preferred him to me. She denied that she cared for him, and then I heard about her projected elopement and determined to make one more appeal to her. If that failed I took an oath I would kill her with the poisoned arrowhead. I thought I would see her on that night, so, dressing myself in evening dress, I put the arrowhead in my pocket and went along to Park lane. I was told she had gone to the Countess of Kerstoke's ball, and, thinking this was a mere subterfuge on her part, I thought I would go to Calliston's chamber and see him. I went along to his rooms in Piccadilly, but as I did not know where they were it was some time before I found them. I was going in when I saw Balscombe waiting about and wondered what he was doing there. While thus waiting a woman came out and I recognized Lady Balscombe at once. I saw Sir Rupert go after her and witnessed their dispute under the lamp. I saw him wrench off the locket and then Lady Balscombe fled. I followed and found her wandering vaguely about in the fog. She recognized me and we had a stormy interview. I insisted on her coming to my hotel and going away with me in the morning, pointing out that now her husband had seen her coming out of Calliston's chambers he would apply for a divorce. I then asked her about the letters, and she told me where they were. I said I would get them, and then Sir Rupert would never know with whom she had gone away. She agreed to go with me, and went as far as Jermyn street; then she refused to go further, saying she loved Calliston and hated me. She insisted on going down to Shoreham in the morning, and taunted me so that I got mad with anger and determined to kill her. So I apparently agreed to what she said and asked her to kiss me for the last time. She did so, and when I was embracing her I wounded her in the neck with the poisoned arrow-head. She thought it was only a pin pricking her, but when she was dying I told her what I had done, and said that now she could never be any other man's mistress or wife. She died shortly afterward, and then I thought about saving myself, so went along to the Countess of Kerstoke's ball, in order to prove an alibi should it be necessary. In coming back I went up the steps where I had left her to see if she was still there, thinking the body might have been discovered. It was still lying there, however, so I called the policeman. The rest you know. As to the arrow-head, I placed it in there in looking for the letters, in order to throw the blame on Balscombe, because I knew all his movements on that night were in favor of the presumption of his having committed the crime."

He paused at this point, for his eyes were becoming glazed and his voice was faint and weak. Norwood had written out the words that had fallen from his lips, and now brought the paper and a pen in order for him to sign it. The dying man raised himself on his elbow with an effort and signed his name with difficulty in the place indicated by the lawyer. When this was done Balscome and Norwood affixed their signatures as witnesses; then the latter placed the confession in an envelope.

The action of the poison being very rapid, Ellersby was now in a half-comatose condition, his eyes being closed and his breathing stertorous. He began to speak again in a drowsy voice, which sounded as if he was far away.

"It's the irony of Fate * * * brought me here * * * to my death. I came to conquer and remain to die. * * * The old Greeks were right. * * * Man * * * sport of Fate * * * Nemesis * * * wins hands down * * * if there is * * * world beyond * * * I * * * I * * * find * * *"

His slow, monotonous voice stopped here and his head fell back; to all appearances he was asleep, but the onlookers knew it was his last earthly sleep, and when he awoke it would be in another world.

The calm, placid light of evening stole softly through the windows and shone on the still face of the dead man, and on the awe-struck spectators.

Epilogue.

The Piccadilly puzzle being now solved, nothing remained but to settle all matters in connection therewith, which was speedily done. The publication of the whole story caused a great deal of excitement, and of course all the newspapers quoted the well-known proverb that "truth is stranger than fiction."

Myles Desmond was released from prison, and became a kind of hero owing to the fortitude with which he had sustained his unpleasant position. Sir Rupert gave his consent to May Penfold's marriage with him, and it took place at St. George's, Hanover Square, with great splendor, and the happy pair departed to the Continent for their honeymoon. On their return, Myles published a novel he had written, which was a great success, and being in an independent position, owing to his wife's fortune, he had the peculiar satisfaction of writing to please himself and not the public.

Lord Calliston did not remain in London long, as the part he had played in the terrible drama was not by any means an enviable one; so as soon as Lena Sarschine, now Lady Calliston, recovered from her illness they went away to the South Seas in the Seamew, where among the gorgeous scenery of the islands they soon forgot the one tragic episode of their lives.

Sir Rupert did not marry again, but left London for his place in the country, where he shut himself up like a hermit, and steadily refused to see any one. His faith in womankind was gone, and not having any heirs, a distant cousin is now eagerly waiting for his demise, as he is anxious to enjoy the Balscombe estates and the large income appertaining thereto.

[THE END.]

A Few Touches of Sarcasm.

Like ridicule, irony is often more effective than argument, and may convey suggestions and ideas in a terse and pithy manner, as when one says: "You can't always judge by appearances; the man who wears a diamond pin may be wealthy."

A gentleman, it was once said, never inflicts pain. On which a wit remarks, "This is hard on the dentists."

Not a bad story is told of an aged clergyman who met a man loudly declaiming against foreign missions. "Why," asked the objector, "doesn't the church look after the heathen at home?" "We do," said the clergyman quietly, and gave the man a tract.

"So far as you saw," said the counsel to a witness, "she was doing her ordinary household duty?" "I should say so—she was talking," was the ironical reply.

"He never had but one genuine case in his life" said a lawyer of his rival, "and that was when he prosecuted his studies."

Some lawyers have had curious experiences of ironical wills. There is the not unfamiliar case of the French merchant who left a handsome legacy to a lady who had refused to marry him twenty years before, in gratitude for her kindness in not taking him at his word.

There is a good deal of pointed satire in such ironical facetiæ as the following: "We are reminded that the mania for adulteration is so great that you can't buy a quart of sand and be sure that it is not half sugar."

A resident in a suburban house was asked how his house had fared during a snowstorm. "Oh, badly," was the reply; "my cistern is the only dry place in it."

"Wot'll I do with this burglar alarm, Bill, take it along?" asked burglar number one. Second burglar—"Yes; slip it in the bag; we can get something for it."

Not tired of Him.

Mrs. DeWeary—And so you have been married five years, and are as much in love with your husband as ever?

Mrs. Cheery—Yes, indeed.

"Hum! What business is your husband in?"

"He's captain of a whaler."—New York Weekly.

A LION among ladies is a most dreadful thing, for there is not a more fearful wildfowl than your lion living.—Shakspeare.

WORK OF THE WITS.

Is IT the stone ballast that makes a boat rock?

DID anybody ever buy a new hat without feeling that he had fooled himself?

"HAVE you seen Miss X. in 'Bluebeard'?" "Well, aw—yes. About seven-eighths of her, I think."

BESSIE—I believe Miss Waything would jump at a proposal from a mouse. Jessie—So would all of us, I reckon.

AN exchange calls love "a species of intoxication." Perhaps that is why the course of true love is so often arrested.

ALTHOUGH the tattooed freak generally spares his face, an offer of a large salary will make him prick up his ears.

SHE—Do you think marriage is a failure? He (aged 20)—It begins to look that way. I've been rejected fourteen times.

MR. KID—How does that shoe feel? Miss Bunker Hill—I really cannot say, but if it feels half as uncomfortable as my foot feels, I can sympathize with it.

"MY dear child, what are you crying so for?" "Oh dear! My father has gone and lost me, and I know my mother will scold him so when he gets home!"

SHE—Have you read "Looking Sideways?" He—Yes; I see it's another plagiarism. She—How is that? He—Every word of it is in Webster's Unabridged!

"DID you leave New York City because it costs so much to live there?" "No," he replied; "I left because it cost so much to die there—and my health is very poor."

"HOW DO you feel, my good man?" inquired the mission worker of a prisoner on the stone pile. "Purty rocky, boss," was the touching reply. And the worker dropped a tear.

MRS. GADABOUT—Oh, Mrs. Snappy! I saw your husband in the park with three or four ladies around him. Mrs. Snappy—That's all right; but let me catch him with only one lady around him—then look out for a squall.

"I THINK I shall use the typewriter all the time now, in my literary work," said the young author, who was just gaining a slow mastery over the keys. "Why, yes," said his appreciative wife. "I should think that you could write just about as fast as you can think."

TWO AURORAS.

Aurora, goddess of the dawn,
Appears in all her rich adorning,
Soon as the sunbeams gild the lawn,
And Sol announces golden morning.

But my Aurora, maiden fair,
Who every other maid surpasses,
In paper curls comes down the stair
At nine, to fritters and molasses.

A COUNTRYMAN who came to town recently on his bicycle carelessly left it in front of the hotel at which he was staying, and found when he returned that it was missing. "Why don't you apply to the police?" suggested the clerk when the matter was explained to him? "Do you think they stole it?" was the innocent response.

Our Army Is Weak.

Nobody doubts the wisdom of building a new navy; the efforts made in this direction have been applauded by statesmen of all parties, and the people are very willing to see their money spent on ships of war worthy of the name. We would not counsel for a moment any abatement in the generosity of our national policy in naval affairs, but is it not also nearly time that something should be done for the army? There is a great deal to be done, and some of the reforms are instantly needed.

The United States soldier is very little better off in point of weapons than his predecessors at the end of the civil war. He has a breech-loading rifle of antique pattern; the artillery have guns out of date judged by European standards, and most of the heavy guns in our forts on the seacoast are relics of the last war. While all the old countries have been advancing to the present stage of magazine rifles, small bullets, and smokeless powder, the United States has stood still. The old flint-lock of Washington's day is hardly less fitted to be opposed to the modern magazine rifle than the arm which the American infantryman relies on to-day.

There seems to be a delightfully cheerful view taken of the army by the War Department and the big Generals. But the rank and file who will have to stand the brunt of an invasion of a foreign foe with modern arms cannot be expected to see the joke in so happy a light. It is not at all humorous to be killed in battle, even if it is made plain at the subsequent Congressional investigation that inadequate arms were responsible for the mortality. One of the favorite arguments of the day in this connection is that this country is so great and resourceful that she could afford to wage war for a year or two and then come out victorious. Perhaps—but a host of victims must be sacrificed while the country is getting into modern armor. Who will volunteer to engage a foe who has twenty shots for his one, a deadly range of three miles, where he cannot kill at over a mile? Twenty-five years behind is too far in the rear of the procession for safety.

Misleading.

"Mamma says I talk three-quarters of the time," said a little girl who had just begun to study fractions, and was quite willing to air her knowledge of terms, "but I'm sure I don't more than four-fourths of it."

Such tricks do our tongues play us, when we let them wag at will, undirected by the mentor, brain. It is astonishingly easy to fall into slovenly habits of a speech which sound well, but cannot be literally interpreted. A lady who was on the point of leaving the house to pay some visits said, absently, as she looked at the leaves and dust whirling through the street:

"Well, if I had known it would be so windy, I never should have gone."

"Well, you haven't gone yet, have you?" asked her husband, rather testily. This changed the current of her thought, and she continued half-aggrieved.

"Well, Richard, I should think you might have gone with me, and made that call we owe Aunt Sophia."

Then Richard gave the matter up as lost.

Another lady who, with the best intentions, does not always say what she means, was one afternoon greatly concerned at the thought that her husband, a lecturer, must work up to the very moment of delivering an address.

"My dear," said she, going into the study, where he bent over his books, "can't you get a few minutes to sleep half an hour?"

But he, being a mathematician, could not see the feasibility of the plan.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

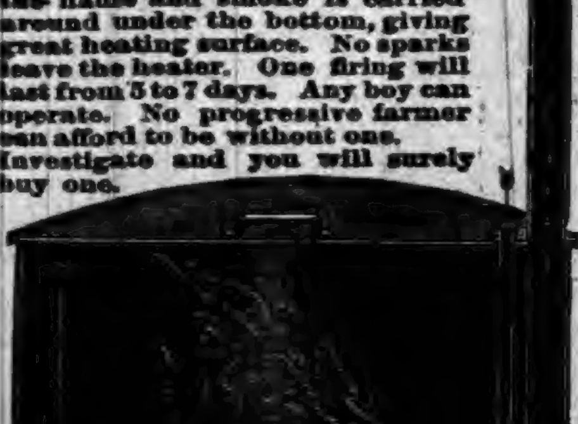
Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE



TANK HEATER.
A GREAT SAVING
TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.

Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price. Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.

COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES.
SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES.
O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO.;
LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR—
CRAYON PORTRAIT
NICELY
FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT.
Plush Border. Size, 24x28 inches.
For $3.00
As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00.
(ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.)
BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF
PROVOST'S
Cream Washing Powder.
ONLY COSTS 5c PER PACKAGE.
One Coupon in Every Package.
Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity.
Ask Your GROCER For It.
If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it.
WARREN PROVOST & CO.,
26-30 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *6 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling........	pm *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 05	pm 12 15
Zanesville........	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus......ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus......lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 25	10 50
Mansfield........	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 05
Deshler........	3 29	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance........	4 22	5 40	10 15	8 30	1 50
Auburn jc........	......	6 40	11 24	10 22	2 58
Avilla........	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc........	......	......	1 16	am 12 05	4 18
Wellsboro........	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago........ar	pm 9 45	10 45	5 15	4 30	7 25
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
	am	pm	am	pm	pm
Chicago........lv	*10 10	*2 55	†7 10	*10 40	*5 35
Wellsboro........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc........	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 28
Avilla........	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc........	......	7 05	12 30	3 22	9 42
Defiance........	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 48
Mansfield........	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus........	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 53	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville........	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 23	6 20
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 30	......	11 00	......
New York.....ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday.
‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains.

For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent,
Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

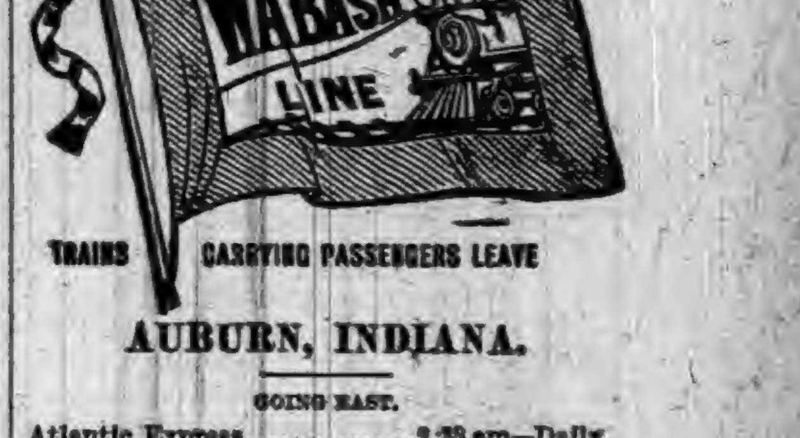
Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era........	12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc........	12 33	5 27	7 45
Auburn........	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo........	12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit........	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake........	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola........	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont........	1 35	6 24	1 35 pm
Reading........	2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers........	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale........	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc....	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville........	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson........	3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson........	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville........	8 50	12 14 pm	7 34
Fort Wayne Junc....	8 58	12 15	7 36
Hillsdale........	....	12 30	7 45
Bankers........	9 40	12 54	8 01
Reading........	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont........	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola........	12 01	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake........	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit........	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo........	2 35	2 35	9 33
Auburn........	3 45	2 50	9 38
Auburn Junc........	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era........	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP,
Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..................2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express....................5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom......................2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim......................8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express....................1:22 am..Daily
Logansport Accom................6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express....................12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.......5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT.
Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER.
Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
NO TROUBLE NO BOILING
EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT
POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN
STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON
INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS.
PHILADELPHIA. PA.

DR. ELLIOTT'S
MEDICATED FOOD,
A Sure Cure for all Diseases in
HORSES,
Cattle, Sheep and Hogs
Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.
A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
C. F. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............MAY 15, 1890.

Announcements.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

I will again be a condidate for the position of representative in the state legislature from this county, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.
FREEMAN KELLEY.

ED. COURIER: Please state that my name will be presented to the democratic county convention as a one term candidate for representative to the General Assembly. W. H. DILLS.

FOR CLERK.

W. B. Brown, of Union township, will submit his name to the democratic county convention of May 31, for the nomination for clerk, subject to the decision of the delegates.

Wm. H. Leas, of Grant township, hereby submits his name to the democratic county convention, in the hope that he may receive at their hands, the choice for clerk of DeKalb circuit court.

Hon. D. D. Moody desires to say to the democratic delegate convention that assembles in Auburn May 31, that he hopes for a favorable consideration at their hands of his claims as a candidate for county clerk. He leaves his case subject to their decision.

Solomon Barney, of Concord, at the desire of many supporters will be a candidate for county clerk, subject to the action of the democratic convention.

TO THE EDITOR: Please announce me as a candidate from Smithfield, for the office of clerk of DeKalb county, subject to the decision of the coming convention. JAMES W. CLARK.

AUDITOR.

I. N. Coal, of Auburn, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention for the nomination for auditor, and asks that his claims may have impartial consideration at their hands.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COURIER: Please announce the name of Frank Seiler, of Fairfield township, who will be a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the county democratic nominatiing convention to be held at Auburn, May 31, 1890.

I would respectfully announce my intention of being a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the democratic nominating convention.
FRANK A. BOBST.

H. N. Coffinbury, of Keyser township, will submit his name to the delegates to the democratic convention, as a candidate for county auditor, subject to their decision.

W. L. Blair, of Wilmington, desires to say to the delegates to the democratic county convention that he will submit his name to them and ask at their hands the nomination for county auditor.

SHERIFF.

Phil. Plum will be a candidate for renomination for sheriff, subject to the democratic nominating convention of May 31.

TREASURER.

Reuben Sawvell, of Franklin, is announced as a candidate for the office of treasurer, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

Perry Fitch, of Butler township, at the request of numerous democratic friends will ask the nomination for treasurer at the coming county convention.

B. L. Duncan, of Grant, will ask the nomination for treasurer at the hands of the delegates to the democratic convention at Auburn, May 31.

Henry Hines of Jackson township, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention, for the office of treasurer, subject to their decision.

RECORDER.

George L. Lanning, of Union, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention which meets in this place May 31.

The name of Cory Shugers, of Jackson, will be submited to the favorable considation of the democratic convention for the office of recorder at the request of many friends.

S. R. Heberling, of Union township, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention that meets May 31.

Noah H. Weaver, of Grant township, submits his name for the office of recorder, subject to such action as may be deemed wise and consistent by the democratic convention of May 31.

EDITOR COURIER: Please announce the name of Lucius C. Loveland, as a candidate from Stafford township, for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention. MANY DEMOCRATS.

EDITOR COURIER: I will submit my name to the democratic county convention, as a candidate from Fairfield, for the office of recorder, subject to their decision. SAMUEL WILLIAMS.

TO THE COURIER: I will again be be a candidate from Grant township, for recorder, of DeKalb county before the democratic convention of May 31, and subject to its decision.
W. S. GEITS.

Warren N. Miller, of Newville, will ask the nomination for recorder of DeKalb county at he coming democratic convention and subject to their decision.

Mahlon Baker, of Concord, will at the request of many democrats be a candidate for recorder at the coming county convention.

SURVEYOR.

Jacob M. Hook will be a candidate for renomination for county surveyor, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

COMMISSIONER.

The friends of Henry Lindorfer, of Jackson township, desire to announce his name as candidate for commissioner of the southwest district, at the coming democratic convention.

I will be a candidate for commissioner of the southwest district for a re-nomination at the hands of the democratic convention of May 31.
GILBERT I. PATTERSON.

EDITOR COURIER: The many democratic friends of James M. Henderson, of Jackson township, will ask his nomination for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the coming county convention.

Henry Hall, of Concord, will be a candidate for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

Robert N. Crooks, of Grant township, will be a candidate for commissoner of the southeast district, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention of May 31.

T. F. Franks, of Richland, will be presented to the democratic convention as a candidate for commissioner for the southwest district, by a number of democratic friends over the county in the hope that his claims may receive favorable consideration.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a decree to me directed from the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Hannah E Moss is plaintiff and Perry Alling is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of two hundred forty seven dollars and seventy six cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit: Lots numbered 141 and 142 in the Western addition to the town of Auburn situated in DeKalb county Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.

Auburn, Indiana, May 8, 1890.
JAMES E. ROSE, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SALESMEN WANTED

To canvass for the sale of nursery stock. Situations Permanent, Salary and Expenses from start. Quick selling specialties. No experience necessary. Outfit Free. Write for terms, stating age. H. E. HOOKER CO., NURSERYMEN, Rochester, N. Y

Wanted.

Two good salesmen, either on salary or Commission. Independent territory given to each. Write at once and secure choice of territory. Address, MAY BROTHERS, NURSERYMEN, Rochester, N. Y.
20-29

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

John Kimsey is at home again.

W. H. Crane, of Sedan, was in town Monday.

Last Thursday Dr. H. Chamberlain visited Angola.

Judge Best was on our streets last Satday and Sunday.

Mr. McIntosh commenced sprinkling the streets this week.

Jacob Hoover was on our streets for several days this week.

On Monday evening our new town council met to organize.

N. Nihart, of Edgerton, was in town the early part of this week.

Mr. Bundy has built a new side walk on the south side of his property.

Wm. Fisher has purchased a very fine driving horse, for which he paid $200.

Dr. Carpenter has improved his property on Franklin street by under draining it.

George Kennedy has gone to Angola to take part in a musical entertainment.

Miss Dollie Hills, of California, Mich., is visiting her sister Mrs. Carpenter, and family.

Mr. Moore, of Middlebury, Vt., has been in town for some days with some very fine horses.

Anna Bevier, now of Fayette, Ohio, returned to her home this week, after a visit with her parents in this place.

George Chapman and wife, drove over from Auburn, last Sunday, the day was pleasant and many persons improved it.

A large amount of sewerage and tiling is being done on the east side of Elm and Franklin, and north side of Maple streets.

Sunday May 18, the Evangelical church will be again opened for preaching. Rev. Wm. Yost, from Cleveland, Ohio, will fill the pulpit on that day.

Mr. Metevier having severed his connection with the broom factory, will look up a location, suitable, where he will go into the broom business for himself.

Last Sunday evening a full house assembled at the M. E. church to listen to the first anniversary sermon of the Epworth League. This was preached by Rev. L. A. Retts.

Miss Alice Tubbs, sister of Robinson B thers, and who has been attending school in this place has gone to her home near Ridgeville, Ohio, expecting to return here after a time.

Elder W. F. Ackman returned last week after an absence of several months He has been preaching while away. He expects to move his family this week to New Richmond, Ohio.

Saturday morning the eldest son of S. P. Strow returned home to remain for the summer. He has spent the last three years in Nebraska City. This coming fall he expects to attend a theological school in Chicago, with a view of preparing for the ministry.

Although last Friday evening was stormy, and had been almost constant through the day, the M. E. church was well filled by those interested in commencement exercises of our high school, One young lady, and four young gentleman graduated on this occasion. Alice Fisher and Homer Zigler both took the full course. B. M. Ackman, C. H. Hill and Cyrus North have taken the teacher's course. Miss Fisher received an honorary scholarship from Adrian college, Mich., and Mr. Zigler one from Wabash college.

BUTLER.

J. W. Baxter, of Auburn, was on our streets last Monday.

The Lutheran friends have painted and otherwise improved their parsonage.

Butler has an entire republican administration, except the marshal, who is an avowed democrat.

Dr. Bolan has placed a very tasty porch on two sides of his dwelling, which beautifies it very much.

About ten new dwellings have been erected in the Lingenfelter's addition this spring, and many more to follow.

About 250 soldiers passed through here last Monday on their way to Detroit. They were carried by two special trains.

Colonel Thompson, of the firm of Thompson and Waller suddenly disappeared last Friday night, cause unknown.

S. R. Heberling and Tom Tomlinson, of Auburn, were in this vicinity last week looking after the political interests of Mr. Heberling.

The Butler Wind Mill Co. is running full time, and is turning out a large amount of work, but is scarcely able to keep abreast of its orders.

Learned & Chilcote's foundry changes hands this week. Henry Learned retiring, the new firm will be Chilcote brothers, and will be much stronger financially than the old one was.

Miss Mary Helwig, of Fairfield, whose illness was mentioned during the winter and who was removed to her home some months ago, has improved physically, but has declined mentally.

Some excitement exists among the supposed heirs of the great German fortune, and some of them talk of visiting faderland to verify the truthfulness of the sensational stories concering the $30,000,000 estate awaiting their ownership.

Rev. Stone, who recently came among us as pastor of the M. E. church, seems to be winning his way rapidly to public favor and popularity. His discourses, which are logical and eloquent call out full houses both day and night. He is a young man of much promise.

Died: At Alliance, Ohio, Thursday May 7, 1890, after an illness of only about thirty hours, Leona Mabel Firestone, aged 5 years, 8 months and 5 days. The deceased was a daughter of Geo. A. Firestone, of Hayes Center, Nebraska, and grand daughter of Samuel K. Firestone, of Franklin township, this county.

Dear Leona no more do we hear thy footsteps,
No more the pratter of thy little tongue,
The Lord has called thee to His bosom,
Of this world's cares thou art done.

How we miss thee dearest Leona,
All the day our hearts are sad,
But in that upper better kingdom,
There we know thou art glad.

SPENCERVILLE.

Dr. Shook, of Corunna, has located in this place.

Mrs. J. R. Bittinger returned to Ft. Wayne Tuesday.

John Scott will do the carpenter work on Henry Beam's new residence.

Miss Mary Wilson will go to Ft Wayne this week to remain indefinitely.

Mr. Andrew Kimes and daughter, of Northern Michigan, are visiting friends in this vicinity.

Mr. P. Bishop and wife returned from a visit to their sons, William and John in Plainville, Mich., on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Horn celebrated their golden wedding at their residence in Springfield township last Wednesday.

Mrs. Yont, of Herndon, Va., is visiting her brothers, Andrew and Henry Horn. She is in her 78th year, and has not seen her brothers for several years.

MARRIED: At the residence of the brides parents, Sunday May 11, by Rev. S. J. Stanton, Calvin H. Brown to Miss Maud Murray, both of Concord township.

A very pleasant and entertaining session of the township Sunday school convention was held in the M. E. church on Saturday, under the management of president, M. T. Bishop, of St. Joe.

S. J. Zimmerman and wife and Rev. Lamport, of Auburn, were in town Saturday. In the evening Rev. Lamport delivered a lecture upon "Character building according to pattern," which was listened to by an appreciative audience.

DEKALB.

W. H. Fair took 12:30 train for Auburn Saturday.

Mr. George Weygandt is the owner of a very fine colt.

J. D. Price commenced working on section Monday.

S. M. Knott and F. Holman, of Cedar Creek made a flying visit to Fort Wayne Saturday.

The dance at A. McKinley's Saturday night was a tetotal failure. Cause— too much mud and water.

Wm. Huston takes command of the fencing gang on the Jackson Branch Tuesday, May 13.

School near this place closed Saturday afternoon. Miss Essig, the teacher, having taught a good school.

Two barrels coal oil at the new grocery kept by J. F. Housel at DeKalb, which he sells at 12 cents per gallon.

School closed at Five Points Saturday with an exhibition in the evening, which was a success, Miss Callie Fair, teacher.

Those persons having sales would do well to engage C. H. Barber, of DeKalb, as cryer. He is a man of good judgment and plenty of gas.

Many thanks to C. A. O. McClellan for his vote on the Service Pension Bill. He is a good man. Remembering his patrons is good policy.

Since school is out a good way for the young ladies to pass the time is to sew carpet rags, and the young men to spade garden for their mothers.

THE Indianapolis Sentinel of last Saturday, copied the article about Mr. Dills' candidacy, heading the article and their comments, "A Worthy Candidate." Mr. Dills haswarm friends at the Capital City. If he gets the place he will prove a good member.

THE Pan-American Congress is likely to be a failure, as is also the quarrel as to the Behring Sea. But both these things were recently counted by republican papers, as complete successes of Blaine. The fact is, this administration has accomplished nothing, but saving its boodlers from punishment.

IF THE tariff don't add to the cost why does Wanamaker, ask to have the government pay him back the excess of a million improperly charged to him? If the foreigner pays all tariff, why should not the government pay this excess back to the foreigner? This is submitted to the local republican papers for an answer.

ENGLISH capitalists have now bought up one of Chicago's great dressed beef syndicates. They are also trying to get hold of all our glass works. In fact British capital always follows the British flag And did not our republican local politicians distribute British flags all over this county and state? They surely did. They are evidently trying to hand this country over to England, from which our revolutionary fathers had secured an independence.

WANAMAKER and other wealthy capitalists lately induced the government to give them back the excess of about a million they had paid on imported silk. They had paid 50 per cent. when it appears they should have been charged but 20. Now other importers want some excess returned. It will in all reach twenty millions. The government should not return this money, for these dealers have all charged it over to the ones they sold to and have got the entire amount back now, with their profit on it. Now, if the government pays them back, they will have it over again. If they have been charged too much in the past, the matter should simply begin anew now, and on the proper basis.

Constipation,

IF not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales, SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

County Convention.

By order of the Democratic Central Committee of DeKalb County Indiana, notice is hereby given that the County Convention of the Democratic party of such County, will be held at Auburn on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

At 10 o'clock a. m. to place in nomination, the candidates to be voted for at the general election to be held on November 4, 1890. The officers to be elected at such election, are:

A Representative.
A Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court.
A County Auditor.
A Sheriff.
A Treasurer.
A Recorder.
A Surveyor.
A Coroner.
A Commissioner for the Southwest district.
A Commissioner for the Southeast district.

The basis of representation to such convention is one delegate for every ten (10) votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State in 1888, in each precinct, and, one delegate for a fraction of five (5) or more votes given such Secretary of State, therein. The votes given for such Secretary of State in 1888, and delegates to the County Convention from each election precinct in DeKalb County, are as follows:

ELECTION PRECINCTS.	SEC'Y OF STATE VOTE.	NO. OF DELE'S.
Butler	113	11
Jackson	214	21
Concord South	120	12
Concord North	130	13
Newville	75	8
Stafford	73	7
Wilmington South	173	17
Wilmington North	216	22
Auburn South	246	25
Auburn North	196	20
Waterloo East	164	16
Waterloo West	81	8
Richland	202	20
Fairfield	238	24
Smithfield	170	17
Franklin	144	14
Troy	56	6
Keyser East	271	27
Keyser West	263	26
Total		314
Necessary to a choice		158

It was also ordered that caucuses for the purpose of selecting such delegates, will be held in each election precinct in the county (except the precincts in Union, Grant Wilmington and Keyser townships) at the usual place of holding elections, on Saturday May 24, 1890, at one (1) o'clock in the afternoon, and in the precincts in the townships of Union, Grant, Wilmington and Keyser on the same day at 7½ o'clock in the evening. Provided that a different hour of such day may be named by the Central committeeman of any precinct of which due notice shall be given, by such committeeman.

At the same time and place of holding such caucuses, there will also be selected one delegate from each precinct for each of the following conventions, viz. The State Convention, the Congressional Convention, the Judicial Convention and the Joint Representative Convention. But the voting power of such delegate to such last named conventions is to be determined by shuch conventions respectively.

ALFRED KELLEY, Chairman,
Dem. Co. Cent. Com.

Township Caucuses.

The democrats of Grant township will hold their caucus to select delegates to the several conventions, on Saturday May 24, at 7:30 p. m. Those in the east precinct will meet in the office of J. F. Shuman, and those in the west will meet at the office of O. P. Smith. All come.

The democrats of Union township will meet at Ensley's Hall in Auburn. On Saturday May 24, 1890, at 3 p. m. sun time, sharp, to select delegates to the several conventions named in the general call published in the COURIER. All democrats should make it a point to attend this caucus. COMMITTEE.

Report to the Courier.

Let the COURIER have an early report from each caucus, giving a list of the delegates selected. The committeeman can do this, or see that it is done. It will not only please us, but be a great accommodation to the people at large, as all come to this office for such information. Don't fail to do it.

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety, comfort, equipment, track, and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 19 24

REFORMED CHURCH.

Ascension Day, German service, 10:30 a. m.

SUBJECT OF SERMON.
"One with Christ."

Text:—John XVII. 20-26.

Sunday school services in English and German. Superintendent. Mr. Chas. Reesh. Vice-superintendent, Mr. John Lumm.

B. RUF.

The funny play of the season is "Wild Oats." Everybody will laugh May 22.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of Solomon Shearer, Jackson and Concord townships DeKalb county, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday, the 3rd day of June, 1890, the same being the 2d day of their June term, 1890.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to-wit: Beginning two hundred and fifty (250) feet south of the center of the southwest quarter of section fourteen (14), township thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east, DeKalb county Indiana, and from thence as follows:

No.	Course.	Distance.
1	east	800 feet
2	south 78 degrees east	600 feet
3	north 85 degrees east	400 feet
4	north 68 degrees east	580 feet
5	north 51 degrees east	120 feet
6	north 38 degrees east	500 feet
7	north 81 degrees east	500 feet
8	north 50 degrees east	200 feet
9	north 20 degrees east	425 feet
10	east	1,100 feet
11	south 58 degrees east	275 feet
12	south 70 degrees east	180 feet
13	north 78 degrees east	360 feet
14	north 85 degrees east	210 feet
15	north 48 degrees east	250 feet
16	east	350 feet
17	north 23 degrees west	150 feet
18	north 28 degrees east	200 feet
19	north 51 degrees east	500 feet
20	north 25 degrees east	140 feet
21	north 12 degrees west	380 feet
22	north 68 degrees east	240 feet
23	north 58 degrees east	480 feet
24	south 80 degree east	280 feet
25	east	400 feet
26	south 57 degrees east	100 feet
27	south 75 degrees east	200 feet
28	south 50 degrees east	400 feet
29	south 60 degrees east	400 feet
30	south 70 degrees east	450 feet
31	east	300 feet
32	north 57 degrees east	622 feet

Ending seventy-two (72) feet below stake No, 43 of the Daniel Shilling drain No. 517.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Henry W. Long,
John Strong,
Francis M. Hines,
Solomon Shearer,
Daniel Shearer,
Mary Shearer,
The heirs of Abraham Johnson deceased to wit,
Uriah Johnson,
John Johnson,
Mary Rock,
James Johnson,
Zeruiah Hettiger,
Abraham Johnson Jr.,
And the unknown heirs of Nathan Johnson, and perhaps others unkn'n,
William Johnson,
Michael Wagoner,
Rebecca Loutzenhiser,
William Wise,
Daniel Morr,
Frederick Morr,
Daniel Wyatt,
John Westler,
Nancy Cobler,
John Hamilton,

C. C. WALTER,
Auditor DeKalb County.

A Grand Opportunity

—TO SECURE A—

¾ LIFE SIZE and INDIA INK
PORTRAIT FREE.

WE take pleasure in announcing to our patrons and the public generally that we have made arrangements whereby we can make the most liberal offer ever made to customers in our line. Notwithstanding our reputation has always been that of the most enterprising merchant in this section and that at our store has always been found the best goods at the very lowest prices the market afforded. And we wish to impress this fact upon everyone, also the fact that we are not trying to see how little, but how much we can give for a dollar.

Knowing the very general desire of our customers for good family portraits, we have made arrangements with one of the largest and best known portrait establishments in this country, whereby they are to copy and finish for us a limited number of photos of our customers' selection in ¾ life size, finished in Crayon and India Ink, all framed, ready to hang upon the wall.

These portraits sell at retail for $7.00, yet we are prepared to give one away free to every customer who makes cash purchases of us to the amount of $25.00. Although quite a number of these $7.00 portraits will be given away by us, practically amounting to a large discount on your purchases, our prices will be as low, if not lower, than ever before.

Sample picture on exhibition at our store.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we hope by future enterprise, liberality and fair dealings to merit a continuance of the same.

The Famous,
NORTH SIDE COURT HOUSE,
AUBURN, IND.

Notice of Bridge Letting.

The Commissioners of DeKalb county, Indiana, will receive sealed proposals for building the following named bridges, said lettings to be made on the sites of the several bridges, with the privilege to reject any or all bids, on the following dates: May 20, 1890, at 10 a. m. a bridge across Big Run on the Stafford and Wilmington township line southeast of Butler, Ind., and known as the Reed bridge. The Gaff bridge near Big Run church in Stafford township, at 2 p. m. May 20. The Gaskell bridge in Troy township, May 21, at 9 a. m. The Goodwin bridge in the south part of Smithfield township, at 3 p. m. May 21, 1890. The Beard bridge in the south part of Smithfield township, at 5 p. m. May 21, 1890. The Washington Frick bridge south of Waterloo, May 22, 1890 at 10 a. m. The Morning Star bridge northeast of Auburn, May 22, at 3 p. m. All of said bridges will be 14 feet roadway and the following lengths: Morning Star, 100 feet; Beard, 50 feet; Goodwin, 50 feet; Gaskell, 75 feet; Gaff, 55 feet; Frick, 75 feet; and the Reed bridge on Stafford line, 44 feet.

G. I. PATTERSON,
Pres. Board.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein H. S. Maring administrator of the estate of Daniel Adams deceased, is plaintiff, and Ensign B. Rose, Catharine J. Rose, Lewis Moore and Edward W. Fosdick are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three thousand six hundred and forty three dollars and twenty-seven cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, May 24, 1890.

Between the hours of 10 o'clock, a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north half of the northwest quarter of section thirty (30) in township thirty-five (35) north of range fifteen (15) east containing eighty acres more or less, in DeKalb county, state of Indiana. The said property has been appraised and will not be sold for less than two thirds its appraised value.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
F. D. Gunsaulus Att'y for Plaintiff.
Auburn, Ind., May 1, 1890.

C. E. White, of Pomona, took out 150 pounds of honey from a bees' nest under the cornice of his dwelling house.

Card of Thanks.

The family of Mrs. J. B. Rummell desire to express their earnest thanks to the kind friends and neighbors gave their assistance and sympathy during their late bereavment. It will ever be a bright spot in the memory of dark days.

Card of Thanks.

I know not how I can ever express my obligations to those dear friends whose loving hands and hearts assisted in the saddest rites a son is ever called upon to perform over his truest, wisest most affectionate counselor—his mother. May each one be assured those acts in rememberance of my dear mother will never be forgotten.

C. A. DUGAN.

Decatur, Ind., May 12, 1890.

Dr. S. B. Johnston is putting a new roof on his house. It is slate this time and will stand the hail.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

BURLINGTON ROUTE.
But One Night Chicago to Denver.

"The Burlington's Number One" daily vertibule express leaves Chicago at 1:30 p. m. and arrives at Denver at 6:30 p. m. the next day. Quicker time than by any other route. Direct connection with this train from Peoria. Additional express trains, making as quick time as those of any other road, from Chicago, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Cheyenne, Denver, Atchison, Kansas City, Houston and all points west, northwest and southwest. 19 26

Notice to Contractors.

I will let to the lowest responsible bidder the contract for cutting a road through the timber part of Alexander Culbertson's place north of the B. & O. railroad in Jackson township. Sealed bids will be received at my office in said township, up to 10 o'clock a. m. of Saturday, May 17, 1890. I reserve the right to reject any and all bids. Plans, etc., made known on day of sale. Sale to take place at site of road.

A. J. SHUTT,
Trustee of Jackson township.

April 28, 1890. 18-20

Important Change in Time.

A change in time will be made on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Ry. on Sunday the 18th inst. For full information call on E. T. DELAPP, Ticket Agent.

Ornamental Trees.

I have just received a large stock of first-class evergreen trees viz: Norway, Spruce, White Cedar, Balsam, Fir and Hemlock, which I am closing out very cheap. Call and see them.

G. S. McCORD,
Auburn, Ind. 3t

CHAMPION BINDERS MOWERS

ARE THE BEST AND SO WARRANTED.

SAMPLES AT ONE OR MORE AGENCIES IN EVERY COUNTY. FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ADDRESS.
THE WARDER, BUSHNELL & GLESSNER COMPANY,
CHICAGO, ILL.—SOLE MANUFACTURERS.—SPRINGFIELD, O.

The Seal of Popularity
AND
ATTRACTIVENESS
Has been placed upon our
Spring and Summer Stock.
Great in Assortment
AND UNAPPROACHABLE
In price and quality.

Everything you want in the line of Boots and Shoes,
Waiting For You At

W. J. BOWMAN,
AUBURN, IND.

We Have Got Them!

THE BEST and CHEAPEST

SUMMER CORSET

FOR 50 CENTS.

Do not fail to see them.

New Millinery

—FOR THE—

Summer -:- Season.

—LARGE LINE—

Smith & Angell

Fast Black Hosiery.

(Every pair fully warranted.)
OPENED NEW THIS WEEK.

CARPETS! CARPETS!!

LACE CURTAINS—SCRIMS.
Excellent Selection at Low Prices.

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

New Millinery!

—AT—

Cowan Sisters.

Mrs. Leas has been east and just returned yesterday with an additional stock of the latest and finest goods. She attended the last spring opening and got the latest

FASHIONS,
IDEAS and
NOVELTIES.

LADIES,

who have not bought already, are kindly invited to see our new goods.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition

In the matter of the petition of Joachim Witt, Richland and Union township, DeKalb County, Indiana, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday the 3rd day of June 1890, the same being the second day of their June term, 1890.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route, to-wit:

Beginning ten (10) rods east and six (6) rods north of the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of section thirteen (13), township thirty-four (34) north of range twelve (12) east, DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence as follows:

No.	Course.	Distance.
1	south 70 degrees east	700 feet
2	east	1875 feet
3	east	625 feet

Ending thirty-six (36) feet below stake forty-two (42) of the Henry Korff drain, No. 464, of DeKalb county, Indiana, said ending being in the west half (½) of the northwest quarter of section nineteen (19) township thirty four (34), north of range thirteen (13) DeKalb county, Indiana.

The proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Joachim Witt,
Martha J. Sheffer,
David S. Ober and
Harriet D. Ober,
Martha McKay,
Joseph McKay,
Groscop heirs—whose names are Mary Groscop, William Groscop, Charles Groscop, Lena Reisch, Frank Groscop, Frederick Groscop Jr., Sopha Hebel, John Groscop, Herman Groscop, Emma Groscop, and perhaps others unknown.

C. C. WALTER,
Auditor DeKalb County

Found Guilty!

THE FIRM OF SCHAAB & MURPHY

Have Been Found Guilty

—OF DOING THE—

Largest Clothing Business

IN AUBURN, IND.,

Simply because they make it so warm for their competitors that they cannot compete with their prices and styles. There is no use talking, but that their

Prices, Styles and Quality

Will win where competition cannot possibly survive. People who have seen their beautiful display of

Spring and Summer Suits

Within the past month, will attest the fact that no other Clothing House in the city can duplicate the line of styles and quality they are offering.

Their Children's Suits

Are the envy of all dealers in taste, style and fabric. They are world-beaters in this line, having inside facilities to give you styles and prices. See their

NOBBY SPRING HATS

In all the fashionable colors, for less money than they can be purchased for anywhere else. Everybody is invited to call and see goods and get prices at

SCHAAB & MURPHY'S,

West of Courthouse,

AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Soda water. Robbins & McCord's.

Buy fruit trees and plants of C. P. Houser.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Some of our business men are in for a Fourth of July celebration.

All leading varieties of raspberry and strawberry plants for sale at C. P. Houser's. tf

Lost or loaned: A scrap book, containing selections and scraps of value to the owner. The borrower or finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

Sick headache: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

Piles, Piles, Piles: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protruding piles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Miles' nerve & liver pills. An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's. tf

Happy Hoosiers. Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best kidney and liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle, at Robbins & McCords drug store. 2

100,000 Pounds of Wool Wanted at the Auburn Woolen Mills.

"Wild Oats," May 22.

See notice to contractors.

Schaab & Murphy buy wool.

Look at the big ad. of Wilson the boot and shoe man.

New millinery. All the latest styles at Miss Gulick's 22

For cheap hats, and the latest styles. Call at Miss Gulick's. 22

The old town pump has been taken out and a new one put in.

We want to buy 200,000 pounds of wool, Schaab & Murphy.

Currant, Gooseberry and Grape plants, best varieties at Houser's. tf

D. C. Headley, the new marshal was scraping the streets Monday.

Big sale of lots in the gas addition on Saturday, May 17, at 1 p. m.

Wool! Wool!! Farmers, we want your wool. Schaab & Murphy.

Mrs. A. B. Richards, who has been sick, is able to be around again.

Everything in the fruit tree line at C. P. Houser's. Prices reasonable.

Those in favor of a Fourth of July celebration will call a meeting soon.

The best play of the season by the Wild Oats Co., at the Opera House May 22.

Frank Zimmerman had his bicycle badly demolished by a train one day last week.

Tim. and Wheeler McDowell have formed a partnership in the barber business, on Eight street.

The social at the Lutheran church Friday evening was very well attended in spite of the continuous fall of rain.

Farmers will be interested to know that Schaab & Murphy will buy their wool and pay them the highest market price.

Wm. Little's feed barn and feed yard one block south of the engine house, or south of jail. Your horses will be well cared for. Try him. tf

Wars and rumors of war do not affect the wonderful cures of Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure. "No cure, no pay." Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Albion Democrat: The line indicated by the preliminary survey of the Wabash extension runs through north Albion, about 80 rods from the square.

Wanted: Ladies and gentlemen, to solicit. Salary $2.50 per day. Good reference. Call on or address J. S. Pettit, 19 Schmitz Block, Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

Baby carriages a fine stock and cheap as you can find anywhere in the state, in Ft. Wayne or anywhere else. Call and see them at Robbins & McCord's. 18 20

The Y. L. M. C. will meet in the lecture room of the M. E. church Friday afternoon at 2:30, tea at 6:30. All members are requested to be present.

By order of secretary.

Found: On South Main street Tuesday, May 6, a very fine gold charm. The owner can have same by calling on John Apple, identifying and paying for this notice. tf

James Heaton, who works with Wm. Murphy, painting, was thrown from a scaffold last week, injuring one of his hands, considerably. He was fortunate to escape so well.

For full information about Harvest Excursions April 22, May 20, September 9 and 23, and October 14, 1890, call on or address, Rickel & Sprott, Immigration Agents, Auburn Ind. tf

"Wild Oats." Howe and Sisson are two great comedians, and have a play that is pronounced the funniest comedy ever written. At the Opera House Thursday evening, May 22.

Wanted: To trade heavy low wheeled wagon and set of heavy harness, for a buggy. Also good heavy horse for light roadster. Come quick if you have anything to trade. T. H. Sprott. 3t

John Leasure and Prof. Wiggins ought to get up a good almanac. Wiggins could tell what would happen, and John can tell what has happened. If they can't get out an almanac, let them get up a good program for the coming Fourth.

Sunday, as the people were coming out of church at the funeral of Mr. Rummel, word came to town that Mrs. Husselman mother of D. Y. and Cal. Husselman, had suddenly dropped dead, at the old home, where she had been living some years with her son.

How's your liver, your stomach, and bowels this spring?" all out of "whack," do you want to brace up and feel as though you were some good? Then take Loose's Extract of Red Clover and see how quick you'll get there. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

No one should do without J. D. McAnally's fruit sprayer. It is cheap and durable. There are more worms and stingers than usual this spring, on account of the warm winter. He gives you a never-failing recipe, and a sprayer made of brass, for $2. With brass nozzle, $3. Call on him at Waterloo.

Miss Sadie Bartlett at St. Joe has just returned from the City where she has learned all the newest styles in millinery and trimming. She has the nicest line of goods she ever had. All the latest novelties in ladies' and children's hats, flowers, laces, ribbons, fancy and piece goods. Call on her at St. Joe. It will pay you. 18 20

While Chris. Cloy is waiting for the grass to grow on the court yard, so that he can exercise his muscle by pushing the lawn mower, he amuses a few of his friends by telling stories both solemn and witty. His latest is on our old democratic friend, Dave Smith. He says Dave was drying dynamite cartridges on the cook stove, and they "raised hallelujah mit the families." He advised Dave to sun-dry them and save wood. For particulars see Dave.

Heavy rains have delayed corn planting.

"Neck or nothing" is the motto of our tie department. Famous.

See the new goods at Miss Gulick's on Main street, up stairs in Eldridge's building. 22

Big lot of evergreens just received by George McCord. Will be sold cheap. Call on him.

Auburn Woolen Mills solicit all kinds of custom work. Farmers, don't forget this. We want your work. tf

M. B. Willis has moved his dwelling west to Jackson street and will put up a fine residence in its place on Main street.

At from $25 to $30 you can buy of the Foster Furniture Co., Fort Wayne as good a bed room set as would usually cost you $50.

Rev. B. Ruf was over beyond Spencerville this week, in charge of some of the church work in that section. He is an earnest worker.

Mrs. Emma Day goes back to Chicago this week to take up her work again. She has been here for some time trying to regain her health.

A Sunday school has been organized at the Shugers school house south of town. Everything is in running order, and all are cordially invited to attend.

John Pepple, senior, came home last week from a winter's visit with his son in Texas. He is looking well, and reports John and the other relatives, as doing well.

All humors of the scalp, tetter sores, and dandruff cured, and falling hair checked; hence, baldness prevented by using Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

J. Grenville Mott, of Michigan City was in town with his family over Sunday, visiting his mother, Mrs. Mott and his sister, Mrs. Hodge. They returned home Monday via Waterloo.

L. B. Fretz is expected to address the congregation at the Church of God on Sunday evening, May 18. A cordial invitation is extended to all who may wish to come and hear him.

School closes in three weeks, after one of the most prosperous years we have had. An unusual amount of work has been done, and our able corps of teachers should have the credit.

Chas. Hoff is beautifying his home by putting a new coat of paint on it. Foltz & Tarney are wielding the brush in the application of dope, as partners this season and this one is a specimen of their skill.

The L. L. C. meets this week with Mrs. J. A. Barns Program, Empire of Charlemagne, Feudal System. Mrs. Zimmerman leader. Synopsis of "Ivanhoe." Charade conducted by Mrs. Emanuel.

John F. Shuman, of Waterloo, was over here Monday on some legal matter. He was recently at Indianapolis, where he was admitted to practice in the supreme court. That's right, we like to see a man trying to climb up in his profession.

Prof. W. P. Myers and wife, and little son Furness, and a neice, Miss Ruth Monroe, of Toledo, were over from Kendallville to spend Sunday with his son, Frank Myers. They lived here many years, and have plenty of friends who always welcome them.

The attendance at Mr. Rummell's funeral Sunday, was very large. The new Lutheran church was not large enough to hold them. There were many of the old Waterloo neighbors in attendance, including the Knights of Honor, of which deceased was a member.

Never had a preparation a more appropriate name than Ayer's Hair Vigor. When the capillary glands become enfeebled by disease, age, or neglect, this dressing imparts renewed life to the scalp, so that the hair assumes much of its youthful fullness and beauty.

There are very desirable lots yet to be sold in the Gas Addition east of Ninth street bridge. They will be sold to the highest bidder, on Saturday, May 17, at 1 o'clock. There will be music by the band, and good bargains. Everyone should embrace this chance to get a lot for a home at a reasonable price. See posters and the supplement to the Courier.

"Look before you leap." Theories are cheap, but a first-class harvesting machine made of good material should be selected even at a slight difference in price. The Champion Binder is warranted to have more malleable iron and steel and less cast iron in its construction than any other machine in the market. The machine is certainly very neat in appearance, and should be seen by farmers who are intending to purchase.

The Connecting Link, that furnishes the slush for the Garrett Clipper, is still sticking his nose into Auburn's business. Now, he wants the new board to abandon the line on which the old board worked. By this, we suppose he means, they ought not to have him arrested and fined when he comes up town on a drunk. Next we know, he will object to having the night agent pull him off the track when he lies down to sleep in front of a train. Some people are hard to suit.

Last Thursday evening a number of Myrtle and Jimmie Dills' friends met at the home of Mary Bishop to drop in upon them and give them a little surprise to celebrate Jimmie's fourteenth birthday. The thing was a success and they were very much surprised to see about thirty of their young friends come trooping in. After a couple of hours of games and music, refreshments were served, showing Mrs. Dills was an excellent cook. The company dispersed about twelve o'clock, all saying they had spent a very pleasant evening, and wishing Jimmie many happy birthdays. He was the recipient of many presents given him by his friends.

S. J. Brandon started off again on Monday for a trip in the interest of his road machine. They have been having good sales in various parts of the country, especially over in Ohio. It is a good machine and should be in every road district.

G. A. Mader has returned from a trip into West Virginia, where he and Wm. Groscop, have bought 360 acres of fine timber which they will cut into lumber. This is Upshire county, and a branch of the B. & O. runs near the land. We believe Mr. Mader will go down there to take charge of the work.

Notice: It was announced that communion service would be held at the Lutheran church May 25. But after further consideration it was decided to hold it one week earlier, May 18. Preparation will be held Saturday the 17, at 2 p. m. This change is made on account of the 25th, being memorial day.

Pastor

The Zimmerman factory are putting up a new addition to their already large establishment. They have moved the old two-story building in which they had their office, back about thirty feet and have put up a two-story brick in its place, making the entire building a very extensive one. We are glad to see this evidence of prosperity.

Geo. Schaab, Mrs. Roether and Jas. Baxter are having a cement walk put down in front of the property on South Main street. This is a venture in the right direction and will supply a long felt want. Mr. Baxter has also set out some very nice maple trees on the north of his property, which were furnished by our fruit grower C. P. Houser.

House cleaning is the general pass word among the busy housewives at this time. We have a distinct idea that men folks are not as a general rule acceptable around at this particular period when the domicile is undergoing an overhauling from cellar to garret and taking upon itself a complete transformation. Broom-sticks and pails of water are promiscously flying through the air, you know.

The D. F. Kain Road Cart factory is now in full working order and they are turning out about 100 carts a month. D. K. Reinhart of Huntington, took charge of the establishment last Thursday, May 8, and will push the business from this time on. These carts are the best made, and all who wish to see them are invited to call and examine for themselves. They will bear inspection. The manufacturers will be pleased to have people see their work this fall.

Last week the boys loaded a cigar and gave it to the "Never-mind" Billy as a treat. Billy lighted the havanna end and stuck the weed end in his mouth and started out for an afternoon stroll, but all at once he broke over the rules of the old motto, "Steps backward you never must take," and amid smoke, ashes, yells and laughter, he remarked, "Never mind, bring on your spark arrester. Billy had a good smoke and enjoyed the joke as well as did the perpetrators.

Complaints have come to us from farmers in this vicinity and elsewhere that in some districts the roads are improperly piked up. That is, they are made too high and too narrow, making it inconvenient and sometimes dangerous to drive on them. We are of the opinion that we should first get rid of the surplus water in the road, and even in the ditches along the sides of the road. Then, we can make our roads wider and safer, and at the same time keep them better than we do now.

The Ohio Farmers Insurance Co., would call the attention of its friends and patrons to the fact that it made the largest gain in Indiana business during 1889 of any company operating in the state. It maintains the lead, also, by more than $100,000.00 over all competitors in the combined business of the States of Ohio and Indiana. Its assets on January 1, 1890, were $1,561,008.61. During its whole career it has never been known to dally with or refuse to pay an honest loss. B. F. Hastings, Agent, office over Farmers Bank Auburn.

Mrs. F. C. Dugan, a lady well known and highly honored here, died last Thursday at Decatur, Ind. She was brought back here Friday evening, and on Saturday was laid to rest beside her husband and daughter, in Evergreen cemetery. She had gone to Decatur to live with her son C. A. Dugan, who is principal of the schools at that place. At her death, word was telegraphed to J. A. Clifton at this place, and he at once set about making arrangements for the funeral. An extended service had been had at Decatur, so a shorter service was had at Mr. Clifton's residence here. It was conducted by Rev. Allen, of the Presbyterian church at Decatur. Mr. Clifton deserves great praise for the pains taken to make all needed preparations for the last sad ceremonies of a friend and neighbor.

Friday evening of last week the new officers of the board were sworn in, and Monday, Mr. Headley and Joe Pfeffrl began scraping the streets. Mr. Picker has resumed his of trade brick-laying at which he is an excellent hand. He retires from office with a higher standing than before he took it, and is apparently satisfied. Mr. Potter and Dr. Sebring, the other retiring officers, were good men on the board, and all we ask of the new members is to do as well. They were elected because it was believed they would follow, in the main, the course laid down by the former board, that is, the keeping up of our improvements, the keeping up of our fire department, the electric lights, good crossings, uniform sidewalks and all other improvements. We believe Mr. Kruger and Mr. Shutt would have done the same, but the idea that was started against them had its effect. Lanning, Matheny and Heberling three old members will be on the new board, and will hold things level anyway. The new clerk, George Grund, will we believe be a good man for the place. Mr. Aber, the retiring officer has shown more than ordinary efficiency, having been one of the best officers the town ever had.

Methuselah.

Opera House.

Monday night.

Young Men's Alliance.

The new rooms south of the jail are now nearly ready to occupy.

About to open our new line of ladies and gents umbrellas. Famous.

Nearest to your heart, is your shirt. If you want a nice one, call at the Famous.

Methuselah, the oldest man on earth, will be at the Eureka Opera House next Monday evening.

The Foster Furniture Co. import their lace window curtains direct from the manufacturers across the water. This enables them to greatly undersell their competitors.

Commencement exercises will be held Thursday evening, May 29. The baccalaureate sermon will be by Rev. H. C. Smith at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, May 25.

G. W. Reed, has a fine young colt that stood 3 feet 4, at 10 hours old. Its mother is the mare that Wm. Sailor brought from Illinois. It is of running stock, its sire having been sold for $5,000.

Before you buy a cart, call at the factory and see Kain's Hammock Road Cart. The best and easiest riding cart made. Absolutely no horse motion. Factory near Wabash depot, Auburn, Ind. 20 24

Married: At the residence of James Barton Sunday, May 11, 1890, Mr. Alfred Warstler to Miss Sadie Bell Bills, both of this county. The Courier's best wishes are with the happy couple.

If you are about to buy a new carpet, you want the handsomest things you can find. Make your selections, therefore, from the immense assortment shown by the Foster Carpet Co., at Ft. Wayne.

Benj. Kline, one of Fairfield's enterprising farmers, gave the Courier folks a call yesterday. He is one of our new subscribers, and as all our Fairfield friends are doing, laid down the cash in advance.

Frank Lahnum severed his connection with Mr. Bishop's tobacco store Saturday, and will go to Angola to work. He has joined the "Grays" of Angola, and will "Punch" the base ball there this summer.

Mrs. Sophie Beard is up at Angola this week visiting the families of her brothers, Dr. E. R. Leas, and of the late O. H. Leas, Mr. Samuel Miller and other friends and relatives. She will be absent about a week.

Our report of the Arford bribery case last week was by far the fullest and best published by the many papers in the county. If any one doubts, let him make the comparison. It is correct news that people want.

Dr. Nusbaum, aided by Dr. Swarts and Dr. Watson, removed a malignant growth from the face of Lucien Provines of Jackson township. It was of eight years standing and had assumed a very ugly and dangerous character.

Tom McNamara is at work with a force of men, repairing Ben Moffit's barn at Jackson Center. It might be added that the two M's. Moffit and McNamara are not only hustlers in general, but democratic hustlers to boot.

Jonathan Rummel, for several years superintendent of the County Home, died at his residence on North Main street Friday about 2 p. m. He took sick about 3 that morning, though he had been in poor health some years.

Never before in our work on the Courier have so many good subscribers, new ones, come forward voluntarily and put down their names. We feel greatly encouraged, for it appears the people are reasonably well suited with what we are giving them.

The Auburn Gun Club will have a shoot Friday afternoon, May 16, in the creek bottom off North Main street. Clubs from Waterloo and Garrett will participate. Everybody invited, especially the ladies.

H. B. McCord, Secy.

J. G. Johnson, the popular Waterloo merchant, was in town Tuesday on business matters. He believes in the use of printer's ink as his big ad in the Courier testifies. And he informs us that it has been of service to him. We believe it, for everybody reads the Courier.

Dyspepsia causes depraved blood, which, in time, affects every organ and function of the body. As a remedy for these troubles, nothing can approach Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It vitalizes the blood, strengthens the stomach, and corrects all disorders of the liver and kidneys.

Kessler Brothers have added two more men to their cigar factory, which is an evidence that they are prospering in their business. The "Young America" and 'Golden Rule" brands give universal satisfaction to all who enjoy a good smoke. Their cigars are good sellers and dealers appreciate their merits.

In view of the facts that they have but one price, that they carry the largest and most stylish stock, that they handle only the best made goods, and that they guarantee every article sold, would not it be the part of wisdom for you to purchase all your furniture and carpets of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., at Ft. Wayne, Ind.

We hear of two or three other candidates for commissioner, but they are men who will not ask an office. Yet their friends speak for them. W. S. Dancer, of Jackson is one of them. Several have asked us to announce him, but we are not permitted to do this without express consent. He would be a good man. Several have spoken to us about Levi Jackson of Butler township, and others as to Wm. Seeley, of Newville, and our friend Chris. Curie at St. Joe. All are good men.

LOCAL NEWS.

John Stonestreet, of Butler township, is nursing a sore hand, the result of driving a rusty nail into it.

Mrs. Ernest Sheets went over to Butler this week to spend a few days with her people, the family of Daniel Tomlinson.

Rev. Lovett, of Wolcottville, will preach at the Church of God Sunday evening, May 25th on the subject of baptism. All are cordially invited.

The Ohio Steel Seat Company, that employs about 40 men, is seeking a location in Auburn. Rev. D. F. Kain, who buys hundreds of seats of them for his road carts, is in correspondence with them. Let us encourage them.

There has been a favorable report on Judge McClellan's bill to grant a pension to Mrs. Silver. It will be remembered that a case for increase of pension was being pushed at the time of his death. We hope to see Mrs. Silver succeed in this.

The new sidewalks, the filling and the sodding, have greatly improved the residence of Mr. Wallace and G. H. Yesbera. Mr. Sommers, who owns the Yesbera residence, deserves credit with the rest for the liberality and good taste shown in improving this property.

I. J. McFadden of Waterloo, shook hands with the editor yesterday, and shook in three big round dollars. As a handshaker we rather like his style. As a soldier, the country also liked his style, and though he came out badly banged up, he is still a hustler in business.

Mr. Gengler brought over word from Garrett yesterday that J. Wm. Wagner's youngest daughter had died that day, May 14, of inflammatory rheumatism of the heart. She was about twelve years old. The remains will be taken to-day to Mansfield, Ohio, for interment. The afflicted parents have the sympathy of all.

We announce to-day by request the name of T. F. Franks, of Richland, as a candidate for commissioner of his district. He is a man of ability, and has held the office of trustee many years, thus giving him a large experience in public business. He would be a good officer.

The Butler Record says, "Arford did not make any defense before the board nor introduce a witness in his behalf." Correct. He did not even put on the stand, the lady who is reported to have been paid by Arford's attorneys to get the boys out of the state. There are several things Arford might have done but didn't. Why?

Sherm Hollister says that his daughter, Mrs. Sadie Cobb, who is under treatmen at Indianapolis, is improving very fast, and feels satisfied she will soon be permanently cured. This will be gratifying to Mrs. Cobb's friends here and elsewhere. Mrs. Hollister is in attendance with her daughter, and is expected home this week.

The Young Men's Alliance will present their first musical entertainment on Monday evening, May 19, at the Opera House. Time nor expense have been limited in preparation, and the managers are confident that all will be more than satisfied. Usual prices. Reserved seats at usual place. Proceeds for the benefit of the reading rooms.

A crazy man, named Wm. Ritzman, from near Holgate, O., came to Auburn last week, and created some alarm in the south end of town, and then started east, but was overtaken at Eckhart's factory by the sheriff and brought back and placed in the insane cell of the jail. Monday his brother came, and on Tuesday, he and deputy sheriff Blum took him back to his home.

The Frank Tucker Co., gave an excellent performance at the Opera House Tuesday evening. There are few companies on the road, that equal this one, and the play they gave is one of the best we ever saw. We are sorry they struck us in bad weather and had a poor house. If they go to our neighbor towns, we can assure the people they are better even than they claim to be.

The Dispatch's silly article about the town being bankrupt, has gained but little credit elsewhere, as we are glad to note. Such articles, like those in the Clipper, tend to injure our town and its prospects, and can do no good. Even as an electioneering scheme it proved a failure, for the very men who were elected, went in on the promise that they would keep up the very improvements that got us into debt.

The Dispatch last week, on the eve of election, and at a time when no reply could be made got out a doctored statement of Auburn's finances, and proclaimed to the world, that the city we are trying to build up, was utterly bankrupt, ruined by the very men who have labored night and day to make our town a success. And after going through this questionable performance, they added that the Courier had asked for a full comparison, between the democratic and the republican management of city affairs. Yes, that is what we asked. But they gave us only one side. Now let us have an exhibit of the way republicans did it when last in power in Auburn.

Dr. Nelson J. Shook located last week in Spencerville, as will be seen by our Spencerville letter. We assure our Spencerville friends that a good citizen has been added to their community, and we have no doubt he will prove a good physician. We can bear witness to his good work as a teacher in our public schools for a number of years, and no doubt, he will carry into his new profession the same degree of thoroughness that he then manifested. He was always at his post, clear headed and industrious. We believe he will succeed now. He has passed through a long course of study with Dr. Nusbaum, of this place, and has attended the best medical schools in the country. We predict he will wear the title "M. D." with honor to the profession.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

SO MANY poets send their verses to Oliver Wendell Holmes that he has come to the conclusion that everybody in the United States writes poetry.

MARSHALL PASS, on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, 10,851 feet above the sea level, is the highest point crossed by a railroad inside the limits of the United States.

MRS. TALMAGE, wife of the celebrated preacher, is said to be the financier of the family. It is she who makes all the Doctor's engagements and does his banking business.

A MAN named Oscar Harden, of Pike County, Georgia, some time ago killed his bride of a few months by a pistol-shot. He has made a confession that he shot at her three times because "he didn't think he could hit her."

A NEW YORK doctor says that you can make a man believe that his liver is out of order when you can't make him believe that there is a hereafter for his soul. The human liver is dosed ninety-nine times where it needs it but once.

THE costliest horse barn in the world belongs to D. E. Crouse and is located at Syracuse, N. Y. It has now cost the owner, a millionaire horseman, something like $700,000. Incidental expenses will make the stable cost little short of a round million.

ORLANDO, Fla., phosphate hunters found a piece of petrified red cedar in a creek. The grain of the wood is so naturally preserved that it looks as if it could be cut with a knife, but it is solid stone and the red color of the wood has been precipitated in bright carmine spots.

A HUMPBACKED man at Chicago gets a living by selling the time of day. He has a chronometer, and it is warranted time. He has a certain territory which he goes over, and furnishes the housewives in that territory with the time of day once a week. He gets ten cents a week from each patron.

MRS. HITT, of Ashland, Neb., missed her baby, while traveling on the Burlington express, and jumped off while the train was running forty miles an hour. Though terribly injured, she will recover. The baby was found peacefully sleeping in a seat of the car, from which she jumped.

MR. GLADSTONE has always been more scrupulous in his attentions to the humbler classes than to the nobility and wealthy. Once, when Prime Minister, he called personally on a tradesman on Sunday morning to deliver a ticket of admission to the House of Commons, which had been requested.

WHEN Prince Bismarck left Berlin for his home at Friedrichsruhe he took with him the little table on which he and M. Thiers signed the preliminaries of peace between Prussia and France in 1871. He paid the Frenchwoman who owned the Versailles cottage where he then had his headquarters a little over $4 for it.

A MAN at Tiflis, Russia, paid an assassin $75 to kill an enemy, and $90 more when the assassin brought an ear in proof of his crime. The assassin went to the enemy and obtained $100 for revealing the plot and produced a bogus ear. The man who paid to have his enemy assassinated is now suing the "swindler" to recover the money he paid.

LIVING on a claim eight miles north of Rocky Ford, Col., is Emma Aiken, and her two daughters. All three ladies are widows. The mother is 90 years of age, the eldest daughter 68 and the youngest 64. Not a man has ever been employed about the place, and during their two years' residence they have done all of their own work and truck gardening.

IN Matabele-land, South Africa, a wife costs five cows; this is paid to the girl's father by the happy man. The price varies with the rank of the dusky damsel, sometimes as much as fifty cows being demanded; but in such cases part of the cows are returned with the girl as dowry. Then an ox is killed before the girl's "kraal," she is anointed with the blood, and a dance ensues.

A CLERGYMAN declared the other day that no people are so humane in their treatment of the lower animals as the Americans. But what about the Buddhishts, who, in order to avoid destroying life, carry a broom with which to sweep away insects, when they, the Buddhists, of course, desire to sit on the ground, and who wear a sieve over their mouth when drinking water lest they might swallow and so destroy some living creature?

EDISON literally works all the time that he is awake. For him to see any mechanical device fail or give annoyance, is enough to set his brain at work devising an improvement upon it; it makes no difference whether it is a patent match that doesn't always light, or a toboggan that lies idle waiting for snow or ice. Coming over from Europe last fall, he noticed that there was a great deal of guess-work and inaccuracy about "taking the sun" in cloudy weather. Before he left the ship he invented a means to take the sun, though it should be obscured by the densest fog imaginable.

THE grounds on which the White House now stands were once the orchard of David Burns, an old Scotch farmer, whose cabin still stands in lonely obscurity a few squares back from the executive mansion. It is said that Washington, when engaged in laying out the city, had many long and bitter quarrels with Burns before he could persuade the old man to sell his land, even though it would be used in future for the home of the Presidents.

A DEVOTED couple, husband and wife, committed suicide recently at St. Etienne, in France, because the husband was attacked with a fatal malady. They took the usual suicidal precautions to stop up all the chinks and crevices before starting up the carbonic gas, but only the husband got a sufficient dose to take him off, and his wife was resuscitated. On recovering herself fully she remarked that she felt as though she had waked up from a deep and long sleep.

THERE is one infallible test either for the approach or the presence of lunacy. If the person whose case is being examined is seen to make no use of his thumb, if he lets it stand out at right angles from the hand and employs it neither in salutation, writing, nor any other manual exercise, you may set it down as a fact that the person's mental balance is gone. He or she may converse intelligently, may in every respect be guarding the secret of a mind diseased with the utmost care and cunning, but the telltale thumb will infallibly betray the lurking madness which is concealed behind a plausible demeanor.

YOU cannot have a college, or even a high school, in every village, or at every cross-road; but it would not be impossible to multiply centers of illumination such as were typified by the district-school libraries of forty or fifty years ago. It is just here that such an institution as Mudie's circulating library, which sends books in parcels all over England and collects them weekly or monthly, has considerable suggestive value. The smaller centers, country towns and railway stations from which the ordinary commodities of living are distributed, might well be centers of distribution for food for the mind as well as the body.

SIR GEORGE BOWEN, the former Governor of New Zealand, relates that among the loyal Maori chiefs whom he invited to meet the Duke of Edinburgh when the latter visited the colony was one of the original signers of the treaty of Waitangi in 1840, who had ever since been a firm friend of the English. One of the Anglican bishops afterward said to the Governor: "Do you know, sir, the antecedents of that old heathen?" "No, my dear bishop," was the reply, "but I do know that he brought 500 of his clansmen in the field to fight for the Queen, so I invited him to meet the Queen's son." "Well," continued the bishop, "when I first arrived in New Zealand, that chief came to me and said that he wished to be baptized. I knew that he had two wives, so I told him that he must first persuade one of them to return to her family. He said he feared that would be difficult; but that he would see what could be done, and come back to me in two months. When he returned he exclaimed: 'Now, missionary, you may baptize me, for I have only one wife.' I asked: 'What have you done with our dear sister, your first wife?' He replied, smacking his lips: 'I have eaten her.'"

General Nelson Appleton Miles.

The promotion of Brigadier General Nelson A. Miles to the rank of Major General is a matter of greater interest to Chicago than to the rest of the country, as the impression is general that he will succeed the late Major General Crook as commander of the Division of the Missouri, with headquarters in this city. But it is noteworthy chiefly as the promotion to the highest rank in the army of an officer who was never at West Point.

General Miles was born in Westminster, Mass., August 8, 1839. He received an academic education, and was engaged in mercantile pursuits in Boston when the civil war began. On September 9, 1861, he entered the volunteer service as Lieutenant in the Twenty-second Massachusetts Infantry, and was commissioned Lieutenant Colonel of the Sixty-first New York Volunteers, to date from May 31, 1862. He was engaged in the battles of the Peninsula, before Richmond, and at Antietam, and on September 30 was made Colonel of his regiment. Col. Miles fought in all the battles of the Army of the Potomac, with one exception, up to the surrender of Lee at Appomattox Court House, Va., and was wounded three times. He was rapidly promoted for gallant services in the field. He was commissioned a major general in 1865, and in 1866 was mustered out of the volunteer service and received an appointment in the regular army as Colonel of the Fortieth Infantry. He was transferred to the Fifth Infantry in 1869, defeated the Cheyenne, Kiowa and Comanche Indians on the borders of the Staked Plains in 1875, and in 1876 subjugated the hostile Sioux and other Indians in Montana, driving Sitting Bull across the Canada frontier. In the fall of the same year he captured the Nez Perces under Chief Joseph in Northern Montana, and in 1878 captured a band of Bannocks near the Yellowstone Park. He was commissioned brigadier general of the United States army in 1880, commanded for five years the Department of the Columbia, in July, 1885, assigned to the command of the Department of the Missouri, and in April, 1886, was transferred to Arizona. After a difficult campaign against the Apaches under Geronimo and Natchez, he compelled those chief to surrender September 4, 1886.—Chicago Ledger.

DEBATING THE TARIFF.

FRAUDULENT CHARACTER OF THE REPUBLICAN BILL.

Mr. Mills Exposes Its Brazen Attempt to Fool the Farmers—Fallacies of Protection Arguments Exposed by the Texas Statesman.

The tariff debate was opened in the House of Representotives, at Washington, on Wednesday, May 7, by Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, who delivered a two hours' labored speech in support of the Republican tariff-abortion called by courtesy "The McKinley Bill." He was followed by Mr. Mills, of Texas, who mercilessly exposed the fallacies of protection arguments. Said Mr. Mills:

The Democratic party believes in maintaining taxes on such articles at such rates as will bring revenue sufficient for economical administration with the least possible interference with the exportation and private business of the people. The Republican party, on the other hand, desires to maintain such taxes as will induce the largest possible restriction on importation consistent with the raising of revenue. The chief object of the Republican party is to check importation, but it has a secondary object, and this is not to check it entirely, but to check it just so far as will bring revenue for the needs of the government. The Ways and Means Committee comes in here with a bold and unequivocal declaration of this taxing principle. It is the first bill in the history of the country that has come before the people with the mask torn off and demanding with the audacity of a highwayman that the people shall surrender. We lay down this principle on this side of the House, that to check importation is to check exportation. Gentlemen may split hairs, but no man can call to mind a trade which was not made on the basis of some sort of reciprocity. One man gives something that he may receive something in return from another man. This is trade the world over. The great body of the people of the universe are laboring to get the best possible product of their toil. When they sell something to others it is with that purpose in view. You can't make anything else out of it.

Mr. Mills elaborated this idea at some length and continued:

Protection boiled down to its last extreme means more work for less results. We hear much about the importation of foreign wares taking the bread out of the mouths of home workers. If that is true in anything it must be true in metals. Let us see what the figures sent me by Mr. Swank, of the Iron and Steel Association, a protectionist as high as any and a Republican of good standing, say on this point.

In 1870 we imported 2,500,000 tons of pig iron; in 1872, 5,000,000 tons, and in 1873, 7,000,000 tons. If the doctrine of protection be true, this competition from abroad should have caused a corresponding diminution of the American product of pig iron, but was that the result? In 1870 America turned out 52,000,000 tons of pig iron; in 1872, 56,000,000 tons, and in 1873, 119,000,000 tons. As the importation of the foreign iron increased the output of the home mills increased in even greater ratio. This shows conclusively that the Democratic position is right—that increased importation does not diminish the demand for home product nor interfere with the prosperity of domestic manufacture.

But there is another phase of the same subject which will interest us. There came a period during which the importations diminished, and, if the protection doctrine be true, with diminution of competition from abroad the output of the domestic manufactories should have increased in like ratio. In 1878 the importation of pig iron had fallen to 1,250,000 tons. Did the domestic output show a corresponding increase as competition was withdrawn? No. The domestic output fell from 119,000,000 tons in 1873 to 37,000,000 tons in 1876, and to 36,000,000 tons in 1878. As importation diminished home production diminished, just as home production increased all the time that importation had been increasing. According to this same iron and steel authority, at the very time when foreign importation had fallen almost to nothing a million skilled and unskilled laborers in this country were without work simply because there was no demand for their product. If foreign competition is the great bane of our national prosperity why did not the home manufacturers take the market when their foreign rivals withdrew from it? Why, this iron and steel authority says that the very moment open foreign competition was withdrawn the smokestacks of the iron mills of Pennsylvania had no other use than for observatories from which to study the signs of the heavens.

TRYING TO FOOL THE FARMER.

Let us look at the agricultural schedule of this bill. Our Republican friends seem to have so much sympathy for the farmer. Two years ago we told them that the signs of the times were gloomy for the agricultural interests: that a dark cloud was rising above the horizon of the farm; but they said the mortgages with which our farms were covered meant merely that the farmer was trying to extend his scope of operations, and that the mortgages therefore were a sign of prosperity. Now the Ways and Means Committee comes in here virtually on its knees at the confessional. It has discovered, it says, after two months of patient investigation, the very facts which we pointed out two years ago. Something must be done for the poor farmer, to whom the mortgage has not proved a great blessing after all, and we are told that what he needs is less competition. He must be relieved of the competition of the $356,000,000 worth of farm products which, according to the statistician of the Agricultural Department, are now imported each year.

One of the very first items we find in this list of $356,000,000 of imported farm products is sugar. But what has the Republican party done for sugar? Why did it not treat sugar as it treated wool, and put a prohibitive duty on it? Why did they consign this one struggling and puling infant industry to the free list? The second item of agricultural products in this list is coffee. Seventy-five millions of dollars' worth of coffee comes in each year, which, added to the $90,000,000 of sugar, accounts for about one-half of the alleged $356,000,000 of importations which come in competition with the American farmer. But what has the Republican party done for this great agricultural product? Why twenty years ago it put coffee on the free list. Why does it not now take it from the free list and put a prohibitive duty upon it? As long as the question is one of pure patriotism, and coffee can be grown in this country under glass roofs, why not induce the American farmer to go into the business by giving him enough protection to make it profitable? Of course, the cost of production is nothing. The consumer is not to be considered, so that the article may be produced in this country.

Next come hides. We have heard something about hides of late. In the last campaign, when the Democratic party was driving in the Republican pickets in Iowa, in order to turn our flanks and save Iowa to Republicanism you went among the farmers and told them you were going to give them a tax on hides. But where are hides now? Where is that promised tax? After bobbing up and down on the hide question; after playing a game of now you see it and now you don't—hides finally fall into the place where the Republican party all the while intended they should be, on the free list.

The Republicans had promised the farmer protection on this agricultural product, which might amount to something, but of course the promise was broken. They had plenty of protection for wool, and plenty for tin plate, but none for hides. Instead they come in here and try to make the farmer believe he is admirably taken care of. They increase the duty on wool for what? Why, in order to give more protection to the shoddy business of this country—a business which employs one hundred millions of capital, a business that is ruining the wool interest.

But the farmer must not complain, for is he not getting a protective tariff of one dollar a pound on raw silk? Is that not enough to satisfy him? I am surprised that while the committee was at the work of protecting the poor farmer it did not give him a protective duty on tea in order to develop the sassafras industry of this country. Instead of protecting tea in order to build up what might be a promising business in sassafras, the committee puts a big tax on horses, so that the farmer who wants to improve his breeds will be able to do so at greater expense. Some of our Southwestern farmers find it to their advantage to import from Mexico horses worth $7 apiece, and here comes this committee with a tax of $30 a head on all such animals, and the same committee has discovered that wheat needs protection.

HIGHER PRICES FOR SEED WHEAT.

The wheat market of this country must be preserved for the American farmer. His rivals must be kept out by the God-given tariff. How much wheat did we export last year? Ninety-one million bushels, and before the policy of restricting importation and exportation had been carried to an extreme we exported nearly twice as much. How did we import; to what extent did the much-feared foreign rivals take our precious home market away from us? We imported just 1,945 bushels. The wheat which we exported was worth 39 cents a bushel, while that which we imported was worth $2.05 a bushel. Seven hundred bushels of it was worth $3 a bushel in Germany. Of course, the meaning of this is that it was seed wheat of an improved variety with which our farmers were endeavoring to improve their crops, and yet the Ways and Means majority says the farmer shall pay an increase of 100 per cent. on the seed wheat which he imports for that purpose.

You are trying to fool the farmers, but you will not succeed. And then the farmer must be saved from ruinous competition in corn. Last year we exported 69,000,000 bushels of corn and imported the enormous quantity of 2,218 bushels. One farmer in Texas could raise it all on 500 acres of land. And the American market for rye must also be preserved for the American farmer. How much rye did we import last year? Just sixteen bushels. But there is one item of deliverance for which I thank the majority of this committee, one blessing for which we all rise up and give thanks. At last we are to have agricultural prosperity in this country, for the farmer can stand in the midst of the Kansas cabbage-patch and defy the world. The Republican party has given him protection of 2 cents a head on cabbage.

But let us get down to the real question, for you can't fool the farmer any longer. I have been asked why it is that our farm products do not go abroad as readily as they did some years ago, and I will tell you. The cause is to be found in the tariff law of 1883. Then you put up the duties on foreign products, and the foreigner is simply retaliating. Three times since 1883 Germany has enacted laws against American meat products. They claim your meats are impure and dangerous, but that is simply the language of diplomacy. What they really mean is that if you do not want to trade with them they do not want to trade with you. Take down your Chinese wall and they will be glad enough to buy of you.

WHY FARM PRICES ARE LOW.

Why are our prices for farm products so low at the present time? Simply because there is not enough foreign demand to take away the surplus. The surplus must seek a market at home, and that forces the price down, and the low price at home governs the price the world over. The farm mortgages follows as a logical sequence. Let us see what we have lost by restricting importations and exportations along with them. If our farm product of 1889 could have been sold at the same prices which the product of 1880 brought our farmers would have received the enormous sum of $1,570,000,000 more for their crop last year than they did receive. That is the loss we have sustained by choking exportation, by cutting off importation and driving trade from our doors.

Our friend, the Chairman of the committee, has asked why the foreign market is better than the home market. There is no one fool enough to say that it is better. But the Democratic answer to that question is that the foreign market and the home market together are better than the home market alone. We have had thirty years of your policy of restricting importation and exportation. We see the result in castles everywhere except where the common people live. We see the most remarkable concentration of wealth the world has ever known, and in nine cases out of ten the wealth is concentrated in the hands of those who have been protected into opulence.

The surplus is constantly increasing, and the question is what Congress is going to do about it. The Democratic way is to let down the barriers and let the surplus go out to the people, who want it. In this extraordinary bill a new policy is inaugurated by which the whole American people are taxed in order that somebody may go into a foreign market and sell cheap goods to foreigners. The Democrats are opposed to subsidies. I want to see the flag of the Union float in every sea, but I want to see those vessels go into foreign ports as free ships representing free American institutions. I do not want to hire anybody to display the flag of the United States anywhere in the world.

The Republicans may pass their bill, but it has a Hell Gate to go through after it leaves the House and Senate. I do not expect to hinder them from passing this bill, but I want them to take the bill to the Northwest and show it to the people whom they are taxing unnecessarily. I want them to confront these people, and when they have preached their sermons and told the people how good the Republicans have been, and how in the people's name they have cast out devils, the people will say to them: "Get thee behind me, Satan." The Democrats will not impede the passage of the bill, but when the Republicans appear before the great American people after passing this measure, may the Lord have mercy on their souls.

GONE BACK ON BENNY.

Indiana Republicans Speak Out—Many Cities Go Democratic for the First Time.

[Indianapolis special.]

Full returns from seventy-eight Indiana cities electing Mayors and Common Councils on Tuesday show that the Democrats have made large gains over two years ago, having carried forty-four out of the seventy-eight reported. Among the Republican strongholds which have been so successfully attacked are Crawfordsville, Franklin, Lafayette, Lebanon, Noblesville, Vincennes and Wabash, a number of which have been under Republican rule ever since they were chartered as cities. The Republican leaders confess that this is a serious disaster, and many of them state that it will be absolutely impossible to carry the State this fall; that the very cities from which President Harrison has selected men to fill the Government offices in this State have most signally repudiated him and his administration, and that it is folly to think of carrying a State where faction is rife and patronage destroys rather than unifies a party.

Great Democratic Victory at St. Paul.

[St. Paul special.]

Complete returns of Tuesday's election show the Democratic victory to have been not only complete but sweeping and far-reaching. In actual results it far exceeded the wildest Democratic hopes, but in its effect on the future it is much more important. The Republican party of St. Paul and Ramsey County is practically shattered, and it is claimed that in the State and county campaigns this fall the Democrats will have a walk-over. The talk of the day is the probable nomination of Mayor Smith for Governor. The State press has indorsed him, and he will sweep Minneapolis as easily as he did St. Paul. Smith for Governor and R. J. Hall, President of the Farmers' Alliance, for Lieutenant Governor, is now the Democratic programme outlined.

AN OUTRAGEOUS TAX.

Seal Plush in the McKinley Bill—Oppressing the Poor to Satisfy One Man's Greed.

Seal plush is almost exclusively manufactured in England. The consumption in this country is very large; and, being an imitation of the seal fur, these goods are worn almost exclusively by the poorer classes, or such as cannot afford the price of the real article.

Until about a year ago the seal plush was not manufactured in this country at all, owing partly to inability to dye and finish the goods, and partly to natural conditions, and even now there is only one mill that has succeeded in producing it in anything like a fairly satisfactorly manner.

Under the present tariff the duty levied on this article is 50 per cent., which should afford more than ample protection to any legitimate industry. But it seems that it struck the framers of the new tariff in a different light, for the duty proposed therein is to be in the future $3.50 per pound and 15 per cent. ad valorem. In plain figures this simply means that an article heretofore costing, say, $4 per yard to land will cost in the future from $7.25 to $7.50 per yard, and that in order to help a millionaire manufacturer in this country to make more millions thousands and thousands of women and girls will have to pay for their winter garments double the price that they are paying now. It seems incredible that in this free and enlightened country one single man's greed should be permitted to impose such an outrageous tax on hundreds of thousands of his less fortunate fellow-creatures. — New York Evening Post.

WHAT THEY CALL "PROTECTION."

It Consists in Piling Up Taxes—A Merchant on McKinley's Bill.

The writer appeared before the Ways and Means Committee last week, but the McKinley committee sneers at any importer who presents himself and argues against increased protection. It intends that protection, or rather prohibition, shall be thrust down our throat. The proposed bill make trusts and pools possible in every branch of trade. It fosters their growth. Let those who wish to be taxed out of financial existence favor this bill. Let those who still think a Government exists for the people resist this outrage on their rights, and by agitation and protest show their members of Congress what the people want and will have.

The bill increases protection from that existing to-day by 600 per cent. in some cases. It is cunningly drawn—it shrouds in complex wording its heaviest increase. The present bill taxes raw jute 20 per cent.; jute canvas—used as an interlining in every poor man's coat—35 per cent.; protection, 15 per cent. The proposed bill, jute free; common jute canvas, 50 per cent. ad valorum and 3 cents per pound, equivalent to 66 per cent.; total, 116 per cent. protection. This tax on every poor man would benefit just five manufacturers in this country. —New York Evening Post.

Why Quay Is Silent.

Mr. Quay will not resign the Chairmanship of his National Committee because the Democratic press has invented the stories about him. The Philadelphia Press mentioned the stories some time before the Democratic papers took them up. The Evening Post, Harper's Weekly and several religious papers are demanding from Quay a denial of the stories. When all the independent and religious papers are down on Quay it is rather a stale trick to call it a Democratic invention. The Democrats must be getting mighty smart.—Kansas City Times.

THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS AND WHAT THEY ARE DOING.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted On—Gist of the Business.

IN the Senate, on the 7th inst., the silver bill was taken up, and Mr Sherman moved to amend the bill by inserting as a new section a provision repealing all laws that require money deposited in the Treasury—under section 5222 of the Revised Statutes—to be held as a special fund for the redemption of national bank notes and covering such money into the Treasury; also covering into the Treasury sums deposited under section 4 of the act of June 20, 1874, fixing the amount of United States notes, being section 6 of the Conger Bill. Mr. Plumb moved to amend the amendment by inserting a provision that hereafter no funds available for the payment of the public debt, including such as are kept for the redemption of Treasury notes, shall be retained in the Treasury in excess of $110,000,000. The Senate proceeded to executive business, no vote being taken on either of the pending amendments. Conference reports were agreed to on the bills for public buildings at Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Atchison, Kan.; Burlington, Iowa; Lafayette, Ind.; and Ashland, Wis. The House went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill, the general debate to close Saturday evening. Mr. McKinley and Mr. Mills were granted the privilege of speaking without being limited to time. Mr. McKinley opened the debate in favor of the bill, and at the close of his remarks Mr. Mills spoke in opposition to it.

IN the Senate, on the 8th inst., the House bill providing for the classification of worsted cloths as woolens was taken up for consideration. At 2 o'clock the presiding officer announced that the silver bill was before the Senate as "unfinished business." Finally it was agreed that the silver bill should go over till the following Monday and should then come up after the formal business of the morning hour, and be continued as "unfinished business" until disposed of. After the arrangement was arrived at, the worsted bill was again taken up and passed without amendment. The bill now goes to the President for his signature. The pension appropriation bill (appropriating for the next fiscal year $97,090,761) was then taken up. A vote on an amendment disclosed the absence of a quorum, only thirty-four members being present, and the Senate adjourned. The House spent the day in discussing the tariff bill.

THE Senate, on the 9th inst., after a short discussion, passed the bill making an appropriation for the military academy. On motion of Mr. Allison the Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the army appropriation bill. Senators Cockrell, Butler, Blair and Hale debated at length an amendment to the bill offered by Mr. Hale "to abolish army canteens." Pending a vote upon the amendment it was disclosed by a roll-call that no quorum was present, and, on motion of Mr. Wilson of Iowa, the Senate at 5 p. m. adjourned. The House passed the pension bill of Mrs. Delia T. S. Parnell with an amendment making the rate of pension $50 per month, and the Sneate bill increasing the pension of Brig. Gen. Ayres to $75 per month. The House then went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill, Mr. Payson of Illinois in the chair, and the debate continued to adjournment.

He Had the Floor.

The British House of Commons is perhaps the most powerful organization of men in the world, but its great authority and dignity did not prevent it from being thrown into some confusion on a recent occasion, by a very small enemy.

One of the members, Sir John Gorst, had taken the floor to address the House, when it was perceived by a number of members that a mouse had taken the floor at the same time, and was running exactly in the direction of the spot occupied by Sir John.

Certain of the members could not refrain from cries of surprise at seeing the mouse make this movement. The cries frightened the mouse and caused him to turn back and run toward the benches occupied by the members.

This threw the front bench into some confusion, which only frightened the mouse the more. He attempted to take refuge in the trousers leg of an honorable member, and this gentleman immediately began a series of leaps and bounds in an attempt to free himself from the mouse.

In an instant the chamber was in confusion. The mouse, escaping from the honorable member with whom he had taken refuge, ran this way and that. Numbers of the members jumped upon the benches which serve them as seats. The "question before the House" became "how shall the little animal be got rid of?"

All at once the mouse found his way to the hole in the floor through which he had entered. He disappeared; members got down from the seats, and Sir John Gorst resumed his remarks.

How to Keep Your Skin Nice.

Don't bathe in hard water; soften it with a few drops of ammonia or a little borax.

Don't bathe your face while it is very warm and never use very cold water for it.

Don't wash your face while you are traveling, unless it is with a little alcohol and water or a little vaseline.

Don't rub your face with a coarse towel; just remember it is not made of cast-iron and treat it as you would the finest porcelain—gently and delicately.

Don't attempt to remove dust with cold water; give your face a hot bath, using plenty of good soap, then give it a thorough rinsing with water that has had the chill taken off of it.

Don't believe you can get rid of wrinkles by filling in the crevices with powder. Instead, give your face a Russian bath every night—that is, bathe it with water so hot that you wonder how you can stand it, and then a minute after with cold water that will make it glow with warmth; dry it with a soft towel and go to bed and you ought to sleep like a baby, while your skin is growing firmer and coming from out of the wrinkles and your rest.

Philosophy of the Street.

Nothing falls flatter than misdirected enthusiasm that does not awaken even an echo.

The average man's politics and religion are either inherited or accepted second-hand.

Suspicious people torture themselves while those they are afraid of are calmly sleeping.

Asking a woman for a reason is as satisfactory as trying to take a drink out of an empty bottle.

When one man opens his mouth to express an idea twenty-five merely move their lips to talk.

That one half of the world does not know how the other half lives is a severe reflection on the reporters.

What would become of the world's social life if we were not all more or less hypocritical in our treatment of each other?

Harmless Witticisms.

Troy Press: Every dog has his day. The nights, however, are still reserved for cats.

Boston Post: Tailors say that the fast man is generally pretty slow about paying up.

Illustrated Hotel World: Like her beads, the Boston girl seems to need a little Browning.

Yonkers Statesman: You can always tell a "rising young man" in a crowded car. He is the one that lets some one else do the rising.

Detroit Tribune: If putting a duty on wind-mills is going to encourage the cyclone industry we are "agin it."

Texas Siftings: Dumbbells are only 5 cents a pound in New York. Here's a chance for men who want quiet wives.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. ☞ No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

MAKING MAPLE SIRUP.

THE OLD-TIME WAY CONTRASTED WITH THAT OF TO-DAY.

Progress in Its Manufacture Has Kept Even Pace with the Times—The Sugaring Season—Sugar Parties in the Woods—The Old and Young Make Merry.

An age ago the Vermont farmer and his boys, in the fall of the year when harvest was ended, would take their axes and hie to some hard-wooded locality well stocked with maples and lay out for a spring sugar campaign. Headquarters would be established near some mammoth rock; ofttimes this was so located that it furnished shelter in time of storm and gave a bed for the night. A plan of operations was then decided upon. Young trees about one and one-half feet in diameter were cut down, cut up about two feet in length, and then dug out, making troughs holding not far from four or five gallons. When 200 or 300 of these had been manufactured, large maples were selected, and by the side of each was placed one of these troughs. Then a cord or two of wood was gathered and piled up against a rock, two big logs—called back-logs—were placed in position to support the kettle, and some large tree near by was cut down and that dug out into one immense trough for storage. This work would use up the best part of a week, one of the number going home at night to look after the stock and to bring back in the morning the brown bread, pork and beans.

About the middle of March the old "five-pail kittle" was unearthed; the hand-sled which had been doing service all winter was ordered up; pork, beans, a few potatoes, and several loaves of home-made bread, with a few dozen of eggs, were gathered together, placed on the sled, and the kettle turned over them; and two young men, with snow-shoes, an ax, two or three pails, the family flint-lock, some powder and shot, and a good supply of "punk"—an article found in decayed wood, which is about as combustible as tissue paper or young oratory—and two blankets, started out for nearly two months of "sugaring." Upon reaching the rock the first thing in order was a fire, but there were no matches then, so the old musket was brought into service. One man held the "punk" near the flint-hammer and caught a spark. This he nursed, and soon had shavings from a shingle ablaze, and later a big fire, which was never allowed to go out until of no further use. At once the old troughs were looked up, an ugly gash was made in a fine maple, then "gonged," and a spout was driven in to carry the sap to the trough, and when the sun shone sufficiently the tree gave forth its sweetness. Then the manufacturers of sugar saddled their neck-yokes and gathered in the sap, ofttimes walking one-half a mile to secure two pailfuls, which made about one-half of a pound of sugar, such as it was. An early breakfast, dinner as near meridian as the eye and stomach could judge, and "tea" when work was done, comforted the inner man. For Java and Mocha sirup was a substitute, for sirloin of beef a fine slice of pork or the best of ham broiled on coals, and an ample supply of brown bread and roasted potatoes made up a repast that would do the stomach of royalty good. For dinner a few boiled eggs broke the monotony, and "at tea" most anything that was left was eaten. At the end of six weeks, when the party took account of stock, they usually had, all told, 200 pounds of sugar as black as Ethiopia and flavored with snow, rain, everything that came off the trees, and now and then the body of a forlorn mouse or daring chipmunk who ventured too near the trough. This was pure Vermont maple sugar something like 100 years ago.

STARTING FOR THE WOODS.

Another generation realized that the world moved, and we find a shanty in some fine grove of maples filled with 300 or 400 buckets, and sometimes more. Outside is an arch for a kettle, not built of cut stone, but of material easiest at command. This is not an isolated spot; people here come and go; the "sugar place" is near-by home; the wife or daughter at noon time brings up the dinner, and a good dinner it is; there is a small kettle at command and a "sugar off" is then in order, and an hour's sport that king, prince, or potentate might envy, but not covet. To the assuming daughter of papa, to say nothing of the complacent manipulator of the type-writer, the idea of a girl tramping a mile or two in the woods, carrying dinner for men dressed in coarse woolens, may not be pleasant, but could they see that girl with her dinner-pail or "waxing sugar" with honest, hardy men, they would realize that there is such a thing in life as enjoyment. Ofttimes it is found necessary to boil sap all night in order to catch up with the flow of sap, and during a "big run" this sometimes lasts for a week. Then nearly the entire family moves to the bush. The head of the house gets a little sleep while the wife or some of the children keep the kettle full and the fire "a-humping." A "humping fire" is what the sugar-maker always enjoys. Ofttimes these sugar orchards are near each other, and family visits are in order, and some love-making is indulged in. Lads and lasses play "high-low-jack," and watch the fire, kettle, and each other.

BRINGING THE DINNER.

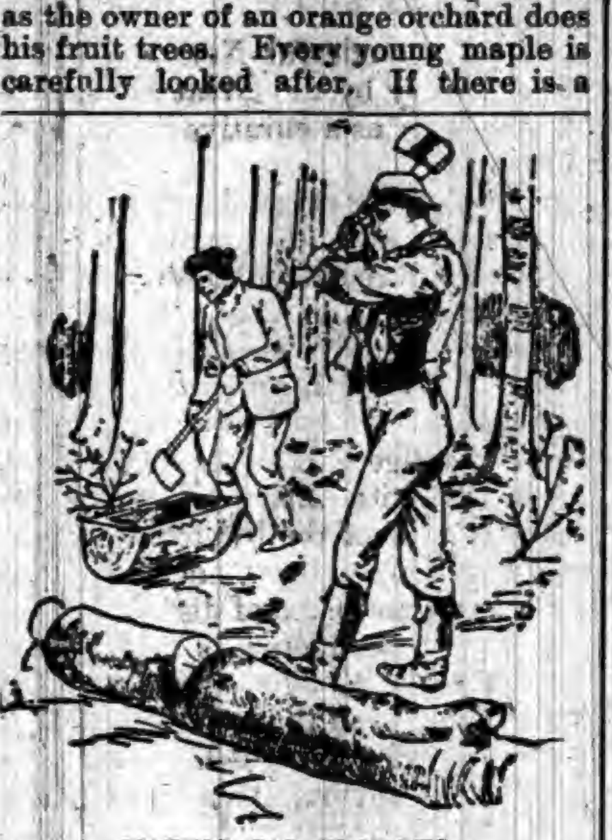
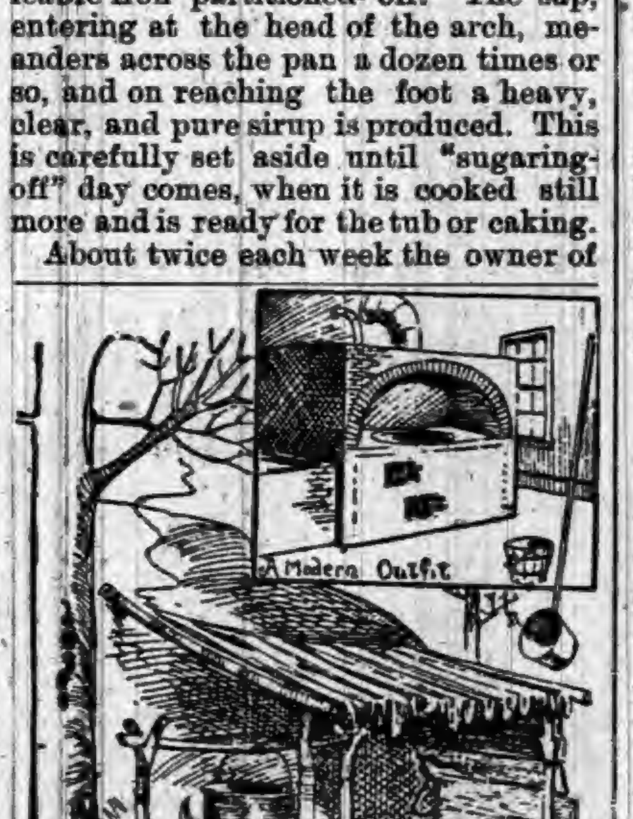
In the old days a very respectable quality of sugar was made, but only a little more than was necessary for home use, although 100 pounds or so sometimes was exchanged for store pay. The farmer who then controlled a sugar orchard of 300 or 400 trees was recognized as one of the biggest men in town. At the present time the farmer is not content with less than 1,000 trees, and he holds them as precious as the owner of an orange orchard does his fruit trees. Every young maple is carefully looked after. If there is a scrub oak, beech, birch near by to impede its growth it is cut into firewood. Many an orchard to-day is so cleared of fallen timbers and underbrush that in the summer months one can drive over nearly every portion of it with a horse and buggy. The small streams are bridged and good roads are found on all sides. If there be a cheerful spot on earth during the summer months it's the farmer's sugar place. Here are the finest songsters in the world, and the squirrel is the prince of the field. Many farmers will not allow a gun to be taken into a sugar-bush and ofttimes in the spring they place in easy reach of the squirrels near the sugar-house a few ears of corn, because they enjoy the company of the lively creatures, which often are quite domestic.



MAKING SAP TROUGHS.

To-day the maple sugar-bush is in every way truly homelike. Near the center of fifty or more acres of hard-wood timber land—mostly maple, a few beech and birch—you find a commodious sugar-house, one room of which is much larger than the entire house of seventy years ago. In this well-floored room are stored the buckets during the summer, and in the springtime it is used for kitchen, reception-room, parlor, or dance hall. In it you will see a fine brick arch, an evaporator, and ample storage-room for the sap, while outside is a thrifty pair of oxen yoked to a gathering sled, on which is a tub holding from twenty-five to forty pails. Like the rest, the oxen take their dinner in the woods, and five or six "rounds" are considered a good day's work. Three hundred pails a day is called good work. This sap is drawn to the sugar-house, and from a long spout is conveyed to large storage-tubs, and thence to the evaporator, or pan, kettles having long since been discarded. The evaporator is of malleable iron partitioned off. The sap, entering at the head of the arch, meanders across the pan a dozen times or so, and on reaching the foot a heavy, clear, and pure sirup is produced. This is carefully set aside until "sugaring-off" day comes, when it is cooked still more and is ready for the tub or caking.

About twice each week the owner of a sugar bush has a sugaring-off party. First all the old folks for miles around come in on ox-sleds and on foot, and a good old-fashioned time is enjoyed. No one seems to realize that they are growing old. Later on the coming generation are on hand and buxom girls, hopeful young men, maidens, and boys gather at the sugar-house. They are in for a good time. First there may be a tug-of-war, with snow-balls, in which the girls take an active part, and a Vermont girl can throw a snow-ball with hitting effect. She uses more precision firing at a young man for whom she has no admiration than when she tries to "shoo a hen" off the garden patch. When the war is over the manufacture of paddles is in order. To eat sugar with a spoon in the woods would be regarded as a violation of all the rules of etiquette. So the young man takes his "best girl" one side, and selecting a sofa—usually a large log, or if lighter furniture is required two buckets are inverted—they sit down and commence work on their paddles. The paddles being made, down to the sugar-house they go, secure a pint or more of the sirup, and start for a snow-bank, upon which they pour it. This at once hardens and furnishes a sugar repast that can not be excelled. For a quarter of a mile about the sugar-house you will see these pairs cooing and eating maple sugar in its primitive state.



THE OLD-TIME SUGAR-HOUSE.

A Bold Stroke for Fortune.

Young and struggling M. D. (glad to get a small fee)—Now, madam, you will not need me any more. Take care of yourself and you are all right.

Convalescent—Then allow me to pay you, Doctor.

Doctor—Let me see. Ten visits. Well, say $10.

Convalescent—Only $10! Why, Doctor——

Doctor (seized with a happy thought)—Ten dollars a visit.

Convalescent—Ah, that is more like it.

[Receives his check and his fortune is as good as made.]

LETTERS FROM THE CORNERS.

NECK OR NOTHIN' HALL, }
KILKENNY CORNERS. }

MR. Editur: You better beleave I felt awful meen an considably riled to; ef I'd a got my han's onto "Colonel Vanderbelt" I'd a Vanderbelted him, but I didn't. "Well, you mite node better then to go to talkin to a stranger," ses Willam Henery.

"How'd I no he wus a sheap in wolf's cloth's?" ses I, a quotin scripter.

"Now, I kin always tell a rascal, quick es I slap my eyes onto him," ses Willam Henery, but "you wimming will beleave ennything a feller ses to you, aspechally ef he's dressed up an looks slick, an talkes big."

"Well, I ain't one o' ther kind," ses the widder, a holpin herself to a fride chicking laig, fur we wus a eatin supper, thet is, thay wus, but I want a eatin mutch. "No," continys the widder, "I haint easily took in by no man."

"I shud think not, but youd like to be," ses Willam Henery.

The widder throwd a bone at him, but he dodged it an it hit a feller thet wus a settin 4 seats furder along rite on to the eend o the nose, an got sum grease in to his eye.

"I baig your parding, sir," ses Sally, "but I wus a goin to throw it out to the winder," an she got up an went an wus bound and bent to wipe the grease offen him, but he woodnt let her, an got up an went in to another keer, an then she kim back an finished eatin.

"Oh!" ses she, "its to bad, Miss Scooper, thet you shud a got to talkin to sech a bad man. Now, the man I wus a talkin to wus jest lovely, an he cood quote potry to beet ennything."

But jest then a boy kim along with peeches, an Miss Boggs sed shed take em ef hed let her have 3 fur 5 sents, an he said he wood, an give her 3, but when she wint to pay for em she couldnt find her pocket book.

"Land sakes!" gasped she; "where did I put it?"

"Gim me back them peaches; yure a tryin to swindle me," ses the boy.

But I hed bit mine, an so I tole Willam Henery to pay for em, an the widder cood hand him the change when she found her wallet, and so he did.

The widder looked hie an low, but twant no whare to be found. Then she arsked the cunducter did he no whar hed went with it.

"No," ses he, purty short, "unless thet sharper you wus a settin by tuck it," and he went off. The widder wus badly beet, an Willam Henery lectered both of us tell we got up an went to a nother sete, an twant long tell I seen a gal a settin by his side, but I want nun alarmed, fur arfter thayd talked a while she lade her hed onto the back o the sete an went to sleep, an purty quick Wm. Henery wus a snorin, to with his mouth wide open, an he waked the gal an him self to, and thay talked sum more, and then she wus a goin to git off the keers and he must go help her, and it seamed to me he wus gone considable of a spell. When he kim back he sot down by the widder an me an begin braggin on thet gal.

"I tell you she wus purty," ses he, "an jolly, to, for she throde me a kiss when the trane sturted."

"What time air it?" ses I, kindy hotty.

"Why—why——" ses he, fur his watch wus gon, an so wus his wallet; thet purty little gal hed tuck em.

"Well," ses he, "ef that don't bang bob tail!"

"Willam Henery," ses I, camly, "do not use slang!" An thare we wus, an not a sent betwixt us. We felt purty cheap, I tell you, but Hester Ann kim to meat us, an so we got threw all rite; an, sir, I want mutch sorry Sally an Willam Henery was in to the same bote with me. Yourn,

HESTER ANN SCOOPER.

A Regular Sell.

A shabby-genteel sort of a man knocked at the door of a small suburban villa. The one servant of the establishment was out, so the mistress herself opened the door.

"What do you want?" she asked, rather sharply, not much liking his appearance.

The man looked at her, opened his eyes wide as if struck with amazement, and said:

"Well, madam, I don't want anything. I see I've made a mistake. The fact is, I've come to the wrong house."

Then he murmured, but sufficiently loud for the lady to hear:

"What a complexion! Never saw such a lovely one in all my life! The pink and white seem to melt into one another. Beautiful! beautiful! If all ladies had such complexions, I might as well go into the workhouse at once!"

The lady had listened to his eulogy on her complexion with visible pleasure, and, noticing that the man had a box under his arm, asked:

"Have you anything to sell?"

"Well, madam I have, and I haven't, at least, not to you; for you don't require what I have to sell. So I'll say good day, madam, and must apologize for troubling you."

"Wait a minute. What is it you have to sell?" inquired the lady, her curiosity being aroused.

"I have, madam—I repeat, it is no good to you—I have, madam, a wonderful wash for the complexion. It's called the 'lily and rose blend,' and is prepared from a recipe nearly a hundred years old, and was used with fascinating effect by some of the great beauties of France. But, good day, madam. I won't detain you any longer; as I said before, you don't require a complexion wash. Art, madam, great as it is, cannot compete with Nature."

He gave an intense glance of admiration at the lady, took off his hat, retreated two steps, and then stopped to fiddle with the clasp of his box.

"Is it really good for the complexion?" asked the lady.

"Wonderful, madam, wonderful! but as I have said——"

"How much is it a bottle?"

"One shilling, madam, or two bottles for one and nine. But——"

"I'm half inclined to try a bottle," hesitated the lady.

"Of course, madam, if you feel charitably disposed, and would like to make a present of a bottle or two to some lady friend who suffers from the great detriment to beauty, a bad complexion—good complexions are very rare, madam—I say, should you feel charitably disposed, madam, why, that's another thing."

"Well, I'll take a bottle."

"Two for one and nine, madam," said the man, insinuatingly.

"Very well, give me two, then."

"Thank you, madam. Good-day. I'm extremely obliged to you, madam."

Said the lady to herself as she walked indoors: "What a well-spoken man—quite gentlemanly. It's a pity he can't get some better employment than peddling."

Said the man to himself as he walked down the street, with a boundless, prairie-like smile on his face: "That woman has about the worst complexion I've ever seen in my life! It almost made me bilious to look at her. What gulible creatures women are! If women were fish, how they would bite!"

The New Postage-Stamps.

On Washington's birthday, February 22, 1890, an entire new series of postage-stamps were issued, comprising the same denominations as those which they displaced. The stamps differ in form from the old series, being about one-eighth smaller in size and nearly square.

The designs contain as the leading feature the portraits of personages of great eminence in American history. The portraits are in medallion, with a heavily shaded background, and set in an ornamental frame containing the words and figures expressive of the object and value of the stamps.

The one-cent stamp contains a profile bust, after Rubricht, of Benjamin Franklin, printed in ultramarine blue.

On the two-cent stamp is a profile bust, after Houdon, of George Washington, looking to the left, on an oval disk, printed in carmine.

The three-cent stamp is a profile bust, after Powers, of Andrew Jackson, on an ovel disk, brinted in purple.

The four-cent stamp contains a portrait of Abraham Lincoln, after a photograph from life, three-quarters face, looking to the right. The color is chocolate.

On the five-cent stamp is a portrait of General Grant, after a photograph from life, three-quarters face, looking to the right, color light-brown.

The six-cent denomination has a portrait of James A. Garfield, after a photograph from life, three-quarters face. The color of the stamp has not yet been fully determined upon.

The ten-cent stamp contains a portrait of Daniel Webster, after a daguerreotype from life, three-quarters face, looking to the left, color milori green.

The fifteen-cent denomination has a portrait of Henry Clay, after a daguerreotype from life. The color is deepblue.

On the thirty-cent stamp is a profile bust of Thomas Jefferson, after Coracchi, color black.

The ninety-cent denomination contains a profile bust of Commodore O. H. Perry, after Walcott's statue. The color is orange.

The old stamps will of course continue to be received in payment of postage, but no more will be printed.

There will be no change in the current special delivery, postage due, or newspaper and periodical stamps; neither will the stamps on the stamped envelopes or on the letter-sheet envelopes be changed at present.

Two Left Hands and No Head.

The author of "Tom Brown" tells us of a nurse that watched over Tom's infancy, who was gifted with "two left hands and no head." How often this anomalous individual is found outside of the nursery! In the kitchen she is always dropping dishes and making the fortune of the crockery dealers. In school he is always at the foot of his class, rather by reason of a certain mental carelessness and inaptitude than because of positive stupidity. In politics he is constantly making those blunders which statesmen pronounce worse than crime. In society, by various contretemps and maladroit remarks, he blazes his way through life. If there is a corn under the table, he is sure to step on it; if there is a sore and sensitive heart, he is sure to probe the wound with his bungling lancet, and without the least intention of hurting any one's feelings. Sometimes this man with two left hands finds his way into the pulpit, and then, alas, his awkward work is often disastrous indeed. He can not perceive the difference between foolish preaching and the foolishness of preaching. He can not be made to believe that a word in due season is any better than a word out of season. In any walk of life this man seems to have no innate conception of little proprieties or the small amenities. A course of action is always in his eyes, lawful or unlawful, never expedient or inexpedient. Very often such a man labors under the delusion that he is usually frank and honest, and, if he gets into trouble through his inveterate bungling, he is likely to pride himself on being a martyr to the truth, where in reality he deserves no more honor for his bravery than the man who runs his head against a hornet's nest. However, many a man who starts out in life in this sad condition is by no means a hopeless case. By recognizing his besetting faults, by taking the advice of friends, by putting himself under the tutelage of a judicious wife, by care and thought and prayer, by looking at the "other side of the shield," and by recognizing the rights of other people, he can often become ambidextrous, and even grow a head with brains in it. This process of development is worth striving for.—Golden Rule.

An Absent-Minded Farmer.

A Scotch farmer who was a little absent-minded was one day going into Perth with a load of hay. He led the horse out of the stable, but instead of backing it into the trams of the wagon he absent-mindedly led the animal along the road and never as much as looked behind him till he walked into the yard, leading the horse, where the hay was to be delivered. "Whaur will I back into?" he cried to a stableman standing by. "Back in what?" asked the man. "The hay, you stupid idiot." "What hay? Ye've nae hay, ye daft gowk." Turning round, to his consternation the farmer for the first time apprehended the fact that he had left the wagon at home and brought the horse alone. In his hurry to repair the error he started off at a trot and was half way back to his own farm before he realized the fact that he had left the horse behind.—Scottish American.

As Loving and Sentimental as Ever.

"I don't think Jones has been indulging too much," said his kindly believing spouse, "but still I thought it rather odd of him that he should wrench the knocker off the front door and bring it up to me as I sat in bed, saying that he'd gathered another rose for me out of the garden. Poor, dear, simple boy! He's just as loving and sentimental as ever he was."—Troy Press.

THERE is said to be a tree at Monticello, Fla., which bears three kinds of fruit—quinces, pears and apples.

A Woman Two Hundred Years Old.

A case is on record of a woman who lived to this advanced age, but it is scarcely necessary to state that it was in "the olden time." Nowadays too many women do not live half their allotted years. The mortality due to functional derangements in the weaker sex is simply frightful, to say nothing of the indescribable suffering which makes life scarcely worth the living to so many women. But for these sufferers there is a certain relief. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will positively cure leucorrhea, painful menstruation, prolapsus, pain in the ovaries, weak back; in short, all those complaints to which so many women are martyrs. It is the only guaranteed cure; see guarantee on bottle-wrapper.

CLEANSE the liver, stomach, bowels, and whole system by using Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

True Courage.

De Smythe—Who is that affected specimen of humanity making toward us?

De Johnes—That's Dumley, and despite his harmless appearance he's a courageous man.

"Well, his looks belie him. But what makes you think he has courage?"

"He eats restaurant hash."—Texas Siftings.

The Great Spring Medicine.

It will be gratifying to all who realize the vital necessity of purifying the blood to know that Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup can be relied upon as a blood medicine. Mr. B. C. Robinson, of Marshall, Mich., says:

GENTLEMEN—I have suffered intensely from biliousness and rheumatism for over three years, and had tried so many remedies that I had lost all faith. Hearing of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup I bought a bottle and found it helped me. I have now used four bottles, and it has restored my liver and kidneys to healthy action, and done more to purify my blood than anything I have ever taken. I am pleased to recommend it as a wonderful blood medicine. Very truly yours,

B. C. ROBINSON, Marshall, Mich.

Sold by all druggists. Prepared only by The Charles Wright Medicine Company, Detroit, Mich.

He Wanted More Time.

Gripp—Well, doctor, did you succeed in breaking up Cable's fever?

Young Doctor—I would have done so in another week had I been given half a chance.

"They didn't call in another doctor, did they?"

"No, but this morning, just as I was noticing an improvement in Cable, he died."—The Epoch.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

NEWSPAPERS in reporting the ground rents made by earthquakes generally give the hole particulars.

The Handsomest Lady in Town

Remarked to a friend the other day that she knew Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs was a superior remedy, as it stopped her cough instantly when other cough remedies had no effect whatever. So to prove this and convince you of its merit, any druggist will give you a Sample Bottle Free. Large size, 50c and $1.

"I WISH I was a pudding, mamma." "Why?" "'Cause I should have lots of sugar put into me."

Six Novels Free, will be sent by Cragin & Co., Philada., Pa., to any one in the U. S. or Canada, postage paid, upon receipt of 25 Dobbins' Electric Soap wrappers. See list of novels on circulars around each bar. Soap for sale by all grocers.

THE indiscretion of our first parents was a mighty good thing for tailors and dressmakers.

IN 1850 "Brown's Bronchial Troches" were introduced, and their success as a cure for Colds, Coughs, Asthma and Bronchitis has been unparalleled.

NINE theaters in London are managed by women. It is safe to say that there are no flies on them.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

A WOMAN'S rites are usually dedicated to a male god.—New Haven News.

Your Blood

Needs a good cleansing this spring, in order to overcome the impurities which have accumulated during the winter, or which may be hereditary, and cause you much suffering. We confidently recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as the very best spring medicine. By its use the blood is purified, enriched and vitalized, that tired feeling is entirely overcome, and the whole body given strength and vigor. The appetite is restored and sharpened, the digestive organs are toned, and the kidneys and liver invigorated.

"I was feeling very much worn out, and found nothing to benefit me till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have now taken several bottles and it has made me feel perfectly well. I was also troubled with sores breaking out in my mouth, but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla have had no further trouble from them. I have recommended it to others, who have been very much benefited by using it." MRS. MARY ADDERLY, 327 North Water Street, Decatur, Ill.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Bermuda Bottled.

"You must go to Bermuda. If you do not I will not be responsible for the consequences." "But, doctor, I can afford neither the time nor the money." "Well, if that is impossible, try

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL.

I sometimes call it Bermuda Bottled, and many cases of

CONSUMPTION,

Bronchitis, Cough or Severe Cold

I have CURED with it; and the advantage is that the most sensitive stomach can take it. Another thing which commends it is the stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites which it contains. You will find it for sale at your Druggist's, but see you get the original SCOTT'S EMULSION."

PENSIONS! 25 YEARS' EXPERIENCE. Apply to MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Att'ys, 1419 F St., Washington, D.C. Branch offices, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago.

$75.00 to $250.00 A MONTH can be made working for us. Persons preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. Johnson & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

PATENTS--PENSIONS—How to get a pension Quick. Send for digest of Pension and Bounty Laws. Send for Inventors' Guide or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Attorney at Law, Washington, D. C.

SOLDIERS and Heirs write us for new Pension laws. Sent free. Deserters relieved. Success or no fee. A. W. McCormick & Sons, Washington, D. C., & Cincinnati, O.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

YOUNG MEN wanted to learn telegraphy. Situations furnished on railroads. Address Valentines' School, Janesville, Wis.

TELEGRAPHY We guarantee a good paying position to every graduate. American School of Telegraphy, Madison, Wis.

PENSIONS PATENTS and Government claims of all kinds prosecuted by THOS. MCSHERRY, Attorney at Law, Washington, D. C., and Fremont, O.

AGENTS in every County. $10.00 a Week and Expenses. Apply immediately inclosing stamp. MANUFACTURER, Box 182, Hartford, Conn.

Syrup of Figs,

Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds and headaches, and curing habitual constipation.

SPEAKING about alacrity, you should observe a clerk tack up an early-closing notice on a store door.—Boston Globe.

A box wind matches free to smokers of "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigar.

THE fruit peddler never resorts to legal measures.—Puck.

ST. JACOBS OIL

TRADE MARK

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAIN

CURES PROMPTLY AND PERMANENTLY

LUMBAGO,

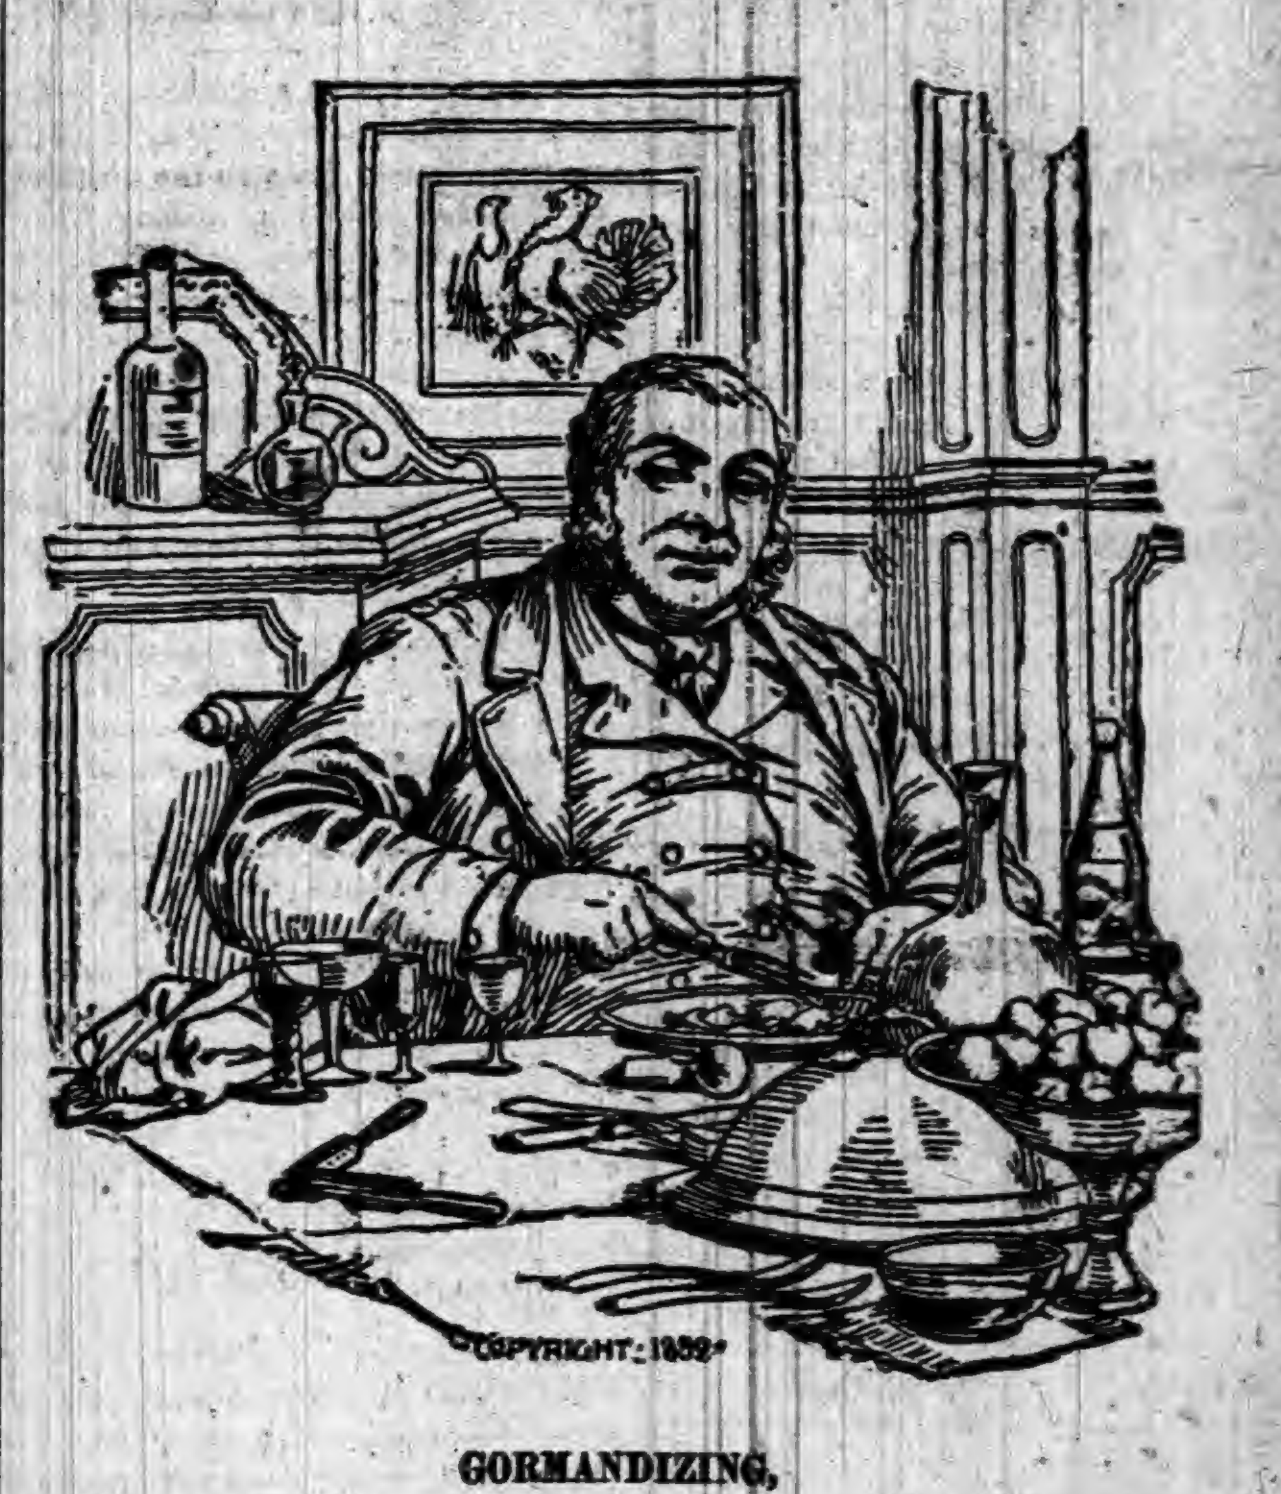
Rheumatism, Headache, Toothache,

SPRAINS,

Neuralgia, Swellings, Frost-bites,

BRUISES.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.



GORMANDIZING,

or overeating, or the partaking of too rich and indigestible food, is a common cause of discomfort and suffering. To relieve the stomach and bowels from such overloading, a full dose of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets is the best remedy. They operate gently, yet thoroughly and without griping, nausea, or other unpleasant effects.

If the too free indulgence in such intemperate eating has deranged digestion, causing dyspepsia and biliousness, attended with a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in mouth in morning, on arising, drowsiness after meals, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity and hypochondria—then you need to follow up the use of the Pellets with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, to tone up the stomach, invigorate the liver, and set all the processes of digestion at work. While curing indigestion, it purifies the blood, cleansing the system from all humors and blood-poisons—no matter of what name or nature, or from what cause arising. Unlike other blood-purifiers, it operates equally well at any season of the year. It contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to ferment in the stomach and derange digestion. On the contrary, it retards fermentation and promotes all the digestive and assimilative processes. It is as wonderful and peculiar in curative results as in its chemical composition. There is nothing similar to it in composition or approaching it in results. Therefore, don't be duped and induced to take some substitute, said to be "just as good," that the dealer may make a larger profit.

Manufactured by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

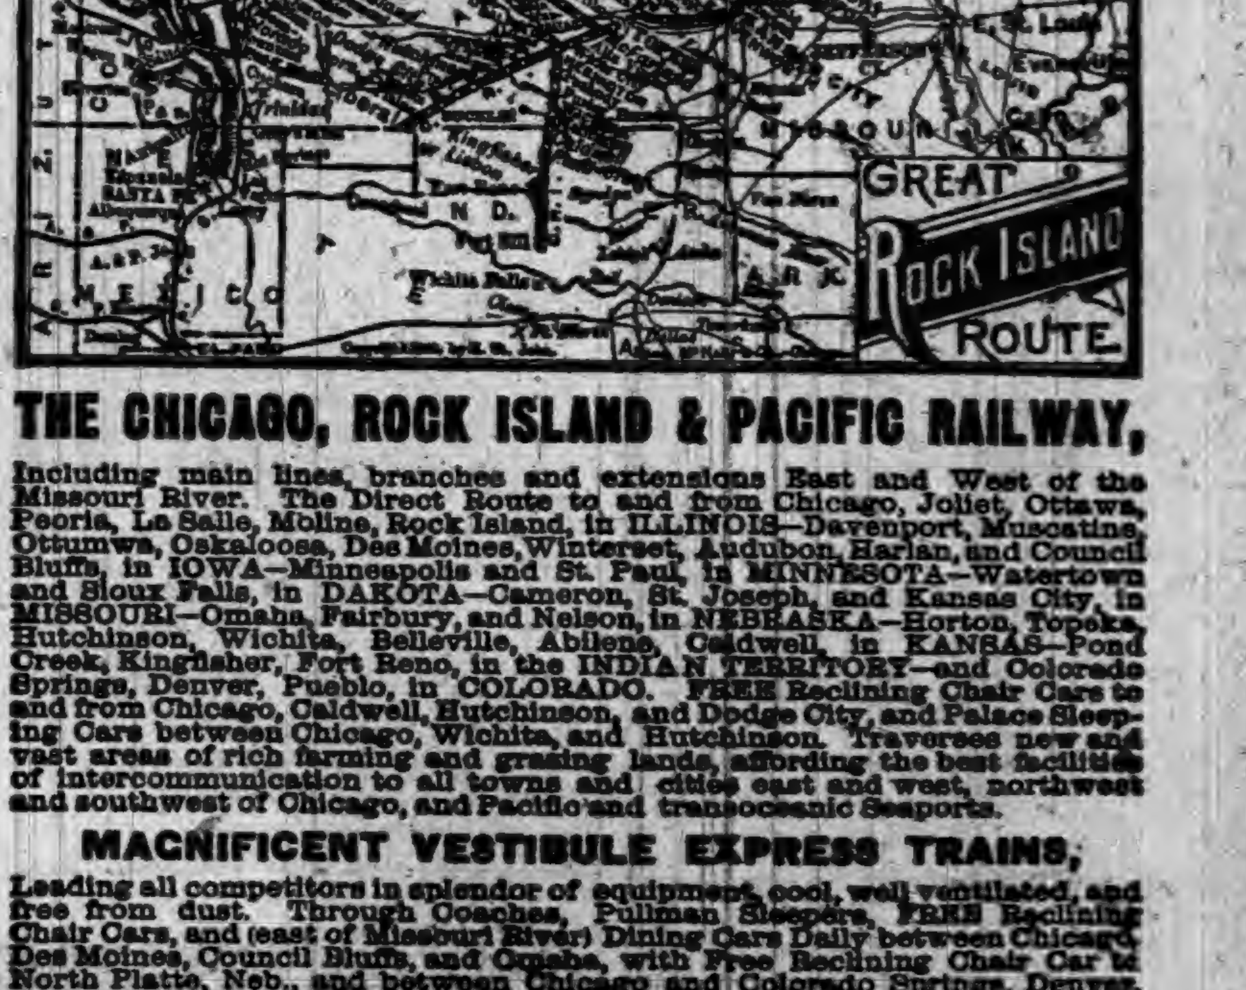
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS. Red Cross Diamond Brand. The only reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. Ladies, ask Druggist for the Diamond Brand, in red metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Philada., Pa.

WILCOX'S COMPOUND TANSY PILLS! Safe, Certain and Effectual. At Druggists or by mail. Send 4c. for "Woman's Safe Guard." Wilcox Specific Co., Phila., Pa.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LOW PRICE RAILROAD LANDS & FREE Government LANDS. MILLIONS of Acres in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. SEND FOR Publications with maps describing THE BEST Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to Settlers. SENT FREE. Address CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Commissioner, ST. PAUL, MINN.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

N. U. F. W. ....No. 20—90

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

CARPETS.

Have you seen the handsome new designs in Moquetts and Brussells carpets just arrived? See the new patterns for 1890. See how much difference from what you are accustomed to look at.

NEW CURTAINS,
NEW MATTINGS,
NEW RUGS,
In the same department.

Dress Goods.

Scotland has just sent us some novelties in

TARTAN CLAN PLAIDS,

Stuarts, McGregors, Robroys, Victorias, MacLeans, MacKenzies, etc. Every lady should have a costume of these lovely new plaids.

Neckwear.

Novelties in Tabots, Scarfs, Collars. Four-in-hand Sets, Ties.

SATEENS.

American Sateens, 8c. 10 and 12½c.

Imported Sateens. 18, 20 and 23 cents.

RIBBONS.

The sale of ribbons is very large. A very fashionable trimming for summer dresses.

Our Prices are Low.

We are always able to match color in Dress Goods, and with the correct shade in

KID GLOVES.

It's no wonder the glove counter is so well patronized. 5 Hook Lace Kids. 58c.

China Silks, And Surahs.

Immensely popular. New ideas in printed Chinas, 50c. 75c. 85c. and $1.00. Surahs in every conceivable shade.

CHINA MATTINGS.

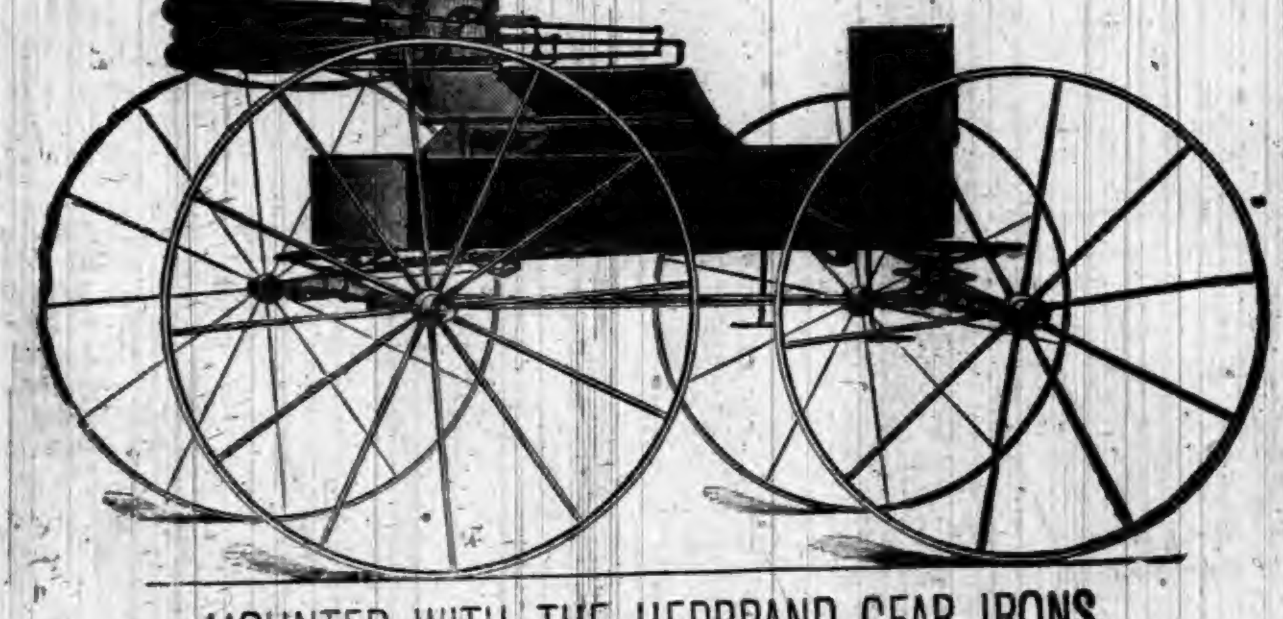
The Cleanest and Coolest Floor Covering for 12½c. 15c. 20c. and 25c. per yard.

SAMPLES MAILED FREE.

ROOT & COMPANY.

ECKHART CARRIAGE COMPANY,

AUBURN, INDIANA.



MOUNTED WITH THE HERBRAND GEAR IRONS.

BETTER STYLES, BETTER FACILITIES, BETTER WORK, Better Accommodations.

FOR the past sixteen years we have made and sold to the people of DeKalb County, Buggies and Carriages of all kinds, and have always justified our claim that we POSITIVELY make the BEST in the COUNTRY for the money, until now it has become a common saying that if you want a GOOD BUGGY, one that will stand the knocks,

BUY THE ECKHART BUGGY.

WE have handsomer and more thoroughly made work this year than ever before and expect to be able to furnish our customers, this year, without delay. For the accommodation of our customers we have established the following repositories:

At St. Joe, Ind., under the management of	J. K. Stafford.
At Butler, Ind., " " "	Maxwell & Shoub.
At Corunna, Ind., " " "	P. N. Calkin.
At LaOtto, Ind., " " "	E. A. Ditmars.

WHERE we will at all times keep a full line. We will also keep our Repository at our Factory well filled with the styles most in demand.

Close Cash Buyers,

Come and see if I cannot

Save You Money,

THESE HARD TIMES.

LOOK!

Wood Seat Chairs	$ 2 00
Cane Chairs	$ 3 00
Bedsteads $1 00 and up.
Marble Tables	$ 4 50
Chamber Suit	$16 00
Marble Chamber Suit	$30 00
Center Table	$ 1 50

Mortuary Goods

For one-half what you have been paying. Come and see. First door east of Bank, Butler, Ind.

S. L. HAMLIN.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester" "ADHESIVE COUNTERS" and you can walk, run or jump in them.

ON THE WING.

Items and Ideas Found by the Courier Reporter in His Journey.

Joseph Cochran living west of town, is in possession of the most peculiar curiosities in the line of freaks of nature that we have had the opportunity of seeing. He owns a young horse which has as fine a mustache as that worn on the upper lip of the majority of our young men. This horse however, is very unassuming and makes no effort to display his silken upper lip. Joe is one of that class of farmers who believe in reading a little once in a while. He is satisfied that the COURIER will do its part in making home cheerful and advancing refinement, and has read it, lo! these many years.

Who is it that reads the COURIER? Those that are fully awake to the merits of the best paper in DeKalb county. Who says it is the best paper? Those farmers and others who have read it from one to fifteen years. For proof of this assertion, just go through the rural districts and hear the verdict, which is, "I could not get along without it."

John Olinger is one of those sterling farmers who appreciate a good county paper, as a relief from the cares of life. He has read the COURIER for some years and would not do without it. Love nor money will not atone for its non-appearance once a week.

Wilse McClellan is one of those enterprising young farmers, who are striving by the sweat of their brow to acquire the wherewithal to make home happy and life a success. He believes in reading the COURIER as a feature bearing upon that end.

G. H. Draggoo, north of Garrett, is a sturdy farmer who is inclined to think that life has better things in store than a continuance of ceaseless toil. He will study the redeeming features of his surroundings as they are deliberated upon through the columns of the COURIER. This is a proper move in the right direction.

Give it time, place and opportunity, and the COURIER will tell you a great many things you don't know. As a delicious morsel for the mental appetite, it is equal to a dish of Boston baked beans and a ham sandwich for the physical appetite.

Approaching the threshold of the Auburn grist mill a few days since, the scribe found the institution had undergone an overhauling from cellar to garret. A full set of roller process machinery has been put in place, and the proprietors Rogers & Kichler are prepared to supply the trade with first-class flour, meal, chop feed and in fact everything manufactured by a first-class mill of this kind. They have also found that a good county paper is the essential element to success in business. To this end, the COURIER is read in the above establishment, with a growing interest.

The proof of value in a certain thing is its acceptance with the larger number of consumers. A testimonial given by a patient who has used a certain remedy with satisfactory results, is taken as the best evidence pertaining to the quality and healing properties of that particular kind of medicine, and those who are afflicted seek those remedial agents which have the greatest number of bona-fide testimonials. A newspaper will admit of a comparison in this respect. It is an indisputable fact that the prime educators of to-day are the many newspapers which are published and distributed over this broad land. Hence the newspaper is practically a history of events, and as such it is generally accepted. The best evidence that a paper can have, as to its merit and educating qualities is its universal acceptance with the people, who take delight in rallying to its support. The COURIER will be at the front in all proper ways.

Samuel Fretz is one of our fellow townsmen, who know the value of a good paper. He has arranged to have the COURIER come to his house every week, so that he may learn of the things going on in his own county. A good idea.

Approaching David Butler, a few days since, he was found to be a very genial, good-natured sort of a fellow. He is an enterprising young man, who is striving against the obstacles of the world, in an effort to gain a livlihood from the agency business. We bespeak success for his venture. He will read the COURIER for what it contains. A very proper thing for a DeKalb county citizen to do.

In passing through the country one is struck very forcibly by the picturesque scenery that meets his gaze. The broad area of tillable land is a thing of beauty to behold. Nature in all her glory is marvelously beautiful.

A few days since the "scribe" was afforded the opportunity of passing a few minutes in pleasant conversation with John DeWitt, who lives a few miles north of Garrett. Mr. D., is a good conversationalist and a thorough farmer. While his time is mostly occupied in taking care of his farm, he recognizes the fact that it is highly important for wife to know what is going on in DeKalb county. To that end, he has secured the presence of the COURIER at his house once a week.

Anyone who has ever met Solomon Olinger knows that he is one of those matter-of-fact gentlemen who take advantage of a good thing when he sees it. He has for some time felt that the COURIER was the paper he ought to read, which will be done for the next year to come by him and his family.

One of the real good farmers who live in Richland township, is W. R. Fountain. He is a very sociable fellow, who believes in advancing in every way possible. Being considerable of a reader, he is inclined to think that a paper which is fully awake to the interests of county people generally, is the one which ought to be read and to verify his statement. The COURIER is fully endorsed by him.

The "scribe" had occasion a few days since, to call at the Eagle Iron Works, at the Junction, where he found everything nicely situated. The eagle has flapped its wings and expects soon to soar to a height that will be profitable to the gentlemen who own the institution, and a very valuable business enterprise added to the little berg in which it is located. People in that vicinity have great reason to rejoice over the fact that the men who are at the head of this shop mean business and expect to stop at nothing short of success. It may be added that the COURIER is read at this establishment.

A visit to the "News" office, at Avilla, convinced the scribe that the paper was in the hands of a gentlemen fully awake to the demands of a good paper. The editor Mr. Askew, is a first-class newspaper man and success is crowning his efforts in that capacity.

You might just as well ask your neighbor to lend you his bible, as to ask him to borrow his COURIER. While the latter does not begin to compare with the former, yet when a family once becomes attached to it, it is held in sacred keeping from which a parting would be very distasteful.

The "penman" called upon Samuel Watson, of this place, a few days since and found him to be a man fully understanding his position as a DeKalb county citizen. He is fully aware that a household without a good county paper is not complete and to prove that he means just what he says, Mr. W. has arranged to have the COURIER come to his home every week.

J. N. Grover is one of Auburn's enterprising young men who are interested in an education. He feels quite certain that a good county paper is a very essential medium through which a knowledge of events is to be gained and has secured the presence of the COURIER in his library. A young man cannot go very far in the wrong, who is in the habit of reading good literature.

A Theatrical Surprise.

The comedy "Wild Oats," now having such a phenomenal run at the Park Theatre, has a somewhat remarkable history. In the year 1886 an actor, who had striven for years for fame and popularity without favorable results, becoming disgusted with fickle fortune, and fancying his life a failure, suddenly disappeared from the theatrical world, and was no more heard of for years. Being of a roving disposition and loving solitude he found his way to Colorado and located in a beautiful valley surrounded by lofty snow-capped mountains. There amid nature's solitude he lived by fishing and hunting; his lonely life only being varied by an occasional visit to some neighboring camp to procure the necessities of life. During his leisure hours he amused himself by writing songs, comedies, dramas, etc., only to tear them up as fast as written until at length the plot and characters of a very amusing comedy suggested themselves and "Wild Oats" was written. This seemed to strike his fancy and the old fascination for the stage was again strong upon him. He made up his mind to once more tempt fortune with his new comedy and immediately made arrangements to quit his mountain retreat and mingle with the world. His worldly effects were soon packed and all made ready for a start, when a terrific snowstorm, so common to the mountains of Colorado set in, and he was snowed in for two weeks. He waited patiently till a thaw came, but again was his object defeated, as the sudden thaw so saturated the ground that a tremendous land slide took place which entirely covered up his little cabin, he barely escaping with his life. "Wild Oats" was thus buried under a mountain of earth, rocks and trees. Making his way to the nearest camp he secured the assistance of a couple of miners and returned to the spot where his lost treasure was buried. After two weeks of hard digging the cabin was reached and "Wild Oats" was once more brought to light. Coming east and joining hands with a well-known manager and actor, the piece was produced in Chicago and made a most pronounced success. Elegant printing was then gotten out, and the play booked in St. Louis, Kansas City and all through the Ohio circuit, and is now pronounced the greatest laughing success ever presented to the public. The play abounds in the most sparkling and racy dialogues and comic situations. The audience are scarcely through laughing at one situation until they are compelled to scream at one another. The songs and dances, duets, quartets, topical songs and medley are of the most interesting nature, and the leading characters assumed by Denville Howe and Oscar Sisson keep an audience laughing continually. Miss Nellie Forrester, is a charming soubrette. Miss Eva Forrester, as the loving daughter, "who cuts her mother out," is capital in her part. The gentle Elsadore, by Miss Viola Howe, is prettily rendered. Miss Edith Rice, as "the widow," is good. Mr. Laughead, as the "Wicked Anarchist," is just blood-thirsty enough; but the stuttering dude, by Wm. McIntire, must be seen; it is impossible to describe him. The play is a "bonanza" to its owners, and both play and company have made the greatest hit ever made in this city.—"Times" Philadelphia, Pa.

Will appear at the Opera House this city on May 22, 1890.

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE
OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

CORREPONDENCE.

CONCORD.

Belle Milton is sick.

Matt Scott is at Garrett.

The singing school is well attended.

Clyde Woodcox was at St. Joe Monday.

Rev. C. Smith and wife returned home last Sunday.

E. J. Boyle came back from Walborn, Mich., the 24th.

G. W. Draggoo went to Colburn, this state on business.

Will Baker is putting up some fine fence of picket and wire.

Mrs. Abe Sherrick is very sick at present writing, spinal disease.

Frank White and wife, of St. Joe, were the guests of Eck Culbertson Sunday.

Mrs. Lavina Johnson was at St. Joe last Saturday to purchase new furniture.

Charlie Koch should have a big wagon for the number of girls he piles in his buggy.

Henry Baker and W. Scott are improving the appearance of home by adding new porches.

R. D. Gillson and Ida Koch were the guests of Mrs. J. Updegraff, of Waterloo, last Tuesday.

Archie Beam met with a serious accident last Thursday while loading logs, by crushing his right hand, it is very painful.

Miss Mary Young died at her home in Duluth, Wis., her remains were brought back for interment in the Newville cemetery.

Grandma Clear was called home to Ada, Ohio, by the serious illness of two daughters. Mrs. R. B. Clear accompanied her.

AUBURN JUNCTION.

(Last week.)

Ollie Werntz is building a new addition to his house.

Spring has come at last and so has "Sam" with his fish wagon.

There are fifteen scholars from the Junction attending school at Auburn. What is the matter with our school? This don't speak well for it.

The U. S. express company has finished their new building, and as soon as arrangements can be perfected, this will be a regular receiving and billing office.

David Essig has resigned his position as day target man, and will begin work on the Wabash section. The agents give him the credit of keeping the passenger house the cleanest and neatest of any one who has ever had this position.

A rather sensational affair occurred here Tuesday, which reminded us forcibly of the old saying about the family skeleton in the closet. But it seems this skeleton was not strictly speaking, a family one, as it belonged exclusively to the male side of the house, who jealously guarded it and closeted it from the eyes of the vulgar public, and his wife. But the sheriff and his deputy appeared very suddenly in the afternoon, and the citizens had the satisfaction of seeing the skeleton "take a walk." The wronged wife has the moral support and sympathy of every person in the Junction.

SPENCERVILLE.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith is seriously ill.

Frank Stinemen and family are better.

Miss Mabel Murray was at Hicksville, last week.

Obe Cool was in town this week investigating his political prospects.

Miss Blanche Nichols gained the prize at the spelling school Saturday evening.

Mrs. Chilcoat, of near Toledo, Ohio, is visiting her brothers, T. S. and J. H. Murray.

Mr. G. Wise and wife visited their son Sylvester and family at Hicksville, Ohio, over Sunday.

The township Sunday school convention was held in the Methodist church on Saturday last.

The score stood 12 to 6 in favor of Spencerville in the junior ball game between Spencerville and St. Joe.

The dead old town of Spencerville is crowded to its utmost capacity. No less than eight houses contain two families, and still there is a demand for rooms.

LEO.

J. D. Myers has moved to Auburn.

D. D. Schlatter lost a good horse last week.

Henry Disler expects to purchase property in Leo.

J. A. Myers has taken up his residence at Ft. Wayne.

O. D. McCrory has purchased the Myers property.

C. J. Schlatter has traded his store for land in Missouri.

Fred Lauts made a nice delivery of fruit trees here last week.

A daughter of J. Swartz was married to a gentleman from Illinois last Saturday.

J. B. Haifley contemplates putting a stock of groceries in connection with his drugstore.

Cecil Rhodes and Lon Gibson, of Newville brought about the trade in the store of C. J. Schlatter.

Rev. Slater will arrive to take charge of the Salem circuit of the Lutheran church this week.

John Conrad has opened his cheese factory for the season of 1890, he makes a very fine quality of cheese.

Wm. N. Myers has returned from his trip in eastern Ohio, where he went a few days ago to try a law suit.

L. Hursh, formerly of Hurshtown, and son-in-law of A. Fox, of this place, was killed Sunday May 4, in the east yards, while inspecting some cars.

Erick Bros. has purchased the entire stock of groceries and hardware owned by C. J. Schlatter. Mrs. Current has purchased the stock of dry goods and building.

AGENTS to canvass for the sale of our Home-Grown Nursery Stock WANTED. Most Liberal Terms
Unequaled facilities. One of the largest, oldest-established, and best known nurseries in the country. Address,
W. & T. SMITH, Geneva Nursery.
Established in 1846. Geneva, N. Y.

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court, May term, 1890. Fredreick J. Lieberenz and Catharine Lieberenz are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, on foreclosure of mortgage, by the Real Estate and Improvement Company of Baltimore City, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 43rd juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 19, 1890.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 2nd day of May, 1890. George A. Bishop, Clerk.
James E. Rose Attorney. 19-23

SHOES!

OXFORD'S

Ladies' Fine Shoes

—AT—

Wilson's Shoe Store

A fine shoe with leather counter for only .... $1.50.

Hand sewed, hand turned, in French Kid, on Common Sense and Opera Lasts, Can't-be-beat-shoe for Ladies', Misses', and children's walking shoes and slippers, Lots of them, Latest styles and colors, working shoes for Men and Boys, Fine shoes in Calf, Kangaroo and Dongola. Boots for $2.00 and upwards.

TERMS, CASH.
Repairing promptly done.
Call and see us. Yours truly,

J. N. Wilson & Son,
Waterloo and Auburn.

SLIPPERS.

BOOTS.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.

Carpets! Carpets!

ALL GRADES. ALL MAKES.

Axminsters, Moquetts, Velvets, Tapestries, Body Brussels, and Ingrains. Never were carpets sold cheaper than this season. We show the correct styles in all the new colors and designs, none better to be had.

OUR PRICES THE LATEST.

Buy the Lowell Ingrain Carpets, "wound on a hollow stick." Best all-carpets on earth. We are selling agents for them in Ft. Wayne.

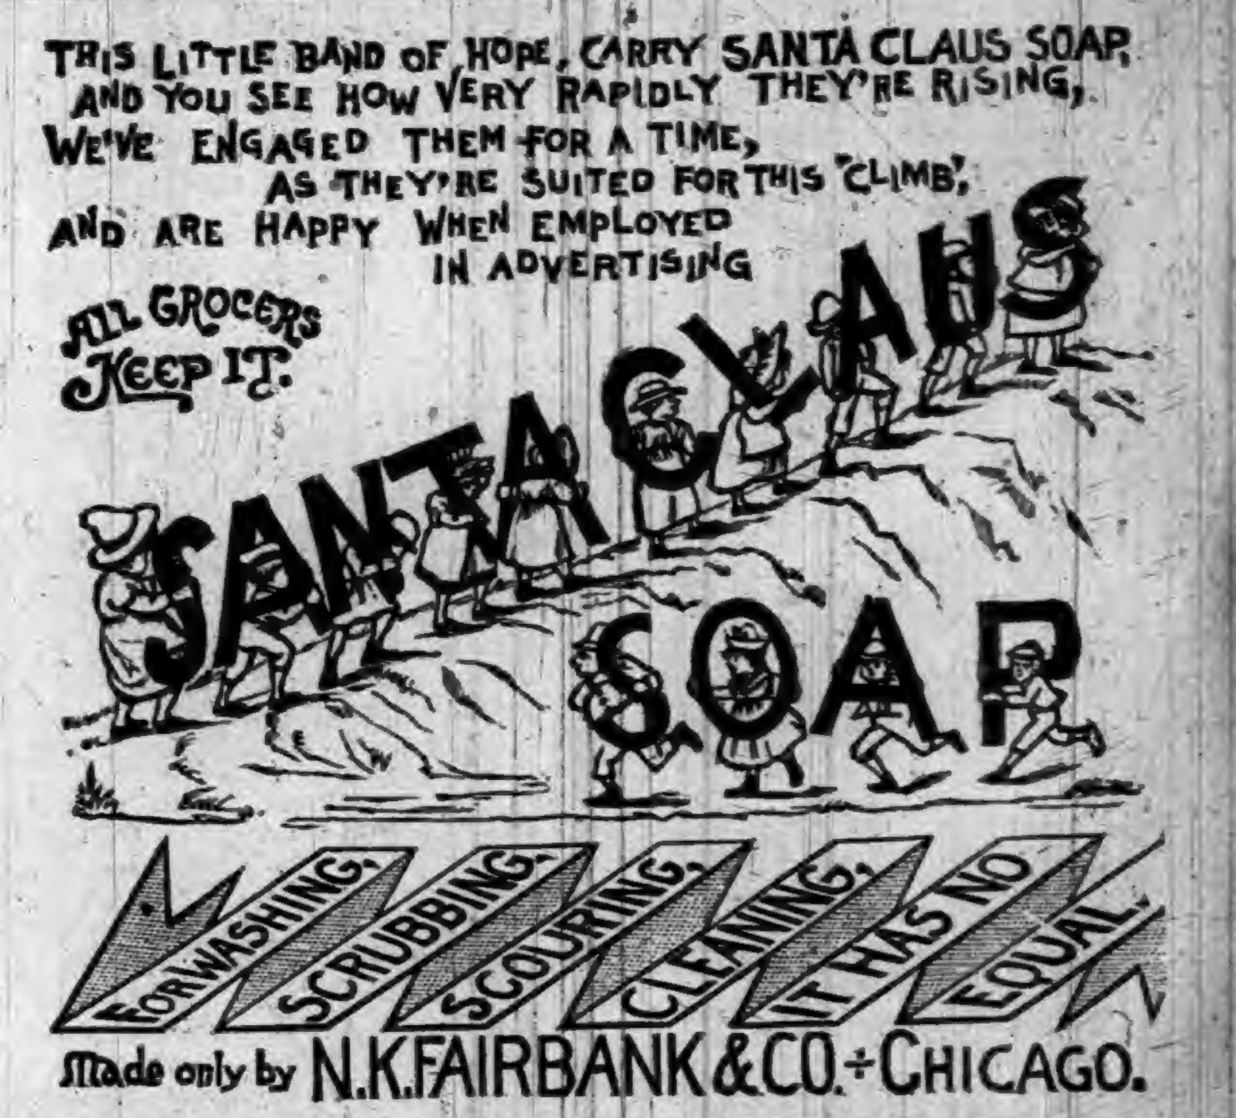
In a few words, we are the leading carpet dealers of Ft. Wayne. Carry the largest line of all grades of carpets and curtain goods, and expect to do a larger business this spring than ever before. A new and elegant line of

Straw Mattings,

Curtains and draperies in endless variety, new and pleasing to the eye. It will pay you to come one hundred miles to see these goods before furnishing your homes.

Louis Wolf & Co.,
54 CALHOUN ST., FT. WAYNE, IND.

If you purchase Dry Goods or Carpets of us to the amount of Ten Dollars or upwards, we will pay your railroad fare.



THIS LITTLE BAND OF HOPE, CARRY SANTA CLAUS SOAP, AND YOU SEE HOW VERY RAPIDLY THEY'RE RISING,
WE'VE ENGAGED THEM FOR A TIME, AS THEY'RE SUITED FOR THIS "CLIMB,"
AND ARE HAPPY WHEN EMPLOYED IN ADVERTISING
ALL GROCERS KEEP IT.
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
FOR WASHING, SCRUBBING, SCOURING, CLEANING, IT HAS NO EQUAL.
Made only by N.K.FAIRBANK & CO. ÷ CHICAGO.

For All Kinds Of

Finest Millinery, Notions, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Furnishing Goods,

And Articles for Fancy Work, it will pay you to call on

J. C. JOHNSTON, Waterloo, Ind.

000 000 000

WE keep the largest assortment, very latest styles, lowest prices. The best facilities for doing business and the largest force of experienced help of any establishment of the kind in this part of the country.

000 000 000

IN addition to our Millinery Department, we pay close attention to other lines above mentioned, which means a great variety of articles too numerous to mention.

000 000 000

WE shall continue as in the past to add to our stock, novelties, both in millinery and our stock generally, as fast as they appear in the eastern markets, and will be at all times ready to furnish our customers with just what they want, as we keep a large assortment of each article in our stock varying in prices and qualities, in proof of which, do as others are doing, call and be convinced. Thanking you for past favors,

I am yours truly,

J. C. JOHNSTON,
WATERLOO, IND.

COURIER--Supplement, Auburn, Ind., Thursday, May 15, 1890.

GRAND AUCTION SALE!

SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1890, OF ALL UNSOLD LOTS IN THE Natural Gas Addition.

This is the chance of a lifetime to get a good building lot for a home at your own price on

SATURDAY, MAY 17, '90.

Lots in this addition are on a high elevation, affording natural and easy drainage, pure, sparkling water rises to the surface of the ground. The soil is of a sandy nature and very productive. Sale will commence at 1 o'clock. Good music will be furnished by the Auburn Cornet Band. Come one and all and bring the children.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third cash; balance in three equal deferred payments, in 6, 12 and 18 months with 6 per cent. interest.

AUBURN. INDIANA, APRIL 16, 1890.

W. H. McINTYRE, SECRETARY AUBURN MINING CO.: SIR:---I have carefully examined the records in the Recorder's, Clerk's, Auditor's and Treasurer's office of this county, in so far as it refers to the property bought of Edward J. Baker, now platted, and known as the "Natural Gas Addition," and find that you have an absolute title to the above property free from any and all encumbrance. Very respectfully, R. DEXTER TEFFT, Abstractor.

I concur in above. D. Z. HOFFMAN, Abstractor.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1890. NUMBER 21.

Post's Sacrifice Sale.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY.

Closing our stock at

Bankrupt Prices.

All Dress Goods 1-4 and 1-2 off. All our trimmings, etc., Ginghams, Prints, Muslins, at Actual cost. In fact all our entire stock at less than cost. It will pay you to call at

POST'S.

A discovery of ancient subterranean tombs similar to the Roman catacombs has been made on the Mount of Olives. They appear to have been made partly by jews and partly by christians.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

A Jackson County, West Virginia, school teacher of thirty the other day eloped with and was married to one of her pupils of the mature age of sixteen years.

CATARRH—CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—Hay Fever—A New Home Treatment

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is, that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above. ly

A lion cub at the Cincinnati Zoo is being raised by a black cat. It is very fond of pussy, and they play and frolic together most amusingly.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

The Supreme Court of Saxony has decided that boycotting is equivalent to disorderly conduct in the first degree, and punishable as such.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Mr. J. C. Warnock, Atlanta, Ga., says: I have been treated by the most prominent physicians seventeen years for kidney disease without benefit. About six weeks ago I suffered such intense pain—scarcely being able to breathe at times—I concluded to try "Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure," and after using one bottle was entirely and absolutely cured. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga., Proprietors; also, manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure for coughs, colds, asthma and consumption.

A seventy-year-old pedagogue, who has been teaching for fifty-one years, is to graduate in medicine from a Michigan college this month.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well known Nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. A steady position with a Nursery of over thirty years' standing, and a known responsibility. We want good, lively workers, and will pay well. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.

CHASE BROTHERS CO., Chicago, Ill.

A tree was felled recently at Tillamook, Oregon, that was 120 feet long, while the butt measured only one foot through.

Failures in Life.

People fail in many ways. In business, in morality, in religion, in happiness and in health. A weak heart is often an unsuspected cause of failure in life. If the blood does not circulate properly in the lungs, there is shortness of breath, asthma, etc.; in the brain dizziness, headache, etc.; in the stomach, wind, pain, indigestion, faint spells, etc.; in the liver, torpidity, congestion, etc. Pain in the left side, shoulder and stomach is caused by heart strain. For all these maladies Dr. Miles' New Cure for the heart and lungs is the best remedy. Sold, guaranteed and recomended by F. E. Davenport. Treatise free. 3

Mr. Rider Haggard's Icelandic romance, to be published next year, has for hero a yeoman whose early life is spent among the Icelandic mountains, but who finally turns viking.

The Pulpit and the Stage.

Rev. F. M. Shrout, pastor United Brethren church, Blue Mound, Kan., says: I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my parishoners thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well, gaining 26 lbs. in weight." Arthur Love, Manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes: "After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, beats 'em all, and cures when everything else fails. The greatest kindness I can do my many thousand friends is to urge them to try it." Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's drug store Regular sizes 50c. and $1.00. 3

The day after Browning's death a speculator bought up the entire edition of his last book, then just from the press, and made a large sum by sales of copies at extravagant prices.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health to the use of the great alterative and tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of kidneys, liver or stomach, of long or short standing, you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at Robbins & Mc Cord's drugstore. 3

Sparrow heads are legal tender among Michigan City youngsters, being quoted at one cent each.

An Important Matter.

Druggists everywhere report that the sales of the Restorative Nervine—a food and a medicine—are astonishing; exceeding anything they ever had, while it gives universal satisfaction in headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, sexual debility, backache, poor memory, fits, dizziness, etc. L. Burton & Co., Troy, N. Y.; Ambery & Murphy, of Battle Creek, Mich.; C. B. Woodworth & Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.; and hundreds of others state that they never handled any medicine which sold so rapidly, or gave such satisfaction. Trial bottles of this great medicine and book on nervous diseases, free at F. E. Davenport's who guarantees and recomends it. 3

BURLINGTON ROUTE.

Home Seekers' Excursions.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R, will sell on Tuesdays, April 22d and May 20th, Home Seekers' Excursion tickets at Half Rates to points in the farming regions of the west, nortwest and southwest. Limit thirty days. For folder giving details concerning tickets, rates and time of trains, and for descriptive land folder, call on your ticket agent, or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

13-15-16-19-20.

FORT WAYNE'S LATEST.

"The Fair."

A Great Department store which supplies retail merchants as well as families. Fort Wayne seems to enjoy one of the most healthy booms that it has had for years. Among the latest is the vast undertaking of the Messrs E. Shuman & Sons, who have been located in the City for the last fifteen years. The new enterprise is "The Fair" a business that occupies 27,000 square feet of space and who are now doing the largest retail business of any house in Indiana. The business is conducted by a manager, Mr. L. B. Marks, who has had 18 years experience in the business, in Chicago and New York, and is run on the same plan as John Wanamaker's store in Philadelphia, and "The Fair" and Boston Stores of Chicago. The name "The Fair" has become so prominent, that most people look at it as a small notion store 20x30 which has a 5 and 10 cent counter. "The Fair" of Fort Wayne is far different; it is utterly impossible for us to describe the magnitude of this large enterprise. Our reporter wedged his way through the crowd of eager bargain seekers, who pack the store from morning till night, and was able to put down the following: On the first floor you will find the tinware, glassware, crockeryware, hardware, jewelry, notions, stationery and fancy goods, together with departments of hats and caps and ladies' and gents' furnishings and boots and shoes. On the second floor is the trunk and valise department, furniture department, and in the basement is the stove department, and the whole third floor is devoted exclusively to the wholesale department. Country merchants, auctioneers and 5 and 10 cent store men, looking for supplies, and everybody buying to sell again, throng this department. There is a sacrifice sale every week in the retail department. The announcement of which draws crowds to the store from early morning till the sale has run out. Mr. Marks, the manager, was introduced to our reporter and was found to be a quick business man. Messrs E. Shuman & Sons have experienced men in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, who do most of the buying. These buyers attend regular, the large Fire Underwriters and Bankrupt Co's Auction sales, which are mostly held in New York and Chicago, and as soon as goods are bought, the manager is notified and an extensive sale is made. Not long ago one of "The Fair" buyers purchased a large stock of 18,000 hats and caps of the large wholesale firm of Messrs Bosworth, Sard & Bliss, of Boston, Mass., from the Fire Underwriters, which "The Fair" sold at from 15 cents to $1.25 among which were Stetsons, Dunlaps and others. These bargains are to be got every day at "The Fair" and a newly married couple can go in the place and get everything to go to housekeeping, from a pin to a piano, at about half the regular price asked in other stores. When in Fort Wayne you should never leave till you have once visited "The Fair" which is located on Main street, between Barr and Clinton streets.

Here's a Kite String for you, Boys.

It will require 55,000 tons of twine to bind the grain crop of this country this season, should it be an average crop. Every pound should measure about 600 feet. Now, boys, suppose you had all this twine for a kite-string, how high could you fly your kite? 1,060,606 17-264 miles. That's right. The kite might go up out of your sight and surprise the man in the moon. Some of this twine is very good and strong, made of Manilla and Sisal, and some of it is so poor we fear it would fail you just at a time the kite was highest. If you want a perfectly safe and sure string get that made by the Deering Factory, which is made of the best fibre, in the best manner, and is of great strength, and induce your father to buy this for his harvester, and it will serve either his purpose or yours and make both of you happy.

Reduced Rates for Memorial Day.

On May 30th, 1890, all agents on the Wabash line will sell tickets to stations, within one hundred miles distance, at one and one-third fare for the round trip, good returning until May 31st. 21 22

HERE WE ARE AGAIN!

BUT this time we come with a list comprising a choice lot of new properties at exceedingly low prices, in fact any one of them is a bargain, when the location, improvements and general surroundings are taken into

CONSIDERATION.

While heretofore we have offered many bargains, all of which have been gobbled up with the great rapacity of

A HUNGRY MAN.

We believe this to be the choicest lot of all, and the only one we will be able to offer on such favorable terms and prices, but these pieces are for sale at prices that

WILL SELL THEM,

and if you think of buying for a residence or as an investment, call at our office and we will convince you our statements are true as to

PROPERTY AND PRICES.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. The soil is a most splendid one for producing large yields of all kinds of grain. There are 30 acres of good timber on this farm. This farm is cheap at $60 per acre, but we will sell it for less money.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn, and would make someone a fortune if they would buy and plat it in acre lots.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling, barn, orchard and good fences. This would be a bonanza for anyone at $2,800, but it goes for less. "First come first served" in this trade.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings. 2 good wells sugar camp, fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared. This is a great bargain for someone with small capital, to secure a house, and is cheap at $2,500, but it can be be bought for less money.

No. 230. One hundred and ninety-two acres in Newville township, within short distance of Newville and Hicksville. 130 acres under cultivation, balance timber land. Elegant brick dwelling, frame barn, wind pump, two good orchards. School and church near. Here is an opportunity which is seldom found in a lifetime, to secure a farm which is ready to make money for the purchaser from the time of purchase. This farm is well worth $65 per acre, but less will buy it, if taken at once.

No. 304. Sixty acres fine land in Wilmington township. Good frame building with all modern improvements, good orchard. This can be bought for less than $2,500.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O. This will be sold at any reasonable price as it must go.

No. 305. One hundred and forty acres of as good land as there is in this county and with improvements on it that are equalled by but few farms in this county, lies within two and one-half miles of good market. We wish to call your especial attention to this tract as one of our best bargains and is cheap at $10,500, but less will buy it if taken soon. The owner is sick, and has not the necessary help and cannot farm it to any advantage, is the reason a sacrifice will be made. Long time and easy terms.

No. 309. Seventy-eight acres in Concord township. Fine large brick dwelling, large frame barn, splendid orchard of over 100 trees, all bearing. Small fruits in abundance, and soil unsurpassed for producing all kinds of crops. This farm can be bought cheap and will be like finding money at $7,500.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana Trade well established. Here is a chance for someone to make money with but little capital to invest, as the property can be bought cheap, and will give immediate possession.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street. You know that property in the south end of town is not for sale, generally speaking, and when offered is not long in the market. So it will be with this one. Do not delay, but come at once as it must go.

Vacant lots in the South End of town, at prices to suit customers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we are still loaning money on farms in sums of $1,000 and over at 6 per cent. interest on five years' time.

Also, that we offer to the public

THE MOST LIBERAL

Fire, Life and Accident Policy of any Agency in Northern Indiana. Come in and get our terms.

Also, that we can sell you a Railroad or Steamship Ticket at rates that will astonish you. Our rates are the lowest and our routes the best. Come and see us and we will convince you that these are facts.

We have omitted many bargains (our space being limited,) especially in town properties, a list of which may be seen at our office. Call and see us.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

We are highly pleased with the business we have done so far this season.

We have an elegant line of dry goods, clothing, carpets etc., which we are always pleased to show.

If you want the very latest and nobbiest goods the market affords you can find what you want in our stock. Our prices are always most reasonable for quality of goods.

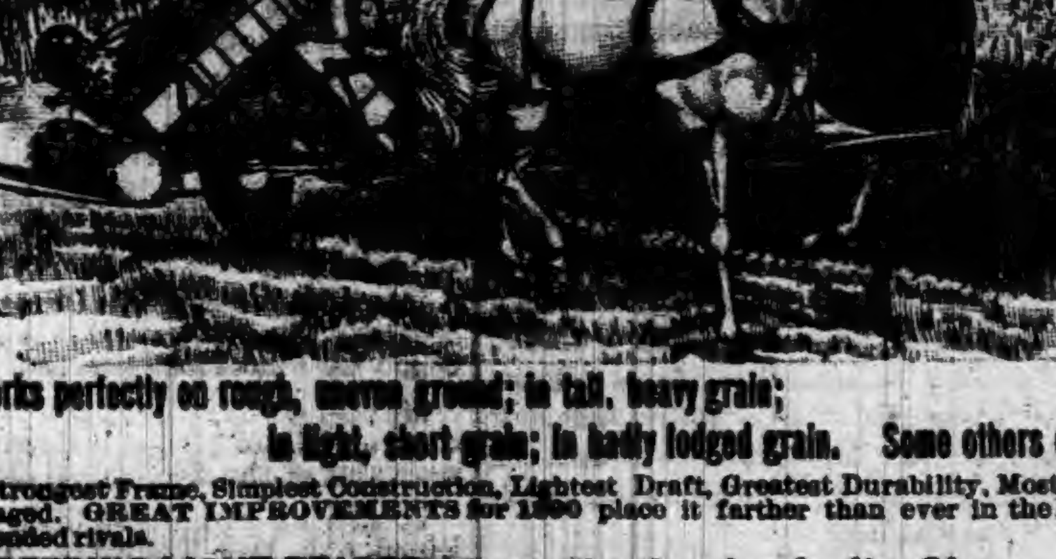
We will be pleased to have you call and will do all we can to make your visit both pleasant and profitable to you. Always anxious to please.

Yours Respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.

DEERING JUNIOR STEEL BINDER

THE LIGHTEST WEIGHT PRACTICAL BINDER EVER MADE.



It works perfectly on rough, uneven ground; in tall, heavy grain; in light, short grain; in badly lodged grain. Some others do not.

Strongest Frame, Simplest Construction, Lightest Draft, Greatest Durability, Most Easily Managed. GREAT IMPROVEMENTS for 1890 place it farther than ever in the lead of pretended rivals.

DEERING LIGHT REAPER.
DEERING GIANT MOWER.
NEW DEERING MOWER.
} Each the Leader in its Class.

The DEERING BINDER TWINE made by ourselves is the best in the world.

Apply to our nearest agent for Illustrated Catalogue and Full Information or write direct to us. WM. DEERING & CO., Chicago, Ill.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

One of Muncie's gay girls by mistake applied "hoss" liniment to her little foot for rheumatism, and all the skin came off.

Low Rates for Dedication Garfield Monument.

The dedication of the National Garfield Monument will take place at Cleveland, O., May 30th. For this occasion the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Cleveland and return, May 29, at one lowest first-class fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good to and including June 2, 1890. Apply to E. T. DeLapp for full particulars. 19 21

Traffic returns of 155 railroads in this country show a gain in the April earnings, as compared with the same month last year, of 18.73 per cent. For March the increase was only 9.07 per cent.

Every Christian Mother

Should be careful of her children. This damp atmosphere of our climate often brings on coughs colds, etc., which if not attended to in time lead to that dreaded disease consumption; to prevent this it is the duty of all mothers to have a remedy near to check these coughs, that your children may contract, and you cannot get a safer or more reliable remedy than Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the children's friend. You can buy this for 25 cents of F. E. Davenport.

South Auburn.

South Auburn is improving.

S. W. Ralston has put a new roof on his residence.

S. J. Brandon is improving his property on South Main street.

D. Y. Husselman is improving although he is yet using a crutch.

Mrs. Emma Rose, of Garrett, was here visiting her mother, Mrs. Roether, this week.

L. B. Fretz filled the pulpit at the Church of God Sunday evening. His discourse was highly appreciated by the audience.

Charley Mitchell has played quits with the wet goods grocery and gone back to his first love—the Auburn Foundry and Machine Works.

A new harness shop will soon make its appearance in the south end. Reliable parties from Waterloo are prospecting for a location.

It is reported that there are good prospects for a large grocery store soon to be erected on the site just south of the Watson House. A good citizen of Ft. Wayne, with plenty of capital, has a view of locating here, and deems South Auburn a suitable place to start up the grocery business.

Col. Watson has an eye for business, and it is rumored that he is slyly figuring on one or two schemes that if he is successful, he will be one of the main factors in building up and improving the south end, and thus enhancing the value of property in that locality. May he be successful and his hopes brightened by prosperity.

Among some of the improvements now under headway, is a two-story brick business house and dwelling combined, to be erected by John Kruger, the groceryman, on South Main street. His place of building is just south of his old stand on the corner of Main and Eleventh streets. The building will have 60 by 22 feet of store room, with dwelling in the rear. Work was commenced Tuesday noon. August Schutt does the stone work and Kinger & Lawrence the brick work.

Seery & Williams, the south end meat dealers, have advanced the cause of improving Auburn, by making a substantial sidewalk, putting up an awning, etc. They have also added a new refrigerator to their market, which, for convenience and utility, has but few equals. It has two rooms, so arranged that the meat can be handled without admitting the warm air or allowing the exit of the cold air. The thermometer registers 42 degrees, and the meat is kept cold and solid at all times. It can be said, "there are no flies on their meat."

A person in visiting the band sawmill when it is under full headway, is struck with amazement from the time he enters until he leaves—unless he stays too long and then he may get struck with a piece of bark. It is wonderful to notice with what rapidity huge logs are rolled about, sawed up into strips by the monster band saw, then the slabs and planks are moved along, first one saw and then another running through them cutting and shaping them into railroad bridge and car timber, wagon tongues, wagon felloes, wagon hounds, handles, pickets, etc., and in about 20 minutes from the time a log is rolled upon the carriage, it is being loaded into a railroad car for shipment. Visitors should go well supplied with tobacco as a protection from dust while looking up at the monster fossilized six-toed bat just above the setter's head.

Kain, Rinehart & Co. This is the name of a new firm that has located in our thriving city, and are manufacturing a superb road cart. A COURIER reporter visited this new industry Tuesday, and found a score or more of experienced workmen busily engaged, and the whole factory humming harmoniously with its neighbor factories, in turning out such work as in greatest demand. This company are manufacturing a cart known as Kain's Hammock Road Cart. Through the kindness of Mr. Rinehart, the merits of the cart were revealed in full, and it certainly has been awarded a very appropriate name, for it is simple, durable, and is the easiest riding road cart made. The box is hung on coiled springs in front which are attached to the main spring, and behind by two long links, so that it is absolutely free from any horse motion whatever. The seat is large enough to carry two persons with ease and comfort, the back is high with good strong supports and so arranged that a top can be attached if desired. By a simple, but wise device of a thumb screw and slide, placed just in the rear of the axle, the seat can be easily and readily set for one or two persons so that their weight will be on the axle of the vehicle instead of the horse, giving him perfect freedom in traveling. The box has a perfect hammock swing, and in running over an obstruction or into a chuckhole in the road, the occurrence has no effect either on the horse or the rider, as the box or seat swings sidewise, backward and forward, and an up and down motion of the springs. The cart is manufactured of the best material, steel tires, steel axle, and the best of oil-tempered springs. It is certainly a great improvement over all former two-wheeled vehicles, and will be in great demand in the future.

IF YOU WANT TO

BUY CHEAP,

—Go to the—

Bargain Store

On Eighth St., West of Court House.

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court, May term, 1890. Fredreick J. Liebereux and Catharine Liebereux are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, on foreclosure of mortgage, by the Real Estate and Improvement Company of Baltimore City, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 33rd juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 19, 1890.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 2nd day of May, 1890. George A. Bishop, Clerk.
James E. Rose Attorney 19-21

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

Lady Rivals at War.

Miss Anna Frances Lams, a belle, pretty and well educated, is the daughter of a well-known farmer living near Gascenda, Mo. She has been arrested on a charge of sending indecent letters through the mails. She and Miss Quick were rivals for the hand of a young railway clerk, John Dremel. Miss Quick, whose father is 'squire of the district, seemed to be getting the advantage, and they ceased to be friends. Two letters were written, one to Dremel and the other to Miss Quick. They were anonymous and purported to come from intimate friends. In the one addressed to Dremel the writer professed to be a man with eight children. It informed the mailing clerk of Miss Quick's drawbacks and related many alleged doings at the Quick domicile, family history also being thrown in. The letter addressed to Miss Quick described Dremel's flirtations. The object of the letters was evidently to disgust each with the other. The case will be heard in October.

Rain and Hail.

A cyclonic wave of rain and hail storm passed over parts of Congress, Canan, Chester, Milton, and Chippewa townships, Wayne County, O., doing tremendous damage. It swept a section three miles wide and eighteen in length. The most serious damage was done in and near the villages of Congress and Rowsburg. In Congress every pane of glass facing north and west, unprotected by blinds, was broken by the hail stones, which ranged in size from a pea to a hen's egg, and fell to a depth of eight inches on the level. Entire orchards were blown down. Many houses, barns and outbuildings were unroofed or blown down. The hailstones were so large and fell with such force as to be driven through roofs covered with oak shingles. At Rowsburg hail fell to a depth of eight to twelve inches on the level and to a depth of thirty-two inches. Hundreds of sheep were killed by hail.

A Collision on the Lake.

Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) special: The Siberia collided with the steam barge Ohio, in Mud Lake, and the latter sank in thirty-five feet of water, six minutes after the accident. The Siberia steamed over to the Canadian shore, leaking badly, but did not sink. The crew of the Ohio escaped. The Ohio is owned by L. P. Mason, of East Saginaw, and is valued at $50,000. She was loaded with coal from Cleveland for West Superior, Wis. The Siberia is owned by Rhodes, of Cleveland, and is valued at $95,000. She is loaded with iron ore from Two Harbors for Cleveland.

A Kentucky Murder.

At the village of Staffordsbury, in Kenton County, Ky., Ed. Steers, of Covington, was killed by Tom Adams. Steers had married a few days before and there was a party of friends celebrating the event at his mother's house. Steers went to a neighboring grocery for some cigars and found Adams there. He accosted him in a friendly manner, but Adams immediately drew his revolver and shot Steers, from the effects of which he died. In the excitement Adams escaped. It is not known that there was any previous trouble between the two.

To Connect American Cities.

The President has sent to the Senate a letter of the Secretary of State submitting the plan for the preliminary survey for a railway line to connect the principal cities of the American hemisphere in accordance with the recommendations of the pan-American conference. The President recommends prompt action by Congress to enable this government to participate in the promotion of the enterprise. The share of the United States in the cost of the survey will be $65,000.

A Victory for Dressed Beef Men.

The United States Supreme Court has rendered an opinion holding to be unconstitutional the law of Minnesota requiring that all fresh meats sold in the State shall be cut from animals slaughtered within the State and inspected twenty-four hours before slaughter. The case is entitled "State of Minnesota against Henry D. Barber," and is of great interest to dressed beef men, who win the case.

A Fishing Boat Lost.

The steamer Karluck has arrived at San Francisco from Kokiac, Alaska, bringing the information that the bark Corea, Capt. Wheeler, had gone ashore at Cook's inlet, and with the cargo was a total loss. No lives were lost. The bark left this port carrying supplies for the salmon canneries March 27. The vessel was owned by the Artic Packing Company, and was valued at $15,000.

Off-Bearer Killed.

Will Zink, a single man, aged about forty years, was fatally injured while working at Wilkerson's saw-mill, at Markle, twelve miles east of Huntington, Ind. He was helping to off-bear a plank, which struck the saw revolving at a rapid rate. The plank was thrown upward, striking Zink in the face. His skull was crushed and his face smashed to a pulp.

To Equip a Steamer.

London special: Henry M. Stanley suggests that the committee on the Emin expedition apply the Stanley fund to equipping a steamer for service on Victoria Nyanza for the benefit of the tribes.

The Oldest Volunteer Gone.

August F. Putzeker died at Massilon, Ohio, aged 80. It is claimed that he was the oldest volunteer soldier of the rebellion.

THE WARREN WAR.

Business Interests of the Town Almost Stagnant.

Warren (Ind.) special: The boycott of the farmers of this vicinity against Warren, is becoming a much more serious matter than was at first supposed, and threatens to destroy the entire commercial interests of the village. The row is between the merchants and the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association. At the last meeting of the association the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The majority of the business men of Warren have ignored us; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we use all our influence in securing merchants from abroad that will enforce competition; and further, be it

Resolved, That we trade exclusively with men with whom the committee make contracts.

HENRY C. CARVISTOR, President.
ALVA V. CHRISTMAN, Secretary.

In the territory adjacent to Warren there are thirty lodges of the association, with a membership of 1,000 men. If the resolutions are carried out it means death to the business interests of the town. Many of the merchants are preparing to leave the place. The only paper in the town, the News, suspended publication from the same cause, and the editor will remove to Niles, Mich. The President of the Fair Association has issued a notice that there will be no exhibition this year, owing to the disturbed business relations.

THE ASHLEY MINE DISASTER.

A Score of Charred and Blackened Bodies Taken from the Mine.

Wilkesbarre (Pa.) special: Exploring parties have penetrated the horrible death trap at Ashley, and nineteen miners were found dead. Six of the men are still missing, and it is more than probable that they too are dead. The scene at the mines as the nineteen dead and charred bodies were being brought out, was heartrending in the extreme. Men, women, and children, shrieking and groaning, fell upon their knees, lifted their hands and eyes towards Heaven and prayed for the dead. The work of attempting to rescue the doomed men was delayed by escaping gas. As soon as possible a large party of rescuers entered the slope and commenced work upon the cave, beyond where three men were found. They soon broke through and rushed into the chamber beyond where in the semi-darkness, the men stumbled over the yielding bodies. A close search revealed six blackened corpses near the opening, none of them recognizable. Further along at various places were found thirteen other bodies, all more or less burned, but most of them could not be recognized. The sight was so horrible that two or three of the rescuers fainted. When the men appeared at the mouth of the mine bearing the body of a man on a stretcher, the women tore away the blanket, but saw only the blackened and charred remains. Other bodies were brought out as fast as possible, until all but five of those who were in the mine when the cave-in occurred had been found. The excitement pervaded every part of the town, and the streets in the vicinity of the mine were completely blocked with people, many of whom came from other towns. A guard of fifty policemen has been necessary to keep the people away from the mine. General Superintendent Phillips says: "The men lost their lives through the negligence of Assistant Mine Boss Allen, who insisted on relighting his lamp in the presence of a large volume of gas. Had he not done so the men now dead could all have been rescued alive, as there was a good current of air going through the chamber where the men had taken refuge after the cave-in had occurred.

GAVE THEM THE SLIP.

Crawford, the New York Express Thief, Escapes in South America.

New York special: Edmund Sturgis Crawford, the Adams express thief, has escaped from the Honduras Government and has taken to the woods. He had been taken down to Porto Cortez by a file of soldiers to await final papers of extradition. He was permitted to go into a closet built over the water. It was at dark and he managed to slip into a boat held in readiness by confederates and disappeared into the darkness. It is of importance for the Express Company to produce Crawford in any proceeding leading to a recovery of the $41,000 paid over to the bank. The method by which the bogus package of bank notes was substituted for the real one is as much of a mystery as ever and whether Crawford had confederates or not must still remain a question of legal doubt. Mr. John Hoey said that the Adams Express Company had not the least idea of abandoning the pursuit. This season of the year in Central America was especially trying to Northerners, but the Pinkerton men, who have been down there for three months, are rapidly getting acclimated and have already more than likely located their game.

Sad Ending of a Young Wife's Life.

Bluffton (Ind.) special: John Siberry, a young farmer living nine miles south of here on the Camden plank road, is well nigh crazed with grief. John has been married only one short though not blissful year. The stream of domestic felicity in his home has not flowed in the placid and peaceful manner so much desired. Recently, however, husband and wife buried the hatchet and were fast beginning to taste the joys of matrimony. The other morning John entered the house and stepping up to his wife playfully placed a revolver to her breast and exclaimed "look out." The revolver snapped under the pressure of his finger, exploded, and then his wife with a scream of pain and terror, sank a helpless, lifeless mass at his feet. The despairing husband became almost a maniac with grief, and only the intercession of neighbors prevented him seeking, by suicide, relief from the awful remorse. Mrs. Siberry was only eighteen, while her husband was twenty-four years of age. Siberry is in the County Jail, held to answer to a charge of murder. The coroner's jury, which held an inquest over the remains of his wife, gave a verdict of death from the criminal carelessness of Siberry.

Fifty Men Killed at Havana.

Havana special: A hardware store in which was stored a quantity of powder, was destroyed by fire in this city. When the fire was raging and the firemen were endeavoring to subdue it, a tremendous explosion occurred, bringing down the walls with a frightful crash and scattering burning brands for several blocks in all directions. Over fifty persons were killed and wounded, either directly by the falling debris or by the explosion itself. Among the number was five chiefs of the fire department, several firemen and the resident consul for Venezuela. The calamity is one of the most disastrous that has occurred to this city for many years, and has produced a feeling of general consternation and horror. All business is practically suspended, and every effort is being directed to an examination of the ruins and discovery of the extent of loss of life, which cannot be now estimated with certainty. Working parties were at once organized, and it is hoped that in twenty-four hours full details as to the number of dead and wounded as well as the financial loss can be ascertained.

His Union Card Gave Him Away.

New York, special: Charles Jackson, alias Bucconan, who murdered Francis Murphy a few weeks ago, and who has been captured and brought back here, himself furnished the clue which enabled the detectives to arrest him. He was unable to get work as a printer in Muskegon, Mich., without a union card. The one he had was made out in the name of Jackson, by which he was known here, was of course useless to him, and he wanted one made out in his new alias Charles Arthurs. He wrote a friend in this city to get such a card for him, but the friend turned the letter over to Inspector Byrnes, and the capture followed.

Must Go Back.

As a result of correspondence between the Department of Justice and the Treasury Department, it has been decided to send back to China the twenty-one Chinamen who were smuggled into this country from Mexico and who are now in custody at San Diego, Cal. They will be transferred to San Francisco and placed on the first steamer sailing for China. This action is taken on the theory that it is cheaper and better for the Government to bear one expense of their return to China than to send them back into Mexico and running the chance of having to re-arrest them and send them back indefinitely.

Strangely Stricken.

John B. Abell, business manager of the Springfield (Ohio) Democrat, has been seized with a singular case of mania. He had been bitten on the middle finger of his right hand by a dog, which had been sick for several days. The finger became swollen and very painful, and Mr. Abell was noticeably worried about it, and expressed to several friends that he was afraid of hydrophobia, as he thought the dog was mad. Mr. Abell labored under great mental excitement and was advised by friends to go home and rest. While eating his dinner at the office he suddenly became frenzied, and commenced screaming. Attaches of the office ran to his assistance, but in his wild condition it was difficult to handle him. He suddenly fell to the floor in a semi-conscious condition, with his eyes fixed and glassy. Physicians were summoned, and he was taken home. Dr. A. M. Potter, one of the physicians, claims that it is not hydrophobia dementia, but that the attack is due to worry about the bite of a dog. Mr. Abell has not been physically well for a nearly a year.

A Sad Honeymoon.

Chicago special: Two fine looking, nicely dressed young men, giving names of Brown and Guidrat, were arrested for attempting to rob C. E. Gilman, jeweler at 125 North Clark street, of valuable diamond rings. Appearing before Justice Kersten the men protested their innocence. The evidence of their guilt, however, was so conclusive that they were bound over to the Criminal Court in $800 each. Guidrat's wife a young and handsome lady, was recently married in Baltimore to Guidrat. The young couple were on their bridal trip and Brown had been their constant companion. A number of paste stones were found upon Guidrat when searched and as the party had visited Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha and other cities, it is believed that many jewelers have been losers. Guidrat claims to be a traveling agent for Leach & Co., hat manufacturers, of New York, and that he has influential friends there who will come to his assistance.

Exiles Roasted Alive.

St. Petersburg special: The city of Tormsk was visited simultaneously by a conflagration and a cyclone, and the result of the combined disasters was the destruction of three-fourths of the city and the loss of hundreds of lives. The scenes during the raging of the fire are described as horrible in the extreme. The cathedral was burned to ashes, and its falling walls, striking the buildings of an adjacent hospital, crushed them in pieces and buried the inmates, who were roasted alive. The garrison of Russian soldiery refused to lend the least assistance in saving the lives or property of the residents, whom they styled "worthless exiles." Almost before the fire and cyclone had completed their destruction, there was a sudden fall in the temperature, and a heavy snowstorm added to the horrors of the unfortunate victims. Tormsk is the capital city of Western Siberia, and is inhabited almost wholly by exiles.

Indiana School Books.

A St. Louis special says that the Standard School Book Company, which owns the copyrights on the school books furnished by the Indiana School Book Company under their contract with the State, has been sold to the American School Book Company, which was recently organized by the Big Four publishing houses of Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., D. Appleton & Co., Iverson, Phinney & Co., and A. S. Barnes & Co. Manager Hawkins, of the Indiana School Book Company, says that this sale will not affect them nor interfere in any way with the execution of the contract with the State. The contract will be fulfilled in letter and in spirit just the same as if the Standard Company had not been acquired by the Big Four combination.

Carlisle for Senator.

The Democratic caucus held at Frankfort, Ky., to nominate a candidate for the United States Senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Hon. James B. Beck, was short, yet full of interest and excitement. Immediately upon the assembly of the caucus the withdrawal of ex-Governor Knott and the Hon. Evan T. Settle was announced, after which a ballot was taken, resulting in Carlisle receiving fifty-two votes, Lindsay thirty-three and McCreary thirty. The name of ex-Governor McCreary was then withdrawn, which left the contest between the great Democratic giant and Judge Lindsay, when the second batlot was taken, resulting in Carlisle's victory, the vote being Carlisle, seventy-two, and Lindsay, forty-three.

Evasion of the Exclusion Act.

The Secretary of the Treasury has transmitted to the Senate a report from Datus E. Coon, Chinese inspector at San Diego, Cal., dated April 21, with respect to the Chinese exclusion act. Mr. Coon says that the Chinese are coming to the United States despite the efforts of the customs department to keep them out. He says the opportunities for crossing the Mexican border into California are many, and with the force at the command of the department it will be impossible to prevent all of them from entering the country. When they have once reached San Diego unobserved, it is practically impossible to prove when or how they came in.

Twenty-Five Miners Entombed.

Wilkesbarre (Pa.) special: Information has been received here of a cave-in which occurred near Ashley in mine No. 8, operated by the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company. Twenty-five men are said to have been entombed. The scene of the disaster is one of the wildest confusion. Wives, daughters and sweethearts and friends of the entombed miners are crowding about the spot, frantically wringing their hands in the agony of suspense. The work of rescuing the men is progressing with the utmost expedition, but it will be hours yet before the true state of affairs can be learned.

Killed His Brother-in-Law.

Joseph Butcher and his brother-in-law, Frank Perkins, were returning from Mount Vernon, Ohio, both in a drunken condition. When near Bangs Station they had some difficulty, and Perkins, going to the side of the road, cut a club from a willow tree, and returning to the buggy, struck Butcher on the head, killing him instantly. He then went to a neighbor's and informed him a drunken man was lying in the road, and then went home and went to bed, where he was found sound asleep at daybreak, and was arrested by the Sheriff.

Murderer Blythe's Sentence Commuted.

The Ohio State Board of Pardons considered the case of Charles Blythe, the Cincinnati negro, sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Dr. A. E. Jones, who was a Colonel on Governor Foraker's staff when he was killed last year. The board came to the conclusion that the killing was premeditated but was committed in a moment of frenzy, caused by the murdered man's irascible temper, therefore it recommended to Gov. Campbell that Blythe's sentence be commuted to life, which the Governor will do.

Buncoed the Buckeye.

James Maguire, a rich resident of Lima, Ohio, was buncoed out of $5,000 by two well-dressed strangers. One pretended to be a bank cashier, the other to be drunk. The drunken man showed Maguire $20,000 in bills, and Maguire and the alleged cashier tried to coax him to put it in the bank. The man consented providing the cashier and Maguire would each put in $5,000. To humor him, Maguire and the other stranger consented. The money was put in a tin box and Maguire took it to the bank to deposit it. The tin box, of course, was empty and the two strangers cleared out with the other tin box and the cash.

Surprised a Burglar.

Mrs. Jacob Lorch and her daughter Lizzie, while engaged in housework, at her home in Louisville, Ky., heard an unusual noise in an upstairs room. The daughter, aged about 15, investigated, and found Thomas Stockdale, colored, ransacking a drawer where the family valuables were kept. She sprang at the fellow, who partially stunned her by a powerful blow, and then made an attempt to ravish her. Her screams attracted the attention of her mother, and the brute fled, but was captured and jailed after being clubbed by the police in a terrible manner.

The Caisson Again Capsizes.

The caisson at the new bridge at Louisville capsized, killing one man and injuring several others. Ed McDonald, a corker was inside the caisson and fourteen men were at work cementing the outside. The caisson began to careen and there was an effort to right it when suddenly the timbers holding it in place snapped, and the massive structure slowly turned over and now stands bottom side up. The men who escaped were at once taken from their perilous positions by boats that hurried out from the shore.

An Ex-Mayor's Son Arrested.

New York special: Peter Cooper Hewitt, was subjected to very rough handling by a policeman, and was taken to the station-house on charge of assaulting a cab man. He was arrested by a policeman, who dragged him to the station-house without allowing him to make an explanation, and he treated him most brutally. At the station-house Mr. Hewitt was immediately discharged. Charges will be preferred against the policeman.

Flouring Mill Burned.

The Winona (Minn.) Flouring Mill, together with the large elevator adjoining and two small ware-houses and residences, were destroyed by fire. The capacity of the mill was 2,500 barrels daily. The elevator had a capacity of 235,000 bushels. The estimated loss is $300,000; insurance, about $200,000. Four men in the engine-room escaped with their lives, as the falling walls knocked the roof and sides of the room in.

Chinamen and the Census.

The Chinese Minister to this country has directed the Chinese Consul at San Francisco to issue a proclamation in the Chinese langage to the Chinese in San Francisco, explaining the object of the census next month, and advising them to give the census enumerators all information desired. The object of the proclamation is to dissipate the prejudice of the Chinese with reference to such matters.

Judge Drummond Dead.

Judge Thomas Drummond, ex-Judge United States Circuit Court, died at Wheaton, Ill. Judge Drummond, as the leader of the Whigs, was pitted against Thomas H. Campbell, a lawyer of exceptional ability and brilliancy, who was reconized as the foremost Democrat west of the Alleghenies. The deceased was 80 years old and a widower, his wife having died a few years ago.

Father and Children Drowned.

Marion Tucker, a farmer living a short distance from Stanton, Neb., was out rowing in a boat on a small lake on his farm with his two children, Daisy, aged 9 and Frank aged 14, when the boat upset and the three were drowned. The bodies were recovered.

Powderly Indicted.

A special from Scottdale says: A true bill was found by the grand jury in the case of Edward Callahan against General Master Workman Powderly, John R. Byrne and Peter Wise for alleged conspiracy in defeating Callahan for the senatorial nomination in 1883.

A Farmer Drowned in a Ditch.

John Butler, a farmer living near Detroit, was thrown from his buggy. He struck a ditch filled with water and the buggy fell on him, the dashboard catching him across the back of the neck and holding his face in the water until he was drowned.

Frightful Fall.

The derrick out of the new North Fork bridge in Danville, Ill., gave way casting John McCune, one of the workman, to the ground, a distance of over 100 feet. He fell on a pile of rock and was instantly killed.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Prime	$ 5.00	@ 5.75
Fair to Good	4.50	@ 5.00
Common	3.00	@ 4.50
Hogs—Shipping Grades	3.75	@ 4.50
Sheep	4.50	@ 7.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.94	@ .95
Corn—No. 2	.34	@ .34½
Oats—No. 2	.28½	@ .29½
Rye—No. 2	.52	@ .53
Butter—Choice Creamery	.15	@ .17
Cheese—Full Cream, flats	.08	@ .08¾
Eggs—Fresh	.12	@ .13
Potatoes—Choice new, per bu.	.47	@ .55
Pork—Mess	12.25	@12.75
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. Spring	.90	@ .92
Corn—No. 3	.35	@ .36
Oats—No. 2 White	.29	@ .30
Rye—No. 1	.53	@ .53½
Barley—No. 2	.49	@ .50
Pork—Mess	12.25	@12.75
DETROIT.
Cattle	3.00	@ 4.50
Hogs	3.00	@ 4.50
Sheep	3.00	@ 5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.97	@ .98
Corn—No. 2 Yellow	.35	@ .36
Oats—No. 2 White	.31	@ .31½
TOLEDO.
Wheat	.94½	@ .95½
Corn—Cash	.35½	@ .36
Oats—No. 2 White	.30	@ .30½
NEW YORK.
Cattle	4.25	@ 5.00
Hogs	4.25	@ 4.75
Sheep	4.50	@ 6.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1.00	@ 1.02
Corn—No. 2 White	.45½	@ .46½
Oats—Mixed Western	.33	@ .36
Pork—New Mess	14.00	@14.50
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle	4.00	@ 5.00
Hogs	3.75	@ 4.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.94	@ .95
Corn—No. 2	.34½	@ .35½
Oats—No. 2	.30	@ .30½
Rye—No. 2	.52	@ .53
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping Steers	3.00	@ 5.00
Hogs—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.25
Sheep—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.95	@ .96
Corn—No. 2 White	.35	@ .36
Oats—No. 2 White	.28	@ .28½
CINCINNATI.
Hogs	3.50	@ 4.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.95	@ .97
Corn—No. 2	.38½	@ .39½
Oats—No. 2 Mixed	.29½	@ .30½
Rye—No. 2	.57	@ .58
BUFFALO.
Cattle—Good to Prime	4.50	@ 5.25
Hogs—Medium and Heavy	4.00	@ 4.50
Wheat—No. 1 Hard	1.00	@ 1.01
Corn—No. 2	.37½	@ .38

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Great Find of Sand at Pendleton.

A layer of the finest sand in existence was discovered at Pendleton, by workmen drilling for water. The sand resembles the celebrated Lanesborough sand, of Massachusetts, in many respects. It has been pronounced by experts to be just the thing for the manufacture of plate-glass and all kinds of glassware. The layer is from fourteen to twenty feet thick and covers acres of ground. It can be easily reached without removing the top crust of limestone, as it crops out along the banks of Fall Creek, and can be mined from within without going to the expense of removing the vast layer of solid rock that nature has placed between it and the world. It has been estimated that it can be placed upon the market at 80 cents per ton, instead of $3, as is now charged the glass manufactories in this gas belt by an Illinois syndicate. There is an immense fortune in this sand for some capitalist who has the means to develop the mines and place the article on the market.

Rewards of Genious.

Patents have been granted Indianians as follows: Aaron B. Albert, Indianapolis, folding chair; Louis Bell, Lafayette, lightning arrester and system of electrical distribution; Charles F. Blandon, C. A. Ross, and J. J. Lumm, Michigan City, combined castor socket and corner brace; James W. Bridge, Young America, plow attachment; Samnel Bufkin, Anderson, straw-stacker; Edward M. Colles, R. C. Kitchell and D. C. Applegate, Princeton, washing-machine; Edward O. Hopkins, Maxwell, bee-hive; John R. Lamb, Goodview, post-hole boring machine; Leonard Logan, Plymouth, washing-machine; Joseph B. McKeely, Brown's Valley, wire stretcher; Winfield W. Mullen and F. M. Mullen, Bunker Hill, cultivator; Sigourney Wales, Terre Haute, assignor to Whittmore Bros. & Co., Boston, Mass., safety package; Lewis Wallace, Crawfordsville, combined joint bar and railway tie, railway cross-tie and metal pad for railway ties; Frederick A. Wilke, Richmond, china firing kiln.

Minor State Items.

—Edward Clinger, of Logansport, was killed by the cars at Leroy.

—A. S. Bright, of Huntington, lost both legs while switching cars at Kingsland.

—The farmers' organization have put a full ticket in the field in Dubois County.

—Charles Kramer, a councilman of Bedford, died very suddenly in bed of heart disease.

—Charles Moore was caught in the shafting in a planing-mill at Evansville, and seriously injured.

—A bed of lead ore, eighteen inches thick, has been discovered near Yountsville, Montgomery County.

—Frank Buckley, an employe of Bimel's wheel-works at Portland, had an arm cut off in an automatic spoke-lathe.

—Knightstown has secured another important industry in a handle factory, to be erected and operated by local capitalists.

—John Hilburn was found lying in an out-building at Newberry, unconscious and frothing at the mouth. He expired shortly afterward.

—The Universalists have organized a society in Dick Johnson Township, and are taking steps to build a church, the first in Clay County.

—A small tornado swept Owen Township, Clark County, badly damaging the house and barn of White Spencer, the only building in its path.

—"Uncle" John Williams, of Edinburg, has the original mill-stone which ground the first corn, by hand, ever ground in that section of country, away back in 1820.

—During a severe storm, David Munson, who was driving a load of hay on the Smithland pike, near Shelbyville, was struck by lightning and killed, together with the horse.

—A passenger train running north on the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago road ran down John Burns, living near Bedford, and he was so badly injured that he will die. He was a well-known citizen.

—The Odd Fellows of Greencastle have purchased the old Voss building, on the north side of the square, and will proceed to erect a new building for use as their hall and business rooms. The consideration was $3,200.

—While plowing a garden, in North Sheridan, Michael Orr turned out a package of counterfeit silver dollars, twenty-seven in all. They were well executed, but short in weight.

Charles Millen and David Kellams, two desperate characters, indulged in an impromtu duel at Derby, in which Kellams fired the first shot and was in turn killed by a shot through the breast. No arrests.

—Omar, the 10-year-old son of William Foxworthy, of Knightstown, fell from a Panhandle railroad bridge, receiving injuries from which he may not recover. His left leg was fractured above the knee, and he was injured internally.

—Etta Wyant, aged 14 years, was perhaps fatally shot by her little sister Mary, at their home in Forrest. It was a case of "didn't know it was loaded," the ball taking effect just over the right eye.

—On the farm of Isham West, a prominent farmer living three miles northwest of Montpelier, can be found a calf that lacks thirteen months of being as old as its mother. Last week a thirteen months' old heifer belonging to Mr. West gave birth to a nice healthy calf, which weighed only twenty-five pounds.

—Milo Maudlin and his divorced wife, Louisa, "made up" at Kokomo and summoned a justice to re-marry them. With the official came Hiram H. Varnes, another suitor, and at the eleventh hour Mrs. Maudlin changed her mind and married Varnes.

—Martin McNew, a well-known farmer residing four miles northwest of Knightstown, was dangerously, if not fatally, injured in a runaway, while on the way to the city. Mr. McNew was thrown from his vehicle, by which a number of his ribs were broken and his scalp split wide open.

—A 10-year-old boy, a deaf mute, while walking along the Air-line railway at Dale station, a few miles south of Huntington was run over by a passenger train and instantly killed, his body being horribly mangled.

—While Marion Bennett and Edward Nolan, two Jeffersonville boys, were fishing in Lewis' pond, a stray bullet, fired by some one unknown in the adjacent woods, lodged in the back of Bennett's skull, making a fatal wound.

—An attempt was made at Jeffersonville, to assassinate Rev. E. Andran, rector of St. Augustine's Catholic church. Two shots were fired as he was standing on his porch. The perpetrator missed his mark and escaped. The venerable priest is popular and was not known to have an enemy.

—J. W. Howard, alias Walter Scott, alias Elmer Mitchell, who, for the past few months, has been swindling the Carpenters' Union at Battle Creek, Indianapolis, Delphos, Defiance and many other places to the extent of $1,000, entered a plea of guilty in the Circuit Court at Fort Wayne, and was sentenced by Judge Alden to two years in the penitentiary.

—A young man, apparently about twenty-one years of age, who was stealing a ride on a freight train on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, fell under the wheels a few miles east of Warsaw and was horribly mangled. He was picked up by the trainmen, but lived only a few minutes thereafter, during which time he stated that his name was George Anson, and gave his residence as Liverpool, England.

—The C., H. & D. accommodation west-bound ran down five children on a trestle over the creek just east of Rushville. Some of them leaped from the trestle into the stream, but two were knocked off by the locomotive, which had been slowed up, but not in time to save the children from injury. One of them, a little girl ten or twelve years of age, had an arm broken and was otherwise injured. The others fortunately escaped with only an ugly ducking.

—The confession of the wife of J. W. Brown, who was murdered in Morgan County, in 1876, proves to be a hoax. Mrs. Brown died recently, and was alleged to have told a daughter that herself and sons put her husband out of the way. As no daughter was present at her death bed, or with her for months before she died, the story is obviously untrue. It is also denied by James T. Brown, a son of the murdered man, and by attorneys who have investigated the case.

—The large barn on the Colwell farm, near Washington, was totally destroyed by fire, together with a self-binder, road-cart, agricultural implements, and some hay and grain. Loss, $1,500; insured in the Phœnix of Hartford for $300. There seems to be an organized band of barn-burners in the territory east of this city, who are determined to destroy the property of the wealthy farmers, no less than ten barns having been destroyed by incendiary fires during the past five months.

—The large farm-house and barn of Thomas J. Harness, living near Kokomo, were burned to the ground, together with all their contents, the family being able only to save themselves. Seven valuable horses perished in the flames. The total loss will aggregate $12,000, on which there was only $2,100 insurance. The buildings were large and new, and the contents very valuable. This is plainly the work of incendiaries, the torch being applied to the structures simultaneously. Mr. Harness is a brother of Senator Harness, of Kokomo.

—The new catalogue for 1889-90, of Wabash College, contains several lithographs of the college buildings and of the museum. The attendance during the year was 258, divided among the classes as follows: Post graduates, 5; seniors, 33; juniors, 30; sophomores, 31; freshmen, 67; senior preparatory, 40; junior preparatory, 52. One senior has died during the year—F. H. Boudinot, of Terre Haute, on April 1. Two trustees have also died within the past year—Moses Fowler, of Lafayette, and Rev. J. F. Kendall, D. D., of LaPorte.

—Joseph Long, aged 36 years, and a highly respected citizen of Vernon, was run over by a Madison passenger train, and both legs cut off. In addition he received injuries about the head, causing his death almost instantly. Long was an employe of the J., M. & I. as a section-hand and had lately become very deaf. When discovered by the engineer he was at work in the center of the track. The whistle was sounded, but undeeded by Long until too late. The engine and baggage car passed over him before the train could be stopped.

—During a heavy rainstorm at Winamac, lightning played havoc with the residence of J. N. Brown. It struck the roof near the center, followed the cone, demolished all the chimneys, scattered bricks and boards hundreds of feet and left the house in a very dilapidated condition. Mr. Brown who was out of doors at the time, was thrown violently to the ground, while his wife, who was in the weaving-room, which was left without any siding, was not even shocked. Their daughter Estelle, who was at work in the kitchen, was struck on the hip, her dress and stockings and shoes split in two pieces and torn from her foot. She is in a very critical condition, with very small hopes for her recovery.

—James Elliott, of Harmony, was seriously injured by falling slate in the Peanut mine at Knightstown, operated by the Watson Coal and Mining Company. His injuries are very bad, but not necessarily fatal. Mr. Elliott is a man of family.

—J. B. Bird and Bert Bird, father and son, residing near Blountsville, quarreled over the possession of a corn-planter, and the son fatally stamped his father about the breast. He is himself dangerously ill from no other known cause that remorse.

—Farmers of Porter County have formed an anti-horse-thief Association at Chesterton. The horse stealing industry has assumed large proportions in that section.

—Clint Lucas, a driver at the Crawford Coal Company's mine, at Knightstown, was injured in a very peculiar manner. He was riding on a hitching between two loaded bank cars and, in passing through the trap-door, his head was caught between the cross-bar and the loaded car while the mule was pulling at a rapid rate. His injuries are very severe and may prove fatal.

THE NATIONAL SOLONS.

WORK OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Law-Makers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed and Acted On.

In the Senate Senator Teller concluded his speech on the silver question, on the 15th. Senator Coke, of Texas then took the floor. Mr. Coke styled the bill as nothing more nor less than a warehouse bill, proposing as it did to turn the United States Treasury into a vast storehouse or warehouse in which to deposit large sums of silver bullion. He, for one, was not in favor of the United States going into the warehouse business. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Colorado, Mr. Teller, for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, he was heartily in favor of and would give it his earnest support. When Mr. Coke had concluded the Senate took up and passed a bill to authorize the sale of timber on certain lands reserved for the use of the Menominee tribe of Indians in the State of Wisconsin. In the House Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, from the Committee on Rules, reported a resolution providing that hereafter the House shall meet at 11 o'clock; that after reading the journal and the disposal of conference reports the House shall go into committee of the whole on the tariff bill; that the bill shall be read through, commencing with paragraph 111, and shall be open to amendment on any part of the bill following paragraph 110, and that on Wednesday, the 21st inst., at 12 noon the bill with pending amendments shall be reported to the House. After a long debate the resolution was adopted—yeas 128, nays 93. Messrs. Morrill, Sawyer and Yoder were appointed conferees on the Senate dependent pension bill. The House then went into committee of the whole (Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, in the chair) on the tariff bill and spent the afternoon on the subject. An evening session was held for the consideration of pension bills.

The Senate spent most of the 16th inst. debating the amendment by Senator Plumb to the silver bill now under consideration. The amendment provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall at no time be allowed by law to retain and hold in the Treasury Department as a surplus an amount to exceed $110,000,000. This amendment provoked a running debate, in which Senators Plumb, Ingalls, Sherman, Edmunds, Allison, Cockrell, Reagan, and Vest participated. All the speakers condemned the policy of hoarding money in the treasury, and some such measure as Senator Plumb's is likely to pass. In the House Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, and Mr. Candler, of Massachusetts, kicked over the traces. The tariff bill was under discussion in the House, and Mr. McKinley offered an amendment specifically including glass chimneys in the clause relative to thin blown glass at a duty of 10 cents a dozen and 40 per cent. ad valorem. Mr. Henderson said he would decline to vote for the increase of any duty when he had not the information to justify that vote. Mr. Candler stated that his constituents were opposed to the feature of the bill under discussion and that he should vote against it. An amendment offered by Mr. Henderson to leave the duty on lamp chimneys as under the present law was defeated by a vote of 107 to 103, and the McKinley amendment was agreed to. The wool schedule was next taken up, and several minor amendments offered by the Committee of Ways and Means adopted after considerable discussion. The duty on woolen yarn, which was fixed by the bill at twice the amount per pound of the duty on wool, was raised to two and one-half times the rate on wool, and the duty on wools of the third class valued at 13 cents per pound or less was increased to 32 per cent. ad valorem, and on those valued at over 13 cents per pound was fixed at 53 per cent. ad valorem. At 5 p. m. the House took a recess until evening for consideration of pension bills.

In the Senate, on the 19th inst., Mr. Hoar, from the Judiciary Committee, reported back the House amendment to the Senate anti-trust bill, with an amendment. Messrs. Vest and Coke stated that, as members of the committee, they did not concur in the report, and Mr. Hoar explained the effect of the action recommended. The matter went over. The Senate bill to fix the times and places for holding Federal Courts in the District of Kansas was reported by Mr. Ingalls, from the Judiciary Committee, and was passed. The Senate bill appropriating $200,000 for a building at Ogden, Utah, was reported and placed on the calendar. The feature of the day's proceedings was a long speech by Mr. Jones of Nevada in support of his silver bill. He argued in favor of the free coinage of silver, increased volume of currency and the remonetization of silver and bimetalism and warmly defended the silver miners from the charge of selfishness in desiring the remonetization of silver. After a short executive session the Senate adjourned. In the House Mr. McKinley of Ohio moved that speeches in general debate on the tariff bill be limited to one minute. The motion was agreed to, and the House went into committee of the whole, Mr. Payson, of Illinois, in the chair. Mr. Anderson offered an amendment authorizing the President to suspend the duty on any article when he may be convinced the production of the said article is controlled by any trust or combination to govern prices or production. Mr. McMillin denied that any representative of the sugar trust had ever appeared before the committee. Mr. Niedringhaus moved an amendment for a reduction of the duty on boracic acid. Quite a discussion arose over the feature of the bill fixing the rate of duty on this article, which, it was explained, was used in the manufacture of borax. The California delegation opposed a motion made by Mr. Mills for a reduction of the rate of duty, saying that the production of borax recently discovered in California ought to be protected. The motion to reduce the duty was defeated. Mr. Covert attacked the feature of the bill which places a duty on muriatic acid and sulphine acid used largely in manufacturing fertilizers. After a long discussion Mr. Covert's motion to strike out the clause placing a duty on muriatic acid was defeated.

On the night of the 17th inst. Mr. Bynum of Indiana was censured by the House amid the applause of the Democrats, and with the declaration that he accepted the censure as a decoration of honor. The proceedings leading up to the vote of censure follow: Mr. Bayne of Pennsylvania in speaking to a verbal amendment of the tariff bill sent to the clerk's desk and had read a letter from James Campbell of Pittsburg, Pa., denying the statements reflecting upon his character made a few days since by Mr. Bynum of Indiana and Mr. Wilson of West Virginia. In his letter he strongly attacks those gentlemen and uses vigorous language in denunciation of them. After half an hour of uproar Mr. Bynum secured the floor and said that the Campbell affidavit was to the effect that Mr. Wilson and he had said that $15 a month was enough for any glass-blower. He had telegraphed to the West Virginia papers denouncing Campbell as a liar and perjurer. Since the gentleman from Pennsylvania constituted himself the conduit pipe through which this attack of Campbell found its way into the Record, since the Chair has said that the way a citizen who may feel aggrieved can get into the Record is by the indorsement of a member of the House, I have simply to say what I did the other day, knowing full well the meaning of the words, and that I was responsible for them, denounce Mr. Campbell as a liar and perjurer. I want to say now that I accept and am willing to believe that I have as great confidence in the character of Mr. Campbell as I have in the character of the gentleman who makes this attack upon me. Mr. Cutcheon demanded that the words be taken down. The offensive words were taken down and reported from the clerk's desk. Mr. Cutcheon moved that the committee rise and report the words to the House for its action; agreed to—120 to 99. Mr. Cutcheon then offered the following: "Resolved, That the member from Indiana (William D. Bynum) in the language used by him in committee of the whole and taken down and reported to the House and read at the clerk's desk, has been guilty of a violation of the rules and privileges of the House and merits the censure of the House for the same. Resolved, That the said William D. Bynum be now brought to the bar of the House by the Sergeant-at-arms and there the censure of the House be administered by the Speaker." The resolutions passed by a vote of 126 yeas to 103 nays. Then Mr. Bynum appeared at the bar, accompanied by all of his Democratic associates who could find room in the limited space, and who were loud in their applause. The Speaker requested the gentlemen to take their seats. Mr. Springer, acting as spokesman, declined to do so. The Speaker then said calmly: "The House of Representatives perceives that it is impossible for the Chair to enforce order on account of the action of certain members. The Chair will therefore proceed to do its duty under the present condition of disorder. William D. Bynum, you are arraigned at the bar of the House for having transgressed its rules by your remarks. For this offense the House desires that you should by censured at its bar. In the name of the House, therefore, I pronounce upon you its censure. The Sergeant-at-arms will now release you." Mr. Bynum—Under such circumstances I accept the censure of the House as a decoration of honor. [Democratic applause.] There was some disposition manifested by the Republicans to take umbrage at this remark, but before it was understood perfectly the House, at 10:30, adjourned.

Rural Notes and News.

Yes, get a good grindstone.

A good hired man is a treasure.

Lead, not follow, your field force.

How many trees have you planted?

Method and system pay on the farm.

Amber is a good variety of sorghum.

Work and pluck are surer than luck.

Ignore scrubs: raise more good stock.

The worst haul on the farm—alcohol.

Coming—Sheep-shearing and big clips.

Poland-China swine "take" in the West.

Prepare for the great cereal crop, corn.

Patronize prize-paying pigs and poultry.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION
THE RESULT OF USING LIQUID POLISHES

ABSOLUTELY NON COMBUSTIBLE EBONY STOVE ENAMEL

ONLY PERFECTLY SAFE LIQUID STOVE POLISH MADE

ALSO EBONY PASTE POLISH

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT BUY IT TRY IT

THE BUFFALO POLISH CO LTD BUFFALO NY

USE ONLY THE BEST.

UNDERWOOD'S CELEBRATED WRITING AND COPYING INKS, MUCILAGE, ETC.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS, CARBON PAPERS, LINEN PAPERS, RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.

163 LA SALLE ST. CHICAGO. | 30 VESEY ST. NEW YORK. | 10 JOHNSTON ST. TORONTO.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE

Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write WM. T. LINDLEY & CO., 214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. Mrs. A. A. GILLIAM, Treas. Woman's Exchange.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. BRIGHTINE cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.

St. Louis, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. STAND'D DRUG CO. 900 Franklin Av.

St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. MASTBROOK, D'gs 109 S. B'way.

Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. REV. JOHN HAWKES.

Chicago Times, March 28, '88-Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88,—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88, PRAISE BRIGHTINE.

Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros., J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packets for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address,

GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

MEMORIAL DAY.

BY NINETTE M. LOWATER.

Blossom, O flowers, in riotous splendor!
Open, O lingering buds, to the light!
I will gather you all, fresh, fragrant and tender,
And weave you in garlands, sweet, dewy and bright!

Over the graves where our heroes are sleeping
I will lay all your beauty and innocent bloom,
That they o'er whose dust a nation is weeping
May know that we love them, tho' low in the tomb.

Oh, for the tones that are silent forever,
Oh, for the hearts that were true to the right,
Oh, for the arms that knew weariness never,
But fought all the day till death's swift-falling night.

Nothing but freedom is worth such devotion,
Only the land which our forefathers gave,
Redeemed and unbroken from ocean to ocean,
Is worth half the cost of one soldier's low grave.

ROCK ELM, WIS.

MARK'S SUBSTITUTE.

A Decoration Day Sketch.

BY VELMA CALDWELL MELVILLE.

"I'M drafted, Kit."

"Oh, Mark!"

And with the exclamation pretty Mrs. Weidman fell into her husband's arms, shivering with terror.

"There, I've blurted it out in the worst way, after all this last hour spent in thinking how I could break it the easiest."

"But it will kill me, Mark. What shall I do; what can I do? I can't stand it, and I won't let you go; they may shoot you here first."

"There, there, Kittie, dear, you do not know what you are saying; you must try and be patient and submissive. There'll be some way provided, though I don't see how I can save you just now in the beginning of winter."

Poor Kit wept until completely exhausted, entirely deaf to her husband's weak attempts at consolation.

It was a sad home, but not the only one in the land that dread November of 1863.

The fatal "draft" put out the light forever on many a hearthstone.

* * * * * *

"So yer drafted, be ye, Neil?" remarked the Postmaster at The Forks, eying the stalwart young man addressed with a look which plainly said, "and I'm glad of it."

"I s'pose I am."

"Goin'?"

"No, sir! When Neil Weidman gets ready to work for Uncle Sam he'll let him know by enlisting; until then he'd have his Majesty know he ain't a-goin'."

"Not very patriotic!" sneered a bystander. "Now, I'd a been thar long ago, if't hadn't a been for this here game leg o' mine."

"Small loss to the country," growled Neil.

"S'pose Mark'll not go, neither?" interposed the Postmaster.

"Mark!"

Neil turned a face suddenly grown eager and white.

"He ain't on the draft?"

"But he be."

"Yes, and told me he'd have to go." added the bystander.

Without another word the young man turned on his heel, involuntarily loosening the scarf about his neck that he might breathe more easily. Swiftly he passed out into the dull November day, looking neither to right nor left.

On, on he walked, like a man in a terrible hurry, until three miles lay between himself and th[illegible] little group at The Forks. B[illegible] turning in at his own gateway, but, changing his mind, he passed on, still at the high rate of speed.

Two more miles were paced off in this mad fashion; then he wheeled about and faced toward home again.

When once more he found himself there he felt weak and spent. Slowly then he passed in and up the rude stairs into the little loft denominated "Neil's room."

"What's up now?" his sister remarked. "Ain't that draft business all settled?"

"I s'pose it's all right; he sent on the money," returned her husband, who had vainly tried to enlist, but had been rejected on account of deafness.

"I bet if I was him I'd enlist first chance now 'nd get my money back," he continued.

"Everybody ain't so fond of a dollar, nor so itchen for a fight as you be," responded his wife, in the shrill treble she always used in addressing him.

"I ain't no coward, none of the Moselys be," he retorted.

"Neither be the Weidmans, Dick Mosely, but they've got sense enough to look out for number one. They ain't dirt poor."

Neil, lying at full length on his couch in the loft, smiled grimly at their altercation.

"Dick ain't fit to manage here, but I don't care," he muttered; then turning his face to the wall, he slept through sheer mental and physical fatigue.

When he awoke it was growing dusk and Mollie was calling to know if he were sick, or why he did not go out to attend to his part of the "chores" as usual.

No sooner was breakfast over the following morning than he buttoned his coat about him and started off.

"Some way, Neil acts awful queer," shrieked Mollie to her husband.

"Does he?"

"Does he?" she muttered, turning away in disgust. "How stupid men are, anyway. Mark ain't, though, and Neil didn't use to be."

It had been a terrible night at Mark Weidman's.

Kit's mother had been summoned, but vainly she tried to think of something comforting to say. The outlook was dark.

Kit might, in fact would have to stay there in their little cabin home with her little ones. There was no room for her at her father's, for already a widowed daughter had come back there with four children.

A younger brother would have to come and stay with her—it was the only way.

She might go and stay at Mollie's—only—there was Neil.

It was about 10 o'clock when Neil Weidman rapped at his brother's door.

Mark's face showed something of what he was suffering when he opened it.

"Neil! Come in."

"Can't; I'm in a hurry. I was on the draft, but had the cash all ready, so sent it in yesterday. I hear you are on, too."

"I am; and heaven knows how I can be spared, but I could not raise fifty dollars, much less three hundred." His voice broke a little.

"Well, I came to tell you I will go in your place. Good-by."

"Neil!"

Mark sprang forward grasping his brother by the arm and fairly dragging him inside.

"There, don't make any fuss about it," muttered the young man. You can't be spared—I can. It will make no difference to any one whether I live or die."

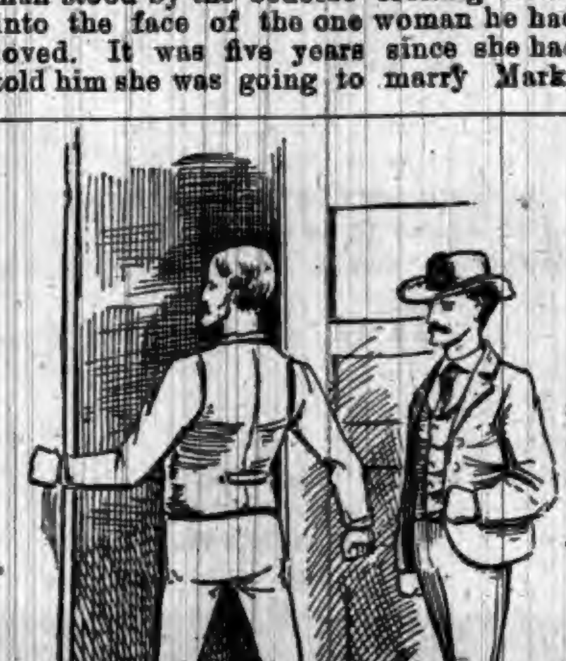
Mark had bowed his head on his hands and was shaking with emotion. Kit's voice from the other room called feebly to know what the matter was. Mrs. Bell, her mother, had gone home for a few hours, taking the little boys with her.

Springing up again, Mark opened wide the middle door, saying: "It is Neil, Kittie, and he offers to be my substitute. Come in here, brother, do."

"Haven't time this morning, Mark. Give my respects to Mrs. Weidman. I may be in again before leaving." His hand was on the latch.

"Please, Neil, come here."

It was Kit's pleading tones, and before he realized what he was doing the young man stood by the bedside looking down into the face of the one woman he had loved. It was five years since she had told him she was going to marry Mark, and in all that time they had never spoken—had rarely met.



"IT IS NEIL, KITTIE, AND HE OFFERS TO BE MY SUBSTITUTE."

"Oh, Neil, you are too good—you cannot mean it."

"I mean it," he said, coldly.

Through it all he had never suffered as he did now, to see how willing she was to have him sacrifice himself for Mark.

It was a moment of supreme bitterness, yet in spite of himself he lingered to gaze for perhaps the last time into the sweet face.

Her eyes were full of tears, and catching his hand she passed it to her lips, sobbing:

"You are so good, so noble! If it were not for the children we could not consent to your going.

"If only we could raise the money, but we have little to sell and there is no one to buy what we have."

"I have made up my mind and should go anyway, now. There is nothing to keep me."

"But Neil, this is too much," said Mark, who had now sufficiently recovered himself to comprehend the situation. "I cannot let you go, but if you could look after things here some and see that Kit did not suffer, I could go easier. There is only Joe to do anything."

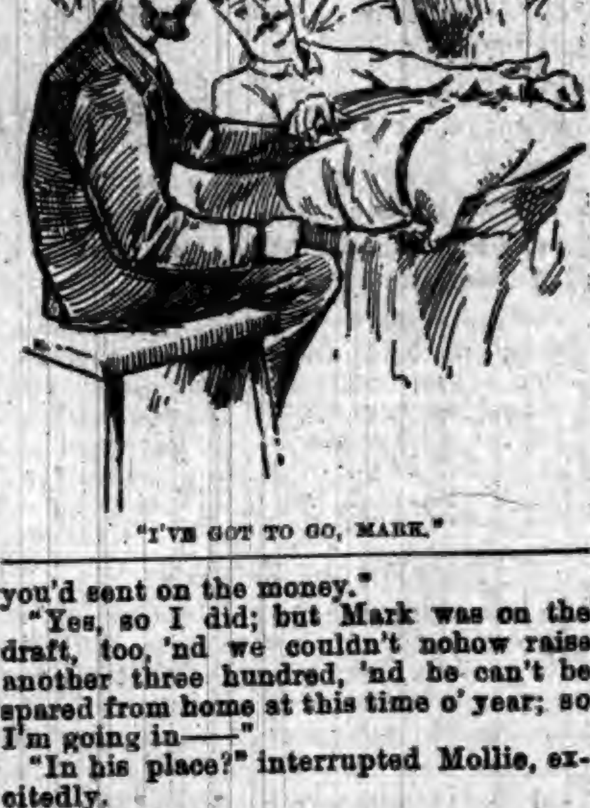
"No use talking, Mark, I am going; and now, good-by all."

He almost snatched his hand from Kit's clasp, and was gone.

* * * * *

"Mollie, I am going to the war."

"Goin' to the war, Neil? Why, I thought you'd sent on the money."



"I'VE GOT TO GO, MARK."

"Yes, so I did; but Mark was on the draft, too, 'nd we couldn't nohow raise another three hundred, 'nd he can't be spared from home at this time o' year; so I'm going in——"

"In his place?" interrupted Mollie, excitedly.

Neil nodded.

"Well, if I ever s'posed I'd live to see you give your life for Mark, after he cut you with——"

"There, there, Mollie! Now, about things here on the place."

"Why, I am sure I don't know; I s'pose Dick and me can manage, though I shall have the most of it to do. If Dick is my husband, I must say as I've said before, the Moselys are mighty poor managers; but, Neil, I hate awfully to have you go."

They talked a long while, but Mollie never dreamed of the terrible battle her brother fought out with himself that dull November day.

She never knew how tempted he had been to let his brother—the man who had robbed him of his life's happiness—look out for himself.

The tempter whispered, "Let him go, and if anything happens you are not to blame; then Kit will be a——" But, of course, he turned his back at this juncture each time; but the struggle had been a desperate one.

He was with Grant in the Wilderness, and all through the disastrous overland campaign. He was with him until sent under Sheridan to Five Forks, where he was severely wounded, but to him there was never such another battle as the one fought with himself during that mad walk under the gray November skies.

"Neil is wounded and I must go to him," Mark exclaimed in deepest anguish as he read the name. "Oh, Kittie, what if he dies! I never can stand it."

Before the sun went down that day he had kissed his wife, boys and infant daughter Nellie good-by and was on his way to his brother's side.

The meeting between them was affecting in the extreme, but Neil was by far most composed of the two.

"I've got to go, Mark, but it is no matter. I am so glad that it is not you."

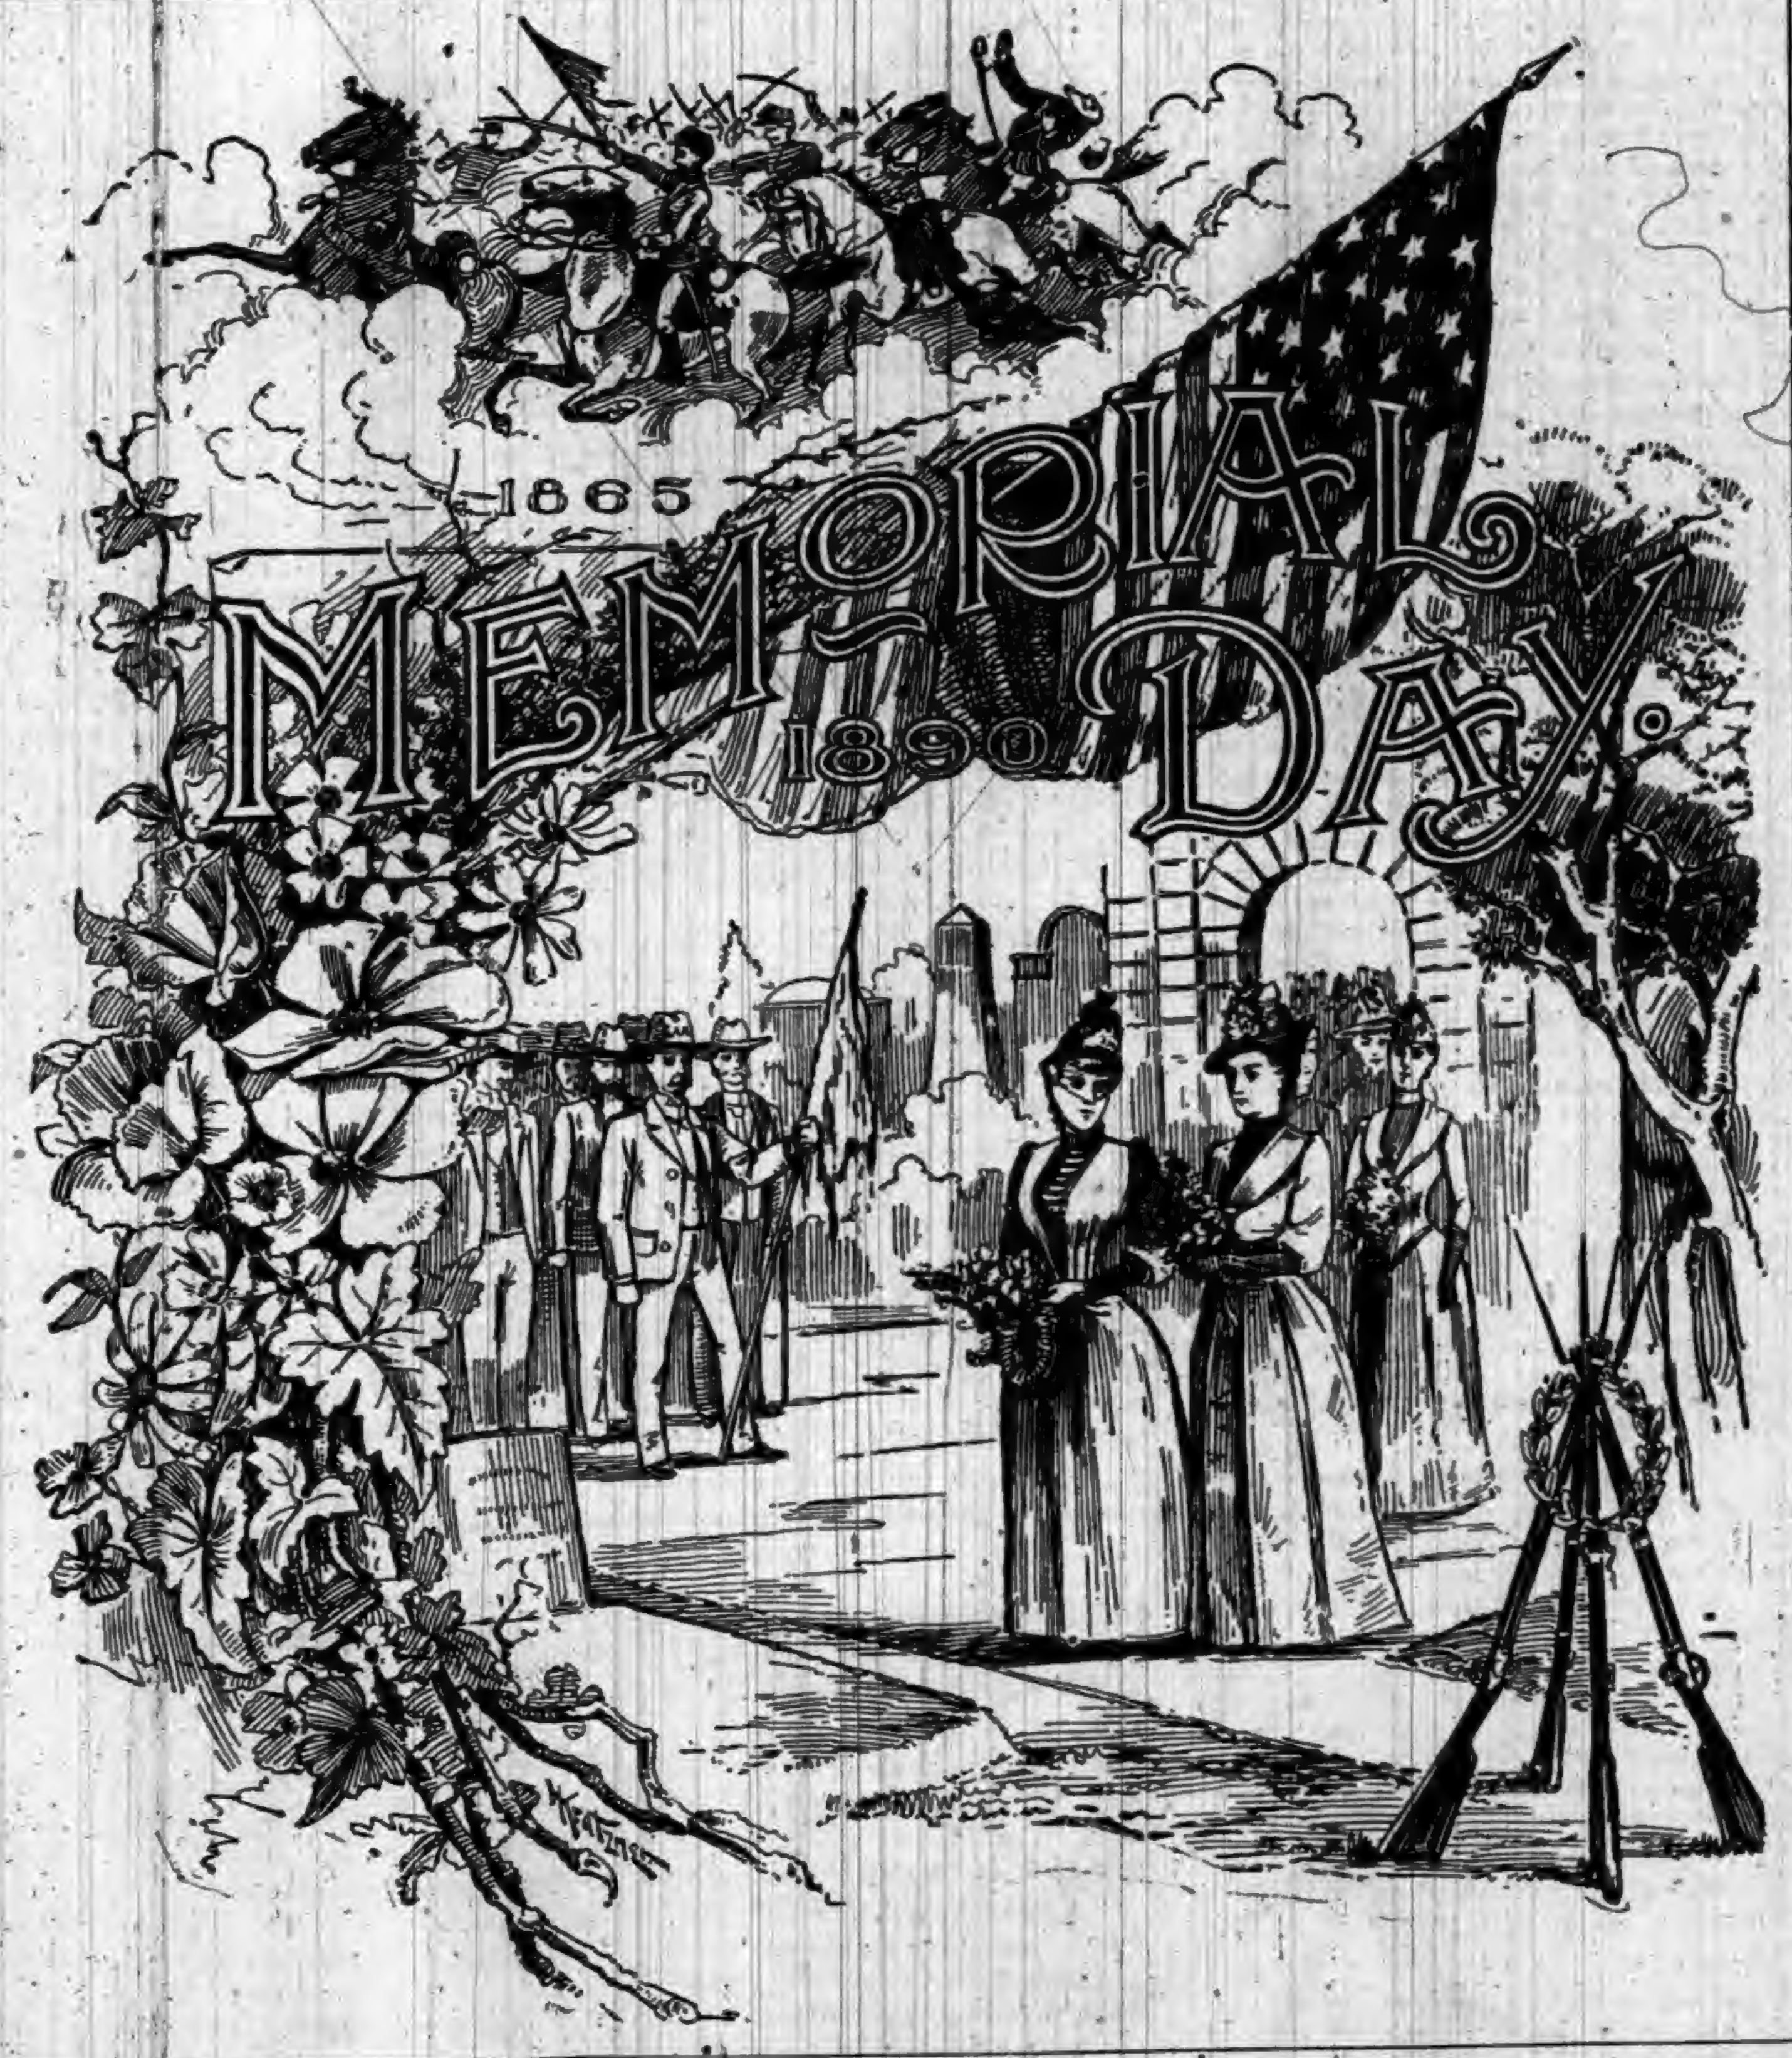
Before the end came, he seemed to realize that he was not unloved and that his heroic sacrifice had been appreciated.

Toward the last the wounded soldier became delirious, and it was from his ravings that his brother learned of his great temptation and the mastery gained over self that eventful day. He talked, too, of "Kit" until tears bathed the face of the agonized watcher.

When all was over, Mark Weidman went back home with the remains of his "substitute," and last Memorial Day, sitting by the flower-decked mound with Kit—now an elderly woman—and Nellie—a lovely young matron—I heard this little story.

On the marble slab at the head is the inscription:

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."



A Gloomy Day.

Blinks—Why do all the lawyers about the court-room look so glum to-day?

Jinks—Why, haven't you heard? Mr. Richman is dead.

"He must have been very popular among them."

"No; he died without leaving a will." —New York Weekly.

MARY OF SCOTLAND was beheaded Feb. 9, 1587.

SPARKS OF WIT.

ALWAYS at cross-purposes—Charon.

IT is reasonable to suppose that after a dead-beat dies and turns to dust he will settle.

WELLOFFE—Are you engaged in any industrial pursuit yet? Harduppe—Guess I am. I am still hunting work.

"YOU ought to thank the Lord your daughter married so well." "No," replied the millionaire. "The lord should thank me—I paid his debts."

"POOR fellow," said one Chicago detective of another, whose funeral he attended, "he tried hard enough, but he never turned up anything but his toes."

"I SEEM very popular with your father's dog," said Herbert to Mabel. "Indeed?" "Yes, the last time I tried to take my leave he did his best to detain me."

A GERMAN editor, in announcing his marriage, says: "We have taken this step for better or for worse; but it is a poor woman that can't support one editor."

AT a church fair: Man (to neighbor)—Look here, I've found a spoiled oyster. Neighbor—Don't say anything about it. They might come round and take it away from you.

SHE (just gone into housekeeping)—How did you like the shirt I ironed for you, Alfred? Didn't I do it beautifully? He—You do nothing by halves, my dear. You did it up brown, of course.

PAPA—How are you progressing in your language lessons, Ethel? Ethel—Oh, I have learned to say "thank you" and "if you please," in French. Tommy—That's more than you ever learned in English.

HE—My dear, I understand that the dime museum is exhibiting a woman who is 150 years old. She—Well, what of it? He—I was thinking, my dear, you might go see her and ask her how to make pumpkin pie.

THE battle steed: "I love this old horse," said the Colonel. "I feel that he saved my life at Gettysburg." "How?" "He kicked me in the stomach before the battle so that I could not go on the field, and my substitute got shot in the neck."

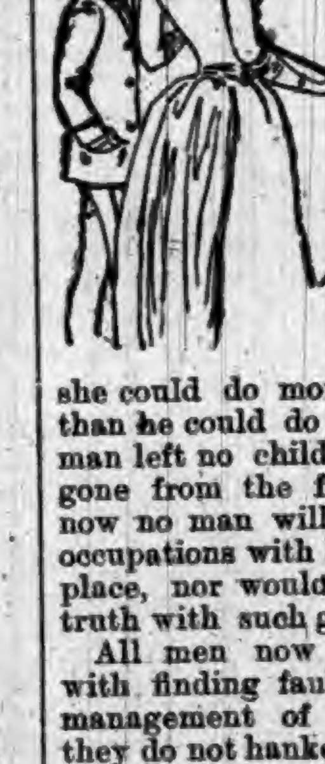
NOT QUITE RELENTLESS.

"Give you a kiss, indeed!" said she,
"Give you a kiss! My goodness!
'Tis strange that you should make so free,
I wonder at your rudeness.

"I could not such a thing endure,"
And then with manner nervous
She added, "for I'm very sure
That some one would observe us."

HUSBAND AND WIFE.

BY OLIVE HARPER.



VERY few of us there are who have not known the man who said he could do more work in one day than his wife could do in three, and I don't believe any woman ever forgot the result of his first and only trial, when he undertook to do the work in the house while she followed the plow. He gave in gracefully, and honestly said that she could do more work in one day than he could do in seven. But that man left no children, and his race is gone from the face of the earth, for now no man will attempt to change occupations with his wife, in the first place, nor would he own up to the truth with such good grace.

All men now content themselves with finding fault with their wives' management of the household, but they do not hanker after a trial of it. When a woman has a sick headache, and has to give up the reins of government for a day to the husband, he shows his superior capacity by letting the children run riot, by spoiling everything he undertakes to do, by making the house look as if the plague of the seven years' locusts had all concentrated into that one house, and devastated it to utter desolation; and then, when the pale shadow of the suffering wife makes her appearance again, and stands aghast at the dreadful sight, he is actually aggrieved, and puts his hat on and goes off in a fit of sulks, and it takes her at least a week to repair the ravages of one day of absence from the helm.

The careful little wife will go to market, and look about her with far-seeing eyes, and no butcher or other dealer can shake her resolution in the question of "cuts" or other necessities. She knows just what she wants, and how much. She may not be able to keep books by double and twisted entry, but she knows how much she wants to spend and what for, and she goes home with good, wholesome, cheap and suitable merchandise, each article adapted to the other, and enough for two or three days, three meals each, and one extra meal out of the remainder. She looks at a joint with a view to hash, or ragout, or pies, or minced meat, or some other future possibilities, and in her quick brain she mentally divides the joint into so much for each member of the family, and so much to be left over for something else. She buys her marketing with a clear knowledge of her subject, and can make ten dollars go as for as a man can twenty, and still save herself a nice silk dress in a season besides.

Watch her husband in the market, when he decides to take the reins of government in his hands, because his wife is extravagant. Just see the keen and you-can't-cheat-me kind of an air which he adopts, and which the market men know like a book. He isn't going to be fooled, not he. I will spare the reader the harassing details, and only say that when he goes home with his economy his horrified wife finds that he has bought the choicest cuts, and enough of them to last four days at least, but that he has got all things that must be used at least within two days, or they will spoil, and the same way with the vegetables.

He has spent nearly twice as much money as she would have done, and got a lot of perishable material, and forthwith he gets angry and says mean things if she opens her lips in mild protest.

The real facts of the case are that whenever a man grows dissatisfied with his home under the management of his wife, there is something wrong. Either he is extravagant himself, and wants to curtail the legitimate expenses of his family for his own selfish pleasures, or he is bilious, and wants a good dose of blue mass, with lots of ipecac thrown in, or his affairs are going badly, or he is allowing himself to degenerate into that most disagreeable creature—a cross old man.—Chicago Ledger.

FULL WEIGHT PURE DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

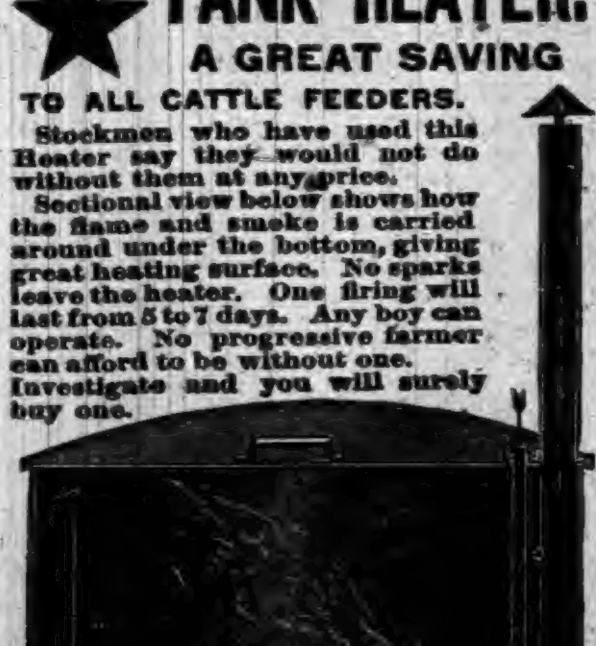
Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

★ TANK HEATER. A GREAT SAVING TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.

Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price. Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.



COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES.

O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO.; LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR— CRAYON PORTRAIT NICELY FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT.

Plush Border. Size, 24 x 28 inches.

For $3.00

As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00.

(ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.)

BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF PROVOST'S Cream Washing Powder.

ONLY COSTS 5c PER PACKAGE.

One Coupon in Every Package. Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity.

Ask Your GROCER For It.

If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it.

WARREN PROVOST & CO.,
26-30 Humboldt St., - Brooklyn, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *5 30	pm *6 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling.........	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 05	pm 12 15
Zanesville.......	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark...........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus.....ar	1 30	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus.....lv	am 10 00	pm 11 50	......	am 11 20	‡6 50
Mansfield........	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 05
Deshler..........	3 39	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance.........	4 22	5 45	10 15	8 50	1 50
Auburn jc........	......	6 40	11 34	10 23	2 55
Avilla...........	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	1 18	am 12 05	4 18
Wellsboro........	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *3 55	†7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc.......	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 25
Avilla...........	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc........	......	7 05	12 28	3 20	9 40
Defiance.........	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 48
Mansfield........	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus.........	*8 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark...........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville.......	8 50	1 31	1 42	1 38	5 20
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York......ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.

J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.

W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect May 18, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne.......dp	11 40 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era............	12 16 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc........	12 24	5 27	7 45
Auburn.............	12 29	5 30	8 05
Waterloo...........	12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit.............	1 02	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake......	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola.............	1 20	6 18	12 00
Fremont............	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading............	2 04	7 04	2 05
Bankers............	2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale..........	2 37	7 30	......
Fort Wayne Junc....	2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville.........	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson............	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson............	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville.........	8 50	12 10 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc....	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale..........	......	12 30	7 35
Bankers............	9 40	12 54	7 51
Reading............	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont............	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola.............	12 01	1 55	8 48
Pleasant Lake......	12 45 pm	2 06	8 58
Summit.............	1 45	2 16	9 08
Waterloo...........	2 20	2 30	9 20
Auburn.............	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc........	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era............	4 40	3 05	9 47
Fort Wayne.........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE
THE WABASH LINE
TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express...............2:28 am—Daily
Boston Express..................5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom...................2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim....................8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express.................1:32 am. Daily
Logansport Accom................6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express..................12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.........5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT. Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.

CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.

F. CHANDLER. Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

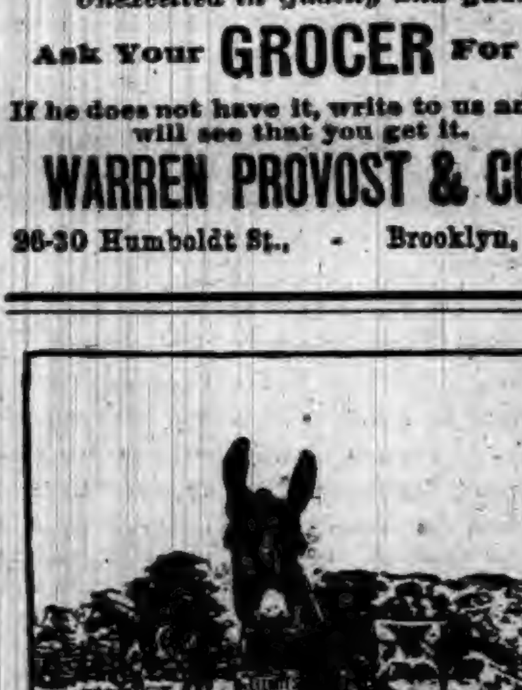
INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE

NO TROUBLE NO BOILING

EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT

POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN

STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS PHILADELPHIA, PA.



DR. ELLIOTT'S MEDICATED FOOD,

A Sure Cure for all Diseases in HORSES, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY

G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............MAY 22, 1890.

Announcements.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

I will again be a condidate for the position of representative in the state legislature from this county, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

FREEMAN KELLEY.

ED. COURIER: Please state that my name will be presented to the democratic county convention as a one term candidate for representative to the General Assembly. W. H. DILLS.

FOR CLERK.

W. B. Brown, of Union township, will submit his name to the democratic county convention of May 31, for the nomination for clerk, subject to the decision of the delegates.

Wm. H. Leas, of Grant township, hereby submits his name to the democratic county convention, in the hope that he may receive at their hands, the choice for clerk of DeKalb circuit court.

Hon. D. D. Moody desires to say to the democratic delegate convention that assembles in Auburn May 31, that he hopes for a favorable consideration at their hands of his claims as a candidate for county clerk. He leaves his case subject to their decision.

Solomon Barney, of Concord, at the desire of many supporters will be a candidate for county clerk, subject to the action of the democratic convention.

TO THE EDITOR: Please announce me as a candidate from Smithfield, for the office of clerk of DeKalb county, subject to the decision of the coming convention. JAMES W. CLARK.

AUDITOR.

I. N. Coal, of Auburn, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention for the nomination for auditor, and asks that his claims may have impartial consideration at their hands.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COURIER: Please announce the name of Frank Seiler, of Fairfield township, who will be a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the county democratic nominating convention to be held at Auburn, May 31, 1890.

I would respectfully announce my intention of being a candidate for the office of county auditor, subject to the decision of the democratic nominating convention.

FRANK A. BORST.

H. N. Coffinbury, of Keyser township, will submit his name to the delegates to the democratic convention, as a candidate for county auditor, subject to their decision.

W. L. Blair, of Willmington, desires to say to the delegates to the democratic county convention that he will submit his name to them and ask at their hands the nomination for county auditor.

SHERIFF.

Phil. Plum will be a candidate for renomination for sheriff, subject to the democratic nominating convention of May 31.

TREASURER.

Reuben Sawvell, of Franklin, is announced as a candidate for the office of treasurer, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

Perry Fitch, of Butler township, at the request of numerous democratic friends will ask the nomination for treasurer at the coming county convention.

B. L. Duncan, of Grant, will ask the nomination for treasurer at the hands of the delegates to the democratic convention at Auburn, May 31.

Henry Hines of Jackson township, will be a candidate before the democratic county convention, for the office of treasurer, subject to their decision.

RECORDER.

George L. Lanning, of Union, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention which meets in this place May 31.

The name of Cory Shugers, of Jackson, will be submited to the favorable considation of the democratic convention for the office of recorder at the request of many friends.

S. R. Heberling, of Union township, will be a candidate for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic convention that meets May 31.

Noah H. Weaver, of Grant township, submits his name for the office of recorder, subject to such action as may be deemed wise and consistent by the democratic convention of May 31.

EDITOR COURIER: Please announce the name of Lucius C. Loveland, as a candidate from Stafford township, for county recorder, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention. MANY DEMOCRATS.

EDITOR COURIER: I will submit my name to the democratic county convention, as a candidate from Fairfield, for the office of recorder, subject to their decision. SAMUEL WILLIAMS.

TO THE COURIER: I will again be be a candidate from Grant township, for recorder, of DeKalb county before the democratic convention of May 31, and subject to its decision.

W. S. GETTS.

Warren N. Miller, of Newville, will ask the nomination for recorder of DeKalb county at the coming democratic convention and subject to their decision.

Mahlon Baker, of Concord, will at the request of many democrats be a candidate for recorder at the coming county convention.

SURVEYOR.

Jacob M. Hook will be a candidate for renomination for county surveyor, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

COMMISSIONER.

The friends of Henry Lindorfer, of Jackson township, desire to announce his name as candidate for commissioner of the southwest district, at the coming democratic convention.

I will be a candidate for commissioner of the southwest district for a re-nomination at the hands of the democratic convention of May 31.

GILBERT I. PATTERSON.

EDITOR COURIER: The many democratic friends of James M. Henderson, of Jackson township, will ask his nomination for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the coming county convention.

Henry Hall, of Concord, will be a candidate for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

Robert N. Crooks, of Grant township, will be a candidate for commissioner of the southeast district, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention of May 31.

T. F. Franks, of Richland, will be presented to the democratic convention as a candidate for commissioner for the southwest district, by a number of democratic friends over the county in the hope that his claims may receive favorable consideration.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a decree to me directed from the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Hannah R. Moss is plaintiff and Perry Alling is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of two hundred forty-seven dollars and seventy-six cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Lots numbered 141 and 142 in the Western addition to the town of Auburn situated in DeKalb county Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.

Auburn, Indiana, May 8, 1890.
JAMES E. ROSE, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SALESMEN WANTED

To canvass for the sale of nursery stock. Situations Permanent, Salary and Expenses from start. Quick selling specialties. No experience necessary. Outfit Free. Write for terms, stating age. H. E. HOOKER CO., NURSERYMEN,
Rochester, N. Y

Wanted.

Two good salesmen, either on salary or Commission. Independent territory given to each. Write at once and secure choice of territory. Address, MAY BROTHERS, NURSERYMEN,
Rochester, N. Y.

W. H. S. Again.

The party-colored, loud smelling liar of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, who signs himself "W. H. S." from a lack of courage to write "Smith" is out again with another letter. It is very proper that he this time, enters into a partnership, (unlimited) in the lying business, with the equally loud-smelling Garrett Clipper, and the "two of a kind" fall first on each other's necks, and then when the fumes of whisky enable them to assume the upright, they fall fiercely onto Judge McClellan. We can inform "W. H. S." that he has at last found his level. His partnership with the worst drunken dead beat and liar in DeKalb county is the very thing the people here are prepared to see him undertake "Birds of a feather flock together." There is said to be a community of feeling as well as of purpose, between thieves, jackals and similar congenial characters. So the people here, who have not known just what "W. H. S." is will now have a fine chance to size him up by the company he has selected. It might also interest "W. H. S." to know that in the very next issue after the one from which he copies that article of the Clipper against Judge McClellan, that sweet scented sheet takes it all back, and says: "We have since read the communication and again brand it as a contempible attack." Why don't W, H. S. quote this? It is to be hoped however that this change of sentiment by the junior partner up here will not break up the partnership. These two newspaper (?) writers should keep together. They belong together, like smallpox and eruptions.

"W. H. S." points with pride to the big wad he shot in the form of his late letter No. 1, against Judge McClellan. We presume that such as he would naturally feel proud of it. A man who makes a living by lying, feels proud of brilliant achievements in his chosen line. Decent people, however, who know Judge McClellan, though they may not know his cowardly assailant, take a different view. The coward, while he hides behind a "nom de plume" feels safer, of course, than if he was known, more especially than if he resided in this community. He complains because the COURIER called him a liar. The COURIER is responsible for what it says. It he don't like it, he can come to Auburn and seek us out. We are ready to back up what we say. No "argument" is needed when there is no fact presented, on which one can base an argument. But we are wasting words on an unworthy subject. "W. H. S." is not worth the space. We only call his attention a moment to a few points that he aims to make against Judge McClellan, and mark the words he uses, so as to save our space. Then the public will know which to believe, him or the COURIER. The people of DeKalb county, without regard to politics, know already. We challenge "W. H. S." to come to Auburn and prove any of the following points he advances. He will not dare to attempt it.

1. W. H. S. cannot find one man to back his lying statements.
2. He cannot show any "fight waging with bitterness in DeKalb county" among democrats, as he asserts.
3. He can't show one man of "McClellan's strongest friends who admit the ruth" of his lying statements.
4. He can't name a single "democrat of the district" from whom he "received etters" on this subject.
5. He can't name one of the "prominent democrats from other counties" that "visited Auburn and satisfied themselves from an examination of the records and from conversations that the truth had had been told" in W. H. S.'s letter.
6. He can't find a reputable person in either party in DeKalb county, that will say the "Clipper is an honest democratic paper," or that its assertions have any weight with respectable people.
7. We challenge him to prove that he "visited Auburn and examined the records." We have asked in the clerk's the auditor's and the recorder's offices, and no such thing has been done. Therefore, the men he says he "talked with and gave him the facts and were men of undoubted veracity," were all in his mind. He never was here.
8. He can't show a sign of truth for his assertion that "McClellan is at the head of a political ring in his county." There is no ring here, and never has been.
9. He can't point to one "prominent democrat, of Ft. Wayne," who talked with "W. H. S." or took any stock in his lies.
10. He can't give the name of one "democrat in Auburn who spends his time denouncing the democrats who furnished items" for W. H. S. He was never in Auburn.

These are only a few of the points in his last screed. He will not answer one of them, for he cannot. No one but a fool would boast that such a letter "was like a bombshell bursting in a tank of oil." No one but the silly author viewed it in that light. It was more like a lighted match thrown into water—a very brief fizzle. In conclusion: If the Cincinnati Commerical Gazette has any regard for its reputation as a newspaper, it will do well to choke off W. H. S. and give Indiana a correspondent, who will not be a disgrace to the paper. And finally, so we may not be misunderstood, we again challenge this inventor and publisher of inorganic lies, to come up to Auburn, examine the records, and prove a single one of the points he has advanced. And if he wants to interview the editor of this paper, he will find him "in" at all reasonable hours.

J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER. IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

NARROW gauge roads are going out of fashion. Last year, 3,000 miles were changed to standard width.

WHY do the people of Kansas want to be relieved of the tariff on articles from Mexico, if, as said by republican editors, the tariff makes the articles cheaper?

AN intelligent farmer out in Nebraska figures up the tariff tax he pays each year, at $142.02 while all his direct taxes county, city and state amount to only $76.82. Protection is a great thing.

THE democrats have nominated Rich and Vaux, a low tariff man, to take the place of the late Samuel Randall, a high protectionist. The republicans will not put up a man against him. Low tariff ideas seem to be gaining ground.

BEN BUTTERWORTH, the well known Ohio republican member of Congress, a life-long republican, last week made a strong speech against the McKinley tariff bill. He told the high taxers some ugly truths, about tariff making a thing cheaper.

THE Tin Plate association put money enough into Morrison's district in Illinois, in 1886 to beat him for they feared he would get the tax taken off of tin plate. Now, the McKinley bill is fixed up so as to refund this money by taking it out of people's pockets, for the tariff on tin plate has been more than doubled.

JOHN G. CARLISLE, ex-speaker of the house of representatives, was elected United States Senator for Kentucky last Friday, to succeed the late Senator Beck. It was a wise choice. Carlisle will now have to close up his work in the House, and a successor will have to be elected to take his place there. He will be greatly missed.

PRINTERS are now publishing an article opposing that clause in the McKinley tariff bill, that makes the woolen felt blankets used on presses, pay a duty of 105 per cent. You see, gentlemen, that is to make our printing blankets cheaper. Everyone of you, if a republican has been telling the people that the tariff makes an article cheaper, and that it is paid by the foreigner. Why need we object to have the foreigners pay out big duty for us?

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Cy. Kelly, of Cheyenne, is spending a few days here.

Wm. Fisher is building a barn on his property on Elm street.

Judge McBride's family expect to move to Elkhart early in June.

Will Miller and Joe Foreman are fishing at Long Lake this week.

Miss Julia Owen, of Auburn, is visiting Mrs W. J. Miller this week.

Minnie and Willie Herzog are visiting friends in Carlisle and Laporte.

Grueter Bros. have newly painted the front of their business building.

Ezra Patterson, of Galesburg, Ill., recently visited his brothers and sisters here.

Rev. Yost preached two very excellent sermons at the Evangelical church last Sunday.

The growing number of drunken men seen on our streets is a burning disgrace to the town.

Mrs. F. C. Waterman is improving her property on Union street by giving it a coat of paint.

Wilson Smith, of Mosherville, Mich., is here to spend the summer with his brother, Will Smith.

Mrs. J. A. Dennison recently received a visit from her sister, the wife of Rev. Eberly, of Montpelier, O.

Mrs. E. C. Miller and children, of Butler, are spending the week with Mr. Miller's parents south of town.

Mrs. Fred Nopper, of Butler, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Deventer, the fore part of the week.

Miss Cora Fausett writes from Wisdom, Montana, that she is safely settled and began her school last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook, of Edgerton, O., came up Saturday to be present at the reopening of the Evangelical church.

D. H. Foster's wife and little daughter joined him last Thursday. They will board this summer at Mart. Rhinehart's.

Mrs. Chas. Bassett went to Hicksville, O., last Tuesday to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ainsworth.

Cement walks are being built on most of our streets. Capt. Brand is now having one made in front of his home on Wayne street.

Mrs. Isaac Speer has just received notice of the death of her sister-in-law, wife of Frank Coats, of Troy township, who died with measles.

The Evangelical church was re-opened for worship on last Sunday. They have so thoroughly fitted the church as to make it look like a new building.

Rev. Ackman moved his family to Ligonier last week. He had made arrangements to go to New Richmond, but afterwards saw reason to change his plans.

Chas. Bassett, Jr., is so far recovered from the effects of his broken limb as to be able to ride to and from his place of business. He depends upon his crutches yet.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Graves, who has been teaching in our schools for two years or more, contemplates moving to Toledo, where she has a son in business. She has made many friends here.

The broom company has been thoroughly reorganized, and C. S. Harper elected as foreman, taking the place of Mr. Metevier, who intends to go to Bluffton to engage in the broom business. The factory is crowded with orders to their full capacity.

By an oversight last week, we neglected to mention the death of the wife of Wm. Patterson, Sr., of Hamilton. She had been called to Edgerton, where her granddaughter lay sick with diptheria. She herself contracted the disease and in a short time died. Some of the relatives from Waterloo attended the funeral.

Last Thursday night some one broke a window in front of J. A. Dennison's confectionery store, through which they stole tobacco. Nothing strange about this, when so many boys, some so young as hardly to have put off dresses, are seen on the streets puffing cigars or chewing tobacco. The habit is formed; they must have it; and when out of money, are tempted to steal.

BUTLER.

J. A. Campbell visited his son at Long Cliff last week and found him greatly improved; so much so that the superintendent assured him that in all probability he would be discharged within a month fully cured.

Frank Stewart and J. M. Lingenfelter are retiring from the grocery trade, and are to be succeeded by Ira J. Crow and a Mr. Ellsworth, late in the employ of S. L. Hamlin. We wish the new firm abundant success.

The Thompson-Waller matter has not yet been adjusted. The defalcations of Thompson prove much greater than were at first supposed. He completely gutted the firm, then decamped, leaving Waller with the stock and debts, nearly equal amounts.

The M. E. friends held their quarterly meeting on last Sabbath. A vigorous effort is being made to make Butler a station, though opposed by some of the Butler members. At this writing, the outcome is not known, but a squabble is feared over it.

The postoffice muddle has finally been settled, and A. G. Jones steps in as C. S. Stoy steps out. Mr. Stoy has served his own party for a full term and the new administration for over a year, and perhaps retires as well satisfied as the average officer subject to the tenure of office.

Selecting the Delegates.

Caucuses for selecting delegates to the democratic county convention will be held all over the county this week on Saturday. These are important meetings, and the voters that assemble have an important duty to perform. Every other sentiment, except a desire to serve the county's best interests should be laid aside. The delegates chosen should be selected with this end in view. The chances and choices of the campaign should be fully discussed, so that all will be certain to study the situation intelligently. Every candidate has his friends and possibly his enemies. But the people should look to a man's qualifications and the kind of service he has rendered his party, and above all, the kind he will render the county and the people, if nominated and elected. And we believe delegates should be left, to a certain extent, to exercise their own judgment in these things. Nor should delegates be selected entirely from the older voters, but should be made to represent all classes, the old and the young. Many young men may be found, who would be better in this place, than some of the older ones. Give them a chance. The main thing is that the delegate be intelligent and honest. If he is, the chances are he will vote at the convention for the good of the people and of the party, no matter what his personal choice may be. And no candidate should be chosen by these delegates, unless certain he can poll the full vote of his party. We have plenty of good men now in the field. If we fail to choose a good man, whose fault will it be? If a weak man is chosen or one who will not be a good public servant, the blame will rest largely on the delegates. Then let us talk over all these things at the caucus and then select men for delegates, who will do their duty to the county, to the party and to themselves.

Special Postoffice Notice.

The Auburn postoffice will be closed May the 30th from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m.

G. W. Gordon, P. M.

School Commencement.

Thursday evening of next week, the annual school commencement will be held at the Opera House in Auburn. The graduates are: Carrie Ensley, Della Shugers, Lucy Otto and Hattie Shearer. The program will be:

Ocarina and guitar duet,
Hartman and Davenport
Prayer.
"Moonlight Dance,"
Scott, Hanna, Bell and Widney.
"Consider the Lilies," Carrie Ensley
Solo—"Angels Fair," Mrs. Post.
"Ideas, the Life of a People," Hattie Shearer
Piano Duet—"Pearl of the Sea,"
Misses Barclay and Davis.
"The Rainbow in the Bubble," Della Shugers.
"Bohemian Girl," Little German Band.
"Dreams of the Past and Realities of the Present," Lucy Otto
Presentation of Diplomas and Scholarships.
"Good Night," Scott, Hanna, Bell and Widney.
Benediction.

Charlie Pommert has papered and decorated his barber shop in beautiful style, till it is as nice as a parlor. The west side about the mirror and cabinets is especially beautiful. It does one good to lean back and admire them while being "lathered and shaved."

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of Solomon Shearer, Jackson and Concord town ships DeKalb county, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday, the 3rd day of June, 1890, the same being the 2d day of of their June term, 1890.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to-wit:

Beginning two hundred and fifty (250) feet south of the center of the southwest quarter of section fourteen (14), township thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east, DeKalb county Indiana, and from thence as follows:

No.	Course.	Distance.
1	east	900 feet
2	south 78 degrees east	600 feet
3	north 85 degrees east	400 feet
4	north 63 degrees east	580 feet
5	north 51 degrees east	120 feet
6	north 38 degrees east	300 feet
7	north 81 degrees east	300 feet
8	north 50 degrees east	200 feet
9	north 20 degrees east	425 feet
10	east	1,100 feet
11	south 58 degrees east	275 feet
12	south 70 degrees east	180 feet
13	north 78 degrees east	360 feet
14	north 85 degrees east	210 feet
15	north 48 degrees east	350 feet
16	east	350 feet
17	north 23 degrees west	150 feet
18	north 28 degrees east	200 feet
19	north 51 degrees east	500 feet
20	north 25 degrees east	140 feet
21	north 12 degrees west	380 feet
22	north 68 degrees east	240 feet
23	north 58 degrees east	400 feet
24	south 80 degree east	280 feet
25	east	400 feet
26	south 57 degrees east	100 feet
27	south 75 degrees east	250 feet
28	south 50 degrees east	400 feet
29	south 60 degrees east	400 feet
30	south 70 degrees east	450 feet
31	east	300 feet
32	north 57 degrees east	622 feet

Ending seventy-two (72) feet below stake No. 43 of the Daniel Shilling drain No. 517.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Henry W. Long,
John Strong,
Francis M. Hines,
Solomon Shearer,
Daniel Shearer,
Mary Shearer,
The heirs of Abraham Johnson deceased to wit,
Uriah Johnson,
John Johnson,
Mary Rock,
James Johnson,
Zeruiah Hettiger,
Abraham Johnson Jr.,
And the unknown heirs of Nathan Johnson, and perhaps others unkn'n,
William Johnson,
Michael Wagoner,
Rebecca Loutzenhiser,
William Wise,
Daniel Morr,
Frederick Morr,
Daniel Wyatt,
John Wastler,
Nancy Cobler,
John Hamilton,

C. C. WALTER,
Auditor DeKalb County.

A Grand Opportunity

TO SECURE A

3/4 LIFE SIZE and INDIA INK PORTRAIT FREE.

WE take pleasure in announcing to our patrons and the public generally that we have made arrangements whereby we can make the most liberal offer ever made to customers in our line. Notwithstanding our reputation has always been that of the most enterprising merchant in this section and that at our store has always been found the best goods at the very lowest prices the market afforded. And we wish to impress this fact upon everyone, also the fact that we are not trying to see how little, but how much we can give for a dollar.

Knowing the very general desire of our customers for good family portraits, we have made arrangements with one of the largest and best known portrait establishments in this country, whereby they are to copy and finish for us a limited number of photos of our customers' selection in ¾ life size, finished in Crayon and India Ink, all framed, ready to hang upon the wall.

These portraits sell at retail for $7.00, yet we are prepared to give one away free to every customer who makes cash purchases of us to the amount of $25.00. Although quite a number of these $7.00 portraits will be given away by us, practically, amounting to a large discount on your purchases, our prices will be as low, if not lower than ever before.

Sample picture on exhibition at our store.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we hope by future enterprise, liberality and fair dealings to merit a continuance of the same.

The Famous,

NORTH SIDE COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, IND.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein H. S. Maring administrator of the estate of Daniel Adams deceased, is plaintiff, and Ensign B. Rose, Catharine J. Rose, Lewis Moore and Edward W. Fosdick are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three thousand six hundred and forty three dollars and twenty-seven cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, May 24, 1890.

Between the hours of 10 o'clock, a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north half of the northwest quarter of section thirty (30) in township thirty-five (35) north of range fifteen (15) east containing eighty acres more or less, in DeKalb county, state of Indiana. The said property has been appraised and will not be sold for less than two thirds its appraised value.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
F. D. Gunsaulus Att'y for Plaintiff.
Auburn, Ind., May 1, 1890.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

BURLINGTON ROUTE.

But One Night Chicago to Denver.

"The Burlington's Number One" daily vertibule express leaves Chicago at 1:30 p. m. and arrives at Denver at 6:30 p. m. the next day. Quicker time than by any other route. Direct connection with this train from Peoria. Additional express trains, making as quick time as those of any other road, from Chicago, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Cheyenne, Denver, Atchison, Kansas City, Houston and all points west, northwest and southwest. 19 26

County Convention.

By order of the Democratic Central Committee of DeKalb County Indiana, notice is hereby given that the County Convention of the Democratic party of such County, will be held at Auburn on

Saturday, May 31, 1890,

At 10 o'clock a. m. to place in nomination, the candidates to be voted for at the general election to be held on November 4, 1890. The officers to be elected at such election, are:

A Representative.
A Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court.
A County Auditor.
A Sheriff.
A Treasurer.
A Recorder.
A Surveyor.
A Coroner.
A Commissioner for the Southwest district.
A Commissioner for the Southeast district.

The basis of representation to such convention is one delegate for every ten (10) votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State in 1888, in each precinct, and one delegate for a fraction of five (5) or more votes given such Secretary of State, therein. The votes given for such Secretary of State in 1888, and delegates to the County Convention from each election precinct in DeKalb County, are as follows:

ELECTION PRECINCTS.	SEC'Y OF STATE VOTE.	NO. OF DELE'S.
Butler	113	11
Jackson	214	21
Concord South	120	12
Concord North	130	13
Newville	75	8
Stafford	73	7
Wilmington South	173	17
Wilmington North	216	22
Auburn South	246	25
Auburn North	196	20
Waterloo East	164	16
Waterloo West	81	8
Richland	202	20
Fairfield	238	24
Smithfield	170	17
Franklin	141	14
Troy	56	6
Keyser East	271	27
Keyser West	263	26
Total		314
Necessary to a choice		158

It was also ordered that caucuses for the purpose of selecting such delegates, will be held in each election precinct in the county (except the precincts in Union, Grant Wilmington and Keyser townships) at the usual place of holding elections on Saturday May 24, 1890, at one (1) o'clock in the afternoon, and in the precincts in the townships of Union, Grant, Wilmington and Keyser on the same day at 7½ o'clock in the evening. Provided that a different hour of such day may be named by the Central committeeman of any precinct of which due notice shall be given, by such committeeman.

At the same time and place of holding such caucuses, there will also be selected one delegate from each precinct for each of the following conventions, viz. The State Convention, the Congressional Convention, the Judicial Convention and the Joint Representative Convention. But the voting power of such delegate to such last named conventions is to be determined by shuch conventions respectively.

ALFRED KELLEY, Chairman,
Dem. Co. Cent. Com.

Township Caucuses.

The democrats of Grant township will hold their caucus to select delegates to the several conventions, on Saturday May 24, at 7:30 p. m. Those in the east precinct will meet in the office of J. F. Shuman, and those in the west will meet at the office of O. P. Smith. All come.

The democrats of Union township will meet at Ensley's Hall in Auburn. On Saturday May 24, 1890, at 3 p. m. sun time, sharp, to select delegates to the several conventions named in the general call published in the COURIER. All democrats should make it a point to attend this caucus. COMMITTEE.

Report to the Courier.

Let the COURIER have an early report from each caucus, giving a list of the delegates selected. The committeeman can do this, or see that it is done. It will not only please us, but be a great accommodation to the people at large, as all come to this office for such information. Don't fail to do it.

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales, SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

CHAMPION BINDERS MOWERS

ARE THE BEST AND SO WARRANTED.

SAMPLES AT ONE OR MORE AGENCIES IN EVERY COUNTY. FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ADDRESS,

THE WARDER, BUSHNELL & GLESSNER COMPANY,

CHICAGO, ILL.—SOLE MANUFACTURERS.—SPRINGFIELD, O.

The Seal of Popularity

AND

ATTRACTIVENESS

Has been placed upon our

Spring and Summer Stock.

Great in Assortment

AND

UNAPPROACHABLE

In price and quality.

Everything you want in the line of Boots and Shoes, Waiting For You At

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

We Have Got Them!

THE BEST and CHEAPEST

SUMMER CORSET

FOR 50 CENTS.

Do not fail to see them.

New Millinery

—FOR THE—

Summer -:- Season.

—LARGE LINE—

Smith & Angell

Fast Black Hosiery.

(Every pair fully warranted.)

OPENED NEW THIS WEEK.

CARPETS! CARPETS!!

LACE CURTAINS....SCRIMS.

Excellent Selection at Low Prices.

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition

In the matter of the petition of Joachim Witt Richland and Union township, DeKalb County, Indiana, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday the 3rd day of June 1890, the same being the second day of their June term, 1890.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route, to-wit:

Beginning ten (10) rods east and six (6) rods north of the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of section thirteen (13), township thirty-four (34) north of range twelve (12) east, DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence as follows:

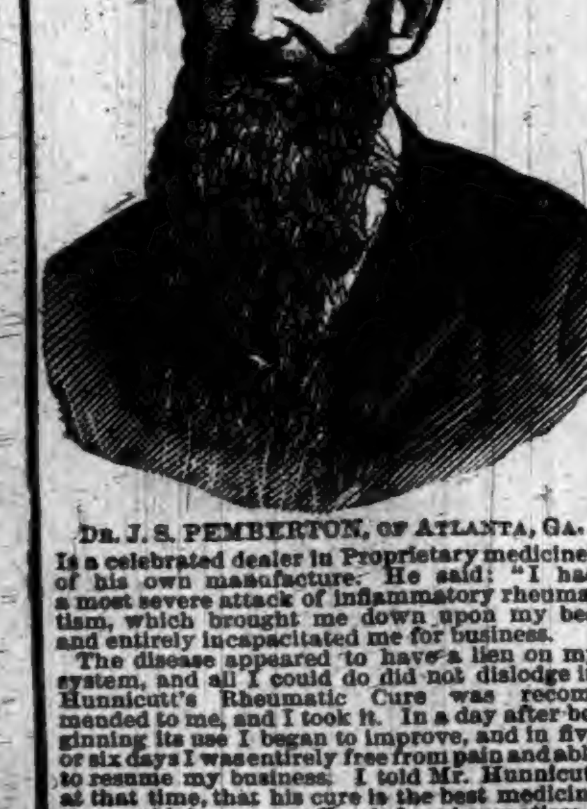
No.	Course.	Distance.
1	south 70 degrees east	700 feet
2	east	1875 feet
3	east	625 feet

Ending thirty-six (36) feet below stake forty-two (42) of the Henry Koff drain, No. 464, of DeKalb county, Indiana, said ending being in the west half (½) of the northwest quarter of section nineteen (19) township thirty four (34), north of range thirtee (13) DeKalb county, Indiana.

The proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Joachim Witt,
Martha J. Sheffer,
David S. Ober and
Harriet D. Ober,
Martha McKay,
Joseph McKay,
Groscop heirs—whose names are Mary Groscop, William Groscop, Charles Groscop, Lena Reisch, Frank Groscop, Frederick Groscop Jr., Sopha Hebel, John Groscop, Herman Groscop, Emma Groscop, and perhaps others unknown.

C. C. WALTER,
Auditor DeKalb County



WORTH CONSIDERING!

DR. J. S. PEMBERTON, OF ATLANTA, GA.

Is a celebrated dealer in Proprietary medicines of his own manufacture. He said: "I had a most severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which brought me down upon my bed and entirely incapacitated me for business.

The disease appeared to have a lien on my system, and all I could do did not dislodge it. Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure was recommended to me, and I took it. In a day after beginning its use I began to improve, and in five or six days I was entirely free from pain and able to resume my business. I told Mr. Hunnicutt at that time, that his cure is the best medicine the world has ever offered for rheumatism."

The Doctor refused $2500 to say as much for another remedy. This he said free and voluntary.

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE

is a superb Female Tonic and blood purifier, rendering the skin soft and beautiful, removing blotches, pimples, etc., increasing the appetite and invigorating the system. Send for book of particulars, FREE. Address.

HUNNICUTT MEDICINE CO., Atlanta, Ga.

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety, comfort, equipment, track, and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 19 24

Found Guilty!

THE FIRM OF SCHAAB & MURPHY

Have Been Found Guilty

——OF DOING THE——

Largest Clothing Business

IN AUBURN, IND.,

Simply because they make it so warm for their competitors that they cannot compete with their prices and styles. There is no use talking, but that their

Prices, Styles and Quality

Will win where competition cannot possibly survive. People who have seen their beautiful display of

Spring and Summer Suits

Within the past month, will attest the fact that no other Clothing House in the city can duplicate the line of styles and quality they are offering.

Their Children's Suits

Are the envy of all dealers in taste, style and fabric. They are world-beaters in this line, having inside facilities to give you styles and prices. See their

NOBBY SPRING HATS

In all the fashionable colors, for less money than they can be purchased for anywhere else. Everybody is invited to call and see goods and get prices at

SCHAAB & MURPHY'S,

West of Courthouse,

AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Soda water. Robbins & McCord's.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Mrs. Etta Ryan, of Fremont, was in town this week visiting relatives.

Plaids and stripe surah silks, and figured china silks at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 21 23

Clyde Nedry has a position with Mr. Bishop, our wholesale and retail tobacco merchant.

Arsenus Rainier and family, of Fayette, Ohio, were here this week visiting friends and relatives.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. S. W. Ralston on next Monday afternoon May 26, at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

Before you buy a cart, call at the factory and see Kain's Hammock Road Cart The best and easiest riding cart made. Abosolutely no horse motion. Factory near Wabash depot, Auburn, Ind. 20-24

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protrupiles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

The sale of lots in the Gas Addition last Saturday was very satisfactory. All of the lots were disposed of except a few odd ones, and three one-acre lots. These will be disposed of at private sale, to any parties who desire to buy.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles and constipation. Splendid for men, women and children. Smallest, mildest, surest. 30 doses for 25 cents. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's. tf

100,000 Pounds of Wool Wanted at the Auburn Woolen Mills.

"Wild Oats," May 22.

New millinery. All the latest styles at Miss Gulick's 22

White goods and embroideries at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 21 23

For cheap hats, and the latest styles. Call at Miss Gulick's. 22

Levantine prints at 7 cts. a yard. New and elegant at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

The best play of the season by the Wild Oats Co., at the Opera House May 22.

New challies, new ginghams, new sateens, good styles at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 21 23

See the new goods at Miss Gulick's on Main street, up stairs in Eldridge's building. 22

New colors in brillianteens. Extra value in black brillianteen at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 21 23

Auburn Woolen Mills solicit all kinds of custom work. Farmers, don't forget this. We want your work. tf

Wm. Little's feed barn and feed yard one block south of the engine house, or south of jail. Your horses will be well cared for. Try him. tf

J. J. VanAuken was home over Sunday. He reports the surveying party had got to St. Joseph county, which is sixty miles from Auburn.

WANTED: Ladies and gentlemen, to solicit. Salary $2.50 per day. Good reference. Call on or address J. S. Pettit, 19 Schmitz Block, Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

FOUND: On South Main street Tuesday, May 6, a very fine gold charm. The owner can have same by calling on John Apple, identifying and paying for this notice. tf

For full information about HARVEST EXCURSIONS April 22, May 20, September 9 and 23, and October 14, 1890, call on or address, Rickel & Sprott, Immigration Agents, Auburn' Ind. tf

Memorial services will be held at the Lutheran church next Sunday, at the hour of the regular forenoon service. The sermon will be by Rev. D. F. Kain, pastor of that church. All are invited to be present, of course.

Judge McClellan writes that the House last week passed his bill granting a pension to Mrs. Silver of this place, as well as his other bill for a pension to a Michigan lady, who had been a hospital nurse. This is a pretty good sign that the Senate will also pass them.

H. C. Shull had a hand in a queer accident last week. He was pumping some water when his little boy came up close to him, and the handle in going upward, caught the lad in the mouth jerking him up, the stroke loosening some of his front teeth. We doubt if such a thing ever happened before.

The Editor of the Press comes out in high praise of the big school book trust. He says "They have the best books." He probably means they pay booksellers the best commission. They excel the Indiana school books in that and in the higher prices charged to the people, but in no other respect. But it is a cold day when a republican editor fails to favor a monopoly.

The DeKalb County Sunday School Association will hold its 25th annual meeting in the Lutheran church in Auburn on Tuesday and Wednesday June 10th and 11th. Tuesday evening a grand "silver anniversary" will be held in Eureka Opera House. There will be good papers read, and interesting speeches. All are invited to come and bring their Gospel Hymns.

We suggest to the Dispatch that it is making itself extremely ridiculous by telling the Waterloo Press what a glorious work it, the Dispatch, has done for Auburn in forcing(?) a publication of our financial affairs. In fact, a man is liable to make a spectacle of himself when he sets himself up as a fountain head for the intelligence and honesty of any community. It says, "Auburn had not had a report for years." He had means of knowing that such a report is made every year. Why did he not investigate before making this charge of implied dishonesty? The treasurer's report every year shows the indebtedness of the corporation, and an assertion to the contrary was a slander on the town. Then he adds, "Had the clerk not made out a report this year, the Dispatch would." Probably this piece of childish buncombe, contains the first notice Mr. Jones had, that the guardian angel of the Dispatch was hovering over him with its snow-white wings. Then in an ebullition of great heartedness, it takes the dear people to its own honest little bosom and whispers, "The people here can rest assured they will always get a statement of the town finances, just before election each year." Aha! Just before election. So that is the secret, is it? The dear people don't need any report at any other time, it would seem by this, except "just before the election each year." Here is the germ in the Dispatch's kernel of honesty. No use for a financial report except to influence votes. Hence, although the editor has "met with the board" often, no word as to financial matters, ever slipped down the end of his pencil till "just before the election." Let us suggest. If a man is virtuous, if he is honest, if he loves the dear people, why permit these good points to appear only "just before election?" The COURIER is willing to have the town's financial condition published at any time. The town board is willing—has always been willing, and the imputation that they are not willing, is a reflection on their honesty. We know them to be honest men, and we are not so unfair or unjust as to deny this to the present republican members. Auburn is our home, and if we defame it, it would be a case of the "unclean bird that fouls its own nest." We believe we can trust this board out of our sight a few moments, just as we have trusted other boards. And let us try to build up the reputation of our town, not destroy it.

Hugh Culbertson's house is going up rapidly.

C. P. Houser's mother has been visiting him for a few days. She resides at Kendallville.

FOUND: A brass door key, tied to a red ribbon. Owner can have same by calling at this office.

Mrs. John Pinkerton, of Hicksville, has been visiting for a few days in the family of Alvin Baker.

The Jackson Branch changed time last Sunday, making slight differences in the running time of nearly every train.

The best and surest dye to color the beard brown or black, as may be desired, is Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers. It never fails.

The roaring gas wells are a wonder, but none the more than the effect of Gunter's magic chicken cholera cure. Sold and warranted by Robbins & McCord.

Do you need a mower? The superiority of the Champion mowers is apparent. They are made in different styles and widths of cut to suit everybody. Buy one and be happy.

Rev. J. N. Wilson, of the new shoe store, preached at the M. E. church Sunday evening. He is not only a good business man but a preacher of more than average ability.

"At least one-quarter more grain separated than by any smooth surface concave in existence,"—by using the hollow bar method of separating grain, —Roberts, Throp & Co., Three Rivers, Michigan.

Every morning when I get up my head feels so bad, Such an ugly taste in my mouth. It's your stomach. Loose's Extract of Red Clover will make a new being of you. Try it. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Williams & Seery, have a new and improved refrigerator in their meat market at the south end of town. They are giving the people down there a good market, which their patrons appreciate by giving them a splendid trade.

The tickets for the commencement of High School, May 29th will be on sale next Monday at Robbins & McCord's. Tickets 10 and 15 cents. No complimentary tickets have been reserved for the class, so all the seats are for sale.

NOTICE: As I have sold out my meat market, I find it highly necessary that I make a few collections. All those knowing themselves indebted to me will confer a great favor by calling and settling at once. Alvin Baker tf

The entering wedge of a complaint that may prove fatal is often a slight cold, which a dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral might have cured at the commencement. It would be as well, therefore, to keep this remedy within at all times.

The prevalence of scrofulous taint in the blood is much more universal than many are aware. Indeed, but few persons are free from it. Fortunately, however, we have in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most potent remedy ever discovered for this terrible affliction.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Picker, will have been married fifty years the 28th of this month. They were married in England, May 28, 1840. They came to this country in 1852, and have had their good and bad fortune in common with the other pioneers, but are now getting old with the rest of us. But there are not many of us who will have a golden wedding.

S. M. Messer, now at St. Croix Falls, Wis., in sending in his subscription adds. "We are working fourteen hours per day to fill orders, but can't do business without the COURIER." He is in the heading manufacture, and we judge by this is doing well. His wife will be remembered as a daughter of the late Wm. Whetsel of New Era, and their many friends will be pleased to hear from them.

The republican papers are very unwise to take sides in favor of boodlers or boodling. If Arford bribed those two voters, he committed a crime worse than horse stealing, and more dangerous to the public interests than murder. It will be time to defend him when he himself, or his attorneys deny the crime. At all events, wait, to see if they will make a fight in court. We don't believe they will.

Day, Fox & Co., have gone into business as a combined force. Mr. Day is a man whose skill as an artistic and practical painter, is beyond the ordinary and we know whereof we speak, when we say we believe the public will do well to consult these gentlemen before securing the services of other painters. They propose to do work under a positive guarantee, which fact be considered by those wishing work done.

The Dispatch last week gives Mr. Potter and Dr. Sebring credit for being the most economical men on the old board. If the Dispatch were to be as honest as it is self-righteous it would say the same for all the old board. They have been a good board, and have managed the town's business well. Of course they did not know as much about the town's needs, or how to go to work when they did know, as the Dispatch does. They are only common mortals, and have had the "advice and consent" of the Dispatch but for a short time. Then that additional taffy about the board having treated the Dispatch man with such "uniform courtesy!" How did he suppose an Auburn council would treat a man? We can assure him, that a few years sojourn in Auburn will open his eyes. The town board are not cannibals and have never been known to eat an editor on the half shell. No, they treat editors and all others, with proper courtesy, even though he may next week proclaim to the world that they are incompetent, or dishonest or both. Nothing small about Auburn's town board. They can even be courteous to a man who maligns them.

For the best assortment of gents' neck ties go to Mrs. Jones & Son. 21 23

The funny play of the season is "Wild Oats." Everybody will laugh May 22.

Seats for "Wild Oats," at the Opera House to-night, are being taken up rapidly.

Miss Carrie McDougal was up at Waterloo Monday and Tuesday, calling on friends.

The L. L. C. will meet with Mrs. Zent, unless the weather should be bad, in which case they will meet with Mrs. Barns.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet Friday afternoon, May 23, at Mrs. G. W. Craig's. All come and make it a success.

The nickel social of the M. E. church will be entertained by Mrs. Willis Brown next Friday, afternoon May 23. A very cordial invitation is extended to all.

The prohibition county convention will meet at the court house in Auburn on Saturday of this week, May 24, to nominate a county ticket. All prohibitionists are invited to participate.

Don't forget to look for Day, Fox & Co's "ad" this week. It will be to your best interest, if you are having work done in the line of graining, frescoing, feather touch, or bold relief painting, to see their specimens.

John McMillan, soon after his return from the west, purchased the meat market at Dickinson's old stand, but soon after concluded to enter into a partnership with J. A. Clifton. The two have a good location, good choice meats, and are good fellows besides. They are having a good patronage.

Mr. Dills had a letter last week from J. J. VanAuken, and the surveying party. They reached New Paris, in Elkhart county, on Thursday, and had been going through a lovely country, with favorable grades for a road. All were well except young Houghton who had cut his foot with an ax.

A letter from Mrs. Jennie L. Beaumont, formerly Mrs. Baughan, brings word that she has been sick for about two months She now resides at Hartville, Mo., where Squire Weirick also is located. She says the COURIER is a welcome visitor. Her friends here hope to hear of her early recovery.

J. W. McKay has made some valuable improvements on the old Brandt homestead on South Jackson. It has been moved back, raised, and repaired generally. A good cellar has been provided, rooms extended and improved, and in every way, the old residence takes on a modern and comfortable look.

We have received a gaily decorated invitation to a "picnic and ball" given by the B. of L. E. and Firemen at Taylor, Texas, May 21. Pretty early to think of picnics up this way. But down in Texas it is different. We see our friend J. W. Pepple is on the committee of arrangements, and no doubt knowing we and "ladies" would like to be with them, sent the invitation. Thanks, friend John, and here's hoping you will have a pleasant time.

In speaking of Mr. Loveland one of the candidates to come before the convention, we felt we were not as well acquainted as we were with many of the others. We now learn he has occupied many positions of trust was township treasurer in Ohio for six years, justice two terms, corporation clerk in Hicksville eighteen months, and was a member of the town board when he moved to this county. He has served a term as justice since being here, and has filled other offices.

It may or may not be of interest to those who believed the Garrett Connecting Link, that Joe Pfefferl was extravagant or dishonest in caring for the town team, to be told that the accounts of the board show the total cost of keeping the team, the past year, is only $143. The auditing was done by W. H. McIntosh and Jacob Walborn, two as sound men as the town can boast. The showing not only relieves Mr. Pfefferl from the charge of mismanagement, but shows greatly to his credit. The board can't get a man that will do any better.

The Sunday Morning Appeal is the latest venture, in north Indiana newspaperdom. It is the new weekly started by H. H. Francis, at Michigan City. Senator Francis formerly published the Dispatch, a most excellent paper, that still flourishes under the management of Dr. Harrison. The new paper is published for Sunday, as its name indicates. As might be expected of anything Mr. Francis edits, it is chatty, bright, newsy and neat, while its political tendency is as might be expected, strongly democratic. We believe it will succeed.

The Press last week has a long article in which it attacks the new bribery law, and sides in with Arford. But the law aims at nothing but to punish boodlers. It does nothing else. And that is what hurts, A republican editor never fails to go back on a law that has for its object, the purification of the ballot. They always stand ready to defend a man who is guilty or supposed to be guilty of buying votes to help the republican ticket. What republican editor has condemned Boodler Dudley or Boodler Quay? Not one. They all stand in the attitude of defending barefaced crime.

The Dispatch points with pride to the great effect its financial article "just before election" had on the result. The Dispatch has a great head for figures, and if allowed to take off on one side and put in on the other, as much as it chose it could have made a worse showing for the town than it did. But no one paid any attention to its wild figures, for everybody knew what it was all for—merely to catch votes. It has not been mentioned since election. And it had no more effect on the election, than would be felt had the Dispatch office cat happened to have kittens "just before election." The people of Auburn are too intelligent for such bombastic fustian.

Wet weather is keeping back the corn planting.

Democratic county convention one week from next Saturday.

Auburn expects to have a big industrial parade July 4. Get ready.

Read the fine Decoration Day sketch on our third page. It is very timely.

Get ready for decoration day. Everybody should turn out to honor the heroic dead.

Currant worms can be destroyed by sprinkling the bushes with powdered white hellebore. Get ten cents worth at the drug store.

Decoration day will be properly observed here. The annual address will be at the Opera House, May 30, and no pains will be spared to honor the day properly. A full programme will be published next week.

As was noted last week in our Spencerville items C. H. Brown was married to Miss Maud Murray. Both bride and groom are held in the highest estimation wherever known, and the COURIER voices Auburn's sentiments when it welcomes them to a home among us. They will begin house keeping here, as soon as a suitable dwelling can be secured.

The Jackson township Sunday School Institute will be held at Auburn Junction on Sunday next, May 25. There is a full program of work. Among those who are to take part, are Rev. W. L. Meese, I. M. Thomas, Rev. Tussig, Henry Magginis, Alpheus McClellan, A. J. Shutt, Miss Bertha Smith, Rev. Fried and others. Oscar Zimmerman is president and F. M. Hines. secretary. The Gospel Hymns will be used.

The musical entertainment given at the M. E. church Monday evening by the Young Men's Christian Alliance was good. The music, both vocal and instrumental, was above the average, and does the performers great credit. The orchestra was partly of new members, being Mr. Aber, Myers, Gaylor, Stonebraker, and Ernest Sheets. Of those who sang, were T. P. Scott, John and Benj. Zimmerman, A. J. Bell, Frank Ray, Eugene Altenburg, Mrs. Post, and H. S. McIntosh. Miss Lettie Meese was organist. We are sorry that more of our people could not be present to hear them.

After a term of seven months, the Junction school closed Saturday, May 17. The school as a body is a very good one and the attendance during the term was exceptionally good for a district school, and on this parting day between instructor and pupils seemed to be one of regret at having to be separated so soon. The teacher, Mr. Andrew Daucer, is a gentlemen of ability and the result of this term is evidence of his good qualities as a teacher. The day was very pleasantly occupied in singing, reciting and declaiming and when the program was completed, all felt that it was good to be there.

Geo. T. Weeks of this place is now engaged as agent for the "Album War Record," a convenient and elegant card, album size, on which an old soldier may fill up blanks so as to show in brief every detail of his company, regiment, state, post, etc. The card can be put into the album with the other photos. The card is the invention of R. H. Weamer, well known here and in Butler and Angola, as one of the pioneer newspaper men. He is now at Bristol, Ind., publishing the Banner. Mr. Weeks will spend a short time here, canvassing for this record, but expects to devote most of his time to the general agency. He has control of Indiana and Illinois, and wants to secure one or more local agents in every county. Those desiring places, should call on him or address him here.

Within the past week, we have heard some funny discussions in regard to the age of several of our candidates. This is especially the case of treasurer and auditor. We were not able to settle the disputes as to all, but happen to know the age of a few who were discussed. Seiler is over 35, the age at which a man may be president of the United States. Sawvel lacks a little of 44, being a little older than Probst when he died; Leas is over 40; Cool about the same; Brown is about 34. We mention these, not only because they were under discussion, but because we know something of their ages, all having been teachers who passed muster under our school examinations many years ago. It is a compliment to these men, as it is to our other candidates this year, that they have led such temperate lives that they seem much younger than they really are. They are all old enough to be good public servants.

We are informed by Mr. Bowen who has been familiar with Auburn from the first, that the old two-story frame dwelling on the east side of North Cedar street, now called the Raut house, is the first frame building erected in Auburn. It was built by Wm. Parks the founder of the town. He and old Mr. Raut agree that the low ground east of the public square, originally came up so close to the northeast corner of it, that there was only room enough for teams to pass around there in hauling logs to the mill that stood near South Cedar street. They say that when the old sawmill at the north end of Cedar street was in use, its dam caused the water to back up on the grounds to the north, and in case of high water, a great deal of the surplus flowed across the country along the low grounds in the Gas Well Addition, between the Eckhart factory and the town. They also speak of the creek coming up against the high ground on this side in several places, one place being where it flowed along where the Opera House now stands. It is quite interesting to hear these old settlers talk.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, executrix of the will of Daniel Metcalf, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

REBECCA METCALF, Executrix.

May 16, 1890. 21-4t

The Gun Club Shoot.

Last Friday, the gun clubs of Waterloo, Garrett and Auburn met at this place for a sort of social shoot. Twenty-seven in all, together with quite a crowd of spectators gathered on the bottom east of town. They had three traps and used Keystone targets. The following is the score made by each, giving the number of hits in 25 shots.

J. N. McBride	14
Stafford	14
Dr. Ford	17
Al. Bishop	13
Geo. Grund	9
McCord sr	6
Swineford	5
H. Ford	6
Patterson	10
Thomas	15
Potter	4
Miller	17
Behler	8
Wood	3
Zerwis	14
Smith	8
Steel	14
George Braun	20
Shaffer	3
Meeks	17
McCord, jr.	13
Beidler	17
L. E. Parker	10
Ray	6
M. C. Parker	11
R. Tarney	17
Day	14

Court.

The grand jurors for this term are: B. R. Baughman, John Hendricks, John Treesh. Isaac Shaffer, John Nichols and Wm. Dawson. The changes made in this body on Monday, were Isaac Shaffer in place of John Moody, and John Treesh in place of George Kelham, as the latter had moved over into Noble county. The trial jury are: O. W. Rummell, Edward Crane, Jonathan Shull, W. H. Madden, Charles Bundy, Lewis Imhoff, Frederick Johnson, Adam Deetz, B. F. Cornelius, Calvin Kutzner, O. P. Noel and Justin Girardot. The grand jury were given their charge Monday, and then excused till Tuesday afternoon. The court was then occupied as usual in arranging matters connected with the settlement of estates. This and preparatory work on other cases, with a few criminal trials, take up most of the time of the first week. The term is a long one, lasting to August, but the judge will stop any time when the work gives out.

Leading Milliners.

A few years ago, two young ladies of Auburn, the Cowan Sisters opened up a millinery establishment here, and prospered very well, but thinking a new location would suit them better, they moved to Garrett, to the regret of many of their Auburn friends and patrons, and conducted a thriving business there for some time, but finally resolved to return to their old friends and native town, which they did to the satisfaction of all. And by their courteous and honest dealing they have won the patronage of a multitude of friends. They make frequent visits to the great eastern millinery emporiums and keep posted in all the latest styles and fashions, and keep in stock none but the very best, and goods that readily sell on their merits. They also keep an expert trimmer, one that knows just how to fix hats and bonnets to suit the taste of the ladies. By their untiring and zealous efforts to please their patrons both as to quality of goods and prices, they have built up for themselves a flourishing business, and to-day they are carrying the laurels of prosperity, and conducting the leading millinery emporium of DeKalb county. 1t

School Enumeration.

CORPORATION.	1880.	1890.	Less.	Gain.
Butler township	245	229	16
Concord "	619	615	4
Fairfield "	418	412	6
Franklin "	417	422		6
Jackson "	474	465	9
Keyser "	420	407	13
Newville "	255	232	23
Richland "	526	525	1
Smithfield "	388	369	19
Stafford "	204	166	38
Troy "	203	196	7
Union "	352	133		1
Grant "		220
Wilmington "	470	484		14
Auburn Town	651	703		52
Butler "	532	579		47
Garrett "	708	701	7
Waterloo "	586	593		7
Total in County,	7468	7451	17

The shortage in the enumeration, as seen above, and the reduction in the State apportionment, occasioned by the reduction of interest on school funds, will compel most of the trustees to raise their levies on the tuition fund; at least, they cannot reduce the levies without positive injury to the schools.

C. M. MERICA, Co. Supt

REFORMED CHURCH.

Pentecost services.

Saturday, May 24, 2 p. m., Preparatory service.—German. Sermon: "An Easy Yoke," Matt. XI, 29.

Saturday, May 24, 7 p. m., Preparatory service, —English. Sermon: "A Broken Heart," Luke XVIII, 13.

Sunday, May 25, 10 a. m., Communion service.—English and German. Sermon: "The Living Bread," John VI, 51.

B. RUF.

Wasen't Tried.

As we have said all along, the Arford bribery case was not brought to trial. It was set for yesterday, and Wilson and Arford were here. But Arford and his friends and attorneys did not dare to have the case come into court. So it has been decided by him and his attorneys, to let it drop provided the original complaint was so amended as to show that he could not hold the office of trustee because the two Cook boys were not of age when they voted for him, and that therefore he would be one vote behind Wilson. This was accepted, and the case is dropped. This lets Arford out of coming to trial with a charge of bribery mixed in with it. But it don't relieve him or his abettors of the weight of public opinion which is, that two votes were purchased.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - - PUBLISHER

IT is proposed to establish a museum of war relics in the Confederate White House at Richmond.

A MEDICAMENT more powerful than quinine in counteracting fevers is said to have been discovered, in Mexico. It is a plant called the pombolano, the root of which contains a substance analogous to quinine.

A WOMAN, Miss Jessie Carson, drives a stage between Osage and Park Rapids, Minn. She has done it for years—making three trips a week—summer and winter, and often with the thermometer down to 40 deg. below zero.

SOME of the South American States have reorganized their armies and now have ten private soldiers to one general. The generals kick vigorously, as there used to be ten to one private, but on the whole the people consider it to be a success.

GENERAL BADEAU says that after the first day's fighting at Shiloh General Grant went to sleep under a tree, but the rain that was falling finally drove him to the hospital, where he fell asleep with the surgeons operating around him.

BARON ROTHSCHILD, the Paris banker, lives in fear of the Commune. His cellars are almost impregnable, and his pictures and jewels are protected in such a way that the most grasping mob could not reach them. He lives in a state of constant fear.

A PAIR of bantam chickens were sold at the London Crystal Palace for $500, which was almost exactly twice their weight in gold. This is believed to be the highest price ever paid for a single pair of fowls since the days of extravagant and luxurious Rome.

GEN. LEW WALLACE, having reached the age of 62, is going to file his claim for the pension of $8 a month, which he is entitled to as a veteran of the Mexican war, and turn it over to an Indiana orphan asylum. He says the treasury is full and the orphans are poor.

"IN remitting for a subscription," writes a Georgia editor, "do not say 'please find inclosed $1.' We are bound to be pleased without the asking, and, besides, we have not seen a dollar in so long a time that if we knew it was within six miles of us we would find it blindfolded and with both hands tied behind our back."

A BIDDEFORD, Me., man who hustled about and gathered together a large crowd of fellow-citizens and a lantern to assist in searching the gutter for a $5 gold piece, which he was under the impression he had lost, was much chagrined when the coin was found to be a bright new copper and the gold piece was found safely stored away in his pocket.

NELLY BLY'S journey round the world in seventy-two days was considered a great achievement, but it appears that a copy of the London Times went around the world by the Canadian Pacific route nearly three years ago in two days days' less time than that. It was back in the Times office in London on the sixty-ninth day after its publication, and this occurred without prearrangement.

THE original flag of England was the banner of St. George, i. e., white with a red cross, which, on April 12, 1606, three years after James I. ascended the throne, was incorporated with the banner of Scotland—a blue flag with a diagonal white cross. This combination was named the "Union Jack," in allusion to the union with Scotland, and the word jack is probably a corruption of Jacobus, Jacques or James.

IT may not be generally known to the reading public how much each individual letter of the alphabet is used. D, h, n, o, c and u are in third place as regards ordinary use; t, s, a, i and r are in second place, being used a very little oftener; l and m are in fourth with f, g, y, v, p and b close afterward; j and k are not common, as compared to the rest; while z, q and x are used least of all. The letter e is in first place, being used far oftener than any other.

IT is related that a few years ago the Prince of Wales declined to attend a luncheon following the opening of a town hall at Halifax because the local "big-wigs" had determined that the newspaper men should dine apart, in another hotel; and once Disraeli, when touring in Buckinghamshire, shut himself up in his room on learning of a similar resolve, and sent word to his hosts that he would remain there until the journalists were accorded a place at his table.

JOHN HOPKINS, a farmer living near Franklin, Ky., has ordered a marble slab to be erected over the grave of his nephew, Marcella Jerome Clark, the famous Confederate guerilla who was known during the war as "Sue Munday." He earned this sobriquet because of his youth and effeminate appearance, and for a long time it was actually believed that he was a woman. He was famous for his cruelty, and repeatedly shot down prisoners with his own hand. He was captured and hanged in Louisville.

A PHYSICIAN of note says that it is impossible to draw any conclusion from the size and shape of the head as to the extent or surface of the brain, and so as to the mental capacity. It is absurd to judge of the brain surface by either the size of the head or the extent of the superficial irregular surface which is covered by the skull, without taking into consideration the number of folds or the depth of creases. "For a little brain with many deep folds may really, when spread out, have a larger surface than a large brain with few shallow folds." What do phrenologists say to this?

JAMES WELCH of Middletown, Conn., having been told that the force of a dynamite explosion was downward, made a practical test of this principle a few days ago by boring a big hole into a monstrous gnarled log, into which he put a lot of dynamite, ignited a short-time fuse and carelessly sat down astride one end of the log. Soon Welch and the log ascended in a curve about thirty feet. In the descent the position of the couple was reversed. Welch arrived at earth first, the log followed, and Welch says it thumped him several times after he was down.

A MAN of high position who has been entertained at many foreign courts, when asked what social characteristic kings and queens held in common, answered emphatically, "Courtesy. Let me give you one instance. The late King of Spain gave my party a superb reception. We had with us an obscure young journalist who, after being presented, modestly retired to a corner of the room. Approaching this young man the King said to him, 'I learn that you are a literary gentleman?' 'A humble one, your Majesty,' replied the correspondent. 'I can sympathize with you,' answered the King, pleasantly, 'I, too, aspire to be a literary man. I am now reading your "Hamet," in your own language.' The journalist longed to express his thanks for the delicate compliment, but remembered just in time that etiquette requires royalty to begin and also end a conversation."

NEARLY thirty years ago a young Englishman left his native town, Surrey, and came to America. For several years he corresponded with his sister at home, then the letters grew infrequent, and finally ceased. When last heard from he was in Boston. The sister wrote only to have her letters returned through the dead letter office, marked, "Not found." Finally, as a last resort, she addressed a letter to "President Harrison, D. C., U. S. A.," relating these facts and imploring his aid in finding her brother. This letter found its address a few weeks ago. Instead of going to the waste basket it was forwarded to Mayor Hunt, of Boston, with a request that he look Mr. Brown up. In a short time a response came that Robert Brown was dead and had left two sons, both prosperous young business men in Boston, and the news was sent to their aunt in Surrey.

The Umbrella in Eastern Countries.

The umbrella of the East, recognized as the insignia of royalty, is composed of the richest materials and encrusted with precious stones. Among the numerous presents brought from India by the Prince of Wales were no fewer that twenty state umbrellas. Of these may be especially noted one sent by the Queen of Lucknow, which was covered with blue satin woven with gold, and literally covered with seed pearls. Other very noticeable examples were the state umbrella of Indore, simulating, in form, that of a mushroom, and those which were covered with the plumage of the rarest tropical birds. Fixed umbrellas of considerable size, and fitted with deep falling curtains, were an important feature of the two-wheeled sedans formerly used by Japanese ladies of quality. These remarkable-looking conveyances were propelled from behind by an attendant, who bore, passing over his shoulders, a long bamboo handle, the ends of which, held in either hand, enabled him, no doubt, with but slight fatigue to accomplish his duty. In Sierra Leone the regal umbrella was of a decidedly conical form, and was fitted with a handle that permitted it to be held obliquely over the king's head. The King of Dahomey holds his court in a barn lined with twenty-four umbrellas, the outer ones of which are white, but the central ones, marking the spot occupied by his majesty, are of the gaudiest colors imaginable, such as blue, orange, scarlet and purple. The kings of Burmah were invariably in the habit of addressing their brother-potentates as "The Great Umbrella Bearing Chiefs of the Eastern Countries," and the omission of this courtesy would, no doubt, as implying inferiority of rank, have been considered a cause of mortal offense.

Appropriate.

It occasionally happens that hymns are selected for a church service which sound ludicrously appropriate in the ears of an amused congregation.

The custom has prevailed within a certain church in California of presenting each member of the Sabbath school with an egg, during the exercises at the celebration of Easter. On one occasion of the kind, when the interesting ceremony was at hand, the assistant clergyman rose, and made the announcement:

"Hymn four hundred nineteen, 'Begin, my soul, the exalted lay,' after which the eggs will be distributed."—Harper's Drawer.

Walked Across the River in a Kettle.

As a syrup maker was peacefully preparing for work among the maples he became aware that Indians were stealing upon him and were already in possession of his canoe. Whatever was to be done had to be done quickly, and frontier wit was equal to the emergency. Snatching up his deep kettle he inverted it over his head and boldly waded into the river. The inverted kettle acted, of course, as a diving bell, and with his head in this air chamber he walked across the river, which in the middle was many feet over his head, to the utter amazement of the Indians.—Philadelphia Times.

THE model cloak girl must have a pretty figure, but the same condition is not necessarily attached to her salary.

BOMB FOR HIGH TAXERS

THROWN INTO THE HOUSE BY BEN BUTTERWORTH.

The Ohio Congressman Surprises His Republican Colleagues by Fiercely Denouncing McKinley's Bill Increasing Tariff Duties—Absurdities and Inconsistencies of the Measure Pointed Out.

[Washington special.]

The first open break in the ranks of the high taxers came on Tuesday last, when Congressman Ben Butterworth stood up in the House and denounced the McKinley tariff bill in a manner which paralyzed the Republicans and drew out ecstatic cheers from the Democrats. McKinley looked daggers, and even the Republicans smiled at his discomfiture. A peculiarity of the situation was the presence of the Republicans during the denunciation of their bill, for they have heretofore boorishly absented themselves while the opponents of the measure were speaking. Speaker Reed fidgeted as if his chair were cushioned with thistles.

Mr. Butterworth's speech was as remarkable in manner as in matter. A Republican in good standing in his party and a leader in its counsels, Mr. Butterworth has the reputation of being a bold and honest man, a reputation which he well sustained by admonishing his party not to go too far in its work of sustaining the protective system. The members of both parties crowded around him, and the Democrats cheered to the echo his warning to the high-taxers not to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs by overfeeding it. Butterworth is a genuine orator, and he was at his best. At first a little diffident, as if feeling his way, and somewhat diffident about casting loose from his moorings, he finally warmed up to his work, and made a speech which will be read from one end of the country to the other. McKinley and the other high-taxers would have been glad to cut him off had they dared, but they were afraid to do so. His eloquence, his earnestness, his logic commanded attention and respect. At first the Republicans sat gloomy and silent, while only Democrats applauded, but finally, when the full force of the argument dawned upon them, some of the low-tariff Republicans from the West forgot themselves and joined in the expressions of approval which, at almost every sentence, greeted the speaker from floor and galleries. Republicans applauded Butterworth who will next week bow down to the rule of King Caucus and vote for the McKinley bill to encourage monopolies and foster trusts. The news that Butterworth was tearing the tariff bill to tatters spread rapidly and the lobbies were quickly filled with eager auditors. No speech in either House this session has created such excitement. Mr. Butterworth spoke as follows:

"I insist that as we proceed with the revision of this tariff we shall proceed with reference to some fixed base line of principle and bearing in mind that competition alone never reduced the cost of anything, because it must be clear to this House that a shoemaker cannot make a pair of boots for any less, because there are nine others sitting by his side, each at work on a pair of boots. The increase of production results undoubtedly in improved methods. Competition reduces the selling prices of commodities to the lowest point consistent with profit. It would not go below that of course, for if it does the industry is necessarily destroyed. That, then, is its limit. And we have got to so protect our manufacturers that in the fair, open field of competition they can hold their own and even have the coigne of vantage. Competition never, of itself, originated a new industry on God's earth. New industries and new fields of employment are the result of the creation of new inventions.

"What is a new industry? A new device, a new machine which may open up new employments. The man who produced the harvester introduced a hundred new and diversified industries for opening up new fields of labor. The man who produced the Corliss engine multiplied the fields of labor. He produced hundreds of new industries. The acceleration of production is a result of new devices. If we had continued to weave in the old way the price of cotton goods would not have been reduced one poor scruple in all these years; but with the creation of new devices we now turn out a thousand yards where in former years we made but ten. This reduces the cost. What else? They may use machinery and improved machinery on the other side of the water as well as we can. Where is the advantage to us? Genius is not confined to our own countryman, but our people have been given the grandest opportunity in the world. New fields are open to them.

"If there is danger to the protective system in this country it is to be found in the extreme of legislation toward free trade to which the Democratic party is devoted, on the one hand, and to the tendency to extreme tariff rates on the other. The rock upon which we would run on the one hand is the Scylla of free trade, which our friends on the other side are devoted to and are advocating, and the Charybdis of excessive tariff duties on the other.

"The Republican party triumphed in this Union the fall before last. What is the Republican policy? Does it mean to remove the inequalities which exist between the opportunities on this side in the field of protective effort and those which obtain across the waters, or does it mean that we shall shut out all competition and rely solely upon the productive efforts of our own people? In other words, there is a difference of opinion between Republicans as to whether it is enough to give American genius and enterprise a fair coigne of vantage in the world's arena, or whether we shall create here by special law such inequalities and maintain them between our own people as existed fifty and one hundred years ago between the United States and the countries of the old world. I insist that we shall not create inequalities here while we remove those which do exist between the different nations of the earth.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN PERIL.

"I want to address myself to the brethren upon this side. I am aware that it is said that this is thrashing old straw. Old straw, indeed! The manner in which we finish this thrashing will determine whether the Republican party will get an opportunity to lay another thrashing upon this thrashing-floor or not. I am not mistaken about that. Old straw, indeed! I insist that a protective tariff deals with conditions, and not with national boundary lines, except that the presence of those national boundary lines indicates the presence of those conditions; against influences which, in the interest of our countrymen, we find it necessary to interpose the barrier of a protective policy, or the policy that barrier provides; am I right about that? Gentlemen will say, 'Oh, no.' If I am not right about that, if the tariff does not deal with a condition but is merely a question of boundary lines, then a tariff is good in the abstract; and if it is so, our fathers paid themselves a poor compliment when they provided that as between the States there should be no hampering or restriction of commerce. If that is true in the abstract, and if by narrowing competition, without reference to condition, each section might find enlarged opportunities, then our fathers never made a greater mistake in the world than they did when they prevented New York from establishing a tariff as against Pennsylvania, because, if you will consider for a moment that if it is competition that destroys opportunities then competition should be prevented between Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

"But somebody says, 'Yes, that is between our own people.' So it is; but if the tariff walls are good in the abstract their erection builds up great opportunities. I defy any man within the sound of my voice to make it clear that prosperity cannot and would not be built up by having six walls built throughout the country and that each division levy a tariff against the other, and so develop its own resources. Is there any escape from the logic of that conclusion? If so, what is it? Now, I say that it is inequality of opportunity that is required to maintain prosperity, and that is absolutely indispensable to the continuance of my party in power and for the continuance of that kind of prosperity which the republic was established to build up and maintain.

WOULD RESIGN RATHER THAN RECANT.

"The creation of new industries is the work of the brain of the workman. He gives you your new fields of employment. He gives you your new arts. He reduces the cost of production in our country. And yet we are constantly ascribing the reduction to influences to which it is no doubt in part due, but to which some elements of it are no more due than they are due to the direction of the trade winds. I desire to call attention to this matter because I am aware that we are expected to follow in the wake marked out for us by a committee chosen upon one line of thought. This is our bantling, gentlemen of the committee. It is no more yours now than it is that of the member from the First District of Ohio. This bill is a Republican measure and is ours as well as yours, and the criticism which will keep it in the line of precedents which have prevailed in the adjusting of our tariff with direct reference to the principle which ought to control is not out of place.

"I am perfectly aware that my honored friends upon the committee have tried to meet every phase of the situation. I am equally aware that it is unsafe to rely always upon the testimony of the beneficiary or to take his figures. Now I say to my friends on this side of the house that the Republican party is charged with no higher mission than the preservation of the equality of opportunity in this country. No industry, whether it be manufacturing sulphuric acid or manufacturing plows or harrows, or manufacturing anything else, has a right to any advantage over any other industry in the republic, because we know that it is the tendency of such an advantage, and not merely the tendency but the fact, to draw blood from other industries to make fat and pussy that which has the advantage. And the giving of such an advantage to any industry or class of industries is not sufficiently described by merely saying that it is unjust. It goes far beyond that. It is only not indictable because it is not within the terms of the statute, not because it lacks the quality which ought to make it indictable.

"I have already indicated clearly and efficiently my view of the office and functions of the protective tariff, and I would rather resign my place upon this floor than go one hair's breadth beyond that line if I could avoid it. Of course I would not set up my judgment against that of the honorable gentlemen around me, but at the same time I desire prayerfully and earnestly to have it understood that the people are beginning to understand, or at least are beginning to inquire, as to the reason why Paul is favored and Peter 'turned down.' Why, in an industry where we hold the coigne of vantage against all competitors, whether in Canada or in England, should the rest of the community be made to add to the profits of that particular class of industries? We are told that we need not worry about that, because competition will make it all right. But will it? Is it not enough that every industry in this country stands on an equality with yours? And, when we have lifted them all up by a protective tariff and thrown around them the shield of full and adequate protection, tell me why it is that we should draw from all the consumers of the country in order that the profits of a favored few may be increased?

HAMPERING THE FARMER.

"We all know perfectly well that there are industries in this country in which the dividends have been enormous. I can name upon my ten fingers men whose combined profits in the last decade have exceeded those of all the agriculturists of any State in this Union. [Applause.] I am not disturbed at this applause on the other side. I shall be exceedingly gratified, Mr. Chairman, if they shall come to a realizing sense that our countrymen deserve such protection by the act of the National Legislature as will give them fair vantage ground against all the competitors of the world. That is all we ask. If the time has come when my countrymen with equal opportunity cannot hold their own, being the most brilliant, the most progressive, the finest people in the world, then we had better retire from the field.

"A great deal has been said in regard to doing something in behalf of the farmer. But I do not think we shall find any special advantage by limiting the market of the farmer upon the one hand without extending it on the other. I have believed that so far as the Anglo-Saxon race is concerned that which is good for half of the continent is good for all of it. I have believed that my countrymen hold the 'coigne of vantage' against our neighbors on the north, and the policy of commercial non-intercourse cannot result in the slighest profit or advantage except to a few who have scandalized the industrial system of my country for their own profit; who, to gratify their own avarice, have filched from the pockets of my countrymen, maintaining that there is great inequality between this side and the other side of an imaginary line just north of us. And in order to give the farmer a chance we have put a wall so high that the Canadian agricultural products cannot cross it. Now, let us see.

"Facts are brutal things. There is nothing so utterly brutal as a fact. It yields nothing, it sympathizes with nobody's feeling. Now what is the fact in this case. During 1888 we bought from Canada agricultural products to the amount of over $17,000,000. What did we sell them? About 21,000,000 and the larger part of it corn and the products that we do not buy from them. To please the farmer of the country we have shut him out of the market where he sold his products to the amount of $21,000,000, and kept out as a partial competitor nearly $17,000,000 that we bought from the Canadian side. We have shut out eggs, and that is paraded as an important matter. I made a little calculation as to how that would affect our people. We imported 21,000,000 dozen eggs, and by careful estimate that amounts to just one omelet a year to each of our people—one omelet a year. That is all. This committee knows very well that my fellow-citizens do not during one-half of the year taste eggs at all. Our friends of the committee have not inserted in the bill any provision which would have enjoined upon the hens that they should lay regularly during cold weather as well as warm."

A member—Give them a bounty.

"We might have offered them a bounty," continued Mr. Butterworth, "but I do not care to go into that. Strange, is it not—against our countrymen here on the north, in whose veins courses the same blood that courses in our own, united to us by a destiny which is above the control of kings or Congresses—we shut the door, we refuse even to accept their lumber, but send our children shelterless to bed rather than have a fair exchange with them? But this is not all. Behold, we have just expended hundreds of thousands of dollars to establish unrestricted reciprocal trade with fifty millions of people south of us, of the Latin race. How stands the balance of trade with them during the last forty years? Two million one hundred thousand dollars against us! The five million of our kinsmen north of us have bought of us $250,000,000 worth during that time in excess of what we purchased from them.

TRADE WITH CANADA RESTRICTED.

"Whence came the opposition to the commerce with the people north of us? What prevented it? Avarice in certain localities. The opposition was dictated from the potato patch, from the hop patch, and before the ball is over you will see my honored friend in charge of the hop brigade associated with the cabbage cavalry endeavoring to persuade the farmer that his highest good is in confining ourselves to a market where we do not sell now within one-fourth of what we produce.

"There was some controversy, Mr. Chairman, during the discussion here as to whether our manufacturers sell outside of the United States cheaper than they do at home. I assert here, if I can believe the manufacturers, that many of them do sell to all nations of the earth cheaper than they do at home. I could call the witnesses, and if I could get them here and let them swear with uplifted hand they would so aver. Does not that proclaim to the world that we have the coigne of vantage in this country in the line of those industries?

"There are some items in this bill which to the average mind are peculiar, and there are some features of the bill which I hold not only to be not defensible, but not even passing the requirements of a very high morality. Here is an item which is designed to establish the tin plate industry in this country. Now, I have made a careful calculation and inquiry into this matter, and I find that it will cost the American people to-day to do just what is proposed—that is, to establish a plant to supply the nation with the plate—from thirty millions to fifty millions of dollars, which, if it can live at all under the circumstances, ought to live with the present tariff. In other words, take that item alone and there is not a home in America that will not contribute to the plant of this tin plate establishment they propose to locate at Pittsburg. There is not a family in the land, there is not a family in the United States that will not contribute to it, and to whom it will not be a burden, although my friend from Michigan (Mr. Burrows) here says that it does not amount to anything, for there is only 1¼ cents on each small piece of tin, a very small piece of tin, 1¼ cents on each. I suppose he could be reconciled to fleas because each one is so small.

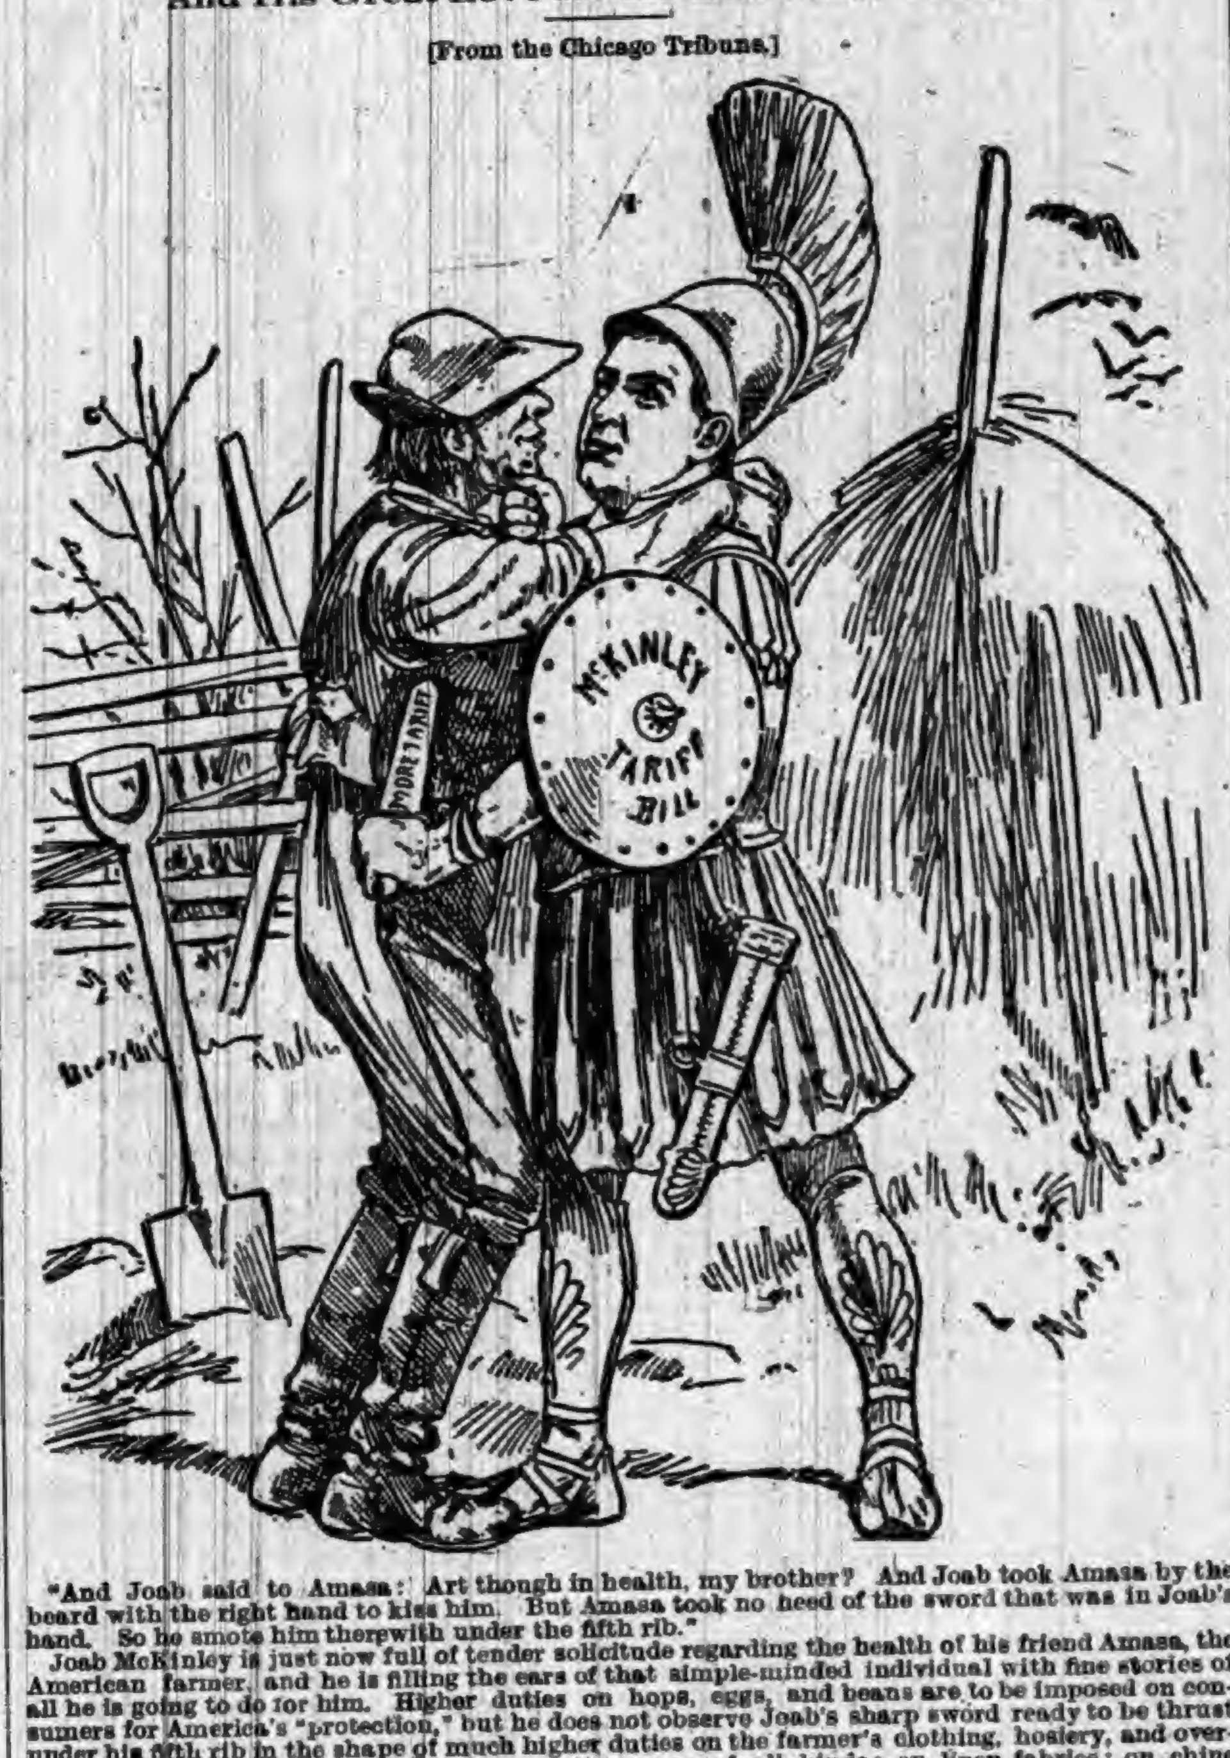
BOODLE FOR THE COPPER BARONS.

"There is another to which I wish to call your attention, the copper industry. Why, sir, there has not been a time in two decades when my countrymen have not produced copper as cheap as any other nation in the world, and most of the time cheaper, and yet we have these people, who on an investment equaling $1,250,000 have taken out over $80,000,000 in dividends in nineteen years, coming and asking additional protection. Will you tell why the duty on copper should be continued? Why not make copper free to all the people who are using it in this country? Do you not know that every electrician in this country petitions to remove the duty on copper? Is it necessary to protect this industry? Is it an infant industry? Why, Mr. Chairman, it would be better if we had taken every man connected with that employment in the copper mines, boarded them at the Fifth Avenue Hotel and set them up in the banking business for life. There is no apology in the world for the duty. Not the slightest. It does not protect any industry, but it draws on every family we represent. There is not a yard of wire, not a piece of copper in any household in the land that does not pay tribute to these people. That is not all; although they have the American consumer at their mercy, there is not a nation on the earth the citizens of which do not buy American copper cheaper than the American citizens buy it. Nor is that all, Mr. Chairman. Having control of the copper market, in 1887 they organized a combine by which the supply of American copper had to go back to American homes, sifted through the mercies of a French syndicate. There are few men who have labored longer and harder in the interest of protection than I have; what I am saying is in defense of the system, and is submitted in order that it may not come tumbling down about our heads; as a result of our attempt to shut out all the world under a Chinese policy.

JOAB McKINLEY

And His Great Love for the American Farmers.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]



"And Joab said to Amasa: Art though in health, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard with the right hand to kiss him. But Amasa took no heed of the sword that was in Joab's hand. So he smote him therewith under the fifth rib."

Joab McKinley is just now full of tender solicitude regarding the health of his friend Amasa, the American farmer, and he is filling the ears of that simple-minded individual with fine stories of all he is going to do for him. Higher duties on hops, eggs, and beans are to be imposed on consumers for America's "protection," but he does not observe Joab's sharp sword ready to be thrust under his fifth rib in the shape of much higher duties on the farmer's clothing, hosiery, and overcoats; on blankets, carpets, felt hats; on cotton wear of all kinds; on linen fabrics; on china dishes and earthenware; on glass of all sorts; on knives, forks, spoons, and all kinds of cutlery; on kitchen utensils; on tin cups, dishes, and buckets; on tin cans for fruit, vegetables and meats; on sugar of milk for sick children; on sulphuric acid—a constituent of fertilizers; large direct bounties from the National Treasury to Louisiana sugar-planters to make their business profitable, but not a cent of bounty to Illinois growers of wheat, oats, or corn when produced at a loss. The farmer, with the kisses of Joab McKinley fresh on his lips, is so delighted that he does not see the sword, or, rather the whole arsenal of deadly weapons which that individual is carrying around with him. He does not observe that Joab, while promising him higher prices for his truck, is preparing to thrust a sword under his fifth rib.

An American Victory.

We read the other day how the Hon. Buffalo Bill, the grand representative of genuine American institutions in Europe, together with his trained Indians and his performing cowboys, had an audience with the Pope. It was on the occasion of the Pope's anniversary, and in the midst of the pageantry—the glittering uniforms of the Swiss guard and the brilliant robes of the attendants—Buffalo Bill, his Indians, and his cowboys formed an unfamiliar but exceedingly picturesque group. The Pope, benign and gracious, gave to this strange assembly his benediction, and the motley procession of Americans passed out of the Vatican.

The event was the sensation in Rome, but we observe from the newspapers that the Hon. Buffalo Bill has provided still another sensation for the people of Rome. The Duke of Sermonita, it seems, has on his estates a drove of wild horses, raised on the Pontine marshes, and he declared that no cowboy on earth could ride one. In behalf of his men, the Hon. Buffalo Bill accepted the challenge. The Duke made a selection of six of his wild horses, presumably the most vicious in the drove, and for several days the Roman authorities were busy erecting barricades to prevent the savage steeds from reaching the audience.

The trial took place on Monday, and a crowd of 200,000 people were in attendance, everybody expecting that two or three cowboys would be killed. In the audience was a large sprinkling of the nobility, all anxious to witness the vicious steeds from the Pontine marshes demolish the long-haired Americans. Lord Dufferin was there, and the wife of Premier Crispi, and the Princess Colonna, and the scions of all the noble houses, and they had their lorgnettes with them. They sat there and chatted in smiling anticipation of the bloody defeat of the Americans.

At last two of the wild horses were driven into the arena, and then the Hon. Buffalo Bill, sombrero in hand, announced that two of his young Americans would proceed to give the noble Italians a lesson in horse-training. William waved his jeweled hand, and in five minutes, according to the cable account, the cowboys had lassooed, bridled, saddled, and mounted the untamable steeds of the Pontine regions. In five more minutes the struggle was over, and the cowboys were riding the horses easily around the arena, and the vast audience shrieked and roared with delight. To cap the climax, the Hon. Buffalo Bill then challenged any Roman or son of a Roman to ride his bucking bronchos.

Who will now say that peace hath no victories? The flag of our country still flutters at the peak, as it were.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Lord's Prayer on His Arm.

"We find strange mementos on some of our bodies," said an undertaker of Detroit. "The other day we were preparing the body of an unknown for burial. He had met a violent death, but there was the most serene expression on his face that I ever saw on any one. When we dressed him for the grave we found the Lord's prayer beautifully written in India ink on his forearm. It was as fine a piece of tattooing as I ever saw, and it set me to thinking that perhaps that was what he depended on for comfort and that gave the peaceful look to his face."—Montreal Star.

SOME of your hurts you have cured,
And the sharpest you still have survived;
But what torments of grief you endured
From evils which never arrived.

THERE is a deaf and dumb man in Kansas seven feet tall. This is what we might call a long silence.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a babe, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1888.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887.
CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887.
CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

PLANTS IN PROFUSION.

THE NATIONAL BOTANICAL GARDENS AT WASHINGTON.

Rare Plants from Many Climes—Flowers Galore—Object of the Garden—One of the Most Attractive and Alluring Places of Public Resort in the Land.

THE National Botanical Garden is an institution that is little heard of, except in a general way, outside of Washington, and yet it is one of the most interesting and beautiful of the many magnificent enterprises carried on by the aid of the government in and around the capital. Now that winter has passed away, and the flowers that bloom in the spring have come again, this most instructive and alluring place of public resort is the one place which most attracts the beauty and fashion of the continent. It is situated at the foot of Capitol Hill, and covers many acres of ground. There are two main entrances, magnificent in design, consisting of four marble-and-brick gate-piers with hinge iron gates. Visitors are permitted to enter these gardens and wander about through the numerous and winding walks, magnificently paved, but no wheeled vehicles are allowed within the gates. In the center of the garden is the conservatory, which in itself is a wonderful structure. North of the conservatory is the famous Bartholdi fountain, with a marble basin ninety feet in diameter. Besides these there are ten small conservatories, with a lecture or botanical class-room, with accommodations for one hundred students.

Object of the Garden.

The object of the garden is education and distribution of rare plants. For this purpose four conservatories are devoted exclusively to propagation. The disposition of plants is made according to geographical distribution. The strictly tropical productions are in the center, semi-tropical, requiring protection and lying toward the north pole, are in the west wing, and the indigenous plants are in the east wing. In these various departments may be found the most rare plants of the world. Among the most attractive will be noticed the sacred palm tree spoken of so often in Scripture, and the fig-tree, which was used so effectively by our illustrious ancestors as wearing apparel in the Garden of Eden. All varieties of palm—the fan, royal, sago, oil, wine, coco de Chili, sugar, and cradle palms—contribute to swell the beautiful collection of this species. Then there are the East India bamboo, tree fern of New Zealand, astrapea of Madagascar, screw pine of Australia, with corkscrew leaves and roots in mid-air; maiden's-hair fern, banana; mango, a most delicious fruit found only in the West Indies; the great stag and elk-horn ferns, of Australia; dumb cane, of South America; this latter plant is wonderful in that it has the power of rendering speechless any one who tastes of it. Humboldt tasted of the sap and was speechless for eight days. And these are only a tithe of the grand accumulation in this wonderful garden. An enumeration of the different species of rare plants here grown would fill a large volume. Almost every country in the world is represented. The rarest productions of the South Sea islands, Cape of Good Hope, Australia, New Zealand, India, China, Japan, Mexico, Egypt, and every country of Europe are carefully nursed. Besides these, the management is negotiating to secure valuable additions from the interior of Africa.

The Autocrat of the Garden.

Those who are supposed to derive the most direct benefit from the gardens are our Senators, Representatives, and Cabinet officers and their families. When floral decorations are wanted it is to the superintendent of this propagating establishment they send. This superintendent is a perfect autocrat in his way. With unlimited control in his particular sphere, he accedes to the request or not as he sees fit. At this season of the year he is the most courted personage in the city. Public parties and receptions are a failure without his knife. It is amusing to attend one of these swell affairs. One can tell the instant he enters the house to what extent the hostess has gone to secure the good-will of the botanical garden. If the spacious rooms are tinctured with the delicious odor of luxuriant plants and festooned with beautiful rich bouquets, we can at once conclude with safety that the gay management of the National Botanical Museum is an honored guest. If only misty flower-pots, with niches in the side and half-withered plants, or Swampoodle morning-glories laboring under the disadvantages of a hard winter, are exposed to view, it is fair to presume that the lady of the house has unintentionally omitted from her calling list one of the most important personages of the gay and festive capital. So who can blame the spoiled favorites of fashion and fortune, when the first invitation penned reads "Mr. Smith, Botanical Gardens."

Somewhat Different.

Note the difference, however. Mrs. White, sister of Senator Sawyer and his housekeeper, gave an elaborate entertainment during the Lenten season, and with the aid of these beautiful floral decorations the Senator's house was made absolutely bewildering. It was like wandering in fairy land to pass through the house, from one room to another, so magnificently arrayed in the splendor of rare and costly plants and breathing the sweet fragrance of Oriental perfume. No one but an enthusiast with wonderful power of description would attempt to convey an idea of the magnificence lent the average Washington dwelling by a liberal display of plants from the national conservatory.

An adjunct of the national botanical gardens is the White House conservatory, situated on the west side of the building. It contains also many rare and beautiful plants, mostly gifts to the occupants of the White House from foreign countries. From here are taken the floral decorations so lavishly used on public reception days by the President's wife.

"Exceeding Obliged."

The wife of a well-known Senator gave an afternoon reception during the holidays last winter, and desiring to make the affair as pleasant as possible for her guests, sent a polite note to the conservatory requesting that some plants and flowers be sent to her home. At 11 o'clock the covered delivery wagon drove up to the door and handed out a single, solitary moss-covered pot containing a plant that in the language of the chagrined lady resembled a "California stinkweed." She sent it back with a still more polite note stating that she was "exceeding obliged, but that her reception being an informal one she was loath to rob the conservatory of so rare a treasure, and would he be so kind as to send in his bill for his trouble." It is safe to say that there is one Senator's wife who doesn't decorate her rooms with flowers from the national garden.

JAMES C. MOODY.

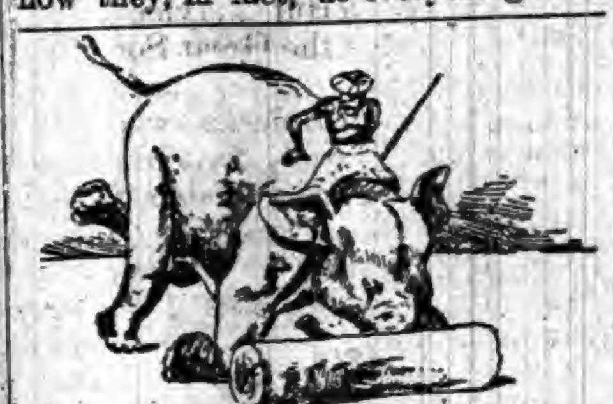
WASHINGTON, D. C.

A MOUNTAINEER preacher down in Crook County, Oregon, astonished a part of his audience by exclaiming: "My friends, all the world shouted for joy when the good news of Christ's birth flashed over the wires."

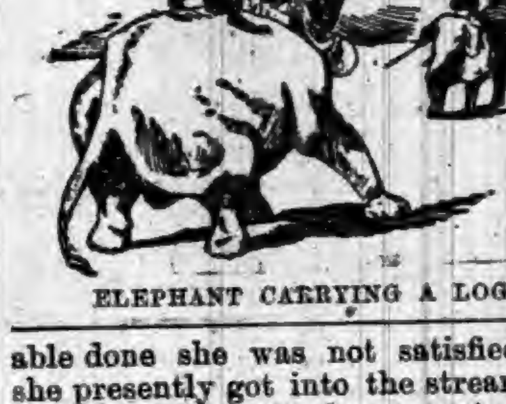
INTELLIGENT ELEPHANTS.

They Build Stone Walls for Man, and Do Many Other Things.

THE following interesting points about the elephant are taken from a recent magazine article: Mr. Wood is a great lover of animals, and in his book I found more about elephants than I have seen anywhere else. I mean a greater variety of things, for he tells us how they are hunted and caught, and how they hunt for other elephants, and how they build stone walls for man, and take care of his babies, and save his life when danger threatens; how they, in fact, do everything that is almost too extraordinary to be believed. The famous elephant Jumbo once saved his keeper's life, and on another occasion when a stampede of elephants took place he caught the man in his trunk and held him between his fore feet until the danger was over. And I do not believe that many people know that when the sacred elephant of Siam is a baby he sometimes has twenty-four ladies to nurse him, and they all think it a great honor. But to have an elephant build a stone wall and another elephant trained as overseer! In Ceylon they pile the timber. And one actually made a dam. She carried the logs from the forest and put them in position. "The most extraordinary part of the performance," says Mr. Wood, "was the arranging of two immense logs of red keenar (one of the heaviest woods). They were about eighteen feet long and two feet in diameter, and were intended to lie on either bank of the stream, parallel to the brook and close to the edge. These she placed with the greatest care in their exact positions unassisted by any one. She rolled them gently over with her head, then with one foot, and keeping her trunk on the opposite side of the log she checked its way whenever its own momentum would have carried it. 'Although I,' says an eye witness, 'thought the work admirable done she was not satisfied, and she presently got into the stream and gave one end of the log an extra push with her head, which completed her task, the two trees lying exactly parallel to each other close to the edge of either bank.'"



ELEPHANT ROLLING A LOG.



ELEPHANT CARRYING A LOG.

AMERICAN FABLES.

The Dog and the Cat.

A DOG once fell in love with a cat and proposed marriage.

"Excuse me, if you please," said the cat. "We would not make good mates."

"But if I tried to abuse you, you could scratch me half to death," persisted the dog.

"True enough," said the cat; "but my idea in getting married is not to enter an army."

MORAL.

There are lots of dogs and cats who do marry.

The Two Gamblers.

A fox and a crow once engaged in a game of poker. They had played but a short time when an owl came past and stopped to watch the game. He soon noticed something crooked, and called the crow to one side and observed: "You are a fool to play with that fox. He goes to the deck and sorts out straights and flushes to suit himself."

"I know that he goes to the deck after most of his hands," replied the crow: "but he is so busy watching himself that he does not watch me, and I sort out a full house."

MORAL.

That is the way all gambling is done.

The Foolish Ox.

An old farmer had two oxen that he wanted to fatten, so he put them in a corral and then gave them all the corn they could eat.

"This is a picnic," said one. "I am getting fat as an alderman, and my digestive apparatus was never better. Our master is truly a gentleman and a scholar."

"He is also a business man," replied his mate, "and the first thing you know you will be turned into porter-house steak. Better do as I do and stay lean."

"Being lean and tough will not save you," replied his neighbor, "for you will in that case be sold to the butcher. Since the same fate awaits us both, I shall be ahead, as I am having heaps of fun now."

MORAL.

Live while you can.—Chicago Ledger

His Conscience Smote Him.

A sad-eyed man walked into a store in Beloit, Wis., the other day, and, planking down a $10 note, tearfully said:

"Just four years ago to-day I stole a pair of $4 shoes from your store. The matter has been preying on my mind, but my pride prevented me from confessing. I can stand it no longer. Take your pay out of this $10 bill."

The merchant, of course, was delighted to meet such a penitent, contrite soul, and gave the man $6, and he departed with a light heart. The $10 bill was a very finely executed counterfeit. The next conscience-stricken individual that presents himself at that store will be thrown into the river with neatness and dispatch.

THE TWAIN MADE ONE.

WEDDING OF THE DAUGHTER OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

The Nuptial Ceremonies Attended by the President and His Cabinet—Toilet of the Bride—The Wedding Gifts Numerous and Elegant—To Take a Trip to Europe.

Washington dispatch: The marriage of Miss Margaret Isabella Blaine, the daughter of Secretary Blaine, to Walter Damrosch of New York, occurred at the Blaine residence on Saturday, the 17th. The marriage would have been a church ceremony but for the recent bereavements.

The members of the family, unwilling that reminders of the break in the family circles should bring a shadow to the occasion, laid aside the mourning for the day, Mr. Blaine appearing in a suit of gray, Mrs. Blaine wearing a handsome reception toilet, and Miss Hattie and Mrs. Emmons Blaine in white gowns.

The ceremony was performed in the large drawing-room on the second floor of the Blaine residence, beneath a floral bower, erected for the occasion. Mr. Blaine led his daughter to the altar, and Mr. Damrosch was accompanied by J. Frank Roosevelt of New York.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Douglass, rector of St. John's Episcopal church. The Rev. Dr. Hamlin of the Church of the Covenant, where the Blaine family have a pew, was also present. Several hundred invitations had been issued, many to persons abroad and at distant points, and the attendance was very large. Among those present were President and Mrs. Harrison, the members of the cabinet with their families, the Maine delegation in Congress, representatives of the diplomatic corps, and many others of prominence.

The president led the bride from the drawing-room to the wedding breakfast, after which the bride and groom left for New York.

The bride wore a toilet of heavy white silk, draped with crepe de chine. The wedding trousseau is elaborate in every detail, as Mrs. Blaine has the New England ideas of starting a bride on her new journey with a fine supply of household as well as personal linen. The housekeeping linen has all been woven on special hand-looms by a firm in France. The table linens bear the newest designs, prominent among them being the fleur de lis. The bride's monogram is embroidered in white silk upon each piece. Miss Blaine has been well trained in housewifery pursuits during the last season. She has done all the family marketing this winter.

The presents were very numerous and costly, including great quantities of silver and gold and table furniture; a solid silver tea set from the diplomatic corps, a set of twenty gold goblets set with rubies from the cabinet officers, a string of diamonds for the neck from the groom, a Madison avenue (New York) residence from Mr. Blaine, and its furniture from Mrs. Damrosch; solid gold carving-knives, forks, spoons, ladles, etc., from Senator and Mrs. Stanford. The value of the wedding presents, aside from the New York residence and furniture, is put at $25,000.

In a few days Mr. and Mrs. Damrosch will sail for Europe and the young folks will be under the guardianship of Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie and the honeymoon will be prolonged under their hospitable roof in Scotland. The wedding gift of Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie was a handsome suggestion of Mr. Damrosch's profession. The silver tea service, the gift of the diplomatic corps, is the handsomest present ever given on "joint account" in this city.

STATE OF TRADE.

Notable Features in General Business During the Last Week.

New York dispatch: Bradstreet's "State of Trade," says:

Special telegrams indicate a reasonably active trade movement throughout the country, with improvement over the preceding week in Louisiana and elsewhere in the recently flooded districts, which, it is reported, will be free from water in time for a crop this season. Elsewhere in the South crop prospects are excellent.

The industrial situation is rather less disturbed than last week, there having been reported only thirty-seven strikes, involving 4,690 employes. The strike of 3,000 tube-workers was the largest single disturbance reported. For the past fortnight our record of strikes exceeds all records for any single month, these including 182 strikes, involving 57,916 strikers.

There is no gain in anthracite, and pig-iron is as heavy as before, and southern irons are pressing northern with undiminished vigor. Steel rails have been cut $2.50 per ton and billets are reported at bed-rock as to prices. Nails and structural iron are relatively most active. Raw sugar is off ¼ cent, with refined shaded. There is no material change in coffee, which is supported mainly by active speculation. Lard and cut meats are irregular in price and weaker. Live cattle are off 10 to 30 cents per hundred on heavy receipts.

The week has been one of reaction in prices of breadstuffs, on a varying interpretation of the government crop reports. Exports of wheat (and flour as wheat), both coasts, this week aggregate 1,715,096 bushels, against 1,951,413 bushels in the like week last year and 1,873,370 bushels last week. The total shipped July 1 to date is 94,110,954 bushels, against 77,309,213 bushels in a like portion of 1888-89.

The business failures reported number 151 in the United States this week, against 152 last week and 199 this week last year. The total number of failures in the United States Jan. 1 to date is 4,421, against 4,769 in a like portion of 1889.

Fatal Result of an Avalanche Near Scranton, Pa.

Scranton, Pa., dispatch: There was much excitement caused throughout the valley recently, over a report that thirty-five Italian laborers had been buried alive by a culm dump at Olyphant, six miles from Scranton. The accident, however, was not so serious, but three men having been killed.

The men were employed on a construction train on the Ontario, Carbondale & Scranton railroad. They were filling the cars from a dump 200 feet high. The train had just backed in. As five men had clambered over the cars and reached the loading platform an avalanche occurred. Three of the men were driven against the cars, covered up, and smothered. The other two were thrown upon the cars and badly hurt.

Wind, Rain and Hail.

Columbia, S. C., dispatch: A destructive storm of wind, rain and hail has passed over the northwestern part of this State. At Central the amount of rain and hail that fell was unprecedented. The hailstones were not large, but the quantity was so large that they drifted down in one basin above the railroad embankment to a depth of from three to four feet. The crops were killed in some fields, fruit was almost entirely destroyed, and gardens were completely wiped out. Windows were broken, trees blown down, and birds and poultry killed. The damage to crops can hardly be estimated.

Daughters.

If all that mothers are to them came home to the perceptions of daughters at an earlier period, they would be more anxious than they generally seem to be to spare those mothers, to prolong their days and save them from much of the exertion and anxiety that are likely to shorten their lives, and that if only from merely selfish reasons, says Harper's Bazar. How many daughters are there who, if it lies between them to do it, do not let their mothers rise in the morning and make the fire and prepare the breakfast; who, in the interim between cooks, do not let the whole burden of care and the chief endeavor of work come upon the mother; who do not let the mother get up in the night and attend to the calls of sudden ills; who, if it is necessary to watch with the sick, do not hold themselves excused, and the duty to be a maternal one; who do not feel it their privilege to be ready for callers and company while the mother is still in working deshabille; who are not in the habit of taking the most comfortable chair; and who, in the matter of provision of toilet, do not think almost anything will do for mother, but they themselves must be fresh and fine and in the fashion? How many daughters are there who, when pleasure taking comes in question, do not feel, even if perhaps unconsciously, that the mother has had her day and ought to be contented, and they should be the ones to go and take the enjoyment? It would seem as if the mere sentiment of self-preservation would teach daughters a better line of conduct. It is the mother making the central spot of the house usually that makes home possible. It is the mother from whom the greater part of the happiness of the home proceeds. If she dies the home disintegrates, or it is not unusual that another comes in to take her place—a foreign and alien element, before whom the old union and happiness may possibly fly. To preserve this home and this happiness, one would imagine, should be the first effort of the daughter, that she should, out of regard for her own comfort and gratification as well as for that of others, seek every means to make life easy to mother, to insure her health and length of days. Never again will any daughter have such a friend as this mother; no fond adorer's eyes will ever follow her with the same disinterested love as this mother's eyes do, nor will any give her the sympathy she does. It is wild folly on the daughter's part that lets the mother waste her strength, instead of seeking by every means possible to save and increase it, for while a good mother is with her family they are entertaining an angel, whether unaware or not.

Supremely Delightful

To the emaciated and debilitated invalid is the sense of returning health and strength produced by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. When that promoter of vigor is tested by persons in feeble health, its restorative and vitalizing potency soon evinces itself in improved appetite, digestion and nightly repose, the sole conditions under which strength and nerve quietude are vouchsafed to the human system. A gain in flesh of course ensues upon the restoration of digestion and assimilation. As surely as winter follows the fall of the leaf does disease shadow the footsteps of declining strength, when the premature decadence of vitality is not arrested. Marasmus, consumption and other wasting maladies are prompt to fasten upon the enfeebled. Avert disease, therefore, with this grand enabling tonic, which not only renews failing strength but mitigates and counteracts the infirmities of age and those of the gentler sex. Rheumatism, malaria, liver and kidney troubles yield to it.

Love Is Blind.

Jack—Tom, I want to confess to you that I am in love with your sister Minnie.

Tom—Whew! And I'm clean gone on your dear sister Alice.

Jack—What! You don't mean to say—ha, ha! What on earth can you see——

Tom—Come, old fellow, don't joke! You can't be in earnest about Minnie. What is there about her?—Lawrence American.

M. L. THOMPSON & CO., Druggists, Coudersport, Pa., say Hall's Catarrh Cure is the best and only sure cure for catarrh they ever sold. Druggists sell it, 75c.

FOREIGNER—Ah! cher monsieur, I forget ze yourre name, eet iz so queer and strange—— He—My name is Smith.—Town Topics.

OH, how can a fair maiden smile and be gay,
Be lovely and loving and dear,
As sweet as a rose and as bright as the May
When her liver is all out of gear?

She can't. It is impossible. But if she will only take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, it will cleanse and stimulate her disordered liver, purify her blood, make her complexion soft and rosy, her breath wholesome, her spirits cheerful and her temper sweet. All druggists.

DON'T hawk, hawk, blow, spit and disgust everybody with your offensive breath, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and end it.

WHY are children like jellies? Because as they are molded so they will turn out.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

A PRINTER, as well as a lawyer, is glad to reach a point where he can rest his case.

IF not above being taught by a man, take this good advice. Try Dobbins' Electric Soap next Monday. It won't cost much, and you will then know for yourself just how good it is. Be sure to get no imitation.

TO MAKE a long story short—send it to the editor of a newspaper.

WE recommend "Tansill's Punch" Cigar.

IT won't be long before the national air will be "Yankee Boodle."

You Need It Now

To impart strength and to give a feeling of health and vigor throughout the system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems peculiarly adapted to overcome that tired feeling caused by change of season, climate or life, and while it tones and sustains the system it purifies and renovates the blood. We earnestly urge the large army of clerks, bookkeepers, school teachers, housewives, operatives and all others who have been closely confined during the winter, and who need a good spring medicine, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do you good.

"Every spring for years I have made it a practice to take from three to five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, because I know it purifies the blood and thoroughly cleanses the system of all impurities. That languid feeling, sometimes called 'spring fever,' will never visit the system that has been properly cared for by this never-failing remedy." W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor Agricultural Epitomist, Indianapolis, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

I LIKE MY WIFE
TO USE
POZZONI'S
MEDICATED
COMPLEXION
POWDER.
Because it Improves Her Looks and is as Fragrant as Violets.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Forty-five Years' Bondage.

GENTS: For forty-five years I have been afflicted with blood poison, liver and rheumatic difficulties, part of the time confined to my bed. My blood was badly diseased. Six bottles of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup did me more good than all the other medicines I have taken. My friends have used it, and in every case it has proven a wonderful remedy. I have known some wonderful cures of dyspepsia and neuralgia.

MRS. MARY BIDDLE, Mitchellville, Iowa.

Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and Plasters are remedies of great merit. I believe they have no equal in the cure of rheumatism and all blood diseases.

DR. H. REICHARD, Druggist, Mitchellville, Iowa.

The spring is the time to take Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup for the blood. For sale by all druggists. Prepared only by the Charles Wright Medicine Company, Detroit, Mich.

THE ring of true patriotism must not be confounded with any of the New York political rings.—Siftings.

Card of Thanks.

If the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam should publish a card of thanks, containing expressions of gratitude which come to him daily from those who have been cured of severe throat and lung troubles by the use of Kemp's Balsam, it would fill a fair-sized book. How much better to invite all to call on any druggist and get a free sample bottle that you may test for yourself its power. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

IT is not a difficult task to discover rare talent in young ladies whose parents are wealthy.—Texas Siftings.

The "Mother's Friend."

Not only shortens labor and lessens pain attending it but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child if used a few months before confinement. Write to The Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga., for further particulars. Sold by all druggists.

AN orator is simply the mouthpiece of an idea. The roosters make the most noise and do all the crowing; but they lay no eggs.

Six Novels Free, will be sent by Cragin & Co., Philada., Pa., to any one in the U. S. or Canada, postage paid, upon receipt of 25 Dobbins' Electric Soap wrappers. See list of novels on circulars around each bar. Soap for sale by all grocers.

MRS. PARVENU says her new house has all the modern conveniences, even rheumatic tubes.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

THE Spaniards have this proverb: "When mothers-in-law fall out we get at the family facts."

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

THE base-ball club is the popular weapon for breaking the Sabbath with.—New Orleans Picayune.

ONE ENJOYS

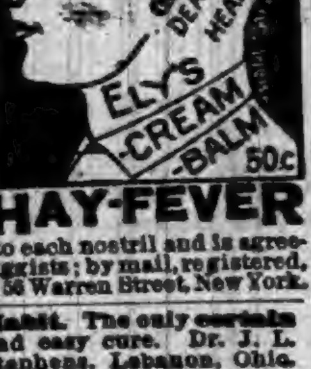
Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

ELY'S
CREAM BALM
Cleanses the Nasal Passages.
Allays Pain and Inflammation.
Heals the Sores.
Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.

CATARRH



TRY THE CURE! HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

MAY FLOWERS—OF SONG
FOR SCHOOLS.

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SONGS (35 cts., $3.60 doz.) 8 pages of simple explanations, and 136 new and selected songs for general singing. This little book is being received with much favor.

Kindergarten Chimes. ($1.25.) Kate Douglas Wiggin. Good manual, and fine collection.
Kindergarten and Primary School Songs. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Menard.
Songs and Games for Little Ones. ($2.) Walker and Jenks.
Gems for Little Singers. (30 cts., $3 doz.) Emerson and Swayne.
Rhymes and Tunes. ($1.) Mrs. Osgood.
Motion Songs. (20 cts., $1.80 doz.) Mrs. Boardman.

Get them all! They are most delightful books! Also try the sweet little Cantatas:

Kingdom of Mother Goose. (25 cts., $2.28 dozen.) Mrs. Boardman.
Rainbow Festival. (20 cts., $1.80 doz.) Lewis.
Who Killed Cock Robin? (40 cts., $3.60 dozen.) Ford.

Song Manual { Book 1. Primary. 30c; $3.00 doz. Book 2. Medium. 40c; $4.20 doz. Book 3. High. 50c; $4.80 doz.

By Emerson. These are the newest and best books for teaching note reading in schools.

Send for Lists and Descriptions.

Any book mailed for retail price.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

SOLDIERS and Heirs write us for new Pension laws. Sent free. Deserters relieved. Success or no fee. A. W. McCormick & Sons, Washington, D. C., & Cincinnati, O.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PATENTS--PENSIONS—How to get a pension Quick. Send for digest of Pension and Bounty Laws. Send for Inventors' Guide or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Attorney at Law, Washington, D. C.

BABY CARRIAGES [illegible] DELIVERED FREE [illegible] in the United States. Also Baby JUMPERS, BICYCLES, [illegible] and GIRLS' TRICYCLES. [illegible] C. O. D. [illegible] L. G. SPENCER'S Factory, 221 W. Madison Street CHICAGO. [illegible] The largest factory in the world. [illegible]

BIG MONEY FOR ONE PERSON IN YOUR TOWN. Send your address and one dollar for full particulars. M. E. WARNER, Odell, Ill.

Needed No Reminder.

The lightning calculator looked over the crowd.

"Is there any other gentleman present," he said, "who would like to know the day of the week on which any event took place? My friend," he concluded, addressing a middle-aged man in front of him, "if you will give me the day of the month and year when you were married I can tell you instantly what day of the week it was."

"I don't need to learn," replied the middle-aged man, whose name was Enpeck. "I was married Wednesday, but" and he took off his hat and wiped his bald head slowly—"I was born on Friday."

Tabooed by Society.

Emma—I notice you don't speak to Miss De Conye anymore.

Lucy—No; I haven't any use for a girl who wears a blue gown with a brown dog.—Dry Goods Chronicle.

ST. JACOBS OIL
SURE CURE.
A CLEAN AND PERFECT CURE OF HURTS AND BRUISES.

A Doctor Saw It.

Lawrence, Kansas, Aug. 9, 1888.
George Patterson fell from a 2d-story window, striking a fence. I found him using St. Jacobs Oil freely all over his hurts. I saw him next morning at work; all the blue spots had gone, leaving neither pain, scar nor swelling.
C. K. NEUMANN, M. D.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:
JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
London, England.

FAT FOLKS using "Anti-Corpulene Pills" lose 15 lbs. a month. They cause no sickness, contain no poison and never fail. Sold by Druggists everywhere or sent by mail. Particulars (sealed) 4c. Dr. Wilcox's Specific Co., Phila., Pa.

PENSIONS If you want your pension without delay, put your claim in the hands of JOSEPH H. HUNTER, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

To Restore Tone
and Strength
to the System when weakened by
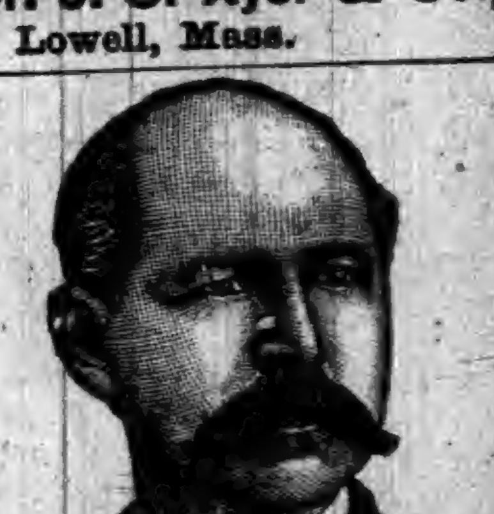
La Grippe
or any other
Illness,
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
is positively
unequalled.
Get the BEST.
Prepared by
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.



W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.
BEST IN THE WORLD.
OTHER SPECIALTIES for GENTLEMEN, LADIES, MISSES and BOYS.

None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom. Sold everywhere.

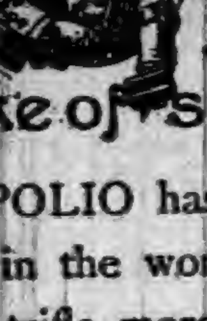
☞ Send address on postal for valuable information.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887, IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY will cure All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES PRICE, $1 PER PAIR. Also an Electric Truss and Belt Combined. Send 6c. postage for free illust'd book, 224 pages, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper. Address OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO., 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO. 826 Broadway, NEW YORK CITY.

"It may be true what some men say.
It maun be true what a' men say."



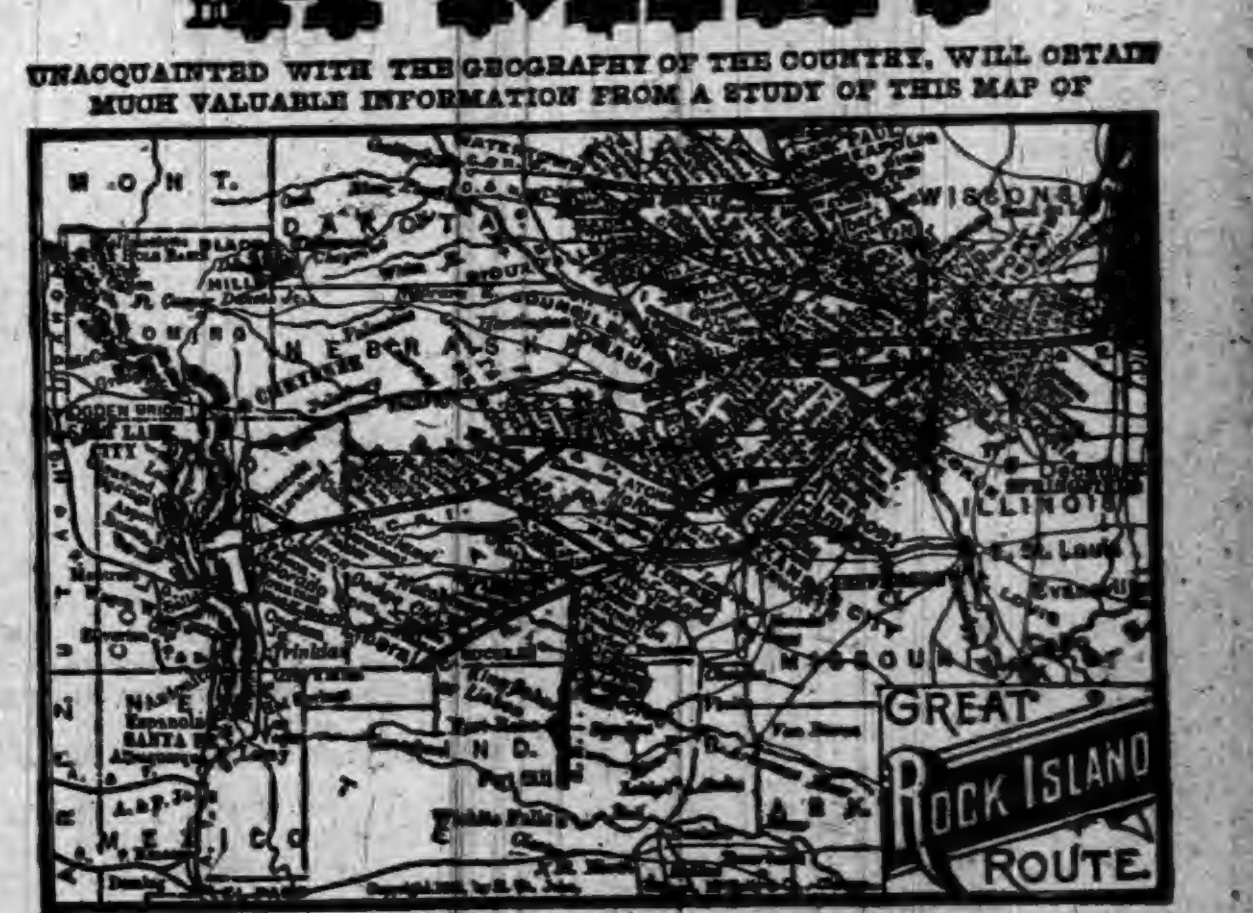
PUBLIC OPINION
endorses Sapolio.—
It is a solid cake of scouring soap.—

For many years SAPOLIO has stood as the finest and best article of this kind in the world. It knows no equal; and, although it costs a trifle more its durability makes it outlast two cakes of cheap makes. It is therefore the cheapest in the end. Any grocer will supply it at a reasonable price.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS
Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.
CONSUMPTION

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

5 TON SCALES $60 Beam Box Tare Beam ALL SIZES Send for Terms

JONES OF BINGHAMTON N. Y. HE PAYS THE FREIGHT

RIDGE'S FOOD IT IS USED by CHILDREN. Thousands of young men and women in this country owe their lives, their health and their happiness to Ridge's Food, their daily diet in Infancy and Childhood having been Ridge's Food. 35 cents up. by Druggists, WOOLRICH & CO., Palmer, Mass.

N. U., F. W. ....No. 21—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

CARPETS.

Have you seen the handsome new designs in Moquetts and Brussells carpets just arrived? See the new patterns for 1890. See how much difference from what you are accustomed to look at.

NEW CURTAINS,
NEW MATTINGS,
NEW RUGS,
In the same department.

Dress Goods.

Scotland has just sent us some novelties in

TARTAN CLAN PLAIDS,

Stuarts, McGregors, Robroys, Victorias, MacLeans, MacKenzies, etc. Every lady should have a costume of these lovely new plaids.

Neckwear.

Novelties in Tabots, Scarfs, Collars, Four-in-hand Sets, Ties.

SATEENS.

American Sateens, 8c. 10 and 12½c.

Imported Sateens. 18, 20 and 23 cents.

RIBBONS.

The sale of ribbons is very large. A very fashionable trimming for summer dresses.

Our Prices are Low.

We are always able to match color in Dress Goods, and with the correct shade in

KID GLOVES.

It's no wonder the glove counter is so well patronized. 5 Hook Lace Kids. 58c.

China Silks,
And Surahs.

Immensely popular. New ideas in printed Chinas, 50c. 75c. 85c. and $1.00. Surahs in every conceivable shade.

CHINA MATTINGS.

The Cleanest and Coolest Floor Covering for 12½c. 15c. 20c. and 25c. per yard.

SAMPLES MAILED FREE.

ROOT & COMPANY.

ECKHART CARRIAGE COMPANY,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

MOUNTED WITH THE HERBRAND GEAR IRONS.

BETTER STYLES, BETTER FACILITIES, BETTER WORK, Better Accommodations.

FOR the past sixteen years we have made and sold to the people of DeKalb County, Buggies and Carriages of all kinds, and have always justified our claim that we POSITIVELY make the BEST in the COUNTRY for the money, until now it has become a common saying that if you want a GOOD BUGGY, one that will stand the knocks,

BUY THE ECKHART BUGGY.

WE have handsomer and more thoroughly made work this year than ever before and expect to be able to furnish our customers, this year, without delay. For the accommodation of our customers we have established the following repositories:

At St. Joe, Ind., under the management of J. K. Stafford.
At Butler, Ind., " " " " Maxwell & Shoub.
At Corunna, Ind., " " " " P. N. Calkin.
At LaOtto, Ind., " " " " E. A. Ditmars.

WHERE we will at all times keep a full line. We will also keep our Repository at our Factory well filled with the styles most in demand.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the Bile, Kidneys and Bowels, Cleansing the Body of all Impurities; Clear the Complexion.

THE BEST REMEDY KNOWN

For Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Headaches, Fullness after Eating, Wind on the Bowels, Pains in the Back, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Constipation, Foul Breath, Drowsiness, Dizziness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue. Will positively Cure Bilious Attacks.

Use the SMALL Size (40 little Beans to the bottle); THEY ARE THE MOST CONVENIENT.

Sold in Bottles only, by all Druggists. Price of either size, 25 cts.

J. F. SMITH & CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
Proprietors of "BILE BEANS" and "BILE BEANS SMALL."

KISSING AT 7-17-70 PHOTOGRAVURE, PANEL SIZE, Mailed for 4 cents (coppers or stamps). J. F. SMITH & CO., makers of "BILE BEANS," ST. LOUIS, MO.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"
"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"
And you can walk, run or jump in them.

Letter From Mr. Lowe.

BUTLER, IND., April 24 1890.

ED. COURIER: Since the McKinley Bill has been brought before congress, and even before, certain manufacturers whose interests would be affected by the proposed measure, have expressed their opposition to the bill, that will increase the duty on raw materials from which they manufacture their goods. These few manufacturers, who have thus far entered their protests against taxing raw materials, are but the advanced guards of the demands of all manufacturers interested in imported raw materials. Our cotton manufacturing industries have arrived at such a state of development that they will soon have to compete in the markets of the world for their surplus, just as the farmers have to do. We already see signs of the times, in their desire to enter into agreements with representatives of foreign governments for reciprocity in trade. It is reported that Mr. Blaine has made such proposals to the Pan American representatives, and it is evident to any unprejudiced mind that reciprocal trade between all manufacturing and commercial nations must be adopted in the near future. The interests of all nations as well as our own require it. Such a policy will redound to the interests of consumers as well as producers. There has been much ridicule expressed about the way the protectionists have drawn the wool over the farmers' eyes, and the slowness with which they get their eyes opened. It is a scientific fact that "large bodies move slowly," this is as true in the social world as in the physical. The farmers being the largest industrial body in the country, give them time and they will get there after a while, or all signs will fail. The farmers are not the only ones who have the wool pulled over their eyes, by the doctrines of the tariff high priests. A special correspondent of the Chicago Herald writing from Manchester, England, of March 26, says: "In his investigations among the coal and iron workers, that they have good wages, cheap provisions, and live in comfort." About a year ago Julian Hawthorne expressed the same opinion. While examining the construction of the Manchester ship canal, he said the vast army of laborers were well fed, contented and happy. Manchester being near the place of my nativity, on my visit there I was conversant with many of these classes, and can confirm the above statements and such others as I quote from the correspondent's article Nelson Brown of the Newcastle Daily Chronicle said: "Fifty years ago the working man wore fustian, (as few of your readers have any idea what fustian is, I will say it is cotton goods very much resembling velvet, but of coarser texture.) To-day he says they wear broadcloth." This terse expression conveys a world of meaning, it tells the whole story of advancement of better dwellings, rapid enhancement of the franchise, and the steady growth of political power, which has given the British workman so potent a voice in national affairs, so that in the matter of personal liberty and constitutional rights, he stands among the foremost in the world.

As I proceed with the Herald inquiry, (says the correspondent) into the conditions of the industrial classes of this county, the untruthfulness, and sophistry of certain orators are more and more apparent. They would have us believe that the British workman is a pitiable object, living in a wretched hovel with his half starved wife and children. In many instances they have so twisted and juggled with figures as to cajole working men into the support of the protective jobbery and robbery. No one contends that the American has not more opportunities for advancement in life than Britisher, but he is not always so well paid, or so well treated as the latter. I showed conclusively in my article on coal mining, (a previous article he wrote the Herald.) A gentleman, who holds a prominent federal position came here a few years ago to deal with wages, from a protectionist's stand point. He was a capital man for the mission, since he managed very adroitly to make a very general reduction in wages, and at the same time raise the cost of provisions all over the country. J. Burnett, delegate to the Berlin labor conference said to me, "some of the officials at Washington are a little inclined to juggle with facts," One of them applied to me for the prices of commodities in England. I sent him the list of several co-operative societies, but I noticed with surprise the published report was changed. How were they changed I asked. Prices were quoted higher than the list prices I gave them.

The rows of cottages in the manufacturing districts are curious features to the American. Accustomed to three or four story dwellings, he cannot understand why in a country so cramped for room, higher building is not practiced. After comparing the rents of these cottages with those of Chicago, (of which he is a citizen of long standing,) and other cities where tenements prevail and are of three or four times as high as the cottages, he gives the rent of the one where he wrote his article, as a sample. "It is on a good street, has a garden patch in front, six rooms, basement and cellar for washing and good out buildings, the rents of this are a dollar and a half a week, clear of rates or corporation taxes." He gives a list of cost of provisions showing that many even of our own American staples are sold there for less than they are here, American apricots 21 cents per 3 pound can; in Chicago and all over our county they retail for 25 cents. He saw a 2 pound can of Libby McNeil & Co's canned beef on the table of a workingman, which cost 18 cents exactly; the same brand is sold at ordinary groceries in Chicago for 25 cents, "He says a Philadelphia lawyer might cudgel his brain in vain to discover the reason for these strange facts." An editorial in Chicago Tribune of a recent date stated that bread made from Minneapolis flour, was selling in London at one-half what the same kind are in Chicago.

Mr. Editor, we as Americans have been very much like the prodigal son we read of, we inherited a vast and rich domain, which we have in a measure squandered in a riotous way, We have got to turn over a new leaf, and learn some lessons in political economy. Many of those highly protected industries will have to be choked away from the public crib. They may for a short time stagger and flounder about when taken from their succor, but they will regain their equilibrium and be all the more prosperous for being thrown on their own resources. The statements of these special correspondent of great American newspapers like the World, or Herald are worthy of the serious consideration of the laboring classes, Let them be no longer gulled by the pauper labor cry, "Let every patriot work with a will to emancipate us from depression in which agriculture is floundering." If long continued, just as sure as night follows day, other industries will be involved. It is reported that Congressman McClellan has introduced an income tax bill. I believe a graduated income tax levied on the gross incomes of corporations or individuals, would do much to relieve us of the burdens under which we groan. We see how large aggregations of capital can in unscrupulous hands, oppress the people. We see illustrations in the Standard Oil Co., the big four Beef Co., Board of Trade and innumerable other instances. Is it any wonder that millionaires spring up all over the country charging us more for our own products, 20 to 100 per cent more, than such goods are sold for in other lands after being transported thousands of miles. If this system of robbery is to continue, what would be more equitable than for congress to tax and if need be, confiscate the proceeds in the interest of the people from whom they have been taken. Nothing can be more equitable than that wealth should bear its just burden of taxation. Other lands have been blest with the benefits of income tax laws, but in our country wealth has generally managed to shift the burden of taxation on other shoulders.

JOHN LOWE.

ON THE WING.

Items and Ideas Found by the Courier Reporter in His Journey.

Fred Peterson is a young man whom the "scribe" found anxious to better his knowledge of the things current in DeKalb county. He is a good-natured fellow and believes the COURIER will answer his purpose as an educator. To substantiate the soundness of his theory he has added his name to the long list of subscribers and will read it for the next year.

William H. Wolf, a young man that is well known in Auburn, was found fully awake to the demands of modern times and alive to the best interests of his household. As a great many others, he has learned that married life is not apt to be an entire success unless a good, pure county paper adorns the stand, which is read by wife as a relief from the monotony of housekeeping. Mr. W. is a successful teamster and expects the COURIER to come to his home as a welcome visitor every week.

A few days ago while in conversation with C. Dick, a young farmer living between Auburn and Corunna, the "markin' stick individual" learned that Mr. D., was a man of thorough business principles, who appreciates a thing of value when he sees it. He is meeting with success in his profession and will continue to add to the knowledge he already has by reading the COURIER for what it is worth as a history of events. A very wise thing for every young man to do. If it were not so, we would have told you.

There are some boys in Auburn who have a higher ambition than to lie idle around on the streets. One day last week while the "pencil man" was strolling along one of the highways in Richland township, he observed the movements of a young man working in a field by the roadside for some time, and on going this industrious young wielder of the wand and stayer of the ribbons, was found to be a no less personage than James Ellenwood. He is a bright, industrious sort of fellow, who, while his hands are engaged in the wearisome toil of farm life does not forget that his mental manhood needs developement. To this end, he has secured the presence of the COURIER as a medium through which this developement may be brought about. We feel confident he will find the object of his diligent search.

German Baptist Brethren.

For the annual meetings of the German Baptist Brethren, to be held at Pertle Springs, Mo., and North Manchester, Ind., May 23rd to 30th, the Wabash Railroad will sell round trip tickets from all points on its line at half fare. Tickets will be on sale May 19th to 27th inclusive, and will be good to return up to and including June 26th, 1890. For tickets and all desired information, call on or address nearest Wabash ticket agent.

It Cannot Longer Be DENIED.

PAINTERS in Auburn, have tried to make it appear that J. C. Day is not much of a painter. But murder will out. Work will show for itself. While those "would-be" artistic daubers have been trying to injure the reputation of a member of the craft, it has been proven that they themselves were badly deceived, and their prophecy false and in vain. We have never said anything concerning this in a spirit of refutation. But we now say it, and say it that we can make you finer rooms, give you more styles and better features of painting, both inside and out, at a less price, than any other Painters in Auburn.

LOUD,

We Mean Just What We SAY!

TO THOSE who are contemplating the painting of a fine house, or having nice rooms neatly, perfectly and artistically finished, we will say that you will do well to call on us and get our prices. We can convince you that our facilities for doing artistic work, are complete in every respect, and we are always pleased to show samples of our work in all the latest styles of colors and ideas in artistic painting. The public will find us always ready to do just as we agree. We give a written guarantee to strictly fulfill all contracts. Hoping to receive a share of the public's patronage, we are yours very truly,

DAY, FOX & CO.,

Opposite Dr. Swarts' Bath House,

AUBURN, IND.

As to Voting in Convention.

A number of democrats have spoken about changing the manner of voting or at least of announcing the votes of townships in the convention. They will introduce a resolution something like this, which we put forward now, by consent, so it can be thought over, and those who favor or oppose can act intelligently.

Resolved: That after all the names are announced for the several offices to be filled, the chair shall appoint two tellers and balloting shall then take place for a candidate for each office. One office at a time and in the order named in the call of the convention.

2. Before the balloting commences the delegates of each township and precinct, shall select a chairman who shall poll and record the vote of such delegates of his township or precinct.

3. He shall not publicly announce the result, but shall enter the vote of such delegates on paper, giving the name of the township or precinct, and sign it, whereupon he shall deliver such paper with such vote to one of the tellers when such township or precinct is called.

4. When all have voted the teller shall read aloud all such balloting with the name of the locality and the clerk shall tally and then record the same which shall be announced by the chairman of the convention.

5. A majority of the entire number of delegates shall be necessary to a choice, or at least 158 votes.

6. In case any delegate shall challenge the vote of his township, or precinct as reported by the chairman of such delegation, as being incorrect the chairman of this convention shall immediately order a re-poll of such delegation which shall in like manner be reported.

Only One Bottle.

Mr. Arthur M. Fisher, a reliable stock dealer, of Decatur, Ind., says: One dollar bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup completely cured me of a very annoying pain in the chest, bordering on lung fever. I think it the best cough syrup in the world and would not be without it.

Resp. Yours, A. M. FISHER.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

DeKalb County Teachers' Association.

The DeKalb County Teachers' Association will meet in the High School building in Auburn, the first Saturday in June, the 7th, at 10 a. m. It is requested that every member who can possibly do so, will attend.

H. E. COE,
Pres. of Association. 21 22

Speer's Wine for Parties.

Physicians employ Speer's Port Grape Wine in their practice in all cases where a pure wine is called for, and do all in their power to foster and encourage its production. Also the same with Speer's Unfermented Grape Juice; both are coming into great favor among the most wealthy in New York City, Philadelphia and Washington as an evening wine.

Marriage Licenses.

John Cooper and Mary Quick, Alexander McDonald and Ida B. Black, John W. Hobbs and Ida Staggers, Alfred Warstler and Sadie Bell Bills, Calvin H. Brown and Maud E. Murray, August Bahlke and Jennie M. Maurer, Wm. T. Warford and Eva M. Brunson, Cassius M. Yard and Jessie Stafford, Mathias Otto and Susan H. Cool, Frank B. Crawford and Sarah W. Williams.

Indigestion

IS not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

HAMBLETONIAN.

COLONEL STERLING.

—PEDIGREE.—

Colonel Sterling was sired by Sterling 1447, he by Volunteer, 55, and he by Hambletonian, 10. Colonel Sterling's dam was sired by Robert Fillingham, Jr., he by George Wilks, 519, and he by Hambletonian, 10.

Look at the Royal blood combination, that of Hambletonian, 10, George Wilks, 519, and Volunteer, 55, all for $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

Write for extended pedigree.

F. J. YESBERA,
AUBURN, IND.

SHOES!

OXFORD'S

Ladies' Fine Shoes
—AT—
Wilson's Shoe Store

A fine shoe with leather counter for only .... $1.50.
Hand sewed, hand turned, in French Kid, on Common Sense and Opera Lasts, Can't-be-beat-shoe for Ladies', Misses', and children's walking shoes and slippers, Lots of them, Latest styles and colors, working shoes for Men and Boys, Fine shoes in Calf, Kangaroo and Dongola. Boots for $2.00 and upwards.

TERMS, CASH.
Repairing promptly done.
Call and see us. Yours truly,

J. N. Wilson & Son,
Waterloo and Auburn.

SLIPPERS.

BOOTS.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.

Carpets! Carpets!
ALL GRADES. ALL MAKES.

Axminsters, Moquetts, Velvets, Tapestries, Body Brussels, and Ingrains. Never were carpets sold cheaper than this season. We show the correct styles in all the new colors and designs, none better to be had.

OUR PRICES THE LATEST.

Buy the Lowell Ingrain Carpets, "wound on a hollow stick." Best all-carpets on earth. We are selling agents for them in Ft. Wayne.

In a few words, we are the leading carpet dealers of Ft. Wayne. Carry the largest line of all grades of carpets and curtain goods, and expect to do a larger business this spring than ever before. A new and elegant line of

Straw Mattings,

Curtains and draperies in endless variety, new and pleasing to the eye. It will pay you to come one hundred miles to see these goods before furnishing your homes.

Louis Wolf & Co.,
54 CALHOUN ST., FT. WAYNE, IND.

If you purchase Dry Goods or Carpets of us to the amount of Ten Dollars or upwards, we will pay your railroad fare.

SANTA CLAUS SOAP
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
Ding, Dong, Bell,
The Bells have a story to tell,
Each Cherub pulls hard on his rope.
And loud voices they raise,
While singing the praise
of FAIRBANK'S SANTA CLAUS SOAP.
MADE ONLY BY N.K.FAIRBANK & Co.
CHICAGO.

For All Kinds Of

Finest Millinery, Notions, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Furnishing Goods,

And Articles for Fancy Work, it will pay you to call on

J. G. JOHNSTON, Waterloo, Ind.

000 000 000

WE keep the largest assortment, very latest styles, lowest prices. The best facilities for doing business and the largest force of experienced help of any establishment of the kind in this part of the country.

000 000 000

IN addition to our Millinery Department, we pay close attention to other lines above mentioned, which means a great variety of articles too numerous to mention.

000 000 000

WE shall continue as in the past to add to our stock, novelties, both in millinery and our stock generally, as fast as they appear in the eastern markets, and will be at all times ready to furnish our customers with just what they want, as we keep a large assortment of each article in our stock varying in prices and qualities, in proof of which, do as others are doing, call and be convinced. Thanking you for past favors,

I am yours truly,

J. G. JOHNSTON,
WATERLOO, IND.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1890. NUMBER 22.

The "keeper of the great seal" of the United States is George Bartle. He has been in the government service for forty-three years, having originally been appointed a clerk in the state department by Daniel Webster.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

The Princess of Wales has been very stern and particular in the education of her daughters. She has good material to work upon, as her girls are clever by nature.

CATARRH—CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—Hay Fever—A New Home Treatment

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is, that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above. ly

The queen of Italy is an ardent student of Volapuk. She is a subscriber of The Stuval, the organ of the new languages, printed at Milan, and is said to read it with ease.

May Thank Her Stars.

The narrow escape of Mrs. B. M. Searles, of Elkhart, Ind., from a premature death is wonderful. She states that "for twenty years my heart troubled me greatly. I became worse. Had smothering spells, short breath, fluttering; could not sleep on my left side, had much pain in breast, shoulder and stomach. Ankles swelled. Had much headache and dizziness. Treatment did me no good, until I tried Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and restorative Nervine. The first bottle helped me, and I was soon virtually cured. For sale at F. E. Davenport's drug store. A fine book on heart and nerves free. 4

Mrs. Smith, who teaches laundry work at Forsyth college, England, also writes novels, contributes original recipes to Truth and is her own dressmaker.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

There are five girls in one of the Humphries families of Fleming county, Ky., and their names are Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Florida and Virginia.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Mr. J. C. Warnock, Atlanta, Ga., says: I have been treated by the most prominent physicians seventeen years for kidney disease without benefit. About six weeks ago I suffered such intense pain—scarcely being able to breathe at times—I concluded to try "Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure," and after using one bottle was entirely and absolutely cured. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga., Proprietors; also, manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure for coughs, colds, asthma and consumption.

The agent of the Broome County, N. Y., Bible society has discovered that there are 124 families in that county who do not posess a bible.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race street, Cincinnati, O

The California state board of trade reports that there are 13,000,000 acres of arable land in that state capable of being rendered productive by irrigation.

Eupepsy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you Good Digestion and oust the demon Dyspepsia, and install Eupepsy. We recomend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle by Robbins and McCord, Druggists.

Mrs. Leyton, a bright young married woman of New York, has opened a carpenter's shop. She is a skillful artisan and finds business good.

Every Christian Mother

Should be careful of her children. This damp atmosphere of our climate often brings on coughs colds, etc., which if not attended to in time lead to that dreaded disease consumption; to prevent this it is the duty of all mothers to have a remedy near to check these coughs, that your children may contract, and you cannot get a safer or more reliable remedy than Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the children's friend. You can buy this for 25 cents of F. E. Davenport.

Monopoly Prices.

We have often said in these columns that American manufacturers did not need any protection. Their profits are good enough without it. They simply keep begging for more protection in order to get bigger profits. As proof, that they can afford to sell at lower prices, we find they send goods to Europe and sell cheaper there than they do here at home. The Chicago Herald has this:

Some valuable testimony showing that protected manufacturers are selling their products abroad for lower prices than at home is found in a pamphlet issued by the New York Reform Club. There are two journals in New York devoted to the export trade in American manufacturs, the American Mail and Export Journal and the Australasian and South American. They are not allowed to circulate in this country, and the reason assigned is that the prices quoted for export are considerably lower than those the commodities command in this country. The data obtained from advertisements and in other ways show that the wheel hoe, cultivator, rake and plow that sells in the home market for $11 costs foreigners only $8.40; a cultivator which is sold for $8 at home goes abroad billed $6.75; another grade sells at $7.20 at home and $4.50 to go abroad. On plows the discount to foreigners is less, being 10 per cent. Thus a plow that costs $5.60 at home is sold to go abroad at $5.04; a two-gang plow, four horses, all steel, $58.80 at home, $52.92 aproad. On shovels the difference is greater. A dozen shovels that are sold at home for $9.20 are sold at $7.86 for export a difference of about 15 per cent.

There are many other articles which are sold for export much cheaper than for sale at home. A typewriter which costs $100 at home can be bought for $60 to be shipped abroad. Not to multiply individual instances farther, it may be stated generally that the prices are from 10 to 30 per cent. cheaper for export than for sale at home.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicans that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King,s New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another,and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery Free at Robbins & McCord's, Druggists.

Here's a Kite String for you, Boys.

It will require 55,000 tons of twine to bind the grain crop of this country this season, should it be an average crop. Every pound should measure about 600 feet. Now, boys, suppose you had all this twine for a kite-string, how high could you fly your kite? 1,060,606 17-264 miles. That's right. The kite might go up out of your sight and surprise the man in the moon. Some of this twine is very good and strong, made of Manilla and Sisal, and some of it is so poor we fear it would fail you just at a time the kite was highest. If you want a perfectly safe and sure string get that made by the Deering Factory, which is made of the best fibre, in the best manner, and is of great strength, and induce your father to buy this for his harvester, and it will serve either his purpose or yours and make both of you happy.

Egg shell was once used in medical prescriptions. When calcined at a low red heat the shells afford a very pure form of carbonate of lime.

The World's Fair.

The excitement caused by this great event is scarcely equaled by that produced by the great discovery of Dr. Miles the Restorative Nervine. It speedily cures nervous prostration, change of life, pain, dullness and confusion in head, fits, sleeplessness, the blues, neuralgia, palpitation, monthly pains, etc. C. W. Snow & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y.; Talbot and Moss, of Greensburg, Ind., and A. W. Blackburn, Wooster, O., say that "The Nervine sells better than anything we ever sold, and gives universal satisfaction." Dr. Miles' new illustrated treatise on the nerves and heart and trial bottle free at F. E. Davenport's drug store. 4

Doctors and Churches.

The doctors of New York City say Speer's Port Grape Wine has proved to be pure, unadulterated, of a fine flavor, and tonic properties, and is unsurpassed for its restorative powers, and they prescribe it as a superior wine. Churches use it for communion.

Reduced Rates for Memorial Day.

On May 30th, 1890, all agents on the Wabash line will sell tickets to stations, within one hundred miles distance, at one and one-third fare for the round trip, good returning until May 31st. 21 22

MEN WANTED

To represent our well known Nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. A steady position with a Nursery of over thirty years' standing, and a known responsibility. We want good, lively workers, and will pay well. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.

CHASE BROTHERS CO., Chicago, Ill.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Isaac N. Askew deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

REBECCA H. ASKEW, administratrix.

April 12th, 1890. 4t

AGENTS to canvass for the sale of our Home-Grown Nursery Stock WANTED. Most Liberal Terms Unequaled facilities. One of the largest, oldest-established, and best known nurseries in the country. Address,

W. & T. SMITH, Geneva Nursery.
Established in 1846. Geneva, N. Y.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, executrix of the will of Daniel Metcalf, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

REBECCA METCALF, Executrix.

May 13, 1890. 21-4t

3 Good Dwellings FOR RENT.

HERE WE ARE AGAIN!

BUT this time we come with a list comprising a choice lot of new properties at exceedingly low prices, in fact any one of them is a bargain, when the location, improvements and general surroundings are taken into

CONSIDERATION.

While heretofore we have offered many bargains, all of which have been gobbled up with the great rapacity of

A HUNGRY MAN.

We believe this to be the choicest lot of all, and the only one we will be able to offer on such favorable terms and prices, but these pieces are for sale at prices that

WILL SELL THEM,

and if you think of buying for a residence or as an investment, call at our office and we will convince you our statements are true as to

PROPERTY AND PRICES.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. The soil is a most splendid one for producing large yields of all kinds of grain. There are 30 acres of good timber on this farm. This farm is cheap at $60 per acre, but we will sell it for less money.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn, and would make someone a fortune if they would buy and plat it in acre lots.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 3 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling, barn, orchard and good fences. This would be a bonanza for anyone at $2,800, but it goes for less. "First come first served" in this trade.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings. 2 good wells sugar camp, fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared. This is a great bargain for someone with small capital, to secure a house, and is cheap at $2,500, but it can be bought for less money.

No. 230. One hundred and ninety-two acres in Newville township, within short distance of Newville and Hicksville. 130 acres under cultivation, balance timber land. Elegant brick dwelling, frame barn, wind pump, two good orchards. School and church near. Here is an opportunity which is seldom found in a lifetime, to secure a farm which is ready to make money for the purchaser from the time of purchase. This farm is well worth $65 per acre, but less will buy it, if taken at once.

No. 304. Sixty acres fine land in Wilmington township. Good frame building with all modern improvements, good orchard. This can be bought for less than $2,500.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O. This will be sold at any reasonable price as it must go.

No. 305. One hundred and forty acres of as good land as there is in this county and with improvements on it that are equalled by but few farms in this county, lies within two and one-half miles of good market. We wish to call your especial attention to this tract as one of our best bargains and is cheap at $10,500, but less will buy it if taken soon. The owner is sick, and has not the necessary help and cannot farm it to any advantage, is the reason a sacrifice will be made. Long time and easy terms.

No. 309. Seventy-eight acres in Concord township. Fine large brick dwelling, large frame barn, splendid orchard of over 100 trees, all bearing. Small fruits in abundance, and soil unsurpassed for producing all kinds of crops. This farm can be bought cheap and will be like finding money at $7,500.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana. Trade well established. Here is a chance for someone to make money with but little capital to invest, as the property can be bought cheap, and will give immediate possession.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street. You know that property in the south end of town is not for sale, generally speaking, and when offered is not long in the market. So it will be with this one. Do not delay, but come at once as it must go.

Vacant lots in the South End of town, at prices to suit customers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we are still loaning money on farms in sums of $1,000 and over at 6 per cent. interest on five years' time.

Also, that we offer to the public

THE MOST LIBERAL

Fire, Life and Accident Policy of any Agency in Northern Indiana. Come in and get our terms.

Also, that we can sell you a Railroad or Steamship Ticket at rates that will astonish you. Our rates are the lowest and our routes the best. Come and see us and we will convince you that these are facts.

We have omitted many bargains (our space being limited,) especially in town properties, a list of which may be seen at our office. Call and see us.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

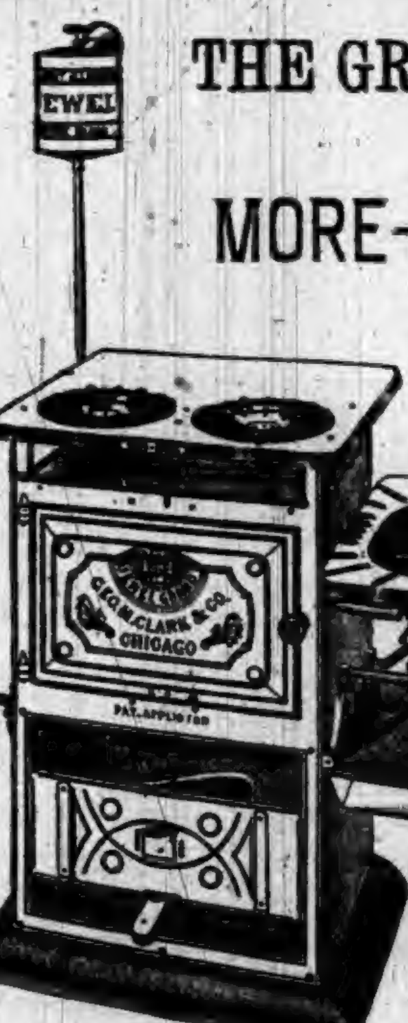
BUY YOUR DRY GOODS, CLOTHING, HATS, CAPS, GENTS' FURNISHINGS, NOTIONS AND CARPETS,

Of us and you are sure to be pleased. We handle nothing but first-class stock and our prices are always the very lowest for quality of goods. We want your trade. Very respectfully,

Schaab & Bro.

AUBURN, IND.

JEWEL GRAND STEP.



THE GRANDEST OF ALL GRANDS!

MORE-FOR-NO-MORE-MONEY.

GREATEST PERFECTION & ECONOMY GUARANTEED.

Positively No Odor or Smell.

FOUR BURNERS ON TOP, OF WHICH YOU CAN USE ONE OR ALL.

One set between the Oven and Roasting Chamber for Baking and Roasting, Toasting or Broiling at the same time with the same flame.

This is the best stove in America, and you cannot be pleased with any other after seeing this, therefore don't fail to see it.

J. BEURET, Dealer in Hardware and Tinware.

Tinshop at. 15, North Main St, Auburn, Ind.

CRYSTAL PALACE Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

ON THE WING.

Items and Ideas Found by the Courier Reporter in His Journey.

J. W. Reeder, is a man who believes in giving his children every advantage possible in the acquisition of knowledge, or instilling into their young minds a disposition to read pure and wholesome literature. He feels certain that the COURIER will justify the confidence he has placed upon it as an educator. That great and wise man, Solomon, called not for riches, but for wisdom. So with DeKalb county citizens. It is a good paper that is wanted and the COURIER fills its position admirably in the majority of homes as a sheet of wisdom.

Milo Thomas at Corunna, smiled blandly on the COURIER itenerent as he entered. There are few if any, finer hardware stores in the county. The building is nice, new and substantial. It was built last year on the spot where the old one was burned. Everything about it is convenient and well fitted up. The stock is all new and first class, and Mr. Thomas is a live business man, always pleasant and social. He has sprung into a good trade and people will find him ready to fit them out with the best hardware at fair prices. As we said, his building is a fine one. The first floor is filled with the usual line of goods found in a hardware store with the exception of the larger and heavier articles. For these he finds ample storage in the basement room below. This is so dry, that even finer articles could be kept there, and not rust. So here are found the plows, plow points and all sorts of heavy goods. Anyone calling at Corunna should go through this establishment, and have a talk with its propristor.

One of the finest maps "the item gatherer" has been permitted to see for a great many years, is one which was drawn by Mr. Albert Harding, of Corunna. It is a biblical map drawn by Mr. H., as a help in teaching his Sunday school class. Having been drawn very artistically upon muslin, with delicate colors, its beauty is almost sublime, and one is struck very forcibly with the idea, that because it required years of constant study and perhaps months of earnest work with crayon and pencil, its production is a triumph of artistic skill.

Geo. Dawson is one of those citizens living near Corunna, who understand the true merits of the COURIER. He has read it for some years and acknowledges that it is a good paper.

As "the man-who-wears-out-pencils" was trying to place the distance between Auburn and Corunna behind him, he saw a man building fence along the road. Approaching this man, he was found to carry the name of H. T. Shade. This gentleman has read the COURIER in the past and fully endorses it as a county newspaper.

E. Palmer, of Corunna has read the COURIER for several years, and is not slow to say that it is the paper for him to read.

Now that all nature has thrown off the chilly mantle of winter and has donned a costume decked with the green verdure of a delightful spring, humanity has also thrown off the drowsiness of a long, restless period of unprofitable neglect and have given obedience to, the silent, yet effective and soothings of conscience and with a spirit of sprightliness which is indicated by alacrity and a glowing countenance are enjoying the full pleasure of country life.

R. F. Forsythe a young farmer, in Jackson township, has found the COURIER to be a paper worthy of his perusal and has added his name to the list of friends who expects it to come to their homes every week.

E. E. Webb, is a young mechanic and believes that he can better himself in the future by reading the COURIER for what it is worth.

Soldiers for liberty. laws for protection, love for harmony and newspapers for education. In connection with this thought Beecher says, "Show me a family of readers and I will show you the people that rule the world."

While the "scribbler" was skimming around town the other day, he came across Jas. Reed, a young farmer living about three miles from town. Mr. R., is one of those ruralists who are in the habit of taking advantage of every opportunity to increase knowledge. He feels quite certain that a dollar and a half invested in a year's subscription to the COURIER is sure to bring good interest, and expects it to arrive at his home every week. Who'll be the next lucky man?

"There's a tide in the affairs of men, if taken in its flood leads on to fortune." There is also a time in the career of men, if taken advantage of, leads on to intelligence, refinement and morality. The bright, happy days of youth is the time when mental development, moral training and intellectual teahcing are necessary. But what is the proper course to pursue in bringing about this result? Well, after giving due attention to your books, occupy a part of your time in reading a good newspaper. Study well the intricacies and dangers which surround your country and its government, and enjoy the beauties of a free and independent nation.

J. A. Gushwa, who has the hardware store on the south side, formerly owned by W. B. Adams, is a retired farmer. Owing to trouble with his eyes, he has been obliged to seek indoor employment. He keeps a good stock of hardware, and stands ready to fill all orders for whatever his customers may want. He also keeps a hotel and livery barn for the accommodation of all who come.

The man of "item proclivities" met William Clouse a few days since, and found that his views upon matters of general interest are in keeping with those expressed by young men elsewhere in DeKalb county as connected with the COURIER. Being a farmer, whose time is somewhat limited, he feels that he can keep himself properly posted on the things current in this county by reading a good newspaper and will expect this paper to come to his home every week.

Stephen Rhodenbaugh, another of our Jackson friends, is among the latest to enroll his name on the COURIER list of honor. It is cash and good friends that help to make a paper.

U. S. Weaver comes to the front as a DeKalb county citizen and puts his name down as one of the COURIER'S friends expecting a visit by it once a week.

Memorial Day at Auburn.

Assemble at G. A. R. headquarters at 1:30 p. m., sun time.

Exercises at Eureka Opera House at 2 o'clock sharp, as follows:

Music by choir.
Reading Memorial Orders.
G. A. R. exercises.
Prayer by Rev. H. A. Sawyers.
Music by choir.
Reading roll of deceased soldiers by Adjt. Edward L. Mason.
Address by J. N. Wilson.
Music by choir.
Benediction, Rev. H. M. Lamport.

Procession will march to cemetery, column forming on Cedar street with right on Sixth street, in the following order:

G. A. R. Drum Corps.
Rifle Squad.
Woman's Relief Corps.
Sons of Veterans.
Citizens.

The column will march west on Sixth street to Main street, south on Main to Defiance street, thence east on Defiance to cemetery,

Decorating ceremonies,

Procession will return to city left in front preceded by the Drum Corps, and disband in public square.

The column will be under command of A. A. Rowland, Capt. S. of V. and assistants.

It is earnestly desired that in returning, the column shall remain unbroken until dismissed by the Marshal at public square.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE,

Decoration.

The people of Cedar Chapel will decorate on Sunday, June 1, 1890, at 2 p. m. They will meet in the grove on Mr. Fansler's farm, where the following program will be executed:

Song by choir.
Prayer by L. B. Fretz.
Song by the choir.
Address by Rev. T. F. Freck.
Reading names of comrades buried in Cedar Creek cemetery by Comrade Fair,
Song by the choir.
Repair to the cemetery.

The line of march will be as follows:

Auburn Drum Corps.
Veterans.
Woman's Relief Corps.
Sons of Veterans.
Choir.
Decorating Corps.
Sabbath schools.
Citizens.

SERVICES AT CEMETERY:

Music by the band.
Prayer by L. B. Fretz.
Decorating graves.
Song by the choir.
Benediction.
Countermarch and disband.

IF YOU WANT TO

BUY CHEAP,

—Go to the—

Bargain Store

On Eighth St., West of Court House.

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court, May term, 1890. Fredreick J. Liebetenz and Catharine Lieberenz are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, on foreclosure of mortgage, by the Real Estate and Improvement Company of Baltimore City, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 43rd juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 19, 1890.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 2nd day of May, 1890. George A. Bishop, Clerk.

James E. Rose Attorney. 19-23

HAMBLETONIAN.

COLONEL STERLING.

—PEDIGREE.—

Colonel Sterling was sired by Sterling 1447, he by Volunteer, 55, and he by Hambletonian, 10. Colonel Sterling's dam was sired by Robert Fillingham, Jr., he by George Wilks, 519, and he by Hambletonian, 10.

Look at the Royal blood combination, that of Hambletonian, 10, George Wilks, 519, and Volunteer, 55, all for $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

Write for extended pedigree.

F. J. YESBERA,

AUBURN, IND.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

DROWNED AT SEA.

Seventy-Seven Chinese Perish in the Wreck of the Oneida.

The Oneida, with 110 Chinese and forty-five white men on board, nearly all of whom were on their way to Salmon Cannery, is a wreck on Janeck Island, in Behring Sea. On the afternoon of April 26 the Oneida had nearly reached her destination. Capt. Anderson stated that he made a run of thirty miles to clear the southwest point of the island. He could not see on account of a heavy fog. He put back about three miles, expecting to pass on the opposite side of the point, but instead the vessel struck on Hennines Rock on the southwest end of the island. A heavy sea was on and in a short time the Oneida was a total wreck. The white men and thirty-three Chinese escaped in boats or floated ashore on pieces of wreck, but seventy-seven Chinese were undoubtedly drowned as they have never been heard of. The Oneida had on board the material for building and running a salmon cannery, which was to have been erected on the island.

Affairs in Mexico.

A special from the City of Mexico says: President Diaz, in speaking of the filbuster movement in Lower California, told an Associated Press correspondent he attached little importance to the movement. He knew the United States Government would not allow the neutrality to be violated, and the Mexican Government would protect her territory. It had sufficient forces in Lower California to repel invaders. Telegrams received here state that the people of Lower California are a unit against the filbusters. President Diaz has expressed himself in favor of the three Americas' Railroad. The tobacco and coffee crops in Vera Cruz were very promising. Silver is declining and foreign exchange is raising.

Death Ended It All.

Harrisburg (Pa.) special: At its last meeting, the State Board of Pardons held under advisement the app ication of Nicholas Parel, of Juniata County, for a pardon. The prisoner fell in love with a girl, and was ridiculed by several men, with whom he became involved in a quarrel and was badly whipped. The girl not reciprocating his affections, he became desperate and confessed to having fired two barns, and was sentenced to ten years and a half in the penitentiary. Soon after his imprisonment, it was learned from him and others that he did not commit the arson, and the court and jury asked for his pardon. The board intended to recommend executive clemency at the next meeting, but the prisoner (whose real name was Herman Fitzgerald) died the other day.

World's Fair Commissioners.

Commissioners for the World's Fair have been announced, and are as follows: Commissioners at large—Augustus E. Bullock, Massachusetts, with Henry Ingalls, Maine, as alternate; Thomas Palmer, Michigan, with James Oliver, Indiana, as alternate; Richard C. Kerens, Missouri, with Robert W. Ferras, Nebraska, as alternate; Edward H. Annison, New York, with Gorton W. Allen, alternate; Peter A. B. Widerer, Pennsylvania, with John W. Tholfant, Pennsylvania, alternate; Samuel W. Inman, Georgia, with William Finsey, Kentucky, alternate; Henry Exall, Texas, with Henry L. King alternate; Mark L. McDonald, California, with Thomas Burk, Washington, state, alternate.

The War on Warren Stopped.

An amicable understanding has been reached between the merchants of Warren, Ind., and representatives of the Farmers' Alliance, and the restrictions upon business, instituted by the latter, have been removed. As one result, the directors of the Warren County Tri-County Fair have withdrawn the order indefinitely postponing the next exhibit, and all interests will join in making the forthcoming one a success.

Another Carpenters' Victory.

Emery Bros., the largest house building firm of Cincinnati, has surrendered after a fight of ten years with the union and have signed the union scale of wages, to go into effect June 1. Already two firms have signed the contract to allow an advance of 10 per cent. in wages.

Broke Her Neck.

Miss Sophia Hunt, riding just outside the city limits of Grand Rapids, became frightened at the horses running, and jumped from the buggy with a small child in her arms. She struck on her head and shoulders, breaking her neck. The child was uninjured.

Death on the Rail.

The west-bound train on the Michigan Central ran down a railroad velocipede near Dayton, Mich., on which Ed. Wolfe and Miss Alsbough were riding. Wolfe was thrown into the ditch, uninjured, but Miss Alsbough fell under the locomotive's wheels and was cut to pieces.

Thirteen Buildings Burned.

Fire at Cambridge, Wis., destroyed thirteen buildings, being the principal part of the town. The loss is estimated at $40,000; insurance, $20,000. The fire originated in a barn. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Haymarket Dynamiter Arrested.

The Chicago police have arrested Wilhelm Vorus, a German, as a party connected in the plot to blow up Haymarket monument with dynamite.

HE MUST DIE.

Kemmler, the New York Murderer, Doomed to Die by Electricity.

The Supreme Court of the United States has denied the application for habeas corpus in the Kemmler case and the murderer will die by electricity. Chief Justice Fuller delivered the opinion in the case denying the motion and the writ of error. The opinion is a lengthy one and gave evidence of careful preparation. It called attention to the fact that the Constitution of the State of New York and that of the United States were almost identical. The Legislature of New York, after careful examination of all the questions connected with proposition for the utilization of electricity as a method of producing death, had decided that it is not more cruel than the methods heretofore employed and recognized by law, but a more humane method. The Legislature has a right to determine the method of punishment which shall be inflicted upon those violating the laws, provided the method does not interfere with the rights of a person under the Constitution of the United States. Such unusual and cruel punishment as burning at the stake, disemboweling, or torture, would not be recognized by the law of civilized nations, but there seems to have been no evidence before the courts or Legislature to warrant a conclusion that the form of death proposed was cruel in a greater degree than that recognized by the Constitution and accepted as a law of the land, and as Kemmler's crime was committed after the date on which the act was to take effect no sufficient reason is urged or found for a writ of error, and it is therefore refused.

DOWN TO DEATH.

Steamer Aurania Runs Into a Launch and Two of the Seamen Are Sent to a Watery Grave.

New York special: The great ocean race between the steamship, City of Rome, of the Anchor line, the Aurania, of Cunard, and the Alaska, of the Guion line, came to an unfortunate closing, resulting in a collision and the drowning of two men. The Aurania was the second of the three racers to reach this city. She arrived at Five Islands at 3:26 and three hours later was in quarantine. It was after 7 o'clock when she left there to proceed to the company's landing. The Captain was pushing the steamer in all haste in order to reach the dock by daylight. When the Aurania was between Robbin's reef light and Liberty Island she ran into the steam launch Yeada and sunk her. The launch was struck on the port side and shattered to pieces by the prow of the iron monster. In the boat were four brothers C. Biel, Walter, Charles and Phillip Biel, Jersey City; Lawrence O'Brien and John McMahon. The six men were thrown into the water. The officers on the bridge of the Aurania seeing what had occurred, blew their distress whistles. The revenue cutter Washington, which had just placed the staff officers on board the steamer, heard the whistles and returned to the scene. On arriving there the six struggling men could be seen in the water fighting for their lives. Boating Officer W. B. Stiles and Pilot, J. B. McMather ordered the deck hands of the cutter to throw life lines and buoys to the unfortunate men, and soon all the men, with the exception of Henry and Charles Beil, were rescued. In the meantime a boat had been lowered from the steamer and search was made for the two missing men, but no trace of them could be found. Capt. Dalton decided to remain at anchorage at Fire Islands until morning. The surviving brothers and their companions were brought to this city and landed at the cutter's pier. They were then in a terrible condition.

BOLD CONSPIRATORS.

An Alleged Conspiracy to Capture Lower California and Form an Independent Republic—Annexation to Follow.

The San Francisco Chronicle devotes four columns to giving complete details of an alleged conspiracy to capture Lower California and to found an independent republic there, followed by annexation to the United States. A number of prominent capitalists interested in Lower California lands and mines and well-known citizens of Los Angeles and San Diego are involved, according to the revelations. San Diego appears to have been the headquarters of the filibusters. The general outline of the plan, it is claimed, was for the Mexican Land and Colonization Company, composed of wealthy Englishmen owning concessions on the Peninsula, to place in the hands of a well-known San Diego capitalist $100,000 to be used in advancing the interests of the filibusters. Two propositions were discussed. One was to capture Ensenada; the other was to introduce a large number of Americans on one peninsula, ostensibly as railroad laborers, to capture the man-of-war Democrata, and at the same time give a picnic in honor of the Mexican officials, and in the midst of the festivities capture the garrison and seize the roads and telegraph lines. Simultaneous risings at the Alamo and Tia Juana were to take place. Several meetings of the conspirators took place in March and April and at one of these the facts became known to a newspaper man. When the peninsula had been seized a provisional government was to be declared on or about August 1, and martial law was to be enforced. The land of the peninsula was to be nationalized and a peaceful order of things secured, and negotiations for annexation to the United States would follow. The names of the projectors are given.

FRUSTRATED.

Five Desperate Convicts in the Ohio Penitentiary Frustrated in an Attempt to Make Their Escape.

Columbus special: By a lucky discovery at the Ohio Prison the escape of five desperate convicts from that institution was prevented just as it was about to be accomplished. Four of the men were employed in a tool shop at such work that they were off duty early and found time to work in a tunnel under the walls, which the quintette projected for a half hour or more each day in the evening. They selected the building for storing coke as the site for the mouth of the tunnel and the earth they removed was concealed under another building in the enclosure. They worked with only a piece of an ax bit and a broken shovel. The leader of the plot was Charles Lockhart, a fifteen-year man from Putnam County for rape. He has had an interesting prison history. Last December he escaped in a suit of citizens clothes, but was re-captured about two months ago and while being brought back to the prison leaped from the train. The guard shot at him as he jumped, badly wounding him. He but recently came from the hospital and was employed as a runner. This gave him more time to work on the tunnel than he would otherwise have had. Lockhart's companions were Lane, a fifteen-year man from Logan County, for manslaughter; Kelly, a three-year man from Union County, for house-breaking; Butler, a three-year man from Hamilton County, for rape, and Lithgow, a twelve-year man from Hamilton, for robbery. They were much chagrined when a guard found all in the tunnel.

Indiana Odd Fellows.

At the session of the Grand Lodge, of Indiana, of the I. O. O. F., held at Indianapolis, B. F. Foster, Grand Secretary, reported a net increase in membership of 634 for the term, making 1,673 for 1889. The total membership is now 32,689; number of lodges now effective, 563. Four new lodges and ten Rebekah lodges have been instituted. The resources of all lodges are given at $1,806,880.41; receipts of lodges, $162,396.45; total expenses, including relief, $121,209.23. Nineteen hundred and twenty-four brothers and 152 widowed families have been relieved. The sum of $39,029.37 has been paid for the relief of brothers; $2,481.02 for the relief of widowed families; $517.95 for the education of orphans; $10,142.20 for burying the dead, and $3,043.90 for other charitable purposes—making the total amount of relief $55,214.44. The entire amount of relief for the year 1889 was $115,564.81. The number of accessions to the Rebekah Lodges is 2,503; net gain, 1,617; total, 10,743; receipts, $8,000; total assets, $9,389.01. Treasurer T. P. Haughey's report gives cash on hand $13,552.96.

A Brutal Deed.

Advices just received from south of Pigeon River, West Virginia, gives details of a most atrocious murder which occurred there recently. Jim Brewer shot and killed Ike Brewer, Jr., in the store-house of E. Walker. The shooting was caused by the re-opening of an old feud. Ike Brewer, Jr., was sitting in the store when Jim Brewer came in and without a word of warning struck Ike a blow with a Winchester rifle across the neck, breaking it. After the dying man fell to the floor Brewer put the muzzle of the rifle to his chin, the fire scattering the unfortunate man's brains in every direction. Brewer was arrested and is now confined in the Logan County jail. Jim Brewer has gained considerable notority by being a leading character in the killing of the Balden brothers three or four weeks ago. Ike Brewer, Jr., was a cripple, being minus one leg.

Terrific Windstorm.

Pittsburgh (Pa.) special: A terrific wind and rain storm passed over this city. The tornado appeared to come from the northwest. Several houses were struck by lightning, and at least a dozen were blown from their foundations in various parts of the city. One building was blown down while a number of workmen were engaged inside. Four or five of them were severely injured. The wife of Murray Verner, President of one the traction roads, was caught out in a buggy. The vehicle was overturned and Mrs. Verner had an arm broken. City Treasurer Dennison had a valuable house destroyed. Hail, the size of marbles, fell for twenty minutes. Roofs of houses were blown a distance of two squares, water ran a foot deep on many streets. Telegraph and electric wires are down and the total damage by the storm is estimated at $50,000 to $75,000. A heavy fog rests over the city.

The Cronin Prisoners.

Joliet special: Another Cronin sensation is evidently brewing, but the officials are endeavoring to keep it from reaching the public. A report is current that more money has been found on some of the convicts, and through fear of punishment a Cronin prisoner has squealed and revealed a state of things that has thoroughly alarmed the prison authorities. If the report should prove true it would appear that the underground route was speedily repaired after the recent exposure and that the communication between the Cronin prisoners and their Chicago friends was renewed to some purpose. A sum of $1,000, in addition to the smaller amounts discovered, is said to have been smuggled into the prison, and according to a story of an employe, the warden and his men are busily engaged in hunting it up. So far their efforts have proved unsuccessful.

The World's Fair.

Chicago special: At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the World's Fair a resolution adopted requesting Governor Fifer to call a special session of the Legislature prior to July 1, 1890, for the consideration of submitting to a popular vote at the coming November election, an amendment to the State Constitution authorizing the city of Chicago to issue not exceeding five million dollars of city bonds for the World's Fair, also the necessary legislation authorizing the use of any public grounds for the site of the exposition now under control of Park Commissioners and the issuing of requisite park bonds for the maintenance, improvement and extension of such parks. Also necessary legislation by appropriation on the part of the State for a State exhibit.

Her Fortune Comes Too Late.

Denver special: Several years ago, Winnie Burton, daughter of a wealthy merchant at Mansfield, Ohio, married a young man against her father's wishes, for which she was never forgiven. The husband soon deserted her, since when she has been drifting around the world making her living as best she could. Some months ago she went to Leadville, Col., and is dying in the last stages of consumption. She secured a rough house in the lower part of the city, and being too weak to work lived on the charity of a few people she knew. The other day she received word that her father had died leaving her a fortune of $150,000. This news came too late, as she can live but a short time. She was carried to the train and sent to Ohio.

Immigration Laws.

Representatives Owen, of Indiana, Ballback, of New Jersey, Stump, of Maryland and Brewer of Michigan, have arrived at Chicago from Washington, and will commence the line of investigations into the immigration of that city. Representative Owen, in an interview, said: "While no direct plan has been formulated to be submitted to Congress, and although I can offer no decided opinion on the results of our investigations so far, I may safely say that our immigration laws are astonishingly loose, both in their construction and execution. As for naturalization laws, they are simply a farce."

More Floods at Johnstown.

Pittsburgh (Pa.) special: The great Johnstown flood of a year ago has been forcibly brought to the minds of the people of the Conemaugh valley. Heavy rains passed over Cambria and Johnstown. The rivers raised rapidly and several houses in the lower part of Cambria City are inundated. The tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad are covered with a big landslide opposite Johnstown, and travel has been stopped. The people of Johnstown are fearful that another flood will occur.

Priest Fatally Shot.

Chicago special: Rev. Stephen M. Barrett, pastor St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church, corner Sangamon and Ohio streets, was shot and fatally wounded by Patrick Ready, a blacksmith, who was insane from liquor. Father Barrett was sitting in a chair on the front steps of his residence when Ready came along, stopped and entered into a conversation with Father Barrett. Ready started to walk away, but took only two steps, when he turned around and fired at Father Barrett. Ready was immediately arrested and placed in jail. Father Barrett's wound will prove fatal.

Another Unknown.

A dispatch from Hamilton, Ohio, says that near Monon, Ind., a young woman on the vestibule train, tied a rope about her neck and fastened the other end to the railing of the car and threw herself off. As soon as the act was discovered the train was stopped and an engine sent back and her remains were found in a pool of water. No one knows her. A ticket to Cincinnati was found on her person. She was seen to drink from a whisky bottle on the car and was heard to say that she had no friends in Cincinnati.

Buried by an Embankment.

New York special: Three men were buried under an embankment, which fell on them while they were levelling Battery Hill, in Greenpoint. One man whose name could not be learned was suffocated in the dust. The other two, William Sealy and William Kerns, were severely hurt.

An Adulterous Preacher.

Chattanooga special: Henry Hurd, a well-to-do colored man of Sherman Heights, took his wife to the circus. After the performance Hurd said he would stay in the city, and Mr. Dobbins, the preacher at Sherman Heights, escorted Mrs. Hurd home. Hurd in the meantime went home by a circuitous route, and secreted himself in his house, where he watched a courtship between his wife and the preacher. After they had retired he stealthily emerged from his hiding place and savagely attacked the preacher, cutting him sixteen times about the body. The preacher will probably die. Both men and the woman have been arrested.

Hail and Lightning.

Berlin special: While the people of the village of St. Mahlen, near Hildesheim, Hanover, were assembled in the church, whither they had repaired to pray for the cessation of the hail storms which have of late prevailed in that locality with damaging effect, the building was struck by lightning. Four persons were instantly killed, twenty were seriously injured and four were permanently blinded by the flash. The congregation were in the attitude of prayer at the time the bolt fell. In the ensuing rush for the doors, the people being wild with fright, two children were crushed to death.

Are Watch Clubs Lotteries?

Crawfordsville (Ind.) special: The proprietors of the Review, Argus-News and Journal have been arrested on grand jury warrants, for publishing a watch lottery advertisement for C. L. Rost, who is indicted on three charges for running a lottery. The plan was for a club to pay $1 a week, and each week the member who drew the lucky number would get the watch, and then would not have any more to pay. By this plan the first watch would cost $1, the second week $2, and so on until the last number drew, he having to pay $30 for his watch.

No Refuge from Lightning.

Isaac N. Collisin, a prosperous farmer of Lawrenceville, Clark County, Ohio, was killed by lightning during a storm. He had taken refuge under a tree from the rain, and had scarcely reached the shelter when the bolt descended. Collisin was the last of three brothers who have died by violence. Four silver dollars and two halves in his pocket were melted into a solid mass. Raymond Hinkle, aged 4, who was standing near by, was severely shocked.

Under the Waters.

Twin Lake, a few miles north of Roann, Ind., was the scene of a sad accident. As Charles Leary, fireman of the Chicago & Atlantic push engine at Harrisburg, in company with several companions, was fishing at the lake, from some unknown cause the boat upset and before his companions could reach him, young Leary sank beneath the deep waters of the lake to rise no more. Leary was a young man of 22 years and unmarried.

Killed in a Mine.

Samuel Montgomery, one of Knightsville's (Ind.) oldest and best citizens, was injured by falling slate in the Peanut mine and died shortly after being taken home. Mr. Montgomery was prominent in Odd Fellowship, a member of the M. E. Church, and a veteran of the late war, and ex-Councilman of this place. This was the second accident at this mine in the last week.

Big Fire at Marion.

A special from Marion, Ind., states that the Flint Glass Works at North Marion, were in flames and that total destruction of the same was inevitable. It is supposed that the building was struck by lightning, and before action could be gotten on the flames they had spread so that they could not be gotten under control, and the extensive buildings were in ruins.

A Fatal Row.

Mrs. John Huling, aged 27, Mrs. Della Mannett, aged 21, and Miss Mamie Huling, aged 16, were rowing in a canvas decked boat on Davisville pond, near Providence, R. I., when the craft suddenly filled. Mrs. Mannett and Miss Huling were drowned, but Mrs. Huling escaped by clinging to her dog, which swam with her to shore.

Fatal Accident.

Charles Arblaster, aged 35, was instantly killed by the switch engine of the C., H. V. & T. Railroad at New Strattsville, Ohio. He was crossing the Troy track just as the engine was taking a cut of cars up the grade. Engineer Lewis did all in his power to stop the cut, but without avail. Arblaster leaves a wife and family.

Guilty of Grand Larceny.

Geo. H. Pell was found guilty at New York, of grand larceny in taking $31,000 in bonds belonging to the Lenox Hill Bank at the time of the recent bank wrecking plot. Sentence deferred.

Base Ball Change Rumored.

It is rumored that the Brooklyn American Association Club will be transferred to Indianapolis.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Prime	$5.00 @ 5.50
Fair to Good	4.50 @ 5.00
Common	3.00 @ 4.50
Hogs—Shipping Grades	3.75 @ 4.25
Sheep	3.25 @ 4.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.94 @ .95
Corn—No. 2	.33½ @ .34½
Oats—No. 2	.28 @ .29
Rye—No. 2	.52 @ .52½
Butter—Choice Creamery	.13 @ .15
Cheese—Full Cream, flats	.08 @ .09
Eggs—Fresh	.12½ @ .13½
Potatoes—Choice new, per bu.	.50 @ .60
Pork—Mess	12.75 @ 13.25
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 2 Spring	.91 @ .93
Corn—No. 3	.34 @ .35
Oats—No. 2 White	.29 @ .30
Rye—No. 1	.53½ @ .54½
Barley—No. 2	.49 @ .51
Pork—Mess	12.75 @ 13.25
DETROIT.
Cattle	3.00 @ 4.50
Hogs	3.00 @ 4.25
Sheep	3.00 @ 5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.94 @ .95
Corn—No. 2 Yellow	.36½ @ .37
Oats—No. 2 White	.31 @ .31½
TOLEDO.
Wheat	.94½ @ .95½
Corn—Cash	.35½ @ .36½
Oats—No. 2 White	.30 @ .30½
NEW YORK.
Cattle	4.25 @ 5.50
Hogs	4.25 @ 4.75
Sheep	5.50 @ 6.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1.01 @ 1.03
Corn—No. 2	.40½ @ .41
Oats—Mixed Western	.32 @ .35
Pork—New Mess	13.50 @ 14.25
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle	4.25 @ 5.00
Hogs	3.75 @ 4.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.95½ @ .96½
Corn—No. 2	.33 @ .34
Oats—No. 2	.29 @ .29½
Rye—No. 2	.53 @ .53½
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping Steers	3.00 @ 4.75
Hogs—Choice Light	3.00 @ 4.25
Sheep—Common to Prime	3.00 @ 5.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.95 @ .95½
Corn—No. 2 White	.35½ @ .36½
Oats—No. 2 White	.30 @ .30½
CINCINNATI.
Hogs	3.50 @ 4.35
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.94½ @ .95½
Corn—No. 2	.38 @ .39
Oats—No. 2 Mixed	.31 @ .32
Rye—No. 2	.60 @ .64
BUFFALO.
Cattle—Good to Prime	4.50 @ 5.25
Hogs—Medium and Heavy	4.00 @ 4.50
Wheat—No. 1 Hard	1.01 @ 1.01½
Corn—No. 2	.37½ @ .38

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Minor State Items.

—A sorghum factory is to be started at Mooresville.

—The Newman paper-mill, at Kokomo, is being greatly enlarged.

—Black diphtheria has appeared in Clay Township, St. Joseph County.

—A couple of horses owned by Henry Freleigh, near New Palestine, were killed by lightning.

—The electric-light plant of Rockport will be in operation by the 10th of June.

—An empty house at Vincennes was blown up by unknown dynamiters because it had been rented to obnoxious tenants.

—M. L. Lee lost control of red-hot wire he was handling in the Anderson rod-mill, and it passed completely through his wrist.

—John Gilman, an insurance agent of Greencastle, fell backwards out of a road-cart, striking on his head. He is in a precarious condition.

—Lightning struck a tree in the yard of Thomas McKillup, at Muncie, and tore it in pieces, hurling a heavy fragment through the roof of the residence.

—A costly freight wreck occurred at the junction, near Delphi, a Wabash freight crashing into a Monon freight as it was crossing. Nobody was injured.

—Anybody who wishes to walk a tight rope across the falls at Williamsport, Warren County, can secure a job on the Fourth of July by addressing James Armstrong, at that place.

—Prof. J. W. Carr, a teacher in the Muncie High-school, has been selected by the Anderson School Board to take charge of and superintend that city's schools, at a salary of $1,200 per year.

—The corner-stone of the new Catholic St. Patrick's Church at Fort Wayne was laid with appropriate ceremonies. All the Catholic societies of the city and vicinity marched in the procession.

—Mrs. Otto Hyden, of Rosedale, recently extracted from her breast a needle-point which had entered her thumb twenty years ago and had been peregrinating through her anatomy ever since.

—Bert Ezra, of Crawfordsville, accidentally dropped a lighted match into the mouth of a patent gas-generator, causing an explosion. The generator was destroyed, and Ezra received severe injuries and suffered the loss of some teeth.

—The child of Jones Reed, of Pawpaw Township, Wabash County, while playing on the bank of Pawpaw Creek, fell into the stream and was drowned. The body was not found for several hours, and was then discovered lodged among roots.

—Rev. James Stewart Ainslie, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., who some months ago declined to accept a call tendered by the Congregational Church of Fort Wayne, has reconsidered and will accept the call. He will take charge in July at a salary of $2,000.

—The Diamond-plate Glass Company, of Kokomo, has commenced the erection of another large additional two-story brick building, 200x217 feet, to be used as a foundry and machine-shop. On the completion of this over twelve acres of ground will be under roof.

—The 5-year-old child of Frank Callaway, of Wabash, took a quantity of concentrated lye, horribly burning its mouth and throat. Its recovery is doubtful. The mother of the infant set a can containing the lye down while washing, and did not see the child swallow it.

—Charles Harper, a youth, while attempting to get in a road cart at Scottsburg, lost his balance and fell beneath the horse's feet. Before he could be removed from his perilous position the animal stepped upon his face, crushing his features in a frightful manner.

—A horrible accident is reported from Mexico, Miama County, in which the 6-year-old daughter of Victor Haney was caught in a revolving saw-mill shaft, dragged in and revolved around, completely shattering one leg and both arms and breaking almost every bone in her body. She cannot live.

—The Kokomo Natural-gas Company has opened another monster gas-well, near that city. So powerful was the pressure that 600 feet of four-inch casting was blown out, and twisted and coiled in all shapes among the trees. Four workmen and several by-standers miraculously escaped injury.

—At Swayzee, the pressure of the gas in the well that supplies the town blew out a valve, the escaping gas ignited and burned down the derrick and the regulator-house, involving a loss of $1,000. The citizens of Swayzee will have to burn wood until the well can be controlled and the damage repaired

—Henry Winklebeck, the lumber-dealer who disappeared from Royal Center, is believed to be in Canada. About $10,000 of paper forged by him has turned up in Logansport, and more is believed to be afloat. Judge D. P. Baldwin is caught for $3,000, the National Bank $4,000, and others smaller amounts.

—Samuel Montgomery, one of Knightsville's oldest and best citizens, was injured by falling slate in the Peanut mine near that city, and died shortly after being taken to his home. It was the last day the mine was to run, as it was worked out, and the miners were loading up their loose coal. Mr. Montgomery was prominent in Odd Fellowship, a member of the M. E. Church, and a veteran in the late war, and ex-Councilman of that place. This was the second accident at this mine in the last week.

—Four milk cows in one locality in Columbus died very suddenly, and in a manner indicating that they had been poisoned, and the dead animals' stomachs were examined and found to contain poison.

—Mrs. Hite, wife of John Hite, the carriage manufacturer, of Franklin, committed suicide by hanging. She escaped the vigilance of her attendant, took a long towel and hanged herself in the wood shed. Death resulted from strangulation, as her knees almost touched the floor. She had been unsound in mind for several years.

—Town Marshal Dailey, of Charlestown, probably receives the lowest salary of any one acting in a similar capacity in the State. He is paid $1 per annum.

—A 5-year-old daughter of Thomas Troxell, of Muncie, was precipitated to the ground from a second-story window by the giving way of a wire screen. She fell upon the screen and was not seriously hurt.

—The new Police Commissioners, of Fort Wayne, who were recently appointed, have started in to purge the police force of some inefficient officers. Lieut. Fuchshuber was discharged for drunkenness, and Officer Richter was suspended for thirty days for drinking while on duty. Officer Lapp was appointed Lieutenant to succeed Mr. Fuchshuber.

—Mrs. Gregori, wife of the distinguished artist, Signor L. Gregori, died at St. Mary's Academy at South Bend. She had for the past seven years been a victim of rheumatism and other troubles. Mrs. Gregori was born in Rome, Italy, in 1817, and was, before her marriage to the Artist Gregori, Marie Louisa Persach. Constantine Gregori, one son, is a distinguished artist of Rome, and Vice Gregori is professor of one of the universities at Bologna.

—Harry Doughten hired a horse and buggy at a New Albany livery stable for the purpose of conveying Miss May Russell to Jeffersonville, when the intention was for the two to be married. When he arrived at Miss Russell's home he was informed by her that her wedding-dress was not completed, and that therefore the wedding must be postponed. Doughten left, and a half hour later Miss Russell and a former lover—John Sweeney—left for Jeffersonville where they were married.

—The Steel and Iron Association of Brazil ran an excursion to Momence, Ill. They had been but a short time on the ground when J. M. Pullen, who had secured a skiff and was rowing it alone, was drawn over the dam, capsizing his frail bark, and was drowned. Some hours elapsed ere his body was recovered. The sad accident cast a gloom over the excursionists, and seriously marred their festivities. The deceased was about thirty-six years old, a jeweler, well known and respected by all. A wife and two little girls are left to mourn.

At the April election the Republican and Democratic candidates for Trustees of Clinton Township, Decatur County, each received the same number of votes. The Board of Election adjourned sine die without casting lot to determine the winner, as provided by statute. A suit was begun by the Democratic candidate, asking a mandate against the Board requiring it to re-assemble and cast lots. To this a demurrer was filed, and after exhaustive argument the court, Judge Study, held that mandate would lie, and the Board will be directed to cast lots. As this question has never been decided by the Supreme Court of this State, an appeal to that court will be taken at once.

—Hazel, the 5-year-old daughter of Lawrence Rhoton, near Montpelier, met with a frightful death. She had been playing in the yard where the family had been making soap, when, in some manner, her clothes caught fire. Her grandmother's attention was attracted by her screams and, on going to the door, she saw the child in flames. She ran to the little one and tried to smother the flames with her apron, but her efforts were of no avail. The child's mother by this time heard her crying, ran and threw a bucket of water over her and quenched the flames. Dr. Morrison was sent for and dressed the wounds but the little sufferer only lived a few hours.

—A young man, whose steam gauge registered a jag of 800 pounds, walked into Thompson's restaurant near the North depot, at Greencastle, and informed Frank Hill, the clerk, that he was a cowboy and a very bad man when he started out to paint. He also exhibited to the astonished clerk an ugly scar on his head, which he said was a relic of a hand-to-hand encounter and terrific tableau death struggle with the great Apache chief, Never-Miss-a-Drink. He finally insulted some lady customers and Hill pushed him out of the door. A rattling fight took place, and when the mill ended, the cowboy had lost three teeth and received another ugly cut on the head. No one at the depot knew his name or where he hailed from.

—Patents have been granted to the following Indiana inventors: Cornelius C. Alexander, Hartford City, sliding and swinging gate; Charles Anderson, assignor to South Bend Iron Works, South Bend, sulky-plow; Charles Campbell, and J. Cox, Winchester, crate; Samuel E. Harsh, assignor of one-half to J. M. Harter, Wabash, over-draw loop and buckle; William T. Hill, Indianapolis, sporting trap; Alexander L. H. Messmer, Hammond, metallic wheel hub and vehicle wheel; William Moore, Kokomo, apparatus for separating liquids from natural gas; Clark B. Nelson, Crawfordsville, cresting for roofs; William T. Parks, Lagrange, shock compressor and binder; George M. D. Pomeroy, Lebanon, potato digger; Henry T. Poor, Indianapolis, saw; John O. Steple, Portland, harness buckle; George E. Sterling and S. T. Camden, dust collector for threshing machines and separators.

—A 2-year-old son of Oliver Moon, of Washington Township, Clay County, met with a peculiar, but fatal accident. The child fell from a chair, and struck its head upon the floor, inflicting such injuries as to cause its death in a few minutes.

—While a miner, Oscar Lusky, was at work in his room at Evansville, a blast from an adjoining room tore through the partition wall and struck him, breaking his ribs and mangling him in a horrible manner. His injuries are so bad that he cannot recover.

—A J., M. & I. train, near Edinburg, struck a wagon containing two sons of Albert Durbin, fatally injuring one of them. One of the horses was killed.

"What are you railing at the literary critic of the Thunderbolt for? Didn't he give your book a good notice?"

"Good nothing! He said it was 'pleasing story, with no objectional features about it, and may be safely put into the hands of young persons or into general libraries.'"

"Well, what's the matter with that?"

"It shows he hasn't read it, blank him!"

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

IMPORTANT MEASURES CONSIDERED AND ACTED UPON.

At the Nation's Capitol—What Is Being Done by the Senate and House—Old Matters Disposed Of and New Ones Considered.

The Senate spent the greater part of the 20th inst. in the consideration of the bill reported from the Judiciary Committee subjecting imported liquors to the provisions of the law of the several States. The bill provides that "No State shall be held to be limited or restrained in its power to prohibit, regulate, control or tax the sale, keeping for sale or the transportation as an article of commerce or otherwise, to be delivered within its own limits, of any fermented, distilled or other intoxicating liquids or liquors by reason of the fact that the same have been imported into such a State from beyond its limits, whether there shall or shall not have been paid thereon any tax, duty, impost or excise to the United States." Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, who introduced the bill, spoke in its favor, and Mr. Vest replied, saying that it would have the effect to virtually destroy the interstate commerce law. The rest of the session was devoted to eulogies on the late Congressman W. D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania. The speakers were: Senators Cameron, Morrill, Reagan, Sherman, Hampton, Hawley and Daniel. In the House the day was spent in committee of the whole on the tariff bill, and many amendments were offered to it, the only ones agreed to being certain ones by Mr. McKinley reducing from 14 to 11 cents per cubic foot the duty on unmanufactured or undressed freestone, granite, sandstone, or other building or monumental stone, except marble, not otherwise provided for, and from 50 to 40 per cent. on hewn, dressed or polished stone of the same character; fixing the duty on sweetened chocolate at 3 cents a pound; changing the duty on steel ingots, etc., valued above 16 cents per pound, from 45 per cent. ad valorem to 7 cents a pound; fixing a duty of 15 per cent. ad valorem on white paper for photographers; placing on the free list fish, the product of American fisheries, and fresh or frozen fish caught in fresh waters, except salmon; fixing the duty on shot guns valued at no more than $12 at 35 per cent.; valued at more than $12, 40 per cent.; pistols and revolving pistols, 35 per cent.; taking bristles from the free list and fixing the duty upon them at ten cents per pound. The committee then rose and the House adjourned.

